John Palmer joined the Mariners in January of 1996 as Vice President of Ballpark Planning and Development. Prior to the Mariners, Palmer was based in Baltimore with McDevitt Street Bovis of Charlotte, NC, a nationally-recognized construction management firm.

Palmer, 48, received his bachelor of architecture degree from the University of Virginia and has more than 20 years of diversified architectural and construction management experience.

Some of the projects he has been involved with include: Oriole Park at Camden Yards; the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, including Olympic Stadium (now Turner Field, home of the Braves); NFL Facility Assessment, which analyzed stadium proposals put forth by Baltimore, Charlotte, Jacksonville, Memphis and St. Louis; the 1992 redevelopment of the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum; the 1990 renovation of the Oakland Coliseum; and the National Tennis Center in Flushing, NY in 1992.

He resides in Seattle with hie wife Carol, son Richard (15) and daughter Sarah (10).

As the Mariners enter the 1998 season, less than 18 months remain until the team will be playing in a new ballpark. Now rising across the street from the Kingdome, the Mariners new ballpark will be an urban gem. Its striking architecture, cozy dimensions and retractable roof will create a 21st century standard for all ballparks to follow.

The Mariners new ballpark, scheduled to open in July of 1999, will host some 45,600 fans. Most games will be played in the pleasant, open air of Seattle summer days and nights. However, the retractable roof will assure that every game is played in dry comfortable conditions.

The ballpark will combine traditional and modern features of baseball design. The brick and iron work will echo the feeling of old-time ballparks. Yet the wide concourses, state-of-the-art video board and excellent site lines will offer modern conveniences for fans.

The park will feature excellent restaurants, retail shops, a family barbecue area and a fun "Kids Zone." A two-level modern press box will be located behind home plate.

MONAHAN HALL OF FAMERS

Shane Monahan has two family members in the Hockey Hall of Fame. Shane is the grandson of Bernie "Boom-Boom" Geoffrion and a great-grandson of Howie Morenz.

Morenz, a center, played in the NHL from 1923-37, all but two seasons with the Montreal Canadiens. He is considered to be the greatest player of his era. Morenz died at the age of 34, while still an active player with Montreal, of heart failure while recuperating from a broken leg. His funeral was held at center ice at the Montreal Forum and was attended by 25,000 fans. Morenz was among the first group of players elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame when it opened in 1945.

Geoffrion was a right wing with Montreal and the New York Rangers from 1950-68, scoring 393 goals. His nickname came from the sound his slapshot made as it crashed against the boards. He later coached the Rangers, Montreal and Atlanta and was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1972. Shane's father, Hartland Monahan, was a right wing with Calgary, the Rangers, Washington, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and St. Louis from 1973-81. Shane was born in Syosset, NY where his family lived while his father played for the Rangers.

POST-SEASON RECAP

The Mariners returned to the playoffs for the second time in three years, but were eliminated in the Division Series by the Baltimore Orioles, three games to one. Seattle hit just .218 in the series.

Game 1 — The Series opened in Seattle with Randy Johnson facing off against Mike Mussina. Tied at 1-1 after four innings, Baltimore scored 4 runs in the top of fifth and 4 more in the top of the sixth to blow the game open on their way to a 9-3 win. Baltimore scored first with a run in the third, and Seattle answered on Edgar Martinez' solo HR in the fourth. Eric Davis bounced a two-run RBI single through the infield in the fifth to give the Orioles a 4-1 lead. Mussina limited the Mariners to two runs in seven innings.

Game 2 — The Orioles completed a two-game sweep in the Kingdome, beating Jamie Moyer and the Mariners 9-3. Seattle took a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning on RBI ground outs by Ken Griffey Jr. and Edgar Martinez. Moyer was forced out of a 2-1 game with two outs in the fifth inning with a strained left forearm, and Baltimore took advantage to score eight runs off the Seattle bullpen.

Game 3 — The series moved to Baltimore and Seattle avoided a three-game sweep behind the overpowering pitching of Jeff Fassero. Fassero tossed eight shutout innnings, at one point retiring 18 straight Baltimore hitters, before turning a 4-0 lead over to the bullpen. With a 1-0 lead in the 3rd, Fassero escaped a runners on second and third and no out jam by striking out Geronimo Berroa, getting Rafael Palmeiro to tap back to the mound and striking out Cal Ripken. Fassero went on to retire the next 15 hitters.

Game 4 — Baltimore advanced to the A.L.C.S as Mike Mussina outpitched Randy Johnson in Baltimore's 3-1, series-clinching win. Johnson was outstanding, allowing just three runs,including solo HR's to Berroa and Reboulet. However, Mussina allowed only Edgar Martinez' solo HR in the second inning and lowered his series ERA to 1.93.

POST-SEASON RECORDS

Ken Griffey Jr. set a new mark for home runs in a Division or Championship Series, slugging five against the Yankees in the '95 Division Series. Griffey matched the all-time post-season single-series record, held by Reggie Jackson (1977 World Series). Griffey's post-season total of six home runs tied the M.L. mark for a single post-season (also Lenny Dykstra, 1993 Phillies and Bob Robertson, 1971 Pirates). Edgar Martinez set a new record for RBI in a post-season game with his seven RBI in Game 4 of the Division Series.

HOW TO FIGURE

Batting Average — Divide the total number of hits collected by a player by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A is 12-of-40 or .300.

Slugging Percentage — Divide the number of total bases by the total number of at bats. Example: Player A's 12 hits include six singles (6), one double (2), two triples (6) and three home runs (12) for a total of 26 total bases in 40 at bats and a .650 slugging percentage.

On-Base Percentage — Divide the total of hits, all bases on balls and hit by pitch by the total of at bats, all bases on balls, hit by pitch and sacrifice flies.

Earned Run Average — The total number of earned runs allowed by a pitcher is divided by the total number of innings pitched and then multiplied by nine for his per-game average. Example: Pitcher B has allowed 12 earned runs in 45 innings of work for a 2.40 ERA.

Fielding Average — The sum of putouts and assists is divided by the sum of putouts, assists and errors. Example: Player C has made 16 putouts and 24 assists and two errors. That's 40 putouts and assists divided by 42 chances for a fielding average of .952.

Magic Number — Determine the number of games yet to be played by the division leader, add one, then subtract the number of games ahead in the loss column of the standings from the closest opponent.

PEORIA SPORTS COMPLEX

The City of Peoria, the Seattle Mariners and the San Diego Padres proudly opened baseball's best spring training facility in 1994. Located 20 miles northwest of downtown Phoenix, the 145-acre Peoria Sports Complex provides separate practice facilities for the Padres and Mariners that include 6-1/2 practice fields, batting cages and a clubhouse.

Peoria Stadium, which was designed by HOK Sports Group of Kansas City, is the jewel of the $32-million complex and accommodates 10,000 fans (7,000 seats and 3,000 on lawn). Dimensions for the park are 340 ft. down each line, 385 ft. in the power alleys and 410 ft. to center.

Peoria is only the second spring training site in Mariners history, as the club trained in Tempe from 1977-92. Seattle played all road games in 1993, but used the Peoria facility for morning workouts as it was under construction.

DIRECTIONS: Take Bell Road exit off I-17 north; travel west to 83rd Avenue; travel south and enter facility at Stadium Way.

BROADCASTERS

DAVE NIEHAUS has been a Mariners broadcaster since the club's inception into the American League in 1977. During his 21 seasons behind the microphone for the Mariners, he has missed only 43 games, including 21 in 1996 (17 due to medical reasons). Entering the 1998 season, he has witnessed 3,237 of the 3,280 games played by the Mariners. He is recognized as one of the best and most exciting broadcasters in the game, and is instantly identified with the Mariners. In 1997, Niehaus was honored by the Washington State House of Representatives for his "contributions to the quality of life in the Pacific Northwest." He was elected Sportscaster of the Year for the state of Washington in 1995 and 1996 by his contemporaries in the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association. His expressions like "My Oh My" and "It will fly away" (for home runs) have become familiar throughout the Northwest.

Dave was born and raised in Princeton, Indiana, and is a graduate of Indiana University, where he worked for the campus radio station. He then went to work for the Armed Forces radio and TV service, calling the action for Los Angeles Dodgers games before moving to New York to handle Yankees baseball as well as basketball and hockey from Madison Square Garden. After leaving the Armed Forces Network, he returned to Los Angeles to broadcast the Dodgers, Rams and Lakers. From 1969-76, he teamed with Dick Enberg and Don Drysdale to call the action for the California Angels on KMPC Radio. Dave also broadcasted UCLA football and basketball (1973-76). He resides in Bellevue with wife Marilyn. They have three children: Andy, Matt and Greta.

RICK RIZZS begins his 13th season with the Mariners broadcast team in 1998. He spent three seasons calling the play-by-play on radio for the Detroit Tigers from 1992-94. He previously teamed with Dave Niehaus on radio and television for the Mariners from 1983-91.

Rick is a 1975 graduate of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. From 1975-80, he handled baseball play-by-play duties at the double-A level for Alexandria, Amarillo and Memphis. He became the sports director at WBNS radio in Columbus, OH in 1981, where he called Ohio State football and triple-A baseball for two seasons. He was named the Ohio "Sportscaster of the Year" in 1981 by the Ohio Sportscasters Association. Rick was hired to broadcast Mariners games in 1983 and spent nine seasons with the club. From 1992-94, he teamed with Bob Rathbun to call the action for the Tigers on WJR in Detroit. In 1993, he also worked with the legendary Ernie Harwell. Rick resides in Issaquah with his son Nick.

RON FAIRLY begins his sixth season with the Mariners in 1998. The former Major Leaguer brings 40 years of professional baseball experience to the Mariners broadcast booth, 21 as a player and 19 as a broadcaster.

Ron was born in Macon, GA and attended the University of Southern California as a finance major. He was inducted into the USC Hall of Fame in 1997. After earning All-America honors at USC, he was signed by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1958. Fairly played in the Majors from 1958-78 with the Dodgers (1958-69), Expos (1969-74), Cardinals (1975-76), Athletics (1976), Blue Jays (1977) and Angels (1978). In 2,442 games, he compiled a lifetime average of .266 with 215 home runs and 1,044 RBI. He was a two-time All-Star (1973 and 1977) and played in four World Series (1959, 1963, 1965-66).

After retiring as a player, Ron worked as the sports director at KTLA radio in Los Angeles for three years. From 1982-86, he teamed with Bob Starr to broadcast Angels games on KMPC. He then moved to San Francisco, where he handled the Giants play-by-play and color duties on both radio and television for six years. Ron resides in Westlake Village, CA with wife Mary. The couple has three sons: Steve, Mike and Patrick.

KEVIN CREMIN begins his 16th season as producer-engineer for all Mariners radio broadcasts in 1998. He is responsible for the technical aspects of each broadcast, as well as relaying updated game information to Dave Niehaus and Rick Rizzs.

The Tulsa, OK native attended the University of Oklahoma and studied journalism. After spending eight years in the circulation department of the Tulsa World & Tribune, he joined the Mariners Radio Network full-time in 1983. He is currently senior engineer in the American League. He resides in Seattle with wife Margaret and daughters Colleen and Kate.

MARK ENGELBREKT is entering his 13th season of involvement with Mariners television broadcasts in 1998. He currently serves as the producer and director for all telecasts and also coordinates the broadcasts with flagship station KIRO-TV in Seattle.

Mark graduated from the University of Washington in 1974 with a B.A. in communications. After working as a floor director for KING and KOMO, he joined KSTW in 1977 as producer/director of the Ten O'clock News. He produced Mariners telecasts from 1982-85 and served as producer/director from 1989-91. He joined the Mariners organization as television network producer in 1993. He resides in Seattle with wife Dianne, son Max and daughter Lily.

A CAPSULE HISTORY OF PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL IN SEATTLE

1890 The first professional baseball team in Seattle was organized. The Seattle Reds played in the Class-C Pacific Northwest League.

1892 The Reds (first-half champions) won the P.N.L. Pennant when the Portland club declined to enter the playoffs because of financial problems.

1896 Club was re-named "Braves" and moved into its first stadium (Athletic Park – 14th and Yesler).

1903 The Pacific Coast League was formed and Seattle was a charter member. Thus, Seattle had two professional baseball teams for one season (the Braves were now in the Pacific National League and folded after one year).

1906-17 Seattle ended its membership in the P.C.L. and joined the Class-B Northwestern League.

1919 Seattle re-joined the Pacific Coast League. The club was named "Indians" and played a 225-game schedule (the extended season format continued through the 1957 P.C.L. season).

1937 Emil Sick bought the Seattle franchise for $115,000 and immediately changed the nickname to "Rainiers" (Sick also owned and operated the Rainier Brewing Company).

1938 On June 15, the Rainiers moved into the newly-built Sicks' Stadium (seating capacity of 11,500). Local sports hero Fred Hutchinson began his rookie season and posted a 25-7 record.

1939-41 The Rainiers won three consecutive P.C.L. pennants.

1955 Hutchinson returned as manager of the Rainiers and led the club to another P.C.L. crown. In addition, the first official proposition for a domed stadium in Seattle was made (bond issues for the project failed in 1960 and 1964).

1960 Sick sold the club to the Boston Red Sox. Seattle became the Red Sox triple-A affiliate.

1965-68 The California Angels purchased the club and Bob Lemon managed Seattle to its last baseball championship.

1967 Public approval was given for funds needed to build a domed stadium (completion was scheduled to be prior to the 1972 season).

1969 The Seattle Pilots came into existence and began to play in the American League. Sicks' Stadium was expanded to seat 28,500, and 677,944 fans came out to watch the 64-98 expansion team. Third baseman Tommy Harper led the junior circuit with 73 stolen bases.

1970 On March 31, financial difficulties forced the Pilots to move to Milwaukee (club was re-named "Brewers"). Plans to build a domed stadium were temporarily interrupted.

1972-76 Seattle fielded a team in the class-A Northwest League.

1977 On April 6, Major League Baseball returned to Seattle when the Mariners played the California Angels before a Kingdome crowd of 57,762. The Mariners starting pitcher that night was Diego Segui, a member of the 1969 Pilots.

1995 Seattle won its first American League West pennant.
