RED GUN

DROPPING THE BOMB

The Falcons were one of the NFL's most explosive, quick-striking teams and have dropped 58 bombs of 30 or more yards on opponents under Jerry Glanville's tenure.

The prime missile in the arsenal turned out to be WR Michael Haynes with a dozen plays in '91 that covered 30-plus yards as his average yardage for his 11 TD's was 44.9 yards per play.

LIGHTING UP THE SCOREBOARD

The Falcons scored 361 points in '91 (over 22 per game), their most since back in 1983 (370). These '91 birds finished 5th overall in the NFL in scoring, using the Red Gun offense.

BLACK WAVE

THE "D"

The defense, known as the "Black Wave", is a swarming, ball-hawking unit that specializes in taking the ball away from opponents. Those 35 take-aways last year (better than two per game) also resulted in four touchdowns by the defense, making them one of the best at that in the NFL. When teams try to pass against the Falcons, the NFL's top pair of corners, Deion Sanders and Tim McKyer, are there to slow down any progress. The Falcons were third best in lowest completion percentage allowed last year as Sanders and McKyer each shared the NFC lead with six interceptions each. When teams try to run against the Falcons, it becomes "Hammer Time" as the NFL's leading tackler for two consecutive seasons, Jessie Tuggle, is there in the middle to deliver the hits.

ATLANTA FALCONS

HIT THE BEACH

EXTRA-SPECIAL, SPECIAL TEAMS — Once again, Atlanta had one of the NFL's best overall, special teams. Here are some of their '91 accomplishments:

- Blocked seven total kicks (three punts, two FG, two PAT)
- Tackled one punter for loss and deflected one punt 14 yds
- Recovered three fumbles on returns, including one taken in for a touchdown
- Scored on 100-yard kickoff return
- Set club mark for FG accuracy and had 15 consecutive streak
- Executed game-winning OT field goal at New Orleans
- Executed every FG attempt inside 45 yards perfectly
- Had 22 punts downed inside the 20-yard line (7th NFL)
- Allowed opponents to make only 13-26 FG's (50%), best in NFL

TICKET TALK

HOTTEST TICKET IN TOWN

With an exciting Playoff caliber team and a brand new home, ticket sales for the Falcons in '92 set records. The birds sold 16,000 new season tickets (through the end of June) in the offseason to break the old mark of 11,338 after the 1980 NFC West Championship season. Ticket sales were brisk for the 10-6 Falcons as the club sold at a rate of over 500 new tickets per week. Factoring in an approximate 8,000 already sold by the Georgia Dome for Suite and Club seating, that takes the total to the 57,000 level. The Falcons were hoping to reach the 60,000 level, a feat accomplished by only five pro sports teams in 1991.

Rankin
SMITH
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

Personal

Rankin McEachern Smith is proud to be called a native Atlantan. Born on Oct. 29, 1924, he received his middle name from his grandfather, John Newton McEachern, the co-founder of the Life Insurance Company of Georgia. The former Charlotte Lilliard Topping is Mr. Smith's wife. He has a large family which includes five children and numerous grandchildren. His five children include: Rankin M. Jr., Carroll Christine (Mrs. Donald Walraven), Dorothy Ann (Mrs. John O. Knox), Taylor W. and Nancy Karen. The Smiths reside in the northwest section of Atlanta and also have other domiciles in Thomasville (Plantation) and in Vero Beach, FLA (condominium).

Education

Mr. Smith went through the school system at North Fulton High and Marist in Atlanta and also spent time at Jacksonville's Bolles School. His experiences in Jacksonville included a spot on the football team. After his prep years, he attended Emory University for a year but was called to serve his country as a combat pilot in the Army Air Corps from 1943-46. When his tour of duty was over, Mr. Smith proceeded to continue his education at the University of Georgia, as he roomed with Governor to-be Carl Sanders.

Business

The hard-working Smith learned the ropes of the insurance business from the ground up as his new career began as a summer clerk in 1943. He earned the title of agent at Life of Georgia in Hot Springs, Arkansas in 1947. He moved back to Atlanta to assume the role of assistant manager in '49. Rankin was elected President and Chief Executive Officer of the company in 1970 and was named Chairman of the Board in 1975. He retired from his duties in 1977.

Sports

One of Mr. Smith's proudest moments will come this season with the opening of the Falcons new home at the state-of-the-art Georgia Dome. His other shining moment will come two years later when he welcomes Super Bowl XXVIII to the south in January of 1994. Mr. Smith was the key player in ensuring Atlanta's bid as he received overwhelming support from his fellow owners for his loyalty and years of service. "It's a victory for Rankin and the city of Atlanta," said Browns owner Art Modell. "He's been a great owner and a good league member," said Wellington Mara of the Giants.

Mr. Smith received his indoctrination into the sports world by serving with Major Sports, Inc. The group's first project was to lure a pro baseball team to the city. When the Braves hit town, the group eventually became the Stadium Authority, which would be responsible for building Fulton County Stadium. When the AFL granted a pro football franchise to J. Leonard Reinsch of Cox Broadcasting on June 8, 1965, Mr. Smith decided to put in a bid for an NFL franchise. His winning bid of $8.5 million on June 30, outdistanced the likes of R.J. Reynolds Co. and Lindsey Hopkins, and put an end to the AFL's attempt to invade the south.

In his club's initial season in '66, Smith's new team tied an NFL record for victories by an expansion team with three, and set an NFL mark for season ticket sales by a first-year club. In 1991, his team earned the fourth Playoff berth in their history (1978, 1980, 1982) with the second-most wins in team annals (11) and have captured an NFC Western Division championship (in 1980). His model year-round training facility in Suwanee, GA., and the opening of the gorgeous Georgia Dome underscore his commitment to providing a first-class atmosphere for the 'New South.'

The well-respected Smith was a natural selection by Commissioner Tagliabue to be a member of the powerful Expansion Committee, which will suggest sites for the NFL's first expansion since 1976. Mr. Smith has also helped to oversee the Management Council for six seasons along with the likes of Vince Lombardi, Jim Finks and Art Modell. He has also served as the co-Chairman of the Pension Committee (seven years), on the Finance Committee (eight years), and as a member of the Coaches/Front Office Pension Committee. This will be his 27th season as sole owner of the Falcons, ranking him in the top ten in seniority among all the League's owners.

Community

Rankin has been very generous in his support of the Georgia community over the years. One of his main pet projects for the last three years is the building of the Fernbank Museum of Natural History. He is the Chairman of the Board of the $42.8 million project which will open this October. The 150,000 square foot facility will attract world class exhibits as it will be the only one of its kind in this section of the U.S. This "Dome," featuring an 85-foot atrium with cut glass panels and Victorian steel beams, is another proud project for Mr. Smith.

Throughout the years he has pledged over $7 million to charitable organizations in the southeast. To better service the needy children in the state, he created the Atlanta Falcons Youth Foundation in 1985, and it has aided over 100 area charities. His community endeavors have included being on the board of the Area Boy Scouts Council, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, and the Fernbank Science Center. He is an active member of the board of trustees at Georgia, Reinhardt College and Lovett School. His community responsibilities have also entailed serving on the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Georgia Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, and Central Atlanta Progress.

He moved on to public relations, spent a stint in the ticket office, and then sold suites and boxes at Fulton County Stadium. In 1982, he was named Corporate Secretary which included coordinating team travel, among other responsibilities. Taylor assumed the duties of Executive-Vice President in '86 before being elevated to his current post on May 3, 1990. His resume includes running the day-to-day football operations of the club as well as being involved in the negotiation of player contracts. Taylor was recently appointed to the NFL's seven-person steering committee that is devising a program for League players who are interested in completing their college degrees. He is also the club's liaison with the League office and has attended every Falcon training camp since '66.

Community

He helped the city of Atlanta attract the '94 Super Bowl (XXVIII) with the construction of the beautiful new Georgia Dome. He serves as an administrator of funds for charity for the Falcons Youth Foundation and is a board member of the St. Ives Country Club.

Jim
HAY
and CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Personal

The 56-year old Hay was born in Eagleville, TN on Nov. 6, 1935. He hails from a family of four sisters (one is a doctor) and one brother (college professor). Jim and his wife, Mollie, have three children, Micki, Christie, and Jimmy, Jr.

Education

He received his undergraduate degree in Economics and Accounting from Utah State and completed the necessary requirements for his law degree from nearby Emory University in 1972. He served his country in the U.S. Navy from 1953-57.

Sports Background

A catcher in the Atlanta Braves minor league organization for eight years, Jim was once a battery mate of Phil Niekro. With the Atlanta Crackers, he was a four-time all-star who had a pair of MVP seasons (.307, 16 HR, 95 RBI in Boise and .270, 15 HR, 80 RBI in Panama City). Some other well-known teammates included Rico Carty, Tommy Aaron, and Paul Snyder. After baseball, he worked for the Stadium Authority (1965-78) before moving to the Falcons front office in 1978. His first job with the club was overseeing the building of the Falcons year-long training complex in Suwanee as Director of Physical Properties. Thanks to Hay's influence, the complex is considered one of the finest in the League, as it has been used as a model for subsequent NFL sites. He was promoted to Vice President and Chief Financial Officer in 1980 and among his many duties is the negotiation of player contracts. Jim has also served as club's liaison during the construction of the Georgia Dome over the last two years.

Ken
HEROCK
OF PLAYER PERSONNEL

Personal

Ken completed his fifth draft for the Falcons in April and third as Vice President of Player Personnel. He was born on July 16, 1941 in Munhall, Pa. When he's not on the road scouting, he and his wife, Barry, reside in Duluth, Ga. They have two sons, Kenny, and Shaun, a junior tackle for the Richmond football Spiders.

College

Herock acquired his Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education in four years while playing football for the Mountaineers of West Virginia. He was an all-conference selection at both tight end and linebacker.

Football Background

The 51-year old's background in football is immense. He began his long career by making the Raiders roster in 1963. He quickly worked himself into the club's starting tight end for then Coach Al Davis. Ken played five seasons as a member of the Silver and Black of Oakland (63-67), including seeing action in Super Bowl II vs. Packers, and played alongside such Hall of Famers as Art Shell, George Blanda, Jim Otto, Fred Biletnikoff and Willie Brown. His former battery mate is current Seattle head coach and ex-Raider QB Tom Flores. He went on to become the first tight end in the history of the Cincinnati Bengals in 1968. His last year in the pro's was spent with the Boston Patriots in 1969. Herock returned to the Raiders as a scout in '70 before hitting the field as the club's special teams coach. He moved back into scouting and was named the Director of Player Personnel in '75. The expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers sought out Herock to start their scouting department in 1976. He built the Buccaneers into a Playoff caliber team that advanced to the 1979 NFC Championship game around the likes of Doug Williams, Hugh Green, James Wilder, and Lee Roy and Dewey Selmon. After a two-year return to the Raiders, he was named the Falcons Director of College Personnel in May of '87. By moving up in the '92 draft to acquire T Bob Whitfield, Ken pulled off his fourth straight draft day deal. When he hired Jerry Glanville and the Falcons changed to the Red Gun offense, he applied his talents to acquire the players to fit the system. He traded for Andre Rison, who has been selected to two straight Pro Bowl's, and 7-time Pro Bowl lineman Chris Hinton. He drafted All-NFL Rookie Mike Pritchard and signed veteran Drew Hill off Plan B, teaming them with 1,000-yard receiver Michael Haynes (a 7th round Herock pick) and speedster George Thomas (a Herock 6th rounder). In addition, he picked the type of running back suitable for the Red Gun with the selection of Steve Broussard and Erric Pegram, while obtaining another potential bullet this year in draftee Tony Smith. When they needed another top flight cornerback to make the defense better he traded for Tim McKyer in '91 to pair up with Deion Sanders, an '89 Herock choice.

Herock was appointed by Commissioner Tagliabue to the NFL's College Relations Committee to strengthen the relationship between the colleges and pro's. He was the forerunner of the first college Combine workouts in Tampa.

CHUCK CONNOR
Director of Pro Personnel

Stone Mountain, Georgia native, Chuck Connor enters his fourth season in the Falcons starting lineup as Director of Pro Personnel. Chuck labored 11 years as the Director of Player Personnel for Don Shula with the Dolphins before being acquired by the birds. Some of his chores include player tryouts, grading League players, and the assessment of Plan B free agents. Connor has working knowledge of NFL players through his draft gradings over the years with Miami. He's also had scouting experience at BLESTO.

ELBERT DUBENION
Scout

Elbert was known as "Golden Wheels" during his playing days for the Buffalo Bills and since his career ended has traveled around the country scouting college talent for over two decades. He began his pro football career as a scout for the Bills (1968) and he moved onto the Dolphins (1979). Dubenion was promoted to Assistant Director of Player Personnel for Miami in 1984. During his playing days, he set Buffalo records for catches (296), touchdowns (35), and yards (5309), earning a spot on the Bills' Silver Anniversary All-Time team. Elbert hails from Griffin, Ga., and has been a member of Herock's scout team since 1987.

DANNY MOCK
Administrative Assistant

A resident of Duluth, Ga., Danny has been serving as Administrative Assistant for Ken Herock since '87. His various duties range from logging daily NFL transactions to filing scouting reports on the computer. Mock is the organization's liaison with pro personnel and the coaching staff and he's also responsible for keeping up with the hectic travel schedules of Herock and the scouts. Danny has been a Falcons staffer since 1980. He worked with Tom Atcheson in the film department in 1983 and earned the title of Assistant Video Director in 1985. He and his wife, Holly, have a two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth.

BILL GROMAN
Scout

A product of Houston, Texas, Bill signed on with the Falcons personnel department in 1987 with the addition of Ken Herock. Groman and Herock worked together to build the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (78-82) into a perennial Playoff team. His other scouting stops have included Buffalo, San Diego, Cincinnati and Houston. Bill received his seasoning at the pro level as a prolific wide out for the Oilers. Groman's name is still in the record books for most consecutive 100-yard games (7) and rookie receiving yardage (1,473). The two-time All-Pro caught passes from Hall of Famer George Blanda and was in charge of the Player Personnel department of the USFL's Houston Gamblers in 1977.

BILL BAKER

Dick served stints as the Packers Director of Player Personnel and Director of Pro Personnel before moving on to the AFC. The 30-year-old boasts a 1980 National Championship ring from his playing days as a reserve offensive lineman at Georgia. He was a part of three SEC championship teams and also was a graduate assistant at Auburn.

Falcon quarterback Chris Miller passed his way to second in NFL history for most pass attempts in one game. On December 24, 1989, Chris attempted 66 passes against the Detroit Lions with 23 of those passes coming in the fourth quarter in the Falcons season finale. The North Georgia graduate became a member of the Falcons family in 1985.

During that span, the native Atlantan has only missed two Falcon games. Horace is the father of two, Kim and Ken, and is also a grandfather.

TOM ATCHESON
Video Director

Tom has the task of videoing every Falcon practice and game and editing the tape for coaches and players to view in preparation for the next week's contest. "Atch" has been fulfilling that role for the club since '79. When the Falcons moved into their new year-round complex in Suwanee in '78, he was in charge of the conversion from film to video. Controller

An Atlanta product from Henry Grady High School, Wallace joined the pro ranks in '87 after a time as an associate analyst for Federal Express. Jerry GLANVILLE

HEAD COACH

NFL observers shouldn't have been surprised that Jerry Glanville turned the Falcons into a Playoff caliber team in only his second season in Atlanta in 1991. He followed the same blueprint for success in his second year in Houston. After the Oilers suffered through six straight losing campaigns, he guided them to the post season for three consecutive years (one of only four teams to advance to the Playoffs all three seasons). Glanville is one of only three NFL head coaches to have taken teams to the Playoffs in four of the last five seasons.

The bird's 11 victories last year were the second most ever in club history to the 12 wins accomplished in 1980 (with Glanville as Defensive Coordinator). The Falcons shook up the NFC West by sweeping the 49ers (first time a team captured two NFC West games from them since 1980) & Rams and splitting with the Saints. After an 0-2 start, Atlanta won 10 of their next 14 games, including five victories in-a-row, to come within one triumph of claiming the Division crown.

Glanville stresses to his troops the importance of winning division games on the road and he saw tangible results in '91 as his club won at every opponents site. In the third game of the year at San Diego, Atlanta broke their 19 game road losing streak and went on to capture three more wins away from home. Glanville's crew set the tempo at home as they posted a 6-2 home mark, the best since the 6-2 slate of '80, to total an 11-5 combined record over two seasons.

Besides showing improvement in the win column, Glanville's physical team has continued to progress in other statistical categories.

- The Red Gun offense was the 5th highest scoring team in the League and finished 8th overall in Total Offense and 6th in Passing Offense in '91.
- The "Black Wave" defense continued its aggressive play which resulted in the unit allowing teams only to complete 52.4% of their pass attempts, 3rd best in the NFL.
- His Special Teams were again one of the most "special" units in the NFL, whether it was blocking kicks, forcing fumbles, creating havoc, or returning kicks for TD's.

The colorful coach made a name for himself as secondary coach and later as the Defensive Coordinator for the Falcons successful defenses from 1977-82. Some of his defenses are still in the club record book for such things as fewest yards allowed in a season, fewest rushing yards and fewest passing yards. His '77 unit boasted the fewest points allowed in an NFL season with 129 in 14 games. He was part of the staff that claimed the NFC West crown in 1980 and has been on all four Falcon Playoff teams (1978, 1980, 1982, 1991).

OFF THE FIELD INTERESTS

Community

One of the most active people in all of Atlanta. He visits children hospitals weekly, keeping a bulletin board with lots of their photos in his office. He's organized a pair of charity concerts on his own called "Heroes of the Heart" and is always at the annual Sports Carnival signing autographs. This year, he's been involved with the March of Dimes fund raiser, the Leukemia Breakfast of Champions, the Aids Walk of Life, the "Challenge of Excellence" for Boys and Girls Clubs, the Douglas County cultural arts, the Carolinas Athlete of the Year, and the Georgia North-South HS all-star game. His "Sober Choices" program hits home to high school students, especially around prom time, as he himself chooses not to drink alcohol. No one in Atlanta is surprised to turn around and see him, whether it's at the Governor's Mansion, the State Capitol, the country and western clubs, concerts, baseball games, church, race tracks, restaurants, or waving to them at a stop light. The man is out and about, the man is friendly.

Racing

Racing is his third love, after football and his family, because "I don't hunt, fish or play golf." He spent his spare time in the '91 offseason qualifying for the Busch Grand National NASCAR races at Lanier (Ga.) Raceway, Charlotte Motor Speedway, Rougemont (N.C.), Myrtle Beach, and Daytona. He was seen on the speedways in his black car, black driving suit and black helmet with Falcons bird on side. He's hit 175 mph on the super speedways, he's crashed into a wall at 130, he's serious at his schools, and he's quite serious about the tracks.

Cars/Motorcycles

He owns two restored, black 1950 Mercury two-door coupes (with 350 Corvette engines) and a 1940 Ford (Corvette ZZ-1 engine). He's currently driving in his black Chevy Super Sport pick-up truck with the 454 engine (the biggest one they make, he says). He also owns a Harley Davidson Low Rider that he drag races.

Music

An avid country music fan, he loves to attend concerts. He keeps in touch with Kris Kristofferson, Travis Tritt, Jerry Jeff Walker and John Cougar Mellencamp, Hank Williams, Jr., Doug Stone, and Diamond Rio, among a growing list of others. Video-wise, he may be the only one in America to be in both a rap video (Hammer's Too Legit To Quit) and a country western video (Confederate Railroad's She Took It Like A Man).

Not Forgotten

It started in 1988 at a Houston Oilers preseason game in Memphis, TN, when he toured Graceland and decided to leave tickets for "the King" at that night's game. Ever since, he's been known for that gesture. Of course, when his office has a collection of Elvis memorabilia from sunglasses, to a bust, to license plates, to a Georgia Dome hard hat, he's kept Elvis alive. A James Dean fan, as well, Glanville has a life-size cut out in his office, sunglasses, photos of his famous Porsche, et al, "the Rebel" lives on, too.

DOUG SHIVELY

Assistant Head Coach/Defense

Doug's defense boasted the third lowest completion % in the League last year at 52.4%. The linebacker coach saw one of his pupils, Jessie Tuggle, lead the NFL in tackles for the second straight season. Shively has experienced every Falcon Playoff game in team history as he enjoyed his fourth appearance in the post season with the birds in '91. In addition, the Kentucky product has been on the Playoff coaching sidelines four out of last five seasons. He was part of Falcons staff (1977-82) that formed the "Gritz Blitz" defense, establishing an NFL record for fewest points allowed in a season (14 games - 129 pts). Doug was a member of Atlanta's 1980 NFC West champs and has coached at Houston, Tampa Bay, and San Diego. He was the head coach of the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL.

JUNE JONES

Assistant Head Coach/Offense

June coached his second Pro Bowl QB in Chris Miller last year as his input allowed the Falcons Red Gun offense to continue to soar to new heights. With his influence, the birds finished 5th in Points Scored, 6th in Passing Offense, 8th in Total Offense, and 5th in Passing TD's. The Portland, Oregon product put on a Falcons uniform from 1977-81 (166-75-923-3 TD-7 INT) as a back-up signal-caller to Steve Bartkowski. As a senior at Portland State, he threw for 3,518 yards, with 25 TD's, for a run and shoot offense under Mouse Davis. He has held other NFL coaching stints with the Oilers (1987-88) and Lions (1989-90). In Houston, he and Glanville devised the four wide receiver "Red Gun" attack. June has helped teams to a Grey Cup (in CFL), a Division title in the USFL with QB Jim Kelly, and Playoff berths in both conferences.

JIMMY ROBINSON

Wide Receivers

Jimmy's second season tutoring the club's wide outs included another Pro Bowl year for Andre Rison and 5, 100-yard receiving games and a League-best 22.4 average for Michael Haynes. Robinson's Rison/Haynes duo totaled an NFL-high 23 TD's as the passing offense was 6th highest on League charts in '91. The ex-Georgia Tech standout was with the Yellowjackets of Bobby Ross for three seasons prior to making the move down I-85 north to Suwanee. He played for three teams in the League, the Giants, 49ers and Broncos, besides a stint with the '75 Falcons, in a seven-year career. The Atlanta native is a member of Tech's Hall of Fame. His other pro coaching stop was with Pepper Rodgers with the USFL's Memphis Showboats.

OLLIE WILSON

Running Backs

Ollie enters his second year with the club and his first season helping to mold a #1 draft pick in Tony Smith. The Falcons running attack featured 2, 100-yard games a year ago under the direction of Wilson, including a 4.1 yards per carry average, 5th-highest in the conference. He was familiar with the club's system when he was hired in 1991 because he served a stint in training camps in Houston and Atlanta with Glanville as part of the NFL's minority fellowship program. Ollie coached eight seasons with the Golden Bears of Cal-Berkeley, teaching the school's RB's, WR's, and DB's, in his time on the west coast. The Springfield College graduate has also spent time on the campus of Northeastern and once coordinated the affairs of the Black Coaches Association.

KEITH ROWEN
Offensive Line

In Keith's first year as offensive line coach, the birds showed added improvement. The front line fortress posted the fewest sacks per pass attempt (31 in 531) in club history, one for every 17 pass plays. His line blocked for a running game that averaged 4.1 yards per carry, 5th best in NFC, 8th best NFL. Rowen, an ex-Stanford lineman, will work with another fellow Cardinal player in 1st rounder Bob Whitfield. Besides his experiences as a player, Keith labored with the Colts line (1985-88), including work with Pro Bowler Chris Hinton. He moved over to the line after serving as Falcons special teams coach in '90. His stopovers in the League outside of Indy include New England (special teams in '89) and Cleveland (running backs in '84).

JIMMY CARR
Secondary

Jimmy coached yet another player to the Pro Bowl last year in Deion Sanders as the Falcons CB pair of Sanders and McKyer combined for a League-high 12 interceptions. The secondary also helped the birds hold opponents to only a 52.4% completion percentage, third-best in the League in '91, and held eight opponents under 200-yards passing. Carr is a veteran of over three decades in the NFL, counting his tenure as a coach and player. Before heading to Atlanta, he was on the staff of the New England Patriots (1985-89). "Gummy's" NFL experience on the sidelines spans six teams: Vikings (1966-68, 1979-81), Bears (1973-74), Eagles (1970-72), Lions (1975-76), Bills (1977), and Niners (1978). His playing career included three teams, with a World Championship coming with the Eagles in 1960.

BILL KOLLAR
Defensive Line

Bill is a three year NFL veteran of the Falcons coaching staff. He tutored the defensive ends and special teams at both Illinois and Purdue before signing with the birds. His line helped the Falcons lead the League in rush defense (3.3) in '90 and his unit led the charge up front by not allowing a rushing TD in seven games in '91 (and in 13 of 16 games, they allowed one or no rushing scores). He has coached a player to All-NFL rookie status two straight years (Tory Epps and Moe Gardner) as he saw Gardner earn Defensive Rookie of the Year honors. Kollar was the first player out of the Big Sky conference to go in the 1st round of an NFL draft in 1974 when he was chosen by the Bengals. He logged time in 109 games, including five seasons in Tampa Bay.

Playoff Format Expanded

The NFL owners voted to expand the number of teams making post season play from ten teams to twelve teams in 1990. Both leagues (AFC and NFC) will be afforded an additional wild card team. As it stands with the additions, there will be the three divisional winners and the three wild card teams representing each league. Under the new format, in post season play, there will be eight teams, with four games being played in the first week of playoff action. The top two rated wild card teams will square off in one game, while the remaining wild card team (with the worst record) will play the divisional team that has the fewest wins.

TIM JORGENSEN
Strength and Conditioning

Tim journeys into his ninth campaign in the NFL and sixth season in Atlanta. Jorgensen's first taste of pro ball came when he earned the Eagles job as the club's initial Strength and Conditioning coach in 1984. The native of St. Louis, MO oversees the team's physical development program. He supervised the Falcons "Operation Headstart" conditioning work for the third off-season. A featured instructor at seminars and clinics in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, Tim preaches about proper training techniques. After a stellar playing career as an offensive lineman at Southwest Missouri State, he worked on the staff at his alma mater and later at Alabama, before becoming the Strength Coordinator at LSU.

BOBBY APRIL
Special Teams/Tight Ends

April's enthusiasm was evident in his first season on the job in the pro's. The results of the club's special units were also very evident. In 1991, Bobby's unit: blocked seven total kicks (three punts, two FG, two PAT), tackled a punter for loss and deflected another punt, forced four fumbles on returns, scored on a 100-yard kickoff return, set club mark for FG accuracy, booted 15 straight FG's, executed game winning OT FG and every attempt inside 45 yards, had 22 punts inside the 20, while allowing opponents to make good on only 50% of their FG's (13-26). Bobby made the jump to the pro's after stopovers at Southern Cal ('87-90), Arizona ('80-'86) and Tulane ('79) under Larry Smith. As a player, the defensive end/linebacker performed at Nicholls State.

FALCON TRAINING COMPLEX

The Falcons year-round home is this first-class Complex located off I-85 in Suwanee, GA. Completed in August of 1978, this facility provides all the needs for the players, coaches, & administrative personnel. This will be the 15th season for the Falcons here, with Training Camp operating here for a 14th consecutive year.

Included in the spacious 28,060 square-foot, two-story, red-brick building are the locker-room facilities, a training and rehabilitation room, a renovated weight room, the equipment room, player meeting rooms, coaches offices, scouting room, film/video library and all the club's administrative offices (except ticket office). There are six and a half acres of land available for practice fields. The lake out front of the Complex is used to recirculate water for the fields.

Construction began (more than 150,000 cubic yards of dirt were moved) on April 3, 1978, and was completed less than five months later. The club's administrative offices had been housed at the Atlanta Fulton County Stadium with summer camps in Greenville, S.C. (Furman University campus). This facility in growing Gwinnett County is approximately 30 miles northeast of downtown Atlanta, off Exit 44 of I-85.

Adjacent to the practice facility are the Falcon Inn (a Best Western chain) and Conference Center and The Complex Club. The 104-room motel houses the players and provides the meals during camps and is also open to the public. The Complex Club is a health and racquetball facility available for player use and is a public-member club.

Oliver
BARNETT

72

Last Season

Barnett continued to improve in his second season in the League as he set a career-best with 44 tackles while playing in 15 games with a pair of starts. His 75-yard fumble return off a forced fumble from Moe Gardner on QB Jeff Carlson of the Buccaneers in Week 12 made the highlight reels and was the second longest in club history. He also added a sack of Carlson to complete his day. Oliver's top tackle games were 7 stops each versus the 49ers (Week 10), Saints (Week 5), and Redskins (Week 11). He also chipped in with four tackles each in victories over the Raiders and Rams (Week 9). In the May '92 Mini-Camp, Oliver was moved over to work with the Falcons offensive line.

Pro Career

Oliver has performed on the Falcons' defensive line in all but two games over the last two seasons. He put his name in the club record book for his 75-yard fumble return for a touchdown, second only to Bob Glazebrook's 91-yarder against the Giants in 1982. He set his personal-best for tackles in a game three times last year with seven apiece. In 1990, young Barnett started a game while playing in 15 contests. He spelled Mike Gann at Cleveland who left with an injury and had a career-high four solo tackles and a batted ball.

College

Oliver set a school record with 26 QB sacks at Kentucky and finished with 271 tackles, 43 behind the line of scrimmage. He started 33 straight games as a Wildcat (every one since 1987) and was an All-SEC choice and second team AP All-America as a senior, where he totaled 86 tackles, seven sacks, and 14 tackles for a minus 50 yards in losses. He was named SEC Defensive Player of the Week for his 12 solo tackles, 3 sacks, and a forced fumble in a win over Vanderbilt. His best sack season came as a junior when he got to the quarterback at least one time in six consecutive games and nine times overall.

Notebook

Oliver didn't participate in football until his junior year at Jefferson (KY) High because he suffered a head injury when he was young and his mother kept him on the sidelines. When he convinced his mother, Hattie, that it was safe to get back on the field, Barnett's career took off. He led his team as a senior with 56 tackles and 13 sacks en route to garnering All-State and All-District honors. "Ollie" has collected comic books as a hobby ever since the age of 12. His collection includes the likes of Thor, Spiderman, Batman, Daredevil, Captain America and Incredible Hulk. His 1972 Daredevil book is a personal favorite along with an old Spiderman version that is worth $60 on the comic book market. An avid weight lifter, he broke every school record for lifting at Kentucky, including the bench press (420 lbs.), squat (850 lbs.), clean jerk (385 lbs.), and combined lifting (1,655 lbs.).

Personal

Oliver Wesly was a spring time baby born to Sam and Hattie Mack in Louisville. His early athletic endeavors were confined to only the hardwood in that basketball-crazed part of the country. He is just nine hours short of receiving his degree in social work and studies at nearby Georgia State in the offseason. His other hobby is playing chess and his favorite movie is "The Untouchables." He and his wife, Mary, reside in Alpharetta, Georgia.

Steve BROUSSARD
RUNNING BACK

34

Last Season

Steve was the Falcons' leader in three categories: rushing yards with 449, average at 4.5, and rushing TD's with 4. The compact runner rushed for 100 yards twice in victories at San Diego (20-101) and at San Francisco (10-104). The 101 yards against the Chargers was his first 100-yard rushing day of his career. His best day as a pro came in the 49er victory as he rambled for all of his career-best 104 yards in the crucial fourth quarter. He gained three first downs out of his 10 carries, including longs of 36 and 23 yards, respectively, to help the birds run out the clock and secure the upset. His sophomore season also included his first two touchdown outings at the Rams. Broussard's season ended prematurely as he fractured his right fibula against Seattle in Week 16 and was lost for the year.

Pro Career

Broussard is a club record holder by virtue of his 10.4 rushing average against the 49ers in Week 7. All of his 104 yards and 10 carries came in the 4th quarter of that game as the birds attempted to run out the clock. He has battled through a number of nagging injuries in his short career, but still has suited up for 27 out of 32 regular season games so far.

Year-by-Year

1990: As a rookie, Steve was second on the team with 454 yards. He also carried a 3.6 average per rush, while scoring four TD's, and hauled in 24 passes for 160 more yards. His best game came in front of a nationally televised audience against the Bengals when he turned a sweep into a 50-yard TD (10th longest in team history). He was banged up the second half of the season with hamstring, ankle and knee problems, after starting the initial eight games to begin the season. Broussard's other top rookie outings came against the Lions (88 rushing yards) and Rams (55 yards, four catches). He started out of the gate quickly with a 71-yard TD versus the Packers in the preseason.

Notebook

Broussard became the first Falcons' runner to line up in the backfield in his first pro start in '90 since former Falcon great William Andrews back in 1979. His first day on the job also was capped off when he scored on a six-yard run. Steve was the first running back chosen by the Falcons in the first round since Gerald Riggs in 1982. The birds obtained the pick as part of a trade that ironically sent Riggs to the Redskins in 1989.

College

Steve amassed 3,044 rushing yards at the Pullman, WA school, which was second only to the ex-Saints RB Rueben Mayes. He broke Mayes' school record with 41 lifetime TD's, 33 on the ground, and reeled off long runs of 81, 71, and 59 yards, while also catching longs of 79t, 77, 66, 48 and 46t yards. The shifty runner racked up personal bests of 205, 199, and 153 rushing days and had six straight 100-yard plus outings as a senior. Broussard also hauled in 120 passes for 1,179 yards, leading the PAC-10 as a sophomore with 59 catches and scored on 98 yard KOR. Only he and Ahmad Rashad ever won both conference rushing and receiving titles.

Personal

Broussard grew up in south-central Los Angeles and wanted to distance himself from his rough surroundings, so he took to the hills of Washington State. USC was disappointed he didn't become a Trojan since the campus was only two blocks from his home. He paced Manual Arts High School to the LA city championship at the AAA level as a senior, playing halfback and linebacker, while earning three varsity letters under coach Jeff Engleman. He was named to the All-State team for his exploits as a runner. Steve used his blazing speed (4.49 in 40) as a member of the track team and captured the city title in the 100 meters as a junior. He was born to Worley and Jennette Broussard in Los Angeles and has one sister. He and his wife, Monique, welcomed their first child, Talin Caprece, on March 15.

Rick

77

Last Season

Veteran Rick moved into the starting lineup in Week 5 against the Saints when Mike Gann was lost for the season and quietly had a career year. Bryan had a personal-best 137 tackles, with 3 QB sacks, 31 QB pressures and 2 forced fumbles, while playing in all 16 games, with 12 starts. His top game was on national television in the overtime victory over the Saints when he recorded 15 tackles and 5 QB pressures. In a game filled with big plays, Rick also forced RB Fred McAfee to fumble on his own 15-yard line with two minutes left in regulation and Tory Epps recovered as the Falcons went on to tie the score to force OT. He collected 12 stops at Dallas and 11 vs. Raiders, 49ers (plus a sack and 4 pressures), Packers (3 pressures) and in the playoffs at Washington. In addition, he had a 10 tackle day against the Niners and 9 stops each versus the Saints and Redskins. It was his final blow which knocked Seattle QB Kelly Stouffer out of the game, forcing a safety on the ninth play of the game in Week 16. He chipped in on special teams with a blocked extra point vs. the Vikings and a blocked field goal vs. Cardinals.

Pro Career

Bryan has registered five 100+ tackle seasons out of eight years in the League with his personal best of 137 in '91. He fought back from a nerve root injury suffered in 1989 to record 206 tackles over the past two campaigns. He was comfortable filling the starter's role when he stepped in for an injured Mike Gann in Week 6 because the former #1 pick earned a starting spot in his very first training camp in 1984 and continued to get the nod in 79 of 91 NFL games played prior to last season. The versatile performer has now cracked the starting lineup at four separate positions along the defensive line as a Falcon.

Honors

1986: UPI All-NFC

1984: NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year (Football Digest)
 NFC Defensive Rookie of the Year (USA Today)
 NFL All-Rookie by Pro Football Writers Association, UPI

Year-by-Year

1990: He returned from a nerve root injury to help the Falcons' Black Wave defense record the lowest per rush average in the NFL. He performed in every game, while adding five starts to his total, finishing with 69 tackles, 16 QB pressures, a forced fumble and two recovered fumbles.

1989: Unlucky Bryan was second on the team in tackles with 17 after two games but had to go on IR with a spinal nerve root injury.

1988: For the 11th ranked defense in the NFL in points, Rick rang up 120 tackles and five QB sacks from his right end spot. His top games included a 12-tackle, four QB hurry game vs. Dallas, an 11-tackle, one sack game vs. the 49ers and a 10-tackle effort, one-sack in the early season upset of San Francisco.

1987: Rick started the season off with a sack and forced fumble of QB Doug Williams that sparked the team to an upset of the Redskins. After the strike, Rick had a groin pull that sidelined him three weeks and kept him from having a 100-tackle season for the first time in his career (85 in his nine games). He had a personal best 15 tackle game in Week 16 at Detroit.

1986: Rick's 120 tackles, seven QB sacks, and three forced fumbles helped him to an all-NFC pick by the UPI. His top games were a pair of 12 tackle games vs. the Eagles and Rams.

1985: This 100-tackle season featured one of his best career games vs. Kansas City when he had 10 tackles, made 2.5 QB sacks for -21 yards, and forced two fumbles. He finished with a personal best 7.5 sacks despite a stomach muscle pull that hindered him.

1984: A 125-tackle season earned him numerous all-Rookie honors. He also had four QB sacks and a QB safety.

Notebook

Rick's return from an 1989 injury, which caused weakness and numbness in his right arm and shoulder, was a welcome sight to Falcon coaches. This battler from tiny Coweta, Oklahoma went from 185 bench press when he was injured to 375 pounds with increased strength. Bryan's relentless work ethic and determination were noticed and appreciated by his third new coaching staff in the summer of 1990. He enjoys being pushed for a job in the always competitive Glanville training camps. "I want some pushing," he said. "It'll be good for me." The former NFL Rookie of the Year scored points with his first tackle when he sacked QB Richard Todd of the Saints in the endzone for a safety. After scoring on a safety and on a PAT conversion in his career, he completed the cycle with a 56-yard fumble return TD in the preseason at New England in '90. It was the first time he scored six points since he played tight end at Coweta High School. Bryan and Glanville first met each other at the '84 Senior Bowl. "He thought I was crazy and I thought he was the best player on the field," said Glanville.

College

Rick and Scott Case were teammates on the same Oklahoma squads which also featured a senior class of Jackie Shipp, Thomas Benson and Bob Slater, who were all top NFL draft picks. He passed the celebrated Selmon brothers tandem to become the school record holder for a defensive lineman with 352 tackles. Other soon-to-be Oklahoma stars who watched Bryan dominate opponents included sophomore Tony Casillas and red-shirt freshman Brian Bosworth. The two-time Big Eight Defensive Player of the Year and All-America selection boasted three straight years with over 100 tackles. A standout in the classroom as well, Rick was chosen to the all conference academic team three times for his work in Business Administration.

Personal

An original country boy from Wagoner, Oklahoma, Rick keeps his body in shape for football season by working on his 80-acre farm in Coweta and playing some church league basketball. He hails from a football family as brothers, Mitch and Steve, played at Oklahoma and were NFL draftees. Bryan's leisure time is filled up with fishing or hunting expeditions and he feels more comfortable in jeans and boots. He did cause quite a stir at the Falcons Starlight Foundation fashion show for charity when he donned a tuxedo. He is a self-proclaimed John Wayne fan and his love for country music was enhanced when he had a chance to meet the legendary George Jones at a Falcon game last season. Rick and his wife, Shelby, have two children, Kristin Nicole, 6, and Michael Don, 5.

Bobby

CORNERBACK

23

Last Season

Bobby Butler will defend the Falcons secondary for his 12th season. The crafty veteran started a pair of games a year ago, while performing in 15 overall contests, plus the two Playoff affairs. The situational player was constantly on the field on passing downs in '91, finishing with 28 tackles, 5 passes defended, a recovered fumble, and four QB pressures. He picked up his 9th fumble of his career and returned it 39 yards to stop a Chiefs drive in the season opener at Kansas City. In the four wide receiver sets employed by most teams, Butler will be counted on to provide stability in the secondary again in '92.

Pro Career

Butler has been a force in the birds' nest since 1981 and has seen action in 154 games in a Falcon's uniform. With two more games played in 1992, Bobby will surpass Jim Mitchell and Greg Brezina into third place on the club's all-time list. His 126 total starts are the fifth-most ever, one behind Claude Humphrey, and seven behind Tommy Nobis. In his Falcon's career, he has crossed the goal line via interception return (Dallas in 1986), fumble return (Dallas in 1989), and by blocked punt (S.F. in 1990). Bobby's 27 lifetime thefts are good enough for fourth place all time on the Falcon record books. His two interceptions in a game against New Orleans in 1984 tied a club record.

Year-By-Year

- 1990: The Falcons were 2-2 in games that Butler started at the end of the year, finishing with 36 tackles, team tying three pickoffs, 10 passes defended and a pair of fumble recoveries. He returned both a blocked punt (S.F. for 35 yards) and fumble (Hou. in endzone) for touchdowns.
- 1989: His highlights included returning a Herschel Walker fumble 29-yards for a TD in a victory over the Cowboys and pacing the team in passes defended with 15, while playing in all 16 games for a third straight season. He started 11 contests at LCB but gave way to rookie Deion Sanders before returning to the lineup after an injury to Scott Case.
- 1988: On a defense that ranked 4th in the NFL in interceptions, Bobby had a streak of 12 consecutive games with a pass deflection. This secondary also went a stretch of 17 consecutive quarters without a TD pass allowed. Bobby also had an interception, two fumble recoveries, and a forced fumble.

- 1987: In the 12 games, he led the team with four interceptions and was second with 30 passes defended. Three of his four interceptions were against playoff teams (Wash., Minn., and Hous.) with the 4th against Boomer and the Bengals.
- 1986: A potential Pro Bowl season with the 5-1-1 Falcons ended dreadfully for Bobby with a fractured right leg in a game with the 49ers when a pile fell on him and caused the fibula fracture and the need for screws in his ankle joint.
- 1985: His team best five interceptions equalled his personal high, while also having a team high 21 passes defended, and a personal career best 78 tackles.
- 1984: In Week 1, Bobby pulled off his two-interception game in a win at New Orleans. He missed a Week 4 game with a sprained ankle, the only other time in his career he missed a game.
- 1983: Three of his four interceptions came in the end zone, while he also rang up 75 tackles in playing all 16 games.
- 1982: The club's last playoff season saw Bobby lead the team in interceptions and passes defended.
- 1981: Rookie Bobby caught the NFL's attention with his five interceptions for 86 yards, plus a game-saving theft in the end zone in a win over Houston. His secondary coach and defensive mentor then is now head coach, Jerry Glanville.

Notebook

Bobby had to wait nine years, but he enjoyed competing in the Playoffs for the second time of his career in '91. He was a member of the birds' last post season team in '82. Butler toughed it out and played through a bad case of the flu in the Falcons first encounter at the Superdome. He is kin to another former Falcon, Jim "Cannonball" Butler, who played in Atlanta from '68-'71. Bobby is personal friends with heavyweight champion and Atlanta native Evander Holyfield. He has always taken a special interest in the community in his 12 years. He's donated money to the Harvest House and other charities through his on-field achievements. Butler is involved in the Fellowship of Christian athletes, coordinates the team's weekly Bible study classes during the season, and hosts a radio show on WAEC AM 86. The former FSU star once learned the ins-and-outs of a Domino's Pizza store as a manager trainee and was able to pass the test of making two pizzas in less than 45 seconds.

College Career

His reputation at Florida State was underscored when they would refer to Deion Sanders as . . . "the next coming of Bobby Butler." He was also once dubbed "the best cornerback in America" by ex-Pitt coach Jackie Sherrill, which led a lot of offenses to throw to the opposite side. Bobby's college highlights included shutting out Florida All-American WR Cris Collinsworth and setting a school record with seven blocked kicks, including one against Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl and one in the Tangerine Bowl. A sprinter on the track team, he was timed at 9.3 in the 100 and helped the Seminole relay team to a third placing showing at the NCAA Track Championships.

Personal

A stalwart athlete in football and track at Atlantic High School in Delray Beach, FL, Robert Calvin played quarterback and safety as a prepster. He still is a frequent visitor to the sunshine state in the offseason. He met his wife-to-be, Cyrrillyn Lawson, in high school and married her before his first NFL training camp. Keeping the Butlers busy are Brenton, 4, and Brice, 2.

Scott

CASE

25

Last Season

Once again, Scott Case was the physical presence in the Falcons secondary, collecting a bone-rattling 162 tackles, second-best on team charts. The 162 stops were only eight tackles off his career-high of 170 in 1990. He also ended up with a pair of interceptions, 11 passes defended,

2 fumble recoveries, and 6 QB pressures. His hard-hitting hit parade included: a 16 tackle, one pickoff game vs. Saints, 16 stops vs. Packers, a 13 tackle effort, with a theft and 2 QB pressures vs. 49ers, 13 more stops against the Cardinals, and four other 12 tackle games. His big game against New Orleans came on national TV at the Superdome and included a perfectly-timed interception, stepping in front of Eric Martin to snuff out a Saints drive at the Falcons 33-yard line in the second quarter. Not included in Case's totals are the numerous amount of times that he intimidates a wide receiver or running back into dropping a pass when he's in the area.

Pro Career

Case's numbers over the past two seasons speak volumes about his value in the Falcons defense. He has accumulated 332 tackles since being moved back to safety for the '90 campaign. Scott was selected as a safety, but was moved to cornerback, then free safety and finally strong safety. He earned a spot on the '88 NFC Pro Bowl team and was named an All-Pro by leading the NFL in thefts with 10 from his cornerback position. It marked the first time a Falcon DB was voted to the post season all-star game since Rolland Lawrence in 1977. He showed his versatility last year by actually playing some cornerback because of injuries against the Seahawks four wide out attack. Scott is in fifth place on the club's ledgers for career interceptions with 26.

Honors

- 1990 NFC Def. Player of Week (Rams - Week 16)
- 1988: NFL Pro Bowl
 - UPI All-NFC (first team)
 - AP All-Pro (second team)
 - 100% Wrong Club, NFL Defensive Back of the Year
 - NFC Defensive Player of the Month (November)

Year-By-Year

1990: Case switched back to S and had a career-high 170 tackles, which was 6th in the entire League. He was called the NFC Def. Player of the Week on the heels of his first interception TD off Jim Everett on the third play of the game in an eventual Falcon victory in Week 16. He had eight games of 10 or more stops, with a high of 15 vs. Dallas, including two sacks. Against the Bears, he had 11 tackles, a blocked punt which led to a TD, a tackle of the punter, and a pickoff.

1989: Scott stretched a ligament in his right foot in Week 6 versus the Patriots and then sprained his left knee the next week against the Cardinals which limited his play. Because of the injuries he ended with a career-low 38 tackles, two interceptions and 11 passes defended in seven starts and 14 games.

1988: His 10 interceptions led the NFL and set a new Falcon club record as he became the only Falcon DB of the 1980's voted into the Pro Bowl. He also led the team with 19 passes defended and led the secondary with 85 tackles. He was the NFC Defensive Player for the month of Nov. with five interceptions, 20 tackles, and a forced fumble. Scott missed all of training camp in his contract negotiations and did not start the season opener. He started off his run of interceptions in Week 3 covering Jerry Rice of the 49ers and then had two games with two interceptions (Week 10 - Green Bay and Week 13 - Tampa Bay). His play helped the secondary go 17 consecutive quarters without a TD pass.

1987: A tough physical season for Scott, he overcame a shoulder sprain in the preseason finale, later a sprained neck and then a sprained ankle. He still played in 11 of 12 games and led the team with 36 passes defended.

1986: As the defense ranked sixth in the NFL, Scott did his part with five interceptions, 69 tackles and a team-high 41 passes defended. He had an endzone interception vs. Miami to save an upset win and earned his first NFL ejection when he got into a fight in the Tampa Bay game.

1985: Filling in at both strong and free safety, Scott led the secondary with 95 tackles (still his personal best), had four interceptions for 78 return yards, and had four games with 10 or more tackles.

1984: In 16 games as a rookie, Scott had 42 tackles. He scored two points for the Falcons in Week 5 vs. San Francisco when he knocked punter Max Runager out of the endzone for the safety. He also had a 13-tackle game vs. Cincinnati.

Notebook

An article in the August 1991 Sports Magazine entitled "Heavy Hitters from Hell" gave Case the nickname of "The Human Destroyer." It said Scott . . . "inducted a distinguished star each week into the ERHPC (Ear Ringing Head Pounding Club). Case is either the NFL's fiercest player or its nastiest, depending on who you listen to." Coach Glanville backed up this hard-hitting safety's new moniker by saying . . . "Scott plays hurt, plays hard, and never complains. Just point him at the target, and he destroys it." Former Raider All-Pro Lester Hayes said recently. . . "Case is a doggone land shark. Any receiver who crosses his path knows he'd better have his jockstrap on tight." Because of his well-known reputation for vicious hits, he can rely on an 'intimidation factor' to sometimes stymie opponents who become more concerned with where he is than where the ball is. "The way he intimidates receivers, he makes it easier for McKyer and Sanders," stated Hayes. "In fact, he is their backbone!" Scott learned his aggressive style of football growing up in Alva, OK. "It's the way I was taught to play football. I was raised that way." He couldn't name his favorite all-time hit because . . . "I love them all," but one does stick out in his mind. In junior college, he once leveled current Buffalo Bill Steve Tasker (Kansas Dodge City Community College) with a devastating blow that left Tasker with "five or six" broken ribs. "The only thing I could think about at the time was trying to get the guy some help . . . and he looks up at me through all the blood and says, 'nice hit,'" Case recalled. The 32nd player taken overall in the '84 draft has outlasted all of his counterparts who were drafted before him (Mossy Cade, Leonard Coleman, Don Rogers, Terry Taylor).

College

Scott has always had to put on the hard hat and work his way up the football ladder. After receiving marginal interest from colleges, he attended Northeastern Oklahoma Junior College, where he made a name for himself through his All-America play. Case was thrilled when Oklahoma came calling, so he fulfilled a childhood dream and suited up in the Big Red of the Sooners. He went on to pace the Big Eight and establish a school mark for interceptions in a season with eight (for 181 return yards and a TD) during his senior campaign at safety.

Personal

His personal fan club went beyond just wife, Connie, and children, Kelsey, Kyler, and Kody, last year when a group of fans started the "Scott Case Fan Club," which had a big banner made up and held tailgate parties at home games for their hero. Case had a tough week 17 last year when his ranch home in Grove, OK (pop. 5,000) was vandalized, then burned to the ground a day later. The personal loss was accentuated when the Falcons dropped a close decision to the Cowboys three days later. At the prep level, he was a running back and roamed the secondary for Alva High and later Edmond H.S. He and his wife are heavily involved in the community with hospital visits, school appearances, and other various fund raisers. Connie will serve her second term as president of the Player's Wives Association, which works on special community projects like the Special Teams Paint with Special People at Eggleston Hospital. For his many community deeds, Scott was chosen as the Falcons' United Way representative and he and his family filmed a TV spot that airs on gamedays. He also dabbles in the business arena as he and ex-Falcons S Tom Pridemore own "Falcon Boat Works" in Tifton, GA. Scott's favorite basketball team is the Celtics and Larry Bird.

Quotes

"He's the leader of a pack of hungry dogs. His idea of a good day is organized mayhem. He gets a kick out of banging heads with guys twice his size, and he has never met an opposition football player he wouldn't love to hit—not just once, but often."

J. Edwin Smith, Columnist
The Daily News

"They talk about defensive backs with a linebacker's mentality. Well, this guy has a nose guard's mentality."

Former Raiders All-Pro CB Lester Hayes

"During the week before a game, I envision myself making big hits on every play."

Shawn

COLLINS
WIDE RECEIVER

85

Last Season

Collins experienced a discouraging third season as he caught only three passes for 37 yards in three games played. His year was ended early with a hamstring injury that forced him on Injured Reserve for the rest of '91 in Week 8.

Pro Career

Shawn topped the rookie receiving charts in 1989 with 58 receptions for 862 yards to outdistance former Colts sensation and current teammate Andre Rison. Collins' marks broke Floyd Dixon's rookie mark of 42 receptions by wide receiver and Ken Burrow's rookie yardage record of 741. He established a career-high with 126 yards against Green Bay and had six catches on three different occasions, including a team-leading six receptions for 76 yards in his first pro game and start against the Rams in the opener. Collins ended up third on the team with 34 catches in '90 for 503 yards, second-most on Falcons, with two scores. He caught a pass in 14 out of 16 games while playing in every contest. Shawn's top game was a five-catch, 93-yard effort vs. the Saints which included an over the shoulder 7-yard touchdown grab over CB Milton Mack that made the team's highlight film. He hauled in a career-best 61-yard catch at the Niners as he averaged 23.3 yards on four grabs. It took the Northern Arizona product only 20 games to reach 1,000 receiving yards.

Notebook

The highest draft pick taken by a player from the Big Sky conference since 1974 (when Falcon defensive line coach Bill Kollar was taken with 27th selection), Shawn was also the first and only player from Arizona's three universities to be chosen on the first day of the 1989 draft. Collins received his NFL education through Uncles Willie and Melvin Buchanan. Both played in the League after careers at San Diego State. Willie performed in three Pro Bowls in his 10 years in the NFL so Shawn's ears were always ringing with plenty of stories. Collins' football career began slowly in the 10th grade because he was busy bringing home 'B' grades instead of practicing football. His pre-football days even included playing the bass fiddle in the junior high school band.

College

The unheralded Collins worked on his game and his frame to become the most prolific pass catcher in school history and the top TD producer ever in the Big Sky conference. He finished with 201 receptions for 2,674 yards and 24 six-pointers to eclipse ex-NFL receiver Pete Mandley's marks. Shawn's 70 aerials for 1,016 yards as a sophomore were single season school marks as well. The two-time All-America choice totaled 191 receiving yards in a game as a senior and enjoyed two, four-touchdown affairs, and three, 10 reception outings in his career at the Flagstaff, AZ school. Shawn only weighed 165 pounds and stood 5-11 in high school but hit the weights hard and let nature do the rest. He actually played a "flexed" tight end position, or as an inside wideout, as a 6-2, 207 pound Lumberjack, so he is used to dishing out punishment. Collins is proud to have played at the only school that offered him a scholarship as he lined up alongside Falcon Michael Haynes.

Personal

Collins was a west coast baby as he was born in Los Angeles to Dorothy Buchanon. At the age of seven, his family relocated to San Diego. The father figure of the house located in the tough Linda Vista area of San Diego was Uncle Melvin Buchanon. Shawn's life took a tragic turn in only 12 hours when his father, Charles Collins, passed away of a kidney disorder, and Melvin lost a struggle with cancer. Dorothy was the most influential person in Collins life. She has never given up despite losing her warehouse job due to a degenerative disk problem that confines her to a wheelchair today. Shawn's exploits on the gridiron included playing quarterback for Kearny High School. He threw 12 TD's during his last prep campaign and competed in three state playoffs contests. The psychology major at NAU was a big fan of the Redskin WR Art Monk as a youngster. The amiable Collins helps counsel children in San Diego in the offseason and enjoys fishing.

SUPER BOWL HEADING TO ATLANTA IN '94

Atlanta will be the site of the most significant sporting event of 1994 as Super Bowl XXVIII heads to the 'New South' in January. Falcons owner Rankin Smith was instrumental in landing the NFL's annual showpiece to the city of Atlanta for the first time. The League's highest-profile game will be at the club's newest home, the spectacular Georgia Dome. NFL Properties designed the official 1994 Super Bowl XXVIII logo.

Darion

CONNER
LINEBACKER

56

Last Season

Darion continued his NFL seasoning in his second year by finishing second among linebackers and sixth overall on the club with his career-best 105 tackles. He also added 3 QB sacks, 14 QB pressures, a pair of forced fumbles and one recovered fumble to his ledger. The '91 campaign also brought a blowout fracture of his right eye against the Raiders in Week 4, which didn't require surgery, but forced him to miss the Saints game the next week. His best games came against the Chiefs (12 tackles), Chargers and Cardinals (11 stops), and the Packers (2 QB sacks). Conner started 14 games for the birds in his sophomore season.

Pro Career

Conner has now started 24 of 31 games played in his NFL career. He grew stronger as he learned the Falcons' system as the season progressed as a rookie, ending up with 58 of his 83 tackles in the final eight games. His 36 QB pressures attest to his ability to harass the quarterback. The former Jackson State standout's top game as a pro came at Cleveland when he collared 8 solo stops and 15 total tackles, while dumping Berne Kosar once and registering 3 other pressures. A force on special teams, he has collected 19 tackles and a forced fumble in two seasons.

Year-by-Year

1990: His strong bid to become the NFL's leading rookie tackler was stopped just short due to a sprained knee suffered in the season finale against the Cowboys. His total of 83 stops were the third highest total among all linebackers, ahead of such notable #1 picks as James Francis, Percy Snow and Lamar Lathon.

Notebook

Darion matured from an 198 pounder as a freshman to a muscular specimen at 256 pounds as an All-American senior. He was teased by teammates when he arrived at the Jackson, MS campus who called him, "Beanie Weenie." As he hit the weight room and gained extra pounds by eating peanut butter & jelly sandwiches, cookies, cake and Snickers bars, the teasing quickly stopped. Conner keeps the memory of his brother foremost in his daily thoughts. Casey, a freshman linebacker for Jackson State, was killed in a car crash, as well as two other players, just six days before he was drafted. "He's with me and will be a part of me for the rest of my life," Darion said. As a rookie, he missed the team charter to Detroit because of a car accident, but made amends by taking the next plane out and arriving in time for the team meeting.

College

The SWAC Defensive Player of the Year totaled 317 tackles (197 solos), 22.5 QB sacks and 37 stops for losses of 255 yards as he guided the Tigers to a 33-11-3 record and three appearances in the playoffs during his productive career. A Kodak All-America as a senior, Darion enjoyed his finest season with a career-best 130 tackles (15 for losses) and 12.5 sacks, two interceptions, and 14 deflected passes to catch the attention of NFL scouts. The Jackson, MS school captured two SWAC titles with Conner performing the linebacking chores and was named all-conference three times. He had a 14 tackle, two sack day against Texas Southern, a 13 tackle, 2.5 sack effort versus Southern, and 13 stops (five for losses) and a sack in a game with Alabama State.

Personal

Darion is one of 10 children born to the religious family of Isom and Annette Conner in Macon, MS. His heritage has been associated with the farmland in Noxubee County for some 60 years. He was taught the virtues of "respect, honesty, and humility" from his parents. His strong work ethic can be traced to his diligent toil in the fields in the stifling Mississippi summers as a youngster. He decided after only one day that maybe football wasn't in his future as a seventh grader, but once his mother found out that he had quit something, she made him return the very next day, and he hasn't regretted it. After he starred at Noxubee County High in football, basketball and track, he followed a long line of JSU players who've gone on to the pro's such as Walter Payton, Lem Barney, Coy Bacon, Harold Jackson, Richard Caster, Verlon Biggs, and Robert Brazile. Darion played alongside Falcon teammate Houston Hoover for two years for the Tigers.

Jeff
DONALDSON
SAFETY

42

Last Season

In his first season in Atlanta, Donaldson played the role of a situational defender and special teams leader. Jeff performed in all 16 games as a nickel back, finishing with 47 tackles, a QB sack, and a forced fumble. He was also sixth on the club in special teams stops with 13. His best effort was a team-high 10 tackle outing against the Rams in Week 15 and his forced fumble resulted in a safety against the Buccaneers in Week 12. Donaldson also added six tackles versus the Redskins in Week 11 and five stops, with a sack, in the victory over the Bucs.

Pro Career

Jeff was one of Jerry Glanville's head-bangers in the House of Pain defense in Houston from 1984-89. He collared 446 tackles for the Oilers in 90 games with 9 thefts and 6 recovered fumbles, while establishing a hard-hitting reputation. He moved on to the Chiefs in Plan B in '90 and picked off three passes in another Playoff season. Donaldson has two career multiple-interception games to his credit and he led the Oiler defensive backs in tackles for three straight years (1986-88).

Year-by-Year

1990: Signed as a Plan B free agent by the Chiefs, he started nine games at safety, while playing in all 16. He was second on the club with his three interceptions as he totaled 52 tackles on the year.

1989: A starter in 14 contests, he totaled 62 tackles, one forced fumble and seven passes defended.

1988: Donaldson logged time in all 16 games at free safety and once again was the leader in the secondary with 87 stops while being tops in interceptions with four and adding 14 passes defended and a fumble recovery.

1987: He started all 12 non-strike games, finishing third on the team with 95 tackles and tops among DB's. Established a personal-high with 16 tackles vs Browns.

1986: Jeff started seven games in place of Bo Eason and led the secondary for the first time with a solid 110 tackles. He picked off his first NFL pass, plus returned a Todd Blackledge fumble one yard for a score.

1985: Registered 50 tackles, two sacks, two fumble recoveries, and even ran back six punts for a 5.8 average and five KOR's for 18.6 average. He also led the special teams with 20 tackles.

1984: As a rookie he appeared in 16 games with two starts while producing 42 tackles on the year, including 10 vs Cleveland.

Notebook

The former 9th round draft selection was a natural choice to follow Glanville to Atlanta because he spearheaded the Oilers defense ever since Glanville was the Defensive Coordinator in 1984. Jeff enjoyed his fifth Playoff season out of his eight years in the League with the Falcons advancing to the post season last year. Donaldson's punishing hitting was one of the reasons for the "House of Pain" label in Houston. His off the field demeanor belies his intensity on the gridiron as he carries an unassuming and soft-spoken attitude in his everyday life. The devout family man was the focus of Houston's United Way commercial in 1988. Jeff is also busy running his own express auto oil changing business that he started in 1988.

College

A defender and punt returner at Colorado, Jeff recorded 158 tackles in his last two seasons as a Buffalo to lead all DB's. He also had nine career thefts and fielded 30 punts for 270 yards and a 9.0 average (with a long of 58). His senior campaign saw him pick off four passes, including running one back 44 yards for a score, and collect a secondary-high of 79 tackles. As a sophomore, the real estate major collared 83 tackles.

Personal

A native of Ft. Collins, Colorado, Jeffrey Michael was a standout for Ft. Collins High School in football, track and basketball. He enjoys the outdoors and is an avid hunter and fisherman. One of his other loves is spending his spare time surrounded by wife, Heidi, and children, Samantha and Zachary. A big country music fan, Jeff met the legendary George Jones at a Falcons game last year and also went back stage to meet Travis Tritt at a concert.

Jamie

DUKES
CENTER

64

Last Season

The 1991 season was another steady performance for Jamie Dukes. He started all 16 games despite playing through a shoulder injury as he helped his battery mate, QB Chris Miller, to his first Pro Bowl and WR Andre Rison to his second all-star appearance. His adept blocking enabled the birds to score 361 points, fifth-best in the NFL, while throwing 30 passing touchdowns, second in the League. With Dukes maintaining the toehold of the line, the birds' running game averaged 4.1 yards per carry, 5th highest in the NFC, and the passing game hit for over 200 yards 11 times, while going over 300 yards in total offense on 11 other occasions. The team's 3,449 yards through the air was the 4th best mark ever and the 31 QB sacks in 531 passing attempts was the lowest ever. Jamie's commanding presence in the Falcon trenches is more than physical as he fulfills the role of "signal-caller" among the linemen.

Pro Career

Since cracking the lineup in 1989, consistent Jamie has run his games started streak to 48. This successful streak is even more impressive when you consider how demanding the physical pounding is in the NFL front lines each week. In addition, the busy Dukes plays on certain special teams units to boot. In his tenure in Atlanta, Dukes has logged time at three different line positions (left guard, right guard and center) and even a stint as a blocking tight end in the backfield in short yardage situations. He also has been credited with one kickoff return for 13 yards.

Notebook

Part of his NFL success can be traced to his long 37-1/2 inch reach which allows him a leverage advantage to neutralize bigger opponents. He had an uphill battle to climb the NFL ladder because he wasn't drafted by any club despite a heralded career at Florida State. He signed a free agent contract with Atlanta and made the team as a back-up. Ironically, he had never played center in a game at any level until he took over the position when the Falcons faced the Raiders three years ago at the LA Coliseum. The spot wasn't totally new to Dukes because the Falcons had experimented with him at that position in the previous two training camps. It's no coincidence that the Falcons have improved in categories such as total offense, points scored, TD's scored, and passing and rushing offense in each season since Dukes became a stabilizing force in the starting lineup over the past three years. He now has started every game at center for three straight seasons.

College

FSU Head Coach Bobby Bowden called Dukes "the best offensive lineman in school history." He started more games (48) than any other Seminole offensive lineman and was a first-team All-America selection by three publications as a senior. His four-year standout career included three bowl victories (Gator, Peach and Gator) and one tie (Georgia in Citrus). Jamie faced NFLers Alphonso Carreker, Gerald Nichols and Eric Hayes in practice everyday and roomed with Sammie Smith of the Dolphins. He separated his shoulder once, missing the second half of a game, but returned the next week.

Personal

Jamie Donnell hails from a family of three kids from Schnectady, NY. He received most of his athletic tutoring after the family packed up and moved to Orlando, FL when he was 12 years old. He captured Orange County Player of the Year honors as a senior at Maynard Evans High School. A hoops junkie, Jamie runs the Falcons' offseason basketball team and will "run the floor" whenever he's not taking on the plush golf courses of Atlanta. He was on the winning basketball team at the Prime Time Shoot-Out charity game held on the campus of Georgia Tech. A devout Lakers fan, Dukes is also a regular at Atlanta Hawks games. Jamie and his wife, Lynne, reside in Lilburn, Ga.

Mr. Smith goes to...Atlanta!

The most popular last name on the Falcons training camp roster in '92 is Smith. Three came through the '92 draft (Chuck, Frankie, Tony), one from the World League (Roland), one was a college free agent (Hosie), while the other was a veteran free agent signing (Sean), for a total of six Smith's. If you count the team owner, Rankin Smith, and the club's president, Taylor Smith, then there will be a grand total of eight Smith's on the Suwanee practice fields at the same time.

EATON SAFETY

32

Last Season

Tracey was everything the Falcons thought he would be when they signed him as a Plan B free agent. He provided much-needed back-up help in the secondary and was a special teams standout. Eaton ended up with 36 tackles and a forced fumble on defense and was fourth on the squad with 19 special teams tackles. The ex-Portland State star also blocked a punt each vs. the Redskins and Rams, and tackled another punter against the Packers. Tough Tracey played the entire year with a cast on his left arm due to a wrist injury suffered in the opener at Kansas City. The situational safety had a career-high 13 tackles at Dallas in the season finale and seven apiece in both Playoff contests.

Pro Career

The "young" veteran has now participated in 48 League games, counting Playoffs, since breaking into the NFL with the Oilers in '88. He has fought through a series of injuries to prove his toughness. His rookie season was cut short due to a dislocated shoulder, but he rebounded to see action in 16 games in '89, with three starts, making 44 tackles, 12 special teams tackles, three pickoffs and a forced fumble. He stole a pass off Jim Kelly in the playoffs and he had a game-saving theft with 56 seconds remaining vs. the Lions to claim an Oiler win 35-31. He also turned around and made the Bucs James Wilder fumble on the Houston 18-yard line with only 1:18 left to seal a 20-17 victory. His 1990 season in Phoenix was shelved when he had to go under the knife for surgery on his other shoulder after 11 games played.

College

He decided to stay in the west and attend Portland State, which is five hours away from his Medford, Oregon home. Eaton was voted the Western Conference Defensive Player-of-the-Year as a senior by guiding the Vikings to the national championship game in Division II. He played his best against the best as he recorded a season-high 13 tackles in the championship game against Troy State. He racked up 221 lifetime tackles, 13 thefts, 10 forced fumbles, three fumble recoveries and 29 passes defended for the Vikes.

Notebook

Tracey plays with a reckless abandon which belies his 6-1, 195 pound frame. In a scrimmage with the Seahawks in Portland, OR last year, Eaton hit a Seattle player so hard he bent his own face mask and had to have it replaced before he went back in. In the playoff victory at New Orleans, the fierce hitter both knocked out a Saints receiver, and then promptly knocked himself out on another vicious shot. Tracey's aggressiveness on the football field could be linked to his roots. His father, Scott, played safety for the New York Giants from 1967-71, picking off 11 passes, after being selected on the eighth round from Oregon State. With his blonde hair, blue eyes and quiet demeanor off the field, Tracey carries around the "all-American boy next door" look.

Personal

A west coast kid from birth, Eaton was a star at Medford (OR) High School in football and basketball. He recorded both a three TD receiving game and a three interception outing at his high school located only three hours from California. Through his efforts as a senior, his team held a #1 ranking in the state of Oregon. Tracey is in familiar surroundings with three of his ex-Oiler coaches in Glanville, Shively and Jones on the Falcons staff. His mother, Jocelyn, and sister, Jennifer, still reside in Medford, while his father is a stockbroker living in Seattle. The marketing major from Portland State underwent wrist surgery in the offseason. He and his new bride, Kimberly, reside in Lawrenceville during the season.

EPPS

74

Last Season

Epps started out slow due to injuries suffered in training camp, but rebounded to play in 16 games, with a start, while recording 60 tackles and 1.5 QB sacks. He recovered a big fumble against the Saints in the Superdome with under two minutes left to allow the Falcons offense to tie the score and pull out the victory in overtime. His other top games came versus the 49ers, with 7 tackles, and the Cardinals and Cowboys, with 6 apiece. He also collected 5 tackles each against the Chiefs, Saints, Rams and Redskins, and blocked a field goal attempt versus the Niners.

Pro Career

He won the starting nose tackle job as a rookie in training camp in 1990 and proceeded to earn All-NFL rookie accolades while being the most productive first-year performer in the League. He also finished with the most tackles by a rookie lineman in three years with his 84 stops. Tory was in the middle as the Falcons led the League in per rush average allowed at 3.3 and was third in yards per game at 84.8. Epps also busted through the line to block three FG's, which was the most by any player, to set a club record.

Notebook

Showing his propensity for blocking kicks, Epps added another rejection to his career list last year against the 49ers. In two years versus the Falcons NFC West rivals, he has blocked three field goals and sacked Joe Montana twice. Proving that he is a quick learner, Tory had never blocked a kick before his recent success. Epps was an eighth round "find" for the Falcons in the 1989 draft. He surprised the coaches and won the starting nose tackle job with a strong camp. Tory has been called "a gamer" by his coaches for his attitude. "Here's a guy with quickness and closing speed, but what he brings to the party is he loves to play," said Glanville. "And it's fun to be around people who love their work."

College

Tory improved every year for the Memphis State Tigers, ending his career with 240 tackles, 24 for losses, and six QB sacks. A blood clot in his shoulder hampered his senior play and made him miss three games but he still battled to make 67 tackles and a pair of sacks. His best season was his junior campaign when he totaled 83 stops (third on team), two sacks, and nine tackles for losses. He saved his best for rival Alabama, where he won AP Defensive Player of the Week kudos for a 10 tackle, pass deflection effort in a 13-10 upset in 1987 and he also hammered the Crimson Tide for a career high 11 tackles in 1989. He played linebacker halfway through his freshman season before being switched to nose guard and becoming a three-year starter.

Personal

Epps' career in football had its beginnings at linebacker where he was an all-conference and all-county selection for Uniontown (PA) High School. The intense competitor earned both defensive player of the year honors and conference MVP awards. He was also a basketball star as a prep, playing the same aggressive game as his hero, Charles Barkley of the 76ers. A big basketball fan as well, Tory attends Atlanta Hawks games whenever he can. His hobbies include weight lifting, where he benches 405 pounds, with a squat of 505 pounds. He gets involved in the Atlanta community whenever he can by visiting hospitals and being active in the Adopt A School program. Tory also competed in the Channel 2 Family to Family Challenge at White Water Park to help out local charities.

Last Season

Brett was a Plan B pick-up from the Division rival LA Rams. Faryniarz (pronounced fair-in-ezz) started eight games for the Rams, while performing in 12 contests, at linebacker and finished with 24 tackles. He also added a pair of special team tackles to his '91 totals. He is expected to compete for playing time at outside linebacker while supplying the Falcons with special teams help.

Pro Career

The fifth-year pro from San Diego State has played in 58 NFL games over his career and has registered 77 tackles. He appeared in 15 games after making the Rams roster as a free agent in 1988. The rookie spelled an injured Mike Wilcher against the 49ers in Week 7 and recorded a career-high seven tackles (six solo stops). He also registered a sack of Saints QB Bobby Hebert on third down to force a New Orleans field goal. In 1989, he performed as an outside linebacker and lineman. Brett was tabbed the NFC Defensive Player of the Week for three QB sacks, two recovered fumbles that resulted in touchdowns and six tackles against the Jets. He was named the Rams special teams player of the year with his eight tackles, two fumble recoveries, and one forced fumble. A full-time switch to linebacker resulted in a career-best 23 tackles in '90, with a pair of QB sacks, in 16 games. He also chipped in with five tackles on special teams and one of his two sacks resulted in a Joe Montana fumble which the Rams recovered.

College

Faryniarz holds San Diego State's single season sack record with 13 in 1987. The three-year letterman was the Aztecs' leading tackler as a senior with 106 stops when he was moved from linebacker to defensive end. He started every contest during his last two collegiate seasons and registered 72 tackles as a junior with 3.5 sacks. His top two games were a 14 tackle, three sack effort versus Hawaii and a 12 stop affair with a sack in the Holiday Bowl against Air Force.

Notebook/Personal

Brett Allen will be playing on a different coast for the first time in his football career. A native of Sacramento, Ca., he was a standout at Cordova High in Rancho Cordova, Ca. The two-time All-Metro basketball guard was also a shot putter on the school's track team. After playing college ball at San Diego State and then becoming the only free agent to make the Rams roster in 1988, he will get his first taste of football in the southeast this year.

129! A RECORD

Throughout the course of the NFL history, many records have been set and many marks broken, but one that will remain in the minds of many Falcons is from the season of 1977. With defensive coaches named Glanville and Shively and players nicknamed the Grits Blitz, the Atlanta Falcons defense permitted their opponents to score only 129 points. That is the lowest total ever recorded in a 14-game season. With the regular season schedule having 16 games for each team, this record will forever stand atop of the NFL record books for fewest points allowed in a 14-game season.

FORDE
LINEBACKER

Last Season

Brian Forde was another Plan B signee from an NFC Western Division foe as he came over from the New Orleans Saints. Forde had the unenviable task of playing behind three Pro Bowl players in Swilling, Jackson and Mills. As in every other previous season, Forde played in all 16 games for the Saints, including the Playoff encounter with the Falcons. Brian is looking forward to coming into his own as he vies for playing time without having to look over his shoulders at a quartet of Pro Bowl performers.

Pro Career

Forde has never missed an NFL contest in his career and ran his games played total to 64, with another 16 games on the turf a year ago. He has also performed in every Saints Playoff game. Brian has backed-up Pro Bowler Rickey Jackson at outside linebacker since coming into the League in 1988. He has developed into a consistent performer on special teams during his tenure in the League. He was fourth on the club in special teams tackles with seven stops in '90. He had a pair of tackles vs. Lions, including a recovered fumble that led to an eventual Saints TD. In 1989, he received his first NFL start at Tampa Bay after Jackson was involved in an automobile accident and responded with 8 solo tackles. He continued his stellar play on 'teams,' collaring 8 stops, with a blocked punt for a safety, and fumble recovery. As a rookie, he filled in for Pat Swilling vs. Cowboys and registered a big tackle of QB Steve Pelleur as the Saints prevailed 20-17.

College

Busy Brian worked himself into an NFL draft choice by being a three-year starter for the Cougars of Washington State. During his senior campaign, he totaled 10 tackles or more on six different occasions. He established a Cougar record by collaring 28 tackles against California as a sophomore. Incidentally, the 28 stops came in his first collegiate start. Before his career was over on the Pullman, Wa. campus, he would end up second on the all-time list for tackles with 423, behind only Lee Blakeney (524). He had the most stops in a single season by any Washington State player with 157 in '86 and holds the school mark for lifetime solo tackles with 255.

Notebook/Personal

A product of Montreal, Canada, he played football at Champlain Regional College Prep School after a two year stint with the city of Montreal high school team. In 1983, he competed on the Junior Concordes at the age of 20 in a league for Canadian players from the ages of 18-22. Brian and Steve Broussard were college teammates for two seasons under Dennis Erickson and played alongside Cardinals QB Timm Rosenbach. He and his wife, Tracey, reside in Pullman in the offseason. He was a regular in the club's weight room this offseason.

ROMAN

GUARD

65

Last Season

The Falcons were looking for a versatile lineman and found one in the Plan B free agent market in Roman Fortin. Fortin played in all 16 games for the Detroit Lions in '91 and both Playoff contests. He's able to line up anywhere in the trenches, even tight end, as evidenced by his one reception for four yards. The strong 6-5, 285 pounder also has some long snapping experience in his background.

Pro Career

Roman's rookie season was spent on Injured Reserve and his first taste of pro ball came last year. He picked a good year to return as he saw the Lions advance all the way to the NFC Championship game.

College

Fortin's college career included a stretch where he started 29 straight games for the Aztecs of San Diego State. During the streak, he logged time at tackle, guard and tight end. As a senior, he manned the line that helped San Diego State establish a school mark with 5,610 yards of total offense. The All-WAC honoree recorded six pancake blocks as the Aztec offense rambled for 659 yards in a 38-27 defeat of Utah.

Notebook/Personal

The good-natured Fortin hit the books as much as he hit opponents as he was voted to the All-WAC conference academic team. He was heavily recruited by Oregon State as a quarterback, but transferred to San Diego State in '86. His Aztec career began as tight end, but he was switched to tackle for the scout team and he showed the coaches his future was on the line. The accounting major was a three-year starter at quarterback for Ventura (CA) High School.

FRALIC
GUARD

79

Last Season

Fralic's seventh season in Atlanta was a mixture of good and bad. He started the first 10 games of the year, but an elbow injury placed him on Injured Reserve for four weeks. He bypassed having season ending surgery and worked diligently to rehab the elbow. Bill returned to start the last pair of regular season games and his hard work paid off as he suited up for his first ever Playoff game start of his career in New Orleans. With his help, the Falcons piled up 344 yards of offense to record their first ever road Playoff victory. Fralic's huge presence in the lineup resulted in Steve Broussard's pair of 100-yard rushing days, Michael Haynes' three 100-yard receiving games, and Chris Miller's two 300-yard passing contests, as well as two, 3 TD passing games. His bullish blocking also was responsible for the club's Red Gun offense to total over 300 yards on seven different occasions.

Pro Career

The "Bull" has lived up to his expectations coming out of college by earning four Pro Bowl berths, numerous All-Pro honors, and a spot on the All-NFL team of the decade for the 1980's. He's the only guard in the League to play in four consecutive Pro Bowls (1986-89). The Sports Illustrated Rookie of the Year was voted to All-NFL Team of the Decade (second team), despite playing in only half the decade. He upped his games played number to 100 by coming back from an elbow injury to start the final two games. Bill was converted from his college tackle position to guard in his initial Falcons training camp because of a contract holdout of R.C. Thielemann. Bill was the highest paid offensive lineman in the NFL, at that time, when he inked his last new deal in 1989.

Honors

1990: All-NFL, Football Digest, AP All-Pro (honorable mention)

Notebook

Bill's outspokenness on the issue of steroids is widely known in the sports field. He was named to a special committee by Commissioner Paul Tagliabue to work with League drug advisor Dr. John Lombardo. Fralic made the first move as a rookie when he called up then Commissioner Pete Rozelle and told him his thoughts on the subject. He spoke to the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee on May 9, 1989 in Washington, D.C. as part of their investigation of anabolic steroids. One of the most committed players when it comes to conditioning, Bill had surgery on his elbow in the offseason. When he's not working out at the Falcons' complex, he can be found toiling in his insurance company, Bill Fralic Insurance Services, which serves mainly businesses and trucking companies. He is on the NFLPA's drug prevention committee and was quoted heavily in a Sports Illustrated story on his personal fight to stop the spread of the drug. Falcon officials were apprehensive when Fralic decided to participate in Wrestlemania II in Chicago before signing his first football contract. The novice wrestler showed his competitiveness when he was one of the last 10 people to be tossed out of the ring during a 20-man battle royale, which featured the likes of Hulk Hogan, Big John Stud, Andre "The Giant," and "The Iron Sheikh."

College

Leave it to William P. Fralic, Jr. to get publicity for one of the least noticed positions on the field. The mammoth 6-5, 280 pounder made such an impression that he garnered votes for the Heisman Trophy in both his junior (8th place) and senior campaigns (6th overall). One of the most recognized and celebrated linemen in college football, number 79 was retired at Pittsburgh, along with his locker, to place him among the company of Tony Dorsett, Dan Marino, and Hugh Green. The three time All-American tackle was only the second freshman ever behind Dorsett to start his first game. The bright and introspective Fralic carried a 2.65 GPA in business at Pitt.

Personal

The hard-working, no-nonsense Fralic gets his toughness from being reared in the steel country of Penn Hills, Pa. His father, Bill Sr., fought in the Korean War, so the virtues of discipline were always stressed to his three sons. He even had a sign in his yard that read, "Forget the Dog, Beware the Owner." The first of the athletic Fralics were brothers, Mike and Joe, who attended South Carolina and Marshall, respectively, and played tackle. Bill wasn't the usual kid growing up because he usually was bigger than most kids his age. For example, by the age of only nine years old, big Bill weighed 175 pounds and was 6 feet. He played on the high school football team in the eighth grade after dominating the Little League baseball diamonds as a pitcher. He helped his school capture four state championships and the heavyweight wrestler finished third in the state on the mats. Fralic's other passion includes golf.

Scott
PUNTER
17

Last Season

Fulhage provided the Falcons with another consistent year in the kicking department as he ended up fifth in the NFC with a 42.8 punting average, while finishing with a net of 36.6. Scott also had a banner campaign with 21 kicks inside the 20-yard line, second-best ever. "The Cannon" connected on long booms of 60, 58, 57 (2), 54 (2), 53 (2), 52, and 50 yards. He set a personal-best by getting off nine punts against the Saints and 49ers, carried a season-best 48.5 average versus the Vikings and had a 47-yard mark three other times.

Pro Career

Since taking over the punting duties in 1989, Scott has recorded 56 punts inside the 20 in three seasons. Fulhage is second in club record books with a 41.9 career average, only .7 off the leader. He is fourth all-time with his 235 punts, moving past Ralph Giacomarro, and can maneuver into third with just 62 this year. He was acquired by the birds after his release from the Bengals in the '89 summer camp. He made a lasting impression by leading the NFC with 24 punts inside the 20 and was ninth in the NFL with a 41.3 average. Scott experienced the usual ride through several NFL camps before landing a full time job. His trips included Buffalo ('85), Washington ('86), and Cincinnati ('87). He stuck with the Bengals replacement team for a trio of games and led all punters with a 44.4 mark. A short stint after the strike with Green Bay followed, then his break finally came when the Bengals inked him to a free agent deal. Scott's best game as a pro came in a Falcon uniform as he averaged 49.1 yards on seven punts (for 344 yards) against the Patriots in 1989. He also hit an NFL-long 65 yarder and poached three kicks inside the 20 to win a Golden Toe weekly award.

College

As a Wildcat, he posted a career average of 40.5, punting for 10,284 yards on 254 tries. The former Academic All-America and second team All-Big Eight Selection was ranked second in the conference and 25th in the nation in his junior season with a 41.9 average. He led the conference going into the last game against Colorado as a senior but ended up losing the title by a slim margin. Scott once punted 12 times against Nebraska and played on the school's only bowl team with an 1982 appearance in the Independence Bowl versus Wisconsin, where he punted 8 times, including a 59 yarder. His career longs included a 75-yard boot versus Nebraska and a 72-yard boom against Missouri.

Notebook

Fulhage enjoyed his second trip to the Playoffs in his five NFL seasons last year. He collected an AFC Championship ring for being on the Bengals squad that advanced to Super Bowl XXIII in 1988. Scott and his wife, Cyndy, are both very active in the Atlanta community. They visit hospitals and the pair also take a special personal interest in the Shepard Spinal Center, where they donate tickets to Falcon games for patients. Scott doesn't limit himself only to Atlanta as he takes the time to make personal appearances at schools in his hometown of Beloit, KA. The Fulhages hail from Kansas farm country and pursue the family business in the offseason. Their farm is only two miles from Scott's parents' place in Beloit.

Personal

When the Falcons' final team meeting was over, Scott promptly packed up his family in the Suwanee parking lot and headed back home to work on his Kansas farm. They, along with Scott's parents, harvest wheat and milo on 3,400 lush acres in Beloit, KA. Both Scott and Cyndy were reared on the farm and take turns driving the combine and other machinery. Cyndy, who hails from Rozel, KA, met Scott on the Kansas State campus and were married soon after. He tries to get the most out of everything and once had his engine overhauled on his 1984 Monte Carlo for $2,000 rather than buy a new car. At the prep level, Fulhage was a jack-of-all-trades on the gridiron as he played everything from linebacker to quarterback on a pair of state champions. He was also a basketball and track star. His agent's son designed a t-shirt featuring Scott's likeness in action with inscription, "Footage." The agricultural major enjoys eating sushi and has a soft spot for old cars. He pledged $900 for his on-field performance last season to the Shepherd Spinal Center. The Fulhages have two children, six-year-old Camille, and five-year-old Darrell John, who often visit their dad at Falcon practices.

Mike

GANN

76

Last Season

The Falcons' run support defense suffered a year ago with the absence of Mike Gann. One of the most competitive players on the roster, Mike was lost for the season with a neck injury in Week 7 and his string of never missing an NFL game due to an injury was snapped at an incredible 97 games. Mike sustained the injury in the Vikings contest in Week 2, but played through the injury until succumbing to surgery. At the time of his injury, Mike was his usual steady self as he was averaging nine tackles per outing, with 5 QB pressures in 5 games. Falcon coaches are anxious for the return of the hard working Gann to further bolster the line in 1992.

Pro Career

Despite last year's season-ending injury, Mike has been a picture of dependability in his career. He has started every Falcon game that he's played in (97) and leads all active players with 181 QB pressures. Gann helped the birds' stingy '90 defense pace the League by allowing only 3.3 yards per carry. He was also part of a unit that earned the NFL's Most Improved label in '86. The former Golden Domer has crossed the goal line twice for scores in his career, with a safety to his credit. His first tackle in the League was memorable as he trapped QB Eric Hipple of the Lions for a sack.

Year-By-Year

1990: He enjoyed his best season of his career with his personal-best 116 tackles to trail only Tim Green for the most by a lineman. Gann collared three, 11-tackle affairs, collected 10 tackles and a sack at Detroit, and registered a pair of nine-tackle games. His other top game came at the hands of the Saints when he had seven stops, a recovered fumble, a sack, and two QB pressures. He also blocked the first field goal of his career versus the Rams.

1989: Mike ended up sixth on the team with 99 tackles and again paced the club with 27 QB pressures. He also had a pair of sacks against the Redskins, 11 tackles versus the Jets, and denied Eric Dickerson on a 4th and one to keep the Falcons hopes alive in Indianapolis.

1988: Mike had 92 tackles and led the team with 25 QB hurries. His play also included four sacks, two pass deflections, two forced fumbles and two fumbles recovered. He scooped up a Randall Cunningham fumble in Philadelphia and rumbled 36 yards for the score. He also had a personal best 14 tackle game in Week 4 against the Cowboys, plus an 11-tackle game vs. the Rams.

1987: Moving around, Mike started seven at LE, two at RT in a shift to a 4-3 formation, and one at LT. He tied for the lead among Falcon linemen with 85 tackles in 12 games and led the team with 22 QB hurries.

1986: New defensive coordinator Marion Campbell moved Mike to left end for his 3-4 defense and Mike led the team with 43 QB hurries, had three fumble recoveries, 5.5 QB sacks, and his personal best 99 tackles. Mike enjoyed a two sack game (49ers), a safety (St. Louis), an 11-tackle game (Eagles) and a 12-yard fumble return (Lions).

1985: A sack in his first game was followed by a touchdown in his seventh NFL game (42-lateral return of fumble) vs. the Saints. He helped save a 14-13 win vs. Minnesota by recovering a fumble with 1:09 remaining in the game. His rookie campaign included five QB sacks and then shoulder surgery during the offseason.

Notebook

Mike is an intense competitor on the field, but one of the most likeable players off. His physical and emotional style of play belies the quiet, friendly side of his personality. An example of how well Gann and his fellow linemen communicate together came against Dallas in the season finale in 1990. Mike overheard the Cowboys play call as they huddled up in the Falcons endzone, so he told Tim Green they were going to run right at him. Tim shed his blocker and promptly registered his first NFL safety by dropping Emmitt Smith for two points. After a stellar career at Notre Dame, he seemed on his way to becoming a #1 draft pick until rumors abounded that he was going to sign with the Tampa Bay Bandits of the USFL. He originally signed on to play with the Oklahoma Sooners out of high school (and would have played with Rick Bryan and Scott Case), but turned to the Fighting Irish so it would be easier for his parents and friends in Chicago to watch him perform.

College

A big-play maker at Notre Dame, Gann collected 172 career tackles, including 34 for losses, and trapped the quarterback 21 times. He was voted the team's top defensive player in 1984 with 10 sacks, three forced fumbles and five recovered fumbles while playing all four years for coach Gerry Faust.

Personal

Michael Alan was born in Stillwater, Ok, but the Gann family moved on to Lakewood, CO as a youth. He was an all-state selection as a defensive end and guard on offense for Lakewood High as his senior team won the state title. The versatile athlete was also a catcher on the baseball team. The Marketing degree holder has spent time in the offseasons trying to acquire his Masters in Management. Always a big supporter in the community, Mike has lended his time and energies to a number of worthy causes throughout his career. His special interests are in the Boy Scouts and Georgia Special Olympics. The personable Gann loves the outdoors where he can fish off his bass boat. He also has been known to work in a few rounds of golf in his leisure time or put in time on the diamond as a Little League coach. Mike met his wife, Judy, at Notre Dame during his senior season. He and Judy have three children, Michael Joseph, Mindy, and Mitchell. The Ganns live in Alpharetta.

Moe
GARDNER

67

Last Season

Moe's immediate impact on the Falcons defense was far-reaching and recognized by writers across the country as he was voted Football Digest's Rookie of the Year and claimed runner-up honors in the balloting by Associated Press. Gardner won the starting nose tackle position with a strong camp and finished with the most tackles by a rookie defensive lineman in the last five seasons with 96 stops. He also outdistanced any rookie defensive player at any position last year. The consensus All-NFL rookie also added 3 QB sacks, 3 forced fumbles, and a team-high 38 QB pressures, through 14 starts and 16 games played. Moe's best games were against the Cardinals, with 12 tackles, a QB sack, and 3 QB pressures, the Saints with 10 stops, and the Skins with 9 tackles, and 5 QB pressures. One of his big hits resulted in a Jeff Carlson fumble which was scooped up by Oliver Barnett and returned 75-yards for a TD vs. Bucs. He constantly harassed Kansas City QB Steve DeBerg in his first pro game to record a career-high 6 pressures and registered 5 other pressures of Mike Tomczak of the Packers. In the Playoff victory over the Saints, he had 8 tackles and a forced fumble.

College Career

His college career can be summed up simply as record-breaking and award winning. For the Fighting Illini, Moe set a new school record with 54 tackles for losses in a career and tied the school mark with 20 tackles for losses in a season. His junior year, he was a finalist for the Outland Trophy and a semifinalist for the Lombardi Award. In the tough Big Ten Conference, Moe was a three-time first team all-Conference pick (he was second team all-Conference as a freshman) and was picked the Defensive Player of the Year in 1990 by the League's coaches. In '89 when he was picked as a consensus All-American, he was the first Illini defensive star to earn that recognition since Dick Butkus. He'll long be remembered at Illinois for a career that included 303 tackles, 54 tackles for losses of 223 yards, 18 QB sacks, 18 passes broken up, and 6 fumble recoveries.

Notebook

Gardner carries a thoughtful and quiet persona around with him in and away from the Falcons locker room. He is a devout and consummate family man who both married and became a father while in college. Moe and his wife, Mickie, worked as hard on their marriage as they did on their degrees. Moe would attend afternoon classes at Illinois and then go to practice while Mickie watched over their baby girl, Morgan. He would switch roles in the morning hours and watch Morgan as his wife made her way to class. They existed on a Pell Grant and summer money made from a job as part of a road-paving crew, while living in a small apartment off-campus. Their sacrifices paid dividends as Moe received his degree in sociology and Mickie accepted her medical sociology diploma. Gardner and the Falcons seem to be a perfect fit due to the demands placed on the lineman by coach Bill Kollar. The quick-footed former All-America makes up for his lack of straight line speed by shooting the gaps, out-quicking his opponents, and clever stunting. One other ingredient is also important in the makeup of this 6-2, 258 pounder, and that's heart. "I'm lucky to be in a place where I can use my talents," he said. "I love football and take pride in doing something well."

Personal

An Indianapolis native, Morris hails from strong roots. His father, Morris Sr., worked his way up the ranks of General Motors to auto-plant foreman, and his mother, Mynelle, was a kindergarten teacher. His grandfather, Albert Umphrey, enjoyed an All-America career at Tennessee State from 1935-38. Education has always been at the top of his priority list as he was an honor student as well as a top athlete in football and basketball at Cathedral High School in Indy. This well-rounded individual was taught to appreciate jazz and theater from his mother. He even took piano lessons as a fifth and sixth grader. Mynelle also used to tell young Moe stories about Paul Robeson, who was a football All-America, but also a recognized baritone, lawyer, actor, and political figure. Keeping everything in perspective, he understands there is more to life than just football. "You can only put on shoulder pads and butt helmets for so long, then you've got to make something of yourself. Football is only a small slice of life."

Tim

GREEN

99

Last Season

Tim was once again a stellar force in the Falcons trenches as he ended up fifth on the club with 117 tackles and a team-best five QB sacks for a minus 44 yards. He was also second on the team with 29 QB pressures and added two fumble recoveries to his totals. His best efforts were registered against Phoenix, with 12 tackles and three pressures, San Diego, with 10 stops, a sack and a fumble recovery, Washington with 10 tackles, and LA Raiders with 9 stops, 2 sacks and a pair of pressures. He accumulated 19 more tackles in the two Playoff games, plus a sack in each contest, and 5 pressures. For the second straight year, durable Tim was the only Falcons lineman to start every game and again led the team in sacks.

Pro Career

Green finally found a home on the Falcons defensive line in 1990 after experiencing several position changes in his first four years. In the past two seasons, he has played an integral part in the success of the Black Wave defense. During that time in his new position, he has recorded a personal best 238 tackles, with 11 QB sacks, and set a career-high with 121 stops in '90. He has played every linebacker spot since arriving in Atlanta in 1986. His role was diversified in 1989 when he performed as a linebacker/defensive end, which meant he lined up as a situational lineman, and he adapted to the position. When Glanville came to town, Tim assumed his old college slot on the line and began to prosper.

Year-By-Year

1990: Tim made a full-time switch to defensive line pay off as he established a personal-high with 121 tackles and paced the club in sacks with 6. He was the only lineman to start every game and was tied for the team lead with 4 forced fumbles. He collared 11 tackles and 6 QB pressures with two 10 tackle games vs. Bears and Saints. His two fumble recoveries and eight stops at Pittsburgh won him Miller Lite Player of the Game honors. He was impressive at his new position in the preseason where he registered three sacks against Green Bay.

1989: Green started 14 games at three different positions (ROLB, LOLB and RE) and collected his first 100-plus tackle season with a third-best 111 stops. His five QB sacks were third on the club and he also chipped in with 16 QB pressures, and a forced and recovered fumble.

1988: After six weeks on IR (elbow), Tim came on strong to record 50 tackles, including five starting assignments. Over the second half of the season, his play in a special "Waco Gang" defense (with him moving around) enabled the Falcons to yield just 95 points in the final eight games. He had a 10-tackle game vs. the Rams in Week 15.

1987: In Week 9, Tim's season was cut short with a knee injury. He had blocked a field goal to help save a win over the Redskins in Week 2. Then, the players strike came and Tim decided to stay and play. Against a 49ers "replacement" team of Montana, Craig, Clark, Francis, Fuller, etc., Tim had 15 tackles and a QB sack.

1986: He played the final 11 games of his rookie year, bouncing back from IR and a ruptured calf muscle. He made his first NFL start in the season finale (Lions) and responded with 12 tackles.

Notebook

Green is one of the most unique and interesting NFL players. He is constantly filling his life with new challenges. In the offseason, Tim works towards his law degree at Syracuse. At the same time, the busy Green also continues his karate classes with the hopes of acquiring his black belt someday. Last year, the co-valedictorian at his alma mater (3.83 GPA in English Lit) put the finishing touches on his novel, "The Ruffians." The novel is about a college player who is drafted into the NFL's Birmingham Ruffians. It chronicles his struggle playing for an unscrupulous owner and coach and involves the issues of steroids. His offseasons have also included on-camera work for an NBC sports station in Syracuse (WSTM-TV). During the season, he has been writing a weekly column in the Syracuse Herald-Journal entitled, NFL Notepad, and last year started a three-minute weekly commentary for National Public Radio. "I just try to get the most out of every day," Green explained. "I don't spend a lot of time sitting around and relaxing. I'm busy from the time I get up to the time I go to bed." Through his nomination, Green's high school science teacher, John Williams from Liverpool, N.Y., captured the NFL's first ever Teacher of the Year Award in '90. Tim's high school also reaped benefits by having a $10,000 scholarship fund started in their names. The former Rhodes Scholar nominee showed his dedication to the cause of education by shooting a poster for the Ga. Association of Educators that was supplied to every school throughout the state, plus a video that ran on local television. Tim and Mike Pritchard were dressed in their Falcon uniforms in the poster, but with books in their hands and donning graduation caps, with the inscription, "The Most Important Head Gear You'll Ever Wear." Green has survived on the defensive line without the "protype size" associated with his position through his dedication, guile, strength, and quickness. "Players come in all shapes and sizes," said Coach Glanville. "He may look like a guy who belongs in the choir, but he spills his guts on the field." Needless to say, he's been a natural fit in Glanville's system. "The difference between Jerry and a lot of guys is he doesn't look at anybody's physical stature," Tim said. "He looks at the heart."

College

The All-American defensive end used his quickness to collect 28.5 sacks in his last two seasons and 341 total tackles in his four-year career for the Orangemen. The senior co-captain was in the running for the Lombardi Trophy as one of three juniors and once blocked a Navy punt and returned it for a score. He was tabbed Sports Illustrated's Defensive Player of the Week twice in his career, once for his play as Syracuse upset No. 1 Nebraska, and recorded four sacks in a game against Virginia Tech.

Personal

Tim's main challenge in life and the one he spends the most time with is raising his family. The Green household has grown to four as wife, Illyssa, gave birth to daughter, Tessa, to go along with two-year-old son, Thane. Green grew up in the same Liverpool, N.Y. hometown that has produced NFLer Pete Holohan. His parents, Richard, a systems analyst, and Judy, a school teacher, had a big influence on Tim as a youth. They used to bring him books to read from the library every day and it's an enriching habit that he continues today. A highly recruited lineman, the N.Y. Player of the Year and Parade All-America shunned offers from such college powerhouses as Penn State and Notre Dame to stay close to home at Syracuse. His college coach is New England Patriots head boss Dick MacPherson who once said of Green, "Tim's the kind of guy governors and senators are made from!" He is a familiar face in the Atlanta community, especially to Eagle Boys Ranch and to area hospitals, and donates money to help the boys at the ranch through his on-field performances.

Michael

HAYNES

81

Last Season

Michael Haynes emerged as one of the top deep threats in the NFL last season as he remained healthy for an entire year for the first time in his career. The speedy Haynes enjoyed a career year as he established his name in NFL circles and set Falcon records. From the "Hail Mary" 44-yard game-winning catch versus the 49ers, to the seven-yard hitch, turned 61-yard game winner against the Saints, Michael's year was full of clutch performances. Here's the former Northern Arizona's list of accomplishments and top games in his fourth and finest season yet.

- Led all NFL receivers with a 22.4 per catch average.
- The 22.4 mark was the highest average by a receiver in the NFC with 50 or more catches in EIGHT SEASONS, since James Lofton of Green Bay posted the same average (58-1,300) back in 1983.
- Averaged an incredible NFL-best 44.9 yards per touchdown reception and one score every 4.5 catches, tops in League among players with 50 or more catches.
- Recorded 12 receptions of 30 yards or more (including Playoffs), with long touchdown catches of: 80, 75, 67, 61, 55, 46, 44, 43, and 30 yards, to go along with his other grabs of 57, 52, and 41 yards.
- Tied a club record with five 100-yard receiving games.
- Tied for 5th in NFC with 11 TD's and was 4th in yards with 1,122.
- Became only the 6th player in Falcon club history to total over 1,000 receiving yards. His 1,222 yards were the 4th-best ever in club annals.
- Established career-highs for receptions, yards, touchdowns, average, and long, for a single season.

- Collected a 187-yard game at New Orleans (5th highest on club charts).
- Amassed 144-yard outing in Playoffs at New Orleans (2nd best Playoff performance ever).
- Hauled in a club Playoff record 61-yard game-winning TD in Saints victory. Set a club mark with his pair of TD's in being named the NFL's Offensive Player of the Week for the Wild Card Playoffs.
- Caught a career-long 80-yard TD vs. Saints on national television and then knotted the score with under two minutes left from 18-yards out, despite taking crushing blow between two defenders. He set up the game-winning 50-yard FG in OT by grabbing a 57-yard pass from own two-yard line.

Pro Career

Haynes has taken his game to a new level in the Falcons Red Gun passing attack, establishing himself as one of the premier long distance threats in the League. Michael has always been considered a deep threat since putting on a Falcons uniform. But he consistently produced each game and stayed healthy in '91 to evolve into a weekly weapon in the Falcons high-powered arsenal. In his career, he has caught 41 passes for 20 yards or more, which means 31% of his total receptions (134) have gone for 20 yards or more. Also, 16 out of his 21 career touchdowns (counting playoffs) have been from 20 yards or more or 77% of his touchdowns have come from 20 yards and beyond. As a rookie, young Michael showed flashes with his pair of game-winning catches against the Eagles (49-yard bomb) and Buccaneers (37-yarder falling down in a driving rainstorm). In his second year, he continued to improve as he recorded a 190-yard receiving day against the Skins, with two scores out of his six catches, a 72-yard TD, and a five-catch affair versus Minnesota, to finish with a personal-best 40 receptions for 681 yards. A series of injuries effected his play in 1990 and limited him to only 10 starts and 31 catches. He did though, snare aeriels from 60 and 55-yards out.

Notebook

Michael is appropriately known to teammates as, "Flash," after the fictional comic book character who runs as fast as the speed of light. He even wears a t-shirt bearing the comic book hero. Haynes' heroics in the Playoffs were especially sweet since he was raised in New Orleans and grew up a Saints fan. "Haynes dooms his hometown..." were the headlines the next day in the newspaper as he bought 16 tickets for his family and friends. The way he managed to pull out the victory was bittersweet though, as he beat his good friend, Milton Mack, on his lightning 61-yard TD jaunt. He and Mack are close friends as they "hang out" in the offseason in the Bayou country. His Big Ben III catch to pull out the win over the Niners brought comparisons of another famous Big Ben grab over those same 49ers by another #81, Billy "White Shoes" Johnson. Hall of Famer and former head coach and passing guru Sid Gillman has watched tapes of Haynes and says, "This guy (#81) practically jumps right off the screen at me. On film, he looks like he combines the smoothness of (Hall of Famer and ex-Charger great) Lance Alworth and the deep threat of (former Raider All-Pro) Warren Wells." His football career had a far from auspicious start as he tried out at the junior college level for Eastern Arizona only because his friends were going out for the team. He had no prior organized football experience in high school or even Pop Warner even though he admits to playing a lot of street football. Michael did see his share of prep games, but only as a trumpet player in the band at Joseph Clark High in New Orleans. Through his play at Eastern Arizona, he gained a scholarship to Northern Arizona after weighing an offer from New Mexico. You can tell by Michael's long striding gait on the football field that he's had a strong background in track. He competed against Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis at the Olympic Trials in Indianapolis before signing a football contract and reporting to his first training camp in 1988. He was crowned the 100 and 200 meter champion of the Big Sky Conference and ran in the NCAA Championships as the anchor of his school's 400 meter relay team. He's run a 10.28, 100, and a 4.35 time in the 40. Chris Miller had a simple description of Haynes' game clincher against the Saints in the Playoffs in which he turned a seven-yard hitch into a 61-yard TD (beating Milton Mack, Sam Mills, and outrunning Venice Glenn.) "In those situations, you just get Michael the ball and let him do his magic-man act, that's all." Coach Glanville remarked, "The fastest touchdown I've ever seen." Falcons coach Junes Jones, who has played with and seen plenty of fast receivers in his tenure in the League, said quite frankly, "...If you're just talking about football-related stuff, I think he's the fastest player in the game." Haynes teamed with Andre Rison to form a deadly duo as they combined for 23 TD's to tie the tandem of Rice-Taylor for the NFL lead.

College

Michael's first taste of organized football came after he walked-on with friends to Eastern Arizona JC in Thatcher, Arizona. He made the squad as a cornerback and kick returner and rang up some good numbers with 65 tackles and five interceptions, along with a 20.6 KOR average and a 15.3 PR average. He was moved strictly to offense the next season and his career took off. Haynes played halfback (31-441-14.2 avg.) and wide out (12-267-22.3), scoring three times with an 80-yard catch to his credit. Michael accepted a scholarship to Northern Arizona where he finished with 49 receptions for 835 yards, nine scores, and a long of 81 yards. The versatile performer had one of the best kickoff return averages in the country as a senior with a 26.9 mark and posted a 17.5 per catch average as a junior. His 243-yard receiving day put him in the Lumberjack record book.

Personal

The quiet, unpretentious Haynes has a love of music that dates back to his days playing the trumpet in junior high school. He takes his fondness for tunes so far as to bring in his own personal portable stereo to play at his locker. One of his prized possessions is a beautiful brown Chow, named Nikki, which is often a passenger in his Jeep Rangler. His other vehicles of choice mirror his personality in the form of a fast and sleek red Porsche 911 and a Honda CBR1000 motorcycle. Ironically, this rising NFL star wears a tiny star on the right lens of his glasses for no apparent reason... "I just like stars." A native of New Orleans, Haynes spent time studying and practicing music as a youngster rather than playing sports. Like most things in his life, the level-headed Haynes took being drafted into the NFL in stride, as he had to be told by a teammate at track practice at NAU that he was picked by the Falcons. Over the past two seasons, he has donated money from performance pledges to the Children's Miracle Network and is active in many children's hospital visits. An avid basketball player, Michael played on the Falcons offseason team and participated in Deion Sanders' Prime Time Shootout charity game against pro baseball players. He lives in Alpharetta, Ga. when he's not visiting two of his biggest fans in mother, Georgia, and father, Jack Haynes, in the Crescent City. He competed in the NFL's "Fastest Man" competition in June.

OWNERS VOTE TO EXPAND NFL

At the May, 1991, Owners Meeting in Minneapolis, NFL owners voted to add two expansion teams for play in 1994, with realignment of the six divisions to be considered as well. An owners expansion committee, including Rankin Smith, has been reviewing potential cities. By fall of '92, the two teams will be voted on unless the labor-management issues constitute an impediment. The NFL has not expanded since 1976 when Tampa Bay and Seattle were added as the 27th and 28th teams.

Drew

86

Last Season

The ageless Drew Hill continued to get better as he enjoyed his finest season of his 12-year career by finishing 3rd in the entire NFL, 2nd in AFC, with 90 receptions. His 1,109 yards was the 6th best total in the League. By eclipsing the 1000-yard plateau, he became the only player in the history of the NFL to collect 4, 1000-yard seasons after turning 30. Drew kept his consecutive game streak alive by catching a pass in every contest to run his streak to 76 straight. Hill paced the Oilers in catches seven times and in receiving yards on six different occasions. The former Georgia Tech star combined with Haywood Jeffires (100 receptions) to amass the most catches by an NFL duo in the history of the League with 190 (Kellen Winslow & John Jefferson hauled in 171 with San Diego in 1980). In addition, he joined James Lofton in select company as the oldest players in NFL annals to register 1,000 receiving yards (35). He added two more 100-yard receiving games to his career ledger with 144 yards on a personal-best 11 totes vs. Cleveland and 129 on 6 grabs vs. Cincinnati. In two Playoff games, he was second on club charts with 11 catches for 98 yards and a touchdown, including a nine-catch effort in an opening round victory over the Jets to record the second-most receptions ever by an Oiler in a post-season game.

Pro Career

Hill heads into this season in 19th place on the NFL's all-time list with his 540 career receptions. His 8,824 receiving yards ranks him 17th on that prestigious list and he is 20th all-time with his 12,330 combined yards. Over the past seven years, the productive Georgia native has the third most receiving yards in the League with 7,477. He has scored 58 career touchdowns, totaled 27, 100-yard games, and has had six seasons with 60-plus catches. He left Houston as the club record holder with 480 receptions (passing Charley Hennigan) and 7,477 receiving yards (passing Ken Burrough). His 47 lifetime touchdowns is the second-best ever by a Oiler. Drew's career began as a 12th round draft choice of the LA Rams in 1979. He returned the first-ever kickoff in Anaheim Stadium back 98 yards for a touchdown. His time with the Rams also included leading the NFL in per-catch average at 27.9 in '84 and setting a League mark for most kickoff returns with 60 in '81. Loving artificial surfaces, evidently, 23 of his 27 100-yard games have come on turf fields.

Year-by-Year

1990: He set a then-career best with 74 catches, tying him with teammate Haywood Jeffires for the AFC lead, while totaling 1,109 yards (fourth time in career) through the air, third in AFC, in garnering a trip to the Pro Bowl. He matched his personal-best with 10 catches vs. Colts on 123 yards and ended up with five TD's for the year. He had his 25th, 100-yard receiving day of his career with 102-yard effort on Monday Night vs. Bills, and caught his 50th NFL TD at San Diego.

1989: Drew led the club in receiving yards for the fifth time with 938 and receptions with 66. He recorded a season-high nine aeriels for 101 yards and a score in a 35-31 win over Detroit. His diving 27-yard TD in a snowstorm made the highlight films in a 23-16 defeat of the Steelers. He saw action in 14 games, marking the first time since '83 that he did not play in all 16 non-strike games, because of a back injury.

1988: Hill paced the Oilers with 1,141 receiving yards and caught 72 passes (2nd in AFC) to earn his first Pro Bowl nod, but was unable to attend due to a chip fracture in his neck. The New England 1776 Club Player of the Year combined with Ernest Givens for the second straight year for most receiving yards (2,117) by a duo in the NFL. He tied or led the team in receptions 10 times during the year. His personal-best of three TD's against the Redskins (9 for season-best 148 yards) were the most by an Oiler in seven seasons and was his fourth multi-TD game of his career, as he won the AFC Offensive Player of the Week award.

1987: Starting all 12 non-strike games, he was the club leader with his 989 yards on 49 grabs. In the final eight games of the season, he registered an NFL-high six, 100-yard contests. His 20.2 per catch average was 4th in the NFL. He helped the Oilers clinch a playoff berth with a 109 yard, six-catch effort in a 21-17 win over the Bengals. He topped the team's playoff charts with 177 yards on 11 catches in a pair of post season contests.

1986: Hauled in a team-high 65 catches, 1,112 yards, and five TD's, on the year. His 81-yard TD snare was a career-long vs. Detroit and also had a 185 day vs. Cincinnati.

1985: In his first season in a Houston uniform, he started every game and caught more balls than his previous five in LA. He had 64 receptions for 1,169 yards (18.3 avg.), with a club-high nine scores. The yardage total was the fifth-best in Oiler history. Drew finished his initial AFC campaign by catching nine passes for 210 yards (4th-highest output), with four TD's, against the Colts in the season finale.

1984: He managed to start all 16 games, but logged time at the position with Ron Brown. He closed out the season with 27.9 yards a catch to pace the League. Hill also returned 26 kicks for 543 yards to establish a team mark for career KOR's (171) and KOR yards (3,348).

1983: He went on IR for the entire year with a herniated disk.

1982: He had seven receptions for 92 yards in a strike shortened season.

1981: Drew established an NFL record by returning 60 kickoffs for a Rams best of 1,170 yards. In 11 starts, he had 16 catches for 355 yards, a 22.2 avg., and three TD's.

1980: Hill put his name in the record book for running back the first ever kickoff at Anaheim Stadium 98 yards for a touchdown. He finished with 19 catches for 416 yards, including a 74-yard score vs. Falcons.

1979: During his rookie season, he played in Super Bowl XIV against the Steelers and snared a 28-yard pass. He was used mainly as a kick returner (40-803) but did grab four throws for 94 yards, including his first NFL TD from Pat Haden.

Notebook

Drew became one of the most recognizable Falcons when he signed with Atlanta because of his local ties. He is a former Newnan (GA) High School star who continued his football career at the college level at nearby Georgia Tech. Hill actually took a pay cut, but received the largest signing bonus in NFL Plan B history, to play for his hometown team as the Falcons intensified contract talks just days before the Plan B period was over and shocked Houston by inking the talented performer to a one-year deal. Ironically, Drew will be coached in Atlanta by a former teammate. Jimmy Robinson was a senior for the Yellow Jackets when Hill was a freshman. The Oilers, in general, and QB Warren Moon, in particular, will miss the varied skills of Hill. Drew was Moon's favorite target and also his 'go-to-guy' in clutch situations over the years. Houston traded a seventh round choice in '86 and a fourth rounder in '87 to the Rams for Hill following the 1984 season. His wealth of experience will no doubt be a positive influence on the rest of the young Falcons receiving corps.

College

The local product decided to stay in the area and attend Georgia Tech. He caught 56 passes for the 'Rambling Wreck' and led the nation with a 30.0 average on 19 kickoffs (for 570 yards and two TD's) as a senior. Besides the impressive return average, Hill grabbed 36 passes for 706 yards (19.6) and four scores during his last season as a Yellow Jacket to catch the eyes of NFL scouts. His career 28.1 KOR average (84-2361) is still one of the top marks in Tech history.

Personal

A standout in football, baseball, basketball and track at nearby Newnan High, Andrew Hill has been making his offseason address at a condo in northeast Atlanta for years. He owns a B.S. in Industrial Management from Georgia Tech and is a big collector of cars (his recent addition was a black Ferrari). When he's not on the football field, he can be found on the hard courts of Atlanta with many of his Falcons teammates. His other time is spent on his real estate investments and on running a Subway sandwich shop.

Chris

HINTON
TACKLE

75

Last Season

Chris' impressive second season in Atlanta culminated in his seventh Pro Bowl trip in Hawaii. He set an unofficial record when he played in his third different position at the League's post season all-star gala. The huge drive blocker opened up holes to allow Chris Miller to throw for the NFL's third-best TD total among all QB's with 26 passing touchdowns and finish 9th in passing yards with 3,103, en route to his first Pro Bowl. His huge presence in the lineup also helped produce the League's fifth-best scoring team (361 points) and the 8th-best Total Offense, while racking up 300 yards or more 11 times. He helped throttle the #1 ranked Saints defense with 27 and 23 points scored, respectively, in the pair of victories. Chris was part of a unit which only allowed a QB sack once every 17 pass attempts (31 in 531 total attempts), a team record. He was also throwing bodies around during Steve Broussard's two, 100-yard rushing days, Michael Haynes' five, 100-yard receiving games, Andre Rison's three receiving TD's, and Miller's four, three TD passing affairs.

Pro Career

When Hinton earned his seventh spot on the Pro Bowl roster at right tackle last year, it followed nominations at left tackle and right guard, for a total of three different positions, an NFL-first. Chris' career in the south started slowly as he and the club worked through a new contract during summer camp in '90. When he signed his deal, he was switched to unfamiliar territory on the left side of the line. He injured his calf in the final preseason game at New England to further his problems. But like he has always done in the past, big Chris re-grouped and received his first starting assignment as a Falcon in Week 6 against the 49ers. He hasn't missed a start since! Chris became the first rookie in the NFL to be voted to the Pro Bowl in 1983 when he was chosen for his play at right guard. Hinton's first pro setback came when he fractured his fibula in Week 7 in '84 to end his streak of starts at 21 in-a-row. He was moved to left tackle in 1985 and garnered another Pro Bowl trip. Chris anchored the Colts front line that had the highest rush per average for a season in over 10 years with a 5.0 mark. He filled in at left guard for the last three contests of the 1986 season due to injuries while still starting the previous 13 at tackle.

Notebook

The acquisition of Hinton was a key component in the three-way swap between the Falcons and Colts prior to draft day 1990. Chris and Andre Rison were traded from the Colts with a #1 pick to the birds in exchange for Atlanta's #1 overall pick, in which Indianapolis chose QB Jeff

George. Chris is used to being involved in a big trade package because he was originally sent to the Colts, along with QB Mark Herrmann and a #1, after the Broncos selected him with the fourth overall choice in 1983. In return, Denver received QB John Elway. He upped his games started total to 121 after last season's perfect mark, while seeing action in 126 NFL games. Chris currently has a streak of 28 consecutive games started as he tries to break his personal-best mark of 34 (from 1986-89). When he inked his new four-year deal in 1990 he was the League's highest paid offensive lineman.

College

An academic-minded Hinton decided to forego other Big Ten offers and attend Northwestern because of the educational opportunities. Chris played three different positions with the Wildcats and began his collegiate career as an outside linebacker. After six starts and 46 tackles as a freshman, he was switched to TE in his seventh game as sophomore. He won the starting job a year later and caught 19 passes for 265 yards, including an 83-yard afternoon against nemesis Michigan. New Vikings Head Coach Dennis Green moved him to left tackle in the Spring of his senior season. "After my years with the 49ers I knew what was needed to be a left tackle in the pros and Chris was a classic," said Coach Dennis Green. Despite being an All-America and All-Big Ten selection, Green had to call in some favors to get Chris invited to the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl all-star games. Scouts took notice of the team MVP from there and he was taken fourth overall in the draft, ahead of such names as Dan Marino, Jim Kelly, and Ken O'Brien, and behind Elway, Eric Dickerson and Curt Warner. He earned his college degree in Sociology.

Personal

A Chicago native, Hinton was reared in the tough south side section of town. At Wendell Phillips High, where students now must pass through metal detectors to get through the front door, Chris was an exceptional athlete and student. He participated in football, basketball, track and wrestling in his active athletic prep career. But the tensions in the school were so distressing to a young and impressionable Hinton that he walked off the football field one day. His principal and coach talked him out of quitting the team and his career took off as he garnered all-city, all-state and all-America honors. He gave something back to his former school when he gave the commencement address to the class of '90 with a speech called, "Don't Be Afraid to Dream." His high school teacher, Leroy Lovelace, captured the League's teacher of the month of November in '90 through his nomination. A giver in the community, he has worked on a fund raiser for the Association for Retarded Citizens of Cobb County and visited hospitals. Chris and his wife, Carole, can be found with their one-year-old daughter, Caris, and two golden retrievers, Harpo and Sophia, in Atlanta in his off hours.

Houston

HOOVER
GUARD

69

Last Season

Rugged Hoover managed to start every contest for the second time in his four years in the League despite a series of nagging injuries. Houston played on a bad left knee and with an injured right shoulder which both required offseason surgery. The gritty five-year veteran was another punishing presence at his left guard position for the second straight year. Through his sturdy influence on the Falcons front lines, the birds were able to improve again in the areas of points scored, total offense, passing and rushing offense, touchdowns scored and touchdowns passing. He helped pave the way for the Falcons Red Gun attack to record nine games with 21 or more points scored and produce over 300 yards in 11 of 16 contests. Through his efforts, he was able to make it possible for QB Chris Miller to play in his first Pro Bowl, while seeing WR Andre Rison advance to his second straight trip to Hawaii. His pugnacious pass blocking enabled the Falcons to set a team record by allowing only 31 sacks in 531 passing attempts (1 every 17 tosses).

Pro Career

Houston has now upped his games started numbers to 56 in his total of 63 NFL games played. He has trotted onto the field for the opening lineup 27 out of 32 possible starts since moving back to his natural guard position in 1990 (with another start at left tackle). His initial starting call came at right tackle versus the Seahawks in Week 5 in 1988 in his All-Rookie campaign as he shutdown leading sacker Jacob Green to a single tackle. His indoctrination came a week earlier when he lined up against Ed "Too Tall" Jones in the second half against Dallas. He has always been known as a "gamer" in the Falcons camp for his ability to play through a series of injuries. The no-nonsense competitor practiced at three different spots last year due to injuries on the line and trades and had to switch back to tackle for a start.

Notebook

The former Jackson State star began his pro career as a tackle so the Falcons could take advantage of his superb technique, reach and footwork. A natural guard, Houston just picked up where he left off in college when asked to return to that same position with the Falcons in '90. Hoover makes it a conscious habit of putting something back into the community. He draws plenty of attention from kids with his warm smile and congenial personality in his offseason crusade to speak to schools back in Yazoo City, MS and in Atlanta. He's also a popular figure in local hospital visits and is a member of the Big Brothers program. A regular contributor to Atlanta's Sports Carnival to benefit cancer research at Emory University, he enjoys both watching and playing basketball.

College

The relentless Hoover worked himself into an All-SWAC and Black College All-America player for Jackson State. The team captain was known as the top lineman in the conference as a senior and was a leader by example as he didn't miss a game (and only a few practices) in his three-years in the starting lineup. He shunned offers from Mississippi State, Mississippi, and Alcorn State to following in his uncle's footsteps to attending JSU. Houston lived up to the term, student-athlete, by posting a 2.5 GPA and acquiring his Business Management degree.

Personal

A Mississippi native of tiny Yazoo City, Houston Roosevelt fills a lot of ticket requests when Atlanta travels to New Orleans. He hails from a family of two brothers and a pair of sisters of strong-willed Dora Hoover. Dora is more than a mother to Houston for she also fills the role of a motivational coach. He has a kid brother, James, who plays linebacker at Holmes Junior College. He lettered in two sports, football and basketball, back in his hometown high school and worked hard to receive a diploma in Business Management from JSU. "Hoover The Mover" has exceptional lower back, thigh and leg strength.

FALCONS COACHING FELLOWSHIP

During the Falcons summer training camp, a pair of former NFL players will work with the coaching staff through the Minority Coaching Fellowship Program.

Greg McCrary, a local product out of Clark Atlanta University, played tight end for the birds from 1975-77. The Griffin, Ga. native spent two years on the staff at Akron after receiving his Masters degree. McCrary is currently the head coach of Druid Hills High School in Atlanta and has also held previous coaching stints at Rockdale and Forest Park High Schools.

Maurice Tyler hails from Baltimore, Maryland and had an 11 year pro career in the NFL, USFL and CFL. Originally a draft pick of the Buffalo Bills in 1972, Tyler moved on to the Detroit Lions in 1976 where he was coached by Jerry Glanville. He is the boss at nearby North Clayton High in College Park, Ga.

This program helps to develop future NFL coaches as Ollie Wilson turned his fellowship into a full-time position with the Falcons as running backs coach in 1990.

Norm
KICKER

Last Season

When the Falcons were looking for more consistency in their kicking game they couldn't have asked for anything better with the acquisition of the veteran Norm Johnson. The 11-year pro stepped in and promptly had one of his finest seasons as he booted 15 consecutive field goals and was perfect inside 45 yards by hitting all 17 of his tries. He broke Mick Luckhurst's mark for best FG percentage in a season by kicking 19 of 23 on the year (.826). His 15 in-a-row through the goalposts might have ended with a 49-yard miss in the season finale against Dallas, but there were plenty of big kicks in "The Streak." For example, Norm's 50-yarder in overtime at the Superdome handed the Falcons a hard-fought, come-from-behind 23-20 victory in front of a nationally televised audience that kept their hopes of an NFC Western Division title alive. His pair of field goals (28, 36) and extra point accounted for the winning margin as the Falcons edged the Chargers to break their 19-game road losing skid. Johnson hit four field goals (29, 43, 44, 30) to aide the birds in the upset at San Francisco and he returned to the site of an earlier triumph to boot two field goals (44, 36) and a pair of PAT's in the club's road Playoff win against the Saints. For his efforts, Norm was named the NFLPA's Kicker of the Year.

Pro Career

Johnson spent the first nine seasons of his career in Seattle where he left as the Seahawks all time scorer with 810 points. He led the AFC club in the scoring department every season and holds team records for: most field goals (159), attempts (228), PAT's (333), attempts (338), and consecutive PAT's (165). His name is also in Seattle's record book for his 110 points in '84, most in a single season, and most consecutive games scoring at 48. He also paced the entire AFC in '84 in field goal accuracy with a .697% (20-24) clip. Norm tied an NFL record in '86 with five FG's of 50 yards or more and finished the season with team-bests of 22 FG's in 35 attempts. With his strong kickoffs, Seattle led the League twice in kick coverage (1982-83), posting the second-lowest figure in NFL history in '82 (allowing a 15.0 mark). The former free agent from UCLA has kicked three or more field goals in a game 15 times in his career and has 10 career field goals from 50 yards and beyond. Johnson's 95 points last year for the Falcons was the sixth-best scoring output ever. Heading into this season, Norm is 24th on the NFL's all-time scoring list with his 905 points and also 24th with 178 FG's. His .709 career FG % places him 14th on the list of active kickers (see chart).

College

Norm made an impression on the pro scouts when he booted 14 out of 20 field goals and all 34 PAT tries for the Bruins of UCLA during his senior campaign. His leg strength was particularly evident as he kicked 7 of 11 through the uprights from 40 yards and beyond with a long boot of 49 yards. The Business Economics major made good on 10-14 FG's and 32-33 extra points as a junior after being the Bruins designated kickoff man during his freshman and sophomore campaigns.

Notebook/Personal

An entrepreneur, Johnson runs his own trading card business called, "All-Pro Trading Cards." He has a pair of stores in Washington state and one in California. Norm was an all-around athlete at Pacifica High in Garden Grove, CA as he lettered in baseball and soccer, besides his kicking duties for the football team. His prep career also included a stint at tight end. Sports is in his genes as his father, Howard, was a football and baseball standout in college. Norm's brother, Mitch, also played collegiately at UCLA.

Keith

JONES
 RUNNING BACK

38

Last Season

Jones experienced a frustrating year as his third NFL season was cut short because of a neck injury which required surgery. He began the year on a high note as he gained a career-best 74 yards on 18 carries in the season opener at Kansas City. But he sustained the neck problem in that game and was never the same as he ended up with 126 yards on the ground and caught 6 passes for 58 yards, before going on Injured Reserve after Week 5 against New Orleans.

Pro Career

Before last season's mishap, Jones was just what the Falcons had expected when he was chosen in the third round of the '89 draft. The all-purpose performer was in select company as he totaled over 1,000 yards in his first season (only five rookies hit that mark.) Keith scored five touchdowns over a five game stretch and accumulated 100 combined yards five more times, with a top game of 149 coming against the Patriots. He went the distance with the second half kickoff 76 yards to put his name in the record book for the 7th longest KOR in team annals to help knock the Cowboys out of the playoff picture in the season finale in 1990. He ranked fifth on the club with his 524 all-purpose yards and chipped in with 17 special teams tackles in his sophomore campaign. Jones has recorded gains of 35 yards or more in four separate categories (rushing, receiving, passing and kickoff return) in his short career.

Notebook

Falcon coaches will be anxious for the return of "RoboBack" this year. Named after the character in the RoboCop movies, Keith can do it all for the birds as his versatility is his strongest suit. Besides his duties in the backfield and on special teams, he's also the team's designated emergency quarterback. He exhibited his aerial mastery by completing a 37-yard pass to Andre Rison against Phoenix in 1990. He was equaling impressive in college as he carried a 5-8 lifetime mark, with four scores. Keith is different from most pro athletes who are usually big sports fans. He doesn't care to watch sporting events in his spare time. He made a smooth transition to the pro game because he ran a similar style offense while at Illinois under John Mackovic.

College

"Mr. Everything" at Illinois, a busy Keith finished third on the school's rushing charts with 2,106 yards, sixth on the receiving list with 93 catches, and third on the return ledger with 49 for 1,070 yards. Besides his passing exploits, he also got in the punting act with three kicks and a 37.7 average. The second team All-Big Ten selection notched the third-best rushing season in school history as a senior with 1,108 yards and 10 TD's. He also grabbed a team and career-high 46 passes in his last year in Champagne, IL. Keith's best college games were an 186-yard rushing day vs. Utah, a 13-catch 119-yard receiving contest vs. Michigan State and an 111-yard return game vs. Iowa. He was voted MVP as a sophomore when he paced the conference (and was 5th in the country) in kickoffs with an average of 26.5 and recorded long rushes of 64, 54 and 53 yards and return longs of 61 and 50 yards.

Personal

Keith is a devoted outdoorsman who prefers fishing to just about any other leisure activity. He still talks about snaring a 15 pound catfish as a youngster off the same Mississippi River spot where he still fishes today. His most prized possession is his fully restored 1967 red Camaro. He also enjoys the driving pleasures of his motorcycle. He hails from a big family of three brothers (Terry, Tony, Patrick) and a sister (Donna), from a town outside of St. Louis. Webster Groves High School in Rock Hills, MO brought the talents of Jones to the forefront with a sports career that included football, basketball and track. The St. Louis Player of the Year and All-American runner tallied 1,507 yards, scoring 20 TD's, as a senior. Keith was recruited by the likes of Iowa and Nebraska before settling on Illinois' pro style offense. His other passions include partaking in a game of pool or bowling while listening to some soft R&B sounds and jazz artist Grover Washington.

Tony

83

Last Season

The Falcons landed a coveted Plan B prospect when they signed Tony Jones away from the Oilers. The speedy Jones will be looked upon to provide a complement to Michael Haynes on the right side. He played in all 16 games for the talent-laden receiving corps (Givens, Jeffires, Hill, Duncan) in Houston a year ago. Tony finished with 19 receptions for 251 yards and two touchdowns. His 13.2 yards per catch average was the second highest on the team and the lightening-quick performer boasted the Oilers longest reception of the season with a 68-yarder off the hands of Cody Carlson against the Bengals. The ex-Texas wide out was one of the long distance threats in a 'run and shoot' offense that was the fourth highest scoring unit in the NFL (with 386 points scored). His experience in a similar style offense in Atlanta should prove beneficial.

Pro Career

In two years in Houston, Jones hauled in 49 passes for 660 yards and eight TD's. As a rookie, he appeared in 15 games and was sixth on the club with 30 receptions for 409 yards and a 13.9 average. His first NFL catch was a touchdown from 15 yards out at Fulton County Stadium on Sept. 9, 1990. He added five touchdowns to his tally for a total of six scores in his initial season. He recorded a season-long best of 47 yards and also had a 33-yard scoring grab to his credit. Tony's five-catch outing versus the Browns as a rookie is still a personal best.

Notebook

Jones is reunited with former Oiler teammate Drew Hill as the pair fled Houston for the Plan B market. Tony is one of the fastest players in the NFL as he takes his blazing 4.27 speed in the 40 onto the new turf at the Georgia Dome. He competed in the "NFL's Fastest Man" competition in 1990. The small but sturdy performer will play opposite Olympic Trial speedster Michael Haynes to provide the birds with another deadly deep threat in the Red Gun attack. This all-around athlete once qualified for the NCAA track championships and was a member of the Longhorns basketball team under coach Tom Penders that advanced to the NCAA tournament. His athletic career after high school started on the basketball court at Angelina (TX) Junior College before transferring to Texas to play major college football. The speed merchant was a runner-up in the 200 meter dash at the SWC Track Championships and qualified for the NCAA Championship in that event and the 100 meter dash.

College

Before he left the Austin, Texas campus, Tony would place his name first in yards, 100-yard games and second in receptions. He caught 108 throws for 1,842 yards for a 17.1 average with 11 TD's, and ran back 22 kickoffs for 466 yards, and three punts for 30 yards. As a senior, he tallied 30 catches for 449 yards and two TD's while running eight times for 104 yards and a score. During his junior year, he had a career-best, 42 receptions to tie Eric Metcalf for the team lead with 838 yards and two TD's in 11 starts. The first team All-SWC selection had six catches for 177 yards versus Texas Tech and on the season's final weekend grabbed six aerials for 139 yards with a 76-yard TD against Texas A&M. His second season for Texas included: a game winning 18-yard TD grab with 1:48 left vs. Arkansas, five catches for 173 yards and TD's of 71 and 62 yards vs. Houston, and eight receptions for 242 yards with touchdowns of 77 and 40 yards in a Bluebonnet Bowl win over Pittsburgh.

Personal

A Texas native all of his life, Anthony Bernard excelled at Grapeland (TX) High School in football, basketball and track. The explosive open field runner gained 1,200 yards as a senior, including returning four punts and four kickoffs for touchdowns. He also made his mark in track by earning a state individual title in the 200 meter dash as a junior. His high school exploits were recognized by the city of Grapeland as the town held, "Tony Jones Day" in 1991.

NFL PERSONNEL FACTS

Waivers

The waiver system is a procedure by which player contracts or NFL rights to players are made available by a club to other clubs in the League. During the procedure the 27 other clubs either file claims to obtain the players or waive the opportunity to do so—thus the term "waiver." Claiming clubs are assigned players on a priority based on the inverse of won-and-lost standing. The claiming period normally is 10 days during the offseason and 24 hours from early July through December. In some circumstances, another 24 hours is added on to allow the original club to rescind its action (known as a recall of a waiver request) and/or the claiming club to do the same (known as withdrawal of a claim). If a player passes through waivers unclaimed and is not recalled by the original club, he becomes a free agent. All waivers from July through December are no recall and no withdrawal. Under the Collective Bargaining Agreement, from February 1 through October 16, any veteran who has acquired four years of pension credit may, if about to be assigned to another club through the waiver system, reject such assignment and become a free agent. On Sept. 22, 1992, priority on waiver claiming is based on current standings.

Active List

The Active List is the principal status for players participating for a club. It consists of all players under contract, including option, who are eligible for preseason, regular season, and postseason games. In 1992, teams will be permitted to open training camp with no more than 80 players under contract and thereafter must meet a series of mandatory roster reductions prior to the season opener. Teams will be permitted to dress up to 45 players for each regular season and postseason game during the 1992 season; in addition, each club will have an Inactive List of two players. Maximum roster limits and dates for 1992 are:

August 25 active list of 60 players, 4 p.m.

August 31 active list of 45 players (plus two-player Inactive List), Final 47, Noon

In addition to the Active List limits described above, there also is an overall roster limit of 80 players that is applicable to players on a club's Active, Inactive, or Exempt Lists, and any players on Reserve as Injured, Physically Unable to Perform, Non-Football Illness/Injury, and Suspended.

Practice Squad

Will consist of five rookie or first-year players and will begin on August 27, after waivers clear from the final 47-player cut. All players will have cleared Waivers before being signed. They are eligible to practice with the team, but must sign a full contract before playing in a game. An activation move is not required for a practice player to move to the regular roster. Any NFL team can sign a player off any other team's practice roster.

Reserve List

The Reserve List is a status for players who, for reasons of injury, retirement, military service, or other circumstances, are not immediately available for participation with a club. Players on Reserve/Injured after the final cut date are not eligible to practice or return to the Active List until six regular-season games have been played.

Each club will have five free activations for players placed on Reserve/Injured after the final cutdown. Players also can be returned to the club's Active List if they clear Procedural Recall waivers. Any player placed on Reserve/Injured prior to or concurrent with the final cutdown may not return to the club nor practice with the team that year. Clubs participating in postseason competition will be granted an additional activation for each postseason game, provided they have exhausted all previous activations.

Players in the category of Reserve/Retired/Did Not Report, or Reserve/Veteran Free Agent Asked to Re-Sign may not be reinstated during the period from 30 days before the end of the regular season through the postseason.

Trades

Unrestricted trading between the AFC and NFC is allowed in 1992 through October 8, after which trading of player contracts/rights will end until January 27, 1993.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURES

The following procedures will be used to break standing ties for postseason playoffs and to determine regular-season schedules.

To Break a Tie Within a Division

If, at the end of the regular season, two or more clubs in the same division finish with identical won-lost-tied percentages, the following steps will be taken until a champion is determined.

Two Clubs

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games between the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, if applicable.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

Three or More Clubs

(Note: If one team wins multiple-team tiebreaker to advance to playoff round, remaining teams revert to step 1 of applicable two-club format, i.e., either in division tiebreaker or Wild Card tiebreaker. If two teams in a multiple-team tie possess superior marks in a tiebreaking step, this pair of teams revert to top of applicable two-club format to break tie. One team advances to playoff round, while other returns to original group and step 1 of applicable tiebreaker).

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games among the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

To Break a Tie for the Wild Card Team

If it is necessary to break ties to determine the three Wild Card clubs from each conference, the following steps will be taken.

1. If the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tiebreaker.
2. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the following steps.

Two Clubs

1. Head-to-head, if applicable.
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
4. Best average net points in conference games.
5. Best net points in all games.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best net touchdowns in all games.
8. Coin toss.

OPENING DAY

In 26 season openers, the Atlanta Falcons have a 14-12 record. At home, the mark is 6-5, on the road, it's 8-7. In openers, the Falcons have scored a club records 62 points (vs. New Orleans, '73) and they have a day when they were shut out (Dallas, '74). On defense, they've posted a shutout (New Orleans, '81) and allowed as many as 48 (Tampa Bay, '87). In the 1980's, the Falcons were 5-5 and so far in the '90's, they are 1-2. The club lost their first three season openers, finally winning one in 1969 (vs. San Francisco). The most common opening opponent has been New Orleans (six times and all six are Falcon wins).

Mike

78

Last Season

Kenn went about his unusual business of securing the Falcons left flank in his 14th season on the job. He missed only one game (Washington in Week 11) due to a partially torn knee ligament but the birds run to the Playoffs couldn't keep this cagey veteran out of the lineup. Despite facing some of the NFL's best outside rushers, he allowed only a single sack all season and that came in the second to last weekend against Seattle (and Tony Woods). Mike completely shut down the League's top sacker and Defensive Player of the Year TWICE last year as Pat Swilling of the Saints never registered a sack when facing the formidable Kenn. His dominating pass blocking allowed the Falcons to set a team record by giving up only 31 sacks in 531 passing attempts. He bulldozed holes so the club could total over 300 yards of offense in 11 games, pass for over 200 yards 11 times, and rush for over 100 yards in 8 contests. Mike helped his quarterback (Chris Miller) and wide receiver (Andre Rison) teammates get to the Pro Bowl while he was picked as an alternate. But honors abounded for the former #1 pick from Michigan as he was chosen to the coveted Associated Press' first team All-Pro squad, All-NFL by Pro Football Weekly, All-Pro by Football News and Football Digest and to the first team All-NFC by UPI.

Pro Career

Mike has shown that he gets better with age as he now stands behind only Jeff Van Note in games played and seasons of service in Falcons history with 205 and 14, respectively. He has performed in all six Playoff games in Falcon history with the pair of contests last year. Kenn has been voted to five Pro Bowls, second most by an Atlanta lineman, and was termed the League's top lineman by many from 1980-84. His 90 consecutive games started streak is the third longest in team annals. Mike has always been one of the best conditioned players on the team due to a concentrated effort to work-out year round. His intense training habits could be the reason his partially torn knee ligaments last season weren't career-threatening as was feared. He's only missed an incredible eight games in 14 years and the most time he's been out of action was five games in '85 because of torn knee ligaments. He's been in the lineup during the top three rushing seasons and the top three passing years in Falcon history. Mike has opened up holes to allow such players as Steve Bartkowski, William Andrews, Alfred Jenkins, Billy Johnson, Gerald Riggs and John Settle to go on to the Pro Bowl. Kenn was there as Andre Rison set a team record for most catches in a season and during Chris Miller's 37 of 66 passing effort.

Notebook

When Kenn witnessed Michael Haynes' last second Hail Mary catch that defeated the 49ers, he experienced a sense of Deja Vu. Mike was in the lineup in 1983 when the Falcons turned in their second Big Ben play in franchise history to edge those same Niners. Besides his exploits against Pat Swilling, Mike has also shutout the likes of perennial All-Pro Lawrence Taylor (no sacks, 4 tackles), and Super Bowl MVP Harvey Martin (no sacks in '81 playoffs), among others. He's protected Falcons passers, who've recorded 5, 3,000-yard seasons, and opened holes for Falcon runners, who've had 8, 1,000-yard rushing campaigns. The active community participant won the 25th annual Byron "Whizzer" White Award for his outstanding civic duties to put him in the company of such past winners like Bart Starr, Gale Sayers and Franco Harris. Mike continues to visit local hospitals and he and his wife, Joanie, have been instrumental in organizing the Falcons' annual charity event, "Holiday Evening With The Stars," which has raised over $50,000 each year for the Starlight Foundation (grants wishes to seriously ill children.) He is the team's spokesman for TEAM Georgia (Techniques for Effective Alcohol Management) and a colorful speaker for boys and girls youth clubs. He received a proclamation from the Atlanta City Council for a benefit he helped coordinate that raised over $450,000 for two paralyzed police officers (J.J. Biello and Richard Williams). He's also on the board of trustees for Starlight Foundation and was the winner of the 1991 "Peach of an Athlete" award from the Boy Scouts of America.

College

Playing for Bo Schembechler at Michigan, Mike was a All-America as a senior and a member of two Rose Bowl teams that captured a pair of Big 10 titles. He built himself into a starter in his third game as a sophomore by beefing up in the chow lines after coming to Ann Arbor as a 207-pound freshman (and worked his way up to 235 lbs.). He received his B.A. degree in General Studies.

Personal

Michael Lee was born and reared in Evanston, Illinois near Chicago. He performed as an offensive tackle on one side of the line and then played defensive end on the other for Evanston High School. Other sports he participated in at the prep level included hockey (defenseman) and lacrosse (center defenseman). A workout nut, he insists on finding a weight room close by even when he goes on vacation. Kenn's culinary tastes began in college and continue today. He swears by his Super Bowl chili (which takes four days to prepare) and pastas. The Kenn family has four members with wife, Joanie, and daughters, Lisa,6, and Kristy, 2.

LE BEL
TE/SNAPPER

88

Last Season

Harper's third season in the NFL, with his fourth NFL team, was stopped after three games due to a fractured right wrist suffered against the San Diego Chargers in Week 3. He spent the entire rest of the '91 campaign on Injured Reserve. Le Bel performed the long snapping duties for the birds all preseason and in their first three outings. He is the front-runner to carry out those responsibilities this season.

Pro Career

Harper joined Buddy Ryan's Eagles as a Plan B free agent from Seattle in '90 and was termed "the NFL's best long snapper" by his former coach. Le Bel performed the snapping tasks for punts, field goals and extra points in all 16 games for Philadelphia and also saw action in their short yardage offense as well as on kickoff and kickoff return teams. He made 10 special teams tackles on the year. The back-up tight end also snared his first and only NFL pass for a nine yard gain. Le Bel was a 12th round draft choice of the Kansas City Chiefs in 1985. He was switched to center in his first NFL training camp with the Chiefs but had trouble adjusting to the change. After being released, he had various tryouts before catching on with the Chargers replacement squad in 1987. He was invited to the Cowboys and Bucs camps in 1988 but was released before the season began. After signing a free agent contract with the Seahawks in 1989, he made the club as the team's snapper and situational tight end.

Notebook

Harper received his bachelor of arts degree in business administration and marketing from Colorado State. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and his father is a flight analyst pilot. He began to experiment with long snapping in high school as he was relegated to the sidelines for his first two years with Osgood-Schlatter disease (involves leg muscle growth). He was featured in a public service spot for the state of Pennsylvania's Special Olympics to promote a masquerade party which benefited research for the disease.

College

The big target still ranks fourth in career receptions in the Colorado State annals with 89 (for 1,057 yards). His 59 catches (for 729 yards) as a junior is also the fourth-best single season school mark. Harper was an All-Western Athletic Conference honorable mention honoree for two years for the Rams.

Personal

Brian Harper was a football, basketball, baseball and track standout at Notre Dame High School in Granda Hills, CA. He spends his spare time playing the guitar. He has a brother, Robbie, and a sister, Maureen and lives in Sherman Oaks, CA in the offseason.

Robert
LYLES
LINEBACKER

54

Last Season

In his second season in Atlanta, Robert started 14 of his 16 games played in the Black Wave defense at his familiar outside linebacker position. He totaled 51 tackles on the year with 9 QB pressures and 3 passes defended. Lyles' best outing last season was against the Saints as he registered 10 tackles, a QB pressure and a pass defended. In the playoff grudge match at the Superdome, the heady Lyles recovered Ken McAfee's fumble at the Saints 30-yard line with seven minutes left and the scored tied 20-20. The rain and mud in Washington didn't stop the veteran from TCU from making 8 tackles, despite spraining his knee earlier in the game.

Pro Career

A veteran of eight NFL years, Lyles has withstood the weekly wars to play in 110 games with exactly 100 starts to his credit. A solid contributor on three Houston Oiler playoff teams, he received the starting call in 71 straight (non-strike) games from 1985-89. "Captain Video" led the defense with 132 and 135 tackle seasons, respectively, from 1985-86, while helping to turn around the fortunes of a team that experienced six consecutive losing seasons. He's performed in seven playoff games in his career thanks to a pair of postseason encounters a year ago. His NFL totals are impressive with his 610 tackles, 10 sacks, 10 interceptions, 7 FR and 4 FF. Robert played in all 16 games last year for the fourth time in his productive career.

Notebook

Robert is the one who first called the Houston Oilers home, the "House of Pain," at mid-field during the coin toss of a game at the Astrodome and the popular nickname continues today. He will no doubt be counted on for leadership in choosing a proper moniker for the Falcons new Georgia Dome. The easygoing Lyles goes by a catchy nickname himself of "Captain Video." He received the name from Coach Glanville who appreciated the young rookie taking game film home to study. His name is in the NFL record book for the 8th longest fumble return in League history by scooping up a Larry Kinnebrew miscue and rambling 93 yards for a score. Even though he's in the "thirty something" crowd now, Robert will always be in the fast lane, turning heads with his slick 1989 white Chevrolet Corvette.

College

Originally a running back at Texas Christian for two years, the agile Lyles shifted to linebacker and proceeded to finish fifth on the squad as a senior with 89 tackles. He also was a down defensive end for some of his last college season and added three sacks and nine tackles for losses. One of his biggest thrills as a Horned Frog was scampering 80 yards for a score off a fumble return against rival Texas. The amiable Lyles, who went by the name of "Roger Ram Jet," won the team's annual leadership award.

Personal

Robert Damon was a stellar football, basketball, baseball and track athlete at Belmont High School in Los Angeles. Lyles was twice named to the All-City of LA team and All-District in football. He lives by his nickname by watching all kinds of videos. He also likes to dabble in photography in his spare time when he's not spending quality time with his wife, Pam, daughter, Delisa and son, Bryan. The Lyles family shuttle between Houston, Sugarland, Texas, and brief stops in California in the offseason.

Tim
McKYER
22

Last Season

It was another solid year for a solid veteran as Tim McKyer proved his worth in the Falcons tight man-to-man coverage schemes in his first season in Atlanta. Tim and teammate Deion Sanders were considered a formidable enough pair in 1991 to be considered one of the best cornerback tandems in the League as they combined for an NFL-high 12 interceptions. His efforts were recognized by College and Pro Football Newsweekly when they tabbed them to their All-Pro second team. Tim's 61 tackles were the third-best among Falcon defensive backs and his 12 passes defended were second only to Sanders' 14. He clinched the birds victory over the Raiders by picking off a pass in the end zone with 1:36 left. His two interceptions in the final quarter doomed his former team and sealed the birds victory at San Francisco in Week 7. He ran his consecutive interception run to three games as he collected thefts against the Cardinals (Week 8) and Rams (Week 9). Tim was involved in one of the most exciting plays of the NFL season in Week 16 versus the Seahawks as he picked off a Dave Krieg pass and then pitched it to Sanders who sped 55-yards for a touchdown. In the Playoffs, the scenario repeated itself as McKyer's theft with 1:10 remaining finished off the Saints in the Superdome. But he wasn't through, he again tossed his pickoff to Sanders who darted for 32 yards before lateraling illegally and ending the play.

Pro Career

Tim made it six straight years with a Playoff appearance as he helped his third NFL team advance to the post season. He broke into the League as a third round choice of the 49ers and left with two Super Bowl rings ('88-'89), while leading the club in passes defended three out of four times. He was traded to the Dolphins for a second rounder in '91 (Niners drafted Rickey Watters) and an 11th rounder in '90 (Anthony Shelton). The Falcons surrendered a 3rd (Aaron Carver) and 12th round (Joe Brunson) selections to the Dolphins for McKyer. His teams have boasted 8 wins out of 12 Playoff games with his presence in the secondary. The crafty veteran upped his lifetime passes defended total to an impressive 92 in 83 games to go along with his 26 career thefts.

Year-by-Year

1990: He paced the Dolphins with 17 passes defended and had four pickoffs while making 44 total tackles. He helped Miami improve to 5th in the NFL in pass defense. His top outings were a two theft game against Pittsburgh, a forced fumble, three passes defended and four tackles versus Patriots, a seven-tackle affair against Jets and a crucial interception at his own four-yard line to save contest versus the Seahawks.

1989: Tim played in seven games for the 49ers recording 12 tackles, three passes defended and one interception. His season started out slow due to contract problems in training camp and a groin pull which saw him sit out Weeks 2-4. He managed to pick off two passes in the Playoffs, including a 27-yard return in the NFC Championship vs. Rams, and was credited with a pair of passes defended in the Super Bowl XXIV against the Broncos.

1988: A starter in all 16 games for the World Champion Niners, he totaled 39 tackles, a team-leading seven thefts, and 19 passes defended. A second-team All-NFC pick by UPI, he made six tackles vs. Bengals in Super Bowl XXIII.

1987: Tim logged time in 12 non-strike games and paced the club with 18 passes defended and ended up with 35 tackles.

1986: The All-NFL rookie started 16 games, registering 52 tackles, and led all rookie DB's with six interceptions. The six pickoffs were the most by a Niner rookie since Ronnie Lott's eight in 1981. He intercepted a pass in his first NFL game and start against Tampa Bay and ran another pass back 21 yards for his initial League TD versus Indy.

Notebook

Tim McKyer is many things, but most of all he's a survivor. He fought through the temptations of growing up in housing projects in Orlando and Port Arthur, Texas. His father passed away when he was just two-years old and by the time he was seven he was doing a number of odd jobs to help support the family. His learned the gift of gab by going door-to-door as a youngster, sweet-talking neighbors into letting him take out their garbage or cut their grass. "T-Mac" has used his athletic ability to escape the pitfalls of poverty. He chose to go to college at Texas-Arlington instead of the likes of Oklahoma and Texas Tech because he thought if he didn't make it in the NFL then he could make some good future contacts in the high-profile city of Dallas. McKyer impressed Coach Glanville when he visited the Falcons Suwanee offices prior to the trade as he dressed in black shirt, black pants, black cowboy boots and black sunglasses trimmed with the same black anaconda snakeskin as his boots. Tim received some glowing remarks from former All-Pro Lester Hayes who said... "It's obvious Tim and Deion have a game plan when they take the field. Neither one of them is a guestimator. They're both anticipators. He plays like (ex-Raider All-Pro) Mike Haynes. It's obvious when you watch Tim McKyer play that he is a very, very bright guy." Tim feels he and Deion are similar in many ways. "We both have a lot of confidence, a flair for the game, and we both enjoy going out there and playing."

College

Tim excelled for the Mavericks of the University of Texas at Arlington, starting three straight years. An All-Southland Conference choice as a junior and senior, he amassed 115 career tackles and 10 interceptions. He also split time as a punt returner and part-time wide receiver. McKyer ran back 45 punts for 323 yards, with one touchdown, and caught four passes for 107 yards with two scores. The computer science major collected a career-best five interceptions during his junior season.

Personal

McKyer has always taken a keen interest in the community wherever he's been. In Miami, he was a frequent speaker to prisoners at a Dade County jail as well as at Mount Carmel Missionary Baptist Church every Saturday. He provided a source of motivation for a youth group called, the Mount Carmel Cadets, often times teaching them the value of education. He collected about $3,000 from his Miami teammates to pay for tutors and field trips for his group. Tim hails from a family of seven brothers and two sisters with a strong influence from mother, Lillie. He played football, basketball, and track at Port Arthur High School. Tim continued to help out the family during the summer in college by working on a loading dock. The first thing he did when he signed his pro contract was buy his mother a four bedroom, three-bath house, and a new Oldsmobile 98. Timothy Bernard recently married his high school sweetheart, Fontella, and bought a house in Atlanta.

Chris
QUARTERBACK
12

Last Season

In the '91 summer training camp, an Atlanta newspaper stated that Chris Miller was a "Quarterback at the Crossroads" as he entered his fifth NFL season at the Falcon helm. By all indications Miller passed the test with high grades as he matured to Pro Bowl level and drove the birds into the Playoffs. Over the final nine games when the Falcons were making a Playoff push, Atlanta's "Top Gun" led the birds to an 8-1 record while posting some lofty numbers: 103.7 rating, 126-224, 1,953 yards, 56.3%, 20 TD, 6 INT. Chris also had a streak where he threw two or more TD passes in SEVEN CONSECUTIVE games and LED ALL NFL QB'S IN PER RUSH AVERAGE WITH A 7.2 MARK. He completed eight passes of 40 or more yards and 14 passes of 30 or more yards in the Red Gun passing attack and was THIRD IN THE LEAGUE IN TD PASSES WITH A PERSONAL-BEST OF 26. Check the weekly progress of the No. 1 pick from Oregon and the Falcons second Pro Bowl signal-caller in team history.

1991 SEASON RECAP

Week 2 vs. Minnesota

He collected his first 300-yard passing game of the season by completing 27 of 41 passes and two touchdowns in a one-point loss. A controversial third passing TD was overruled by a referee.

Week 4 vs. Raiders

Miller completed 17-31 passes for 242 yards and accounted for the winning margin by hitting Haynes on a 46-yard TD in the 4th quarter for a hard-fought victory.

Week 7 at San Francisco

Chris tossed three TD passes, with no interceptions, in helping the birds to a huge win on the road to get the Falcons back on the winning track. He ran an offense that amassed 368 total yards, 39 points, and 19 first downs.

Week 9 vs. LA Rams

Miller's precision, pin-point passing was a career-best as he rifled 14 of 19 completions (73.7%) for 237 yards and three scores, including a 55-yarder, in three quarters before leaving with a big lead. His QB rating, aided by another no interception outing, was also a career-high 150.0 as he guided the Falcons to a 4-4 halfway mark after starting out the season 0-2.

Week 13 at New Orleans

In front of a nationally televised audience, Miller rallied the Falcons from a 10-point deficit in the 4th quarter for the OT victory. He completed two scoring passes to Michael Haynes, including a career-long of 80-yards, and an 18-yarder to force OT with under two minutes remaining. He engineered the game winning drive at the Falcons two-yard line in the extra period and hit Haynes on a big 57-yarder to give the birds room to operate.

Week 14 vs. Packers

In his most determined effort of the season, Chris battled the flu and a 103 degree temperature to lead a comeback victory. He came off the trainers table at halftime to throw for 186 yards (12-18) and engineer three second half touchdowns. He took the team down the field 85 yards for a score on his first possession and never looked back. The clutch performance was capped off when Miller hit Rison with the game-winner with :41 left.

Week 15 vs. LA Rams

Chris guided the birds to only their second win ever against the Rams on the road by shredding the secondary on 19-28 passing for 271 yards and a pair of TD's. He threw a strike to Haynes for a 52-yard completion.

Week 16 vs. Seahawks

He pitched another shutout in the interception department and had three key scrambles for first downs as he led a balanced attack as the club triumphed for the fifth straight time and earned a Playoff berth for the first time in nine years.

Week 17 at Cowboys

He closed out the season in fashion with three TD's, including bombs of 67-yards and 43-yards to Haynes, and totaled 325-yards in the air in a close defeat. Chris drove the team down the field to claim the NFC West title in the closing minutes, only to have the game end in controversy, as the referees negated his game winning toss to Deion Sanders. Once again, for the seventh time of the year, he went through an entire game without throwing a pick.

Playoffs at New Orleans

Miller was impressive in his Playoff debut by hitting on 60% of his passes (18-30) for 291 yards and three TD strikes to finish with a 111.9 QB rating on the day. In the crucial second half, he connected on 11 of 17 for 173 yards, including the game-deciding 61-yard TD to Haynes on a blitz. He was the architect of three key drives (11-80), (9-84), (11-45) and had crucial scrambles of 12 and 9 yards, as the birds captured their first Playoff win on the road in team history.

Pro Bowl '92

Chris put the finishing touches on a Pro Bowl year by throwing the winning touchdown to Jerry Rice in the final stanza to lead the NFC to a 21-15 victory over the AFC in the annual all-star game.

Pro Career

Despite entering his sixth NFL season, Chris is a relative youngster among NFL quarterbacks as he will turn 27 in August. With his second 3,000-yard passing season in the books, Miller also surpassed 10,000 career passing yards in Week 7 vs. the Niners to place his name in some lofty company. Only Dan Marino, Joe Namath, Fran Tarkenton and Bernie Kosar, hit the 10,000 yard plateau at a younger age than Chris. The former Oregon product has moved up the Falcon record books in only five years to second place behind Steve Bartkowski in yards, completions, and attempts. He also holds the team mark for the lowest interception % in a career (3.55) and has experienced streaks of 185, 122, and 110 pass attempts without a pick. He upped his shutout streak of games without an interception for a career to 22. His QB rating has improved each season along with his experience as he boasted a career-best 80.6 in '91. Over the last two seasons, only one other NFC QB has thrown more TD passes than Miller and only four others in the entire NFL have better TD numbers (Kelly - 57, Moon - 56, Marino - 46, and Rypien - 44).

Year-By-Year

1990: Miller was 4th in the NFL in passing yards behind Moon, Montana, and Everett with 2,735, before being felled with a broken collarbone at Tampa Bay which ended his season. He was named NFC Offensive Player of the Week for his personal-best 366 yards (23-44) in a dramatic victory over the Saints. His other 300-yard passing game came at the hands of the Niners (25-41-337). Chris' 57.2% season completion rate was a career-high and he went through a stretch where he threw 10 TD's and had only one theft (Weeks 5-8). He also set a then-personal record with his 17 TD's through the air and a long pass of 75t.

1989: Chris led NFL in lowest interception % at 1.9, with streaks of 185 and 122 passes without an interception. He became only the second QB in team history to pass for 3,000 yards as he totaled 3,459 (third highest total ever), which ranked 5th in NFL. He registered three, 300-yard passing games and in the season finale against Detroit attempted 66 passes (2nd most ever in League history) for a club record 37 completions. Miller also chipped in with some fancy footwork as he booted a 25-yard field goal at San Francisco.

1988: In 13 games, he passed for 2,133 yards, the most since Bartkowski in 1984. He posted a 5-5 mark in the games he started and finished, losing the three he had to leave with injuries. He had ankle and elbow injuries and a concussion that took him out of action. Highlights included a win over the soon to be World Champion 49ers at Candlestick (34-17) and road wins over the Eastern Champion Eagles and the L.A. Raiders. His 3.4 interception rate was lower than big name QB's like Esiason, Marino, Kelly, Elway or Everett. Chris had his first NFL three-TD game at the Eagles (no interceptions).

1987: Some "experts" thought him being picked in the first round (third QB) was a "reach" and that the club should have taken others like those chosen right after him (D. J. Dozier, John Clay, John Bosa). Then, contract talks bogged down and he missed all of camp and didn't sign until Oct. 30. In the final three games, Chris was thrown into battle starting at halftime vs. the Rams with the team down 26-0. His second half was 10-20 for 170. Then, the 3-10 Falcons went to San Francisco to face the Division champs and Chris got the start. It was a 13-36 for 186-yard day (most by a Falcon QB in his first start), but with the blitzing 49ers and a big lead, he was sacked three times and threw four interceptions. The season finale was his home debut, another uphill struggle that was a 196-yard day with his first NFL TD pass vs. Detroit and another four-interception outing.

Notebook

Miller silenced any doubts about his ability to fight back from a major injury with his strong showing in '91. In Week 13 at Tampa Bay during the '90 season, Chris was flushed from the pocket and tackled hard by a Buc defender, then Keith McCants fell on his right collarbone. His season was over with a broken collarbone but his resolve to come back even stronger couldn't be broken. Miller earned a spot on the Pro Bowl team last year, becoming the first Falcons QB to go to Hawaii since Bartkowski in 1981. Chris has suffered through a variety of injuries during his career (sprained knee, bruised chest, sprained ankle, cracked ribs) but has totaled 56 lifetime starts. As Miller sweated through the flu and a 103 degree temperature in the locker room in the first half versus the Packers, his teammates sweated out a 14 point halftime deficit. In a case of true grit, Chris took two bags of IV solution, put on his uniform, and fought through his sickness to lead the Falcons to the comeback victory. He begins his third year in full command of the team's Red Gun attack, which places emphasis on a quarterback's reads to be successful. "This offense focuses on the quarterback," he said, "I've got to execute my position. How I go, is how the team goes." Chris was the team's United Way representative for two seasons and his spot won a national Tilly Award. He has presented a check to the Children's Miracle Network the last two years for $100 for every TD pass.

Pro Baseball Career

Chris opted to bypass an offer from the Toronto Blue Jays after he was drafted by the AL East club out of high school (June of '83). In June of 1985, he was picked on the fifth round by the Seattle Mariners and accepted their offer of a pro contract. He didn't get a chance to showcase his talents until a year later because of a broken right throwing hand. His first taste of minor league ball came at Bellingham of the Northwest League in 1986 as he hit .556 and provided a steady glove at shortstop. He was promoted to the California League with the Salinas affiliate and ran into Major League veterans such as Steve Howe, Mike Norris and faced John Candelaria in his first at-bat. He batted .101 with a .933 fielding percentage in 27 games that summer but decided his future probably was at quarterback and not shortstop.

College

"Miller Time" was a popular theme around the Oregon campus as the local product broke the records of Dan Fouts, Norm Van Broklyn, and former Falcon Bob Berry with his 6,681 yards. Before his career was over he shattered 13 school records en route to becoming the first conference quarterback out of the PAC-10 since Jim Plunkett (1969-70) to garner a first-team nod for two straight years. His best college outings were a 376-yard day against powerful USC and a 368-yard effort which included four TD's versus San Diego State. He also totaled 49 career touchdowns in 34 starts, threw for 2,503 yards with an accuracy rate of 60.7%, and had a meger interception % of 3.8. He grabbed more attention from pro scouts when he was named the outstanding North player in the Senior Bowl and MVP of the Hula Bowl.

Personal

As an eight-year-old, Miller received his first taste of feeling like a pro when he competed for the national title in the Punt, Pass and Kick competition at Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium. The supportive Miller clan, which often travels to see their favorite player perform, consists of Jess and Jane Miller, along with sister, Liz. Part of Chris' pregame ritual is a call to the folks on gameday. A gym rat as a youngster, the native of Eugene, Oregon could always rely on the Walters brothers, Michael (49ers) and Tom, just down the street for any pick-up games. Chris was a star athlete in football, basketball and baseball at Sheldon High which produced the likes of former LA Raider TE Todd Christiansen. After turning his early interest to the hardwood instead of the gridiron at Sheldon, Miller called the signals for his final two years. He led his team to the Triple A Playoffs and an 8-1 mark, throwing for 1,617 yards, with 12 TD's, as a senior after an injury riddled junior year. Among his many travels as a golf enthusiast, Miller has both watched and played (shot a round of 75) at the renowned Masters in Augusta. Chris married the former Jennifer Barbisan, his college sweetheart, and lives next to Willow Springs Country Club.

James

MILLING

87

Last Season

James Milling was inked to a Plan B contract last year by the New York Giants after spending the previous 1990 season in Atlanta. Milling was placed on Injured Reserve a day before the Giants season opener against the Niners. He remained on IR until he was moved to the Practice Squad three weeks later (Sept. 26). James was activated to New York's regular roster for the season finale versus the Oilers, so he only saw action in one game.

Pro Career

James returns to the team that tabbed him in the 11th round of the '88 draft. As a rookie, he was forced to begin the '88 campaign on IR with an ankle injury. By Week 9, he was at full strength and one week later he grabbed his first NFL catch of seven yards vs. Packers. Milling finished with five receptions for 66 yards in getting on the field in six of the final eight games. He was released in the birds '89 training camp but was re-signed for the '90 camp. The ex-Maryland performer enjoyed his best pro season that year by hauling in 18 passes for 161 yards and one score.

College

A four-year letter winner at Maryland, he collected three, 100-yard receiving games with a school record 220 yards coming against North Carolina in 1986. He also tallied touchdown catches of 88, 77 and 18 yards in that game. For his career, the All-ACC performer amassed 82 receptions for 1,472 yards with seven TD's.

Notebook/Personal

Milling was a high school quarterback and defensive back at Potomac High School in Oxon Hill, Maryland. The oldest of three sons to James Sr., a fire fighter, and Henrietta, a receptionist, James Thomas Jr. was born in Winnsboro, South Carolina. He earned all-academic honors as well as his many accolades in football, track and basketball at the prep level. He once tossed four TD's in a high school game and was captain of the basketball and track teams. His brothers, Kent and Tony, are police officers in Washington, D.C.

Eric

PEGRAM

41

Last Season

Eric benefited by the 'running back by committee' philosophy that the Falcons employed in his rookie season. It provided the opportunity for Pegram to showcase his slashing and darting style of running. The first year player from North Texas State carried the load in Week 2 versus Minnesota by rushing for a personal-best 78 yards on 11 totes to lead the team. He finished his rookie season by gaining 58 yards on 12 carries at Dallas. His first NFL touchdown came on a four-yard run in the come-from-behind victory over the Packers in Week 14. For the season, he finished third on the club with 349 yards. Eric caught the eye of the coaching staff when he rambled 71 yards on 11 carries, including a slick 38-yard jaunt, in the preseason finale against the Cowboys.

College

A "Prop 48" signee at North Texas, Eric simply got better and better each year as he learned from position coach, Ron Shanklin (former NFL'er with Pittsburgh). Eric led in both rushing (21 for 957, 4.5, 5 TD) and receiving (56 for 444, 1 TD), while ranking second in the Southland Conference in both rushing yards and receiving. Heavily recruited by major schools, Eric decided on NTSU and got his studies up so he could participate. During his career that featured 1,613 yards rushing (4.3 avg.) and 94 receptions, Eric turned on the jets for a 78-yard long TD catch and a 76-yard long TD run. Among his highlights was a 218-yard rushing game (vs. Alcorn State), an 11-catch game, and a three-TD game.

Notebook/Personal

Eric Demont is a product of Dallas, Texas. He was especially charged up to play the Cowboys (129 yards in two games) last year as he had plenty of family and friends in the stands at Texas Stadium. His darting style has been compared to another Dallas resident, Tony Dorsett. Pegram went by the moniker of, "The Doctor," by his college mates for the way he operated on the opposition. A sprinter on the track team, he once clocked a 10.35 time in the 100 meters in a District meet in high school. Football runs in the Pegram family as his brother was a standout at Prairie View. Eric and his wife, Sonja, have one child and reside in Duluth, GA.

Jason

PHILLIPS
WIDE RECEIVER

82

Last Season

In his first season as an Atlanta Falcon, Jason was a contributor in the Red Gun offense. He started out the year on Injured Reserve for the first five weeks. Phillips returned to the active roster against the 49ers and found playing time in a total of 10 games. He finished with six receptions for 73 yards, for a 12.2 average, and a long of 24 yards.

Pro Career

Phillips played for his second team in three league seasons when he came to Atlanta from Detroit via Plan B. He was the Lions 10th round pick in the '89 draft out of Houston. In his rookie season, he caught 30 passes for 352 yards, third on the team. The last five games of his rookie campaign were prolific as he grabbed 21 aerials for 256 yards in five starts. He even placed his name in the Lions club record book for his 10 reception outing for 115 yards with a 55-yard touchdown vs. the Bucs. With June Jones in charge of the Silver Stretch offense in his sophomore year, he totaled eight catches for 112 yards, a 14.0 average, and long of 29.

Notebook

Jason's experience in the Red Gun offense should help as he competes for time in the crowded Falcon receiving corps. The passing philosophy of the Falcons is nothing new to Phillips because of his successful background at the University of Houston. He was on the receiving end of plenty of passes from the arm of Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware while performing in a Run and Shoot offense. A similar style was incorporated into the playbook at Detroit.

College

Phillips hauled in passes from Heisman Trophy winner Ware to set NCAA records. He became the first receiver in NCAA history to lead the nation in receiving two straight years. He only played at Houston for those two years but he still managed to leave with five Southwest Conference records for: career receptions with 207, single-season receptions with 108, receptions in a game with 16, yardage with 1,444 and TD's in a season with 15. The consensus senior All-American and All-SWC performer collected 16 catches for 224 yards and two TD's in his best collegiate game versus Louisiana Tech in 1988.

Personal

The product of Houston, Texas began his prep career as a quarterback. Jason Howell was an All-District and All-Greater Houston choice as a signal-caller for Sterling High while also doubling as a track star. After high school, he attended Taft (CA) Junior College with the hopes of being a QB, but he was moved to wide out during his sophomore campaign. The Business major makes his offseason residence in Houston.

NFL TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Falcons LB Tim Green (co-valedictorian at Syracuse) has nominated his high school science teacher John Williams for the NFL's first annual Teacher of the Year award and won a $10,000 scholarship grant as a result of winning the Award in '91. Williams, who will also receive a $5,000 grant from the NFL, had instilled into Green that he prefer he miss a week of wrestling or football practice rather than one hour or one day in the classroom. Each month, the NFL names a winner in their program in which every NFL player was allowed to nominate a teacher that most influenced them. Falcons T Chris Hinton's nominee Leroy Lovelace of Chicago's Phillips High School also won a grant as the November winner last year.

Bruce

PICKENS

39

Last Season

Bruce suffered through a tough rookie year which included signing late, going on the exempt list, being inactive for a game, and finally being suspended for a week. Pickens reached a contract agreement with the Falcons on October 4 and went on the commissioner's exempt list to get into shape. He was activated off the list on October 14 but did not play at Phoenix. Bruce suited up from Weeks 9-13 but didn't see any action in Week 14 against Green Bay. He was inactive for the Seahawks contest but returned to log time in the last regular season game at Dallas. Pickens was suspended from the team on Dec. 26 and didn't accompany the team to New Orleans but was reinstated a week later. He ended up playing in 7 games and made 7 tackles.

College

Bruce was considered the best pure man-to-man cover guy coming out of the draft through a strong senior campaign. The third-team All-America started every contest at left cornerback on a Bowl bound Nebraska team, finishing with 40 tackles, one theft, a forced fumble, five passes defended and a QB sack. He picked off a Shawn Jones pass and had five tackles and another pass defense in the Citrus Bowl against Georgia Tech in his final college game. As a junior, he ended up second on the squad with seven passes defended, tied a school record for a DB with two QB sacks, registered a forced and caused fumble out of his 30 tackles. The All-Big Eight performer was named the conference's Player of the Week for his 7 solo tackles, 2 passes defended, two sacks for a minus 29 yards in a 48-23 win over Oklahoma State. He flashed his future NFL promise when he manned the secondary after the loss of the heralded Reggie Cooper in the Orange Bowl against powerful Florida State and collared 7 solo stops and a pass break up. Bruce was named Big Eight Newcomer of the Year in 1988 after transferring from the JUCO level.

Notebook

Pickens drew raves from Falcon coaches and turned heads during Mini-Camp and Operation Headstart for his aggressive play and work ethic, as he set the stage for a better second pro season. Bruce gained a reputation in college as a "extremely competitive player with a mean streak." He's also been called a 'fluid athlete' who runs a 4.42 - 40, leaps 34-1/2, and long jumps 10-1/2. When his Coffeyville Junior College team took on the big boys of Nebraska (freshman squad), Pickens wanted to make an impression. He did better than that as he earned a scholarship to Nebraska by helping the Cornhusker freshman team suffer their worst defeat ever by a 49-14 count as he registered 13 tackles and four knocked down passes. His football career started at Westport High School in Kansas City as a slotback and cornerback. The All-Area, All-Conference and All-State (honorable mention) selection grew up following the career of Albert Lewis of the Chiefs.

Personal

Bruce Evon is the youngest of four brothers, James, Roper, Lawrence, Frederick, and a sister, Sandra. He was a three sport star at the prep level (football, basketball, track), while concentrating on mainly football. A receiver, running back, safety and cornerback, he once caught 12 passes and had three pickoffs in a single game. On the hardwood, the defensive specialist had the assignment in one game of guarding former Missouri star Anthony Peeler. During his track career, he hit the tape in third place in the state meet in the 100 meters at 10.45, was second in the 200, and ran a leg on the 400 meter relay team which shattered state marks. He bettered his 100 meter dash time in junior college with a 10.3 mark. He goes by the nickname of, "Easy," because of his off the field temperament and says he likes to play ping-pong and pool in his spare time. The Human Development major also listens to jazz to relax. His staunchest fans are his father, Clarence, and mother, Beatrice Whitley.

FALCONS SHINE IN WORLD LEAGUE'S SECOND SEASON

The World League of American Football finished its second season of operation and two Falcons helped the Sacramento Surge capture the World Bowl title. Former Falcon QB David Archer (1984-87) earned MVP honors for setting a single-season League record for passing yardage (2,964) and touchdowns (23). Archer, the World League's #1 rated QB, completed 194 of 317 passes, with only seven interceptions, to guide the Surge to an 8-2 regular season record and through the Playoffs, where they defeated Orlando in the Championship game in Montreal. Another Falcon starter on that team was John Buddenberg, who was named to the All-World League team as a guard. In addition, a third Falcon, G Leroy Truitt anchored the line for the top-ranked offense for the NY/NJ Knights.

Mike
PRITCHARD
WIDE RECEIVER

35

Last Season

Mike's initial season in the NFL was full of highlights as he was the League's second most productive rookie receiver and a consensus All-NFL rookie choice. His 50 receptions for 624 yards and two TD's trailed only Lawrence Dawsey of the Buccaneers (55-818-2). Those 50 catches were also good enough to be the SIXTH HIGHEST total by a wide receiver drafted in the first round in the last 12 years (see list below). Those figures also tied him for second place on club charts with Michael Haynes. Pritchard started 11 contests a year ago in the Falcons Red Gun attack and was in the lineup for all 16 games. The best game of his '91 season saw him haul in nine passes for 82 yards versus the Vikings. A five catch day vs. Rams and four aerials each vs. Saints, Cardinals, and Packers were also individual bests. His first official NFL score came from 14 yards out on a nifty run and catch at San Diego to help the birds end their 19 game road losing streak. Mike's other top yardage games came at Phoenix (71), Green Bay (60) and Rams (53). Pritchard showed Falcon fans glimpses of his talent in his first preseason game against the Rams in Jacksonville when he tallied three TD's, twice scoring on superb open field runs.

Notebook

Winning has become habit forming for "Pritch" with the Falcons Playoff push a year ago, coupled with his successful years at Colorado that included a National Championship. He played the role of a soothsayer last year when he said..."I wanted to go to Colorado so I could say I was responsible for turning it around and I see the same thing happening in Atlanta." Mike had such an impact on the fortunes of the Buffaloes during their run for No. 1 that he was voted the team's MVP, beating out the likes of Eric Bieniemy, Darian Hagan, Alfred Williams, and Kanavis McGee. The bright and articulate Economics major is involved in a financial planning program called, Provest Assesst Management. The program is designed to offer services to athletes such as bill paying, trust accounts and loans. He learned of the program by working an internship with Denver's Colorado National Bank.

College

Pritchard was a picture of versatility for Colorado with his ability to play tailback, wingback, wide receiver and returner. Mike averaged 18.8 yards every time he touched the ball in a Buffaloes uniform. Breaking it down further, he boasted averages of 26.4 per reception (second best ever), 10.6 per rush, and 23.1 per kick return while scoring 15 career TD's. His longs were just as impressive through the air (70t, 67, 55, 52, 48, 45t, and 44t yard catches) or on the ground (78t by rush, 70 and 68 on reverses, 77 KOR). He totaled 2,538 all-purpose yards for the Boulder, CO school, including 1,528 yards as a senior for the Co-National Champions, for an average of 123.1 an outing. His 284 total yards against Tennessee outdistanced another more heralded player's best game (268 yards by Raghieb Ismail of Notre Dame). As a senior, he established a single season school record with his 733 receiving yards, and his 10 TD's were the second most ever. His 217 rushing yards vs. the Volunteers was the sixth-best total in the 102 year history of football at Colorado.

Personal

Young Mike was a military 'brat,' so he moved around a lot, but he's still considered a southerner because of his birthplace at Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina. He had visited Atlanta one other time before being drafted by the birds and it was when he and his family were on their way to Disney World in Florida. His athletic reputation was established in Las Vegas as he garnered All-America and All-State accolades at Rancho High School. The talented tailback was also honored with the "Circle of Champions" Player of the Year award by Gatorade for gaining 1,213 yards and scoring 17 TD's. A 1,108 yard, 15 TD season, the year before, helped Rancho High to a 9-2 record and the Sunrise League championship. At the Nevada State all-star contest, he opened up college recruiters eyes by reeling off 169 yards on only 14 totes and scoring once. He also has a track background with specialization in the 100 meters and long jump. Mike has always been an academic climber as he was a member of Colorado's 'Academic Starters' team that rewarded those athletes with a high GPA. He was depicted on a poster with Tim Green, espousing the virtues of education, donning a graduation cap and books with the slogan, "The Most Important Head Gear You'll Ever Wear!" The educational program was sponsored by the Georgia Association of Educators and the Falcons Youth Foundation and distributed to every school in the state. The prolific pair also shot a service spot promoting education.

John

RADE
LINEBACKER

59

Last Season

A healthy John Rade was a welcome site to Falcon coaches when the club's defensive "quarterback" suited up for his first action in Week 7 at San Francisco. John fought back from offseason surgery to repair two damaged ligaments in his right knee suffered against the Cowboys in the last game of the '90 season. He was placed on the Physically Unable to Perform list for the first five weeks of the '91 campaign as he continued his rehabilitation. Rade started all 11 games at his familiar inside backer position when he returned and ended up with 58 tackles. "Radar" honed in to make a season-high 10 tackles in the win over the Packers in Week 14.

Pro Career

Rade has registered 100+ tackles in a season five consecutive times and six total in his nine-year career. The productive Boise State star recorded a career-high 145 tackles in '90 to break his previous-best of 140 in '86. He has started 112 of his 122 games played in a Falcon uniform. He broke into pro football in the training camp of the USFL's Boston Breakers but was released prior to the season. John had entertained ideas of heading north of the border to the Canadian Football League but gave up on those notions when he was drafted by the Falcons on the eighth round of the '83 draft. An All-NFL rookie season followed as John amassed 117 tackles from his outside linebacker spot, filling in for an injured Al Richardson. Since 1986, he has occupied the birds inside slot on defense in the starting lineup in 80 games.

Year-by-Year

1990: Rade's career year included 145 tackles with a personal-best of 17 coming against the Cardinals. John also added 16 stops vs. Rams, 15 vs. 49ers and Rams in the rematch. He played with a nagging hip injury to start all 16 contests for the first time since '85 but he was felled with a knee injury in the season finale against Dallas.

1989: He made it four seasons in-a-row with 100 plus tackles with his 102 total in 15 games. John had three, double-digit tackle games, and a pair of nine-tackle outings to go along with two fumble recoveries.

1988: John's 137 tackles led the team, despite spraining a knee in Week 15 and going on IR. He had seven double-figure tackle games, topped by a personal best 16 vs. San Francisco in Week 14.

1987: As the team tackle leader (123), John did it in 11 games as he suffered a shoulder separation in the next to last game and went on IR. His 15 tackle game vs. Tampa Bay in the opener led his seven double-figure tackle games.

1986: John's personal best 140 tackles came at his new inside spot. He missed the season finale and a chance to lead the team in tackles with an ankle injury. He had a 15-tackle best vs. New Orleans in Week 15.

1985: His 95 tackles and two interceptions came with 11 starts at left outside linebacker and three at right outside linebacker. John had a two-sack game vs. the Division rival Rams.

1984: After seven games, John had injuries to his neck (pinched nerve) and hamstring and had to go on Injured Reserve.

1983: The all-NFL rookie pick had 117 tackles after making his first start in Week 6 vs. New Orleans after an injury to Al Richardson. He had his first 15-tackle game vs. the Rams, while also having two fumble recoveries and two QB sacks as a rookie.

Notebook

John spends his offseasons in his native Boise, Idaho pursuing his business ventures. He was honored by his alma mater last spring as he was inducted into the Boise State Hall of Fame. He still holds school marks for most tackles for losses in a season (31) and single game (8). John is well-known around the Falcons Complex for his relentless preparation for a game which includes extra hours viewing film. "His physical abilities are outweighed by what's inside of him," stated Coach Glanville. "He brings intensity and enthusiasm and a great work habit. He's a leader by showing how to go to work. Not many guys have what he has, and the team knows that." An outdoorsman, John is more comfortable in jeans, but sometimes can be seen in a sleek, double-breasted suit when the occasion calls for it. Rade picked a memorable game to make his return engagement when he started in the Falcons exciting 39-34 victory at San Francisco on Oct. 13. That date marked his first 'live' action in 10 months since undergoing knee surgery on Jan. 10 and his parents were in the stands to watch their son complete his rehabilitation.

College

John started out with a partial scholarship at Northern Arizona University, as a punter, but left in the middle of his first semester. He followed his family to Modesto, CA, and enrolled at Modesto Community College to compete in track only. He got stronger by lifting weights for the first time ever and decided to give football another try. He transferred to Boise State where he became the Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year and a two-year starter as a 210-pound defensive end. He also competed on the track team establishing a school mark in the discus with a heave of 164 feet.

Personal

A 'left' coast native, John is a product of Ceres, CA. A defensive end and punter at Buena High School, he helped his team to an undefeated mark as a senior. His winning ways continued at the JUCO level at Modesto (CA) where he was part of a national championship team as a sophomore. Rade's parents and youngest sister are still residents of Modesto and are yearly visitors to Falcons games on the coast. John loves to golf in his spare time and is a very willing participant in the Falcons many community projects. He and his wife, Lori, are always involved in the "Holiday Evening with the Stars," which helps area children's hospitals. The Rade's have one daughter, six-year-old Jenna, and a two-year-old son, Jared.

REID
LINEBACKER

95

Last Season

Michael Reid went through a rollercoaster of emotions a year ago. His long rehabilitation road back to the Falcons roster seemed clear when he suited up for the preseason game against Tampa Bay and finished with an impressive three QB sacks. He made the team through an encouraging training camp and played in the seasons first two contests. Reid's road became rocky though when he was placed on the Inactive List in Week 3 and then put on Injured Reserve the following week. Michael remained on IR until the Playoffs when he was activated for the clash with the Saints.

Pro Career

Just when his career seemed to take off, Reid suffered a freak knee injury at Los Angeles in '91 and was lost for the season. On a fourth down play, Michael broke through the line and was set to block a Keith English punt when he caught a cleat in the grass. He had to undergo reconstructive surgery on his left knee on the lateral meniscus cartilage and anterior ligament. At the time of the injury, he had produced 38 tackles, three QB sacks, 2 pressures and six stops on special teams in four starts. A week before the injury, he had perhaps his finest game of his career as he recorded a personal-best 13 tackles with a sack of Joe Montana. Earlier in the year, he had two other sacks of Montana to go along with 11 tackles, eight solos. As a rookie, he displayed his talents mainly on special teams, while playing in 11 games and adding one start. His time on the field increased the following two campaigns as he logged 16 games and three starts each year.

Notebook

When the rookie Reid stepped out onto the field for his first pro game against Buffalo, it also happened to be the first pro game he had ever attended. Michael enjoys the martial arts and he took it another level when he helped show the finer points to his teammates during conditioning sessions of Operation Headstart in the spring of '91. He is one of the current Falcons who lists Georgia as their native state. As Dougherty High in Albany, GA, Reid competed alongside former NFLer Lionel "Little Train" James (Chargers) and versus Buffalo's Nate Odomes (Carver High in Columbus, GA). He and Odomes played collegiately at Wisconsin. Ironically, the hard working Reid never played on defense until he entered the cheese state for he performed as a wide receiver and tight end as a prepster. Besides martial arts he also relaxes by making rugs (specializing in animals), fishing, music and playing nintendo. An unassuming and quiet person by nature, the articulate Reid received his degree in Computer Science at Wisconsin while maintaining a 2.75 GPA at the time.

College

An All-Big 10 choice and honorable mention All-America, his senior season included a team-high 156 tackles (second in conference) as he was the team's defensive signal-caller and MVP. He accumulated 317 career stops, three interceptions, two forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries. Michael registered top games of 22, 20 and 18 tackles and set school records for most solo tackles in a season with 102 and most fumbles recovered in a game with three against Ohio State.

Personal

Michael acquired his athletic ability from his father, Herman, who played at nearby Morris Brown and had a try out with the Boston Patriots. An all-around athlete growing up, Reid was a guard on a state runner-up squad in basketball in high school and a runner on the track team. A community-minded professional, he gives his time as an anti-drug speaker for the DEA. Michael's brother, Maurice, was a member of Georgia Southern's football team, while his sister, Michele, attended Emory University. His wife, Sherri, is an Industrial Engineering degree holder from Purdue, and the couple lives in Alpharetta, GA.

Andre
RISON

80

Last Season

Andre Rison continued to set both NFL and team records in his second season in Atlanta as he was voted to the Pro Bowl for the second consecutive year. He again paced the club with his 81 receptions and 12 touchdowns, while accounting for 976 yards. Take a look at "Showtime's" 1992 season of success.

 Three's A Charm ***

By totaling 215 catches from 1989-1991, Rison set an NFL record for the most receptions by a WR in the first three years of a career, passing Tom Fears and Sterling Sharpe's mark of 213. After an All-NFL rookie campaign in which he grabbed 58 receptions, he rebounded to catch 163 in two years with the Falcons to place his name in the record book.

 Armed and Dangerous ***

After starting out slow due to an early emphasis on the running game, Andre scored his 12 touchdowns in the last 11 games, while collecting 62 of his 81 receptions during that stretch. The birds won 8 of those 11 games with Rison playing a lead role. In the five-game winning streak, which clinched a Playoff berth, he averaged over 6 catches, 82 yards, and a TD per outing. The Falcons won 6 of 8 contests when Rison scored a TD.

 Bad Moon Rison ***

Rison had an 8 catch, two TD day, for 124 yards, including the game-winner with :41 seconds left, to seal the comeback victory over the Packers. He also tallied three, 7 reception games (at SD, SF, Wash), four, 6 catch contests (at SF, TB, LA, Dall) and a trio of 5 catch affairs (LAR, PHO, Rams). He set a personal best with three scores in the win over the Bucs. His seven more catches in the Playoff game versus the Skins were a Falcon record as he hauled in 11 in post season.

 Leading by Example ***

Once again, 'Dray was among the NFL leaders in '92. He finished 5th overall in the League in catches and was tied for 2nd in the NFL in TD's by WR's. His 12 scores were the second-best ever by a Falcon wideout to Alfred Jenkins' 13 in '81 and his 976 yards were the 7th highest on club charts. He teamed with Michael Haynes to share the top spot among all WR pairs with 23 TD's scored and their 2,098 yards were a Falcon best and good enough for 6th-best in NFL.

Pro Career

Andre has proved to be one of the main targets in the Falcons revamped Red Gun offense over the past two seasons as he has progressed from an All-NFL rookie to a Pro Bowler and All-Pro in his three NFL seasons. Since changing into Falcon black, Rison has caught 163 passes for 2,184 yards, with 22 TD's, including a Falcon-best 82 receptions in 1990. He and Jerry Rice are the only receivers to post back-to-back 80+ reception seasons and the only pair to register double-digits in touchdowns in the past two years.

 In the Clutch *****

Whether its snaring key touchdowns or crucial passes to keep drives alive, Rison has been a clutch performer for the birds over two seasons. For example, his big 4th down, tip-toe, sideline reception for 19 yards on the final drive put the Falcons in position to pull off the Big Ben III vs. the Niners last year. He also grabbed two 4th quarter TD's against the Packers for the come from behind win. In 1990, he collected 4 catches for 77 yards on the game winning drive vs. Saints, including a pair of critical 4th down grabs, and crossed the goal line to claim the win with 1:33 left.

 Rison to Any Occasion *****

He holds six club marks for: most catches (82), most by WR, 100-yard games (5-tie), consecutive 100-yard games (3), catches over 3-game period (30), and most points in a game (18-tie). His top games have come against NFC West foes in the 49ers (9-172-2 TD, 11-128), Saints (10-154-2 TD), and Rams (10-154-2 TD). He recorded his 9th career 100-yard game last season against the Packers, where he also had a personal-best three TD's. His 163 totes over the last two years are the most by any Falcon wideout in back to back campaigns. Andre was named NFC Offensive Player of Month of October in '90 (26-501-6 TD, 3, 100-yard games).

 Rison's Rumblings *****

He became the second fastest wide receiver in NFL history, behind only Al Toon (23), to reach 100 catches when he hit the century mark in 24 games in '90 . . . He has caught a pass now in 47 of 48 career games and 17 straight . . . He broke team record for most 100-yard games in a season by collecting all 100 yards in fourth quarter at Cleveland in '90.

 Goin' to the Hoop *****

The athletic Rison was a standout hoops player at every level growing up and garnered All-State of Michigan honors twice while leading his Northwestern High team to a pair of state titles and a 55-1 record as a point guard. He set a school assist mark (636) passing to such players as Glen Rice (Miami Heat) and Jeff Grayer (Milwaukee Bucks). He played in 24 games in college with the likes of Scott Skiles (Magic) and Steve Smith (Heat) and is a teammate of the pair of NBAers in a summer league in his home state.

 Playing the Field *****

On the high school gridiron, the versatile Andre played EIGHT different positions (WR, RB, QB, TE, S, CB, P, K) and was a All-State selection as a punter and an All-America defensive back. Mark Ingram of N.Y. Giants completed passes to cousin Andre on the prep level. On the diamond, he was a pitcher and outfielder on an AAU national title team in Fairmont, W.Va.

 Competitive and Confident *****

Rison's competitiveness is one of his strongest attributes. He's never missed a game due to injury in a career that spans 48 games. When he badly sprained his knee against the Browns in 1990, he played the next week on virtually one leg and posed as a decoy to free other receivers. Last year, a badly sprained shoulder in Week 1 couldn't hold him out of the lineup. The confident performer is also a vociferous presence on the field. He told a local TV crew on the sidelines during the Packers game that he was going to catch the winning touchdown and that they better stay focused on him. They did and he didn't disappoint. Afterall, as he always told his mother . . . "The Lord put me on earth to go pro."

College

Andre left Michigan State with a school record 146 receptions for 2,992 yards and 20 TD's. His record breaking 1986 campaign established new MSU marks with an all-time season-best 54 catches and 966 yards. He is familiar to Georgia fans because he sliced through the Bulldog secondary for nine receptions for an eye-opening 252 yards with three scores in the Gator Bowl as a senior. He was at his best when facing the best as he boasted a 30.1 yards per catch average in three Bowl games. Rison's other top collegiate performance was an 11 catch, 196 yard receiving day, against Indiana as a sophomore to set another mark. He accepted a scholarship to Michigan State so he could play basketball and he got on the hardwood for a total of 24 games for the Spartans under coach Jud Heathcote. He also ended up second in the conference long jump with a leap of over 24 feet.

Personal

Andre Previn Rison takes his name from the famous composer and pianist with the same name. He grew up in very humble surroundings in Flint, MI. When his mother, Merdice, couldn't afford to buy him new clothes for school, he would switch clothing each morning with his best friend. His early background made him toughen up. "When I was growing up, people were always jealous of me (because of my athletics). I used to think, 'What are they jealous of?' They're the ones with clothes, a nice house, a mother and father, a car." Sports was a way out of the neighborhood for Rison. "I had to talk myself up to believe I could achieve something in life." His biggest fan and staunchest confidant remains his mother. Merdice was the one who told him he'd be better off choosing offense over defense. "He needs to hear the roar of the crowd, rah, rah, rah. He thrives on touching the ball." Andre was recruited as a defensive back after an All-America career as a prepster. One of the former Michigan State alums who helped convince him to attend the Spartan campus was Magic Johnson. Rison had a chance to visit with his longtime idol, Hall of Fame WR Fred Biletnikoff, when the Falcons played the Raiders last year. His other hero as a youngster was Dr. J. (Erving). When he's not on the basketball court in his spare time, Andre is working on his musical career as a songwriter and singer.

Mike
CENTER

55

Last Season

Mike Ruether's value to the Falcons in 1991 was immense. He logged playing time at right guard, left guard, center, and even tight end. Mike received an opening day start at tight end at Kansas City and wound up catching a 22-yard pass. It marked the first time he had EVER caught a pass at any level. His revolving door season included spelling an injured Jamie Dukes at center. Ruether remained an invaluable reserve as he took over at left guard at Washington when Houston Hoover was moved to right tackle because of Mike Kenn's absence. The odyssey took another turn when he switched to right guard in place of the injured Bill Fralic to collect starts against the Bucs, Saints, Packers and Rams. In all, reliable Mike received six starting calls, while performing in all 16 games, plus the two Playoff contests.

Pro Career

Ruether upped his NFL totals to 71 games played with 8 starts to his credit. If you count his USFL experience (34 games), Mike has played in over 100 professional games. He snapped footballs to Steve Young as a member of the LA Express for two seasons in his first shot at pro ball. He changed allegiances to the Cardinals of the NFL on Sept. 30, 1986 and saw action in 22 games. Mike was part of a trade that sent him packing for Denver and Ricky Hunley to the Cards on Aug. 19, 1988. After appearing in 14 contests for the Broncos, the Falcons snatched him in the available Plan B pool where he has appeared in every game over the last two seasons.

College

The intense competitor improved at his center position each season for the Longhorns of Texas. By the time he was a senior, he was considered at the top of many pro draft boards at his position. Mike started his final two years in Austin, Texas and was a member of the Longhorns Bluebonnet Bowl ('80), Sun Bowl ('82) and Cotton Bowl ('83 - '84) teams.

Notebook/Personal

The do-it-all Ruether recorded a winning 4-2 record as a starter last year, including a streak of four in-a-row. Mike is a transplanted California product who honed his football trade in the heartland of Kansas. As a prepster, he garnered All-America and All-State accolades for Bishop Miege High in Shawnee Mission, KA and also doubled as a wrestler and track star. He showed he could pin opponents off the gridiron as he captured two state heavyweight wrestling crowns on the Kansas mats. The communications major and his wife, Marjorie, have one son, five-year-old Reece Austin.

SANDERS

21

Last Season

"Prime Time" put on another prime time show in his third NFL season as he was voted as a Pro Bowl starter at cornerback by his peers for the first time and added even more spectacular clips to his personal highlight video. Take a look at the NFL Alumni's Defensive Back of the Year and this special athlete with a special flair.

ONE OF A KIND

 Doin' It All ***

Deion was the ONLY player in the NFL to: intercept a pass, catch a pass, return a punt, return a kickoff, and make tackles on defense and special teams cover units in 1991. He tied for the NFC lead with teammate McKyer with six thefts and caught a 17-yard screen pass at Dallas, playing both ways. His 16-yard game winner was nullified. He also played with injuries, including a deep thigh bruise, and took three bags of IV to overcome the flu before suiting up against the Rams.

 Big Play Maker ***

He returned a kickoff 100 yards for a TD, 2nd longest in NFL, at San Francisco and sealed win vs. Seattle with a 55-yard TD return off a lateral. He also had KOR's of 48 and 32 yards, plus a 32-yard int return, 31-yard return off a lateral, and a theft in end zone to thwart Saints drive in Playoffs. Deion paced all Falcon defensive backs (for second straight year) with 14 passes defensed.

 Puttin' on the Hits ***

Sanders set two new club marks for combined returns and yards to bring his total to 10. He was named NFC Def. Player of the Week TWICE by League in Weeks 4 and 12. Against Raiders, he sacked QB Schroeder and forced fumble which was picked up for score. He also intercepted a pass. Against Bucs, he had first career two theft game, and five tackles to limit Testaverde to 71 yards passing. He also won National Award as Miller Lite Player of Week in USA Today vs. Seattle for pair of pickoffs and TD.

 Double Duty ***

After practicing with Falcons in afternoon on Wed., Sept. 25, he takes a helicopter to stadium and changes into Braves baseball uniform. At 7:02 P.M., he enters first game of a doubleheader game with Reds as pinch runner and at 7:07 P.M. steals second. He becomes the only athlete to play two pro sports simultaneously. He was the first athlete to play two sports in same city since Gene Conley in 1960-61 (Boston Celtics, Boston Red Sox). His athletic day ends after 15 hours at 11:45 P.M.

Honors

- 1991: AFC-NFC Pro Bowl (starter), NFL Alumni Defensive Back of the Year
 1989: All-NFL Rookie, Football Digest, PFWA
 NFLPA Kick Returner of the Year

Pro Career

According to his peers and critics around the League, Deion has established himself as one of the top corners in the NFL and one of the most dangerous returners in football. Let's see what Sanders has accomplished in his three years on the gridiron.

FALCON FLASHBACKS

 Record Breaker ***

Deion holds 10 club records for: longest punt return (79 yards), most PR TD's (2), most KOR (93), most KOR yards, (1,996), most KOR yards, game (129), longest KOR (100t), most int for TD's (2), most combined TD's (6), most combined return yards (2,754), most combined returns (172). He is the only Falcon in club annals to score TD's off a punt, kickoff and interception, and the only bird to score on a punt and int in SAME season.

 Stepping Out ***

Sanders takes another season-opening curtain call this time against the Oilers when he picks off Warren Moon and high steps his way 82-yards for a TD, longest in NFL in '90. "Prime Time" shines again in the national spotlight as he sets a club record by returning a punt 79-yards for a score to defeat the Bengals. He punctuates the year with a 61-yard jaunt to the end zone to dash the playoff hopes of the Cowboys.

 Not Just Another Athlete ***

In an unforgettable week, Sanders hits a homerun for the N.Y. Yankees on Tues. (Sept. 5, 1989), signs a football contract on Thurs., then 5:21 into his first pro game on Sunday (Sept. 10), returns punt 68 yards for a TD. He becomes the first pro athlete in modern history to hit a homer and score a TD in the same week.

 Beating Sophomore Jinx ***

In his second season as a Falcon, he is the only player in the NFL to gain 50 or more yards in three separate categories. A 50-yard KOR vs. Rams, a 79-yard PR TD, and his 82 and 61-yard TD int returns are the measuring sticks. He also is the only returner in NFC to post back to back 1,000 yard seasons as he finishes 3rd in NFL in combined yards. His 18 passes defensed were a team high.

 Sanders Salvos ***

Deion's other exploits in his young career have included: becoming first rookie DB in 1980's to amass over 1,000 return yards, lining up at wide receiver against the Bills and Saints in '89, and being only the second Falcon to record consecutive 1,000 yard combined seasons.

Notebook

 Quoteables ***

"Deion has the quickest feet I have ever seen on a CB in the five-yard bump zone."

Raider Former All-Pro, Lester Hayes

"He's a great athlete. He's the guy that really gets the fans into the ball game. He had a big impact on our game. He likes going out and playing with confidence and I don't blame him."

Seahawks WR Brian Blades

"In all my years of playing (10 in NFL) and coaching (27), he's the best athlete I've ever seen. He could become one of the premier defensive backs to ever play the game."

Falcons Secondary Coach, Jimmy Carr

"Deion is a gem of an athlete and a gem of a person."

Joe Theismann, ESPN Analyst

"Deion is a great person. People don't know that he had friends who couldn't afford to pay for college and he paid their way from the money he made from playing baseball for the Yankees."

Mickey Andrews, FSU Def. Coordinator

 True Grit ***

Sanders showed his toughness by playing half the season with a painful calcium deposit lodged in his thigh. Despite the injury he missed only one start. He also fought through the flu as he took in three bags of IV at LA prior to game but didn't miss any time.

 Community Minded ***

In 1991, Sanders donated the largest amount of money to charity of any athlete from Atlanta when he gave a check for $10,000 to United Way. He reinforced his commitment to United Way by organizing a fund raising basketball game in '92, (Deion's Prime Time Shoot-out) pitting superstars from football against baseball, with the help of Grammy Award winner, Hammer and other top athletes.

 Media Mogul ***

Besides being a popular topic on the local news front, Deion has also gained national notoriety. He appeared on the Arsenio Hall Show this year and has been a guest on David Letterman, "Up Close" with Roy Firestone, and "Sunday Conversation" on ESPN. He was the first Falcon to ever appear on the cover of Sports Illustrated (Nov. 13, 1989) and returned to the cover this spring with the Braves. He's even been interviewed by a station from Japan. In Atlanta, he hosts a weekly cable show called "Deion's All-Star's" and for the past two years has had a weekly radio show during the season.

 Extra Points ***

The nickname "Prime Time" was born when former Florida CB and friend, Richard Fain, coined the moniker after watching Deion slam dunk during a basketball game in high school . . . His home in Alpharetta, Ga. is a recreational haven complete with a basketball court in the front yard and a batting cage in back, with a sports room in the basement which includes a mini-pool table, five video arcade games, and weight room. The entrepreneurial Sanders owns "Deion's Hair Salon" in the fashionable district of Buckhead (GA), along with Jamie Dukes. He once gave a gift of Gucci watches to his special teams mates for helping him to his first NFL TD on opening day in '89. He likes the name so much that he calls his poodle, Gucci. The ex-FSU All-America sells his own line of Prime Time clothes with his trademark lightning bolt figure.

Pro Baseball Career

Sanders spurned an offer from the Kansas City Royals ($75,000) after being drafted out of high school to attend Florida State on a football scholarship. He was selected again by the New York Yankees in 1988 on the 30th round in the free agent draft and split time between Ft. Lauderdale, Sarasota and Columbus. He made the Yankees of Bucky Dent as a non-roster player by batting .364 in spring training in 1989. He eventually returned to the minors and appeared in a total of 14 big league games, hitting .234. Deion batted .158 (21 hits in 133 at-bats) in 57 Major League games for the Yankees in 1990 with three homers and nine RBI'S. He was released by New York on Sept. 26 and signed a minor league contract with the Atlanta Braves on Jan. 30, 1991, expressing a desire to play two pro sports in the same city. Deion batted .281 in spring training with the Braves in West Palm Beach. He led the team in total bases with 29 and runs scored with 12, while finishing second in hits with 18 (in 64 at-bats), and had only one error, to make the Major League roster. He earned an opening day start in left field against the Dodgers, hitting leadoff, to become the first player to play baseball and football on the same field since 1945, when Steve Filipowicz performed as an outfielder for the New York Giants and running back for the football Giants at the Polo Grounds. He also became the first pro athlete to play two sports for teams in the same city since Gene Conley played for the 1960-61 Boston Celtics and pitched for the 1961 Boston Red Sox. His final stats last year read: 54 games, .191 BA, .270 on-base percentage.

College

One of the most celebrated athletes to come out of college in years, Deion lived up to his billing by winning the Jim Thorpe Award as the nation's best defensive back. The two-time All-America paced the country in punt returns with an average of 15.2 as a senior and established school records with 1,429 yards and 287 interception return yardage. Sanders collected six touchdowns in his career off returns (three by thefts and three by punts) and registered 14 lifetime pickoffs. "Prime Time" also showed off his 4.27 40 speed as a track sprinter, qualifying for the Olympic Trials, and on the baseball diamond where the outfielder was a member of a College World Series team. One of the most famous stories concerning Deion's versatility in college came when he played in a Metro Conference baseball game one day, ran to the track to run a leg with the 400 meter relay team while wearing his baseball pants, then returned in time to slap the game-winning hit in the Seminoles second tournament game. Sanders never was on the losing end of four Bowl games in his career in Tallahassee.

Personal

One of the first things he did when he signed his pro football contract was begin construction on a dream home for his mother in his hometown of Ft. Myers, FLA. Constance Knight was a big influence on the young and athletic, but a shy and quiet, Sanders. Often times she helped him get through his migraine headaches caused by stress of living in the projects. Deion says he made a conscious decision to avoid the pitfalls of his neighborhood and doesn't drink, smoke or do drugs. He commands an attentive audience when he speaks to kids about avoiding those dangers and to stay in school. "I learned early on if you don't believe in yourself no one else will. I get high off life and sports." He won a national title on the Pop Warner level as a youth and was also big into hoops. In high school, he threw for 839 yards as a left-handed quarterback and optioned his way to 499 more yards on the ground, while tossing in an average of 24 points a contest on the hardwood, in an All-State career as a guard. His favorite athletes to watch growing up were Lynn Swann, Walter Payton, O.J. Simpson, Julius Erving and Hank Aaron. One of his pride and joys is his two-year-old daughter, Diondra.

Elbert
SHELLEY
CORNERBACK
37

Last Season

Elbert was his usual steady self in his 5th season in 1991. The special teams standout was voted as an alternate on the Pro Bowl for the second straight year. The ex-Arkansas State alum was second on the club with 22 special teams tackles. His forced fumble on a Green Bay kickoff in the 4th quarter was picked up and run back 16 yards for a touchdown to help the Falcons pull off the come from behind victory. He also registered a forced fumble against Phoenix. Shelley's nose for the big play was evident as he dove just before the end zone to knock a punt down at the Seattle two-yard line, setting up an eventual Falcon safety in Week 16. He began the season by collecting all three of the team's special teams stops at Kansas City. His 21 tackles on coverage units are even more impressive when you notice the double and triple teams he receives each play. His bone-jarring hit on Saints returner Ken McAfee in the Playoffs nailed New Orleans at their own 17-yard line and forced them to go 83-yards to try to tie the score with just over two minutes remaining. Elbert made the switch to cornerback from his safety position last year and was used in certain situations. He recorded two QB sacks on blitzes last year which resulted in two forced fumbles. He missed five games due to a hamstring pull.

Pro Career

The special teams captain has applied his trade with consistency in his career, especially over the past two years, as he has totaled 46 tackles on Falcons coverage units. The appreciation of Elbert's "special" talents received a boost when a former special teams coach (Glanville) was named head boss in 1990. Shelley has worked himself into an NFL contributor through arduous labor after coming into the League as a low 11th round draft pick. He received notice around the NFL as a rookie in '87 as he jarred the ball loose from a Cowboy kick returner and the birds ran it in for a score in a 20-10 win at Texas Stadium. His solid play on special teams was first recognized by his peers in the League in '90 when he was named as a first alternate on the NFC Pro Bowl squad by virtue of his 24 tackles. The special teams leader in 1989 (team-high 14 stops) snared his first career theft that season while patrolling the secondary against the Bills.

Notebook

Shelley revels in his role as a catalyst for the Falcons special teams. "It takes a special attitude to be a standout on special teams," he exclaimed. A weightlifting guru, Elbert is known to his teammates as "Brick" because of his chiseled, muscular body. He considers lifting weights as actually a hobby rather than work. Shelley got seriously into weightlifting in college when he would spend endless hours on the machines during the long summers away from the football field. This gym, weightlifting rat, continued his hobby in the pros where he gets plenty of good-natured ribbing from his teammates. He once bench pressed 335 pounds (more than twice his own body weight) and can leg press 700 pounds 10 times. He was somewhat distressed last year as he tried to lose body weight to complete his conversion to corner and had to cut back on his lifting. Elbert likes to go fishing and bowling in his spare time and tinker with his 1984 Ram D-50 truck. He has made quite a few changes on his pride and joy including changing the color from red to pearl black and adding a chrome 350 engine with a 240 intact. He also has added a '67 Ford Mustang rear to the truck that he's had since his days at Arkansas State and chromed the front grill and fender. He showed off his 'new wheels' to awaiting teammates and strutted it at auto shows in the offseason.

College

The running back turned defensive back accumulated 103 tackles as a two-year starter for the Indians of Arkansas State. Elbert also picked off six passes for 75 return yards from his strong safety position and forced four fumbles and recovered three others while also showing a penchant for playing special teams. In his first and only season in the ASU backfield as a freshman, he gained 62 yards on 8 carries with runs of 30 and 24 yards and one TD.

Personal

Elbert Vernell gets his toughness from being the 11th child in a huge family of 12 kids of Herbert and Clytee Shelley, and from the fact that he was born through a mid-wife rather than at a hospital. He helped guide his Truman High team to the state playoffs for the first time in 10 years as the featured running back. Before his career was over, he gained 1,687 yards with 10, 100-yard rushing games, while collecting over 100 yards in 16 of his last 20 games for 21 TD's. He also ran a leg on the school's record setting mile relay team and was the MVP on his senior basketball squad as a 5-10 center. He's still one of the biggest names to hail from the town of Tyrnaza, Arkansas.

Joe

GUARD

66

Last Season

Joe Sims had an interesting rookie season which started out with a position switch from the defensive line to offensive line in training camp. He left camp for a few days confused over the move to a position he had never played. But he returned to Suwanee and made the Falcons final roster. Sims was placed on the club's Practice Squad to further enhance his learning process in his first season in the NFL. Joe remained on the Practice Squad until injuries to Mike Kenn and Bill Fralic necessitated making a move. He was activated to the roster for a Week 11 encounter at Washington. Entering the game at left tackle against the undefeated Redskins, Sims received passing grades in his first tough assignment. Joe went on to log time in every game the rest of the year except Seattle to total six games played in '91.

Notebook/Personal

The product of Sudbury, Mass., Joe had his jersey retired in the offseason from Sudbury Lincoln High School. Joe played on teams that posted consecutive 12-0 and 11-0 records and a pair of state championships. One of his teammates on those clubs was 1991 NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year Mike Croel. Sims was a split end at the prep level, catching 16 passes for 220 yards and four scores, so he had heard some offensive signals prior to his transition to offense a year ago. He also manned the defensive tackle position in an All-State senior campaign and led the school's b-ball squad in scoring at 19 points per game in a 19-1 season. Joe isn't the only athlete in the Sims family as his brother Kevin competed in football at New Hampshire and his other brother John played hoops at Maine. Sims needed time to think over his switch from defense to offense in the Falcons training camp and sought advice from his coaches from Nebraska. "You can't just walk in and play offensive line," Joe said. "It's harder mentally on you." After his NFL indoctrination against the World Champion Redskins, Sims proved something to himself. "After today I know I can play offensive tackle," he said after the game. "I'm not saying I'll be the most polished tackle around, but I know now I can go in and play if they need me." In 1991, he will work at the guard position. He was on the same Cornhusker team with Bruce Pickens and Denver #1 pick Mike Croel. He was born on March 1, 1969 to John (IBM Executive) and Shirley Sims.

College Career

With the Big Eight Cornhuskers, Sims finished his career with 70 tackles, seven QB sacks, 20 QB hurries, 12 tackles for losses, and a pass interception. In his final three seasons, he missed just one game with an injury, while participating on three Bowl teams. In his senior campaign,

Sims was a second-team All-Big Eight pick with his four sacks, six tackles for losses, eight QB hurries and an interception. He was twice voted the Huskers' defensive Player-of-the-Week with a nine-tackle, one sack, game vs. Iowa State and an eight effort vs. Kansas State. As a sophomore, Sims played all 12 games and the Orange Bowl. He became the starter at left tackle as a junior and played every game. Then, as a senior, he was one of the team leaders. Joe's final game was in the Citrus Bowl against Georgia Tech, while he also participated in the Fiesta Bowl (Florida State) and Orange Bowl (U. of Miami) with Nebraska.

George
THOMAS

89

Last Season

George's second season in the Red Gun offense started out in high fashion in Week 2 against Minnesota as he set personal-bests for receptions in a game with 7 and yards with 128 to go along with his 20-yard touchdown. His progress was hindered though as he was forced to go on Injured Reserve with a bad shoulder in Week 7. But he returned to action in three weeks to establish career-highs in '91 with his 28 catches and two scores. In Week 16 against Seattle, the speedster hauled in four passes, including a four-yard TD, to aid the Falcons in clinching a Playoff berth for the first time in nine years. The former UNLV star recorded two of the Falcons long plays over 30 yards with his 37 yard grab vs. Saints (Week 5) and his 32-yarder vs. Vikings. George came up with a clutch third down conversion for 19 yards to keep a drive alive as the Falcons eventually knotted the score at 20 apiece during the Playoff win over the Saints.

Pro Career

Thomas has improved each season to become a deep threat in the Falcons Red Gun attack. In 1990, he led the team with a 21.3 per catch average, piling up 383 yards on 18 receptions. His 51 yard catch off the hands of Chris Miller vs. Saints was his first NFL touchdown and put the Falcons ahead 10-7. "Heat" ran by opponents for long receptions of 72, 53, 51, and 50 yards. He had a personal-high of five aerials for 97 yards against the Rams. The quick and agile Thomas also has been a contributor on Falcons special teams in his tenure in Atlanta, evidenced by his two blocked punts. He had foot surgery prior to his rookie season and went on IR for most of the year before returning at the end of the '88 campaign.

Notebook

George's short pro career has been marked by big plays, injuries and blazing speed. He has six catches of 30 yards or more out of his 50 career receptions, which means 1 in every 8 catches goes the distance. Thomas has also chipped in on special teams to block a team record two punts in a single game vs. 49ers in '90 as one of his caroms resulted in a TD for Bobby Butler. It was only the second time he had ever lined up on the punt block team. Injuries have come in the form of a stress fracture, (which required surgery), and calf and shoulder problems that have placed him on Injured Reserve in every season. The speed merchant, who has gone by the simple but appropriate nickname of "Heat," has been clocked at 4.3 in the 40 and has provided the Falcons with another burner to test opponents secondary's. He should be especially effective in the new astroturf at the Georgia Dome. George earned his moniker in college by hauling in long aerials from Randall Cunningham of the Eagles and was in the same offense with Ickey Woods.

College

"Heat" scorched opponents during his stay at Nevada-Las Vegas as he did it all, whether it was catching passes (103 for 1,826 yards), returning kicks (45 kickoffs for 1,072 yards), or going the distance (17 TD's). He majored in turning on the afterburners as he recorded longs of 80, 77, 71, 67 and 62 yards on pass receptions and 71, 56, 53 and 52 yards on returning kicks. Thomas' most famous college game witnessed him score a touchdown with three seconds left on the clock to bring UNLV within a point, then grab the two-point conversion for the win. George put his team in striking distance in that game vs. Utah State by returning a kick 52 yards. He still holds the Runnin' Rebels record for his 197-yard receiving game against Cal-State Fullerton and also registered an all-purpose total of 224 yards versus San Jose State.

Personal

The native of Riverside, California was a state sprint champion in high school at Indio. The three sport standout also excelled in football and basketball, winning three varsity letters in each sport, and All-League, All-County and All-CIF honors in all for the Indio, CA. school. A social science major at UNLV, he and his wife, Vicki, have two daughters, Shavanta and Anastasia, and live in Alpharetta, GA.

Ken

TIPPINS
LINEBACKER

52

Last Season

"Tip" was a valuable commodity among the Falcons linebacking corps. He started seven times in 1991, while playing in all 16 games for the second straight year, and ended up with a career-high 72 tackles. He also had a QB sack of Dave Krieg (vs. Seahawks) a fumble recovery TD (Saints), 6 other QB pressures, a forced fumble, and his first career interception (vs. Cowboys). His top efforts a year ago included 13 tackles vs. Redskins in the Playoffs (tying a career-best), 9 stops vs. Saints, and 8 each vs. 49ers and Packers. The special teams force also added 21 tackles on coverage units, third-best on the club. His 20 total tackles in the Playoffs were good enough to be third on the team list behind Tuggle (31) and Jordan (22).

Pro Career

Ken ran his NFL games played experience to 38 in three seasons with last year's numbers. He now owns a streak of 32 straight games participated in over the past two campaigns. Tippins logged time in six games as a rookie for the Cowboys after serving his NFL apprenticeship earlier on the Developmental Squad in 1989, finishing with six tackles and two special teams solos. He has captured the "Hit the Beach" helmet for his 'special' play on the units twice in his career.

Notebook

Tippins path to the NFL has included proving his worth on special teams. He made the Dallas Cowboys roster through this 'special' avenue and it has continued today. His best day ever on the units came in '90 against Phoenix when he collared four tackles on teams and he has totaled 49 stops over the last two seasons. He has been escorted up and down the field prior to Falcons games by the Marine Corps Color Guard in a military helmet in each of the past two years for his outstanding work. He earned the honor one time by leaping over the wedge on a kickoff against Houston. His role took a turn for the best last year as he saw considerable action in the Falcons second line of defense and he responded by having a career-year. He showed flashes that he could respond to the full-time demands of a linebacker in '90 when he filled in for John Rade in the first quarter in Week 12 vs. Saints and set a personal-best with 12 tackles, and in Week 15 at Cleveland when he spelled Jessie Tuggle and finished with 12 stops.

College

"Tip" was a two-time All-Ohio Valley conference selection at defensive end for the Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, TN. He collected 151 tackles, with 20 stops behind the line of scrimmage, and nine QB sacks as a three-year starter. His best college game came versus Eastern Kentucky as he registered 11 tackles, a sack, an interception and two recovered fumbles.

Personal

Tippins has had the pleasure of both playing high school and pro football in the peach state. The Cooks High School protege and product of Adel, GA, made the all-county squad on the gridiron and was a 19 point scorer on the basketball team. The athletic Ken also set the school's long jump record of 21-9. He followed such former Blue Raider players to the pros like Don Griffin (49ers), David Little (Eagles/Chiefs) and Dwight Stone (Steelers).

Billy Joe

TOLLIVER

11

Last Season

Billy Joe was acquired by the Falcons three days before the season opener for a fifth round '92 draft choice to the Chargers. He provided much-needed experience to the position and paid dividends as a back-up to Chris Miller. It was Tolliver's Hail Mary pass that completed the sweep of the 49ers in the birds exciting, last second 17-14 victory. He relieved an injured Miller in the second quarter versus SF and was accurate on 11 of 22 passes for 120 yards, with two TD's, and no interceptions. In the final game-winning drive, Billy Joe completed a crucial 4th down pass (at his own 37-yard line) for 19 yards to Andre Rison to keep the drive alive. Against the Rams the week before, he was a perfect 5-5 for 45 yards in the 4th quarter of a 31-14 win. He received a start last year in a tough road game in Week 11 at Washington for Miller (ribs) and was 14 for 31 for 243 yards versus the undefeated Redskins, including a career-long 75 yard TD toss to Michael Haynes on the first play of the second half. Tolliver's other start was versus the Packers and he logged time against the Bucs for a stint in the final stanza. For his initial season in Atlanta, the newcomer from Texas Tech threw for 531 yards, on 40 of 82 passing, with four TD's and two pickoffs.

Pro Career

The young, yet experienced, Tolliver ran his NFL games played total to 27 in three seasons with seven more under his belt in Atlanta. Billy Joe was a second round pick of the Chargers in '89. As a rookie, he had five starts, throwing 185 times, completing 89, for 1,097 yards, with five TD's and 8 thefts. He had his first 300-yard passing game of his career on Dec. 10 at Washington with a 24-39 effort for 350 yards and two scores. He followed that up with a 305-yard day (22-48) two weeks later in a victory over Denver. Billy Joe was San Diego's starter in 1990, getting the call in 14 games, completing 53% of his passes (216-410) for 2,574 yards and 16 TD's. He went through a stretch of 140 passes without an interception (Weeks 6-11) in '90, the second longest streak in Chargers history (168 by Dan Fouts). His first season in the pros was slowed by a broken collarbone sustained in the last preseason game and he was placed on Injured Reserve until Oct. 21.

Notebook

Billy Joe's first ever NFL appearance turned into his first start on Oct. 29, 1989 at Seattle. His 350 yard passing effort against the Redskins was the best day ever by a San Diego rookie and 4th highest all time in NFL annals by a rookie (Troy Aikman - 379, Kelly Stouffer - 370, Vinny Testaverde - 369). He then became the only QB to throw for 300 yards on a Denver defense (ranked 3rd in League) all season as he tossed for 305 on Dec. 24. Tolliver continued to show he can come through in the clutch with his last second "Big Ben III" pass to Michael Haynes to edge the Niners. In San Diego in '89, he completed 29-44 aerials in the 4th quarter of the last four games as a starter and was 13-17 in final drives of those affairs. The strong-armed signal-caller was the third quarterback drafted in 1989 behind Troy Aikman and Mike Elkins after the Chargers traded third, fourth, and seventh round choices to the Giants in order to be in position to take the Texas Tech record breaker.

College

Big Billy Joe holds just about every passing record at Texas Tech, including completions with 493, touchdowns with 38, yards with 6,756, and attempts with 1,007. The All-Southwest Conference honoree earned the starting spot as freshman and played for three different head coaches in his time at the Lubbock, Texas, school. As a senior, he threw for 2,869 yards and 20 TD's. He showed Red Raider fans he was something special in his very first collegiate start as he set a conference record with 422 yards against TCU. He finished his college career the way it began by throwing for 456 yards versus Oklahoma State.

Personal

A "legend" in the town of Boyd, Texas (pop. 1,189), the local hero is simply known as "Shotgun" (his father gave him the nickname) to the friendly folks in those parts. His exploits from high school to college to the pros are talked about from Kip and Karen's Double K Bar-B-Q, to Jerry's Cactus Jack Tavern, and all points in between. The former leader of Boyd Yellowjackets 1983 State Class AA high school football champions is the second oldest child of Sharon and Charles "Snake" Tolliver. Billy Joe's name is still the first one listed on a billboard congratulating the state champs from the town with one traffic light, one doctor, one hamburger stand, and one police officer, located 30 miles from Dallas. The red-haired, freckled-face Tolliver has been the talk of the town ever since he started driving a 1966 Ford pickup in the 4th grade. He was the Fort Worth Star Telegram's Player of the Year in his senior season for his play as a QB, punter and kicker. The hard-throwing right-hander hurled 14 no-hitters on the strength of a 92 mph fast ball, while registering a 16-4 record for the baseball team. Billy Joe now confines himself to the golf course when he's not on the football field these days. He and his wife, Sheila, have two kids, son, Austin, and daughter, Mackenzie.

Jessie

TUGGLE
LINEBACKER

58

Last Season

For the second straight year, Jessie hammered enough opponents to lead the NFL in tackles with a career-high 207 from his inside linebacker position. The Sports Illustrated All-Pro became the first Falcon in team history to record back-to-back 200+ tackle seasons. The 207 total stops averages out to 12.9 tackles per game for the productive Tuggle as he paced the team in that department in half of the Falcons games last year. He earned NFC Def. Player of the Month honors for December by totaling 49 tackles, 1FR, and his first NFL pickoff, in the last four games. "The Hammer" showed his leadership in the Playoffs by nailing down a team-best 31 total tackles. Jessie registered his second busiest day of his career with 22 tackles against New Orleans in Week 5. His other top outings in '91 included: 19 stops versus the Cowboys in Week 17, 17 stops apiece against the Vikings (Week 2), Cardinals (Week 8) and 49ers (Week 10), and 14 in the rematch with the Saints on national TV in Week 13. He returned a Raider fumble 18 yards for a touchdown to put the Falcons on the scoreboard early. In all, Tuggle amassed a personal-best 12, double digit tackle games, tied for the team lead with 2 recovered fumbles, had a sack, a forced fumble, 6 QB pressures, and his first NFL interception, in his fifth season in the League.

Pro Career

Consistent Jessie has quietly put together a string of 74 consecutive games played over the last four years and with another 16 this season can approach Steve Bartkowski in fourth place with 100. Tuggle now has four straight 100+ tackle seasons to his credit and his 377 solo tackles over that period are a team-best. Jessie has 729 total tackles in 76 NFL games, which averages out to 9.6 stops a game.

Year-by-Year

1990: Jessie led the NFL in tackles with a then personal-best of 201 as he helped the Falcons record the lowest per rush average in the League at 3.3. He was the first Falcon to total over 200 stops since Buddy Curry's 229 in 1983. Tuggle was second on the club with 5 QB sacks and finished in double digits in tackles 11 times. His 24 tackles set a personal-high against the Bengals and included a streak of 10+ tackle efforts in eight consecutive weeks.

1989: In his first full season as a starter, he collared a club-high 183 stops from the inside and paced the team in tackles in 10 out of 16 games.

1988: He developed a reputation around the League by dealing out vicious blows in a sophomore campaign that included his first 100-plus tackle season. Jessie started 8 out of his 16 games played and recovered a fumbled punt return for his first NFL TD at the Rams, while chipping in with 17 tackles and a blocked field goal.

1987: As a rookie, young Jessie played in 12 games, with four starts, and impressed with plenty of hard hits. He made the roster as a free agent after a strong camp.

1990: All-Pro (honorable mention), Associated Press

Notebook

By now, Jessie's meteoric rise to big-time NFL starter, after coming into the League as a free agent, is well-documented. The Falcons took a recommendation from Valdosta State's Coach Mike Cavan at an offseason banquet and parlayed it into an invitation to their 1987 training camp. Tuggle took it from there as he turned coaches heads with his relentless, bone-rattling hits day-after-day in the hot Georgia sun to make the club. He is the Falcons designated all-purpose backer and one of the few linebackers in the League who stays in the entire game. He is also the birds defensive signal-caller and Coach Glanville says, "He can play in space, he can play in the open field, he can play on every down, and he can play in a phone booth. He can flat play football." The quiet, but intense competitor is also known as "The Body" (after the pro wrestler), because of his strong upper torso, besides his other nickname of "Hammer" (because of the punishment he dishes out). Jessie may be unassuming in the Falcons sometimes vociferous locker room, but he's all business when he takes the field. "I want to be the toughest guy on the field," he says. "I love making the big hits!" Tuggle tries to emulate the Saints Sam Mills and the Bears Mike Singletary because they've been successful despite not having the 'prototype size' of an inside backer. If Jessie's favorite saying is true... "You don't judge people by their size, but rather by the size of their heart"...then the 5-11, 230 pound human wrecking machine surely possesses one of the biggest hearts in the game! He also shows a big heart to the Atlanta community by donating monetary pledges for his on-field performances to the Boys and Girls Clubs of Atlanta.

College

Jessie received the ultimate compliment when his #88 jersey was retired from Valdosta State last year. He left as the Blazers record holder with 340 tackles. A Gulf South Conference selection for three years, he helped guide his team to a 9-2 mark as a senior as he ended up a fine collegiate career with 129 tackles (nearly double as many as any player on the roster). A four-year starter, he was the conference's defensive player of the year.

Personal

Tuggle's had the luxury of playing his whole football career in the state of Georgia. Born and raised in Spalding, GA, Jessie Floyd, Jr. attended Griffin High School and earned team MVP honors as a senior, while dabbling on the school's baseball team in the springs. Being reared in the peach state means that Jessie grew up as a Falcon fan. His prep coach Lloyd Bohannon knew Tuggle was destined for something great. "He's the hardest working young man I've ever seen, whether it's at practice, in the weight room, or working on his speed," he once said. He is the middle child of six kids to Jessie Floyd, Sr., and Ada Tuggle. The Business Management major at Valdosta State and his wife, Dajuan, have one son, Justin, and live in Alpharetta, GA.

FLIGHT OF THE FALCON

Back in 1965, the newly awarded Atlanta franchise of the NFL was in need of a club nickname. The club received thousands of entries. A total of forty people submitted the name of the "Falcons." But, Miss Julia Elliott, a school teacher from Griffin, Georgia, at the time was singled out as the winner. Her description of what a Falcon was proved to be the deciding factor in her being judged the winner. Her description is as follows: "The Falcon is proud and dignified with great courage and flight. It never drops its prey. It's deadly and has a great sporting tradition." Despite the sadness of Miss Elliott's passing away in 1990, the Atlanta Falcons Football Club will forever hold fond memories of Julia, as the one who gave the club its nickname.

THE SUPER BOWL

In 1970, the NFL was divided into two 13-team conferences, comprised of the 26 teams formerly competing in the National Football League and the American Football League. Each conference was further divided into three divisions, the winner of each conference to be determined by a playoff of the three division winners plus the second place team within the conference with the best record. The winner of the two conferences meet in the NFL title game—The Super Bowl. An additional wild card team from each conference was added in 1978. In 1982, a special 16-team Super Bowl Tournament determined the NFL Championship. The NFC team has won the last eight Super Bowls and ten of the last eleven.

Bob
OFFENSIVE TACKLE

70

College Career

Coming out after his junior season, the 20-year-old was regarded by most as the most dominating offensive lineman in all college football. The first lineman picked in this Draft, Bob ended up a Falcon when Ken Herock engineered a trade to move up from 17th to 8th (giving up a 2 and a 4, which the Falcons got back later in the draft). The tough Whitfield played every down at left tackle for Head Coach Dennis Green (now the Minnesota Vikings head coach) for all three seasons and was a two-time nominee for the Vince Lombardi award and a nominee last year for the Outland Trophy. Each year with Bob the Cardinal improved from 3-8 to 5-6 to a top 25 ranking at 8-3 and an Aloha Bowl bid to play Georgia Tech (Tech's late punt return sparked a 18-17 win). Bob helped his team gain over 350 yards on Tech, with Vardell gaining over 100. Big Bob blocked for "Touchdown Tommy" Vardell, the 10th player taken overall in this Draft (by Cleveland). Bob became the highest Stanford player taken in the NFL draft day since John Elway was taken as the No. 1 overall choice by the Baltimore Colts in 1983.

Year-By-Year

1991: The 20-year-old junior was a consensus All-American and first team All-Pac 10 (second time) pick. His quickness and size (near 300 pounds) had many publications and scouts comparing him to another former PAC-10 player and NFL great, Anthony Munoz. The 8-3 Cardinal season included wins over top 20 teams like Colorado and UCLA and featured an offense that averaged 31.9 points and almost 400 yards per game. In the 100th anniversary of Stanford football, Bob was one of the cover boys with past greats like Jim Plunkett, Gordon King, and Frankie Albert.

1990: As a sophomore, Bob earned first team All-American recognition (second team) and all-PAC 10 first team honors. In the tough PAC-10, Bob did not allow a QB sack all season as the offense improved to average 384 yards per game. Highlights included a win over Notre Dame and three straight wins to end the season (over Conference rivals Washington State, Arizona, and California). He was the only sophomore out of 14 finalists for the Outland Trophy.

1989: Became a starter as a 17-year-old freshman and was All-PAC 10 second team pick and Freshman first-team All-American. Bob was the only Stanford player picked all-conference. He won Stanford's "Iron Man" award for playing in every offensive snap. Showing his hustle, he won ESPN's "Hit of the Week" for his tackle of a linebacker who was returning an interception.

Coach Green says, "God gave him the size and the temperment, and Bob is willing to do the rest. He works hard, he understands the game and, most important, he wants people to know how good he is. He wants to be recognized as the best tackle in America, and he's willing to do whatever it takes for that to happen."

Personal

Born Oct. 18, 1971 in Carson, CA, (south Los Angeles), Robert was into academics before he was into sports. His mother, Eartha, says as a five-year-old he was reading the Bible and starting on the encyclopedia. Dad got Bob into sports, but it wasn't until 9th grade that he got into football. In the tough inner-city of LA, Bob's older brother was with a street gang for a while and he warned younger brother Bob to stay away from that lifestyle. Respectful Bob still notes "you can bench press 5,000 pounds, but you still are afraid of your older brother." In college, he was known for his pranks on teammates and his quips to the media. At his press conference on draft day in Palo Alto, CA, he was asked about the earthquake that shook the northern part of the state that day and he exclaimed, "That wasn't an earthquake. That was just me running down the hall (after I got drafted)." A week before the draft the flamboyant Whitfield joked to reporters that the Falcons were going to trade Deion Sanders to get him. Bob also claimed to be "the champion of Nintendo's football game 'Temco Bowl' and a good break dancer. The off-field Bob majored in Economics at Stanford, while working with the college liaison program to underprivileged children in the crime-ridden neighborhoods of East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park. Despite being a high NFL draft pick, mother Eartha will make sure big Bob stays on the ground. "I don't care if he's 20 years old and a millionaire. I'm still his mother and he will get his degree." His high school athletic career saw him rise to the number one lineman in America and had schools like Notre Dame, Michigan, UCLA, Miami and others calling. Mom helped him select Stanford in Dennis Green's first season there. As the story goes, Whitfield was such a coveted recruit that the first person Green called upon being hired by Stanford wasn't even his own wife, but instead it was Bob Whitfield. At Banning High in Carson, he helped his team finish 11-3 and go to the LA City Finals, while earning honor roll recognition for his grades in the classroom. Big Bob was named the Gatorade Circle of Champions California Player of the Year in 1988 as the best football player in the state.

Falcon Fact

Bob is the fifth offensive lineman in the club's 27 years of drafts to be taken in the first round. The first was back in 1969 with George Kunz from Notre Dame (2nd). After three Pro Bowls, Kunz was traded for a 1st pick that later brought Steve Bartkowski. In '77, the club took Warren Bryant, who started on the three Falcons Playoffs teams in '78, '80 (Division title) and '82. In '78, Mike Kenn was tabbed with the 13th pick and he's gone on to play over 200 games and earn five Pro Bowls. The previous had been Bill Fralic at guard in '85 with the second overall pick. Fralic has been voted to the NFL Team of the Decade for the '80's and was the only NFL guard in the last 25 years to play in four consecutive Pro Bowls. Those leave some "big shoes" for Bob to fill, but with his size 15 feet and ability it may not be that tough a challenge.

SMITH
RUNNING BACK

28

College Career

With a blend of size (6-1), strength (214) and speed (4.5), Tony was one of the premier backs in America and became the second back chosen in this NFL draft (Vardell). His exploits included being a superb rusher (110 yards per game last year, 5.1 per carry), a receiver (34-253 in career), a dangerous returner (26.6 career KOR, 12.1 career PR with two touchdowns by each means), and a pure game-breaker with long runs (81 TD) and long kickoff returns (82 TD, 80 TD) and long punt returns (63 TD, 45 TD, 40 and 39). How talented was Smith? How about this stat? Tony averaged more yards per game (164.56) than Heisman Trophy winner Desmond Howard (159.0). It was as a result of the Falcons originally trading Tony's former teammate (Brett Favre) that the Falcons had the opportunity to take Tony. For the Golden Eagles, Tony is the lone player in their history to return two kickoffs and two punts for touchdowns. His three-year final totals accounted for 3,887 all-purpose yards and 17 TD's. With pro coaches running the show, he earned most valuable player honors at the annual Senior Bowl with 72 yards on 12 carries. He was the first player from USM (and 4th ever) to be selected in the first round since Louis Lipps went to the Steelers in 1984.

Year-By-Year

1991: Played in nine games, averaging 164.56 per game, but missed two games with a fractured left hand. Tony had five 100-plus yard rushing days as a senior with 190 (18 carries) vs. Tulane, 144 (18) vs. Colorado State, 125 (25) vs. Tulsa, 117 (28) vs. East Carolina, and 106 (24) vs. Pitt, while missing by one yard (99) against Louisville. He averaged 5.1 yards per rush as a senior and 110.89 per game and had his career long run (81) against Tulane. Tony's combined yardage total was 1,481 (164.56) per game, sixth best in the country.

1990: The junior accounted for 1,431 all-purpose yards (134.6 per game) for the All-American Bowl bound Golden Eagles. He averaged 4.2 per rush with four TD's, while electrifying the fans with 38 punt returns for 507 yards and two TD's (63 and 45). His 63-yard PR touchdown game was against Tulane and his 45 yard TD was against Louisville. His top rushing game was a 124-yard effort in a win over SW Louisiana.

1989: Led the nation in kickoff returns by averaging 32.5 yards and two touchdowns (14-455), while also averaging 10.6 on 26 punt returns for 275 yards. His 80-yard KOR TD was the first in stadium history (against Tulane) and his 82-yard KOR TD came over East Carolina. Sophomore Tony finished with 848 combined yards that also included a 40-yard punt return.

1988: Sat out freshman year under Prop 48 rule.

Personal

Tony is the son of James and Vera Patterson of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but he was born on June 29, 1970 in Chicago, Illinois. His football career gained stature as an all-state pick at Warren Central in Vicksburg where he played wide receiver and returned kicks. Tony had a 99-yard punt return as well as a 78 yarder as he displayed his open field running abilities. Tony cried tears of joy in front of 40 relatives, friends and media when he was selected by the Falcons on draft day '92. Smith, who usually keeps his emotions inside, admits to being caught up in the moment. "If I shed tears, it must be serious." Tony's personal fan club also includes brothers, J.J. Patterson, 17, and Justin Patterson, 10.

Chuck
SMITH
90

College Career

After two years at Northwestern Oklahoma A&M, Chuck transferred to Tennessee and worked his way up to a consensus All-SEC pick as the defensive right end. In just two years in the tough SEC, Chuck had 111 tackles, 13.5 QB sacks, 23.5 batted passes, 19 tackles for losses, one forced fumble, and two safeties. In his two years in junior college, Chuck had over 120 tackles as team's went 9-1 and 9-2, ranking in the top ten in the country both seasons. At Tennessee, his fellow DE was also drafted (Mims-1st round by Chargers) as they formed one of college football's best tandems. His 4.7 speed makes him able to get pressure on opposing quarterbacks. He put the finishing touches on an outstanding college career by collecting three QB sacks, a forced fumble and a blocked extra point at the Senior Bowl all-star game.

Year-By-Year

1991: As a senior, Chuck led the Vols with his team high nine QB sacks and 13 stops for 103 yards in losses. For the top 20 ranked Vols, Chuck had 64 tackles and came away with not one, but two, safeties on QB's Shane Matthews (Florida) and Tom Luke (Ole Miss). Chuck also had one of his sacks against Notre Dame's Rick Mirer (along with eight tackles) as the Vols rallied from a 31-7 deficit for a memorable 35-34 win.

1990: After transferring, Chuck became the starter at right end and came up with 47 tackles and 4-1/2 sacks. One of his better junior games came against Notre Dame (eight tackles, two for losses), while also having seven tackle outings against Auburn. In the Sugar Bowl, Chuck had six tackles (five solo) as the Vols came from behind to beat Virginia, 23-22.

Personal

A local product from nearby Athens, GA, Charles Henry III was born on Dec. 21, 1969. His athletic career blossomed while playing at Clarke Central High School as they went 36-5, including a state championship in 1985 on a 15-0 season. The next year, they went 14-1, losing only in the championship game. That 15-0 team was ranked #2 in the entire nation and Smith played a key role on the defense. Chuck also played catcher for two years on the baseball team at Clarke Central and credits his work with track coach Ken Chandler for improving his footwork and speed. Possessing superb quickness for a player with his size, he was a member of Clarke Central's track relay team while also competing in the 200 meters. He followed the same route to land in a major college program as teammate Scott Case as the pair attended Northeastern JC before signing on with big-time football schools. This won't be the first time that Smith will be rooting for the Falcons because Chuck grew up cheering for the birds and he even attended two games last year at Fulton County Stadium. As a youngster, the Georgia native always admired NFL players who put pressure on the quarterback. "Ever since I was little, I've been fascinated with people who could pass rush. I remember guys like Lawrence Taylor and Wilbur Marshall, who got all those sacks. I loved that," Smith said. While other youngsters dreamed about playing the glamor position of quarterback, Chuck dreamed of sacking quarterbacks. "I love to get the glory of a sack. Everybody in the stadium is staring at you. It's exciting." Legendary Vols coach Johnny Majors called Smith and teammate Chris Mims "the two best ends he has ever coached." Tennessee defensive coordinator Larry Lacewell once said about Chuck... "When the passer drops back, it's like throwing red meat to a mad dog." Smith worked on his pass rushing skills through the help of one of the NFL's most feared rushers and ex-Volunteer Reggie White of the Eagles. He also enjoyed the luxury of facing some of the best competition in the country everyday in practice by lining up against future #1 draft picks offensive linemen Charles McRae and Antone Davis. By working in the Tennessee weight room, Chuck increased his bench press from 300 to 365 pounds and squat from 380 to 535.

Howard
DINKINS
LINEBACKER

97

College Career

Howard Dinkins possesses the necessary tools of speed (4.5 in 40), agility, and athletic ability required to fulfill the role of a pass rushing linebacker in the NFL. He performed at a high level for the powerful Seminoles of Florida State for four years, totaling 221 career tackles, including a productive 149 stops as a starter over the past two seasons. He used his talents to be a nuisance in opposing backfields as he collected 14.5 QB sacks during his stay in Tallahassee and recorded a personal-best 11 tackles behind the line of scrimmage as a junior. Howard brings a winning attitude to the Falcons for he played on four Bowl winning teams (Sugar, Fiesta, Blockbuster and Cotton) that were constantly battling for a national championship.

Year-By-Year

1991: The All-American honorable mention choice was third on the team with his 75 tackles, including 4.5 sacks of the quarterback. In front of a nationally televised audience against Michigan, Dinkins was credited with a season-high 12 tackles. He posted 9 stops vs. Syracuse, 8 vs. Virginia Tech, with a sack, 7 vs. LSU, and closed the book on his college career with 8 tackles against rival Florida.

1990: A starter at weakside linebacker, he set a then personal-high with 74 tackles, with a trio of sacks, a caused and recovered fumble. His successful junior season also saw him dump 11 ball carriers for losses. His third year started out in grand fashion on the first play of the season as he pounced on an East Carolina fumble, which led to a quick FSU score, in a 45-24 victory. He tallied 7 solo tackles and 9 total in the win. In the annual showdown with the Miami Hurricanes, Howard produced with 8 tackles and a pair of stops behind the line. His other top games were against South Carolina (8 tackles), Georgia Southern (5 solo's, 8 total), and LSU and Va. Tech (7 tackles).

1989: As a sophomore, he performed in Coach Bobby Bowden's "Bandit" position behind Kevin Grant. He mainly logged time in pass rushing situations, finishing with 45 tackles (24 solo), 3 QB sacks, and 3 tackles for losses. In the season opener against Southern Mississippi, he registered 7 stops and added 7 more stops the following week vs. Syracuse. He was impressive in the Seminoles 41-17 blowout of Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl, amassing 5 individual tackles, one for a loss.

1988: In his first season in a Seminole uniform after being reshirted as a freshman, he recorded 27 tackles, four sacks, and six passes defended. He busted through the line to block a punt for a safety against Louisiana Tech and collared two sacks in a win over Michigan State and two more in a 48-28 defeat of Tulane. He is best remembered for dropping Auburn QB Reggie Slack for an 11-yard loss to kill a last-minute drive, preserving a 13-7 victory in the Sugar Bowl.

Personal

Dinkins celebrated his 23rd birthday in style by being drafted by the Falcons (April 26, 1992). A native of Jacksonville, FLA, Howard stayed in the sunshine state to attend FSU after a stellar career at Ribault High School (65 tackles as a senior). He receives his inspiration from his mother, Evelyn Dinkins, who is stricken with sickle-cell anemia. She raised Howard and other son, Darryl Greene, by herself following the accidental death of their Army sergeant father, Howard, Sr., when baby Howard was a year old. "We all know his mother is a fighter and you see a lot of those family traits in Howard," commented FSU Head Coach Bobby Bowden. Because he played in the shadows of much more publicized Seminoles like #1 pick Terrell Buckley, Howard referred to himself as the "Silent Stalker." The economics major (with a minor in criminology) boasts a 405-pound bench press and has added 25 pounds to his frame through weights since his freshman season. But despite the added bulk, he never lost a step, as he was one of the fastest players on the entire Seminole squad last season (running a 4.48 40 last spring for FSU coaches). Howard didn't have a hard time finding a familiar face in the Falcons locker room when he arrived in Suwanee. He played alongside Deion Sanders in Tallahassee and is acquaintances of two other FSU grads, Jamie Dukes and Bobby Butler. Dinkins also had the task of trying to stop Andre Rison of Michigan State and Tony Smith of Southern Miss during their careers. He lined up against fellow draft pick Tim Pulk of Florida and Bruce Pickens and Joe Sims of Nebraska (in the '90 Fiesta Bowl). Among his career highlights were 11 tackles for losses in 1990, which was the third-most ever by an FSU player in a season, and he collected an interception in the Blockbuster Bowl against Penn State. He and fellow draft pick Chuck Smith became friends at last year's Senior Bowl and look forward to playing together in the pro's. His idol growing up was Redskins linebacker Wilbur Marshall. Because of his athletic ability the Falcons are anxious to take a look at Dinkins on special teams.

SMITH
CORNERBACK

29

College Career

Frankie Smith used his blazing 4.4 speed to lead the Baylor secondary, stealing four passes (for 71 return yards) and breaking up nine pass attempts, while totaling 61 tackles, in his senior campaign. The busy Smith also recovered two fumbles from his left cornerback position and averaged 10.5 yards per punt return with a 41-yard long. Frankie's athletic ability enabled him to make the switch to defensive back last year after starting out 1990 as a fullback for the Bears. He moved over to offense to fill a void but injured his ankle early in the year and returned to the defensive side of the ball for his last season. In 1989, the active Smith contributed in the secondary with 42 total tackles, 33 solo, in logging time in 532 plays at the corner. His top efforts were a nine tackle game against Houston and an eight tackle affair versus Rice. He also added six stops against SMU and five versus TCU. The 5-9, 177 pounder played as a nickel back as a sophomore and freshman.

Personal

The Waco, Texas product was an All-State running back at Groesbeck High School, where he gained 1,246 yards, with 14 TD's as a senior. The Waco Tribune Herald's Player of the Year led his team to a 17-5 record in his last two campaigns and averaged 39.2 yards on kickoff returns. Besides lettering three times on the gridiron, the athletic Smith also earned four letters apiece in track and basketball. He was born on October 8, 1968 to Frank and Beverly Smith and majored in business at Baylor.

RAY

30

College Career

A physical, aggressive hitter, Terry Ray honed his skills playing against top notch competition in the always-tough Big Eight Conference for Oklahoma. He collared 174 tackles in his three years as a starter and 188 total to finish third all-time on the Sooners tackle list among defensive backs. Terry also picked off 7 passes and registered 23 passes defended in his career. Terry's 70 tackles in 1989 were the seventh highest output ever by a Sooner in a season and the most since Scott Case amassed 81 in 1983. He became one of only four 'true' freshmen to earn an Oklahoma letter, playing a reserve role in his first Sooner season in 1988.

Year-By-Year

1991: A starter in every game at free safety, Terry zeroed in to record 54 tackles, 35 solo stops, with three thefts, and 7 passes defended. In a 29-8 triumph over Iowa State, he posted seven stops, with a pair of interceptions. Ray also recorded seven tackles against rival Texas and 6 each over conference foe Colorado, Kansas State and Va. Tech.

1990: The All-Big Eight Conference pick and honorable mention All-America had 50 tackles, three pickoffs, and six deflections while starting every contest. He corralled a career-high 13 tackles (9 solos) and batted away a pass versus Colorado. Ray returned an interception 21 yards and had 7 stops in a 31-17 decision over Kansas. He followed that effort up with 6 hits and a pass defended vs. Oklahoma State and 5 stops vs. Texas.

1989: A secondary-leading 70 tackles also included a team-high 10 passes defended, a forced fumble and one interception. He picked off his first collegiate pass against Kansas and totaled a then personal-best of 12 stops vs. Colorado. His other double-digit tackle games came against Iowa State (10), where he added 3 passes defended, and in the season finale vs. Nebraska (11).

1988: Earning a varsity letter as a freshman, Terry had a season-best 5 tackles against Texas on the way to finishing with 14 overall stops as a reserve.

Personal

Terry took the big step and accepted a scholarship to Oklahoma after bringing some heavy credentials with him to the Norman campus. He was called the third best defensive back in the entire football-crazed state of Texas as a prepster (and "perhaps the best one-on-one defender in the state"). Ray's busy senior season at Ellison High in Killeen, Texas included: six blocked kicks, eight punt returns for 138 yards, 114 rushing yards and four TD's, and four interceptions from his starting safety spot. Through his efforts his team posted an 8-3 record and an appearance in the Class 5A Playoffs. Football runs deep in the Ray family as his brother, Darrol, was a two-time All-Big Eight selection at Oklahoma and member of the N.Y. Jets (1980-84). "I kind of learned (football) on my own, from watching TV and from my brother and just natural ability through high school," Ray said. The communications major can motor for a player at position as evidenced by his 4.49 clocking in the 40. He may be utilized at the strong safety slot in the pro's. Terry was born overseas in Belgium, and his father was one of the survivors of the Killeen shooting massacre in Nov. of 1991.

PAULK

91

College Career

The All-SEC first team selection closed out his career by leading a Gators defense to the '92 Sugar Bowl from his inside linebacking position. During his last campaign in Tallahassee, he was the dominating leader of a defense that allowed only seven rushing TD's all year, third lowest in Florida history. He helped the Gators through a stretch of six games where they did not allow a touchdown on the ground for a unit that was ranked third overall in defense in the tough SEC. Paulk totaled 257 career tackles, including 25 stops for losses, 4.5 QB sacks, 7 forced fumbles, 4 recovered fumbles, 6 interceptions (for minus 152 yards) and four blocked kicks on special teams. A finalist for the Butkus Award (for the best linebacker in the country), he is remembered by local Georgia Bulldog fans for a 36-yard interception touchdown, a forced fumble that led to a touchdown, a six-yard sack, and five tackles to earn SEC Defensive Player of the Week honors in a 38-7 victory in his junior season.

Year-By-Year

1991: An All-American honorable mention choice by Football News, he was all over the field to record 98 tackles (44 solos), 3 fumble recoveries, 1 fumble caused, and a sack. On the Gators ledger, he was credited with 18.5 'big plays,' including seven stops for a minus 22-yards in losses and seven QB pressures. The team captain's best senior outing was a 12 tackle effort (8 solos) against Syracuse. He also added 11 stops vs. Alabama, Mississippi State, Auburn (plus a sack) and Northern Illinois and collected 10 tackles vs. Tennessee.

1990: Starting 10 games at inside backer, he was second on the club with 77 tackles, totaling a pair of sacks, and seven stops for a minus 24 yards. He finished second on the squad with his four interceptions, while jarring the ball loose from opposing ball carriers on three different occasions. His biggest game came against SEC rival Alabama as he registered 9 solos and 13 total tackles, 3 stops for a minus 7 yards, a forced fumble and 2 pass break-ups in a 17-13 win. His theft of two Akron passes was a career-high and it came the week before garnering the conferences' top defensive honors vs. Georgia.

1989: As a reserve, the sophomore played in nine games, ending up with 32 tackles, a caused fumble, an interception TD, and five tackles for losses. Against Memphis State, he posted five stops, with a five-yard tackle for a loss, and picked off a pass and went 50-yards for a score in a 38-13 triumph. He displayed his talents on special teams by blocking a punt to set-up a Florida score in an eventual 16-13 decision over LSU.

1988: The freshman made a name for himself by blocking a punt that led to a Gator touchdown in his first collegiate game versus Montana State. As he learned the defense, he continued to earn his letter on the special units by blocking punts against Mississippi and Mississippi State. He also returned his first career theft 13 yards vs. Vandy and captured a spot on the All-Freshman SEC team by playing in every game and totaling 50 tackles.

1987: He performed on the scout team as a red-shirt freshman.

Personal

A Miami product, he was a first-team Class 5A All-State and All-Dade County choice at Carol City High, compiling 110 tackles as a senior. He and former Florida standout and boyhood friend, Godfrey Miles (Cowboys), were considered the best linebacking pair of prospects in the sunshine state during their last prep season. The two were billed "The Doublemint Twins" because they both looked and played with similar styles and were inseparable off the field. At Florida, Paulk gained a hard-hitting reputation, not only with the opposition, but also with his own teammates. He loves putting on the hits. "If I'm all bruised after the game and I feel sore, I know those guys I hit feel just as bad. And I know they're thinking about me. I want them to know I came to play football today and I played it hard." Gator linebackers coach Tim Marcum summed up Paulk's play by saying . . . "He's a very aggressive, full-speed player who makes a heck of a lot of plays with his speed and quickness." Proving to be a fast learner, Tim blocked two punts in his first two collegiate games after only being added to the special teams units three days before the start of the '88 season. The anthropology major was born on April 3, 1968 in Miami.

Derrick
MOORE
36

College Career

The big, muscular fullback was an All-Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference choice and NAIA All-America selection during a senior campaign that included a single season school record of 1,502 rushing yards. His eye-popping 6.7 per rush average (on 226 carries) and 16 touchdowns were second-best among all runners in NAIA Division I ranks as he led the Redmen of Tahlequah, Oklahoma to a perfect 10-0 record. Derrick rambled for 258 impressive yards against Southern Arkansas to win National Offensive Player of the Week honors and break Sam Cunningham's mark of 254 yards with Northeastern State. The peach state native has been productive at every place he's been as he averaged over 5 yards per carry in his three seasons at Troy State and N.E. State, amassing a total 2,607 yards on the college scene on 439 carries, a 5.9 average, with 26 TD's. Moore was tabbed the MVP of both the Hula Bowl and for the Blue squad at the Blue/Gray college all-star game.

Year-By-Year

1991: Derrick's record breaking senior season included rushing games of 183, 180, 163, 135 (twice), 122 and 120 yards, to go along with his 258 yard outing. The bruising runner also collected long gains of 74t, 70t, 53, 52t, 52, and 49 yards. His best touchdown producing effort was three scores vs. East Central Oklahoma and he tallied two TD's in five other contests. His 258 yard outburst versus Southern Arkansas, included 155 yards in the first half on 25 carries and touchdown runs of 74 and 70 yards. In the Playoffs against Central Arkansas, he registered 120 yards on only 13 carries for a 9.2 average and scored on a 49-yard jaunt to finish the season with 1,502 yards. He was named OIC offensive player of the week three times.

1990: He tallied a team-leading 748 yards for the Trojans of Troy State to garner a berth on the All-Gulf South team. He ran for 122 yards on 20 totes, with scoring runs of 49 and 7 yards, in a 41-33 victory over Tennessee-Martin. His 78-yard TD scamper capped a 119 yard rushing effort against McNeese State and he also added a 93 yard game on 11 carries vs. Mississippi College.

1989: An achilles tendon injury hampered him during his first year in a Troy State uniform but he performed in every game and finished second on the team with 357 yards and six TD's. He also returned 19 kickoffs for 361 yards and a 19.0 average. His best outing was a 106 yard day on only 7 carries, with scoring runs of 66 and 9 yards, vs. Livingston.

1988: Moore attended Albany (Ga.) Junior College but did not play football.

Personal

One of the three Falcons draft picks to hail from Georgia, Derrick was a two-time letterwinner as a tailback and linebacker at Monroe High in Albany. Moore's influence on the tiny campus of Northeastern State was very evident when he held a draft day party at the school's University Center and among the 200 well-wishers were school president Dr. W. Roger Webb and head coach Tom Eckert. His route to the NFL could someday make a Hollywood script. His college career began at Albany JC, where he didn't even play football for two years because he decided instead to concentrate on his academics. After transferring to Troy State in Alabama for two successful seasons, he was ruled ineligible when the school decided to move up to Division I-AA because of the NCAA's time-clock rule, which allows a student-athlete five years to play four. So he applied at NAIA Central Arkansas, but another snag developed. He was required to establish residency in Arkansas, which he decided would take too much time. Henceforth, the final move to Northeastern State. "It's an unbelievable story," he said. "I wouldn't have believed it unless I was standing in my own shoes." Despite the frequent moves, education has always played a part in his life as the studious Moore is only four hours shy of receiving his college degree in physical education. "I've always recognized the importance of my education." A religious person, he was the organizer of Bible studies at both Troy State and Northeastern State. One of the oldest rookies in the NFL this year at age 24, Derrick feels his age is actually an advantage. "I think my age has helped me more than anything," he stated. "I've matured because of the delays I've had in transferring."

A physical blocker, Reggie's worth in the Troy State offense was recognized by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, who named him to their All-America second team as a senior. He started every game for the Trojans in '91 after transferring from Itawamba Junior College in Fulton, Mississippi. Dwight was second on the team with 22 receptions for 447 yards, a 20.3 average, with a touchdown, last year. He paved the way for a Trojan running game that racked up 2,362 yards, while posting a 4.6 per rush average. He also helped his team to 184 first downs (17 a game) and proved to be a capable runner as he finished with 6 touchdowns on the ground and 59 total yards. He scored three of his touchdowns in a game against Southern Illinois (1, 1 and 2 yard rushes) and finished his college career with 4 catches for 63 yards and a rushing TD vs. rival Georgia Southern. With Itawamba JC, he earned All-America, All-Region and All-State honors at the Mississippi school in '90 with 46 catches for 652 yards and six TD's in an 8-3-1 season.

ALEX
TACKLE/GUARD

68

College Career

The versatile performer played both guard and tackle for the nationally ranked Aggies. The thick-legged Alex used his strength to open up holes in a Texas A&M offense in '91 that posted a total of 4,804 yards in a 10-1 season. With Keith in the lineup, the Aggies averaged 259.1 yards per contest on the ground. Against LSU, his explosive blocks helped his team account for 409 rushing yards out of the 524 total in a 45-7 win. Alex also forced Texas Tech LB Matt Wingo from the game with a roll block as RB Greg Hill turned the corner on a 43-yard TD jaunt and added a timely hit on a 1-yard plunge by QB Bobby Richardson as the Aggies ran for 322 yards in the 37-14 victory. In 1990, he started the first seven games at right guard and was involved in school single game record of 774 yards, with 33 first downs, in a 63-14 drubbing of Southwestern Louisiana. He graded out 88% efficiency for the game as the team gained 526 rushing yards. His sophomore season began as a back-up to former #1 pick and current Miami Dolphin Richmond Webb. But he moved into the starting left guard spot in the sixth game of the year against Houston and the results were impressive. With his presence in the lineup, the Aggies amassed 1,325 of their 2,199 rushing yards. His best outing came versus Rice as he registered five knockdown blocks as Texas A&M piled up 352 of its 525 yards via the ground attack. He saw action in every contest as a freshman in 1988 as a reserve tackle, despite playing the year with a broken hand. As a redshirt freshman in '87, he was moved to offense after beginning the season as a defensive tackle.

Personal

A Beaumont, Texas native, he garnered All-State 5A status at Central High School and was named a Top 50 recruit in the state by the Houston Chronicle, lettering three times in football and track. Before picking up football as a sophomore, Keith used to spend his spare time on the basketball court. He also found his way to the weight room during his second year in high school and it became habit forming. His cousin, William Graham, played defensive back for the Detroit Lions and was a motivating influence. The other big influence in Alex's career on the gridiron was ex-Aggie Richmond Webb (Dolphins). Hiram Keith Alex was born on June 9, 1969 in Kountze, Texas and was a recreation and parks major at Texas A&M. At 312 pounds, Keith is the heaviest Falcon player on the roster. A private person, Keith decided to attend Texas A&M because he liked the quiet surroundings of College Station. The intense performer is all business when he hits the field. "When I get on the field, I try to take a business-like approach," Alex explained. "It's fun, don't get me wrong, but I also consider it a business because it's a job."

Darryl

HARDY
LINEBACKER

50

College Career

Darryl finished his career in Knoxville 9th on the Volunteers all-time list with 227 solo tackles. The All-America honorable mention by Football News and All-SEC selection by coaches in '91 totaled 318 tackles for Tennessee in four years, including 20 stops for losses, and blocked five career kicks. He also added 5 fumbles caused, 5 fumbles recovered, four pickoffs and 5.5 QB sacks to his ledger.

Year-By-Year

1991: The All-SEC choice ended up third in tackles with 89 on a talented defense that included the likes of Chris Mimms (#1 pick) and Chuck Smith (#2 choice). His active senior season also entailed blocking three kicks, recovering three fumbles, causing another, intercepting a pair of passes, and breaking up 22.5 passes in coverage. His best game as a collegian came in the come-from-behind win over Notre Dame on national TV. He sparked the Vols by blocking an Irish field goal in the closing minutes of the first half that Floyd Miley scooped up and ran back 85 yards for a score to close the gap to 31-14 at halftime. Hardy amassed 17 tackles on the day (10 solos) in the 35-34 triumph to earn SEC Defensive Player of the Week accolades. He had 10 tackles against Mississippi State, including one that forced a fumble on a last ditch scoring drive to preserve a 26-24 victory. He blocked a punt to set-up a Tennessee score in a 30-16 win over UCLA and blocked a field goal and had a pass theft in a 30-21 defeat of Auburn. His last block came off the foot of an Ole Miss punter that was recovered for a TD in a 36-25 win.

1990: A starter at ROLB, Darryl was second on the team with his 95 tackles (70 solos) and led the Vols with 17 big plays. In the Disneyland Pigskin Classic, he collected 14 tackles and a blocked FG in a 31-31 tie with Colorado. Against Auburn, he also totaled 14 stops, but also added a 10-yard sack, and three pass deflections. He posted 12 tackles (9 solos) and a forced and recovered fumble vs. Alabama. In the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, he had 8 solo stops, with 4 pass deflections as the Volunteers rallied for a 23-22 decision over Virginia.

1989: The super sophomore paced the team with 110 tackles in his first year as a starter. He collected a personal-best 20 tackles, including 18 solos, against Alabama, to record the 4th highest single game total in team history. His other top outings were a 15 tackle day vs. Georgia, 11 tackles vs. UCLA, and 11 more stops, with a recovered and forced fumble vs. Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl.

1988: He registered 24 tackles as a reserve, including coming up with four tackles, a caused fumble, and deflected pass, against Mississippi.

Personal

A multi-dimensional athlete at the prep level, Darryl Gerrod Hardy played offensive tackle, center, tight end and linebacker for Princeton High in Cincinnati, Ohio. Ironically, in his last prep game and the only game he ever played on the defensive side of the ball, he recorded 15 tackles and 4.5 QB sacks, to lay the foundation for his future destiny at linebacker. His team went 18-4 over the final two seasons with him in the lineup as he picked up All-City and All-League honors along the way. He filled the shoes of the 'checker' or play caller in the Volunteer defense and was labeled "week after week the best player since I've been here" by defensive coordinator Larry Lacewell (who arrived in 1990). People in Knoxville still talk about Darryl's 'kill shot' on Alabama RB Murry Hill in 1989 that knocked Hill out of the game and for the season, with five fractured ribs and a bruised lung. Hardy was moved from the weakside to the strong or 'Sam' position in '90 and became the workhorse of the unit. Hardy also has displayed a knack for blocking kicks, which is considered an invaluable asset on the Falcons special teams. "It's the determination and desire to want to do it," said Darryl. One of Hardy's best attributes is his speed. He says he developed his speed in an unusual way as a youngster by riding his bike all the time doing daredevil stunts. He and Chuck Smith made up one of the winningest classes in Tennessee history as the school experienced two league titles, over 30 victories, and captured two New Year's Day Bowl games. Long time coach Johnny Majors always appreciated the many talents of Hardy. "He's a good leader, a good youngster, and he knows how to handle responsibilities on and off the field." Hardy was a sociology major at Tennessee and joined former teammate Smith as one of two pairs of Falcons draft picks from the same school.

Always around the ball, he was credited with three fumble recoveries. In the big victory over Colorado, he posted 6 tackles (two stops for losses), an important sack to negate a third quarter drive, and opened up a huge hole that allowed Santana Dotson to block a last second field goal, preserving a 16-14 decision, as the Bears limited the Buffaloes to only 191 yards. He was named SWC Defensive Player of the Week for posting 6 tackles, 2 sacks, a fumble recovery, and a forced fumble in a 47-21 defeat of Missouri. He followed that effort with 5 stops and two recovered fumbles in a 38-21 drubbing of Houston. In a 26-9 beating of TCU, Robin recorded a pair of sacks and a forced and recovered fumble, as the front line allowed only 35 yards on the ground.

1990: He led the team with 11 tackles for losses in recording 43 total stops to earn a place on the All-SWC first team. He also added five QB sacks to his totals. His top outing came versus Sam Houston State when he was credited with a pair of sacks and 6 tackles.

1988: Robin saw action in 280 snaps at linebacker and recorded 36 tackles, with 7 stops for a minus 36 yards.

1987: He performed as a scout team middle linebacker during his redshirt freshman season.

Personal

A product of Dallas, Texas, he was rated as the 13th best prospect in the big 'D' by the Dallas Morning News during his final prep season. He was an All-District 6-4A choice for two years at Hillcrest High and even doubled as a member of school's track team. The business major at Baylor played on the same high school team as Falcon teammate Erric Pegram.

A SUPER EFFORT

In December of '89, an Atlanta Super Bowl task force went to New York to discuss the bid details with NFL officials and in January of '90, a group took notes at Super Bowl XXIV in New Orleans. On March 27, Commissioner Tagliabue visited the Georgia Dome for a survey and meeting, followed by an NFL-appointed architect to review the Dome plans. In late March, a draft of the bid was sent to New York to be reviewed by owners committeemen Norman Braman (Eagles), Mike Brown (Bengals) and Ralph Wilson (Bills). Formal bids were sent to the NFL in late April of '90.

On May 23, 1990, the cities of Atlanta, New Orleans, Miami and Tampa Bay gave their final presentations on their bid to be host to the 1994 Super Bowl. Governor Joe Frank Harris, Mayor Maynard Jackson and Ted Sprague, president of the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau, presented Atlanta's bid to the 28 NFL owners at the Four Seasons Resort in Dallas, Texas. After each city had given their 15 minute presentation, the NFL owners voted by secret ballot. Even though Atlanta's deal was not the most lucrative out of the other cities (Miami's was $1.3 more in total), the owners voted 22-6 on the fourth ballot in favor of Atlanta. It was the quickest decision in naming a winner since 1984. In the balloting, Tampa was eliminated on the first ballot. A tie on the second vote could not eliminate any city. On ballot three, no one got the required 21 votes, with New Orleans being dropped as the low total. On the fourth ballot, Atlanta received the three-fourths majority. Commissioner Paul Tagliabue then declared Atlanta the host city for Super Bowl XXVIII in 1994 at the Press Conference at 5:20 p.m. EDT.

The exact date for Super Bowl XXVIII has not been set by the NFL.

Game 1 (September 1)
Kansas City 14, Atlanta 3
 Arrowhead Stadium (74,246)

The Falcons opened up their 1991 regular season in run oriented "Green Trey" formation as the birds carried an unusual 29 times to only 21 pass attempts. A Brad Daluiso FG on the Falcons' first possession of the season held as the birds went in at halftime with a 3-0 lead. Six turnovers plagued the Falcons in the second half, starting with a fumble at the KC 37 on the first drive of the second half. A second fumble at their own 27 resulted in a Christian Okoye touchdown in the third quarter. Harvey Williams scored from six yards out in the fourth to seal the win. The new formation resulted in a 4.9 rush average, 141 yards, before falling behind as a result of the turnovers. Okoye pounded out 109 second half yards to help control the clock.

Game 2 (September 8)
Minnesota 20, Atlanta 19
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (50,936)

Atlanta's offense netted 439 yards in their season home opener, but missed opportunities killed the birds as Atlanta dropped to 0-2. Joe Fishback's recovery of a fumble on a punt return by the Vikings resulted in a Brad Daluiso 23-yard FG to give Atlanta an early 3-0 lead. The Vikes wasted no time as Wade Wilson hit Kris Carter for a 25-yard touchdown and a 7-3 lead. Falcon K Brad Daluiso was wide right on his 26-year FG attempt, but QB Chris Miller hit TE Gary Wilkins on a 3-yard touchdown pass for a 10-7 halftime lead. RB Hershel Walker paved the way in the third quarter as Anthony Carter took a 14-yard run around right end for a 14-10 lead. Late in the third, Miller directed the Falcons down to the Minnesota 2-yard line before a run failed on fourth down. The Vikings answered with a 7 play, 93 yard touchdown, but had their extra point attempt blocked for a 20-10 lead. The birds did record a safety as Minnesota QB Wade Wilson ran out of the endzone. Miller hit WR George Thomas on a 20-yard touchdown pass to close the gap to one, but the onside kick attempted failed. Miller threw for 300 yards and a 67% completion rate, while Thomas had his first 100-yard game.

Game 3 (September 15)
Atlanta 13, San Diego 10
 Jack Murphy Stadium (44,804)

Atlanta registered its first win in 1991 with a road victory over the 0-2 Chargers and in so doing broke a string of 19 consecutive losses on the road. RB Steve Broussard broke the 100 yard rushing barrier for the first time with 20 carries for 101 yards. On the Falcons' second possession of the first quarter, Miller completed a 14-yard touchdown pass to rookie WR Mike Pritchard, his first NFL career touchdown. The birds' opening possession of the second quarter saw K Norm Johnson put the Falcons up by 10 with a 28 yard FG. San Diego got onto the scoreboard when Charger QB John Friesz completed a 15-yard touchdown pass to WR Anthony Miller before halftime. Although Norm Johnson fell short on a 53-yard attempt early in the fourth quarter, Johnson was good from 36 yards in the third to give the birds a 13-7 lead. Charger K Carney hit a 39-yard FG midway through the fourth, but was wide left on a 47-yarder at the end of regulation to give the Falcons the win.

Game 4 (September 22)
Atlanta 21, LA Raiders 17
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (53,615)

A blitzing sack on Raider QB Jay Schroeder by CB Deion Sanders resulted in a fumble returned 18 yards by LB Jessie Tuggle for an early touchdown in the battle of the boys in black. The first half was predominantly a defensive battle until Raider QB Jay Schroeder hit TE Andrew Glover on a 4-yard touchdown pass to even the score. The offense picked up in the second half when a Miller pass was sacked off on the first possession and turned into a touchdown four plays later on a Schroeder to Horton 5-yard pass. The Falcons answered back with a quick, three-play, 66-yard touchdown drive with Miller hitting RB Steve Broussard for the last 25 yards. The Falcons struck early in the fourth when Miller connected with WR Michael Haynes for a 46-yard touchdown. The Raiders were able to get a 49-yard FG from Raider K Jeff Jaeger, but a Tim McKyer interception in the endzone late in the fourth gave the Falcons their second consecutive win in 1991.

Game 5 (September 29)
New Orleans 27, Atlanta 6
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (56,556)

The Falcons defense proved to be the only scoring threat to the undefeated Saints in this division battle. With the Saints leading 3-0 in the second quarter, Falcons LB Jessie Tuggle jarred loose a completed Hebert pass to TE John Tice which Ken Tippins picked up and ran 23 yards for a touchdown. But the fate of the Falcons showed in the missed extra point and the Falcons only led briefly when Hebert hit WR Floyd Turner on a 47-yard touchdown strike to give the Saints a 10-6 halftime lead. Atlanta's offense could not get on track as the birds registered 34 yards passing and 27 yards rushing in the second half. New Orleans scored on a 17-yard touchdown pass from Hebert to Turner once again, and K Morten Andersen added a 31-yard FG to end the third period scoring 20-6. Saints' RB Dalton Hilliard took a pitch around right end for 65 yards to conclude all scoring for the day.

The Falcons scored 14 in the first 4:45 as Miller connected on two touchdown passes (Haynes 27, Rison 7), then K Norm Johnson added a 29-yard FG to give the birds a 17-0 lead early in the second quarter. The 49ers got on the scoreboard as QB Steve Young went airborne from 6 yards out. Johnson added another field goal (43) for the Falcons before a 54-yard touchdown pass from Young to Taylor that saw the 49ers close the gap to 20-14 at half. SF came out blazing as Young once again hit a touchdown strike, this time to Jerry Rice for 57 yards. But the extra point attempt was blocked by S Brian Jordan and the game was tied at 20. Prime Time (Sanders) stepped the game up a notch as he took the following kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown and the lead. Steve Young had a 7-yard run that put the 49ers in front in the fourth quarter 34-33. But the Falcons K Norm Johnson hit on two FG's from 44 and 30 to give the Falcons a 39-34 lead. CB Tim McKyer picked off passes on the final two 49er possessions to secure a victory in Candlestick.

Game 7 (October 20)
Phoenix 16, Atlanta 10
 Sun Devil Stadium (24,124)

Sporting a 3-3 record, the Birds went into Sun Devil Stadium to face the Phoenix Cardinals in near 100-degree heat. What Atlanta was hoping for seemed to take a turn for the worse as the Falcons fell prey to a different kind of bird. K Greg Davis put Phoenix on the board in their opening drive with a 29-yard FG. The Falcons quickly answered with a 21-yard touchdown pass from Miller to rookie WR Mike Pritchard. K Norm Johnson added to the lead by halftime with a 29-yard FG. Bad luck hurt the Falcons as they lost one touchdown in the first quarter to an "inadvertent whistle" and a second quarter touchdown (85-yard fumble return) to a replay reversal. The Falcons missed by inches of blocking a fourth quarter punt in their comeback attempt.

Game 8 (October 27)
Atlanta 31, LA Rams 14
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (50,187)

Atlanta scored its first rushing touchdown of 1991 when RB Pat Chaffey crossed the goal line from five yards out in the second quarter. QB Chris Miller had his second three-touchdown passing game as the Falcons cruised past the Rams in week 9. Miller and WR Michael Haynes, who had his first 100+ yards in receiving this season, combined on four receptions for 110 yards producing a 55-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter. Miller also connected with WR Floyd Dixon in the first with a 19-yard scoring toss and a 20-yarder to WR Andre Rison in the second. The Falcons only had to solicit the foot of K Norm Johnson once for a 44-yard FG. The Black Wave held Everett to 33% completion and just 92 yards.

Game 9 (November 3)
Atlanta 17, San Francisco 14
 Candlestick Park (51,259)

This hard hitting rivalry saw both teams lose their starting quarterbacks to injuries. Both backups became heroes. Eventually, Big Ben III (44 yards) gave the Falcons their first sweep of the 49ers since 1980. A blocked FG attempt by NT Tony Epps in the first and two missed FG's in the second helped to curb the 49ers scoring. But a 97-yard touchdown pass (when Falcon DB's collided) from QB Steve Young to WR John Taylor gave SF a 7-0 halftime lead. QB Billy Joe Tolliver replaced an injured Chris Miller midway through the second quarter, and QB Steve Bono replaced injured Steve Young in the second half. Late in the third, Tolliver put together an 18-play, 75-yard touchdown drive that ended on a 3-yard reception to WR Andre Rison for the score and a 7-7 tie early in the fourth. A fumble recovery by the birds on a punt return set up a Norm Johnson FG with 2:39 in the fourth to give Atlanta a 10-7 lead. But "hero" QB Steve Bono hit John Taylor on a 30-yard scoring pass (on 3rd and 21) with 59 seconds remaining for what looked like a game winner. Tolliver hit WR Andre Rison on a key fourth and six with 21 seconds remaining to keep the birds alive. Two plays later, Tolliver let loose of a 44-yard Hail-Mary pass that was caught by Falcon WR Michael Haynes for the score, the victory, and the sweep.

Game 10 (November 10)
Washington 56, Atlanta 17
 RFK Stadium (52,641)

Rain, gusty winds, and cold, coupled with six turnovers (3 int., 3 fumbles), and a lack of key personnel on the field, were just a few of the factors that lended itself to a loss that evened the Falcons at 5-5. After blocking Washington's punt attempt on their first possession, the birds added a Norm Johnson FG from 31 yards out to take a 3-0 advantage. But that was the only lead the Falcons saw as the Redskins first of six touchdown passes put them ahead to stay. The Falcons busted out of the gate in the second half cutting the deficit to 28-17 with two Tolliver passes for scores. Among the MIA's were Pro Bowl QB Chris Miller, Pro Bowl T Mike Kenn, Pro Bowl G Bill Fralic, and Pro Bowl CB Deion Sanders. Tolliver played with a cracked bone in his thumb from Friday's practice.

Game 11 (November 17)
Atlanta 43, Tampa Bay 7
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (41,274)

The Falcons started off on the right foot, and stayed with it as the birds buried the Buccaneers with an offense that generated 43 points and a defense that held Tampa in check allowing only seven points on the day. Atlanta went on a scoring spree in the second quarter when K Norm Johnson got the ball rolling with a 31-yard FG. A Deion Sanders interception led to RB Steve Broussard's 5-yard touchdown run. The Falcons' defense sacked QB Vinnie Testaverde in the endzone for a safety and QB Chris Miller hit WR Andre Rison on a 39-yard touchdown strike to increase the Falcon lead to 19-0. But the scoring was far from over as Miller connected with Rison on a 12-yard touchdown pass and after Sanders picked off his fourth interception of the season and returned it 31 yards, Miller hit Rison for his third touchdown, which left the score 33-0 and the most points ever scored in club history in one quarter. The Falcons added another FG and a 75-yard fumble return by DL Oliver Barnett to round out the scoring in the second half.

Game 12 (November 24)
Atlanta 23, New Orleans 20
 Louisiana Superdome (68,591)

On national TV, K Norm Johnson's foot lifted the Falcons over the division rival Saints in overtime to give the birds their first victory in the New Orleans Superdome since 1986. It was a defensive battle that saw the first points of the game come on a Norm Johnson FG of 25 yards midway through the second quarter. The Saints marched to score on RB Gill Fenerty's 2-yard touchdown run to make it 7-3 at the half. Saints K Morten Anderson tacked on a 39-yard FG to extend New Orleans' lead to seven, but an 80-yard touchdown pass from QB Chris Miller to WR Michael Haynes tied the score. The Saints added an Anderson FG and a McAfee score to lead 20-10 with 12:35 to go before the Falcons' offense kicked into gear. A Johnson FG from 27 yards away with 4:56 and an 18-yard pass from Miller to Haynes with 1:46 tied the score at the end of regulation. The Falcons were unable to produce anything with their first couple of possessions in overtime, while the Saints' Anderson was short on a 55-yard FG attempt. Miller, on the Falcons' 2-yard line, hit a streaking Michael Haynes down the sideline for 57 yards. Three plays later, Johnson was good from 50 yards to give the birds the win.

Atlanta 35, Green Bay 31
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium (43,270)

Starting QB Chris Miller shook off the flu and a 103 degree temperature to complete 12-18 passes, 186 yards, and two touchdowns in the second half to assure the birds of their third straight win. Tomczak hit WR Starling Sharpe for a 4-yard TD to tie the game and RB Darrell Thompson scored on a 40-yard run that gave the Pack a 14-7 advantage. Two plays after an interception, WR Perry Kemp scored on a 13-yard pass from Tomczak to give Green Bay a 21-7 halftime lead. The Falcons took the second half kickoff 85 yards in 14 plays when RB Steve Broussard scored from three yards out to cut into Green Bay's lead. Mike Tomczak opened the final quarter with a 20-yard touchdown pass to Sterling Sharpe. Miller retaliated with his own 20-yarder to WR Andre Rison to keep the Falcons within seven points. Special teams player Elbert Shelley shook the ball loose on the following kickoff that Falcon teammate Joe Fishback picked up and ran in for the score and a tie at 28 apiece. Green Bay scored on a 27-yard FG with 3:21 left. Two false start penalties nullified two Falcon FG's and the Falcons were unsuccessful on fourth and 16. With 1:46 to play, the Falcons tackled the punter at the 41. Miller hit WR Andre Rison for 16 yards and his second touchdown, with 41 seconds remaining, sealing the come-from-behind victory for Atlanta.

Game 16 (December 22)
Dallas 31, Atlanta 27
 Texas Stadium (60,962)

QB Chris Miller's apparent touchdown pass to CB/Receiver Deion Sanders with 11 seconds remaining was nullified as was the Falcons second division title in club history. Dallas scored quickly as QB Steve Beuerlein hit WR Michael Irvin for a 58-yard touchdown pass. Miller responded with a 67-yard touchdown pass to WR Michael Haynes. Cowboy RB Emmitt Smith scored his first of two touchdowns on the day with a 4-yard run, but Falcon LB Ken Tippins picked off a Beuerlein pass that set up the Miller to Rison touchdown pass and a 14-14 tie. Alexander Wright returned the following kickoff 102 yards for the score and a Cowboy lead. Dallas K Kevin Willis extended the lead with a 20-yard FG at the start of the second quarter. A Norm Johnson 25-yard FG in the second and a 29-yard FG at the start of the third brought the birds within four points. Miller put Atlanta in the lead on a 43-yard touchdown pass to Haynes, his second on the day. Dallas answered after an 18-yard punt to the 31 to start the fourth with Smith's second touchdown on the day, a 6-yard score. The Falcons recovered a Cowboy fumble with 1:54 remaining and marched down the field effortlessly to the 16 with 14 ticks left. On second and 10, Sanders caught the ball in the endzone, but an official ruled Sanders had gone out of bounds at the three and come back in.

NFC Playoffs
Atlanta 27, New Orleans 20
 December 28, 1991
 Louisiana Superdome, 68,794

The Falcons trailed early as New Orleans jumped out to a 10-0 lead. That first quarter saw the Saints hold the ball 11:45 to 3:15 for Atlanta. The Falcons came back as QB Chris Miller hit WR Andre Rison on a 24-yard touchdown pass to end an 80-yard drive with 5:14 in the half. K Norm Johnson tied it with a 44-yard FG with :41 left in the half, following a Sanders 22-yard punt return. Andersen's 35-yarder at the buzzer gave the Saints a 13-10 halftime lead. The Miller to Michael Haynes connection heated up in the second half as the two were good on a 20-yard touchdown pass in the third. A Dalton Hilliard one-yard run ended a 19-play, 80-yard drive to put the Saints back on top 20-17. Johnson tied it with a 36-yard FG with 7:36 left. Then, with 2:41 left, a short 7-yard hitch pass pattern to Haynes resulted in a foot race against the Saints secondary and a 61-yard touchdown, giving the Falcons a 27-20 lead. CB Tim McKyer picked off a pass at the Falcons 29, lateraled to Sanders for 31 yards, and then a forward lateral nullified a Joe Fishback touchdown with just :44 left for the first road playoff win in Falcon history.

NFC Playoffs
Washington 24, Atlanta 7
 January 3, 1992
 RFK Stadium, 55,181

All-day rain, and 30 mile per hour winds, neutralized the Falcons Red Gun passing game and helped result in six turnovers. A scoreless first quarter saw the Falcons move into Redskin territory where they were intercepted at the 27. The Skins lone threat was a missed 47-yard FG. Washington scored and, when the Falcons fumbled at their own 39, the Redskins capitalized again for a 14-0 advantage. Atlanta drove 80 yards and scored with 52 seconds in the half to narrow it to 14-7. A 26-yard punt return to the Falcons 18 set up a Redskins FG and a 17-7 lead with 6:47 in the third. A Falcons' drive moved to the Washington 28, but a sack lost 10, then a third down pass was 1-yard shy, and a FG went wide right to end Atlanta's hopes for a rally. This ended up being the eventual Super Bowl Champion Redskins toughest playoff game.

LIONS THAT HAVE ROARED

Back in 1975, the Detroit Lions under Coach Rick Forzano had plenty of future NFL talent among the assistant coaches and players. No less than 14 of those men are still involved, including four who had gone on to become NFL Head Coaches. That group of assistant coaches included Head Coach Jerry Glanville (Oilers, now Falcons), Head Coach Joe Bugel (Cardinals), former Head Coach Raymond Berry (Patriots, now QB coach of Lions), and a back-up QB Sam Wyche (Cincinnati, now Tampa Bay). Also on the coaching staff were Fritz Shurmur (former Rams Def. Coordinator, now Cardinals), Jimmy Carr (now Falcons Def. Backs coach after seven other NFL teams before), and Floyd Reese (now Ast. GM of Oilers). Among the players on that 7-7 Lions team (besides Wyche above) that are coaching are Greg Landry (Bears Offensive Coordinator), Dick Jauron (Packers Defensive backs Coach), Charlie Sanders (Lions Receiver Coach), Charlie West (Patriots Defensive Backs), Mike Hennigan (Tennessee Tech Defensive Coordinator), Ed O'Neil (Rutgers Tight Ends/Special Teams), and Maurice Tyler (Falcons Fellowship, GA. High School). In addition, Jim Laslavic became a member of the media as a part of the Chargers radio team.

Back-to-Back TD's

When Sylvester Stamps of the Falcons and Joe Cribbs of the 49ers returned kickoffs for touchdowns back-to-back in 1987, it marked only the third time in NFL history that feat was accomplished. The first was in 1951 (Buddy Young - N.Y. Yankees and Emlen Tunnell - N.Y. Giants), the last was in 1973 (Don Shy - St. Louis and Herb Mulkey - Washington). Falcon assistants in '87, Jim Hanifan and Rod Dowhower, were both St. Louis assistants at that time, meaning they've seen two of the three historical achievements. Stamps return was 97 yards, third longest in Falcon history. Cribbs followed with a 92-yard return.

Falcons Help Kids Learn Fun-damentals

For the second straight year, Falcon players took time out to give something back to their community by teaching football fundamentals to inner city youth in Atlanta and discussing the importance of education and personal discipline through the help of United Way agencies. Players participating in the all day "NFL Pro Set Mini-camp" on the Morehouse College campus in downtown Atlanta in '92 included: Broussard, Butler, Collins, Donaldson, Dukes, Haynes, Hinton, Hoover, Jones, LeBel, Reid, Ruether, Shelley, Thomas and Tuggle. Ex-Falcon Billy "White Shoes" Johnson served as the day's host and Morehouse coach Craig Cason and his staff were also present to aide the worthy cause. More than 350 youngsters got to learn from the pros thanks to the Falcons!

NFC Playoffs
Atlanta 14, Philadelphia 13
 Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, 49,447

After a less than scintillating first half, Steve Bartkowski turned it on for the final 30 minutes. He completed 13 of 20 for 193 yards and two touchdowns, both scoring aeriels coming with less than five minutes remaining. His primary target was Wallace Francis, who scored the winning touchdown with 1:39 remaining on a 37-yard strike. He set up Bartkowski's first TD to Jim Mitchell at the 4:56 mark with a 49-yard reception down to the Eagles' 26-yard line. Francis finished the day with six catches for 135 yards. The first half was mostly a defensive struggle with teams exchanging punts eight times. The Falcons fumbled the ball away twice. One resulted in the Eagles' lone score, while the other came just 15 yards from paydirt. After leading 6-0 at halftime, Philadelphia took advantage of a shanked 17-yard punt by John James, driving 60 yards on eight plays early in the third period to take a 13-0 lead.

NFC Playoffs
Dallas 27, Atlanta 20
 December 30, 1978
 Texas Stadium, 60,338

A week earlier, it was a supreme second half effort which moved Atlanta one notch further in the playoffs. This week, the Falcons were shut out after intermission at which time they held a 20-13 lead. Bubba Bean had gained 60 yards in the first half, including a 14-yard scoring run, while Steve Bartkowski threw a touchdown to Wallace Francis. Tim Mazzetti rounded out the Falcons' efforts with a pair of field goals. Dallas' fortunes appeared to take a turn for the worse late in the first half when Roger Staubach left the game with an injury. Danny White came on, however, to bring Dallas from behind. He threw a tying TD pass in the third period to tight end Jackie Smith. Early in the fourth period, John James shanked a punt from the 20-yard line, allowing the Cowboys to drive in from 30 yards out in six plays.

NFC Playoffs
Dallas 30, Atlanta 27

January 4, 1981
Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, 60,022

For the first three periods, it appeared as if Atlanta would move onward in the playoffs. It led Dallas 24-10 entering the final stanza and even held a 27-17 lead with five minutes left to play. But Danny White teamed up three times with Drew Pearson on a five-play, 62-yard scoring drive, the last play being a 14-yard TD strike. The Cowboys stopped Atlanta on four straight plays after the ensuing kickoff, and White drove his team 70 yards in six plays, securing the win with a 23-yard strike to Pearson with just 52 seconds to play.

January 9, 1983

The Falcons' special teams were outstanding. On first possession Paul Davis blocked a punt which Doug Rogers recovered in the end zone for a TD. Minnesota added two field goals and a touchdown to lead 13-7 at half, before the special unit struck again, this time kicker Mick Luckhurst scoring on a 17-yard run with a pitch from holder Mike Moroski to take a 14-13 lead. A few moments later safety Bob Glazebrook intercepted a pass and returned it 35 yards for a score, giving the Falcons a 21-13 lead. The roof caved in, however, at that point with the Vikings rallying for 17 points while all Atlanta could muster the rest of the way would be three.

Falcons' Historical Calendar

- The Start
June 30, 1965
- The NFL awards a franchise to 41-year-old Rankin M. Smith, Executive Vice President of Life Insurance Company of Georgia, for $8.5 million. At the time there were 14 NFL franchises in existence, 8 AFL clubs. Officially, Atlanta became the 23rd professional football club in existence, the 15th in the NFL prior to the merger of the Leagues.
- Officially Titled
Aug. 20, 1965
- "Five Smiths, Inc.," is registered as the corporate name for the Atlanta franchise. It is so named for Rankin Smith's five children: Rankin, Jr., Carrol Christine, Dorothy Ann, Taylor, and Nancy Karen.
- Stockholders
Aug. 24, 1965
- The listed stockholders of the franchise included: Lindsey Hopkins, Jr., Howard Dobbs, Jr., Cody Laird, Jr., I. M. Sheffield III, Dorothy Laird Williams, W. Barrett Howell, and M. E. Kilpatrick.
- The Nickname
Aug. 29, 1965
- "Falcons" was suggested by many with a schoolteacher from Griffin, Georgia, being singled out because of her reasons. Miss Julia Elliott said: "the Falcon is proud and dignified, with great courage and fight. It never drops its prey. It is deadly and has a great sporting tradition." A logo was designed by Wayland Moore Studios.
- You Need Players
Sept. 9, 1965
- Halfback Bob Paremore and split end Gary Barnes, who had been in the NFL with the Cardinals and Bears, were the first two players to sign with the Falcons.
- The First Draft
Nov. 27, 1965
- With the first pick in the entire draft, the Falcons chose Outland Trophy winning Linebacker Tommy Nobis from the University of Texas. After being drafted also by Houston of the AFL, he chose the Falcons on Dec. 14 and signed a contract. As the Falcons got two choices in each of the first five rounds, QB Randy Johnson of Texas A&I was the other first round pick by Atlanta. All told the Falcons gained 25 players in the 20 round draft, the last one being defensive back Bob Riggles from Penn State. Nobis is the club's Director of Marketing; while Riggles served 21 years as a team scout.
- A 54-day Ticket Blitz
Nov. 1-Dec. 24, 1965
- In seven weeks, the Falcons sold 45,000 season tickets surpassing the previous NFL best of 26,000 by Minnesota. Those tickets sold for $6, with club level seats costing $10 a game.
- The Head Coach
Jan. 26, 1966
- Norb Hecker, 39, left the Green Bay staff of Vince Lombardi to accept the job as the Falcons first head coach. He was with Lombardi seven years as they won three world titles and four conference titles. Gene Cronin, the Director of Player Personnel, deserves the distinction of being the first member of the Falcon organization named by Mr. Smith.
- Supplemental Draft
Feb. 16, 1966
- Allotted three picks from each of the 14 other NFL teams, the Falcons added 42 more players. Each team, who had a 40-man roster, placed 11 available for the Falcons to select from. Road Warriors Sept. 18, 1983	On the road at Detroit, Falcons romp 30-14 for Henning's second straight road win. Andrews carried a club record 32 times (150 yards), with Bartkowski hitting his 10th 300 game (366) and adding to his streak of 107 passes without an interception.
Broken Streaks Oct. 9-Oct. 16 1983	Alfred Jenkins 4th longest receiving streak in NFL history stopped at 103 games vs. Rams and Steve Bartkowski's streak of 197 consecutive passes without an interception ends vs. New Orleans.
"Big Ben" Chimes Again Nov. 20, 1983	Trailing 24-21, Bartkowski lofts desperation pass 42 yards to five-yard line where ball is deflected to stumbling Billy Johnson, who fights into end zone for 28-24 upset win.
A Two-Time Hero Nov. 27, 1983	Kenny Johnson became only the 12th player in NFL history to score two TD's in the same game with interceptions. His first one put the Falcons ahead of Green Bay, 41-34, but the Pack came back to force overtime. With another chance to be the hero, Johnson returned an interception 31 yards to win the game.
Stats to Remember Dec. 18, 1983	William Andrews sets new club record with 331 rushes for 1,567 yards. Steve Bartkowski has third 3,000-yard season and sets mark with 63.4% completion rate and just 1.1% interception rate (5 in 432), while C Jeff Van Note starts his 200th game as a Falcon.

Point Parade Sept. 9, 1984	K Mick Luckhurst becomes the club's all-time leading scorer with his 271st career point.

- Injured Quarterbacks
Nov. 23, 1986
- At Candlestick Park, the 49ers Joe Montana made his third start after back surgery that some said would side line him for the season or even his career. Meanwhile, the Falcons had a new starter in Turk Schonert as Dave Archer was lost for the year in the previous week's 13-10 loss to the Super Bowl champion Bears. Both completed 21 passes with only six yards difference, but the 49ers prevailed 20-0.
- A Note of Thanks
Dec. 14, 1986
- It was Jeff Van Note day at Atlanta Fulton County Stadium as the 18-year veteran center was honored after 246 games. With all his family present, he was presented gifts including a vintage 1957 Chevy (symbolic of his #57 and being a classic). Mick Luckhurst extended his club record to 117 consecutive PAT's.
- Falcons Get Their Man
April 28, 1987
- When it came time for the Falcons to make their No. 1 selection (13th overall) on draft day '87, they took no time at all in choosing a player they coveted from the beginning; namely, Oregon QB Chris Miller. The last time the birds used their top pick on a QB was in 1975 when Steve Bartkowski fit the bill.
- Super Bowl Champs Go Down, Johnson's Records Adding Up
Sept. 20, 1987
- After being drubbed 48-10 at Tampa Bay in the season opener the Falcons rebound to defeat the eventual World Champion Washington Redskins 21-20 in front of over 50,000 fans at Fulton-County. QB Scott Campbell made his first start in two years (and first in a Falcon uniform) replacing Dave Archer and completed 17-34 passes for 271 yards and two TD's to supply the offensive spark. Billy "White Shoes" Johnson added another milestone to his brilliant career by becoming the NFL's all-time leading punt returner, registering his 259th lifetime return.
- Strike Two!!
Sept. 22, 1987
- The NFL Players Association walks off the job for the second time in five years but only one game is cancelled. The League's owners decide to continue with replacement players. "Regulars" report back to work 24 days later but still not in time for the League's mandatory limit and miss another game.
- Play (Hard) Ball!!
Oct. 4-18, 1987
- The NFL goes along with its idea to compete with replacement players while the union walks the picket line. The Falcons are forced to play against strikebreaking "veterans" at home in all three games such as Ernest Jackson, Mike Webster, Nolan Cromwell and 1988 Pro Bowlers Joe Montana, Roger Craig and Charles White (League's leading rusher). Atlanta drops close contests against Pittsburgh and San Francisco but dumps the L.A. Rams 24-20 despite trailing 17-0 at halftime.
- Record Breaking Session By Riggs Spells Domsday For Dallas
Dec. 6, 1987
- Gerald Riggs becomes the club's all-time leading rusher surpassing William Andrews with a five-yard run in the third quarter at Dallas giving the six-year pro from Arizona State a career total of 5,987 yards. Riggs finishes up the day with 119 yards to help the Falcons break a seven-game losing streak and knock the Cowboys out of the playoffs for the second straight year with a 21-10 victory in Texas Stadium.
- Crowning Achievements
Dec. 27, 1987
- Rick Donnelly and Sylvester Stamps claim a pair of NFL individual titles because of what they did and didn't do against the Lions in the season finale. Donnelly goes toe-to-toe with Detroit's Jim Arnold and wins the League's punting title with a 44.03 average. The Lions kick away from dangerous return man Stamps and he maintains his NFL lead without actually fielding a KOR all day to end the year with a League-best 27.5 average.

"Five Seasons Rolled into One"
1987 Season

That's how Falcons Head Coach Marion Campbell summed up the 1987 campaign. It's not too far fetched when you consider: a total of 114 players donned a Falcon jersey (including replacement players) and a combined 26 players missed 145 games due to injuries...some 46 players were credited with at least one tackle on defense, while 27 players caught a pass and 22 ran from scrimmage...there were 17 players who returned a kick with 16 others who scored...and would you believe five different quarterbacks started a game, or how about five different starters at free safety, or five who started at H-Back, or five who punted...

Falcons Hammer
Super Bowl
Champs at Home
Sept. 18, 1988

Atlanta handed Super Bowl XXIII Champion 49ers their second worst defeat of the entire year 34-17 behind a potent offense and opportunistic defense. Touchdown runs by rookie James Primus (29 yds.) and Gerald Riggs (3 yds.) were complemented by Chris Miller's 1-yard bootleg for a score to end the first half as the upstart Falcons built a 21-3 lead at intermission and never looked back. The birds defense picked off three Joe Montana passes, and four total, and Robert Moore's 47 yard interception return for a score in the beginning of the 4th quarter put the exclamation point on a total team win. Riggs finished with 115 yards rushing and the Falcons could boast they have beaten the last two World Champions in back-to-back seasons.

Bombs Away!
Oct. 30, 1988

Young leader QB Chris Miller engineered a come-from-behind victory over eventual NFC East winning Eagles on the road behind some strong arm tactics. The former No. 1 pick threw scoring tosses of 19 and 17 yards to keep the score close. Then, trailing 24-20 with 9:20 left on the clock, Miller split two Eagle defenders and hit a striding Michael Haynes with a perfect 49-yard TD strike for the game winner (which snapped the Falcons five-game losing streak). It was the first time Miller passed for three TD's in a game in his short NFL career and marked a victorious return to Philadelphia for ex-Eagle coach Marion Campbell.

Stingy "D"
Nov. 6 - Dec. 18,
1988

The improving Falcon defense was among the best in the NFL during the second half of the '88 season. Atlanta's "baby boomers" (average age of 25) allowed only six touchdowns over the final seven games (three via pass) to rise to 11th place (tie) in the League in points allowed (19.7 per contest). The stingy unit was second in the League in points allowed over the last half of the season surrendering an average of 12 points per outing. Marion Campbell's crew was 7th in total takeaways with 38 in 1988 including 24 interceptions, which trailed only Vikings, Bears and Eagles.

Making a Case for Himself
Nov. 6-27, 1988

CB Scott Case laid claim to a spot in the Pro Bowl by being named NFC Defensive Player of the Month for November. Case intercepted five passes (two each vs. Packers and Raiders), registered a forced fumble and QB sack and made 20 tackles with nine passes defensed to help the Falcons to a 3-1 record during the month.

Bruce Sacks Award
Nov. 23, 1988

Rookie OLB Aundray Bruce was honored as the NFC's Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts in the Falcons 12-6 victory over the Raiders. Bruce recorded two sacks, an interception, one forced fumble and one recovered fumble, two QB hurries and four tackles. The NFL's No. 1 draft pick sacked Raider QB Steve Beuerlein, which caused him to fumble, and Bruce recovered at LA's 12-yard line with 6:12 remaining in the game. The Falcons went on to score the winning touchdown and nail down their third victory in four games. Bruce's interception came while he was covering former Auburn teammate Bo Jackson 30-yards downfield.

Settling for a Place in History Dec. 18, 1988	RB John Settle put his name in the League's record book by becoming the first free agent in NFL history since the 1970 merger to gain 1000 yards in a season as he rushed for 66 yards against the Saints to finish with 1024. Paul Lowe (Chargers) and Clem Daniels (Raiders) of the AFL were the only other undrafted players to accomplish the feat (in 1963 and 1965). The former Appalachian State star was fourth in the NFL in total yards (1594) and the club leader in receptions with 68 as he garnered his first trip to the Pro Bowl.
A Case of a Perfect 10 Dec. 18, 1988	CB Scott Case picked off his 10th pass of the year against the Saints to finish atop the NFL charts. Coming Up 3's Nov. 17, 1991	The Falcons go on a scoring spree in the second quarter and set a new club record for most points in one quarter with 33. games for seven seasons for Mutual Radio prior to coming to Atlanta.

Bill's experience behind the mike has also included college football and college basketball, while covering such events as the Super Bowl, U.S. Open tennis, golf tournaments and various championship boxing bouts.

Before being signed by Mutual Radio, the graduate of Marietta (OH) College covered the Olympics and the World Series, among other duties, as a reporter for the UPI radio network. His other radio stints have been at WEBR in Buffalo, WFAH & WMOA in Ohio.

Rosinski received his college degree in Radio and Television. He and his wife, Mary Jane, have two sons, Greg and Robert.

Joining Rosinski for his fifth year of providing color commentary on the Falcons is Jeff Van Note. 'Note' is the Falcons career leader in games played with 246. The 18 year NFL veteran was a six-time Pro Bowl selection at center for the birds.

Jeff began his radio career with his former team in 1988. His role at AM 750 WSB included logging time as host of the stations "Falcons This Week" show on Sunday nights. Van Note can also be heard handling the sports reports on some mornings on WSB.

An Atlanta native for over 20 years, Jeff and his wife, Dee, have three sons Beau, Ben and Blaine, and reside in Roswell, Ga.

Jim Ross will coordinate the Falcons pregame and halftime shows for the first time in '92. Ross, a 40 year-old native of Westville, OK, has been the voice of World Championship Wrestling since 1981. Jim's background in football includes an all-state (second team) playing career at the prep level and an 18 year stint as a football official.

Ex-Falcon Jeff Van Note will call the color commentary for his 5th season.
