THE NEW RED SOX MANAGER

Michael F. Higgins is returning after a lapse of eight years to the Boston baseball scene, where he spent three of the best years of his life as a player. Higgins held down the third base job for the Red Sox during the 1937 and 1938 seasons, returning again after a sojourn in Detroit to help the Hose win the American league pennant in 1946.

Then, with the end of his playing days, Mike went back to the minors — in a new role — as manager of the Boston club's farm team at Roanoke in the Class B Piedmont League. Like any young player making the climb up the baseball ladder, Manager Higgins embarked on the successful career which has led to the post of field general for the parent club this year.

Here is Higgins' managerial record: — 1947 (finished first and won playoffs) and 1948 (finished fourth) with Roanoke; 1949 (finished second) and 1950 (finished second) with Birmingham in the Class Double-A Southern Association; 1951 (finished fourth), 1952 (finished fifth), 1953 (finished third), and 1954 (finished second) with Louisville in the Triple-A American Association.

The climax of Mike's success in the Red Sox farm system was reached last fall, when he led Louisville to victory over Columbus and Indianapolis in the Association playoffs, then to a notable triumph over Syracuse of the International League in the Little World Series.

Higgins, born May 27, 1909, at Red Oak, Texas, presently makes his off-season home in Dallas with his wife, Hazen, and their daughters, Diane, 13, and Elizabeth, 11.

He graduated from the University of Texas in 1930, signing then with the Philadelphia Athletics. In 1937, he came to Boston in a deal for Bill Werber. Higgins hit .302 for the Red Sox that season, and .303 in 1938. That was the year Mike set the major league record of 12 hits in succession. For the following seven seasons (exclusive of a tour of duty with the U.S. Navy in 1945) he wore the Detroit Tigers uniform. Then, on May 20, 1946, he came back to plug the third-base gap in the Red Sox' pennant picture.

It's homecoming time for Mike Higgins — ever a sound baseball man, now recognized as a sound baseball manager — once again.

THE RED SOX COACHING STAFF

As in the case of Manager Mike Higgins, there is a homecoming tinge to the appointment of two new coaches on his five-man faculty.

DAVE FERRISS, who was Higgins' teammate with the 1946 Red Sox, has been in the Boston club's system ever since he signed his first baseball contract in 1942. Two years ago, he became the pitching coach of the Louisville Colonels and turned in such an outstanding job that the new manager, in one of his first official moves, transplanted Ferriss' talents to the parent club. Boston fans still remember Dave's rookie season in the major leagues, in 1945. He began by pitching 23 1-3 scoreless innings, defeated each rival American league team the first time he faced it, and amassed at 21 and 10 record. In 1946, Ferriss helped raise the pennant at Fenway Park by winning 25 games against six defeats, including a streak of 10 straight wins at the start of the season, then another of 12 victories on the rebound from his first three losses. Ferriss, born in Shaw, Miss., December 5, 1921, still makes his home there.

JACK BURNS, though he played his major league ball at first base for the St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers from 1930 through 1936, was born in Cambridge, Mass., and was a rabid Red Sox rooter as a youngster. He joined the Boston organization in 1948 as a director of its touring baseball school, then became successively a scout and minor league manager. On May 29, 1949, he succeeded Mike Ryba as pilot of the Eastern league farm franchise at Scranton, directing the club to an eight-game sweep of the league playoffs in 1951. The following season, Burns piloted Albany to the pennant and served there until Higgins beckoned him to the Red Sox staff.

Holding over from last season's coaching staff is the familiar Boston favorite, DEL BAKER, the sage baseball veteran, who managed the Detroit Tigers from 1938 through 1942. Baker is looking forward to the third year of his second term as a Red Sox coach.

PAUL SCHREIBER, taciturn but talented, has been a Fenway Park fixture since the memorable 1946 season. He served as batting practice pitcher the first two years, took up the coaching duties, in 1948.

MICKEY OWEN, who will be 39 years young come April 4, a skilled 20-year baseball veteran, completes the coaching corps. After spending most of his catching career in the National League, Owen signed as a free agent with the Red Sox last season and was elevated to the role of coach in January of this year.

SOME RED SOX INTRODUCTIONS

● AL CURTIS, a right-handed pitcher, combines baseball with his studies. He is a junior at Furman University, hailing from Gaffney, S. C. Al was signed by scout Mace Brown, former Red Sox pitcher, and started out with San Jose in the California League. He has pitched for Louisville the last three seasons. Curtis is married and has one child

● IKE DELOCK, chunky right hander, returns to the Red Sox after spending a very successful season at Louisville, where he won 17 games, his second best output in seven years of organized baseball. He was a 20-game winner with Scranton in 1951. Delock served with the U. S. Marines, and was signed to a contract with the Auburn, N. Y. club on his discharge in 1948. After making the Eastern League all star team in 1951, his contract was purchased by the Red Sox. Since then, he has traveled frequently between Boston and Louisville, but may very well have picked up the experience last season necessary for him to make a baseball home for himself in the Hub. Ike picked up his nickname in his first year in organized baseball. His hobbies are ice skating and automobiles.

● HERSHELL FREEMAN wore the Red Sox uniform on short stays in Boston in 1952 and 1953, and will be back with the parent club after spending last season in Louisville. Freeman once had outfielding aspirations, but switched to the mound during his American Legion baseball days. In 1948, his first season in professional baseball, he once won three games in two days. He served as the workhorse of the Birmingham staff in 1951, making 50 appearances in relief during the regular season, plus seven in the playoffs. His contract was purchased by the Red Sox that September. Freeman selected his own nickname — "Buster" — while he was attending the University of Alabama. A fine three-sport athlete in high school, he gave up football and basketball during his college days to concentrate on his baseball career.

● Right hander AL SCHROLL bears the nickname "Bull", and one glance tells you why. He packs 215 pounds on a 6-foot 1½-inch frame. Schroll is an avid reader, who rates studying the stock market reports high among his list of hobbies. Born 22 years ago in New Orleans, he now makes his home in Alexandria, La. with his wife, Frances. The Bull has been in the Red Sox system for four seasons, hitting the highlight of his career as a 16-game winner with Albany last season when he struck out 16 and drove in six runs in a game with Allentown. A good hitting pitcher!

● BOB SMITH — he's also known as Smitty, of course — is a native New Englander, living in Woodsville, N. H., his birthplace. Bob, a southpaw who bats right, has been in baseball since 1948, and enjoyed a fine season in 1954 with Shreveport in the Texas League, whence he was then re-purchased by the Red Sox. He is married, sells automobiles in the off season. His E.R.A. of 2.89 was best in the Texas League last year.

● Last season the name of George Susce appeared on the Red Sox roster as bullpen coach. Now GEORGE SUSCE, JR., appears on the baseball horizon as a promising right-handed pitching prospect. The youngster's early career was impeded by such things as the demands of the military, but last season he won 14 games for Louisville and a chance with the parent club. Susce, born in Pittsburgh, now lives in Sarasota, site of the Red Sox training camp.

● Another New Englander is JOE TRIMBLE, a native of Providence, R. I. But Joe has journeyed to such places as Korea, where he served for nine months in 1952-53 as a corporal in the U. S. Marines. The husky 200-pounder has been in the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh club systems, and was drafted by the Red Sox during the winter following a stint with Burlington in the Carolina league. While at LaSalle Academy, Trimble pitched a perfect game. He is married.

● Catcher JOE BUCK is a graduate of Oklahoma A & M University. He resides in Fort Worth, Texas, with his wife, LaJune. A hefty lad, a left-handed hitter, Buck returned to baseball with Albany last season after 19 months in the Army.

● PETE DALEY was signed to a Louisville contract by scout Charley Wallgren after graduation from Grass Valley, Calif. High School in 1948. An all-scholastic star in basketball and football, as well as behind the bat, Daley spent three years in the Red Sox minor league system, then two years in the Army. He has been with Louisville the last two seasons. Pete is married.

● GUY MORTON comes by his baseball heritage naturally, though not necessarily his catching abilities. His father — the late Guy, Sr. — pitched for Cleveland from 1914 through 1924. Young Morton is a student at the University of Alabama. He is married and the father of a three-year-old daughter, Vicki Lynn. Guy was an all star receiver with Greensboro in the Carolina league last season. He led the league in batting and runs batted in.

● LEW DAMMAN, a left-handed hitting infield candidate, born in Orange, Calif., now resides in Lewiston, Idaho, where he starred in basketball and football, as well as on the diamond, during his high school days. He entered baseball with the Brooklyn organization in 1948, but was drafted by Birmingham in December of 1949. He has been with Louisville the last two seasons after completing two years of Army duty. With Birmingham in 1950, Lew hit three homers in consecutive times at bat.

● Infielder OWEN FRIEND is a newcomer to Boston, but no stranger to the American League since he has played previously for the St. Louis Browns, the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians. He was purchased from Indianapolis by the Red Sox last fall. Friend is married, the daddy of baby Nancy Jo.

● BILL KLAUS is not exactly a stranger to Boston, though he will be making his American League bow with the Red Sox. Klaus appeared in seven games for the Braves in 1952, prior to their move to Milwaukee. He also saw a tour of duty with the Springfield, Mass. club in 1949. Klaus was an all-star utility infielder with Toledo in the American Association in 1953, and was purchased by the Red Sox from the New York Giants after a similarly good season at Minneapolis in 1954.

● From the sidewalks of New York to Sarasota comes FRANK MALZONE, born and raised in the Bronx and signed by the Boston club in 1948. Malzone returned from two years in the service to win third base laurels for Louisville last season. Married, Frank has an infant daughter, Susanne Mary.

● NORM ZAUCHIN, a 6-foot-5, 220-pound giant, hit 18 homers and drove in 118 runs for Louisville last season, continuing the slugging which marked his four pre-service years with the Red Sox organization. His targets are now the left field wall and the first base job at Fenway Park. Zauchin is married and has one child, David, age 2.

● Outfielder NEIL CHRISLEY, a resident of Greenwood, S. C., moves up to the parent club after shaking his service legs under Jack Burns at Albany last season. A rangy lad, who bats left, throws right, Chrisley was signed in 1951 by scout Mace Brown. He is married and has two children. Golf and hunting are his favorite off-the-diamond hobbies. Neil was the hitting star of last year's Eastern League playoffs.

● Call him "Al" or "Van" — by either name AL VAN ALSTYNE looks like a good prospect for an outfielding berth with the Red Sox in the future. Born in Birmingham, Ala., Van Alstyne now makes his home in Stuyvesant, N. Y. with his wife and baby daughter, Lynda. His own dad, Clayton Van Alstyne, was a pitcher with Washington in 1927 and 1928. Al was signed in 1950 by scout Neil Mahoney. He made the California League All Star team with San Jose in 1951, and the Eastern League stars with Albany in 1953. Last year, Van labored for Louisville.

SOME 1954 RED SOX HIGHLIGHTS

Ted Williams once again led the Red Sox in batting with a .345 average. However, kept out of action by a spring training shoulder injury and later by a bout with pneumonia, Ted did not get to bat the required 400 times to win recognition as the American League batting champion. With Williams getting only 386 official trips to the plate, the .341 mark turned in by Bobby Avila of Cleveland was good for the title.

In slugging percentages, however, Williams was far and away tops in the league with an amazing .635 figure. Ted also led the league for the eighth time in walks, with 136. His 29 home runs were tops on the Red Sox squad, and only three short of the league-leading total turned in by Yogi Berra of New York, who saw service in 151 games as compared to only 117 for Williams. Ted also led the Red Sox in runs scored with 93.

Jackie Jensen, who came to Boston in the off-season prior to the 1954 campaign in the deal which sent Maury McDermott and Tom Umphlett to Washington, made that trade pay off handsomely for the Red Sox with several personal "highs" on the squad.

Jensen led the Red Sox in hits (160), runs batted in (117) and total bases (274).

Jackie also led the American League in stolen bases with 22. He was thrown out only eight times in attempted steals.

Jensen, Bill Goodman and Sammy White shared the club two-base-hit crown with 25 each. Harry Agganis, the rookie first baseman, led in triples with eight.

On the mound, Frank Sullivan, the 6-foot, 7-inch right hander, turned in the most Boston victories with his 15-12 record. Sullivan was tops in complete games (11), shutouts (3), strikeouts (124), and innings pitched (206).

Old reliable Ellis Kinder made the most appearances among the Boston pitchers with 48 visits to the hill, only two in a starting role. Willard Nixon made the most starts, with 30. Nixon, incidentally, made four of those starts against the New York Yankees at Fenway Park, and made quite a thing of it by beating the Bronx Bombers all four times.

Young Tom Brewer led the Boston mound corps in giving up bases on balls, with 95, but he turned in enough good work to win the rookie-of-the-year club honor awarded by the Boston Baseball Writers at their annual mid-winter banquet.

The Red Sox team batting average of .266 was third best in the American League, only .002 in arrears of the league-leading Yankees. The Boston club also drew the most walks in the circuit with 654 free tickets.

And Sam Mele, who returned to the Red Sox from Baltimore last July 29, set a new major league record for consecutive errorless games by an outfielder, at 157.
