RANKIN M. SMITH CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

Jewelry has not really been an important accessory of the man's wardrobe in some time. Rankin M. Smith, Sr., gave up on it—save a favorite watch he has worn for years—in 1965. He even pulled off his University of Georgia class ring. "I did it because I have always wanted one of those," he said, pointing to General Manager Pat Peppler's Super Bowl championship ring. "And some day—some day soon, I hope—we (the Falcons) will have one, too." Sliding such a ring on his finger, he admits, is one of the greatest ambitions of his life. "We owe it to our fans to play winning football and, hopefully, give them a championship. No fans in football deserve that more. That knowledge is now—and will continue to be—foremost in the minds of everybody connected with our organization too." Smith, chairman of the board of the Falcons, likes—and wants—to win. That's part of his makeup. You don't become one of America's most successful insurance magnates without such drive and such an attitude. Smith, awarded an NFL franchise on June 30, 1965 for approximately $8.5 million, is a keen student of the game. He played at Bolles Academy in Jacksonville, Fla., before going to the University of Georgia. World War II interrupted any thoughts of playing for the Bulldogs. He was an Air Force combat pilot in the Western Pacific. Upon receiving his discharge, he became a debit agent in Hot Springs, Ark., for the Life Insurance Company of Georgia. His grandfather was one of the company's co-founders. The 51-year-old executive—born Oct. 29, 1925, in Atlanta—is today president and chief executive officer of Life of Georgia. The corporate name of the Falcons—the Five Smiths, Inc.—is in honor of his children: Rankin, Jr., 28, advertising sales manager of the Falcons; Mrs. Donald (Carroll Christine) Walraven, 27; Mrs. John O. (Dorothy Ann) Knox, 25; Taylor, 23, and, Nancy Karen, 18. Additional prides of Smith's life are his two grandsons, John O. and Bryan Knox, ages 5 and 3, respectively.

FRANK E. WALL

PRESIDENT

When there is work to be done, Frank Elliott Wall is one of the most easily recognized men in professional football. He's the silver-haired gentleman with his sleeves already rolled up. That has been his posture ever since 1966, the year Atlanta joined the National Football League. And the days have seldom been long enough for him. He has been known to work well into the night, doing his part toward helping bring championship football to Falcon fans throughout the Southeast. "It is the dream of everyone connected with our organization," the man has said countless times, "to give our fans a winner. And we all have dedicated ourselves to the attainment of that goal." One of the most respected men in the NFL, Wall has been affiliated with the Falcons since their inception. During his career with the club, the 58-year-old executive has served as vice president and treasurer, general manager and president. One of eight Falcon stockholders, Wall, a Certified Public Accountant, has worked all his life. His first job was in the hot watermelon fields of South Georgia, laboring there for 50 cents a day to help support himself and his widowed mother. Although he continued to work throughout his school days, he still found time to become a two-time all-state basketball forward at Pulaski, Ga., High School. He spent three and one-half years in combat throughout Europe with the medical corps during World War II. Born June 14, 1918, Wall and his wife, Jean, have four children. They are Christy, 16; Stacie, 5, and twins Tye and Jamie, 3.

PAT PEPPLER

GENERAL MANAGER

Pat Peppler has been to more coronations than the tall, bearskin-capped Royal Palace Guards of London. And he's hopeful the next one he attends will be held in Atlanta. That is the goal he has feverishly been chasing since February, 1975, when he was named Falcons general manager. The 54-year-old Maryland native is openly blatant in his total disregard for the clock. He is usually always the first to work in the mornings and absolutely the last to leave in the evenings. Such was the total dedication he applied at both of his previous championship-filled jobs: Green Bay and Miami. He was director of player personnel and later assistant general manager for the Packers during the golden era of the late Vince Lombardi (1963-70). During this time he helped mold that club into the 1965 NFL champions and Super Bowl kings in 1967 and 1968. He became director of pro scouting at Miami in 1971. While there, the Dolphins won back-to-back Super Bowl championships (1973-74). Peppler, born April 16, 1922, in Baltimore, Md., is a graduate of Michigan State University.

He won letters there in football, basketball and baseball. He began his professional athletic life in the late 1940s as a high school football coach in East Lansing, Mich. While there he led his teams to several league titles. In 1953, he became an assistant coach at North Carolina State. After eight seasons there, he moved to Wake Forest in 1962. A year later, of course, he joined the Packers. He and his wife, Lindy, have six children: Mrs. Greg (Pamela) Nickoli, 27; Susan, 25; Walter, 23; Terry, 20; John, 15, and Jim, 13.

MARION CAMPBELL

HEAD COACH

Sundown didn't catch Marion Campbell pulling into the 18th hole of many golf courses during the past off-season. His 17-foot pleasure boat wasn't caught out past dusk too often either. Instead he was either holed up in his office watching film or huddled with his coaching staff. It was that kind of January-to-July itinerary for the 47-year-old head coach. He was pre-occupied planning for the 1976 regular championship season. He didn't even take his full allotment of vacation days. Neither did any of his coaches. There wasn't time, really. He commanded a work schedule that would test the stamina of a Clydesdale. Thus, when the native South Carolinian did get on the links, his game wasn't as sharp as normal. When he plays with any regularity at all, he is a scratch player. Fishing is his admitted second love, yet he didn't allow himself much time for that either. His capacity for work has always been large, according to long-time friends. That is why, they insist, he was such a standout tackle (three-time All-SEC) at the University of Georgia. As a 1951 Bulldogs senior he was named the club's most valuable player and, later, drafted by San Francisco in the fourth round. Prior to embarking on his six-year career in the NFL, he spent two years in the U. S. Army as a first lieutenant. Upon his discharge, he played two seasons with the 49ers before being traded to Philadelphia. In 1959 and again in 1960—when the Eagles won the world championship—he was named to The Sporting News' all-pro teams. Shortly after retiring at the end of the 1961 season, he was named defensive line coach for the old Boston Patriots of the American Football League. At every coaching stop thereafter, he built to his reputation as one of the game's best and soundest defensive strategists. He became head coach of the Falcons in January of 1975. He had served as interim coach since November, 1974. He first joined the Falcons, as head of defense, in 1969. The remaining portions of his coaching portfolio reads: Defensive line, Boston, 1962-63; chief of defense, Minnesota, 1964-66, and, defensive line, Los Angeles, 1966-68. Born May 25, 1929, in Chester, S. C., he and his wife, June, have two children: Scott, 14, and, Alicia, 11.

Bruney

Khayat

Lavan

Assistant Coaches

Fred Bruney, Defensive Coordinator Like the famous company better known by its initials than proper name, progress is the most important product in Fred Bruney's work. Statistics bare this out, quite vividly. In his eight years on the Falcons staff, the one-time Ohio State star has made the club's defensive secondary one of the best in football. In three of the past four seasons, in fact, his unit has ranked third, second and second, respectively, in the NFL. The season before he came to Atlanta (1969), opponents averaged 163.2 yards per game passing against the Falcons. In 1974, the figure was 114.2 per. He was elevated to the position of defensive coordinator in January of 1975. Bruney spent 10 playing seasons in the pros. Although he was Cleveland's third round draft choice in 1953, he never played for the Browns. He was traded to San Francisco upon his 1956 discharge from the military. He did play for the 49ers, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and Boston of the old AFL. He was named all-pro at Boston in 1960. His coaching itinerary reads: Defensive backs, Boston, 1962-63; defensive backs, Philadelphia, 1964-68, and, Atlanta, 1969 to present. He and his wife, Louise, have five children: Chuck, 20; Susan, 12; Lori, 9; Rebecca, 6, and, Richard, 4. Born: Dec. 30, 1931, in Martin's Ferry, Ohio.

Ed Khayat, Def. Line Coach Ed Khayat and Marion Campbell have been in on a lot of gang tackles together. And they hope to instill the same kind of pursuit to the Falcons in 1976. The two old pals go back to 1960 together, in the days when they were the ringleaders of Philadelphia's NFL world championship defensive unit. Khayat was the Eagles' right-side defensive tackle and Campbell, now Atlanta's head coach, was the defensive end. They trust their reunion here will continue as merry as the one of old. A Tulane University graduate, Khayat played 10 seasons in the NFL. He was signed by Washington as a free agent in 1957; played with the Eagles from 1958-61; was traded to Washington for 1962-63; returned via trade to Philadelphia in 1964-65, and, then ended his career with Boston of the old AFL in 1966. Since 1967, his NFL coaching positions have been: Defensive line, New Orleans, 1967-70; defensive line until promoted to head coach, Philadelphia, (three games into the season) 1971 (finishing 6-4-1) and 1972 (2-11-1); defensive line, Detroit, 1973-74, and, Atlanta since January, 1975. He and his wife, Deborah, have two children: Eddie, Jr., 7, and Bill, 3. Born: Sept. 14, 1935, in Moss Point, Miss.

Al Lavan, Def. Backfield Coach Reunions are especially fun when somebody you like comes back. And that's why the Falcons were so happy about the mid-February, 1975 return of Al Lavan. He was here earlier, in 1969 and part of 1970, as a popular hard-nosed tackling defensive back. He sustained an injury in the second game of the 1970 season and underwent cervical fusion of the neck in September, 1971. He was advised by club doctors later to retire. He was originally signed by Atlanta in 1969 after being released by Philadelphia. He was the Eagles' eighth round draft choice in 1968 and spent the year on the cab squad there. Once in Falcons gear, he immediately became a starter. He is best remembered for his outstanding play against Minnesota in 1969. In that sensational 10-3 victory, he intercepted two passes and knocked down two more. Since his retirement, the former Colorado State star has been coaching in college. He spent the 1972 season working with receivers at Colorado State; moved to the University of Louisville to tutor defensive backs in 1973, and, joined the Falcons after one year at Iowa State as receivers coach. This is, of course, his first pro coaching duty. He and his wife, Bessie, have two children: sons Travis, 5, and Douglas, 3. Born: Sept. 13, 1946, in Pierce, Fla.

Marv Matuszak, Linebackers Coach Were it possible for Marv Matuszak to patent his love of the game and his enthusiasm for coaching, he would be a wealthy man. That quality was very much in evidence throughout 1975, inspiring Atlanta linebackers to some of their finest play in years. His people went at the game with a new vengeance. And each attributed that to the new drive Matuszak helped instill in him. It was the same kind of personal thrust that made him an all-pro performer throughout his 10-year playing career in pro football. A two-time All-America at the University of Tulsa, he played professionally with Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Baltimore of the NFL and Buffalo and Denver of the old AFL. He was a player-coach at Denver in 1965, then retired as a player in 1966. His coaching experience includes: Player-coach, Denver,

Matuszak

Nelsen

Orr

1965; head of overall defense, Denver, 1966; head coach and general manager, Alabama (Huntsville) Hawks of the Professional Football League, 1967 (Western Division championship, 9-1); linebackers, British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, 1968-71; linebackers, New Orleans, 1971-73, and, Falcons, 1974 to present. He and his wife, Noreen, have two children: A married daughter, Mrs. Gary (Linda) Blacklidge, 21, and, a son, Robert, 9. Born: Sept. 12, 1931, in South Bend, Ind.

Bill Nelsen, Offensive Coordinator History has already repeated itself twice in Bill Nelsen's football-coaching life. And the Falcons are hoping for yet another re-run. If it happens, respectability will be returned to the club's offense. In his brief tenure, the California native has helped mold the careers of two brilliant young quarterbacks, Mike Phipps of Cleveland and Jim Plunkett of New England, and now he has Steve Bartkowski. Nelsen was a class quarterback himself during a brilliant 10-year career in the NFL. He twice (1968 and 1969) led the Cleveland Browns to the NFL Eastern Conference championship, beating Dallas both times. A 10th round draft choice of Pittsburgh in 1963, the Southern Cal All-America played with the Steelers through 1967. He was traded to Cleveland in 1968. He spent most of his last season (1972) in Cleveland serving as Phipps' tutor. Upon his retirement, Nelsen had completed 963 of 1905 passes for 14,165 yards and 98 touchdowns. His first full-time coaching assignment was at New England, 1973-74. He joined the Falcons as offensive coordinator-quarterback coach in January, 1975. He and his wife, Sue, have three children: Keith, 11; Missy, 9, and Tim, 8. Born: Jan. 29, 1941, in Los Angeles, Calif.

Jimmy Orr, Receivers Coach Since the late 1950s, Georgia and South Carolina have been at almost constant debate over Jimmy Orr.

Ever since he began attracting headlines as a peerless pass receiver both states have claimed him as a native son. It started during an outstanding career at the University of Georgia, then really peaked in the halycon days of the Baltimore Colts' championships (Super Bowl V, and 1971 and 1968 NFL titles). He first planned to retire from football following surgery in 1962, but was coaxed back by his coaches. When he did hang up his pads for good, he finished with an even 400 career receptions for 7,914 yards and 66 touchdowns. His single best season was 1962 when he caught 55 balls for 974 yards and 11 touchdowns. He became so proficient at a certain out pattern that usually found him alone in a specific corner of the Baltimore end zone, he became known as "The Mayor." And that section of turf was dubbed "Orrsville." He joined the Falcons in November of 1974 to begin his first coaching job. Jimmy's wife's name is Jill. They have no children. Born: Oct. 4, 1935, in Seneca, S. C.

Bill Walsh, Off. Line-Speciality Teams Coach Quarterbacks have always had a special place in their hearts for Bill Walsh. In his 15 years in the NFL, his offensive lines have always given them a definite feeling of some security. Falcons quarterbacks experienced that feeling in 1975. It occurred when the line cut by 18 (from 50 in 1974 down to 32) the number of sacks. Overall blocking, grades prove, was substantially more improved as well. The former Notre Dame center found a high degree of success in his field at both Dallas and Kansas City. He is credited with the development of such perennial all-pro standouts as Ed Budde, Jim Tyrer and Jack Rudnay. Walsh, a native of Phillipsburg, N. J., was Pittsburgh's third round draft choice in 1949. He was with the Steelers for six seasons, twice being named all-pro. He retired in 1954 and was an assistant coach at Notre Dame until 1959, when he joined the staff at Kansas State. In 1960, then, he became the first assistant coach hired by Dallas of the old AFL. He moved with the Texans' franchise when it went to Kansas City in 1963. His pro coaching duties have been: Defensive line, Dallas, 1960-63, and, defensive line, Kansas City, 1963-74. He and his wife, Shirley, have six children: Mrs. Al (Sharon) Trivillini, 26; Patricia, 25; Cheryl, 19; Mike, 18; Kelly, 15, and, Christine, 11. Born: Sept. 8, 1927, in Phillipsburg, N. J.

Tom Braatz, Dir. of Player Personnel If you've laced on a pair of football cleats at just about any American college or university in the past nine years, chances are that Tom Braatz can tell you your speed in the 40-yard dash. He probably even saw you play. Or, at least, one of his five scouts did. That's how expansive and extensive the Falcons' scouting department has become under Braatz's direction. The personable, 41-year-old Wisconsin native is recognized throughout the NFL as one of the more competent and respected men in his field. A former Marquette University team captain, he spent five playing seasons in the NFL with Washington and Dallas. In 1961, his first year in retirement, he worked as an arms demonstrator for the Ithica, N. Y., Gun Co. He joined the Falcons as a scout in 1966 and two years later became director of player personnel. He and his wife, Jeri, have two sons: Tommy 15, and Jon, 10. Born: May 12, 1935, in Kenosha, Wis.

Serving as scouts under Braatz are: Duke Babb, 41, whose NFL playing career was spent at Dallas, Houston and San Francisco; Jon Jalacic, 39, who played with the New York Giants and Oakland Raiders; Bill Jobko, 40, affiliated with the Falcons since 1966 as a player, team captain, assistant coach and scout, and, Bob Riggle, 31, whose career was shortened by a severe knee injury after a brilliant rookie season (1966) with the Falcons.

Jerry Rhea, Trainer On a scale of one to eight, Jerry Rhea deserves a 10-point ranking as far as Falcon players are concerned. The Texas A&M graduate has both their respect and friendship. Long recognized as one of the NFL's most competent trainers, he has been with the club seven years. Prior to coming to Atlanta, he was an assistant trainer at Los Angeles. It was there that he first met the new Falcons coach (Campbell), a Rams assistant at the time. Rhea, 41, was born Sept. 12, 1935, in Ennis, Tex. He and his wife, Beverly, have one son, John, 17. East Tennessee state graduate Jay Shoop, 28, is Atlanta's assistant trainer. Born Sept. 30, 1945, in Wise, Va., he and his wife, Anne, have no children.

Whitey Zimmerman, Equip. Manager No time piece in the Western World could possibly take the pounding if Darwin (Whitey) Zimmerman had to punch a clock every hour he was on the job. He beats dawn to Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium every morning, sometimes by as much as two hours. And it's usually always dark, even in the off-season, when he locks the clubhouse for the day. A native of St. Louis, he has been with the Falcons since their 1966 inception. Before coming here, he was an equipment man for the football Cardinals. Whitey was born July 25, 1929, in St. Louis, Mo. He and his wife, Shelia, have five children: Jerry, 23; Terry, 18; Larry, 15; Greg, 11, and Scott, 8. Starting his ninth year with the club is Horace Daniel, Zimmerman's assistant. The 38-year-old native Atlantan was born May 7, 1938. He and his wife, Shirley, have two children, Kim, 9, and Kennon, 7.

Daniel

The Veterans

Brent Adams, T, 6-5, 256 Polygraph tests don't even believe Brent Adams is for real. His story does read very much like fiction. To-wit: An eighth-round draft choice gets hurt in preseason and is forced to miss six important weeks of work. Yet, he manages to stick with the team as it whittles to 43 the number of players NFL rules permit. And, then, he winds up as a front-line performer. A good, dependable front-line performer, you might say. "He was a most pleasant surprise," says one Falcons coach. "He's a super kid and showed a lot of great technique from the beginning." The Elberton, Ga., youngster started his first game against Minnesota and perennial all-pro defensive end Jim Marshall. Coaches were quite impressed with his play against the Vikings star. 2nd year. Games—13 in 1975.

COLLEGE A four-year starter at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, Adams was most impressive as a senior. So good was his play, in fact, he was named the team's most valuable player.

PERSONAL A very determined young man, Adams returned to school during the off-season in continuing pursuit of his B. S. degree in psychology. He lacks six hours having his diploma. Full name: David Brent Adams. Off-season residence: Chattanooga, Tenn. Single. Born: June 26, 1953, in Elberton, Ga.

Steve Bartkowski, QB, 6-4, 213 A m m e t e r s throughout the Southeast were really jumping on 11 of Atlanta's NFL Sundays in 1975. There was an undeniable tingle of electricity in the air anytime Steve Bartkowski was in the lineup. The young Californian had that kind of effect on teammates and fans alike. And both parties came to fully expect something super-charged would happen. It usually did, too. Despite missing the equivalent of three and two-third games due to an elbow injury, he completed 115 of 255 passes for 1622 yards and 13 touchdowns. He was knocked out of the lineup against Cincinnati in the sixth game. Just after launching what was to become a 17-yard scoring pass to tight end Jim Mitchell, he was decked and landed on his left elbow. He sustained bone chips, doctors said, and was forced to leave the playing field. He missed the next three games, returning against Denver in game No. 10. In the first quarter against the Broncos, it was evident he had been away. He had three passes intercepted, was sacked four times and fumbled once. After "finding himself," however, he promptly sent the Broncos packing by completing 12 of 25 passes for 158 yards and two touchdowns. Passing wise, his best games were against Washington and San Francisco (Dec. 14). He was 14 of 26 for 281 yards and three touchdowns against the Redskins and 19 of 37 for 305 yards and two TDs versus the 49ers. He underwent elbow surgery in late December, 1975. 2nd year. Games—11 in 1975.

COLLEGE Gangbusters, the old radio show, never came on as strong as Bartkowski did during his senior year at California. En route to becoming the Falcons'—and the NFL's—No. 1 selection in the 1975 draft, he completed 182 of 325 passes for 2580 yards and 12 touchdowns. He was, of course, a consensus All-America choice.

PERSONAL Few nationally-known banquets were held during the 1975 off-season without Bartkowski at their dias. Among the multitude of honors he picked up were the Old Spice/NFL Rookie of the Year award, presented by the Shulton Company and the Newspaper Enterprise Association; The Sporting News' Rookie of the Year citation, and, the State of Georgia Athletic Hall of Fame's Professional Athlete of the Year prize. Full name: Steve Joseph Bartkowski. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Single. Born: Nov. 12, 1952, in Des Moines, Iowa.

Greg Brezina, LB, 6-1, 221 Materialism isn't all that important to Greg Brezina any more. And it hasn't been since 1971. Not since he asked God to take charge of and direct his life. And to His glory, there have been very few dark moments in the life of the hard-hitting Texan. Especially on the football field. It is there that he has really excelled. The season of 1975 is a brilliant testimony to that fact. He had 76 individual tackles, 27 assists, four pass interceptions, knocked down three passes, recovered one fumble and sacked the quarterback four times. It was his best season ever, according to his coaches. It also marked the fourth straight season he has ranked in the top three in individual tackles. He was Atlanta's 11th round draft choice in 1968. 9th year. Games—11 in 1968, 14 in 1969. Inactive (due to knee surgery) in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE There isn't a hero in the Brezina football story, Greg insists. Instead, there are two heroines: His mom and younger sister, Nancy. He says they are the pillars of strength upon which the six brothers leaned throughout their athletic careers. All of the Brezina boys played at the University of Houston. Greg, who threw 26 TD passes as an all-district prep quarterback in 1963, was the first All-America of the group. He was so honored in 1967 by The Sporting News.

Ray Brown, S, 6-2, 202 Vigilante committees were almost recommended again in 1975 when, for the second time in three seasons, Ray Brown didn't make the NFC Pro Bowl squad. The opposition proved it respects his talents, throwing into his coverage area only in dire emergencies. In total, the enemy only threw into his territory 12 times. And he responded by knocking down four of them and intercepting four. He stayed busy as a tackler, though. He made 57 unassisted stops and had 11 assists. The one-time West Texas State star earned the 1975 respect shown him via his superb play in 1974. En route to that season's Falcon Player of the Year honors, he had eight pass interceptions and led the secondary in tackles

(50) and assists (19). 6th year. Games—10 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Pinpointing the "best game" of Brown's collegiate career would be tough. He had many, as is evidenced by his three-year selection to the conference all-star team. He also starred in basketball and baseball.

PERSONAL The future won't catch Brown off guard. He's getting ready for it, honing his creative writing skills. Well into his first novel, he hopes to submit it to publishers by the end of the year. Full name: Raymond Madison Brown. Off-season residence: Marietta, Ga. Married, one child. Born: Jan. 12, 1949, in Fort Worth, Tex.

Ken Burrow, WR, 6-0, 191 Traffic lights are more predictable than a Ken Burrow pass route. He might run the same play over and over, but each trip wouldn't resemble the other. He'll add one new twist—or fake—here and another there. He has been doing that ever since he came into the league six years ago. And that's the very reason he is, today, considered one of the NFL's shrewdest receivers. If it's humanly possible to escape the dragnet of a defensive secondary and get open, he will do it. His career stats prove that. In five previous seasons, he has caught 152 passes for 2668 yards and 21 touchdowns. In 1975, he had 25 receptions for 323 yards and four TDs. His best reception games were: Four against Washington for 63 yards and a touchdown; three against Detroit for 43 yards, and, three against New Orleans (Oct. 5) for 40 yards and one score. 6th year. Games—14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 9 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 13 in 1975.

COLLEGE For a while, it looked like Los Angeles might become Burrow's professional mailing address. A rifle-armed catcher with good, long-ball hitting power, he was drafted by the Dodgers. He chose football, though, and went on to become one of the NCAA's leading pass receivers as a San Diego State senior.

PERSONAL A pioneer of the Citizens Band radio craze that has hit the Falcons, Burrow's handle is "California Dreamer." And that's a big Ten-Four. Full name: Kenneth Robert Burrow. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Married, one child. Born: March 29, 1948, in Richmond, Calif.

Rick Byas, DB, 5-9, 180 Recognition doesn't usually come easy for members of an NFL team's speciality—or suicide—teams. Unless, of course, you hit people like Rick Byas does. Then, you get noticed. That's how the coaches came to know him. He got their attention as a free agent rookie during training camp, 1974. And he has kept it by continuing to deck ball carriers with good, solid and forceful tackles. He played only sparingly in 1975 with the first defensive unit. He returned five kickoffs a total of 94 yards—and average of 18.8. He carried back the same number in 1974 for 136 yards—a 27.2 per average. 3rd year. Games 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE A certain Wayne State game-day photographer is partly responsible for Byas being with the Falcons. Had there been no film available on the 5-10, 180-pound hustler, he might be teaching school somewhere from July-to-December instead of January-to-June.

PERSONAL For the second straight off-season, Byas spent his time teaching and working as a member of the coaching staff at Wayne State. Full name: Richard R. Byas, Jr. Off-season residence: Detroit, Mich. Married, two children. Born: Oct. 19, 1950, in Detroit, Mich.

Brad Davis, RB, 5-10, 200 Pine knots, according to folklore, are supposed to be about the toughest thing going. People who know Brad Davis aren't so sure, though. They feel he may be. And he is hoping to prove them right by "coming back" in 1976. He underwent knee surgery after the third game in 1975 and missed the remainder of the season. 2nd year. Games—3 in 1975.

COLLEGE Davis is the all-time leading ground gainer in LSU football history. His 2165 yards gained knocked to second place one of the giants of southern football, former Heisman Trophy winner Billy Cannon.

PERSONAL Graduation bells rang for Davis during the off-season. He earned his B. S. degree in micro-biology. Full name: Bradford Timothy Davis. Off-season residence: Baton Rouge, La. Single. Born: Feb. 9, 1953, in Hammond, La.

Ray Easterling, S, 6-0, 192 Perseverance paid Ray Easterling a handsome dividend in 1975, but he didn't collect alone. The Falcons did too. His contributions were, according to the coaches, that profitable. Anytime you make 71 unassisted tackles, have 28 assists, intercept three passes and deflect seven others, your ledger is filled with many assets. And that's just what the five-year veteran from the University of Richmond did in 1975. It marked his first season as a starter, having been a spot player in his first three years with the club. A strong tackler, coaches say he developed into a most capable pass defender "through hard work and a determination like we wish all our guys had." 5th year. Games—8 in 1972, 1 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Fighting for football recognition is old hat with Easterling. It started for him at the University of Richmond. He went there as a non-scholarshipped freshman and then won a full grant. To give his bio a real storybook flavor, he went on to become a Little All-America star.

Monroe Eley, RB, 6-2, 210

Dossiers on Monroe Eley have a definite ring of repetition about them. Since the late 1960's, even the wordage hasn't changed: "He's a can't miss. The potential is there to become a really fine NFL running back." The Falcons first believed this in 1974 when they made him their co-fifth round draft choice. And their faith was restored in mid-1975 when he was signed by the club. Three seasons prior to that, he was with British Columbia of the Canadian Football League. During his career there, he rushed for 2308 yards; had 55 pass receptions for 952 yards, and returned 19 kickoffs for 543 yards. He retired at the end of the 1974 season. 2nd year. Games — 6 in 1975.

COLLEGE Pro scouts have been talking about Eley for a long time. He first came to their attention during his sophomore year at Arizona State. In that season, he rushed for 728 yards and later won the MVP award when his Sun Devils played North Carolina in Atlanta's 1970 Peach Bowl Game.

PERSONAL Quiet and unassuming, Eley was drafted twice by the NFL. In 1973, after he had dropped out of college, he was chosen by Kansas City. The league ruled this action illegal, however. That is when he went to Canada. Full name: Monroe Eley. Off-season residence: Rocky Mount, N.C. Married, two children. Born: April 17, 1949, in Nashville, N.C.

Mike Esposito, RB, 6-0, 183 Surgery did to Mike Esposito in 1975 what few defenses managed to do during his glory days at Boston College. It stopped him. A knee injury, suffered in training camp, decked him for the season. Recovered now, he was expected to resume his strong fight for a berth on the club's running backs corps. A tough runner, he also has pretty good acceleration. 2nd year. Games—Inactive (due to knee injury) in 1975.

COLLEGE An injury slowed him in his senior year, but Esposito's credentials are still such that he is considered one of Eastern football's top performers of the last decade. He ended his career with the Eagles with a four-year total of 2765 rushing yardage.

PERSONAL Esposito, by his own admission, "may be the second best athlete in our family." His mom once played semi-professional baseball in a women's league in the East. Full name: Michael John Esposito. Off-season residence: Boston, Mass. Married, one child. Born: Feb. 24, 1953, in Wilmington, Maine.

Wallace Francis, WR, 5-11, 190 Anonymity has lost a Falcon from its ranks. Atlanta knows Wallace Francis now. And he hopes 1976 will increase the fans' knowledge of him. Another season like 1975 should do it, too. Although used sparingly as a receiver, he, nonetheless, led the club in average gain per catch (20.8). He also posted a most impressive statistic: He scored every 4.4 times he ran a route as the primary receiver. He had 13 catches—for 270 yards—and four touchdowns. He had four catches against San Francisco (Dec. 14) for 90 yards and one touchdown. A jarring blocker, that was his primary duty in 1975. Especially on short-yardage and placement situations. And coaches say he graded very well in this area. He came to Atlanta in a 1975 trade from Buffalo. 4th year. Games—12 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Francis, who led the American Football Conference in kickoff returns in 1973, was widely recruited after a celebrated prep career in his hometown of Franklin, La. He finally chose Arkansas AM&N, where he went on to become a two-time NAIA All-America performer in track and football.

PERSONAL Francis was a familiar sight at many pick-up basketball and softball games near his neighborhood during the off-season. He's a great friend of young, underprivileged children. He also found time to star with the Falcons' basketball team. Full name: Wallace Diron Francis. Off-season residence: Decatur, Ga. Married, one child. Born: Nov. 7, 1951, in Franklin, Pa.

Ted Fritsch, C, 6-2, 242 For the first time in more years than he can even remember, Ted Fritsch didn't snap one football in anger in 1975. And it almost slayed him. The inactivity, he says, was that brutal. A knee injury, sustained in training camp, forced him to the sidelines for the full season. And football from that vantage point is no fun. Especially when you are as competitive as he is. A rigid off-season rehabilitation program, designed and coordinated by Head Trainer Jerry Rhea, has resulted in Fritsch's knee "being as strong as ever." The hard-nosed Wisconsin native is anxious to test its strength. 5th year. Games—14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, Inactive (due to knee injury) in 1975.

COLLEGE Name the sport and Fritsch starred in it during his collegiate career at St. Norbert. He was an all-star in football, baseball and hockey.

PERSONAL Were off-season, coach-of-the-year citations available, Fritsch would have to have one. He earned it, coaching the Falcons basketball team to a 10-2 record. Full name: Theodore Edward Fritsch. Off-season residence: Marietta, Ga. Single. Born: Aug. 26, 1950, in Green Bay, Wisc.

John Gilliam, WR, 6-1, 187 Savvy is a necessary condiment in the NFL. A jersey full of talent helps, sure. But if you lack that one important element, you're not around to hear much applause. And John Gilliam—who has both in abundance—has certainly heard his share. He has earned it, too, en route to becoming one of the game's most celebrated wide receivers. In nine all-star seasons, he has 350 receptions, 6631 yards gained and 45 touchdowns. He caught 50 passes for 777 yards and seven touchdowns in 1975 at Minnesota. After playing out his option with the Vikings, he was signed by the Falcons in early May. The seasons of 1969 and 1972, statistically speaking, were two of the South Carolina native's best. He had 52 catches for 997 yards and nine touchdowns for St. Louis in 1969. With the Vikings in 1972, his 22.0 yards gained per catch led the National Football Conference. 10th year. Games—13 in 1967, 14 in 1968, 14 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Gilliam, three times an all-pro, starred in two sports at South Carolina State. He won four athletic monograms in football and three in track. In 1967, he was the No. 2 draft choice of the New Orleans Saints. He played two seasons there before being traded to St. Louis in 1969. He was traded, then, to Minnesota in 1972.

PERSONAL Owner of a fashionable shoe store in downtown Atlanta, Gilliam spent most of his off-season working there. He also found time to hone his already very fine golf game. Full name: John Rally Gilliam. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Married, three children. Born: Aug. 7, 1945, in Greenwood, S.C.

Len Gotshalk, T, 6-4, 259

Ad valorem taxes are not paid, fortunately, on quality of performance. Otherwise, Len Gotshalk would have cost the Falcons a small fortune in 1975. That's how superior his play was, according to coaches. He is said to have graded out extremely high in every aspect of his job. A fierce competitor, he is especially tough when the combat is heavy. Running back Dave Hampton is quick to credit his teammate as "one very big reason I got my 1000 (1002) yards." Quick off the ball at the snap, the rugged Californian is an excellent—and explosive—scrimmage line blocker. Another season like 1975, media members who cover the club regularly have said, and some all-pro recognition is bound to come his way. He was claimed by the Falcons on waivers from Philadelphia in 1972. He has been an Atlanta starter for the past three seasons. 6th year. Games—Inactive (was on taxi squad) in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 10 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE There are three All-America certificates hanging in the den of Gotshalk's ranch-style home in California. He picked up two of them at Santa Rosa Junior College and the third at Humboldt State. He is considered by both schools as one of the best to ever play for them.

PERSONAL Almost a folk hero in his adopted hometown, Gotshalk spent a most productive off-season selling insurance. Articulate and witty, he also continued making a big name for himself as an after-dinner speaker in Northern California. Full name: Leonard William Gotshalk. Off-season residence: Lakeport, Calif. Married, three children. Born: Oct. 21, 1949, in San Francisco, Calif.

Dave Hampton, RB, 6-2, 202 Abracadabras had nothing to do with it. They weren't necessary, afterall. Dave Hampton FINALLY got his 1000 (1002) yards without any help from the supernatural. At times in the past, however, it seemed the stylish running back would need all the assistance witchcraft could conjure up. But fate finally dealt him a winning hand in 1975. People began to think maybe it had after the opening game of the season. Against St. Louis, he rushed for 135 yards—the second highest single-game total in his career—and scored twice. Later in the year, he had his second 100-plus afternoon. He finished with 106 against Denver. Going into game No. 14, he was still 59 shy of the elusive 1000. Green Bay, the club from which he came via a 1972 trade, was braced to stop him. But, this time the deck favored the Michigan-born star. He got 61, pushing to 1002 his total. He just barely missed gaining 1000 in 1972 (finishing with 997) and 1973 (995). His highest single-game rushing total, 161, came against Los Angeles on Oct. 1, 1972, 8th year. Games—14 in 1969, 6 in 1970, 13 in 1971, 13 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 9 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Although he didn't play regularly until his senior year at Wyoming, Hampton finished with a most impressive 4.8 career rushing average. He was selected by Green Bay in the ninth round of the 1969 draft.

PERSONAL Demands for Hampton's time came with great frequency during the off-season. In addition to making a countless number of personal appearances, he also played with the Falcons basketball team. Full name: Dave Hampton. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Single. Born: May 7, 1947, in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Dennis Havig, G, 6-2, 256 Percentages are foreign to Dennis Havig. He knows only one: 100 per cent. And that's exactly what he gives—how he plays—according to his coaches. Especially when passing situations arise. He excels in that phase of his profession. A good, hang-tough blocker, he is the type offensive lineman that quarterbacks really love. When he came out of Colorado as Atlanta's eighth round draft choice (1971), it was felt he was just too light. So he was assigned to the taxi squad and told "gain some weight." Eighteen pounds later, he was his position's No. 1 swing man. By mid-season 1973 he was firmly ensconced as the starter at left guard. And he has been there ever since. 6th year. Games—Inactive (was on taxi squad) in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Havig was busy during three of his four Christmases at the University of Colorado. He played in two Liberty Bowl games (1969 and 1970) and then, as a senior, played in the East-West Shrine All-Star Game in San Francisco and the Senior Bowl Game in Mobile, Ala.

PERSONAL Transportation was again the No. 1 item on Havig's professional agenda during the past off-season. He worked for a local company for the second straight year. Full name: Dennis Eugene Havig. Off-season residence: Marietta, Ga. Married, two children. Born: May 6, 1949, in Powell, Wyo.

Roy Hilton, DE, 6-6, 250 Amnesty was all Roy Hilton wanted when he asked the operator for an Atlanta telephone number. He didn't want to retire. There was still some good football left. He knew there was. Falcons head coach Marion Campbell thought so too. So he bailed the one-time Baltimore Colts star out of inactivity. And the move proved quite helpful indeed. Sharing duty with rookie Jeff Mewer at left defensive end, the 33-year-old veteran made a two-fold contribution. An inspirational type person, he was most helpful in working with his younger compatriot. Among his on-the-field donations were three sacks of the quarterback, five "hurries" and two batted down passes. 12th year. Games—14 in 1965, 14 in 1966, 14 in 1967, 14 in 1968, 14 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 13 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 12 in 1975.

COLLEGE Pro scouts had not begun spending too much time around relatively small schools like Jackson State in the mid-1960s. That's one reason Hilton, signed by Atlanta after being waived by the New York Giants, was not selected until the 15th round (by Baltimore) in 1965. He was with the Colts from 1965 through 1973, playing in the 1968 and 1970 NFL Championship games and the 1968 Super Bowl.

PERSONAL Hilton's nickname is "Chuck Berry." Teammates gave it to him because of his striking facial resemblance to the famed rock and roll star. Full name: Roy Lee Hilton. Off-season residence: Baltimore, Md. Married, three children. Born: March 23, 1943, in Hazelhurst, Miss.

Claude Humphrey, DE, 6-5, 256 Migraine headaches figure to be up around the NFL in 1976. Particularly, among quarterbacks. Claude Humphrey will be back. And that means instant pain for the people he most enjoys slamming to the ground. They got a break in 1975. A knee injury, sustained in a preseason game with the New York Jets, sidelined the hard-hitting all-star for the entire year. "Being out hurt so badly," he once said, "I sometimes didn't even want to go to the games." To make sure it wouldn't be any more of that inactive bit for him, he worked like a demon in the off-season to strengthen his knee. "I want to come back better than ever . . . be much better than I ever was before. And I intend to." Despite the fact he wasn't consensus all-pro (for the first time in four years), the season of 1974 was one of his greatest. In it, he sacked the quarterback 16 times, had 75 individual tackles, 20 assists, blocked four field goal attempts, and one PAT. 9th year. Games—14 in 1968, 14 in 1969, 11 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, Inactive (due to knee surgery) in 1975.

COLLEGE Stardom was nothing new to Humphrey when he got to the Falcons. He had been in the spotlight ever since his prep days. The same kind of attention was his during his celebrated career at Tennessee State too.

PERSONAL Humphrey, the Falcon's No. 1 pick in the draft of 1968, worked out almost every day during the past off-season. He was determined

Scott Hunter, QB, 6-2, 210 Victory parties have long been a part of Scott Hunter's football social calendar. He has been to many of them through the years, first at Vigor High in Pritchard, Ala., then at the University of Alabama and later at Green Bay. He would like to attend a few with the Falcons, too. And that is why he signed with the club as a free agent in June of 1976. He wants to do his part, along with fellow quarterbacks Steve Bartkowski and Kim McQuilken, to make such affairs big on the Atlanta football scene. 5th year. Games — 13 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 8 in 1973, 1 in 1974.

COLLEGE In three varsity seasons at Alabama, Hunter earned the reputation as one of Collegiate America's most accurate passers. He completed 382 of 672 attempts—a 56.8 percentage—for 4899 yards and 27 touchdowns. He was Green Bay's sixth round draft choice in 1971.

PERSONAL Hunter proved himself a winner in the NFL in 1972, guiding the Packers to the NFC's Central Division championship. His best game of that season was against Detroit. He was 11 of 18 passing—61.1 per cent—for 149 yards and one touchdown. He was traded by Green Bay to Buffalo in July of 1974. A year later, he was claimed on waivers by the New York Giants. He was waived prior to the start of the 1975 regular championship season and went into private business. Full name: James Scott Hunter. Off-season residence: Mobile, Ala. Married, two children. Born: Nov. 19, 1947, in Mobile, Ala.

Larron Jackson, G, 6-3, 260

Mayhem is what you expect when you see Larron Jackson pulling out of the line of scrimmage and heading downfield to block. And what you see is usually what you get. That's evidenced by his 1975 grades. Coaches, fans and opponents alike marvel at the speed of the big Missourian. One of the quickest guards in the NFL, his appearance in the Atlanta lineup has given the club a new dimension in downfield blocking. Atlanta obtained him in a January, 1975 trade from Denver. Selected by Houston in the fourth round of the 1971 draft, he spent one season with the Oilers before being traded to Denver. The ex-Missouri great was a three-year starter for the Broncos. 6th year. Games—14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 13 in 1973, 7 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE An academic classroom All-America, Jackson twice duplicated that honor on the playing field. He was All-Big Eight three times.

Jackson

James

PERSONAL The months of March and April found Jackson busier than a beaver. That's tax season, you know. He is a part owner in an accounting firm in Denver. Full name: Larron Deonne Jackson. Off-season residence: Denver, Colo. Single. Born: Aug. 26, 1945, in St. Louis, Mo.

John James, P, 6-3, 200

Fairy tales do come true. One did in late December, 1975. That's when John James was named to the NFC's All-Pro squad. It climaxed the kind of Cinderella-like story we all used to enjoy as children. From nowhere to stardom, that was the theme and the route. Virtually not even mentioned during the NFL players draft of 1972, the University of Florida graduate was signed by Atlanta as a free agent. And the first challenge he faced was storybook-like in its own right. To make the club, all he had to do was beat out a two-time NFL punting champion. So, he did. He has been the club's No. 1 punter ever since. The season of 1975 was the second busiest in his four-year career. He punted 89 times and averaged 41.5 per kick. He hit the longest punt of his career (75) against Oakland. 5th year. Games—14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE James' collegiate punting career was only two years in length. Phase No. 1 of his story is the fact he came out of the Florida cheering section to become the team's punter.

PERSONAL Painting his house, playing golf and working with the Florida football varsity during spring drills took up most of James' off-season. He also found time to play in several celebrity golf tournaments. Full name: John Wilbur James, Jr. Off-season residence: Gainesville, Fla. Married. Born: Jan. 21, 1949, in Panama City, Fla.

Al Jenkins, WR, 5-10, 172 Tail-gate parties around Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium had a new hero to talk about in 1975. And he gave them plenty to say. Wide receiver Al Jenkins was the personification of excitement Sunday after Sunday. With his blistering speed and snake-like moves, he gave the Falcons a much—and long—needed deep threat. He delivered too. Among his 38 receptions for 767 yards and six touchdowns were long-distance catches of 68, 63 and 52 yards. The latter two, against San Francisco (Dec. 14) and Green Bay, were touchdowns. The 68 yarder was against Washington. His 20.2 yard average gain per reception was tops in the NFC. The former Morris Brown College of Atlanta star, signed as a 1975 free agent, had four games in which he caught in excess of 100 yards in passes. He had four for 102 against New Orleans (Nov. 2); six for 106 and two touchdowns against Oakland; four for 106 against Denver, and, seven for 147 yards and two touchdowns against San Francisco (Dec. 14). 2nd year. Games—14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Many telephone calls came from NFL teams prior to the completion of Jenkins' career at Morris Brown. At draft time, 1972, however, Mr. Bell's invention didn't ring at all. Finally he was signed by Houston as a free agent.

PERSONAL The signing of Jenkins, a sensation with Birmingham of the old WFL in 1974, was a master stroke. No less than 15 other NFL teams were trying to hustle his signature onto a contract. During the past off-season, the articulate Hogansville, Ga., native worked as a sportscaster for a local television station. Full name: Alfred Jenkins. Residence: Atlanta. Married. Born: Jan. 25, 1952, in Hogansville, Ga.

Bob Jones, DB, 6-3, 193 Obscurity could never contain Bob Jones. Not the way he plays football. Especially when he's on speciality teams assignments. Because of his style of play, you notice him. Whether he's the blocking fullback on punting situations or going down field as a tackler, you notice him. He's always where the action is. He and rookie linebacker Fulton Kuykendall led the speciality—or suicide—squads in tackles in 1975. He was signed by Atlanta as a free agent in early 1975. 4th year. Games—9 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Jones was an all-around, do-it-all-with-class performer at Virginia Union. So impressive was he, in fact, he was Cincinnati's sixth round pick in the NFL players draft of 1973.

PERSONAL A dedicated music buff, Jones taught himself to play several instruments and is considered quite good with the guitar. Full name: Bob Jones. Off-season residence: McIntosh, Fla., Single. Born: Boardman, Fla.

Fulton Kuykendall, LB, 6-5, 225 Kamikaze-like in his dedication and determination, Fulton Kuykendall became an almost cult hero with Atlanta fans in 1975. As the wedge buster on kickoffs, he thrilled everybody with his absolute abandon. It earned him the unbending respect of his teammates too. To show it, they named him captain of the speciality teams. And he became affectionately known as "Captain Crazy" or "Captain Cuckoo." When the veteran Don Hansen was claimed by Seattle in March's NFL allocation draft, a momentary void was created at left-side linebacker. It was filled, though, just as soon as coaches could pencil in the name of the soft-spoken Californian. When summoned into action with the first unit in 1975, he responded positively. He had 18 solo tackles, 12 assists and knocked down three passes. He also forced one fumble with a jarring tackle and recovered another. 2nd year. Games—14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Kuykendall booked playing time at all three linebacking spots—left, right and middle—during his career at UCLA. He captained the Bruins as a senior.

PERSONAL A move that has become known as a real coup brought Kuykendall to the Falcons. He was part of the 1975 George Kunz-to-Baltimore trade for the draft rights to quarterback Steve Bartkowski. He came as the sixth round draft choice that the Colts gave Atlanta. Full name: Fulton Gerald Kuykendall. Off-season residence: Los Angeles, Calif. Single. Born: June 10, 1953, in Coronado, Calif.

Rolland Lawrence, DB, 5-10, 179 Larceny was Rolland Lawrence's avocation in 1975. And he became a master craftsman at it. That's evidenced by his record-smashing nine pass interceptions and equally astounding number of passes deflected (24). Among his thefts was a sensational 87-yard scoring return against Oakland. He had a pair of two interceptions games, against San Francisco (Oct. 12) and Los Angeles (Nov. 16). His others were opposite New Orleans (Nov. 2), Denver, San Francisco (Dec. 14) and Green Bay. A deadly tackler, the Pennsylvania native had 32 solo stops in 1975 and four assists. His touch-down against the Raiders was the second longest scoring interception in club history. Originally signed as a free agent, this will be his third season as a regular. He was used primarily with the speciality teams as a 1973 rookie. 4th year. Games—14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Escaping would-be tacklers was Lawrence's major responsibility during his collegiate days at Tabor University. And he did it with great flash and daring. So much, in fact, that he amassed more than 4000 offensive yards. He also played defense.

PERSONAL Golf, softball and conditioning occupied most of Lawrence's time during the off-season. And he worked hard at both. He has honed his golf game down to the point he's almost a scratch player. Full name: Rolland Derenfro Lawrence. Off-season residence: Franklin, Pa. Single. Born: March 24, 1951, in Franklin, Pa.

Mike Lewis, DT, 6-4, 261

Bionic, he isn't. It just seems that way sometimes, the way Mike Lewis zooms across the line of scrimmage to make a tackle. Perhaps the quickest defensive tackle in the NFL, he also is rapidly becoming recognized as one of the finest. You pick up reputations like that when you compile the figures he has in the past two seasons. In 1975, for instance, he had 68 unassisted tackles, 14 assists, 10 "hurries" (making the quarterback throw before he is really ready), knocked down two passes, forced one fumble and sacked the quarterback eight times. His figures from 1974 were, respectively, 81, 26, eight, three, four and six. Soon, his coaches feel, somebody is going to accept the fact that the ex-Arkansas AM&N star is worthy of some all-pro consideration.

7th year. Games—Inactive (was on taxi squad) in 1970, 9 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE His name wasn't even mentioned during the NFL players draft of 1970. Since that time, however, Lewis has made a lot of opposing coaches wish they had called him to their roster. He was signed as a free agent, 218-pound linebacker by Atlanta.

PERSONAL Lewis, once timed at 4.8 in the 40, honed his quickness to a fine, new edge—insiders say—during the past off-season. He did it by playing basketball every morning and starring as a rebounder for the club's team during the evenings. Full name: Michael Henry Lewis. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Married, one child. Born: July 14, 1949, in Houston, Tex.

Ron Mabra, DB, 5-10, 164 Unlikely as it may seem due to his small stature, Ron Mabra is one of the Falcons' hardest hitters. "When he gets you," a running back-teammate says, "you know you've been gotten." His penchant for hitting was one of the first things that impressed the coaches in 1975 training camp. He saw action in eight games, mainly with the speciality teams. Against Minnesota, in the eighth game, he suffered strained ligaments in his right knee and was sidelined for the remainder of the year. 2nd year. Games—8 in 1975.

COLLEGE His credentials were quite impressive, but the NFL players draft of 1973 failed to call Mabra's name. So the Howard University graduate signed as a free agent with Kansas City.

PERSONAL Mabra, who starred with Philadelphia of the old WFL in 1974, split his leisure time during the past off-season. When not involved selling authentic Indian jewelry for his own firm, he was busy working to strengthen his knee. Full name: Ronald Lee Mabra. Off-season residence: College Park, Ga. Married. Born: June 4, 1951, in Talladega, Ala.

Greg McCrary, TE, 6-3, 230 Being No. 2 isn't necessarily so bad. And especially when your situation is similar to that of Greg McCrary and old-time Chicago running back Gene Ronzani. One plays behind Jim Mitchell. The other subbed—ever so seldom—for the immortal Red Grange. Likely as not, the young Falcon probably saw more game action in 1975 than the ex-Bears player did in a handful of seasons. McCrary was used mainly on occasions when short yardage was needed. A deft blocker, he caught no passes. 2nd year. Games—14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Until becoming a pro, McCrary had never run a pass route when he wasn't the primary receiver. He earned that acclaim during an all-star, catch-everything-thrown-at-him career at Clark College in Atlanta. He was the Falcons' fifth round pick in the draft of 1975.

PERSONAL Hoping for a lot more playing time in 1976, McCrary worked out almost daily in the off-season in an effort to "be ready" when 1976 arrived. Full name: Gregory Alonza McCrary. Off-season residence: College Park, Ga. Single. Born: March 24, 1952, in Griffin, Ga.

Kim McQuilken, QB, 6-2, 203 Curling up and surrendering never crossed his mind. That just isn't Kim McQuilken's nature. Falling from first to third in the Falcons' quarterbacking alignment did nothing to lessen his competitiveness. In fact, he says, it made him work just that much harder. He knew his time to play would come again. And he was determined to be ready, physically and mentally. "Last season proved you need more than one quarterback," the former Lehigh star said. "I had rather start, sure, but I realize, the way football is, Steve (Bartkowski) might need some help. And if I can't beat him out for the top job, at least I want to be the guy the club turns to next." Twice in 1975, Atlanta did just that: Turned to him. He started against New Orleans (Nov. 2) and Minnesota. For the season, he completed 20 of 61 passes for 253 yards and one touchdown. 3rd year. Games—5 in 1974, 3 in 1975.

COLLEGE Small college football fans throughout America came to know McQuilken well during his three-year career at Lehigh. When you complete 516 of 927 passes for 6996 yards and 37 touchdowns, you get a lot of ink.

PERSONAL McQuilken divided his time by four during the past off-season. He used a piece for his family; his job as a sale representative for a local hotel; the Falcons basketball team, and, conditioning. Full name: Kim Evan McQuilken. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Married, two children. Born: Feb. 26, 1951, in Allentown, Pa.

Jeff Merrow, DE, 6-4, 230 Filling another's shoes had never presented much of a problem for Jeff Merrow—before 1975. With his size 13½'s, he usually had no trouble at all. He had not, however, been called on to step into somebody else's size 15's. When the challenge came to fill in for the injured Claude Humphrey, the drawling Ohioan didn't shy away, though. He stepped right in. And, in fact, did a most creditable job, according to his coaches. He had 27 individual tackles, 21 assists, knocked down two passes, caused six "hurries" and had two and one-half sacks of the quarterback. Originally drafted as a tackle, he moved to defensive end in training camp. When Humphrey went down, he moved to end for the duration of the season. He sustained a left hamstring strain in late September, missing two games. 2nd year. Games—12 in 1975.

Merrow

Mike-Mayer

PERSONAL His success in 1975 really boosted the legend of Atlanta's 11th round choices. That was Merrow's place in Atlanta's 1975 draft. Right-side linebacker Greg Brezina was the 11th round pick in the draft of 1968 and center Jeff Van Note came in 1969. Full name: Jeffrey Colin Merrow. Off-season residence: Madesville, W. Va. Single. Born: July 12, 1953, in Akron, Ohio.

Nick Mike-Mayer, PK, 5-9, 187 Rules changes continued to restrict Nick Mike-Mayer's playing time in 1975. Not his effectiveness, though. The one-time Temple University star was four-of-10 on field goal attempts and hit 30-of-33 point after touchdown tries. This gave him 42 points and his third straight Atlanta scoring title. His longest field goal of the season was a 44 yarder against Washington. He missed the first PAT of his career against Oakland in the 11th game. Until that moment—his 20th attempt of the year—he had hit 73 straight for his career. His greatest afternoon as a pro came Nov. 4, 1973. His fifth field goal of that game—a 16-yard boot with 54 seconds left—beat Los Angeles, 15-13. 4th year. Games—14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Fans first began getting a kick out of Mike-Mayer's talents during his career at Temple U. It was there that he became one of the country's leading placement specialists. As a senior he kicked 13 of 20 field goals and was 24-of-26 on points after touchdown.

PERSONAL In the NFL's latest sibling rivalry, Atlanta leads San Francisco, 12-6. That is, Nick Mike-Mayer accounted for six more points against San Francisco in 1975 than his older brother, Steve, scored against Atlanta. Nick had field goals of 27 and 22 yards and six PATs in two games against the 49ers. Steve had a pair of 26-yard fielders. Full name: Nicholas Mike-Mayer. Off-season residence: Decatur, Ga. Married, one child. Born: March 1, 1950, in Bologna, Italy.

Jim Mitchell, TE, 6-1, 236 Hara-kiri couldn't possibly hurt more than a Jim Mitchell forearm upside your head. Defensive backs and linebackers around the NFL will vouch for that. And they should know. The big Tennessean has rendered enough of them listless en route to becoming one of the best—yet least honored—tight ends in the game today. He performs all the duties of his position with style and explosiveness. A brilliant pass receiver, he certainly doesn't mind going into traffic to catch the ball. Coiling his forearm, whether it's for the purpose of challenging a would-be tackler or somebody he's to block, is something he enjoys, too. As a receiver, he was most productive in 1975, catching 34 balls for 536 yards and four touchdowns. These figures boosted his role as the team's all-time leader in all three categories. In his sparkling seven-year career, he has 223 receptions for 3477 yards and 24 touchdowns. Yet, he has neither been afforded all-pro recognition nor asked to play in the Pro Bowl game. And 1975 would have been an appropriate time for either to have happened. Four times in the club's 14-game schedule, he had four reception afternoons. The games were: Los Angeles (Oct. 19), for 65 yards and one touchdown; Cincinnati, 65 yards and two touchdowns; Los Angeles (Nov. 16), 46 yards and one touchdown, and, San Francisco (Dec. 14), for 67 yards. 8th year. Games—14 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 13 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE There are eight athletic monograms tucked away in Mitchell's collection of college memorabilia. The former Prairie View A&M great won four in football and four in baseball.

PERSONAL Mitchell will soon be walking down the aisle again. This time it will be to pick up his college diploma. He is three hours shy and plans to obtain those at the end of the 1976 season. Full name: James Robert Mitchell. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Married, two children. Born: Oct. 19, 1947, in Shelbyville, Tenn.

Tommy Nobis, LB, 6-3, 243

Cramming the highlights of Tommy Nobis' career into 24-30 lines is like trying to knock a running back down with a handful of balloons. Not even the celebrated and voluminous War and Peace could contain them. His career has been that productive. And 1975 was no exception. For the ninth time in his Atlanta career, he led the team in tackles. According to official coaching statistics, he had 91 solo stops, 24 assists, knocked down two passes, forced one fumble and had one sack of the quarterback. Trying to pinpoint his greatest game would be just as taxing. His Sept. 29, 1974, date against New Orleans would have to be in the top three, though. His performance that afternoon was non pareil. Of his 15 unassisted tackles, eight were of the touchdown-saving variety. 11th year. Games—14 in 1966, 14 in 1967, 14 in 1968, 5 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 4 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 13 in 1975.

COLLEGE It's a wonder there's any furniture at all in Nobis' den. And if he put all his trophies and various other awards in it, there wouldn't be enough room. His career in football, from prep to college to the pros, has been that honored. In addition to being a two-time All-America selection at the University of Texas, he also won both the prestigious Maxwell and Outland trophies as collegiate football's lineman of the year.

PERSONAL America's—and most specifically Georgia's—Special Olympics program didn't have just a daily, nine-to-five routine out of Nobis during the off-season. He gave it many 12, 13, even 14-hour days. He didn't slow down after the last putt of his ultra-successful Super Sports Celebrity Golf Classic either. Full name: Thomas Henry Nobis, Jr. Off-season residence: Marietta, Ga. Married, three children. Born: Sept. 20, 1943, in San Antonio, Tex.

Ralph Ortega, LB, 6-2, 220 "Handles" are necessary if you have a Citizen's Band radio in your car. You just don't say, "This is so-and-so, what's your 10-20?" You give them your "handle," which is either an extension of your personality, residence or occupation. Most of them are appropriate. Like the one his teammates have given Ralph Ortega, for instance. He's "The Blaster." A Falcons running back that he popped—or blasted—in an early 1975 scrimmage hung it on him. Several backs during the regular NFL championship season concurred later. Used primarily as the fourth linebacker in passing situations, he was credited with 20 tackles, two assists, one sack of the quarterback and knocked down three passes. A bright future is forecast for him. 2nd year. Games—14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Ortega did a lot of "blasting" during his All-America career at the University of Florida. He was credited with 279 primary tackles, 108 assists and forced 14 fumbles during three years with the Gators varsity.

PERSONAL The books were what Ortega, the Falcons' second round draft choice in 1975, hit during the past off-season. He was back in school at Florida, pursuing his degree. Full name: Ralph Ortega. Off-season residence: Gainesville, Fla. Married. Born: July 6, 1953, in Havana, Cuba.

Carl Russ, LB, 6-2, 227 Drawing a bead on a running back is relatively easy, they say. Hitting the target is the real trick; the tough thing to do. But not for Carl Russ. The young Michigan graduate proved his sure-handedness in 1975. He was one of the key tacklers on the speciality teams and was just as effective when called in for spot duty.

Russ

Ryczek

Smith

Coaches really like his aggressive style of play and determination. 2nd year. Games—14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Scholarship was first on Russ' mind when he got to college. He went on an academic grant-in-aid. In his sophomore year, he decided to join the football team and soon earned an athletic grant.

PERSONAL An honor graduate, Russ is contemplating returning to college in the immediate future in pursuit of a law degree. He spent most of the last off-season in Atlanta, working out and playing basketball. Full name: James Carlton Russ. Off-season residence: College Park, Ga. Single. Born: Feb. 16, 1953, in Muskegon, Mich.

Paul Ryczek, C, 6-2, 230 Ballads aren't usually written about battles for second place. The Paul Ryczek-Ted Fritsch confrontation had all the markings, though, when the Falcons opened their 1976 training camp. The two veterans were to compete for the No. 2 spot at center behind Jeff Van Note. Ryczek is the incumbent. He moved in to the spot when Fritsch went down with a knee injury during 1975's training camp. Coaches said they would open the new camp rated neck-and-neck. In addition to an occasional role as a reserve, the back-up man usually handles all snaps on placement and punting situations. 3rd year. Games—14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Selected by the Falcons in the 10th round in 1974, Ryczek was one of the stars of the speciality teams as a rookie. It was a new role for him, having started for three seasons as an all-star center at the University of Virginia.

PERSONAL Ryczek did some traveling in the past off-season, in addition to playing with the club's basketball team. Full name: Paul Andrew Ryczek. Off-season residence: Marietta, Ga. Married. Born: June 25, 1952, in Mentor, Ohio.

Royce Smith, G, 6-3, 250 Bodyguards with the speed of Royce Smith are almost as valuable to a football team as the down markers and chains. They are most effective—and necessary—on sweeps. And that is exactly where the ex-Georgia All-America excels. A great pull blocker, he combines speed and an explosive shoulder to give the Falcons the capability of moving on once the sweep has been instituted. Coaches say he is pretty adept at protecting quarterbacks, too. The Savannah-born Smith came to the Falcons in a July, 1974 trade with New Orleans. He was the Saints' No. 1 draft choice in 1972. 5th year. Games—10 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE His is a most honored name in University of Georgia football history. A two-time All-America there, Smith won the Southeastern Conference's prestigious Jacobs Trophy—emblematic of superiority as a blocker—in his senior year.

PERSONAL Contrary to popular belief, Smith insists "it wasn't really a 'pick-your-own-school' situation when my prep football days were over." He says Georgia was the only school to "seriously offer me a grant-in-aid." Full name: Royce Lionel Smith. Off-season residence: Hartwell, Ga. Single. Born: June 7, 1949, in Savannah, Ga.

Haskel Stanback, RB, 6-1, 210 Praise did wonders for Haskel Stanback's sense of hearing—and accomplishment—in 1975. Complimented and encouraged for the first time in his young career, the fleet North Carolinian responded positively. He heard, came to believe, and became the running back coaches have long felt he could be. His season-ending statistics confirm that. He averaged 4.2 yards per carry, highest on the team. He rushed 105 times for 440 yards and scored five touchdowns. He also caught 14 passes for 114 more yards. Another aspect of his versatility came forward in the club's 13th game of the year. In a 31-9 winning performance against San Francisco (Dec. 14), he turned passer and tossed a 41-yard scoring strike to wide receiver Wallace Francis. 3rd year. Games—13 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Graduation was about the only thing that stopped Stanback during his career at the University of Tennessee. Few defenses did. Proof is his 1730 career rushing yards yardage and 20 TDs for the Vols.

PERSONAL Stanback, obtained by the Falcons in a 1974 trade from Cincinnati, began pointing to the 1976 season in early January. That's when he began working out in earnest for this year. Full name: Haskel LaVon Stanback. Off-season residence: College Park, Ga. Married. Born: March 19, 1952, in Kannapolis, N. C.

Woody Thompson, RB, 6-1, 228 Judgment came in a hurry in the Woody Thompson case. The evidence was overwhelming. The Falcons thought they knew the eventual verdict as early as January of 1975. Their confidence was completely vindicated 14 games later. His productivity helped immeasurably: 247 yards gained on 68 carries (a 3.6 per average); 14 pass receptions for 92 yards, and, four returned kickoffs for 48 yards—a 16.0 average. He also proved to be a solid blocker. His best game was against Cincinnati. In it he rushed for 88 yards. The club went into its 1976 training camp expecting an all-out fight between him, Haskel Stanback, and Monroe Eley for the second running back spot beside Dave Hampton. 2nd year. Games—14 games in 1975.

COLLEGE Despite being slowed by injuries as a senior, Thompson was still very busy during his career at the University of Miami. He rushed for 1339 yards—803 in an All-America junior year.

PERSONAL A slashing type runner, Thompson also showed in 1975 that he can go around the flanks. He has no preference of route: Just let him have the football. Full name: Alexander Woodrow Thompson. Off-season residence: Houston, Tex. Married. Born: Aug. 20, 1952, in Erie, Pa.

Mike Tilleman, DT, 6-7, 274 Javelin catching, it has been said, is more fun than playing across the scrimmage line from Mike Tilleman. That's no attempt at humor, either. It's a direct quote. "I'd rather catch javelins for an hour than to have to take anymore than two of his head slaps," an unidentified veteran NFL offensive lineman said in 1975. "It's bound to be more fun. He's absolutely lethal with those hands." His slaps, reputed to have the same numbing effect one feels when suffering a migraine, were really effective in 1975. He used them to chop his way past would-be blockers and make 72 individual tackles. He also had 23 assists, forced one fumble and was credited with four and one-half sacks of the quarterback. The big Montanan, whose 14 sacks led the NFL in 1972, came to the Falcons from Houston in a 1973 trade. 11th year. Games—12 in 1966, 14 in 1967, 14 in 1968, 14 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 13 in 1973, 12 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Before settling on football as his "bag," Tilleman was a two-sport star at the University of Montana. A good jumper, he led the basketball team in rebounds as a freshman. All-America two seasons in football, he was drafted as a "future" by Minnesota in 1965.

PERSONAL Aside from his family and January-to-July job, there are two things that rest most dear with Tilleman during the off-season. One is any charitable endeavor that benefits exceptional children and the other is to help raise monies for the American Cancer Society. He twice beat cancer, undergoing surgery in 1969 and again in 1972. Full name: Michael John Tilleman. Off-season residence: Dunwoody, Ga. Married, two children. Born: March 20, 1944, in Chinook, Mont.

Jeff Van Note, C, 6-2, 247 Egg-on-the-face is Southern jargon for cut-to-the-quick, which is Northern jargon for being totally—and absolutely—embarrassed. And regardless of the verbage you choose, that's exactly how two ex-Pee Wee football coaches in Louisville, Ky., must feel at this moment. It isn't every day that you tell an eventual all-pro center, "Sorry, kid, but you'll never make it in football; try some other sport." It happened to Jeff Van Note, though. Twice. Fired by this rejection, he worked very hard and on his third try not only made the team, but became an all-star.

Van Note

Williams

Zook

It was to be his first touch with stardom. He received the same kind of recognition in prep school and later at the University of Kentucky. He "arrived" at the station reserved for the league's elite in 1974 by being named the starting National Football Conference center in the Pro Bowl. He was chosen for his second trip to that post-season classic in 1975. An excellent run and pass blocker, he is today recognized throughout professional football as one of the game's premier players. 8th year. Games—1 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Defense was Van Note's "cup of tea" during his collegiate career. Until being drafted 11th by the Falcons in 1969, he had never snapped a football under game conditions. He spent part of his rookie season in the minor leagues (Huntsville, Ala., of the old Continental Football Conference). He returned in 1970 to win the position and has been there ever since.

PERSONAL Van Note escaped the 'graveyard shift' during the past off-season. He became a traveling sales representative for his father's company, giving up the nightshift for a tie and an attache case. Full name: Jeffrey Aloysius Van Note. Off-season residence: Louisville, Ky. Married, two children. Born: Feb. 7, 1946, in South Orange, N. J.

Sam Williams, DB, 6-2, 192 Prerequisite Nos. 1-5 for an NFL defensive back are all traits of Sam Williams' overall football personality. For example: "he likes to hit"; "will really stick you"; "is a solid ballhawk who will either intercept or deflect passes thrown in his coverage area"; "has good speed and knows what to do with an interception after he's made it," and, "is a solid, all-around athlete who excels in other sports as well." His two-year professional statistics clearly point out each of the aforementioned qualities. The Texas native, obtained in an April, 1976 trade from San Diego, led the Chargers secondary in tackles in each of the past two seasons. Despite missing four games due to a bruised knee, he had 34 unassisted stops and 13 assist in 1975. 3rd year. Games—13 in 1974, 10 in 1975.

COLLEGE After two seasons at New Mexico Highlands University, Williams transferred to the University of California. Falcons quarterback Steve Bartkowski was a teammate for two years at Cal.

PERSONAL Williams, selected by San Diego in the 12th round of the 1974 draft, will be a great addition to the Falcons' off-season basketball team. From a flat-footed start and with his back to the goal, he is said to be able to dunk the ball. Full name: Samuel Charles Williams. Off-season residence: San Diego, Calif. Single. Born: July 22, 1952, in Cameron, Tex.

John Zook, DE, 6-5, 249 Tabulators haven't learned to count high enough to tell us the number of times John Zook was double—even triple—teamed in 1975. People could get away with that, since Claude Humphrey was watching from the sidelines. It didn't work quite as effectively as some figured, though. Even with the burdensome attention he got, the Kansas native still had 56 unassisted tackles and 20 assists. He also had a team-high nine sacks of the quarterback, recovered two fumbles, had seven "hurries" and batted down five passes. He was Los Angeles' fourth round draft choice in 1969, but was almost immediately traded to Philadelphia and then on to Atlanta. 8th year. Games—14 in 1969, 14 in 1970, 14 in 1971, 14 in 1972, 14 in 1973, 14 in 1974, 14 in 1975.

COLLEGE Durability has long been Zook's suit. He never missed a game during his All-America career at the University of Kansas. He has played in 98 straight games since turning pro.

PERSONAL The first breath of spring weather was welcomed by Zook like a big bonus. He immediately went fishing. He usually enters as many bass tournaments as possible during the off-season. Full name: John Eldon Zook. Off-season residence: Atlanta. Single. Born: Sept. 24, 1947, in Garden City, Kan.

1976 Draft Choices

◀ 1 Bubba Bean, RB, 5-11, 195 Graduation was about the only sure hope some Southwest Conference teams ever had of stopping Bubba Bean. Their defenses, for the most part, certainly didn't. His 2846 career rushing yardages attest to that. He was especially tough on his opponents in his final three seasons with the Aggies. He rushed for 711 as a sophomore, 938 as a junior and 944 as a senior. Two of his more productive games came against Atlantic Coast Conference opponent Clemson. As a sophomore, he ripped the Tigers for 204 yards. He got 182 against them as a junior. Full name: Earnest Ray Bean. Married, one child. Born: Jan. 26, 1954, in Kirbyville, Tex.

2 Sonny Collins, RB, 6-1, 196 Saturdays were the brightest days of the weeks throughout Sonny Collins' career at the University of Kentucky. They were pretty gloomy for his opponents, though. But when you hit them for 2086 career rushing yards, you don't really expect things to be too sunny for them. He got 1150 of those yards in an SEC record-smashing senior year. His 104.6 yards gained per game ranked him 20th in the country in 1975. Full name: Alfred Eugene Collins, Jr. Single. Born: Jan. 17, 1953, in Madisonville, Ky.

3 Dave Scott, T, 6-4, 285 Foot races, although you might not suspect it—considering his size, have never been a source of embarrassment for Dave Scott. He's won far more 40-yard sprints involving offensive and defensive linemen than he has ever lost. The ex-Kansas Star's time (5.1) in the 40-yard dash is considered "excellent." Full name: Arthur David Scott. Single. Born: Dec. 26, 1953, in Hackensack, N. J.

4 Walt Brett, DE, 6-5, 241 Unwanted by any college after prep school, Walt Brett decided to play his way into the spotlight. He did too, earning a full grant-in-aid at the University of Montana in his sophomore season. He became a starter after moving from tight end to defensive end as a soph. Full name: Walter Jeffrey Brett. Single. Born: Dec. 1, 1953, in San Francisco, Calif.

5 Traded to Minnesota.

6 Stan Varner, DT, 6-4, 245 Up in the air was no mere sensation for Stan Varner when informed he had been drafted by the Atlanta Falcons. It was reality. A licensed pilot, he was flying a single engine plane at the time. One highlight of his Brigham Young University career was his 19 sacks of the quarterback as a junior. Full name: Stanley Everett Varner. Single. Born: Dec. 22, 1952, in Salt Lake City, Utah.

7 Karl Farmer, WR, 5-11, 165 Sprinter's speed and good hands. Those are the first two items listed under the plus column in Karl Farmer's football portfolio. He displayed both, in all-star fashion, while healthy, during his Pitt career. An internationally-recognized speedster, he was considering the 1976 Olympics prior to his signing with the Falcons. Full name: Karl Anthony Farmer. Married, one child. Born: Aug. 28, 1954, in Oklahoma City, Okla.

8 Frank Reed, DB, 5-11, 193 Folks came to really enjoy plays run and passes thrown out of Frank Reed's coverage area. His propensity for hard-hitting and either deflecting or intercepting passes earned him that respect. He had 11 pass interceptions in three seasons at Washington. Full name: Frank Rodney Reed. Single. Born: May 13, 1954, in Seattle, Wash.

9 Phil McKinnely, T, 6-4, 248 Dribbling a ball or knocking people down who carry one under their arm was the decision facing Phil McKinnely upon graduation from prep school. A widely-recruited basketball star, he chose football instead and became a three-year letterman at UCLA. Full name: Phillip Byron McKinnely. Single. Born: July 8, 1954, in Oakland, Calif.

10 No selection.

11 Chuck Brislin, T, 6-3, 238 Keeping running backs and quarterbacks on their feet in 1976 will be something new for Chuck Brislin. He spent the past four years knocking them down as a defensive tackle at Mississippi State. Coaches and scouts have projected—"with his size and speed"—he could become a most capable NFL offensive lineman. Full name: Charles William Brislin. Single. Born: April 23, 1954, in Columbus, Miss.

12 Pat Bolton, K, 5-9, 190 American-styled placekicking lives, after all. Pat Bolton's four-year statistical sheet from Montana State will confirm it. Among his 44 career field goals, he had kicks of 54, 51 and 49 yards—all came against Idaho State in 1975. Full name: Patrick Richard Bolton. Single. Born: March 20, 1953, in Butte, Mont.

13 Mike Williams, T, 6-3, 249 Four-year starters in college aren't too common. But Mike Williams is an exception. A hard-nosed, dedicated football player, he graded out at almost 90 per cent as a 1975 University of Florida senior. Full name: Roderic Michael Williams. Single. Born: Nov. 23, 1954, in Orlando, Fla.

14 Mark Husfloen, DE, 6-4, 231 Sacking quarterbacks and making unassisted tackles are two of Mark Husfloen's favorite football forms of relaxation. And he did both with comparative ease at Washington State, averaging nine sacks per season and 13 solo stops per game. Full name: Mark Ogden Husfloen. Single. Born: Feb. 4, 1954, in Dellingham, Wash.

15 Ron Olson, DB, 6-0, 196 Foresight rewarded the University of Washington coaching staff in 1975. Long before Ron Olson became a starter, coaches felt the time would come when he would move into the starting defensive eleven. It arrived in 1975 and he became one of the Huskies' busiest tacklers and pass defenders. Full name: Ronald Jon Olson. Born: May 17, 1954, in Seattle, Wash.

16 Pat Curto, LB, 6-2, 229 Comparatively speaking, Pat Curto says his collegiate position wasn't too different than the one he will have in the NFL. Ohio State uses its defensive ends, he points out, in a style that's comparable to playing outside linebacker. Full name: Patrick Curto. Single. Born: March 14, 1954, in Chicago, Ill.

17 Tony Green, DB, 6-2, 186 Aggressively is the only way Tony Green has ever played football. That is evidenced by the number of career tackles, pass deflections (32) and interceptions (nine) at Texas Tech. Full name: Tony Tillman Green. Single. Born: Sept. 25, 1952, in Seguin, Tex.

Free Agent

Mail call is about the only time you even notice some of the free agents who join NFL teams each year at training camp. Some make it past the third shipment, but often as not most are gone before their first letters are even sent from home.

There are exceptions, though, who make it all the way through camp. And some even become viable contributors to the success of their team. To this list, add the names of Alfred Jenkins, Mike Lewis, Bob Jones, Ron Mabra, Rick Byas and John James. Be sure the first name is there. And the last one, too.

A 1975 free agent, all Jenkins did was become the leading average-per-catch pass receiver in the National Football Conference. His 38 receptions for 767 yards averaged out to a 20.2 figure.

James, beginning his fifth year with the Falcons, was the National Football Conference's punter in the last NFC-AFC Pro Bowl game.

These people made it. And there will be others. Possibly some of the names listed below. The evaluation offered in early June, is from Tom Braatz, Atlanta's director of player personnel.

Carl Barschig has the size and hands to be a prospect . . . Mark Burke, a youngster with lots of ability and speed, will get a shot at making the club as a free safety and punt return specialist . . . A big, tough kid, Vern Chamberlain likes to run inside. And he has proved he can . . . John Chisholm has both good hands and good speed . . . Ron Gustafson, claimed by us on waivers from New Orleans, is an excellent wide receiver and punt return man. He was the Saints' No. 5 draft choice in 1975. He was among the last cut at training camp a year ago . . . John Hill has pro size. Buffalo drafted him in 1975 . . . Steve Hill is a kid who needs some work on technique, but showed ability at our rookie camp last April . . . Arthur Jackson has pass rush ability . . . Darius McCarthy, drafted by Los Angeles last year, has speed and a good pair of hands.

Larry Nunnally had an outstanding rookie camp. He has action to rush the passer and good speed . . . George Brockington was the second fastest man (behind No. 1 draft choice Bubba Bean) at the rookie camp. He has excellent hands for catching the ball . . . Jim Sandusky is a hard-nosed kid who loves to hit . . . Rollen Smith is a competitor and has good athletic ability . . . Henry Tennessee showed speed, good hands and fine athletic ability during our camp. He has a chance . . . Dave Van Halanger, at 6-5, 271, was the biggest rookie in camp. He can play . . . Wyatt Washington showed speed and quickness during the camp. He has a chance as a defensive cornerback . . . Angelo Wells showed ability to get to passer and he is competitive . . . Maurice White, who gained over 3500 yards rushing his college career, has some moves and likes to run with the ball.

HISTORY

Falcon History Book, 1964-76

1964 "With money we don't have," Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen, Jr., said on the occasion, "for teams that don't exist," ground is broken for an $18 million stadium, April 15.

1965 With expansion as the No. 1 item on its agenda, the American Football League calls a meeting for June 7-8, June 3. Expansion in the National Football League, it announces, is planned for 1967. An AFL franchise is awarded to Atlanta and J. Leonard Reinsch of Cox Broadcasting Corporation, June 8. After the NFL alters its earlier plans and says it will expand a year earlier, Commissioner Pete Rozelle dispatches pollster Lou Harris to Atlanta. Harris' poll shows citizenry overwhelmingly favors NFL franchise over the AFL. "We're in the catbird seat," says Stadium Authority official Arthur Montgomery. Rankin M. Smith, 41-year-old executive vice president of Life Insurance Company of Georgia, is awarded an NFL franchise for approximately $8.5 million, June 30. Rights are quickly awarded Smith's franchise by the Stadium Authority. "Five Smiths, Inc.," so named for Smith's five children, is registered as corporate name for the team, Aug. 20. Stockholders are listed as Lindsey Hopkins, Jr., Howard Dobbs, Jr., Cody Laird, Jr., I. M. Sheffield, III, Dorothy Laird Williams, W. Barrett Howell, and M. E. Kilpatrick, Mr. Smith's attorney, Aug. 24. Miss Julia Elliott, Griffin, Ga., school teacher, is notified that her suggested nickname of the "Falcons" has been chosen in a local radio station's contest to name the team, Aug. 29. Florida A&M's Bob Paremore and Gary Barnes of Clemson are the first players signed, Sept. 9. An NFL record for ticket requests by a new team is set when 26,000 mark is reached, Nov. 24. Tommy Nobis, All-America linebacker from the University of Texas, and quarterback Randy Johnson of Texas A&I are co-first round choices, Nov. 27. When the count reaches 45,000, season ticket sales are stopped, Dec. 24.

1966 Norb Hecker, a member of Coach Vince Lombardi's staff at Green Bay, is named head coach, Jan. 26. Hal Herring, John Symank, Tom Fears, George Dickson and Brad Ecklund are hired as assistant coaches. The expansion draft finds the Falcons selecting 42 players, three from each of the 14 established teams, Feb. 15. A YMCA camp near Asheville, N. C., Blue Ridge Assembly, is named site of the Falcons' first training camp, March 26. The long-awaited NFL-AFL merger is announced, June 8. They will play separate schedules until 1970, but meet in championship and preseason games beginning in 1967. Frank E. Wall, a well-known Atlanta accountant, is named vice president and treasurer, June 14. Training camp opens, July 2. Falcons lose 9-7 to Philadelphia in their first preseason game, Aug. 1. Falcons are impressive in their first regular championship season game, a 19-14 loss to Los Angeles. A 53-yard pass from quarterback Randy Johnson to wide receiver Gary Barnes nets Atlanta its first touchdown ever, Sept. 11. Nine games later, Atlanta whips the New York Giants 27-16 for its first of three victories for the season, Nov. 30. The Falcons whip St. Louis, 16-10, for their first Atlanta Stadium victory, Dec. 11.

1967 Frank E. Wall is elevated to the role of general manager, Jan. 31. Falcons trade their No. 1 choice to San Francisco for wide receiver Bernie Casey, ex-University of Georgia tackle Jim Wilson and defensive end Jim Norton on the opening day of the NFL players draft, March 14. Training camp site shifts to Johnson City, Tenn., and the campus of East Tennessee State University, July 18. Falcons keep their owner Rankin Smith dry by beating Miami, 27-17, in second preseason game. Mr. Smith had pledged to jump into the Miami River if his team lost, Aug. 19. Middle linebacker Tommy Nobis returns intercepted pass 41 scoring yards to earn Falcons a big 21-20 upset victory over tough Minnesota, Oct. 30. Nobis is named All-Pro, Atlanta's first player so honored, Dec. 15. Club finishes season with dismal 1-12-1 with 23-14 loss to Chicago, Dec. 17.

1968 Former Washington and Dallas linebacker Tom Braatz is promoted from scout to director of player personnel, Jan. 22. Team emblem is replaced on sleeve of jerseys by stripes, May 13. Norm Van Brocklin is named head coach, replacing Norb Hecker, Oct. 1. Club's 11-game losing streak comes to dramatic end with 24-21 victory over New York Giants. Five regulars are placed on waivers two weeks after Van Brocklin's arrival. They are cornerback Lee Calland, center Joe Cerne, running back Brendan McCarthy, defensive tackle Jim Norton and linebacker Marion Rushing, Nov. 14. Twenty-four hours after final game of season, five assistant coaches are dismissed, Dec. 15.

1969 Van Brocklin begins building his own staff of assistant coaches: Walt Yowarsky, Jan. 3; Bob Griffin, Jan. 9; Marion Campbell, Jan. 22; Duane Putnam, Jan. 23; Fred Bruney, March 28. Falcons win their first seasonal opener, beating San Francisco, 21-7, Sept. 21. Running back Junior Coffey, last of 42 original expansion draftees, is traded to New York Giants for two draft choices, Oct. 29. Atlanta upends Minnesota 10-7, stopping Vikings' 12-game winning streak. Triumph makes Falcons' record 6-8-1, best in club history, Dec. 21.

1970 Frank E. Wall is raised to the rank of team president, Rankin M. Smith to chairman of the board and Van Brocklin adds title of general manager, Jan. 6. Van Brocklin, as head coach, guides West to a 16-13 victory in the Pro Bowl, Jan. 18. Harry Gilmer is added to the coaching staff as an assistant, July 23. Team concludes finest preseason of its history with 20-17 conquest of Miami. Record stands at 4-1, Sept. 12.

1971 For first time in team history, ticket prices are raised. Most seats increase in price from $6 to $7.50, Jan. 3. Billy Ray Barnes joins staff as an assistant coach, Feb. 23. Van Brocklin, who became one of the game's all-time greats during his playing career at Los Angeles and Philadelphia, is elected to Pro Football Hall of Fame, Feb. 4. Furman University in Greenville, S. C., becomes the third home of Falcons' training camp, July 19. Van Brocklin is given a new multi-year contract, Oct. 25. Falcons post first winning season in history (7-6-1) after wide receiver Ken Burrow pulls in winning touchdown pass from quarterback Bob Berry in 24-20 victory over New Orleans, Dec. 19.

1972 Draft rights for Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan of Auburn is obtained as Falcons make four deals involving six veterans. Sullivan is chosen second, behind No. 1 pick Clarence Ellis of Notre Dame, Feb. 1. Sullivan and Ellis sign their contracts at dual ceremony at Atlanta Stadium, April 17. Sullivan is named the most valuable player in Chicago's College All-Star Game despite 20-7 loss to world champion Dallas Cowboys, July 29. Running back Dave Hampton scores two touchdowns and rushes for new club record of 161 yards as the Falcons stop Los Angeles, 31-3, for the club's first victory ever (in 11 games) over the Rams. Fellow running back Art Malone rushes for 103 yards, marking first time in Atlanta's seven-year history that two backs have ever gained 100 yards or more rushing in one game, Oct. 1. Despite having missed five full quarters earlier in the season due to an elbow injury, Hampton picks up 66 yards against Denver to break the existing club record for yards gained in a single season (722), Nov. 26. Three weeks later, Hampton gains enough yardage to go past 1000-yard rushing mark for season, then loses six of it to finish at 995, Dec. 17.

1973 Falcons trade quarterback Bob Berry and a No. 1 draft choice to Minnesota for veterans Bob Lee, a quarterback, and linebacker Lonnie Warwick, May 14. Smashing 35 team records in the process, Falcons soundly defeat New Orleans, 62-7, in the season's opener, Sept. 16. After three back-to-back defeats, Falcons return to their winning ways by defeating Chicago, 46-6. Down 10-0 early in the game, the Falcons rally behind the five field goals of kicking specialist Nick Mike-Mayer to defeat Los Angeles, 15-13, in one of the greatest victories in Atlanta history, Nov. 4. In one of the most dramatic comebacks in the club's history, the Falcons rebound to defeat the previously unbeaten Minnesota Vikings, 20-14, before a capacity Atlanta Stadium crowd and a national television audience, Nov. 11. Atlanta defeats the New York Jets in the rain and mud of Shea Stadium, 28-20, for their seventh straight victory. Falcons defeat New Orleans, 14-10, to end the season with nine victories and five defeats, the club's best record ever, Dec. 16. Needing 87 yards to crack the elusive 1000-Yard Club, Falcon running back Dave Hampton rushes for 84 against New Orleans, finishing three shy—997 yards for the year. Rookie kicking specialist Nick Mike-Mayer, defensive ends Claude Humphrey and John Zook and offensive tackle George Kunz are named to the National Football Conference Pro Bowl team, Dec. 18.

1974 After three straight losses, Falcons beat New York Giants 14-7, for their first victory of the regular championship season, Oct. 6. Kicking specialist Nick Mike-Mayer kicks a 31-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to help Atlanta to 13-10 win over Chicago in the fifth game of 1974, Oct. 13. Van Brocklin is fired as head coach-general manager, Nov. 5. Marion Campbell, since 1969 Atlanta's defensive coordinator, is named head coach, Nov. 6. A record low of 40,202 "no shows" is recorded at Atlanta Stadium as Los Angeles defeats the Falcons, 30-7, in sub-freezing weather, Dec. 1. Rookie quarterback Kim McQuilken, making his second start of the year, leads the Falcons to a season-closing, 10-3 victory over Green Bay. Atlanta fans break their own "no show" record (48,830), Dec. 15.

1975 Marion Campbell is signed to a new contract as head coach of the Falcons in ceremonies at Atlanta Stadium, Jan. 9. Falcons trade veteran offensive tackle George Kunz and a draft choice to Baltimore for the No. 1 pick in the 1975 NFL players draft. Atlanta also got the Colts' sixth round choice, Jan. 27. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski of California, a consensus All-America, is selected by Atlanta as the No. 1 draft choice in the country, Jan. 28. A. Pat Peppler, instrumental in the construction of two Super Bowl championships at Green Bay (1967 and 1968) and Miami (1973 and 1974), is named Falcons general manager, Feb. 26. Running back Dave Hampton finally cracked the elusive 1000-Yard Club, hitting Green Bay for 61 yards in the final game of the year. This pushed to 1002 his total for the season, making him the first back in Falcon history to gain 1000 or-more yards rushing, Dec. 21.

1976 Wide receiver John Gilliam, who played out his option in 1975 at Minnesota, is signed by the Falcons, May 5. First-round draft choice Bubba Bean, a running back from Texas A&M, signs several one-year contracts with the Falcons, May 12.

Game-by-Game Review of 1975

Game No. 1

St. Louis 23, Atlanta 20

Busch Memorial Stadium, 42,172

A last-second St. Louis field goal eclipsed one of the brightest days of Dave Hampton's career and handed Atlanta a 23-20 loss in the opening game of the season. Until the game-winning kick—which came with three seconds remaining—the name of the Falcons running back was No. 1 on the afternoon's marquee. He earned that status by rushing for 135 yards and scoring two touchdowns.

Atlanta 17, San Francisco 3

Candlestick Park, 44,043

Quarterback Steve Bartkowski, who grew up in the Bay Area, returned the conquering hero as he led the Falcons to a 17-3 victory over San Francisco. He threw one touchdown pass, a nine-yarder to tight end Jim Mitchell. Running back Haskel Stanback ran 26 yards for another. Kicking specialist Nick Mike-Mayer ended Atlanta's scoring with a 27-yard field goal.

Los Angeles 22, Atlanta 7

Memorial Coliseum, 64,843

Powerful Los Angeles, en route to the playoffs once again, limited Atlanta to just 63 yards rushing in recording a 22-7 victory. Tight end Jim Mitchell and wide receiver Al Jenkins starred nonetheless for the Falcons, catching four passes each for 65 and 37 yards, respectively. Mitchell had the TD, a five-yard reception from reserve quarterback Pat Sullivan.

Cincinnati 21, Atlanta 14

Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, 45,811

Close didn't count for the Falcons this time either. Cincinnati came from behind in the closing minutes to claim a 21-14 victory. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski sustained an elbow injury in the game, just after launching a 17-yard scoring pass to tight end Jim Mitchell. The youngster was to be sidelined for the next three weeks.

New Orleans 23, Atlanta 7

The Superdome, 49,342

New Orleans intercepted three Atlanta passes and recovered three fumbles in a 23-7 victory over the sluggish Falcons. Statistically speaking, only reserve quarterback Pat Sullivan, wide receiver Al Jenkins and tight end Jim Mitchell had "good days." Sullivan completed eight passes for 144 yards and one TD; Jenkins caught four passes for 102 yards, and Mitchell had three receptions for 47.

Oakland 37, Atlanta 34

Oakland-Alameda Co. Coliseum, 50,860

In one of the most dramatic games in the 10-year history of the Falcons, Oakland's George Blanda kicked a 36-yard field goal with two seconds remaining in overtime to beat Atlanta, 37-34. Wide receiver Al Jenkins, for his second time in as many weeks, had a 100-yard-plus afternoon (106) in receptions (4).

Washington 30, Atlanta 27

Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, 52,809

Fate, once again, slammed its door on the Falcons in the closing moments. This time, it resulted in a 30-27 Washington victory before the biggest crowd of the season (52,809) at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski had a brilliant afternoon, hitting 14 of 26 passes for 281 yards and three touchdowns.

Green Bay 22, Atlanta 13

Lambeau Field, 56,267

"It" finally happened for running back Dave Hampton. At last, he was able to gain membership in the elusive 1000-Yard Club. His 61 in a 22-13 losing effort to Green Bay pushed him to 1002 yards gained for the season. He also scored one touchdown in the game, going off tackle from one yard out in the first quarter.

FLY DELTA, ATLANTA'S NO.1 AIRLINE.

We've got seats for over 32,000 people on jets taking off from Atlanta every day. More seats than any other airline.

And we've got twice as many employees in Atlanta as any other airline. And more people fly Delta from Atlanta than any other airline going.

The Falcons are flying Atlanta's No.1 airline on their road trips in 1976. Delta is the official airline of the Atlanta Falcons again this season.

Next trip, make Delta your official airline. For reservations, call Delta at 349-3100 or see your Travel Agent. DELTA
The airline run by professionals
