BOB LEONARD

General Manager/Coach

Like Casey Stengel with the New York Yankees of the 1950's and Tom Landry with the present day Dallas Cowboys, Bob Leonard is the Indiana Pacers. Nowhere in professional sports is a coach more synonymous with the franchise he runs.

Few coaches in the pro game have been more successful. His twelve year coaching record shows 498 wins and 445 losses. With the Pacers, he sports a .537 winning percentage in ten seasons for a winning percentage of .553. The playoff record is even more impressive with 69 wins and only 47 losses for a .595 percentage. In eight trips to the ABA playoffs, he made it all the way to the championship series five times. Those five finals resulted in three ABA Championships, as the Pacers were the league's only three time Champs and the only team to win back-to-back titles.

As general manager, "Slick" has been the most active trader in the NBA. In only two short seasons he has completely rebuilt the Pacers into a club stocked from top to bottom with young, talented players. Since September 1, 1977, he has finalized the following transactions:

Sept. 1, 1977	Traded Billy Knight to Buffalo for Adrian Dantley and Mike Bantom.
Sept. 6, 1977	Traded Don Buse to Phoenix for Ricky Sobers.
Oct. 18, 1977	Acquired Johnny Neuman from Buffalo for 1978 third round draft choice.
Dec. 13, 1977	Traded Adrian Dantley and Dave Robisch to Los Angeles for James Edwards, Earl Tatum and cash.
Dec. 22, 1977	Traded draft rights to Alonzo Bradley to Houston for Ron Behagen.
Jan. 1, 1978	Traded John Williamson to New Jersey for Bob Carrington, plus future considerations.
June 8, 1978	Traded number one choice in 1979 college draft to Portland for Johnny Davis, plus number three choice in same draft.
June 8, 1978	Signed former Milwaukee Bucks' player Alex English as a free agent.
July 5, 1978	Acquired Corky Catlin from Portland in exchange for 1980 second round draft choice.
July 19, 1978	Traded Earl Tatum to Boston for Boston's 1980 first round draft choice, plus cash.
July 21, 1978	Signed James Edwards to new multi-year contract.
July 21, 1978	Signed second round draft choice Wayne Radford to multi-year contract.
July 28, 1978	Came to terms with Atlanta for the Hawks signing of free agent Dan Roundfield with Pacers receiving Atlanta's 1979 first round draft choice, plus cash.
Aug. 7, 1978	Signed former Boston Celtic Kevin Stacom as free agent and sent 1979 third round draft choice to Boston as compensation.
Sept. 1, 1978	Assigned rights to Mel Bennett to Denver Nuggets for future considerations.
Sept. 8, 1978	Signed first round draft choice Rick Robey to multi-year contract.

Bob got his start in basketball at Terre Haute Gerstmeyer under Howard Sharpe, and then went on to an All-American career at Indiana University where he led Branch McCracken's Hoosiers to the 1953 NCAA Championship. The former first round draft choice is now beginning his 20th season in pro basketball—7 as a player and the 13th as a coach. The record speaks for itself.

The Indiana Pacers are a family affair for the Leonards, Bob's wife, Nancy, is the Assistant General Manager and is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the organization. Somehow, they still find the time to raise five children: Terry 22, Bobby 21, Billy 18, Tommy 10 and Timmy 7.

INDIANA PACERS HISTORY

On February 2, 1967 a franchise in the newly formed American Basketball Association was offered to a group of Indiana businessmen.

Armed with the results of two feasibility studies conducted by the city that concluded the Indianapolis area could support professional basketball, the group accepted the franchise and pro basketball was "back home again in Indiana."

Indiana Professional Sports, Inc. was formed to own and operate the new franchise, and on June 16, 1967 the team became known as the Indiana Pacers because the organization intended to "set the pace" in professional basketball.

Mike Storen was named the first General Manager, and Larry Staverman, an Assistant at Notre Dame, was chosen as the first coach of the Pacers.

The Pacers very first draft pick was Jimmy Walker from Providence College, while Roger Brown was the initial player ever signed by the club. Assisted by Bobby Leonard and Clyde Lovellette, Coach Staverman held tryouts the week of June 19, 1967. During the camp, they looked at over 50 prospects and had over 15,000 fans view the evening workouts that were open to the public.

The Pacers played their first game against the Kentucky Colonels on October 14, 1967 and defeated the Colonels 117-95 in front of a packed house in Fairgrounds Coliseum. In fact, the Pacers had to turn away hundreds of people because the Coliseum was filled past capacity. Indiana finished the season with a 38-40 record and was eliminated in the Playoffs by Pittsburgh in 3 straight. Pittsburgh went on to capture the inaugural ABA championship. Despite the below .500 record, the Pacers led the ABA in attendance averaging almost 5,000 per game.

The 1969 season was only 9 games old, when Bobby Leonard was named to replace Staverman as coach of the Pacers. Indiana was on its way to the top.

That season Indiana won the Eastern Division and made it to the ABA Championship Finals before losing to Oakland 4-1. The next season, 1970, Indiana ran away from its competition by posting a marvelous 59-25 record. They easily won the Eastern Division, and captured their first ABA Championship by beating Los Angeles 4-2.

1971 saw Indiana moved to the Western Division, which they also won, marking the third straight year Coach Leonard had led the Pacers to a division title. However, they were eliminated from the playoffs by eventual champion Utah in a thrilling 7 game series.

1972 was the beginning of a very rewarding period for the Pacers. In both 1972 and 1973 Indiana finished second in the Western Division, but regrouped in the playoffs to win the Championship. In '72 they ousted the Utah Stars in a fantastic 7 game semi-final upsetting the Stars in the 7th game in Utah. Indiana captured its second ABA Crown by beating the New York Nets 4-2. In '73 the Pacers breezed past Denver and Utah into the Championship Finals against Kentucky. Indiana beat the Colonels for the title by winning the 7th game in Louisville in a series that saw the home team win only two of the seven games.

1973 was the Pacers third Championship in 4 years, and was the 4th time in Bobby Leonard's 5 years as coach, that the Pacers had made it to the Championship Finals.

1974 saw a veteran Pacer squad struggle through the season, but close with a rush to grasp second place from San Antonio. In the playoff they beat the Spurs in 7 games, but were eliminated by Utah. In the off-season, the Pacers traded away 30 years of playing experience and began to rebuild for the future.

1975 marked the beginning of another era for the Pacers. First, they moved into beautiful, downtown Market Square Arena with its 17,000 seats. Also, in mid season the Pacers encountered severe financial difficulties and were up for sale. A 10 man group headed by W. D. Eason and Tom Binford formed Arena Sports, Inc. and purchased the club. The new group of owners was very concerned with keeping the Pacers in Indiana, continuing the winning tradition and had a long range goal of seeing the Pacers play in the National Basketball Association. They succeeded on all counts.

The young rebuilt team of 1975 was the Cinderella team of pro basketball. They upset both San Antonio and Denver, the winningest team in pro ball, to advance to the ABA Finals! Their magic finally ran out as they lost 4-1 to Kentucky. But during the playoffs "Pacer Pride" was rejuvenated and sell out crowds filled the Arena as the Pacers set all kinds of league attendance records.

In 1975, the Pacers ninth and final ABA campaign, the club finished the regular season in fifth place with a 39-45 record—the first sub .500 season since the inaugural in 1967-68. However, the Pacers made the playoffs for the ninth straight season. In these playoffs, Indiana lost to the defending champion Kentucky Colonels 1-2, the deciding game being a last second loss in Louisville.

The record speaks for itself. Nine years with a regular season record of 427-317, which is a winning percentage of .574. Five ABA finals which resulted in 3 ABA Championship Banners. The Indiana Pacers are the only 3 time champions and the only team to ever win back-to-back titles.

The Pacers first NBA season was a thrill to both players and fans alike. The chance to compete against all the best in professional basketball was a ten year dream come true. Even though the 1976-77 season was the first in the club's history without a post season playoff appearance, the year must be termed a success as a club record 432,726 regular season fans enjoyed a very gratifying season.

1977-78 again saw the Pacers set new attendance records. A total of 501,759 fans passed through the MSA turnstiles enabling the club to become the tenth franchise in NBA history to draw over 1/2 million fans in a regular season.

On the floor, the club missed the playoffs for the second year in a row. However, the rebuilding process was in high gear as the Pacers became the youngest team in the entire NBA.

For 1978-79, the rebuilding is complete. Off season moves have brought in Johnny Davis, Alex English, Corky Calhoun, Kevin Stacom, Rick Robey and Wayne Radford, and Bob Leonard calls this club the most improved in the entire league.

42 MIKE BANTOM

Position: Forward

Height: 6-9

Weight: 220

Born: December 3, 1951, Philadelphia, PA

High School: Roman Catholic High (Philadelphia)

College: St. Joseph's '73

Residence: Redmond, Washington

How Acquired: In trade with Buffalo on 9/1/77 along with Adrian Dantley for Billy Knight

Pro Experience: 5 years

In 1977-78, Mike finally got a chance to play regularly and show what he could do in the pro game. He responded with a banner season and based on those results, it's not hard to see why Bob Leonard tried to acquire him as early as 1975.

He was the only Pacer to appear in all 82 games, and started 78 of the last 79—the only non-start due to an injury. Along the way, he established new personal career highs in every statistical category except offensive rebounds and disqualifications, plus ranked second on the club in scoring (15.3), field goal percentage (.479) and rebounding (7.4 average). His 38 point effort against Milwaukee on March 18 was the highest scoring game of any of the current Pacers.

On top of this, he's an exceptional defensive forward, thus drawing the big defensive assignment every night. His excellent "D" was publicly acknowledged by some of the league's greatest offensive performers.

For the upcoming season, Coach Leonard expects him to hold down one of the starting forward spots and be a steady influence on a very young front line. With the added confidence and experience, it won't be surprising if '78-79 is even a better year.

In college, Mike was St. Joseph's second all-time leading scorer with a career average of 20.1 points and was a member of the 1972 U.S. Olympic basketball team.

Mike is a former first round draft choice of the Phoenix Suns and was the eighth player selected in the 1973 draft. His fine first NBA season earned him a place on the league's All-Rookie team.

The St. Joseph's graduate is the holder of a Bachelor of Science Degree in Food Processing and he enjoys tennis, racquetball and reading as hobbies.

Mike and his wife, Bonita, have one daughter, Robbie Jamie, age 4.

10 CORKY CALHOUN

Position: Forward

Height: 6-7

Weight: 215

Born: November 1, 1950, Waukegan, IL

High School: Waukegan High School

College: Pennsylvania '72

Residence: Los Angeles

How Acquired: In trade with Portland on 7/5/78 for 1980 second round draft choice

Pro Experience: 6 years

Corky is another of the players Bob Leonard has added to the Pacers who can come off the bench and contribute night in and night out.

He is known as one of the finest defensive forwards in the entire league, is a fine shooter, and most important from a coach's point of view, understands his role. In addition, he's a proven winner. His college teams won a total of 99 games while losing only 6 and he has spent the last two seasons with the Portland Trail Blazers, playing a part in their 1977 NBA Championship.

Last year, Corky appeared in 79 games for the Blazers, and averaged 5.3 points per contest while shooting a fine 47.9% from the field and an excellent 86.8% from the line. His playoff field goal mark of 51.7% was even more impressive.

At the University of Pennsylvania, Corky was on just about everybody's All-American team while averaging 12.7 points and 8.1 rebounds on a very defensive oriented club. He was voted the Big-Five player of the year as a senior and was highly regarded enough to be the fourth player selected in the 1972 NBA draft.

Another extremely intelligent young man, Corky attended the world famous Wharton School of Finance and holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics from Pennsylvania. He currently holds active real estate licenses in both Oregon and California and plans to eventually take the Indiana exam.

He and his wife, Joanne, are the proud parents of Jason, age 6, and Brent, age 1.

30 BOB CARRINGTON

Position: Forward-Guard

Height: 6-6

Weight: 195

Born: July 3, 1953, Brookline, MA

High School: Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, MA

College: Boston College '76

Residence: Indianapolis

How Acquired: In trade with Nets on 1/27/78, plus future considerations for John Williamson

Pro Experience: 1 year

It may not read like the Charlie Criss story, but Bob Carrington's journey into the NBA is a rather unique one as well.

A second round draft choice of the Atlanta Hawks in 1976, Bob never reached terms with Atlanta and sat out the '76-77 season working for the Chrysler Credit Corporation in a regular 9 to 5 job.

It didn't take him long to realize how much he missed basketball. Last year, Bob made the most of a tryout with the New Jersey Nets and even worked his way into a starting guard spot where he was averaging over 10 points per game at the time of his trade to Indiana.

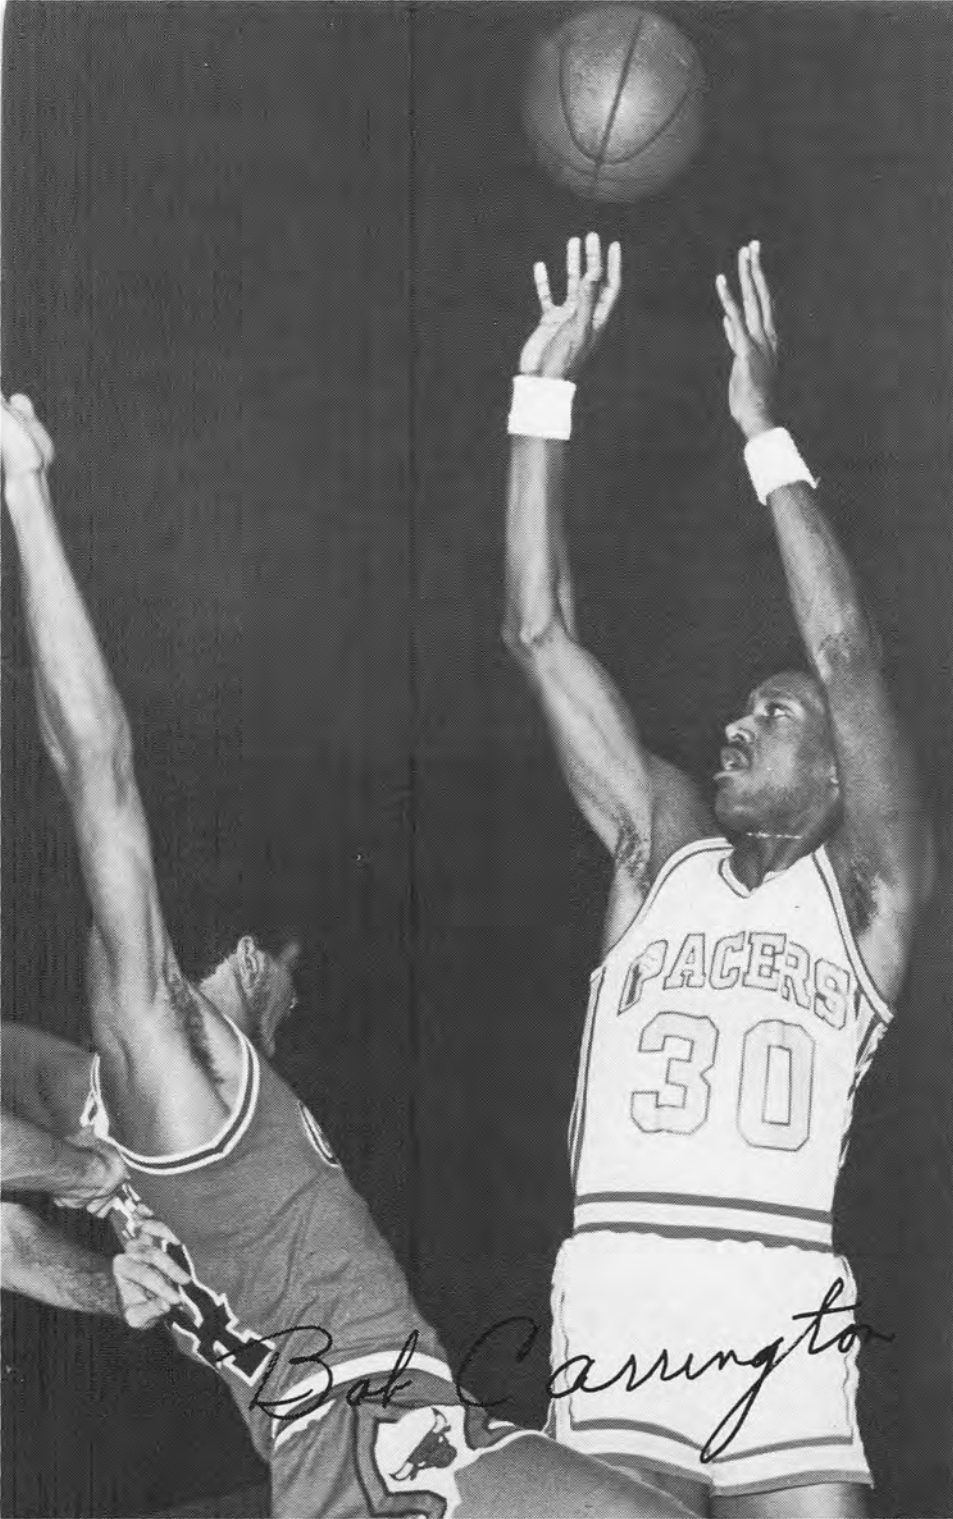

With the Pacers, Bob saw action at both guard and forward and averaged 7 points in only 17 minutes per game while shooting an excellent 48.7% from the field. This season, look for his playing time to increase since, with the departure of Earl Tatum, Bob will be the only swing man available.

At Boston College, he was the all-time leading scorer with a total of 1,849 points for a 19.7 average. As both a junior and senior, he averaged 20.9 per game and holds most of the school's offensive records.

Another of the NBA's very intelligent and well-versed players, Bob holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Elementary Education from Boston College. A bachelor, he recently had a new home built in the Indianapolis area. He spent the summer enjoying three of his favorite pastimes: basketball, weight lifting and television.

16 JOHNNY DAVIS

Position: Guard

Height: 6-2

Weight: 170

Born: October 21, 1955, Detroit, MI

High School: Murray-Wright (Detroit)

College: Dayton '76

Residence: Detroit

How Acquired: In trade with Portland on 6/8/78 along with third choice in 1978 college draft for first choice in 1978 college draft

Pro Experience: 2 years

A quote attributed to Johnny in a recent feature story in Sport magazine read, "In order to have a winning ball club, each guy on the team has to sacrifice. You sometimes have to sacrifice one thing or another for the good of the whole. If you have selfish guys on the club, I don't think you'll ever have a championship team."

That explains one reason why Bob Leonard traded the number one choice in the '78 college draft to Portland for Davis and the number three choice. The other reason is that Davis can flat play.

In Portland's final 11 playoff games in its drive to the '77 NBA Championship, Johnny started all 11 and averaged 13.1 points, 4.3 assists, 2.5 steals and shot 50% from the field.

In '77-78, the former second round draft choice started 35 times and was one of two Blazers to play in all 82 games. Johnny finished second on the club in minutes played, first in free throw percentage, fifth in assists and sixth in scoring with a 10.7 average, even though scoring was secondary in his role on the team. During the playoffs, he ranked third in minutes played and improved his scoring average to 14.3 per contest.

This season, look for Johnny to start at guard along with Ricky Sobers and don't be surprised if his scoring average rises considerably as Coach Leonard wants him more involved in the offense.

Johnny played only three seasons at the University of Dayton, applying for hardship status following his junior year, yet in this span he scored a whopping 1,562 points for a career average of 19.3 per game.

A conscientious student, he spent part of the summer at the University of Detroit working toward a future degree in Business Administration.

A bachelor, Johnny enjoys reading and music.

How Acquired: In trade with Los Angeles on 12/13/77 along with Earl Tatum and cash for Adrian Dantley and Dave Robisch

Pro Experience: 1 year

From a third round draft choice, to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's understudy, to starting center for both the Los Angeles Lakers and Indiana Pacers, it was truly a remarkable rookie season for this young star of the future.

Following a rather mediocre performance in the '77 Aloha Classic, James lasted until the third round of the NBA draft where he was grabbed by L.A. After the injury to Abdul-Jabbar on the opening night of the season, he found himself the Lakers' starting center. He became the club's leading scorer averaging 17.1 points before Abdul-Jabbar's return relegated him back to the bench.

Then came the trade to the Pacers where he became an instant crowd favorite by hitting his first shot in an Indiana uniform. James made steady improvement over the remainder of the year finishing third on the club in scoring with a 15.2 average, but over the last two months of the season, he averaged over 19 points per game and over 20 per game in the last dozen contests.

He became the fifth rookie in the club's history to score over 1,000 points (George McGinnis, Billy Knight, Roger Brown and Bob Netolicky were the others) and was named to Basketball Digest's All-Rookie Team.

The Pacers were so impressed with his performance that they signed him to a new multi-year contract this summer.

At Washington, the big center was an All-Pacific 8 performer and the school's second all-time leading scorer with a total of 1,548 points. He is one quarter short of a degree in Political Science and also plans to pursue a degree in Business Administration. James spent the summer on a weight and conditioning program, enjoys fishing and boating and is a bachelor.

41 LEN ELMORE

Position: Center

Height: 6-9½

Weight: 220

Born: March 28, 1952, Brooklyn, NY

High School: Powell Memorial Academy, NY

College: Maryland '74

Residence: Washington, D.C.

How Acquired: First round 1973 ABA's underclass draft

Pro Experience: 4 years

In many ways, the 1977-78 season had to be very gratifying for Lenny. Knee surgery knocked him out of all but six games in '76-77, but hard work and determination enabled him to come back and contribute in 69 contests last year. Only a slight knee strain which forced him to miss the last dozen games kept him from a completely healthy season.

Lenny gives the club what any successful NBA team must have—solid backup in the middle. In only 19 minutes per game, he averaged 5.4 points and 6.1 rebounds while blocking 71 shots.

One game last season stands out in showing the type of professional Len is: On November 26, he learned of the death of his brother who was playing basketball in Italy. He still flew to Denver with the team and that night scored a season high 19 points, grabbed 8 rebounds and blocked 4 shots in only 24 minutes of playing time. Following the game, he flew back across country to be with his family in New York.

In only three full seasons of pro ball, he ranks 8th in Pacers' history in rebounding, 9th in games played and 10th in both minutes played and field goals made. His 178 blocked shots in '75-76 is a club record.

Noted for his defense, rebounding and shot blocking at the University of Maryland, Elmore was the Pacers' first choice in the 1973 ABA's underclass draft and the Bullets' first round selection in the '74 NBA draft.

An extremely articulate and intelligent individual, Lenny has a double major in both English and Political Science from Maryland. He also has an interest in broadcasting and has done some television color work for the Terrapins basketball network. Lenny is a bachelor who enjoys literature, art and music.

High School: Dreher High School (Columbia)

College: South Carolina '76

Residence: Columbia

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent on 6/8/78

Pro Experience: 2 years

For years, the Indiana Pacers have desperately needed a forward who could come off the bench and shoot the lights out while providing some instant offense. Based on last year's performance, there aren't too many better in the league than Alex English.

Last season, Alex sparked the Bucks to the tune of 9.6 points in less than 19 minutes of action per game. In that small amount of time, he was still the club's fifth leading scorer. A phenomenal shooter, he was the NBA's fifth leading marksman with a .542 field goal percentage hitting on 343 of 633 attempts in his 82 games.

During the playoffs, he was the Bucks' third best scorer at 13.4 per contest while shooting an incredible 61.5% from the floor.

The former Milwaukee second round draft choice played in 60 games as a rookie in '76-77 and averaged 5.2 points in just under 11 minutes per game.

His impressive '77-78 season, his excellent playoff performance, plus the fact that he has shown steady improvement over his two pro seasons prompted Bob Leonard to make him the club's first NBA free agent signee. Coach Leonard didn't waste any time either, signing him on June 8, shortly after the NBA Championship had been decided.

Alex had a remarkable collegiate career under Frank McGuire at South Carolina. He started every game in his four years becoming the school's all-time leading scorer with a total of 1,972 points for a 17.8 average and becoming one of only three players to ever grab over 1,000 rebounds.

Alex returned to South Carolina this summer to work on his degree in English. He is now only a summer session away from this goal. Another player with talents outside basketball, Alex is involved in art and writing and has a special love for poetry. He also finds time to work with neighborhood youngsters and is the proud father of daughter Emani, age 6.

Pro Experience: 3 years

1977-78 began with high hopes, but quickly became a very frustrating season for Steve Green. He reported to training camp in fabulous condition and during the preseason showed signs that he was ready to play a lot of minutes for the Pacers. Then, in only the fourth regular season game and in a contest where he had scored 13 points against the Denver Nuggets, he tore ligaments in his left ankle and was out of action for almost two months.

Immediately upon returning to the lineup, he sprained his right ankle and was out of action for another month. Due to the severity of both injuries, Steve never fully regained the condition he was in at the beginning of camp.

This season is a new story and Steve is determined to make amends. He reported to camp lighter and quicker than any year since his sophomore year in college where he starred for the highly ranked Hoosiers. At I.U., Steve is the second leading field goal shooter in the school's history at 53.8%. His mark was broken this past year by new Pacer Wayne Radford.

In 1975, Steve was a first round draft choice of the Utah Stars and a second round choice of the Chicago Bulls. He chose Utah and worked his way into the starting lineup where he was averaging almost 15 points per contest when the Stars folded. The Spirits of St. Louis picked Steve up, but a broken wrist prematurely ended his rookie year.

In the last two seasons, Steve has established himself as one of the most popular Pacers. The MSA crowds love his long range jumpers and rugged style of play.

Steve has a degree in Biological Science from Indiana and in the off-season, he and his wife Lana reside on their farm in Bloomfield, Indiana. His favorite pastimes include camping and playing the guitar.

21 WAYNE RADFORD

Position: Guard

Height: 6-3

Weight: 205

Born: May 29, 1956, Indianapolis, Indiana

High School: Arlington (Indianapolis)

College: Indiana '78

Residence: Indianapolis

How Acquired: 2nd round choice in 1978 draft

Pro Experience: Rookie

Most young boys in this country grow up with a dream of playing professional sports for one of their hometown teams. Wayne Radford grew up in Indianapolis idolizing most of the Indiana Pacers of the old ABA days. On October 13, the Pacers open the '78-'79 season against the Atlanta Hawks and Wayne's dream will have become a reality.

The rugged 6'3" 200 pound guard was the Pacers' second round draft choice and the 27th player selected in the 1978 draft.

Described by many scouts as a Quinn Buckner type player, Wayne is, in addition, an excellent shooter. He is Indiana University's all-time leading field goal marksman with a career percentage of .553 surpassing Steve Green's old mark of 53.8%. During his senior year, his role changed to one of a scorer and he averaged 15.6 points while shooting 57.9% from the field and 77.0% from the free throw line. In his last two regular season games, which were both crucial to the Hoosiers' drive to the NCAA tournament, he scored 30 points with 12 rebounds at Michigan and had 31 points at Illinois. Over the last eight games, he shot a remarkable 64% from the floor. His teams at I.U. finished with a record of 96 wins and 22 losses, won two Big Ten Championships and captured the NCAA title in 1976.

Season honors included the MVP award in both the Indiana Classic and the Gator Bowl Classic holiday tournaments and selection to the All-Big Ten Academic team where he was the leading vote getter.

Wayne completed his degree in Marketing and Management and finished with an excellent 3.18 grade-point average.

At Arlington High School in Indianapolis, he was an all-stater, a member of the Indiana All-Stars and played against the touring Russian junior team.

His hobbies include working with underprivileged youngsters, swimming, boating and traveling.

53 RICK ROBEY

Position: Forward-Center

Height: 6-11

Weight: 230

Born: January 30, 1956, Coral Gables, Fla.

High School: Brother Martin (New Orleans)

College: Kentucky '78

Residence: New Orleans

How Acquired: 1st round 1978 draft

Pro Experience: Rookie

Rick was the Pacers first ever NBA first round draft choice and was the third player picked in the '78 draft. Had the Pacers kept the first choice in the draft, Rick probably would have been the very first player selected as he was the man Bob Leonard wanted all along.

Coach Leonard expects him to step into one of the club's starting forward spots and contribute with some strong board work and excellent defense. At 6'11" and 230 pounds, many scouts are comparing him to NBA stars Jack Sikma and Mitch Kupchak with his rugged, hustling style of play and fine shooting touch.

He shot at least 54% from the field in all four years at the University of Kentucky and holds the U.K. records for field goal percentage in a career (58.1%), field goal percentage in a single game (91.2%) and he set a single season mark of 63.5% in helping lead the Wildcats to the 1978 NCAA championship. Rick also averaged 8.0 rebounds for his career playing for a group that didn't miss many shots while shooting well over 50% as a team.

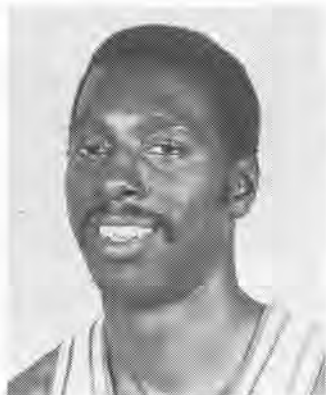

While in college, the two-time All-American and All-SEC performer saw his team win 102 games while losing only 21. During the "Robey Years," the Kentucky squad, in addition to the '78 NCAA Championship, was NCAA runner-up in 1975, the NIT Champion in 1976 and SEC Champion in 1975, 1977 and 1978. Always a winner, Rick played for a state high school championship team and now has only one title missing for a basketball Triple Crown.

Rick is another of the Pacers with a college diploma, holding a Bachelor of Science degree in Production Agriculture. He is single and is deeply involved in the horse business. Thanks to the help of Seth Hancock, head of the famous Claiborne Farms in Lexington, Kentucky, Rick plans to one day become a major breeder of thoroughbred race horses. His stable already includes a couple of prize mares. Other interests include working with youngsters in summer camps and he has started a nation-wide sports calendar business.

14 RICKY SOBERS

Position: Guard

Height: 6-3

Weight: 195

Born: January 15, 1953, Bronx, NY

High School: DeWitt Clinton

College: Nevada-Las Vegas '75

Residence: Phoenix, AZ

How Acquired: In trade with Phoenix on 9/6/77 for Don Buse

Pro Experience: 3 years

When Bob Leonard made the trade which sent former All-Star Don Buse to Phoenix for Ricky Sobers, many people around the league questioned the Pacers' coach's sanity.

Well, no more. In 1977-78, Ricky did everything Leonard expected and more. He was the club's leading scorer with 1,436 points for an 18.2 average while scoring in double figures in his last 33 games and in 76 of the 79 played. He also led the Pacers in minutes played, field goals made and attempted, free throws made, free throw percentage, assists and steals. In these last two categories, he was one of the NBA's elite, ranking 3rd in assists with 7.4 per game and 7th in steals with an average of 2.15.

Like Bantom, Ricky had his finest pro season statistically, setting new career highs in every category except field goal and free throw percentage. He was one of only seven players in the league to compile over 300 field goals, 300 free throws, 300 rebounds and 300 assists. The others were NBA stars Rick Barry, George Gervin, Dan Issel, Phil Smith, Randy Smith and David Thompson—elite company to say the least.

An extremely physical player, Sobers' accomplishments don't stop on the offensive end of the court. An excellent defensive performer, he gets the responsibility of trying to stop the opponents shooting guard.

Last year, although a newcomer to the team, Sobers was elected co-captain along with Dave Robisch, and following Robisch's trade to L.A. served as team captain for the remainder of the season.

Ricky is another of the club's former first round draft choices, having been picked by Phoenix in 1975.

He is a bachelor whose hobbies include tennis and adding to his collection of contemporary and old time jazz albums. He also works with youngsters in the greater Phoenix area. Thirteen hours short of a degree in Education, Ricky will pursue his degree next summer.

27 KEVIN STACOM

Position: Guard

Height: 6-4

Weight: 185

Born: September 4, 1951, New York, NY

High School: Holy Cross

College: Providence '74

Residence: New York

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent on 8/7/78

Pro Experience: 4 years

The free agent route helped Bob Leonard fill his third forward void, so when he needed a third guard, he used the same tactic and signed Kevin to a multi-year contract on August 7.

No less an authority than John Havlicek recently commented to Leonard, "I've been in the pro game 16 years, and if Kevin can't play third guard in this league, no one can." Obviously, the Pacers' brain trust agrees.

Last season, Kevin was the Celtics' seventh leading scorer at 8.5 points in only about 18 minutes of action per game. Carrying that per minute figure out to a realistic 25 minutes per contest, Kevin would have averaged a very respectable 12 points. After Satch Sanders took over the Boston coaching reigns in early January, he was a double figure scorer most nights.

Since he transferred from Holy Cross to Providence, Kevin was eligible for the NBA draft following his junior year, and was selected in 1973 by the Chicago Bulls on the second round as the 24th selection overall. However, he turned down the Bulls' offer and returned for his senior year. Following completion of a fine final season during which he played in the World Games in Russia and China, he was Boston's second round selection in 1974.

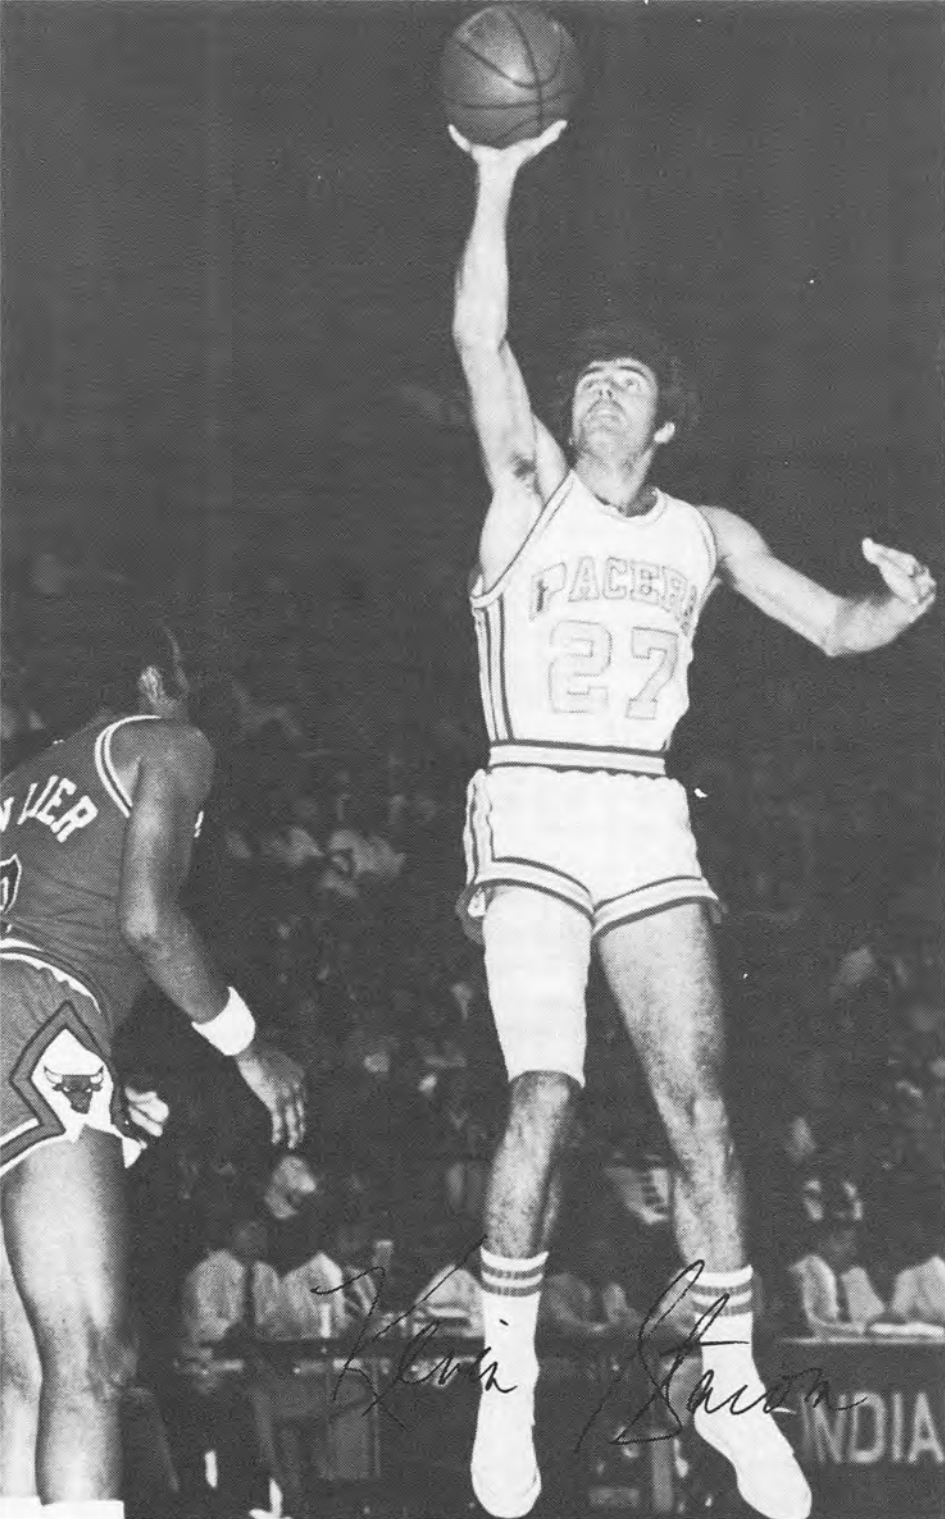

Kevin is another of the Pacers' bachelors, and he holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Providence.
