THE PAUL D. BOWLEN MEMORIAL BRONCOS CENTRE

On March 5, 1990 the Denver Broncos moved into the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, the new, state-of-the-art headquarters for the National Football League team. The complex is named for the Bronco owner's late father and is the culmination of Pat Bowlen's desire to maximize a positive working environment for his team, which was the only American Football Conference club to appear in the three Super Bowls during the 1980s.

The training facility is situated on 13.5 acres in the rapidly expanding Dove Valley Business Park in south Arapahoe County. It includes an administrative building, two full-size practice fields and a smaller workout field.

The Bowlen Broncos Centre is a two-story building totaling 59,000 square feet, well over twice the size of the team's previous facility. The ground floor houses the main entry, visitors area and trophy display area, and media room, in addition to the play-related facilities, which encompass the locker room, meeting rooms, training area, weight room, equipment room, and video department.

It is on the second level, which is accessible through two stairways adjacent to the lobby area, that most of the administrative offices are located. These include the offices for Pat Bowlen, Mike Shanahan, and John Beake, as well as those of all assistant coaches and football operations personnel. The second floor is divided into one wing for administrative offices and another for coaches and meeting rooms. The Broncos' extensive computer operation also is located on the second floor.

There is ample practice space now available for use by the Broncos, as both practice fields are 100 yards and one of them has a unique design system that includes underground wiring to prevent the turf from freezing and thus allows the Broncos to practice year round on unfrozen natural grass. The complex also includes a smaller, 50-yard natural grass workout field and the Broncos' indoor "bubble," which houses a 70-yard artificial turf field.

The expansive weight room and training room are among the largest in the entire league, and the Bowlen Centre also includes a separate building that houses two racquetball courts for training and leisure use by players and staff members.

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

PAT BOWLEN President and Chief Executive Officer

Both in Denver and within the structure of the National Football League, Denver Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen has earned a reputation as a bold, dynamic leader who is single-minded in his pursuit of excellence.

Now into his second full decade as the Broncos' owner, Pat Bowlen comes into 1995 with his franchise building on an almost unmatched level of success attained during his first 11 years. His addition of Mike Shanahan as Head Coach and the Broncos' typically strong approach to free agency has Denver fans excited about the new era of pro football in the Mile High City.

Whether judged by the aggressive pursuit of talent, by accomplishment on the field, or by attendance and fan interest, the Broncos' record of the last 11 years is matched by few teams in the NFL.

Nineteen ninety-five will be the 26th straight year of home sellouts at Mile High Stadium, longest in the American Football Conference, and that streak is just one measure of the Pat Bowlen success story in Denver.

During his tenure as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos (1984-95) Bowlen's team has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division in posting more winning seasons (seven), division titles (five), playoff appearances (six), conference Championship Game appearances (four), and Super Bowl appearances (three) than any other club in the division.

The 1995 campaign begins a new era both for the Broncos and the NFL, and Pat Bowlen played an integral role in both, selecting a dynamic new head coach in Mike Shanahan while also having had a pivotal role in the creation of the new collective bargaining agreement and the new television contract, changing the face of professional football in the process.

The Broncos' dynamic chief executive followed up the hiring of Shanahan by once again becoming a major player in the league's free agency. Under Bowlen's leadership Denver has been very aggressive in the marketplace, this year adding defensive linemen Michael Dean Perry and James Jones, linebacker Britt Hager, cornerback Lionel Washington, and guard Mark Schlereth to a free agent acquisition list that previously included running back Rod Bernstine, guard Brian Habib, wide receiver Anthony Miller and cornerback Ray Crockett.

In addition, future Hall of Fame quarterback John Elway is signed to a contract that places the superstar signal-caller at the pinnacle of the NFL's salary structure.

Bowlen has made all these moves with one goal unchanged—to aggressively position the Broncos for yet another run at a Super Bowl championship for the Mile High City.

In addition to his role with the Broncos, Bowlen was a key figure in spearheading both the labor and TV contracts in his role as a member of both the NFL Management Council Executive Committee and Broadcasting Committee, and he is the Chairman of the NFL Broadcasting Committee. He is also currently a member of the NFL Enterprises/NFL Films Executive Committees, the NFL International Committee and the Board of World League, and has previously served on the Finance Committee.

He presides over a franchise that by any standard has been one of the NFL's most successful in this time frame (1984-95). Bowlen has watched the Broncos play 13 postseason games in 11 years of ownership, with all regular and postseason games sold out at Mile High Stadium.

Bowlen was introduced as the Broncos' majority owner on March 23, 1984, and he and his family acquired total ownership in July 1985.

A Wisconsin native, he attended the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degree in both business (1965) and law (1968).

While the Broncos had a disappointing 8-8 record in 1992, in 1991 they had the greatest turnaround in team history, finishing with a 12-4 record that included the American Football Conference Western Division title and the fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of Bowlen's vibrant ownership.

Having made several more bold personnel moves this offseason, Bowlen's focus for the coming year is to once again put his team in line to contend for the AFC Championship that it won in 1986, 1987, and 1989. Denver was the only AFC franchise to make three Super Bowl appearances in the 1980s and without question Pat Bowlen provides the organizational thrust that has served as the catalyst to the Broncos' outstanding record.

Bowlen's Broncos represented the AFC in Super Bowls XXI (Pasadena), XXII (San Diego), and XXIV (New Orleans). In addition, Denver has had just two losing campaigns during the past 11 years.

No one sets higher standards for the Broncos than Pat Bowlen himself, whose unchanging goal is to have his franchise annually regarded among the finest in pro football, with victory being the measuring stick for that success. Thus, the goal of Denver's dynamic and energetic chief executive remains firmly set on capturing the world championship that so far has eluded the Mile High City.

The Broncos once again will pursue a championship season from their new headquarters, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 59,000-square-foot state-of-the-art office and training complex in Arapahoe County's Dove Valley location. The move into this new facility, which came on March 5, 1990, accomplished one of Bowlen's significant goals, that being to upgrade the Broncos' working facility and in so doing solidify the foundation for continued success.

Bowlen's 11 years of ownership have resulted in the best home record (66-22) in the AFC. Bowlen finished second in The Sporting News 1987 Executive of the Year balloting.

He presides over a franchise that has won four division crowns and, has had regular season win totals of 13, 11, 11, 10, 11, and 12. In fact, six of the seven finest campaigns in team history have come during the Bowlen regime.

Pat Bowlen was introduced as the majority owner of the Denver Broncos on March 23, 1984, and that announcement triggered a new era in franchise history, one which has coupled success on the playing field with enthusiasm for an even brighter future.

He immediately put his own mark on the Broncos, establishing a solid administration and creating a positive atmosphere that was a major factor in the team's success both on and off the field.

The team responded with a 13-3 record and the American Football Conference Western Division championship in 1984, following that up with an 11-5 record that just barely kept the Broncos out of the playoffs in 1985.

Meanwhile, Bowlen has seen the Broncos' consecutive home game sellout streak stretch to 196 straight regular and postseason non-strike games through the end of the 1994 campaign, as Denver led the entire National Football League in actual in-stadium attendance over that 11-year period. The Broncos have drawn over 6.2 million fans to Mile High Stadium from 1984-94, tops in the NFL.

Having established a solid foundation, Bowlen took a dramatic step toward the future during 1986 with the construction of 60 luxury Penthouse Suites atop the west side of Mile High Stadium.

Bowlen and the Bowlen family acquired 100% ownership of the Broncos in July of 1985. He is active in day to day operations of the football club.

Born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., he attended high school there and went on to the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degrees in both business (1965) and law (1968).

Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Relay Classic to benefit St. Joseph's Hospital (1985-95), the Colorado Special Olympics (1986-95), and the 1989 Centennial Scholarship rally at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley. Along with being honorary chairman of the Special Olympics, he was 1993's Outstanding Celebrity. He was also Co-Chairman of the Rose Medical Center Critical Care Campaign from 1986-89.

In addition, Bowlen was elected to the University of Denver Board of Trustees in 1987, and is active on several committees. He chairs the Athletic Affairs Committee and is Major Gifts Chairman for the Capital Campaign, while also serving on the Buildings and Grounds Committee. His previous DU committee memberships include the Institutional Advancement Committee and Institutional Advancement/University Relations subcommittee. He was also named to the Colorado Academy Board of Trustees in 1991.

He is Chairman of the Board of the Denver Broncos Youth Foundation and President of the Denver Broncos Charities Fund.

He also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Hawaii Maritime Center and was the 1992 honoree at the American Ireland Fund dinner.

Bowlen has real estate and natural resource holdings in Alberta, as well as real estate holdings in Colorado, Arizona, and California.

Bowlen also is Chairman of the Board and Director of Hambleton Estates Limited, and Northern Development Company Limited of Edmonton.

An outstanding athlete in his own right, he has competed in the Ironman Triathlon — an event in which one must swim 2.4 miles, ride 112 miles on a bicycle, and run 26.2 miles, all consecutively — as well as in other triathlon races and several marathons.

Bowlen is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Chief Executive's Organization, the Canadian and Edmonton Bar Associations, and the Law Society of Alberta. Bowlen was also a past member of the Young President's Organization.

GENERAL MANAGER

JOHN BEAKE
General Manager

The 1995 National Football League season marks the beginning of John Beake's second decade as Denver's General Manager and his 27th season in professional football as either coach or administrator. The Broncos come into this campaign with an exciting new outlook and a significantly restructured organization, and John Beake has been one of the key individuals in implementing these changes.

A member of four Super Bowl teams during his pro football career, Beake plays a crucial role in Denver being one of the league's most active teams in pro football's free agency marketplace, this year signing an NFL-high 14 unrestricted free agents. Working closely with team President Pat Bowlen and Head Coach Mike Shanahan in assembling an organization that represents the Broncos and the Mile High City in the most successful and positive manner, John embodies the philosophy that one should combine performance with community involvement.

As General Manager, he is responsible for all day-to-day operations of club administration, with special concentration in the area of player contract negotiations, an area in which he has had considerable experience. He also personally directs the Broncos' contractual relationships with the City of Denver, local radio, and television entities.

John has perhaps the broadest range of experience of any NFL general manager, the only one in the league who has coached championship teams on the pro, college, and high school levels, as well as having served in a wide variety of administrative roles.

Now well into his third decade in pro football, John enters the 1995 campaign in his 17th year with the Denver Broncos and his 11th season as the club's General Manager. In his previous 10 years at the Broncos' helm John has been a vital cog in a Denver club that has dominated the American Football Conference Western Division, posting more winning seasons (six) and winning more division titles (four) than any other AFC West team.

John Beake's prominence in the Broncos' hierarchy is paralleled by continuing respect within the NFL. Active in the NFL's international development, his involvement is one of the keys to the Broncos being among just two teams (along with San Francisco) to have been selected for American Bowl games in London, Tokyo, Berlin and Barcelona. Of course, this year the Broncos play San Francisco in American Bowl '95 in Tokyo, a matchup that features the only teams to have played in five or more American Bowl games overseas (this is San Francisco's sixth and Denver's fifth). In addition, he played an integral role in Denver being the only American Football Conference club to win three conference crowns and thus make three Super bowl appearances (XXI, XXII, and XXIV) in the 1980s.

In 1991 John was named to the Board of Directors of the World League of American Football. Now in his fifth year working with the board, he spends a considerable portion of time lending administrative guidance to the WL offices in New York. John was instrumental in determining the methodology by which 101 NFL players were provided to the WL for its 1992 campaign. Along with his continuing commitment to the World League, John serves as chairman of the NFL International Working Group, which is primarily comprised of other NFL general managers and player personnel directors. He is also a member of the NFL College and Pro Relations Committee.

One of his most visible recent Bronco accomplishments has been to provide a key leadership role in the construction of and move into the team's new training facility, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 59,000-square foot state-of-the-art complex in Arapahoe County. This project, several years in the planning stages, was the fulfillment of one of John's key goals as the Broncos general manager.

John continuously works with the City of Denver on issues concerning the lease, capital improvements and fan comfort. Some of the completed improvements at Mile High Stadium include the renovation of the stadium's press box and the new theatre-styled seats throughout the stadium. These projects represent the general manager's desire to continually improve the game-day experience at Mile High Stadium.

In addition to contract involvement, one of John's prime areas of interest is working closely with city and state representatives on a variety of community concerns. For the past seven years, John has served as the chairman of the Red Ribbon Campaign, a strong educational anti-drug, chemical and substance abuse association that works in conjunction with the Colorado Federation of Parents.

An avid skier, he is on the Board of Directors of the National Sports Center for the Disabled at Winter Park, Colo., Ski Resort. The NSCD is heavily supported by the Denver Broncos Charity Fund. John is an annual participant in the Winter Park Pro-Am race to benefit the disabled skiers program.

As part of the continuing plan to broaden the team's community role and strengthen a family spirit within the club, John is actively involved with the Performing Arts Center.

John served as Assistant General Manager in 1984 and was the Broncos' Director of Football Operations the previous year, so his position at the helm of the club's administration is the culmination of a steady rise within the organization.

He joined the Broncos in 1979 as the Director of Pro Personnel and became Director of Player Personnel in 1981, having concentrated on the coaching aspects of the game prior to coming to Denver.

As assistant coach for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1968 through 1974, John was the offensive backfield coach for the Chiefs when they defeated the Minnesota Vikings to win Super Bowl IV in New Orleans. He also coached the running backs at New Orleans in 1976. On the college level, he coached at Penn State in 1961-62 and was the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University in 1975.

Upon receiving his master's degree from Penn State in 1962, John coached for six years at the high school level, where his teams lost just four games. He has a bachelor's degree from Trenton State College in New Jersey, in addition to his graduate degree from Penn State.

John and his wife, Marcia, have three children, Jerilyn, Chip, and Chris.

HEAD COACH

MIKE SHANAHAN Head Coach

A dynamic, disciplined leader who is recognized as one of the brightest offensive strategists in football, Mike Shanahan returns to the Mile High City with the goal of taking the Denver Broncos to the pinnacle of the National Football League.

Denver Broncos President and Chief Executive Officer Pat Bowlen named Mike Shanahan as Head Coach of his NFL franchise on January 31, 1995, ushering in a new era for a team that has made three Super Bowl appearances under Bowlen's ownership. The Broncos' new head coach has a seven-year contract and complete control of all aspects of football operations.

Shanahan, 42, comes to Denver from the World Champion San Francisco 49ers, where he served as offensive coordinator for the past three seasons (1992-94). The 49ers' offense reached astonishing levels under Shanahan's leadership. San Francisco's three-year offensive averages under Shanahan's direction were the most productive in the history of pro football. His three-year averages included being number one in total points (an average of 470 per year), total touchdowns (61), rushing TDs (24), passing TDs (32), third-down efficiency (49%), total offense (an average of 6,225 yards annually) and average yards per play (6.2 yards per attempt).

His three-year period as offensive coordinator included the 49ers setting numerous team records during Shanahan's tenure, including the first time ever that San Francisco led the NFL in total offense in consecutive seasons (1993 and 1994), along with remarkable records for most touchdowns (66), passing yards (4,302), total offense (6,435), first downs (372), completion percentage (70.3 %), and average yards per play (6.30).

San Francisco quarterback Steve Young re-wrote many NFL passing records and was named the NFL most valuable player twice in his three years under Shanahan's guidance, in addition to throwing for six touchdowns and earning Super Bowl XXIX most valuable player honors.

During his NFL career Shanahan has been a part of teams that have played in seven AFC or NFC Championship Games, in addition to his four Super Bowl appearances, three with Denver and the Super Bowl XXIX game with San Francisco. In his nine seasons coaching at the collegiate level, Shanahan's teams participated in eight bowl games, winning two national championships.

A driving force behind the Broncos' offense for all three of their most recent Super Bowl appearances (following the 1986, 1987, and 1989 seasons), he first came to Denver in 1984 as coach of the club's wide receivers. He served as offensive coordinator from 1985-87, and then returned to Denver as quarterbacks coach on Oct. 16, 1989, after serving as head coach of the Los Angeles Raiders in 1988 and through the first four games of the 1989 campaign. Shanahan inherited a team that was 5-10 in 1987 and improved it to 7-9 his first season. After starting 1-3 the following year, he was dismissed.

His second stint in Denver included not only the 1989 Super Bowl appearance by the Broncos, but the team's fourth AFC Championship Game appearance of the Bowlen era (1991 at Buffalo), with Shanahan again serving as offensive coordinator.

A native of Oak Park, Ill. (8/24/52), Michael Edward Shanahan attended East Leyden High School in Franklin Park, where he earned numerous honors. In a student body population of 2,500, Shanahan was voted athlete of the year as well as most valuable player in both football and track. He set a still-standing single-game school record with 258 yards rushing on 17 carries (a 15.2 average).

He received a scholarship to Eastern Illinois University, where he played quarterback and lost a kidney in the spring game of his junior year, which began his coaching career a year earlier than was intended. Mike also received his bachelor's and master's degrees at EIU.

He began his coaching career at Oklahoma in 1975-76, serving as the offensive backfield and receivers coach for the Sooners, and they won the national championship in his first year on their staff (1975).

Shanahan was Northern Arizona's backfield coach in 1977 at the age of 24, and the Lumberjacks averaged a school-record 391.1 yards that season. A year later, Shanahan returned to Eastern Illinois as offensive coordinator and helped guide his alma mater to the Division II title. The year before Shanahan's arrival the team was 1-10. In 1979 he served as offensive coordinator at Minnesota, where he implemented the run-and-shoot offense, with the result being that the Gophers set 40 school offensive records. Mike moved on to Florida the following year, inheriting the second poorest offense in Division I football, as well as a team record of 0-10-1. In Mike's four years the team broke many offensive school records and went to four straight bowl games. During his stint at the college coaching level, his teams had a combined record of 77-29-3.

Recognized as one of the most dynamic offensive minds in the game, Shanahan thus was an assistant coach in college at age 21, an offensive coordinator at the Division I level by 25 and at the NFL level at 32 in his first Denver stint.

Mike and his wife Peggy have two children, son Kyle and daughter Krystal.

ASSISTANT COACHES

FRANK BUSH — Linebackers

(First season with Broncos • Fourth in NFL)

Frank Bush is in his first season as linebackers coach for the Denver Broncos after spending the past ten years with the Houston Oilers as a player, scout and assistant coach. Bush's coaching career began in 1992, when he coached the linebackers for the Oilers and coached alongside Broncos special teams coach Richard Smith. Under Bush's tutelage, several members of the linebacking corps earned postseason honors as the Oilers boasted one of the most aggressive defenses in the NFL.

Before being an assistant coach with Houston, Bush was a college scout for the Oilers from 1987-92. During that period Bush was the main college scout in the Western states. There he helped to bring in some of the players that made the Oilers a very successful team during his tenure.

Bush, 32, was considered one of the most talented young players during his two years in the NFL until a spinal injury prematurely ended his career. In 1985, he played in all 16 games with 11 starts and contributed 114 tackles and four sacks (including two of John Elway). For his efforts, he was selected to UPI's first-team All-NFL rookie squad.

Bush was a fifth-round draft choice of the Oilers in 1985 out of North Carolina State. As a three-year starter for the Wolfpack he recorded 247 tackles, 15 sacks and four interceptions. He majored in communications while at N.C. State.

Bush previously starred at Clarke Central High School in his hometown of Athens, Ga. While at Clarke, Bush was recruited to play football at N.C. State by current Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Bush was born Jan. 10, 1963.

Frank and his wife Stephanie, reside in Englewood, Colo.

BARNEY CHAVOUS — Offensive Line Assistant / Assistant Strength and Conditioning

(Seventh season with Broncos • Seventh in NFL)

Barney Chavous is entering his seventh season with Denver, assisting Alex Gibbs with the offensive line and Rich Tuten with the strength and conditioning program. He joined the coaching staff in 1988 as a coaching intern.

During his seven-year tenure Chavous has coached with such defensive greats as Earl Leggett (currently with New York Giants) and Pro Football Hall of Famer Ernie Stautner.

Chavous, 44, was a defensive end for the Broncos from 1973-85 and currently ranks fourth on the Broncos all-time sacks list with 72. He is one of only six people to play 13 or more years with Denver and also started at defensive end for the Broncos in Super Bowl XII as part of the famed "Orange Crush" defense. He finished his career having played in 182 games in a Bronco uniform (fourth all-time), including 177 starts (tied for second all-time). In 1973, he made the NFLPA All-Rookie team. He was also named the Pittsburgh Courier's NFL Defensive Lineman of the Year in 1978. He was a second-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1973.

Chavous was an all-conference selection while at South Carolina State, where he was a three-year starter, and was also named the team's most valuable player as a senior. He was named to the Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference Hall of Fame and was named All-America by the Associated Press as a senior. In addition, he was inducted into the South Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 1992.

A native of Aiken, South Carolina (3/22/51), Barney and his wife Odessa reside in Englewood with their four children: sons Shedric and Barney Amon, and daughters Jasmine and Nikeya Monique.

RICK DENNISON — Offensive Assistant

(First season with Broncos • First in NFL)

Rick Dennison is entering his first season as a member of the Broncos coaching staff. He joins the Broncos staff after spending the last three years coaching at Suffield Academy Prep in Connecticut. In his new position Dennison will assist all of the offensive coaches and provide quality control work with the Broncos offense.

Dennison, 37, played middle linebacker for the Broncos from 1982-90, playing in 128 games, including 52 starts and three Super Bowls. In 1989, he received the Ed Block Memorial Award for Courage. He was second on the team in tackles in 1988 with 133 and led the team with three fumble recoveries. Perhaps the best performance of his career came in a 1987 playoff game against Houston when he registered eight tackles and a quarterback pressure. He also had an excellent season in 1984 when he had 164 stops and a career-high three sacks in his first full season as a starter. He was a free agent acquisition by the Broncos in 1982.

Rick joined the Broncos in 1982 after a fine college career at Colorado State University where he was a second-team Academic All-American as a senior and earned three varsity letters. In 1979, Dennison received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from CSU and then received his master's in the same field from CSU in 1982.

Dennison, born in Kalispel, Mont. (6/22/58), attended Rocky Mountain High School in Fort Collins where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. His father George is president of the University of Montana.

Rick and his sons, Joseph and Steven, reside in Englewood, Colo.

ED DONATELL — Defensive Backs

(First season with Broncos • Sixth in NFL)

Ed Donatell begins his first season as defensive backs coach for the Broncos after spending the past five seasons with the New York Jets in the same capacity.

Donatell and new defensive coordinator Greg Robinson bring to Denver a new, more aggressive style of defense that is expected to force more turnovers. In Donatell's last three years with the Jets, his defensive backs had a hand in 80 of the Jets 114 turnovers, better than 70 percent. They also were one of the top teams in the league in interceptions with 17, including three that were returned for touchdowns.

Donatell has also seen several of his players go on to receive postseason honors, as Jets safety Brian Washington was an All-Pro selection in 1993 by Football Digest. He has worked with Ronnie Lott, considered by many to be the best defensive back to ever play the game, and he was also instrumental in the development of cornerbacks James Hasty and Aaron Glenn, who earned NFL All-Rookie honors from the Football News as well as College and Pro Football Newsweekly.

Donatell, 38, joined the Jets in 1990 after prior coaching stints with Cal State Fullerton (1989), Idaho (1986-88), Pacific (1983-85), Washington (1981-82) and Kent State (1979-80). While he was at Washington the Huskies won the 1982 Rose Bowl over Iowa 28-0, a game in which Donatell's secondary picked off three passes and held the Hawkeyes to 84 yards passing.

A native of Akron, Ohio, Donatell attended Glenville State in West Virginia where he was a four-year letterman and was named all-conference as a defensive back. He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and then went on to earn his master's from Kent State in administration.

Donatell (2/4/57), his wife Shari, daughter Brenna and sons Thomas and Steven reside in Longtree, Colo.

GEORGE DYER — Defensive Line

(First season with Broncos • 14th in NFL)

George Dyer enters his first season as the Broncos defensive line coach and his 14th in the NFL. Dyer comes to Denver from Los Angeles where he was the Rams defensive coordinator and defensive line coach for the past three seasons. He joined the Rams after a nine-year stint with the Seattle Seahawks (1983-91) where he was also in charge of the defensive line, and one year with the Buffalo Bills (1982).

During his tenure in the NFL, Dyer has coached All-Pro linemen wherever he has been, including six-time Pro Bowler Fred Smerlas of the Bills, Jacob Green and Cortez Kennedy of the Seahawks, and Sean Gilbert of the Rams. Last season, the Rams' defense ranked seventh in the NFC and 12th in the league against the pass and their defensive line gave up an average of just 3.6 net yards per rush, which tied them for third in the NFC and sixth in the NFL.

In 1983, Dyer's defensive line with Seattle averaged 2.7 sacks per game, as the Seahawks advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the only time in their history. Prior to joining the Bills, Dyer served as defensive coordinator at Arizona State (1980-81) and at Michigan State (1977-79). He also coached for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League from 1974-76 and had stints with San Jose State (1973) and Idaho (1972).

Dyer, 55, started his coaching career at Humboldt State University (1964-66) before becoming head coach at Coalinga Junior College in Central California, in 1967. He was defensive coordinator at Portland State University from 1968-71.

As a player, Dyer was a center and linebacker at UC Santa Barbara from 1961-63. He attended San Gabriel High School in San Gabriel, Calif.

George (5/4/40), born in Alhambra, California, currently resides in Aurora, Colo., with his wife Marjorie. They have five children: sons George and Doak, and daughters Tami, Darci, and Mami.

ALEX GIBBS — Assistant Head Coach / Offensive Line

(First season with Broncos • 12th in NFL)

Alex Gibbs begins his second tour of duty with the Broncos and his 25th year in coaching in 1995 as assistant head coach and offensive line coach. Gibbs, who coached in Denver from 1984-87, has coached for every team in the AFC West except the Seattle Seahawks. He was most recently with the Kansas City Chiefs (1993-94) as their offensive line coach.

While at Kansas City, Gibbs did nothing to tarnish his reputation as one of the league's top offensive line tutors. In his two years with Kansas City, the Chiefs' sack total went down from 48 the year before he got there (1992) to 19 (a club record and NFL's third-fewest) in 1994. Despite having to work with a very young unit, Gibbs' troops helped the Chiefs average 355.8 total yards per game (second best in club history), rush for 108.3 yards per game (sixth in AFC), and pass for 247.5 yards per game (second in club history). Under his guidance, tackle John Alt and guard Will Shields earned Pro Bowl and consensus all-rookie honors, respectively, in 1993, as the Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

In 1992, Gibbs was the offensive line coach for the Indianapolis Colts, whose sack total dropped by 13 in the one season he was there. Prior to that, he spent the 1990-91 seasons with the San Diego Chargers where he helped put together a line that propelled the Chargers to the second-best rushing offense in the league in 1991 with an average output of 140.5 yards per game. The Chargers were the league's third-most potent rushing offense in 1990, averaging 141.1 yards per game. One of Gibbs' pupils on that line was current Bronco Broderick Thompson. A majority of that line also helped to anchor the Chargers to division titles in two of the last three years and an appearance in Super Bowl XXIX.

Gibbs spent the 1988-89 season with the Los Angeles Raiders, where he coached with current Bronco head coach, and then-Raiders head coach Mike Shanahan. While at Los Angeles, he helped to groom the talents of guard Steve Wisniewski, who has been an All-Pro selection six years running.

Gibbs had first become an NFL assistant in 1984 with the Broncos, serving as the club's offensive line coach for four seasons. He was part of a staff that saw Denver earn trips to two straight Super Bowls (XXI and XXII). Under Gibbs' guidance, center Keith Bishop earned all-pro and Pro Bowl honors in 1986 and '87.

Gibbs coached at the collegiate level for 13 seasons before entering the pro ranks. He worked at Duke (1969-70) and Kentucky (1971-72) before moving to West Virginia (1973-74), where he worked under head coach Bobby Bowden. He then became the offensive coordinator/line coach at Ohio State (1975-78) where his line troops opened up the holes that enabled Archie Griffin to claim back-to-back Heisman Trophy awards. In 1979, he became offensive coordinator at Auburn, a position he held for three seasons. He then coached the offensive line at Georgia Tech from 1982-83. He also spent three years at Mount Airy (N.C.) High School where he won a pair of state championships.

Gibbs, 54, is a native of Morganton, N.C., where he was a running back and defensive back at Davidson College. He majored there in pre-law and then earned his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in European history, as well as a doctorate in education from Auburn.

Gibbs was not the only athlete in his family. His son David was a defensive back on Colorado's 1990 National Championship team, and one of his teammates was current Bronco defensive back Ronnie Bradford. Gibbs' son Mark played at UCLA, and his son Chuck played for Army. David is currently the defensive backs coach at Kansas.

Alex (2/22/41) resides in Englewood, Colo., with his wife Anamaria. He has five children: sons Steve, David, Chuck and Mark, and daughter Sandy.

MIKE HEIMERDINGER — Wide Receivers

(First season with Broncos • First in NFL)

Mike Heimerdinger begins his first year as the Broncos wide receivers coach. He comes to Denver from Duke University where he was the offensive coordinator and also in charge of the offensive backs during 1994. In his one season at Duke he directed an offense that finished 15th in the country in scoring (32.7 per game), putting up over 40 points on five occasions. The Blue Devils enjoyed one of their finest seasons in school history last year, as they finished with an 8-3 regular season record and earned a bid to the Hall of Fame Bowl, only their second bowl appearance in 35 years.

Heimerdinger also helped to develop the skills of running back Robert Baldwin, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing with 1,187 yards and also had 12 touchdowns.

The 42-year old Heimerdinger has a history of running successful offensive units. While coaching at Rice from 1989-93, he ran an attack that produced 1991 Doak Walker Award winner Trevor Cobb (currently with Chicago), quarterback Donald Hollas (currently with Detroit) and quarterback Bert Emmanuel, who was a second-round pick by the Atlanta Falcons. The Owls pulled off a rare feat during Heimerdinger's tenure, as they produced the school's first back-to-back winning seasons since 1960-61.

Prior to his stay with Rice, Heimerdinger was the offensive coordinator at Cal State Fullerton in 1988. One of the offensive records that his unit produced that season was the school record for most points in a game (58).

Heimerdinger was also an assistant at the University of Florida in 1980, and then again from 1983-87. While at Gainesville, he was on the same staff as current Bronco head coach Mike Shanahan (from 1980-83) and current Bronco strength coach Rich Tuten (from 1979-88 and 1993-94). With Shanahan as offensive coordinator and Heimerdinger as receivers coach, the Gators were among the nation's top passing teams. They also enjoyed bowl success during Heimerdinger's tenure, as they played in the 1983 Gator Bowl and 1987 Aloha Bowl, while also posting identical 9-1-1 records in both 1984 and 1985.

In 1982, Heimerdinger coached the quarterbacks at North Texas after serving one season at Air Force. He started his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Florida in 1980 after being a high school coach for five years at Johnsburn High School in McHenry, Illinois.

Heimerdinger earned his bachelor's degree in education in 1975 from Eastern Illinois where he played wide receiver from 1970-74. He also played for the Panther's baseball team as a centerfielder, going to the Div. II College World Series in 1974.

Heimerdinger was born in Dekalb, Ill., on Oct. 13, 1952. He and his wife Kathie live in Englewood with their daughter, Alicia, and son, Brian.

GARY KUBIAK — Offensive Coordinator / Quarterbacks

(First season with Broncos • Second in NFL)

Gary Kubiak has made a return trip to Denver, but this time as offensive coordinator. He comes back to the Broncos after spending the 1994 season as quarterbacks coach for the San Francisco 49ers, coaching alongside Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and Broncos tight ends coach Brian Pariani.

During the 1994 season, Kubiak coached the league's most dominating quarterback, Steve Young. Young not only led the 49ers to a victory in Super Bowl XXIX, but he also earned Super Bowl MVP honors, as well as the NFL's Most Valuable Player award, besides setting numerous passing records during the 1994 campaign. He also became the NFL's all-time passer-rating leader and the first quarterback to lead the league in passing four years in a row.

Prior to his year in San Francisco, Kubiak was the running backs coach at his alma mater, Texas A&M, from 1992-93. During his two seasons the Aggies posted a record of 22-3 and played in back-to-back Cotton Bowls. His star pupil at A&M was Greg Hill, a first-round pick by the Kansas City Chiefs in 1994. Hill was a second-team All-American as a junior by The Sporting News, and first-team All-Southwest Conference, as well as an All-SWC pick as a senior by the Dallas Morning News, despite missing four games. He rushed for 2,046 yards and 21 touchdowns in Kubiak's two years at College Station.

Prior to beginning his coaching career, Kubiak played nine seasons as a quarterback for the Broncos. During that time he was a member of three Super Bowl teams and appeared in a total of 14 playoff games. He played in 119 games for Denver (second all-time among quarterbacks behind John Elway), with five starts over that period (4-1 record). He completed 173 aeriels in 298 attempts for 2,020 yards, 16 Interceptions and 14 touchdowns. He also rushed for 238 yards and two touchdowns. His completion percentage of .581 is the top mark in team history. He also holds the Broncos' single-season record for interception avoidance with a mark of .013 (one interception in 75 attempts), set in 1984.

Kubiak's finest moment as a Bronco was probably in his final performance in a Denver uniform, as he relieved an injured John Elway in the 1992 AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12/92) and completed 11-of-12 passes for 102 yards and also had 22 yards rushing, as the Broncos fell to the Bills 10-7. He entered the game in the fourth quarter and drove the Broncos into Buffalo territory three times, including an 85-yard touchdown drive that cut Denver's deficit to three points. Kubiak was an eighth-round draft pick of the Broncos in 1983.

As a player at Texas A&M, Kubiak made the Player's All-SWC team in 1982 and earned appearances in the Blue-Gray and Hula Bowl all-star games. In 1982 he led the SWC in attempts (324), completions (181), percentage (55.9), yardage (1,948), touchdowns (19) and total offense (1,885). As a junior he set conference records for touchdown passes in a game (six against Rice) and percentage in a game (19-21 for 90.5% against Arkansas), and ranked second in the SWC in passing (1,908) and total offense (1,986). He has a degree from A&M in physical education.

While at St. Pius High School in his native Houston, Gary made all-state, all-district, and All-America and set the state passing record with 6,190 yards. He lettered four years in football, basketball, and baseball, and made all-state in all three sports in both his junior and senior years. He was also all-state in track twice.

Gary (8/15/61) and his wife Rhonda reside in Englewood with their three sons, Clint, Klay and Klein.

Brian Pariani begins his first year as the Broncos tight ends coach after spending the previous five seasons (1990-94) with the San Francisco 49ers, coaching alongside Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak. He inherits one of the top tight ends in the league in Shannon Sharpe, a three-time Pro Bowl selection and Denver's leading receiver in 1994.

Pariani started his NFL coaching career in 1990 as a scouting assistant with the 49ers. He then became the team's offensive coaches assistant for the next four seasons, working directly with the offensive coaches and quarterbacks, assisting in daily practices and with the game plans. The 49ers offense was the most potent in the league in 1994, scoring 505 points and 62 touchdowns, both team records, on their way to a Super Bowl title.

After earning his political science degree from UCLA in 1989, Pariani served as a graduate assistant with the Bruins, helping head coach Terry Donahue's offense during the 1989 season.

Pariani attended Marin (Calif.) Catholic High School where he participated in football, baseball, and basketball. He is a native of San Francisco, Calif. (7/2/65). He and his wife Stephanie reside in Castle Rock, Colo.

ALVIN REYNOLDS — Defensive Assistant / Asst. Def. Backs*(Third season with Broncos • Third in NFL)*

Alvin Reynolds is in his third year as defensive assistant/assistant defensive backs coach with the Broncos. This season Reynolds will work with the defensive backs and special teams coaches and perform quality control for the Broncos defense.

Reynolds, 36, came to the Broncos from his alma mater, Indiana State University, where he coached for ten years (1983-92), the last three as assistant head coach and recruiting coordinator in addition to being secondary coach for the Sycamores. He was a graduate assistant at ISU in 1982 before being elevated to full-time status in the next season.

While coaching the Sycamores defensive backfield, Reynolds was instrumental in the development of two All-America selections in Wayne Davis and Vencie Glenn. Davis later played for the Washington Redskins from 1989-90 and Glenn has enjoyed a fine career in the NFL for ten years with the Chargers, Saints, Vikings and New York Giants. In addition to his coaching and recruiting duties, Reynolds had many other off-the-field administrative roles, including working with the ISU athletic academic coordinator.

Reynolds enjoyed a fine four-year career at ISU (1978-81), playing strong safety for the Sycamores. As a senior he received two votes for the Heisman Trophy, given annually to the top player in college football. He ended his career with 188 tackles, 21 pass break-ups and five forced fumbles. Reynolds was a player and coach at ISU when current Broncos running backs coach Bobby Turner was an assistant with the Sycamores. In fact, when Turner left ISU to become the running backs coach at Fresno State, Reynolds took over for Turner as the Sycamores defensive backs coach.

Reynolds was also a prominent figure at ISU off the field, as he was president of the ISU University Club and the Charles T. Hyde University Center, and his group involvements included the Indiana Democratic state convention, the Indiana State employee search committee, the President's Commission on Ethnic Diversity, the Indiana Black Expo, and the Minority Student Retention Programs Committee. He received his bachelor's degree in Business Management in 1982, and his master's degree in political science in 1990. Reynolds is also a member of the Denver Chapter of the 100 Black Men of America Organization.

Born June 24, 1959, in Pineville, La., Reynolds attended West Jefferson High School where he was an All-American in football and two-time MVP of the track team. He currently resides in Aurora with his son Alvin, Jr.

GREG ROBINSON — Defensive Coordinator*(First season with Broncos • Sixth in NFL)*

Greg Robinson begins his first season as defensive coordinator for the Broncos in 1995 after spending the previous five seasons with the New York Jets. He was the Jets defensive coordinator in 1994, and was the team's defensive line coach the previous four years. While there he worked with current Broncos defensive backs coach Ed Donatell (1990-94) and current Broncos scout Jack Elway (1990).

During his last four years with New York, the Jets forced 151 turnovers, most in the AFC and second-most in the NFL during that span (Philadelphia is first with 155). They also improved from 27th in the league in total defense in 1989 (374.6 yards per game) to 8th in 1993 (294.5 yards per game). As the defensive coordinator in 1994, his defense tied for second in the AFC and the NFL with 38 takeaways, tied with Kansas City two behind New England. In their last 11 games, Robinson's defense produced 32 takeaways (18 fumble recoveries and 14 interceptions). They finished the season with 29 sacks and gave up just 20 points per game, 6th best in the AFC.

The Jets defensive line also saw dramatic improvement under Robinson's tutelage. They were fifth in the NFL in rush defense in 1993 (92.1 yards per game — down from 133.5 in 1989) and improved to 17th in the NFL in pass defense (202.4 yards per game). The defense recorded 32 sacks in 1993, 18 of which belonged to the defensive line. The line also had 81 quarterback pressures. Despite injuries to two starters, the defense recorded 36 sacks in 1992, 26 by the line. The defense also ranked No. 1 in the AFC against the run in 1991 (90.1 yards per game — a 36-yard improvement over 1990) and recorded 35 sacks.

Robinson has also been very instrumental in the development of many players, including defensive linemen Jeff Lageman and Marvin Washington, and linebacker Mo Lewis of the Jets. Lageman and Washington combined for 54.5 sacks from 1990-94, with Lageman leading the team with 6.5 in 1994, 8.5 in '93 and '91, and Washington leading the way with 8.5 in 1992. The Robinson-led defensive line sacked Dan Marino four times on Sept. 29, 1991, tying the most times Marino has ever been sacked in a game. Lewis led the team in tackles in 1994 with 155, had four interceptions, six sacks and five forced fumbles. The four interceptions were the most by a linebacker in the league last year.

Prior to his stay in New York, Robinson coached for eight years at UCLA (1982-89) under head coach Terry Donahue, mainly as a defensive assistant but as an offensive coordinator in 1989. He had been promoted to assistant head coach in for the 1990 season, but opted to join the Jets instead.

While at UCLA, Robinson coached the defensive line for the Bruins from 1982-88. Many of his former pupils have moved on to the NFL, with some still active, including current Bronco Mike Lodish and Washington Redskins Jim Wahler. His run defense was in the top-10 in the nation in 1987 and '88, allowing just 95 yards per game over two seasons. In 1985, the Bruins led the nation in defense against the run at 70.3 yards per game. There defense also averaged over 40 sacks a year from 1985-88.

During his one season on the offensive side of the ball, Robinson helped to groom the talents of several future NFL players, including former Broncos quarterback Tommy Maddox (Rams), Miami Dolphins wide receiver Scott Miller and St. Louis Rams wide receiver Sean LaChapelle. The Bruins' 1989 offense also produced two All-Americans in center Frank Comish (Dallas Cowboys) and tight end Charles Arbuckle (Colts).

Robinson coached at North Carolina State from 1980-81 where he helped recruit former Wolfpack linebacker and current Broncos linebackers coach Frank Bush. He coached at Cal State Fullerton from 1977-79 and at the University of Pacific from 1975-76 where he worked with the wide receivers as a graduate assistant and later the defensive line.

Robinson began his collegiate playing career as a linebacker at Bakersfield Community College from 1974-75, winning a junior college national championship. He then went on to play linebacker, center and tight end at the University of Pacific from 1975-76. He earned his bachelor's degree in political science from Pacific in 1976. He attended Garces High School in his hometown of Los Angeles.

Robinson, 43 (10/9/51), lives in Aurora with his wife Laura and his son Dominic, and daughters Lindsay and Leslie Ann.

GREG SAPORTA — Administrative Asst. / Strength and Conditioning

(First season with Broncos • First in NFL)

Greg Saporta begins his first season as administrative assistant in the strength and conditioning department for the Broncos. Saporta will join Barney Chavous in assisting Head Strength Coach Rich Tuten in running the strength and conditioning program for the Bronco players.

Saporta comes to the Broncos from the University of Florida where he spent two separate stints as an assistant strength coach, working under Tuten. He originally began as a student assistant at Florida in 1981. He became assistant strength coach in 1985. He held that position until 1988, when he went to the University of North Carolina to assume the same position from 1988-92, once again working with Tuten, who had taken a position as Strength Director. Saporta then returned to Florida in 1992 to resume his position as assistant strength coach, which he held until April of 1995. He also coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receiver coach Mike Heimerdinger at UF.

During his time spent at both Florida and North Carolina, Saporta worked with many athletes who went on to enjoy success in the NFL, including Errict Rhett (Tampa Bay) and Kevin Carter (Oilers) at Florida, and Dwight Hollier (Dolphins) and Natrone Means (Chargers) at North Carolina. While at UNC, he also worked with current Broncos players Ray Jacobs and Rondell Jones.

Saporta, 38, received his bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in exercise physiology from Florida in 1985. He previously had attended Buffalo State University in New York, where he lettered for two years in football and rugby, as well as participating in track. Greg has also worked in the past with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Saporta, born Feb. 2, 1957, is originally from Manhattan, N.Y., and attended Roosevelt High School in Yonkers, N.Y., where he lettered in football for three years. He now resides in Englewood, Colo.

RICHARD SMITH — Special Teams

(Third season with Broncos • Eighth in NFL)

Richard Smith is entering his third season as the Broncos special teams coach after previously assisting with the line-backing corps. He came to Denver after coaching the special teams of the Houston Oilers from 1988-92, coaching with current Broncos linebacker coach Frank Bush. Smith also assisted with the offensive line (1992) and linebackers (1990-91) and coached the tight ends (1988-89) while with the Oilers.

Under Smith's guidance, the Broncos' special teams corps has been among the NFL's best. In 1994, Denver had the AFC's third-leading punter (Tom Rouen, 42.9, 7th in NFL) and kick returner (Butler By'not'e, 22.7), and sixth-best punt returner (Glyn Milburn, 9.2). Jason Elam also set the team record for most field goals in a season with 30. Elam has only missed one kick inside 40 yards since Smith's arrival in Denver.

As a unit, the Broncos were fifth in the AFC and tied for 11th in the league in punt return average (9.2), third in the AFC and sixth in the league in opponents punt return average (7.1), and third in the AFC and fifth in the league in opponents kick return average (19.9). In all three categories the Broncos were better than the league averages for last season.

In 1993, Rouen was second in the AFC and third in the NFL in punt average (44.4) and Milburn was fifth in the AFC and seventh in the league in punt return average (10.6). As a unit, Denver was fifth in the AFC and sixth in the league in punt return average (10.4), as well as sixth in the AFC and tied for seventh in the league in opponents kick return avg. (17.8).

During all five of his seasons with the Oilers Smith's special teams played a pivotal role in Houston reaching the playoffs all five years. In 1992, the Oilers led the entire NFL in opponent kick return average (15.7) and in gross punting average (46.9) under Smith. They ranked in the NFL's top-four in net punting average in 1990 and 1991, and were in the top-six in opponent's punt return and kick return average. They blocked 18 kicks during Smith's tenure, including a then-NFL record five blocks in 1988.

Smith, 39, went to Houston after a one year stay with the University of Arizona, where he coached the special teams and linebackers in 1987. One of his star pupils at UA was current Miami Dolphins linebacker Chris Singleton. Before that Smith was the special teams/outside linebackers coach at California from 1984-86, and was the defensive line coach at Cal State Fullerton from 1981-83, helping the Titans win the PCAA title in 1983. He began his coaching career as the offensive line coach at Rio Hondo (Calif.) Junior College from 1979-80.

A native of Los Angeles (10/17/55), Smith was an offensive lineman at Rio Hondo from 1975-76. He then transferred to Fresno State where the Bulldogs won the 1977 PCAA title. He received his bachelor's degree from Fresno State in physical education in 1979. Smith attended St. Paul High School in Los Angeles where he played football.

Smith's ties to the Broncos run back much further than 1993, as his uncle Bus Mertes was an assistant under former Broncos head coach Mac Speedie from 1965-66. Mertes was also an assistant with the Minnesota Vikings during their four Super Bowl years.

Smith and his wife Patti reside in Larkspur, Colo., with their four children, daughters Morgan, Aimee and Whitney, and son Travis.

BOBBY TURNER — Running Backs

(First season with Broncos • First in NFL)

Bobby Turner begins his first season as the Broncos running backs coach after serving as assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and running backs coach at Purdue.

During his tenure at Purdue the Boilermakers running game and entire offense improved each season, going from 106th in the nation in 1990 to 12th in '94, a season in which it set numerous school records and ranked nationally in many categories. They set single-season records for rushing touchdowns (36) and average per carry (5.01), and finished 12th nationally in rushing offense (234.8 yards per game) and 22nd nationally in scoring offense (30.5). Their offense produced 336 points, the highest Purdue total since 1969, including a school record for a conference road game (56) at Minnesota, and scored 84.4 percent of the time inside the "Red Zone" (38 of 45, 32 TDs and 6 FGs). Turner's backfield also produced the school's first 1,000-yard rusher in 18 years in All-Big 10 second-teamer Mike Alstott (1,188 yards and 14 TDs).

Seven different Boilermakers rushed for more than 100 yards in a game in 1992, and in 1991 Turner coached the Big Ten Freshman of the Year in running back Corey Rodgers.

Turner served in the same capacity at Ohio State from 1989-90, during which time the Buckeyes went to two bowl games and had one of the best running games in the Big Ten. His 1990 backfield of Bronco defensive back Butler By'not'e, Robert Smith (Vikings), Scottie Graham (Vikings), Raymont Harris (Bears) and Jeff Cothran (Bengals) was rated No. 1 in the nation by The Sporting News, producing a 1,000 yard rusher in Smith. He finished the season with 1,126 yards and eight touchdowns, and was named Big Ten and National Freshman of the Year.

In 1989 the Buckeyes ranked No. 1 in Big Ten rushing at 241 yards per game, as well as No. 1 in total offense and scoring, coming within 16 yards of having two 1,000 yard rushers. Carlos Snow finished with 1,031 and 11 touchdowns and Graham tallied 984 and 10 TD's. In Turner's two years at Ohio State the offensive backfield averaged 221 yards per game.

On the day of his first game at OSU, Turner's daughter Kiaana was born at the university hospital just 500 yards away from Ohio Stadium.

Prior to his stint at Ohio State Turner coached the running backs at Fresno State (1983-88) and at his alma mater, Indiana State (1975-82). He accepted a position as running backs coach at ISU in 1975 and spent three of his eight seasons there (1976, '77, '82) as the defensive backs coach in addition to five years as special teams coordinator (1978-82). Current Broncos assistant defensive backs coach Alvin Reynolds played for the Sycamores when Turner was a coach, and was then a graduate assistant in 1982 during Turner's last year. When Turner left ISU for Fresno State, Reynolds replaced him as the Sycamores defensive backs coach.

Turner actually had an opportunity to be an assistant coach on ISU's 1979 Larry Bird-led Final Four basketball team but turned down the offer to concentrate on coaching football. He began his coaching career at Haworth High School in Kokomo, Ind., as an assistant football and basketball coach, and in 1993 was inducted into the Indiana High School Basketball Hall of Fame.

A native of East Chicago, Ind. (5/6/49), Turner enjoyed a fine career as an all-conference defensive back at Indiana State, where he played both football and basketball. He set the school record as a sophomore with nine of his 16 career interceptions, including two returned for touchdowns. He earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1972 and his master's from ISU in education/administration in 1976.

Turner, 46, attended East Chicago Washington High School where he was one of only two athletes in the school's history to play four sports (football, basketball, baseball, and track). He and his wife Kimberly have three daughters, Nacole, Krishna and Kiaana.

RICH TUTEN — Strength and Conditioning

(First season with Broncos • First in NFL)

Rich Tuten begins his first season as the Broncos strength and conditioning coach. He coordinates the Broncos strength and conditioning program with assistance from Barney Chavous and Greg Saporta.

Tuten comes to the Broncos from the University of Florida, where he was the Director of Strength and Conditioning from 1980-88, and also from 1993-94. He was the Athletic Strength Director at the University of North Carolina from 1989-92.

While at both schools, Tuten supervised the strength and conditioning programs for every sport. With UF he also served as the head strength and conditioning coach for the nationally-ranked Gator football team. He played a key role in designing Florida's current strength and conditioning complex.

At North Carolina Tuten helped the Tar Heels make major advancements in their strength and conditioning program, helping them to be able to compete with the top collegiate programs in the country. Besides his work at collegiate institutions, Tuten is also a member of the National Strength and Conditioning Association.

Tuten has worked with many athletes who have gone on to enjoy success in the National Football League, including Neal Anderson (Bears), Ricky Nattiel (former Bronco), John L. Williams (Steelers), and Ernie Rhetts at Florida, and current Bronco linebacker Ray Jacobs and defensive back Rondell Jones at North Carolina.

Tuten has also coached with three current members of the Broncos coaching staff. He coached with Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan and wide receivers coach Mike Heimerdinger at Florida from 1980-83, and with his assistant Greg Saporta at both Florida and North Carolina over the last 15 years.

A 1979 graduate of Clemson, Tuten was a three-year letterman and starting nose guard for the Tigers. He was named to the All-America Strength team in 1978 and was part of the 1978 Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tiger squad. Tuten registered nine tackles and three sacks against Maryland that season to help clinch the conference title. He was named ACC Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts. He received his degree in therapeutic recreation from Clemson in 1978.

Tuten, born Dec. 30, 1953, attended Wakefield High School in Arlington, Va., where he participated in football, wrestling and track. He is a native of Columbia, S.C. He and his wife Donna reside in Highlands Ranch, Colo., with their two sons Will and Matt.

PLAYER PERSONNEL

BOB FERGUSON

Director of Player Personnel

Bob Ferguson is in his third season as the Broncos' Director of Player Personnel. He works very closely with Head Coach Mike Shanahan and General Manager John Beake in making determinations relative to player acquisition.

He has also been a prominent figure in Denver's very aggressive approach to free agency over the last three years, an attitude that resulted in Denver signing several highly sought-after free agents. Included among these free agents are defensive linemen Michael Dean Perry and James Jones, cornerbacks Lionel

Washington and Ray Crockett, wide receivers Anthony Miller and Ed McCaffrey, running backs Rod Bernstine and Aaron Craver, offensive linemen Brian Habib, Mark Schlereth and Broderick Thompson, and linebackers Dave Wyman, Britt Hager and Danté Jones.

Ferguson, 44, is in his 19th season in the National Football League, coming to Denver from the Buffalo Bills, where he had a key role in the development of a very talented Bills roster during his eight seasons with that club.

He joined the Bills in 1985 and had several positions in player personnel, culminating in Ferguson being named Assistant General Manager/Director of Pro Personnel in 1989, a position in which he continued until coming to the Mile High City.

A native of Federal Way, Wash. (11/5/50), Ferguson began his NFL career with the Seattle Seahawks as Director of Sales and Special Events, handling a number of duties during his tenure there from 1975-79, and then moved into a scouting combine (serving Buffalo, Dallas, San Francisco, and Seattle) as an area scout from 1981-83. He joined the Cowboys to handle performance testing (1984-85) prior to going to Buffalo.

Ferguson lettered three times as a linebacker at the University of Washington, graduating in 1973 with a degree in radio-television communications. He had free agent tryouts with San Diego (1973), the Los Angeles Rams (1974), and Portland of the World Football League (also 1974).

Bob and his wife Colleen have three daughters, Vanessa, Nathalie and Allison.

JERRY FREI

Director of College Scouting

Jerry Frei begins his first season as the Broncos' Director of College Scouting and his 19th season as a member of the Denver organization either as an assistant coach or a scout. His duties include the scouting department's budget, division of territory, and travel itinerary.

He coached for the Broncos from 1972-75 and again from 1981-82 before moving into the scouting department the following season. Frei has been an area scout and has performed a variety of administrative roles within the scouting department for the Broncos organization.

Frei's initial tenure as the Broncos offensive line coach from 1972-75 was his first in professional football, and was followed by a two-year stint in the same capacity with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (1976-77) and a three-year stint with the Chicago Bears (1978-80), prior to his return to the Mile High City in 1981.

His professional coaching career was preceded by a long and successful assistant and head coaching career in the collegiate ranks at the University of Oregon. He joined the Ducks' coaching staff as an assistant in 1955 and served in that role through the 1966 season before succeeding Len Casanova as head coach in 1967. Oregon compiled a 22-29-2 record during his five years as head coach, including a 1970 record of 6-4-1 that was good enough for second place in the Pacific-8 Conference. His 1970 and '71 teams featured two future NFL stars: Dan Fouts at quarterback and Bobby Moore (now Ahmad Rashad) at running back.

Frei was an offensive lineman on the standout Wisconsin teams of 1942, '46 and '47, and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. His collegiate career was interrupted by service in the U.S. Military in World War II, during which he flew 67 reconnaissance missions in a P-38 for the U.S. Army Air Corps.

His first collegiate coaching experience came from 1952-54 at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

Jerry and his wife Marian have five children, sons David and Terry, and daughters Judy, Susan and Nancy.

JACK ELWAY

Director of Pro Scouting

Jack Elway is in his third year with the Broncos' scouting department and his first as Director of Pro Scouting. Elway began his association with the Broncos organization in 1993 as a pro scout, a position he held for two seasons before being promoted to his current post in the 1995 offseason.

Prior to coming to the Broncos, he was head coach of the Frankfurt Galaxy in the World League (1991-1992) and scouted for the New York Jets (1990). Jack has also had an outstanding career as a college head coach, serving at Cal

State Northridge (1976-78), San Jose State (1979-83), and Stanford (1984-88).

Elway also was head coach at Port Angeles (Wash.) High School and Grays Harbor (Wash.) Community College (1961-66), and served in assistant roles at Montana (1967-71) and Washington State (1972-75). He posted a .650 winning percentage as a head coach and assistant coach on the high school, community college, Division I and Division II levels during his 34 seasons before moving into the pros.

Always noted for creative, multi-dimensional offenses, Elway also has served as head coach in the Blue-Gray Game and East-West Shrine Game.

Elway, 64, a native of Hoquiam, Wash., played quarterback at Washington State, where he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees.

Jack and his wife Jan have three children, Lee Ann, John Jr., and Jana. John Jr. was the number one pick in the 1983 NFL draft and has led the Broncos to three Super Bowl appearances.

HAROLD RICHARDSON

Administrative Assistant / Pro Personnel

Harold Richardson begins his seventh season with the Denver Broncos organization and his first in the capacity of administrative assistant for pro personnel.

Richardson has been involved with the Broncos' personnel department for the past two seasons in the capacity of offensive assistant.

Richardson joined the Broncos coaching staff as a special teams coach in 1989 and coached that unit for four seasons, also coaching the team's tight ends in the last two seasons.

The 52-year old Richardson came to the Broncos from Colorado State University where he was defensive coordinator in 1987 and '88. Prior to that he served as receivers and special teams coach with the New Orleans Saints (1981-85).

Working on the collegiate level (1972-80), Richardson coached at North Texas State, Texas Christian, Oklahoma State and Southern Methodist, where he began his coaching career as a graduate assistant in 1971.

A native of Houston, Texas (9/27/44), Richardson earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Southern Methodist in 1968.

Harold and his wife Ramona have a son, Blake Lee.

BOB BEERS

College Scout

Bob Beers joins the Broncos' scouting staff this season after a very successful season with the Amsterdam Admirals of the World League of American Football. With Beers as offensive coordinator, the Admirals put up a 9-1 regular season record and advanced to the World Bowl. Amsterdam's regular season record equaled that of the 1991 London Monarchs, tying the club for the best record in WLAF history.

Prior to his stint with the Admirals, Beers served two seasons as head coach at Western Montana where he guided the program to Frontier Conference titles and earned Coach of the Year honors both seasons. His 1994 team claimed the conference title and garnered the school's first ever berth in the NAIA national playoffs, advancing to the Final Four and finishing with an 8-3 record. The Bulldogs finished second in the nation in passing (3,535 yards) and total offense (5,000), and 10 Bulldogs earned All-America honors, including two first-teamers.

In 1993, the Western offense set 23 school records, led the nation in passing (3,069 yards) and finished second in total offense (4,206).

Beers began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at the University of Montana before moving on to Montana Tech where he served as defensive coordinator from 1972-74. He then spent 10 years in the prep ranks of Montana and Oregon before returning to the Montana as offensive line coach under Don Read. He entered the professional ranks in 1990 as offensive coordinator for the Frankfurt Galaxy of the World League before returning to the collegiate ranks to begin his two-year stint as head coach at Western Montana.

A 1965 graduate of Sunset High School in Beaverton, Ore., Beers earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Montana where he was an All-America linebacker as a junior and senior. Bob and his wife Janelle have three children: son Bobby (22), an All-American wide receiver for the Bulldogs; daughter Carrie (21), also a student at Western; and daughter Joey (4).

MARV BRADEN
College Scout

Marv Braden returns to the Denver Broncos organization in 1995, this time as an area scout for the Southeast region. The former Broncos' special teams coach (1977-80) begins his first year as a scout after spending the past five years as the special teams coach for the Cincinnati Bengals.

Braden brings a great deal of NFL experience into his new position, having coached in the league for the past 18 seasons and in the collegiate ranks for 14 seasons prior to that.

As an NFL special teams coach he tutored 13 players who have earned Pro Bowl honors in coaching stints with Denver, San Diego (1981-85), Phoenix (1986-89) and Cincinnati (1990-95). Four times from 1977-85 Braden's special teams units ranked first overall in the NFL in comprehensive team rankings, including twice with the Broncos (1977 and '79) and twice with the Chargers (1982 and '85).

Braden, a linebacker at Southwest Missouri State during his collegiate playing career (1956-59), was an assistant coach at Northeast Missouri State (1967-68), Iowa State (1973), Southern Methodist (1974-75) and Michigan State (1976) and a head coach at Cal Western (U.S. International) (1969-72) before joining the professional coaching ranks.

A native of Kansas City, Mo., Braden and his wife, Becky, have a married daughter, Janice Bartkowski.

SCOTT DiStefano
College Scout

Scott DiStefano is in his 13th year with the Broncos' personnel department, continuing to scout the Midwestern region for the club.

DiStefano, 38, was a quarterback at Colorado State University from 1976-80. Following his playing career he joined the coaching staff at CSU as a graduate assistant, a role in which he served for two seasons (1980-81) before coming to the Broncos.

A native of Alliance, Ohio, DiStefano was an all-conference quarterback in 1975 at Alliance High School, the same school that produced Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterback Len Dawson. Among the honors bestowed upon him was the 1974 Massillon (Ohio) JayCee's conference sportsmanship award, a prestigious honor from such a football-rich region of Ohio.

Scott makes his home in Chicago.

DAVID GETTLEMEN
College Scout

David Gettleman is in his second year as an area scout for the Broncos and his ninth in scouting overall, concentrating on the east coast region for Denver.

Gettleman, 44, became a full-time scout with the Bills in 1987, was assigned as the Bills' representative to the BLESTO combine in 1988, and continued in that capacity through 1992. From June 1992 through Dec. 1993 he worked as a regional scout for the BLESTO combine.

He began his coaching career at Spackenkill High School in Poughkeepsie, New York as their head coach (1972-81), leading his team to a pair of league titles. He spent a year as a graduate assistant at Cal State Long Beach (1979-80). He joined the faculty at Kingston (N.Y.) High School as a teacher-coach in 1982. In 1984 he became the head football coach at Kingston High School and led his team to a playoff berth.

Born in Boston, Mass. (2/21/51), he earned a bachelor's degree from Springfield (Mass.) College in 1972 and was an offensive tackle for the football team for two seasons. He has two master's degrees: one in physical education from Southern Connecticut State (1978) and another in sports administration from St. Thomas University in Miami (1986).

David and his wife Joanne have two sons, Aaron and Sam, and they reside in Hamburg, New York.

CORNELL GREEN
College Scout / Assistant to Director of College Scouting

Cornell Green begins his 16th year scouting in the NFL and his ninth year doing so for the Broncos' organization.

An area scout for the Southwest region, Green adds to his responsibilities the role of Assistant to the Director of College Scouting this season, a change from last years additional role of Assistant Director of Player Personnel. Green will work directly with Jerry Frei in administering the operation of the club's overall college scouting process.

Prior to his involvement with the Broncos organization, Cornell scouted for the Dallas Cowboys during and after his illustrious player career.

He began scouting for the Cowboys in 1970 while still an active player, and continued scouting through 1979, at which time he entered private business until coming to the Broncos in 1987.

Green, 55, was signed by the Cowboys as a free agent and went on to play for Dallas from 1962-75, at cornerback for 10 years before moving over to safety for his last four seasons. Green earned Pro Bowl honors seven times, winning that honor at both cornerback and safety.

He did not play college football but was a two-time All-America basketball player (1959-60 and 1961-62) at Utah State, where he averaged 23 points per game at forward for the Aggies from 1959-62.

A native of Boley, Okla., Cornell and his wife Betty have two children, Randy and Ronney, and make their home in Dallas.

CHARLIE LEE
 College Scout

Charlie Lee is in his third year as an area scout for the central United States region and his 15th year with the Broncos' organization. Prior to moving to the player personnel department, Charlie spent 11 years on the administrative side of the organization as the Director of Player and Community Relations.

Lee, 50, joined the Broncos as running backs coach in 1981, coming to Denver from the University of Texas, where he coached wide receivers from 1977-80. Prior to his experience at Texas, Lee coached at Arizona from 1974-76 and at Northwest Missouri State in 1973.

He began his career as a highly successful prep coach in football and track at Kansas City (Mo.) Central High School for five years, winning five consecutive state track titles.

A native of Liberty, Mo., Lee was a leading scorer and rusher at Northern Arizona, twice earning Little All-American honorable mention honors. A 1968 graduate with a degree in education, Lee is a member of the Northern Arizona University Sports Hall of Fame.

Charlie has a son, Charles, Jr., and makes his home in Liberty, Mo.

TED SUNDQUIST
 College Scout

Ted Sundquist is in his fourth season with the Broncos organization and is beginning his first full season as a college scout.

He had spent the previous three years in the Player Personnel department as a Player Personnel Assistant, working closely with Jack Elway in opponent scouting, veteran player evaluation, development of computer scouting analysis systems and scouting the Western region.

Sundquist, 33, played collegiately at the Air Force Academy before graduating into the coaching ranks. He joined the Air Force coaching staff for the 1984 season, and returned for the 1988-91 seasons.

Along with his coaching duties Sundquist was also the head coach for the USAFA Preparatory School (1990-91) and took an active part in scouting for the Falcons.

Sundquist has also had considerable athletic experience outside of football, having been a member of the U.S. National Bobsled team from 1984-88, and competing in the Olympic Trials in that sport in '88.

The Houston, Texas, native earned his master's degree in public administration from the University of Colorado in 1992.

Ted was born May 1, 1962 in Houston, where he attended Spring Woods High School. He is single and makes his home in Denver, Colo.

DENVER'S WINNING TRADITION

Denver Broncos football enters its 36th season in 1995, and will play before sellout crowds at Mile High Stadium for the 26th consecutive campaign. The team has sold out 187 consecutive regular season non-strike games, and 196 straight including playoff games. Bronco fans have watched their team amass one of the NFL's finest records since the club's first winning season in 1973, enduring just four losing seasons, as shown in the list below.

This season also marks Pat Bowlen's 12th as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Broncos. During that time, Denver has enjoyed a virtually unmatched level of success in the context of the entire NFL and within the American Football Conference Western Division.

Birthdate – May 30, 1972
Birthplace – Houston, Texas
Residence – Missouri City, Texas
How Acquired – Draft #2, 1994
College – Houston
High School – Willowridge HS,
 Missouri City, Texas
Height – 6-1
Weight – 245
Pro Year – 2nd
Year With Broncos – 2nd

Allen Aldridge, the Broncos' top selection (2nd round) in the 1994 draft, made an immediate impact in his first year as a Bronco and looks to push for more playing time at linebacker in '95. 1994: Aldridge played in all 16 games, including two starts at left outside linebacker (9/11 at N.Y. Jets and 9/18 vs. L.A. Raiders) in place of injured starter Mike Croel. For the year, Aldridge recorded eight total tackles (1 solo), five of which came in the start at New York (1 solo).

COLLEGE: Aldridge earned All-America and All-Southwest Conference first-team honors by pre-draft publications as a senior strongside outside linebacker at Houston. He finished fourth on the team with 81 tackles (46 solo), four sacks, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He closed out his Cougar career with a Defensive MVP performance in the Blue-Gray Game. His career stats show 191 total tackles (100 solo, 91 assists), 14 sacks, 14 tackles for losses, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. Aldridge also competed on the Cougars' track team in '93, finishing third in the shot put (55'0") at the SWC Indoor Championships. His top outdoor shot put mark (56'8") came at the Texas Relays.

PERSONAL: Allen Ray Aldridge earned three letters each in football and track at Willowridge HS, Missouri City, Texas. A sports administration major at Houston, Allen is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and was a two-time "Ironman" winner in the Cougars' weight room. His father, Allen, played for the Cleveland Browns and Houston Oilers, and he also is related to former NFL defensive back Ken Houston.

Elijah Alexander moved into a starting linebacker role in 1994 in his second season with the Broncos after signing as a free agent from Tampa Bay in 1993. Alexander is expected to again challenge for one of the outside linebacker positions in '95 after starting all 16 games at linebacker a year ago. 1994: Alexander started 15 games at the right-side linebacker position and one at middle linebacker (at Buffalo, 9/26), leading the team in tackles with 172 (105 solo) in his first year as a starter. The third-year pro registered double figures in tackles in 14 of the Broncos' 16 games. His top outing in terms of total tackles came against Cleveland (10/30) when he recorded 15 (11 solo) and added two passes defended. Alexander also had 11 solos against San Diego (9/4) in his first start on opening day, and registered his only sack of the year against the Raiders (9/18) in week three. His other highlights included a fumble recovery against Cincinnati (11/27) and an interception at San Francisco (12/17). 1993: Alexander played in all 16 games in his first year as a Bronco, playing mainly on special teams. He finished the season with 10 total tackles (eight solo). 1992: Alexander was drafted in the 10th round by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and played primarily on special teams for the club. He appeared in 12 games, spending four weeks on the practice squad.

COLLEGE: Alexander was named to the All-Big Eight team his senior year as a Kansas State Wildcat. That year he led the team with five sacks and racked up 69 total tackles. For his college career, Alexander amassed 233 tackles, 10 sacks, five forced fumbles and five fumble recoveries. In 1988, he was named the team's Most Outstanding Freshman. Alexander graduated with a degree in accounting.

PERSONAL: Elijah is single and makes his home in Fort Worth, Texas. A native of Fort Worth, he was an all-district selection at tight end his senior year and was voted the Scholastic Athlete of the Year by the Fort Worth Lions Club. He lists video games and dominoes as hobbies. His full name is Elijah Alfred Alexander III.

27 STEVE ATWATER • Safety

Birthplace — Chicago, Ill.
Residence — Denver, Colo.
How Acquired — Draft #1, 1989
College — Arkansas
High School — Lutheran North HS,
 St. Louis, Mo.
Height — 6-3
Weight — 217
Pro Year — 7th
Year With Broncos — 7th

Steve Atwater earned his fifth consecutive Pro Bowl appearance in 1994 and was named the team's defensive MVP. The durable Atwater has started every game he has played in his six-year pro career. 1994: Atwater continued his stellar play in the Denver secondary despite a disappointing year for the team. He started 14 of the Broncos' 16 games at either free or strong safety and recorded 125 total tackles (72 solo). Atwater, who sat out at Los Angeles (12/11) and San Francisco (12/17) with an injured hamstring, also intercepted one pass (24-yard return), recovered two fumbles and forced one while registering eight passes defended. His two starts at free safety came on opening day against the Chargers (9/4) and at Buffalo (9/26). Atwater registered double-figures in tackles six times and posted his best numbers against the Raiders at home (9/18) with 14 tackles (11 solo). His lone interception came at Seattle (10/9) in perhaps his best overall performance. In addition to his interception that he returned 24 yards to set up Jason Elam for the Broncos' first points, Atwater recovered a fumble and returned it 17 yards to set up Denver's only touchdown in a 16-9 win. 1993: Atwater earned his fourth consecutive Pro Bowl selection and was named All-AFC (UPI and Football News). He started every game for the Broncos, leading the team in tackles with 141 (80 tackles and 61 assists). Atwater also posted one sack, two interceptions and two forced fumbles on the year. His big game came in a losing effort at San Diego (12/5), where he racked up 14 total tackles (nine solo and five assisted), which was one of six games in which he finished with double figure tackles. 1992: Atwater earned his third consecutive Pro Bowl berth in 1992, and was also named All-NFL (AP, NEA, PFW/PFWA, TSN) and All-AFC (Football News). He led the secondary and was second on the team with 151 total tackles, (73 tackles and 78 assists), and also posted two interceptions, a sack, 12 passes defended, two fumble recoveries, and two forced fumbles. Atwater sat out the season opener against the Raiders (9/6) with a sprained ankle but rebounded to post 17 total tackles in week two against the Chargers (9/13), one of nine games in which he recorded double figures in tackles. Atwater had a big game at Buffalo (12/12), recovering a fumble and intercepting a pass. 1991: In 1991 he earned his second straight Pro Bowl berth after a season in which he tied for the team lead with a career-high five interceptions and finished second on Denver's AFC-leading defense in total tackles with 150. Atwater was also named All-NFL (AP, Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Newsweekly second-team) and All-AFC (Football News, Pro Football Weekly). For the season he registered 83 tackles, 67 assists, 11 passes defended, a sack, a forced fumble, and a fumble recovery. Atwater was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Week for his performance against the Seahawks (9/15) in which he had 10 total tackles, picked off a pass, and recovered a fumble. He was in double figures in total tackles nine times that year, with a high of 14 vs. Phoenix (12/15). In post-season play Atwater had 17 total tackles and three passes defended, and he intercepted a pass vs. Houston (1/4). 1990: He made his first appearance in the Pro Bowl after a tremendous 1990 campaign in which he finished second on the Broncos' defense with 173 total tackles, including a team-high 112 solo tackles, despite missing one game due to injury. For his efforts he was also named All-NFL (College and Pro Football Newsweekly 2nd team, Newspaper Editors Association — 2nd team) and All-AFC (UPI, Football News), and was voted by his teammates as Denver's most valuable defensive player. In addition, Atwater also posted two interceptions, four passes defended, two forced fumbles, and a quarterback sack, while also registering 10 total tackles on special teams. From his strong safety position Atwater posted five of Denver's top-10 single-game tackle totals, including a personal high of 18 vs. Pittsburgh (10/14), and had 12 or more total tackles in nine games. He cemented his reputation as a hard hitter after a thunderous collision with Kansas City's Christian Okoye in a nationally televised Monday night game (9/17). Atwater sat out the game vs. Seattle (9/23) with a rib strain and saw limited action against the Chargers (12/16) after suffering torn rib cartilage early in the first half. 1989: Atwater was named NFL All-Rookie (Pro Football Weekly, College and Pro Football Newsweekly) for a fine campaign in 1989. He made an immediate impact as the Broncos' first-round pick, taking the place of former defensive captain Mike Harden at free safety and combining with strong safety Dennis Smith to form one of the NFL's most physical safety tandems. Atwater started every regular season game and led the Bronco defense with 86 first hits. He was second on the squad with 129 total tackles and also claimed three interceptions, 10 passes defended, and a fumble recovery. Atwater had two interceptions in the week three contest against the Raiders (9/24), the second setting up the game-clinching field goal. He had six games with 10 or more total tackles, including a high of 12 vs. San Diego (10/8).

COLLEGE: Atwater was a three-time All-Southwest Conference selection and two-time All-American at the University of Arkansas. He became the Razorbacks' all-time interception leader with 14 over his four active campaigns. He went to the school as a wishbone quarterback but was moved to the secondary as a redshirt freshman. Atwater closed out his college career with an appearance in the Senior Bowl, a game in which he had two interceptions.

PERSONAL: Steve and his wife Letha reside in the Denver suburb of Aurora with their two sons, Stephen Jr. and Di Andre. A native of Chicago, Ill., he was all-conference and league MVP as a wishbone quarterback at Lutheran North HS in St. Louis Mo., where he was named the school's top scholar-athlete. Steve lettered three times in football, once each in baseball and track, and four times in basketball, garnering all-league, all-district, and All-America honors in that sport. He was selected to play in the McDonald's All-Star Classic, but missed the contest due to the chicken pox. He enjoys playing pool, fishing, basketball, and bowling. Steve has been involved with the Colorado Coalition for the Homeless and plays in charity golf tournaments across the country during the off-season. Steve's cousin Mark Ingram is a wide receiver for the Green Bay Packers. His full name is Stephen Dennis Atwater.

33 ROD BERNSTINE • Running Back

Birthplace - Fairfield, Calif.
Residence - San Diego, Calif.
How Acquired - Unrestricted FA, 1993
College - Texas A&M
High School - Bryan HS, Bryan, Texas
Height - 6-3
Weight - 238
Pro Year - 9th
Year with Broncos - 3rd

Rod Bernstine enters his third season in Denver looking for a return to the productivity he showed in 1993 after missing much of last season with a severe knee injury. 1994: Bernstine started all three games he played in '94 before being placed on injured reserve during the week of the game at Seattle (10/9). He had surgery to repair his injured right knee. Bernstine started the first two games of the season, then missed game three against the Raiders (9/18) due to a hamstring injury before returning for his final start at Buffalo (9/26). Bernstine totaled 91 yards on 17 carries (5.4 average) and caught nine passes for 70 yards (7.8) out of the backfield. His top outing came on opening day against his old team, San Diego, when he rushed for 55 yards on eight carries and caught eight passes for 67 yards to account for 122 yards of total offense. 1993: Bernstine posted excellent numbers in his first year as a Denver Bronco. Even with an injury early in the team's final home game against Tampa Bay (12/26) and being placed on injured reserve that following week, Bernstine still managed to end the season with 816 rushing yards, sixth in the AFC, and 1,188 total yards, also sixth in the AFC. His most productive rushing day came at Chicago (12/18), rushing for 103 yards on 20 carries. Bernstine got his first 100-yard rushing day as a Bronco versus the Raiders (10/18), carrying a season tying high 23 times for 101 yards. Bernstine, a former tight end, also amassed 44 receptions, tying wide receiver Derek Russell for second on the team. His big receiving game came against Seattle (10/31), catching six passes for 47 yards. He also had a six-catch day versus Minnesota (11/14). For the year, Bernstine caught at least one pass in 14 of the 15 games in which he played. 1992: The 1992 season was difficult for Bernstine because of injuries. In the week seven game vs. Indianapolis (11/1/92) Bernstine rushed for 150 yards on 23 carries before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with a shoulder injury. For his efforts Bernstine was awarded AFC player of the week honors, but he was also placed on injured reserve. Prior to game seven Bernstine led the Chargers in rushing. He returned to the active roster prior to game 14 against Cincinnati (12/13/93). In the following week's game vs. the L.A. Raiders (12/20/93) he sprained his right ankle which forced him to see limited action in the season finale against Seattle (12/27/93). Bernstine's injury problems continued into the playoffs. On his first carry in the Wild Card game against Kansas City (1/2/93) he sprained his left ankle forcing him out of the contest, and he was inactive for the Divisional playoff game vs. Miami (1/10/93). 1991: In 1991 Bernstine finished second on the team and seventh in the AFC in rushing with a career-high 766 yards on 159 carries (4.8 average). He led the team in touchdowns (eight) and was second on the team in scoring (48 points). Bernstine's rushing high in 1991 was 112 yards against Kansas City (9/29), but his most impressive game may have come against Miami (12/15). In that game he rushed for 104 yards on 13 carries, scored three touchdowns, and averaged eight yards per carry, a Charger team high in 1991. 1990: The 1990 season saw Bernstine establish himself as a running back, saving his best performance for the last game of the year. In the season finale against the Raiders, he rushed 27 times for 114 yards, finishing the season with 124 carries for 589 yards, with a 4.8 yard average and 4 touchdowns. 1989: In 1989 Bernstine took his first snaps at running back but was still vital to the Charger passing game. He led the team in receptions weeks two through four with his big day being an eight-reception game against Houston (9/17/89). After suffering a sprained knee versus the Broncos (10/8/89), Bernstine was placed on injured reserve for the remainder of the season. 1988: In 1988 Bernstine played the entire year at tight end before suffering a knee injury (12/4/88). He finished the season tied for fifth on the team with 29 receptions for 340 yards. He accounted for the two longest plays from scrimmage for the team in 1988 with 57 and 59 yard catches. His big day during the 1988 season was a nine-reception game vs. San Francisco (11/27/88) which was a team high in the 1988 season. 1987: Bernstine was drafted by San Diego as a tight end with the 24th pick in the 1987 draft. He spent the 1987 season as an understudy to Kellen Winslow catching four passes for 31 yards, including a 10-yard touchdown pass from Dan Fouts against Cleveland (11/1). Bernstine showed his toughness on special teams and his teammates rewarded his efforts by voting him the Chargers' Outstanding Rookie of the Year.

COLLEGE: Bernstine converted from fullback to tight end in his junior year at Texas A&M. He led all tight ends nationally in receptions with 65 and finished eighth overall in receptions in his senior year. He participated in the Hula and Senior Bowls along with being named first team All-Southwest Conference and All-America in 1986.

PERSONAL: Rod and his wife Stephanie have one child, Payton (10/28/92), and the family resides in San Diego, Calif. He played his high school football at Bryan HS in Texas, where he was a three time All-District selection and was listed in Texas Football's Top 30. He was chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis 1989 Read-a-thon and now serves on the Board for Home of Guiding Hands which helps the mentally retarded. His full name is Rod Earl Bernstine.

Ronnie Bradford has been a valued member of the Broncos' secondary in his first two seasons, contributing mainly in nickel situations, and will challenge for a starting spot in 1995. 1994: Bradford played in 12 games and was inactive for four (at L.A. Rams 11/6, vs. Seattle 11/13, vs. Atlanta 11/20 and vs. Cincinnati 11/27). His top outing came at Buffalo (9/26) when he recorded seven tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended. Bradford registered his lone sack of the season - and first of his career - in the final game of the season vs. New Orleans (12/24). He finished the season with 27 tackles (18 solo), one sack (-8) and five passes defended. 1993: Bradford was signed as a free agent by the Broncos after being drafted in the fourth round by the Miami Dolphins and released by the team in their 1993 training camp. Bradford made a key interception versus Kansas City (12/12), stopping a Chief drive and setting up a Jason Elam field goal that cut the Chiefs' lead to four early in the contest. The following week at Chicago (12/18), Bradford earned his first start.

COLLEGE: Bradford was a four year-letterman and two-year starter at the University of Colorado, where he played with Gibbs, son of Broncos offensive line coach Alex Gibbs. He was an honorable mention All-America (Football News) and first-team All-Big Eight (Coaches) as a senior. His blocked extra point helped push Colorado to a 10-9 win over Notre Dame in the 1991 Orange Bowl, giving the Buffaloes a national title. Bradford racked up 53 solo tackles, 21 assists, three interceptions and two fumble recoveries for his career. He was a communications major at Colorado.

PERSONAL: Ronnie is single and resides in Boulder, Colo. He was an All-America honorable mention (USA Today) as a senior at Adams City HS in Commerce City, CO. As a senior Ronnie finished the year with four interceptions, 14 passes defended, two fumble recoveries and a blocked field goal. His full name is Ronald L. Bradford.

Tyrone Braxton returns to Denver for his ninth NFL season after spending last year in Miami following seven seasons with the Broncos. 1994: Braxton played in all 16 games for a Miami team that advanced to the AFC Divisional Playoff before falling to San Diego. He recorded six tackles and two interceptions during the season, playing in nickel situations and on special teams. Braxton was signed by the Dolphins as an unrestricted free agent from Denver May 13, 1994, and was a teammate in Miami of current Bronco Aaron Craver. 1993: Braxton started all 16 games for the Broncos, his fifth straight season as the team's starting left cornerback. He finished second on the team in total tackles with 111 (79 solo), intercepted three passes for 37 yards in returns, had a team-high 19 passes defended, recovered two fumbles and forced two as well. 1992: Braxton started all 16 games at left corner and led the team with 16 passes defended, 99 tackles (56 solo) and two interceptions. He played well in week two against San Diego (9/13), notching 11 tackles and four passes defensed. 1991: Braxton made a successful comeback from a knee injury that caused him to miss most of the 1990 campaign. He started at left corner and marked his return by intercepting a pass for a touchdown in the season-opener vs. Cincinnati (9/1). Braxton recorded 92 total tackles (57 solo), 12 passes defended, four interceptions, a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery in regular season play. He had a big game against New England (12/1), posting six tackles, three passes defended and a sack. In postseason play, Braxton had 14 tackles (7 solo) and intercepted a pass in the AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/12). 1990: Braxton tore the medial collateral ligament in his right knee in the third game of the season and underwent surgery, thus ending his season. Up to that point he had registered 17 total tackles, an interception and two passes defended. 1989: Braxton had a tremendous campaign in his third NFL season, playing cornerback for the first time in his career. He started every game for the Broncos and ranked sixth in the AFC with a team-leading six interceptions, while also pacing Denver's defense with 14 passes defended. In regular season play Braxton posted 111 total tackles (77 solo), two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He helped set the tone for the Broncos' defensive resurgence that season when on opening day vs. Kansas City (9/10) he intercepted a pass on the Chiefs' first play from scrimmage and returned it 34 yards for a touchdown. Braxton also set up a Denver touchdown with a 35-yard fumble return against Washington (11/20), and racked up 12 tackles and an interception at Seattle (10/22). 1988: Braxton had a good season as one of the leaders on Denver's special teams and as a reserve defensive back. He closed that campaign with a total of 49 tackles (38 solo), five passes defended, two interceptions, a fumble recovery and a quarterback sack. 1987: Braxton played in the final two regular season games and all three postseason contests, spending the first 13 weeks of the season on injured reserve with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason. He played primarily on special teams in the regular season, then posted five total tackles (3 solo) in the postseason. The rookie was named Denver's special teams most valuable player for his performance in the divisional playoff game vs. Houston (1/10). Braxton was Denver's 12th-round draft pick in 1987, the second-to-last player taken.

COLLEGE: Braxton was a defensive back and punt return specialist at North Dakota State, earning all-conference honors as a senior after posting 128 tackles, an interception, and two fumble recoveries. As a junior he led the conference with five interceptions and a punt return average of 15.0, earning him second-team all-conference honors. Braxton was a member of the North Central Conference champion outdoor 400-meter relay squad that competed in the national championship.

PERSONAL: Tyrone and his wife Elizabeth reside in the Denver suburb of Englewood. A native of Madison, Wisc., he attended James Madison Memorial HS there, and was named all-conference in football as a senior. He lettered twice each in football and basketball and once in track. Tyrone majored in physical education, enjoys fishing in his spare time and once had a job as a gravedigger. Tyrone is a relative of the late Jim Braxton, a former offensive lineman for the Buffalo Bills. His full name is Tyrone Scott Braxton.

Jeff Campbell looks to find playing time at wide receiver as he enters his second season with the club. 1994: Campbell saw most of his playing time as a holder on field goal and PAT attempts, but also returned kickoffs and played wide receiver, making one start at that position vs. Atlanta (11/20). He made his only catch of the season in that game, a 22-yarder from John Elway for a touchdown. Campbell totaled 24 yards on three kick returns, including a long of 11 yards at San Francisco (12/17). With Campbell holding, Jason Elam successfully converted 29 of 29 point-after attempts and 30 of 37 field goals. 1993: Campbell came to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent after playing his entire career with the Detroit Lions. His playing time fell in '93 due to the Lions' use of a tight end. He played in 10 games with two-reception days at New England (9/12) and at Tampa Bay (10/3). Campbell finished the season with seven receptions for 55 yards. 1992: Campbell bounced back from injuries he suffered in 1991, beginning the season as a backup. His big reception came on a 78-yard scoring toss versus Tampa Bay (10/25), his longest career reception. Campbell made his first start versus Green Bay (11/1), catching a season high three passes for 29 yards. Campbell missed three games toward the end of the season with an ankle injury. He finished the year with eight receptions for 155 yards and one touchdown, returning for the final two regular season games. 1991: Campbell won a starting assignment in the season opener at Washington (9/1), but left the game with a back injury that forced him to miss the next two contests. He played in the remainder of the regular season games upon his return, catching his first pass of the season, a 21-yard reception from Rodney Peete, in the week seven matchup at San Francisco (10/20). Campbell finished the year with two receptions for 49 yards. He sustained a knee injury in preparation for the playoffs that kept him out of both playoff contests. 1990: Campbell made his first career reception at Minnesota (10/7), a 29-yard reception. He drew his first career start versus Minnesota (11/11), making a team-high four receptions for 53 yards, including an 18-yard touchdown reception. He had a career-high seven receptions at the New York Giants (11/18) for 33 yards. For the year Campbell finished with 19 receptions for 236 yards and two touchdowns. Campbell was drafted in the fifth-round by Detroit, 118th overall.

COLLEGE: Campbell's weaving and spinning style propelled him to Colorado's career school record with 904 punt return yards, and he also tied the school mark with 84 punt returns. He finished his collegiate career with 28 receptions for 802 yards (28.6 avg.) and one touchdown. He also had some success in the rushing department, gaining 439 yards on 23 carries (19.1 avg.). As a senior Campbell earned All-Big Eight honors as a return specialist and was selected to the second team as a receiver. He was also an All-America honorable mention by The Sporting News. Campbell owns the school record with a 90-yard TD catch. Campbell graduated with a degree in sociology.

PERSONAL: Jeff is single and makes his offseason home in Denver. He was a four-year letterman in football, hockey and track at Battle Mountain HS in Vail, Colo. He was a two-time state champion in the 100 and 200-meter dashes, and ranked among the top 25 prep hockey players in the country.

Year with Broncos – 1st

Aaron Craver was signed as a free agent from the Miami Dolphins and is expected to be an integral part of the Broncos offense in 1995. Craver is an elusive runner with excellent hands who will complement the Broncos' new offensive scheme. 1994: Craver played in eight games for Miami with six rushing attempts for 43 yards and 24 receptions for 237 yards. He also had two carries for 13 yards and six receptions for 43 yards in two playoff games. He tied for the team lead in receptions three times and led the team in receiving yardage once. Craver played all five preseason games before being waived Aug. 28. He was re-signed by Miami when Terry Kirby was placed on injured reserve with a knee injury (9/26). Craver made his 1994 Dolphin debut in a special teams role at Cincinnati (10/2). Craver was waived again when the Dolphins signed Cleveland Gary (10/4). He was then re-signed by Miami when Keith Byars was placed on injured reserve with a knee injury (11/9). Craver's 13-yard run at Pittsburgh (11/20) was the longest of his career. He set two other career highs against Buffalo (12/4) seven receptions for 67 yards. He tied for the team lead in receptions with five for 55 yards against Kansas City, including a 28-yarder that was the longest reception of his career. He matched his career high in reception yardage against Detroit on Christmas Day with 67 yards on five catches. Craver was second on the team with four catches for 35 yards – including a career-long 15-yarder – in an AFC Wild Card Game against Kansas City (12/31). In the AFC Divisional Playoff game at San Diego (1/8) he had one carry for 10 yards and two receptions for eight yards. Craver was a teammate of current Bronco Tyrone Braxton in Miami. 1993: Craver suffered a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee in practice Aug. 10. He was placed on injured reserve Aug. 23 after undergoing reconstructive knee surgery by Dr. Peter Indelicato. 1992: Craver played in six regular season games and both playoff games. He had three carries for nine yards and added eight kickoff returns for 174 yards (21.8-yard average) and a long of 44 yards against Seattle (9/27). He posted his longest run of eight yards against Buffalo (10/4). He suffered a hamstring injury versus New England (10/18) and was placed on injured reserve Oct. 21. Craver was activated from IR Jan. 7 and ended up the second-leading rusher for Miami in the playoffs with 85 yards and one touchdown on 10 carries. He also had three catches for 28 yards. He had the best game of his career against San Diego (1/10) in an AFC Divisional Playoff game by leading the team in rushing with a career-high 72 yards on eight carries with one touchdown on a career-long 25-yard run. He also had one reception for 13 yards. In the AFC Championship Game against Buffalo (1/17) he had 13 yards on two carries and two receptions for 15 yards. He also returned four kicks for 48 yards. 1991: Craver played in 14 games as a rookie, finishing third on the Dolphins in rushing with 20 carries for 58 yards and a touchdown and also added eight receptions for 67 yards. He finished 11th in the AFC in kick returns with an average of 19.2 yards per return. He saw action on special teams in his NFL debut at Buffalo (9/1) and returned four kickoffs for 65 yards. He had 11 carries for 37 yards and his first NFL touchdown with a seven-yard run against Indianapolis (9/8). He had a 49-yard kick return at New England (10/6), which was the longest return by a Dolphin in over two years. He was a third-round draft choice (60th overall) of Miami in 1991.

COLLEGE: Craver was a two-year starter at Fresno State after transferring from El Camino Junior College. He finished his Bulldog career with 449 rushes for 2,251 yards (5.0 average) and 26 touchdowns. He added 57 receptions for 421 yards (7.2) and two scores. He was named All-Big West Conference as a senior when he rushed for 1,003 yards on 224 catches (4.5) and 17 touchdowns, had 34 catches for 259 yards, and returned three kicks for 60 yards. Craver became the first player in school history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in consecutive seasons, as he had gained 1,248 yards with nine TDs on 225 carries as a junior (all school records), earning him honorable mention All-America honors from The Sporting News. He was also selected first-team All-Big West that season as he added 23 receptions for 162 yards (7.0) and one score. Craver also set school records for consecutive 100-yard rushing games (four) and most 100-yard rushing games in a season (eight). Craver spent the 1987-88 seasons at El Camino Junior College, joining school there two years after graduating from high school. From 1985-86 he coached basketball, football and baseball at a local park in Compton, Calif. He originally planned to attend El Camino to play baseball but suffered an ankle injury during tryouts and decided to switch to football. He carried 285 times for 1,355 yards (4.8) and 14 touchdowns in two seasons at El Camino. He was named first-team All-Mission Conference as a sophomore in 1988 when he carried 181 times for 845 yards (4.7) and 12 TDs. He also had 10 catches for 121 yards and 15 kickoff returns for 510 yards (34.0), including a 96-yard score. As a freshman he carried 104 times for 510 yards (4.9) with a pair of scores. He was a liberal arts major.

PERSONAL: Aaron and his wife Dawn (6/29/91) reside in Compton, Calif., with their son Jalen and daughter Kyndol. As a child Craver suffered from asthma attacks that limited his involvement in outdoor sports until he was 10. Instead of sports, Aaron concentrated on academics and skipped the sixth grade to jump directly into junior high school. Craver has been a life-saver on and off the field, as in April 1991 at a pre-draft workout, he administered emergency first aid to Dallas Cowboys running backs coach Joe Brodsky. Craver put warmup clothing under Brodsky's head and pinched his jaw to keep him from swallowing his tongue. Craver learned first aid in a public health course took at Fresno State. He is one of six children. He lists his favorite movie as "Scarface", his favorite book as "Misery" and favorite television show as "Fresh Prince of Bel Air". He also enjoys playing pool and bowling in his spare time. His full name is Aaron Larenze Craver.

Ray Crockett joined the Broncos during the 1994 offseason as an unrestricted free agent from the Detroit Lions and immediately stepped in as a starter at right cornerback. He is expected to compete for a starting role on the left side this year with the addition of Lionel Washington. 1994: Crockett started all 14 games in which he played at right cornerback, missing two games with a sprained ankle (at Seattle 10/9 and vs. Kansas City 10/17) suffered in the Broncos' 27-20 loss at Buffalo (9/26). He finished the season with 70 tackles (48 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (6 yards in returns), led the team in passes defended with 20 and scooped up two fumbles. He posted his season high in tackles with 10 (6 solo) in the Broncos' 20-17 overtime win at Kansas City (12/4). Crockett pulled down his first interception in a Denver uniform at San Diego (10/23) and recorded his second against Cincinnati (11/27) to set up a Broncos' score. Among his other highlights was a fumble recovery against the Raiders (9/18) that he returned 43 yards before being tackled inside the Raiders' 10-yard line, setting up a Denver score. 1993: Crockett finished the season with 68 tackles (57 solo), two interceptions, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery for Detroit. In Crockett's five seasons in the NFC he earned the reputation as one of the game's most physical cornerbacks. 1992: Crockett was slowed early in the season by injuries, but had a good outing versus Minnesota (9/13). He finished the game with a pass interception and four tackles (three solo). Two weeks later versus Tampa Bay he picked off his second pass of the season, and was credited with four tackles. His best all-around performance came versus Chicago, where he recorded a sack, intercepted a pass, and made five solo tackles. He ended the season with 52 tackles (41 solo), four interceptions, one forced and one recovered fumble. 1991: Crockett tied for the NFC lead and finished second in the NFL in interceptions with six. His interception return of 96 yards was the NFL's longest of the season, Crockett's 141 return yards were the most by a Lion since 1967. He was named Defensive Player of the Week after recording a team-high eight tackles and the 96-yard interception return versus the Dallas Cowboys (10/27). Crockett finished the year with 86 tackles (74 solo), six interceptions and one forced fumble. 1990: Crockett finished second on the team in interceptions with three. He played primarily in nickel situations, earning his first start against the Broncos on Thanksgiving Day (11/22). Crockett finished the game with five solo tackles and an interception. His best game came at Green Bay, finishing with eight tackles, one interception, and a fumble return for a touchdown. For the season Crockett's numbers were 59 tackles (53 solo), three interceptions, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. 1989: Crockett played as a nickel back in all 16 contests, finishing the season with 46 tackles (34 solo), one interception and one forced fumble. He was drafted by Detroit in the fourth round of the 1989 NFL draft, 86th overall.

COLLEGE: Crockett finished his four-year career at Baylor with 169 tackles (120 solo), five interceptions and seven tackles for loss. He also returned five punts as a junior for 30 yards and earned first-team All-Southwest Conference honors with 62 tackles on the year and 13 passes defended. He also lettered in track. Crockett received his B.A. degree in May, 1992, in computer science.

PERSONAL: Ray was a first-team all-district choice at Duncanville (Texas) HS and was named to the Dallas Morning News' All-Academic team as an A student. He earned all-state honors as a tailback and cornerback, and also earned all-state honors in track for Duncanville. Ray is very active in several communities, hosting the Ray Crockett/Barry Foster Celebrity Golf Tournament in Dallas to benefit Ronald McDonald Children's Charities. During the offseason he regularly speaks to children on behalf of a "Stay in School" program in the Dallas area, then hosts a free football camp for the kids. Ray is a Iso a United Way volunteer, and his hobbies include basketball, music and bowling. His full name is Donald Ray Crockett.

Shane Dronett continued to have a nose for the ball in his third professional season with the Broncos, starting 15 games at the left defensive end position and blocking a team-record four field goals. 1994: Dronett played in all 16 games and made 15 starts. His only non-start came at Buffalo (9/26) when the Broncos started an extra linebacker in place of the left defensive end. He finished the season with 63 total tackles (39 solo), six sacks for 35 yards lost (second-best on the team), five passes defended and one fumble recovery in addition to a team-record four blocked field goals. The first came against Seattle (11/13) when he got his hand in front of a John Kasay 56-yard attempt and caused it to fall well short of the goal. His next came at Kansas City (12/4) when he thwarted Lin Elliot's 37-yard attempt as time expired, sending the game into overtime en route to a Broncos' victory. Dronett then blocked two Morton Andersen attempts in the season-finale against New Orleans. He posted his best numbers at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) with nine total tackles (7 solo) and three sacks for 18 yards lost. He also had one sack at San Diego (10/23), one against Seattle (11/13) and one at San Francisco (12/17). 1993: Dronett made two interceptions (Green Bay 10/10 and Chicago 12/18), one behind the team leaders, and racked up seven sacks with five passes defended. He finished the year with 49 total tackles, 32 solo. Dronett's interception at Chicago stopped a Bear drive deep in Bronco territory early in the second quarter. He also had a two-sack performance versus Seattle (10/31) and at Cleveland (11/7), finishing the year with seven total. 1992: Dronett had an impressive NFL debut in 1992, playing well enough to move into the starting lineup for the final two games of the campaign. He closed out the season third on the team with 6.5 sacks, while also posting 30 tackles, 23 assists, five passes defended, two fumble recoveries, and a forced fumble. Midway through the season he had two sacks against the Jets (11/8) and the following week forced and recovered a fumble against the Giants (11/15).

COLLEGE: Dronett was a first-team All-American and a two-time all-conference choice during his sterling career at the University of Texas. A consensus All-Southwest Conference player as a junior, Dronett posted 72 tackles (44 solo), 25 quarterback pressures, four blocked kicks, four forced fumbles, and nine passes broken up before declaring himself eligible for the NFL Draft. Dronett became a starter at left defensive end as a freshman with the Longhorns.

PERSONAL: Shane is single and has a daughter, Berkley (8/31/92). He makes his offseason home in his native Orange, Texas, where he attended Bridge City HS. He was a second-team Class 4A all-state selection as a tight end, earning third-team honors on the Texas Sportswriters' Super All-State squad. He was rated the best tight end prospect overall by the Austin American-Statesman, closing out his career with an appearance in a Texas all-star game in which he played against Tommy Maddox. Shane was a pre-business major at Texas.

1 JASON ELAM • Kicker

Birthplace – Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.
Residence – Snellville, Ga.
College – Hawaii
High School – Brookwood HS, Snellville, Ga.
Height – 5-11
Weight – 192
Pro Year – 3rd
Year with Broncos – 3rd

Jason Elam had another strong year in 1994, establishing himself as one of the most consistent and accurate place kickers in the NFL. In his first two seasons he has successfully converted 56 of 72 field goal attempts (.778), the fifth-best percentage among all NFL placekickers during that time span. In addition, his numbers inside 40 yards (40-41, .976) rank second in the NFL. 1994: Elam matched his rookie total of 119 points scored (fourth on the Broncos' all-time single-season scoring list) and set a Broncos record for successful field goals in a season with 30 (37 attempts). He also was a perfect 29-for-29 on point-after attempts, giving him a two-year accuracy of .986 (70-of-71). His two-year field-goal percentage of .778 ranks him second on the Broncos' all-time career list, just behind David Treadwell (.779 from 1989-92). His accuracy on kicks inside 40 yards was impeccable in '94, as he converted 22-of-22 kicks within that distance. Elam tied his NFL-long and the fourth-best kick in Broncos history with a 54-yard field goal at San Diego (10/23). He accounted for nine of the Broncos' 15 points in a 15-13 win over Cincinnati (11/27) by converting 3-of-5 attempts (34 yards, 33 and 37). He also connected for three field goals at New York (3-for-3) and at Seattle (3-for-4). Elam had just one field goal attempt blocked, a 50-yard attempt against Atlanta (11/20). 1993: Elam showed his leg strength on several long field goals during the 1993 season. His 119 points (fourth-highest figure in Bronco history) placed him fourth in the AFC and seventh in the NFL. Elam was successful on 4 of 6 field goal attempts longer than 50 yards. His 54-yarder in the week two game versus San Diego (9/12) was the fourth-longest in team history. That came one week after he tied for the third-best single game performance at the New York Jets (9/5) in the season opener. In that game he went 4-4. For the year Elam made 26 field goals, tying for fourth-best in team history.

COLLEGE: Elam was a superb combination kicker in college, holding virtually every school and conference scoring record at the University of Hawaii. He finished his career with 79 field goals, just one shy of the NCAA record held by Jeff Jaeger (80). Elam holds the Western Athletic Conference scoring record with 395 points, and made 30 of 43 field goals of 40 yards or more. Elam finished his collegiate career with a 79.0 field goal percentage, connecting on 79 of 100 attempts, with his longest being a 56-yarder. He finished 157 of 160 in PATs for the Rainbows. As a senior Elam was selected first-team All-America (Kodak and The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft) and was first-team All-WAC. He made 16 of 25 field goals and 44 extra points, finishing with 92 points for the season. He also finished his collegiate career with a 43.5-yard average on 84 punts. Elam was a communication major.

PERSONAL: Jason is single and makes his off-season home in Snellville, Ga. He was first-team all-county and second-team all-state at Brookwood HS in Snellville, Ga., where he also lettered in swimming and track.

7 JOHN ELWAY • Quarterback

Birthdate – June 28, 1960
Birthplace – Port Angeles, Wash.
Residence – Englewood, Colo.
How Acquired – Trade with Balt., 1983
College – Stanford
High School – Granada Hills HS,
 Los Angeles, Calif.
Height – 6-3
Weight – 215
Pro Year – 13th
Year with Broncos – 13th

John Elway comes into his 13th NFL season after a 1994 campaign in which he further solidified his position as one of the game's all-time greats, going over the 40,000-yard mark in career total offense as well as posting his ninth 3,000-yard passing campaign (second only to Dan Marino's 10 in NFL history). He now has 40,406 yards of total offense, sixth-best all-time (in fewer seasons of play than all but Marino among those in the top five slots), for his magnificent Hall of Fame-caliber career.

All-Time Pro Football Total Offense Leaders

Fran Tarkenton	50,677 (47,003 passing / 3,674 rushing)
Dan Marino	45,272 (45,173 passing / 99 rushing)
Dan Fouts	43,516 (43,040 passing / 476 rushing)
Joe Montana	42,225 (40,551 passing / 1,674 rushing)
Johnny Unitas	42,016 (40,239 passing / 1,777 rushing)
John Elway	40,406 (37,736 passing / 2,670 rushing)

Elway's numerous honors include being named NFL Most Valuable Player in 1987 and AFC Player of the Year in 1993. He earned his fourth Pro Bowl berth in 1994, following selections in 1986, 1987 and 1993. He has been named the Broncos' offensive most valuable player by his teammates eight times in his career (1985-88 and 1991-94), and has been named the AFC Offensive Player of the Week 11 times.

During Elway's era (1983-94), he has spurred his team on to three victories in four AFC Championships games, five AFC Western Division titles, and six playoff berths, including the most recent, a Wild Card spot in 1993. Elway comes into 1995 with 37,736 career passing yards (sixth-best all-time) and is just 3,111 yards away from the third-highest total offense figure in NFL history. In addition, he has 2,670 rushing yards in his career (fifth among all-time quarterbacks and fourth among all-time Bronco rushers, with Pro Bowlers Floyd Little, Sammy Winder and Otis Armstrong the only Broncos to have rushed for more yards).

Elway has accounted for 226 touchdowns as a pro, 199 passing and 26 rushing, as well as one on a pass reception. He has generated 3,296 career points in regular season play. For his career, he has directed Denver to scores in better than three in 10 drives (31.1%). He holds or is tied for 20 regular season Bronco records, including most touchdown passes (199), highest average gain per rush (4.5), and lowest career interception avoidance percentage (.033).

In a record that possibly will never be broken, Elway is the only player ever to pass for 3,000 yards and rush for 200 yards in the same year for seven straight seasons (1985-91). No other quarterback ever has put together more than four straight 3,000/200 seasons, and 1994 was Elway's eighth overall. In his career, Elway twice has had over 4,000 yards of total offense (1985 and 1993).

Elway has engineered 34 fourth-quarter, come-from-behind drives, the highest career total documented for any quarterback, and the team has a record of 33-0-1 in the contests. Those games include 27 fourth-quarter, game-winning drives and seven fourth-quarter, game-tying drives (See complete listing of drives beginning on page 73).

Elway now is 112-72-1 (.608) as a starting quarterback but can claim a 108-66-1 (.620) mark since taking over as the permanent starter in the first game of 1984. He is pro football's winningest quarterback in total wins from 1984-94 (108). Elway has a home record of 66-21 (.759) at Mile High Stadium from 1984-94, the best of any NFL quarterback in that time frame. One of the most durable NFL quarterbacks ever, Elway has started 1,967 drives as a pro, and has been replaced just six times due to injury (that's 0.0033 percent, or three times in 1,000). In his 12 seasons, he has missed just eight starts due to injury.

He has completed 54 passes of 50 or more yards as a Bronco and has 24 regular season (27 overall) 300-yard passing games, including four last year, all in the regular season. He has had 39 overall games with 300 or more yards of total offense and Denver is 21-17-1 in those contests.

1994: John Elway earned his fourth AFC Pro Bowl berth last year, showing all the skills that mark him as an all-time great despite a very disappointing season for the Broncos. He missed two of the last three games of the season (at Los Angeles and vs. New Orleans) due to a strained left knee. He finished the season second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in passer rating with an 85.7, and his other season stats and rankings show 3,490 yards on 494 attempts and 307 completions, with a 2.0 interception percentage, all figures ranking third in the AFC. His 62.1 completion percentage was second in the AFC and sixth overall. Elway went over the 3,000-yard mark for the season (his ninth 3,000-yard campaign, second only to Dan Marino's 10 in NFL history), and Elway also went over the 40,000-yard mark in total offense last year. He rushed for 235 yards (second on the team and marking his ninth 200-yard season), giving him a season total offense figure of 3,725 in the 14 games he played. Elway enjoyed the third-best passing yardage day of his career vs. Atlanta (27 of 42 for 382 yards), and that was his second-best regular season yardage total ever, standing as his all-time high at Mile High Stadium. He had two games with over 350 passing yards last year (Elway threw for 371 vs. the Chargers on opening day). Last year Elway scored four rushing touchdowns, marking the third time in his career to have four or more scores on the ground (six in 1991 and four in 1987). Elway completed 30 of 41 (73%) for 349 yards vs. Cleveland, including two touchdowns, an effort that resulted in his being named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for the 11th time in his storied career. He set a new Denver record with 36 completions vs. San Diego on opening day, the

ELWAY NAMED 1992 EDGE NFL MAN OF THE YEAR

John Elway was named the 1992 Edge NFL Man of the Year for his work with the Elway Foundation, a non-profit organization which has raised over $1,000,000 that was directed toward the prevention and treatment of child abuse throughout Colorado.

Among the groups assisted by the Elway Foundation are Family Focus and the Kempe Children's Foundation. The Elway Foundation in 1991 alone raised over $400,000.

Elway is also a member of the Mayor's Council on Physical Fitness and has served as chairman of the National Kidney Foundation for the Rocky Mountain region.

The Edge NFL Man of the Year award is truly unique in that it is the only league-sponsored award that recognizes a player's off-the-field community service work as well as his playing excellence. Perhaps the most prestigious of all NFL awards, it has been in existence since 1970.

20th all-time Denver record to be held by Elway. A sign of the Broncos' 1994 frustrations is seen in the fact that last year he became the first quarterback in NFL history to have three interceptions returned for touchdowns in the first three games of the season.

1993: Elway was named AFC Most Valuable Player (NFL Players Association), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI, and the Kansas City 101 Club), and AFC Player of the Year (Football News) in 1993. Elway performed at an MVP-pace all year, earning all-AFC (UPI, Football News) and second-team all-NFL (AP, College and Pro Football Newsweekly, and Football Digest), and he was the starting quarterback in the 1994 Pro Bowl after a regular season that saw him lead the AFC in all six major quarterback stats categories. Elway's 1993 stats and rankings included a 92.8 rating (first in the AFC, third in the NFL), 551 attempts (first in the entire NFL), 348 completions (first in the entire NFL), a 63.2 completion percentage (first in the AFC and third in the NFL), 25 TD passes (first in the AFC and second in the NFL), 4,030 yards (first in the AFC). Elway's 1.8 interception avoidance percentage was fourth in the AFC, but stands as the best in Denver history for any quarterback with more than 75 single-season attempts. In 1993 he set new personal and Denver records for total yards offensively (4,183), completions (348), passing yards (4,030), TD passes (25), and completion percentage (that 63.2 mark tied the figure set by Norris Weese in 1978). Nineteen ninety-three was Elway's first 4,000-yard season and his eighth 3,000-yard season. He also rushed for 153 yards. Elway was named the AFC Offensive Player of the Week twice and was named by his teammates as Denver's offensive MVP. In the regular season finale at Los Angeles he had his second highest passing yardage figure of the year (361), his third 300-yard game of the campaign, throwing three TD passes. His 382 yards of total offense in that same Raiders' game marked the sixth best Bronco figure in team history. Elway completed over 60% of his passes in 11 of the 16 games. At San Diego in game 12 (Dec. 5) his streak of consecutive games with at least one TD pass ended at 12 (it had begun with a TD pass in the last game of the 1992 campaign, and it ended one game short of his personal best of 13 straight), and he twice had long single-game completion streaks (Elway completed 13 straight passes vs. Minnesota on Nov. 14 and hit on 10 straight at Seattle Nov. 28). That streak of 13 straight completions is Denver's second highest single-game total ever. Elway had 30 completions against the Vikings, one of two 30-completion games in 1993 for Elway. Elway at Green Bay (Oct. 10) set personal bests for attempts (59, a new team record), completions (33, the second highest ever by a Bronco), and set a new team record with 64 total plays from scrimmage, including 59 passes and five rushes. In addition, Elway's 394 yards of total offense at Green Bay were the fourth highest ever by a Bronco, and the second highest ever by Elway (he had 432 at Seattle 12/20/85). Elway utilized no fewer than six receivers in any game, with the high being nine on opening day vs. the Jets (Sept. 5). He threw TD passes to eight different receivers in 1993.

1992: Elway completed 174 of 316 passes for 2,242 yards, with 10 touchdowns and 17 interceptions. He gained 94 yards and scored twice on 34 rushing attempts. He missed games 11 through 14 because of a bruised tendon in his right shoulder, suffered while running for a first down against the Giants (11/15). Elway earned two AFC Offensive Player of the Week honors last year, grabbing the first one for his performance on opening day. Against the Raiders (9/6) he drove Denver 85 yards in seven plays to score the winning points with 55 seconds left, a score set up by a 48-yard pass to Arthur Marshall. His second player-of-the-week honors came after he threw two touchdown passes in the final two minutes to give Denver a 20-19 victory over Kansas City (10/4). Elway passed for 311 yards in that game, his only 300-yard effort of the season. In week two against San Diego (9/13) Elway threw two TD passes and scored on an eight-yard run. Against the Jets (11/8) he threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Arthur Marshall, his longest regular season TD pass ever. He turned in a sterling performance against Houston (10/18), directing a three-play, 80-yard drive for the winning score with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

1991: Elway completed 242 of 351 passes for 3,253 yards, a total ranked sixth in the AFC and ninth in the NFL. He threw 12 touchdown passes and tied a career low with just 12 interceptions. He had 36 pass completions of 20+ yards, nine of 40+, five of 50+, and four of 60+. Elway was third on the team with 258 yards rushing, and his six TDs led the team and set a new career single season high. He was bothered throughout the second half of the season by a shoulder problem that was corrected by arthroscopic surgery in the 1992 offseason.

Against Cincinnati in the season opener (9/1), Elway threw for 262 yards and two touchdowns, scored two rushing TDs, and caught a 24-yard pass from Steve Sewell. Against Kansas City (10/20) he combined with Mark Jackson for a 71-yard gain on a fourth-and-13 play to set up the winning field goal. Elway had his only 300-yard passing performance of the year in Denver's loss at Houston (10/6), with 301 yards. His heroics were never more evident than in the Broncos' 26-24 Divisional Playoff Game victory over Houston (1/4). He rallied Denver from a 21-6 deficit, and on a drive in which he completed a fourth-down pass to Michael Young for a first down, he drove his team to a touchdown to cut the Oilers' lead to one point at 24-23. Houston's next drive stalled but a punt gave the Broncos the ball on the two. Twice Elway converted fourth down plays, first on a seven-yard run and later with a 44-yard pass to Vance Johnson, to set up Denver's winning field goal. For the game Elway completed 19 of 33 passes for 257 yards, with one TD and one interception, and rushed six times for 39 yards. In the AFC Championship Game loss at Buffalo (1/12) he completed 11 of 21 passes for 121 yards and an interception before having to leave the game in the fourth quarter with a thigh injury.

1990: Elway completed 294 of 502 passes in 1990, (a .586 completion percentage that stands as the highest of his career), for 3,526 yards, 15 touchdowns, and 14 interceptions. He gained 258 yards on 50 rushing attempts and scored three touchdowns on the ground. Elway turned in several gutsy performances last season, and played some of his best games in the midst of Denver's six game losing streak, including a 328-yard, two-TD performance at Kansas City (12/9). That performance was his 17th career 300-yard game and the 27th time in which he totaled over 300 yards of total offense. Denver is 18-8-1 in those games. Elway had three of his top six career completion percentages in 1990, with a high of .800 at Minnesota (11/4), and also tied his personal single game completion mark with 30 vs. Seattle (9/23). Elway and wide receiver Vance Johnson combined on Denver's most memorable play of the season when on fourth and 10 against Kansas City (9/17) they connected on a 49-yard pass that set up a last second game-winning field goal attempt. He also set a new regular season rushing high with a mark of 52 yards against the Raiders (12/2).

1989: Elway in 1989 led Denver to its third AFC Championship in four years. He completed 223 of 416 passes for 3,051 yards, with 18 touchdowns and 18 interceptions, and he rushed for 244 yards on 48 carries, scoring three times. Elway had one 300-yard passing game in the regular season, passing for 344 yards and two TDs in the Broncos' overtime win at Seattle (10/22). He led Denver to a 38-0 halftime lead against the Seahawks (11/26) after passing for 217 yards and four TDs. In the divisional playoff game vs. Pittsburgh (1/7/90) Elway completed 12 of 20 passes for 239 yards, including completions of 51 and 37 yards, and rushed for 44 yards, with one run of 32 yards. He had one of the best performances of his career in the AFC Championship Game against Cleveland (1/14), totaling over 300 yards total offense for the third time in a conference title game. He completed 20 of 36 passes for 385 yards and three TDs. Elway combined with Michael Young on a 70-yard scoring play, completed a 43-yard pass to Steve Sewell, threw a 39-yard TD pass to Sammy Winder, and gained 25 of his 39 rushing yards on one play. In Super Bowl XXIV (1/28) he completed 10 of 26 passes for 108 yards and scored Denver's only TD of the game on a three yard run.

1988: In 1988 Elway threw for 3,309 yards and rushed for 234 yards despite being bothered for most of the season by several nagging injuries. He was voted by teammates as Denver's most valuable offensive player for the fourth straight year, sharing the award with running back Sammy Winder, following a campaign in which he completed 274 of 496 passes, with 17 touchdowns and 19 interceptions. He had his only 300-yard passing game of the season against the Raiders (12/4) with 324 yards and two touchdowns.

1987: Elway was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player (AP) and the AFC's starting quarterback in the Pro Bowl after turning in a tremendous season in 1987, a year in which he became the first AFC signal caller since Terry Bradshaw (1978-79) to lead his team to consecutive conference crowns. Elway was named All-NFL (The Sporting News, NEA, AP-second team) and All-AFC (UPI, Pro Football Weekly, The Football News), in addition to being tabbed as the AFC MVP (NFLPA), AFC Player of the Year (The Football News), AFC Offensive Player of the Year (UPI, Kansas City 101 Club), and Colorado Pro Athlete of the Year (Colorado Sports Hall of Fame). He was dynamic in the AFC Championship Game against the Browns, completing 14 of the 26 passes for 281 yards and three TDs, while also rushing 11 times for 36 yards. In Super Bowl XXII he completed 14 of 38 passes for 257 yards, ran for 32 yards on three carries, and became the first quarterback in Super Bowl history to catch a pass, a 23-yarder from Steve Sewell. Elway's 56-yard scoring strike to Ricky Nattiel on Denver's first play from scrimmage provided the earliest TD in Super Bowl history (elapsed time of 1:57). He was voted the Broncos' offensive MVP for a regular season performance in which he completed 224 of 410 passes for 3,198 yards, an average of 267 yards per game, with 19 TD passes. Elway had four 300 yard passing games that year, a team record. He led all AFC quarterbacks in rushing for the fourth straight season was second on the team with a career-high 304 yards, scoring four times.

1986: Elway led the Broncos to their first AFC Championship in nine seasons in 1986, while earning his first Pro Bowl berth. He was honored with the Seattle Gold Helmet Award (Professional Football Player of the Year) and received the King of the Hill award from the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, in addition to being named honorable mention All-NFL (AP) and All-AFC (UPI-second team). Along with his 18 TD passes that year, Elway also scored on an 11-yard run and a 23-yard pass reception from Steve Sewell that is the longest TD catch by a full-time starting QB in NFL history. His best statistical game of the season came against the Giants (11/23) when he passed for 336 yards and led the team with 51 yards rushing. Elway directed one of the greatest drives in NFL postseason history in pacing Denver to a 23-20 overtime win over Cleveland for the AFC title. He completed 22 of 38 passes for 244 yards and a TD, that coming on a five-yard strike to Mark Jackson that capped a 15-play, 98-yard drive that tied the game at the end of regulation. In overtime Elway drove the team 60 yards in nine plays to the winning field goal. In Super Bowl XXI Elway completed 22 of 37 passes for 304 yards and one TD, also scoring on a four-yard run.

1985: Elway took some spectacular steps forward in 1985, as the Stanford graduate rewrote the Denver record book Elway set Bronco single season records for attempts (605, which led the NFL and fell just four passes short of the NFL record of 609 held by Dan Fouts), completions (327, second in the NFL), passing yards (3,891, second in the NFL), total rushing and passing plays (656, first in the NFL), and total offense (4,414, also first in the league).

1984: Elway led the Broncos to a 12-2 record in his 14 regular season starts in 1984. He completed 214 of 380 passes for 2,598 yards, with 18 TDs and 15 interceptions. Not only was his passing a factor in his leadership of the offense, but he finished third on the team in rushing with 237 yards.

1983: Elway started 10 games in 1983, including the first five before being replaced by Steve DeBerg and five more after DeBerg was injured. While Elway did not have impressive stats as a rookie, finishing 17th among AFC passers, he carried a tremendous emotional burden, having come to the NFL as the most publicized college prospect since Joe Namath in 1965. Elway was the first player chosen in the 1983 draft and joined the Broncos by trade with Baltimore on May 2.

COLLEGE: John concluded his college career with five major NCAA Division I-A records and nine major Pac-10 marks. Elway completed 62.1 percent of his career passes (774 of 1,243, both NCAA highs) for 9,349 yards and 77 touchdowns, while setting an NCAA record for the lowest percentage of passes intercepted in a career (3.13 percent). As a senior, John was a consensus All American and finished second in Heisman Trophy balloting while setting virtually every Pac-10 and Stanford career record for total offense and passing. A two-sport star, John played baseball for the New York Yankees' Oneonta (N.Y.) single-A farm club in 1982, hitting for a .318 average and knocking in a team-high 24 runs batted in. He was the Yankees' first selection in the 1981 summer draft. He hit .349 with nine homers and 50 RBI in 49 games in his final college baseball season as a sophomore. Elway has a degree in economics from Stanford.

PERSONAL: John and his wife Janet have four children, including three daughters, Jessica Gwen (10/17/85), Jordan Marie (6/1/87), Juliana (3/7/91), and a son, Jack (8/11/89). The family makes its home in Englewood, Colo. In addition to his considerable time spent on The Elway Foundation, John owns and operates seven automobile franchises in the Denver area. A native of Port Angeles, Wash., Elway was the most highly recruited prep athlete in the nation in 1979 and was listed on Parade, Scholastic Coach, Football News, and National Coaches Association All-America teams. He had an unparalleled football-baseball career at Granada Hills HS. John was 129 of 200 for 1,837 yards and 19 TDs as a senior, while leading the baseball team to the Los Angeles City championship with a .491 batting average and a 4-2 pitching record. He completed 60 percent of his high school passes for 5,711 yards and 49 TDs. The Kansas City Royals selected him in the 1979 summer draft, although he already had signed a national letter of intent with Stanford. John's father, Jack, coached his son in the East-West Shrine contest in which John earned Offensive MVP laurels, and is currently the Broncos' Director of Pro Scouting.

(*—the second number is the percentage the quarterback has put his team in position to score, allowing for missed field goal and subtracting those drives ended by the clock and replaced due to injury. #—drives for 1984 add to one more than drives started because Elway replaced Kubiak on one drive.)

NOTES:

- For his career, he has directed Denver to scores in better than 3 in 10 drives; when you adjust the figure as stated above, the figures work to 35 in 100.
- In 1,967 career drives, started, he has been replaced only six times due to injury (based on 14 replacement QB earned at least one first down on the drive; that's 0.0033 percent, or 3 in 1,000).
- As far as drive efficiency was concerned, Elway had his best season in 1993 (he had better numbers only in 1987, but that was a strike year).

JOHN ELWAY'S FOURTH-QUARTER HEROICS

In his career (1983-94) John Elway has engineered 34 fourth-quarter, game-saving drives for the Broncos, and the team has a record of 31-0-1 in those contests. Those games include:

- 25 fourth-quarter, game-winning drives (marked below with an asterisk). The Broncos have scored the winning points 17 times with less than three minutes remaining, 14 times under two minutes, and eight times with less than a minute left.
- seven fourth-quarter, game-tying drives. Denver went on to win six of those contests in regulation or overtime, and one game ended tied. The Broncos won in regulation vs. New England (11/4/84) and at Seattle (12/20/85). In overtime, Elway directed the game-winning drive in the AFC Championship Game at Cleveland (1/11/87), while the defense and special teams set up OT wins vs. San Diego (11/17/85), at San Francisco (10/9/88), and at Seattle (10/22/89). The game at Green Bay (9/20/87) ended in a tie.

*1984 at San Diego – Directs 10-play, 77-yard drive for Sammy Winder one-yard TD run with 0:38 left in 16-13 win.

*1984 vs. San Diego – Directs 12-play, 40-yard drive for Rich Karlis field goal with 2:08 left in 16-13 win.

*1985 vs. Atlanta – Directs three scoring drives (two TDs, one FG) in fourth quarter, erasing 28-27 deficit, in 44-28 win.

1985 vs. San Diego – Directs seven-play, 48-yard drive for Rich Karlis 34-yard field goal with 0:05 left to tie San Diego; Denver wins 30-24 on Louis Wright's 60-yard TD return of a blocked field goal in OT.

*1985 at Pittsburgh – Directs seven-play, 58-yard drive for Steve Sewell two-yard TD run with 1:45 left, taking a 24-23 lead; Mike Harden returns an interception 42 yards for a score for 31-23 win.

*1985 vs. Kansas City – Directs eight-play, 59-yard drive for Sammy Winder one-yard TD run with 0:22 left in 14-13 win.

1985 at Seattle – Directs eight-play, 80-yard drive for Steve Sewell one-yard run to tie game at 24-24 with 2:35 remaining; then passes for 27 yards to start a five-play, 34-yard drive (Gary Kubiak takes over when Elway is injured) for a Rich Karlis 43-yard field goal with 0:55 remaining in 27-24 win.

*1986 vs. L.A. Raiders – Directs nine-play, 39-yard drive for seven-yard pass to Gene Lang with 5:11 left in 38-36 win.

Jerry Evans brings depth and talent to the tight end position as he enters his second season with the Broncos and third in the NFL. He has been very valuable to the Broncos in the team's two-tight end lineups along with Shannon Sharpe. 1994: Evans played in all 16 games and started 12 either as a wide receiver or as the second tight end in a two tight end lineup. He caught 13 passes for 127 yards (9.8 average) and two touchdowns. Evans had two receptions for a season-high 34 yards against Kansas City (10/17) and hauled in his first career touchdown on a 20-yard pass from John Elway. His other touchdown came on a one-yard pass play against Cleveland (10/30). Evans recorded his single-game best in receptions at San Francisco (12/17) when he caught three passes for 24 yards. Evans made his first career reception against the Raiders (9/18), a 13-yarder from John Elway. He also returned one kickoff for six yards during the '94 campaign. 1993: Evans was signed as a free agent in the 1993 offseason and filled in nicely when called upon during the season. He played primarily on special teams, but did start in the San Diego (12/5) game at tight end. 1992: Evans spent the entire year on the Green Bay Packers' practice squad. 1991: Evans was drafted by the Arizona Cardinals in the eighth round from the University of Toledo and spent some time on the team's practice squad. After being released, he was signed to the Packers' practice squad.

COLLEGE: Evans was an All-Mid American Conference selection and team MVP his senior year at Toledo. His collegiate career totals were 114 catches for 1,410 yards and seven touchdowns. Evans was a four-year letterman and majored in geography during his college days.

PERSONAL: Jerry is single and makes his off season home in Lorain, Ohio. He was an all-league and all-county selection as a tight end and defensive end at Admiral King HS in Lorain. He lettered four times in football, three in baseball and once in basketball. His full name is Gerald Kristen Evans.

Simon Fletcher returns to the Broncos for his 11th NFL season in 1995, after establishing himself as a fixture of Denver's defensive unit throughout his career. Having never missed a game in his pro career, Fletcher is second among all active Broncos in consecutive games played (156) and started (127). 1994: Fletcher continued to pace the Broncos in pressuring the quarterback in '94, leading the team in sacks (7) for the seventh consecutive season. Fletcher, who has never missed a start in his 10-year career, is the only active NFL player to lead his team in sacks for seven straight seasons. He increased his Broncos career-best sack total to 92.5, leaving him just 7.5 shy of the century mark. Overall, Fletcher accounted for 76 total tackles (42 solo), one interception, five passes defended, two fumble recoveries and one forced fumble in 16 starts in '94. He had his best all-around game at Buffalo (9/26) when he had 13 tackles (7 solo), two quarterback sacks (12 yards lost), his lone interception of the season and a pass defended. His other multiple-sack game came at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) when he posted two. Fletcher scooped up two fumbles in the Broncos' 15-13 win over Cincinnati (11/27). 1993: Fletcher continued to be a force at the linebacker position in 1993, being selected second-team All-NFL (Football Digest). Fletcher was rewarded for his efforts by his teammates, being selected as the Broncos' defensive MVP for the second straight season and the third time in his career. He led the Broncos in sacks for the sixth straight season, posting 13.5 for the year. Fletcher's 13.5 sacks in 1993 tied for the second-highest season totals in team history. The season sack record of 16 was set by Fletcher in 1992, and the 13.5 second-place record was set by Fletcher in 1991. He upped his career sack mark to 85.5, surpassing Rulon Jones' 73.5 team career sack record in the home opener versus San Diego (9/12). Fletcher's 10th straight game with a sack at Kansas City (9/20) set a professional record for consecutive games with a sack. Fletcher had sacks in the last seven games of 1992 and the first three of 1993. Fletcher finished the season with 62 solo and 37 assisted tackles, one fumble recovery and three forced fumbles, while recording four two-sack games (Pittsburgh 11/21, Seattle 11/28, Chicago 12/18 and Tampa Bay 12/26). 1992: In 1992 Fletcher earned his second career team defensive MVP award after recording 16 sacks to set a new single season record for the club. He broke the previous mark of 13.5, set in 1986 by Jones and tied by Fletcher in 1991. His total ranked second in the AFC behind San Diego's Leslie O'Neal, who had 17, and was the fourth-highest mark in the NFL. He was Denver's sack leader in each of the past five seasons, also a first in team annals, and shares the team single-game sack record of four with Karl Mecklenburg. In '92 he led the team with five forced fumbles and topped all non-defensive backs with nine passes defended. He registered 64 tackles and 35 assists as well. He had at least one sack in each of the last seven games of the campaign, including three and one-half at Seattle (11/30) and two each vs. the Giants (11/15), Seahawks (12/20), and Chiefs (12/27). In addition, Fletcher had two and one-half sacks in Denver's victory over Houston (10/18), a game in which he also broke up two passes and forced a fumble. 1991: Fletcher led the Broncos in sacks in 1991 for the fourth straight season, the first player in team history to accomplish that feat. His 13.5 sacks tied the club record set by Rulon Jones in 1986 and ranked second in the AFC. That season Fletcher had at least a half sack in the final 10 regular season games and had two-sack performances vs. Pittsburgh (11/3) and at San Diego (12/22). In addition to the sacks, he also posted 46 tackles, 43 assists, three passes defended, two forced fumbles, and a fumble recovery. Fletcher was named AFC Defensive Player of the Month for December. In postseason play he registered 14 total tackles and Denver's only sack. 1990: In 1990 Fletcher led Denver with 11 sacks, and had 55 tackles, 42 assists, a team-high four forced fumbles, a fumble recovery, and a pass defended. At Minnesota (11/4) he tied a team record with four sacks and he had two games in which he forced two fumbles. 1989: Fletcher set a new career high and ranked fourth in the AFC with 12 sacks in 1989. He had two or more sacks in three games, including a two and one-half sack performance at Cleveland (10/1). In addition, that year he had 61 first hits, 44 assists, three forced fumbles, two passes defended, and a fumble recovery. He had 13 total tackles at Seattle (10/22) and 12 at Kansas City (11/12). 1988: Fletcher had a tremendous season in 1988 and was voted Denver's Most Valuable Defensive Player by his teammates. He led the team with a career high nine quarterback sacks, a figure tied for sixth in the AFC. Three times in 1988 Fletcher was named the Broncos' overall player of the game and was honored as the defensive player of the game twice. Against Cleveland (11/13) Fletcher posted 11 total tackles, including two sacks, and he forced and recovered a fumble. In addition to the nine sacks, Fletcher's season totals show 115 total tackles, his first interception as a professional, and six passes defended. 1987: Fletcher had a fine season in 1987 as Denver's starting strong outside linebacker, his first campaign ever as a linebacker. Bronco coaches moved him from defensive end after the 1986 season to take advantage of his size and ability to drop off into pass coverage. Fletcher's top performances in the 1987 regular season included an 11-tackle, one-sack game against Green Bay (9/20), a 12-tackle game against the Raiders (11/22), and a strong performance vs. Kansas City (12/19) in which he netted two quarterback sacks fumble recovery. He closed out regular season play with 49 first hits, 21 assists, and four sacks. Fletcher was impressive in post-season play, registering 10 first hits in Super Bowl XXII (1/31) and five first hits and a sack in the AFC Championship Game vs. Cleveland (1/17), while posting six quarterback harassments in the three games. 1986: He played in every game in 1986, starting twice (at Philadelphia on 9/21 and as an outside linebacker vs. Washington on 12/13) and finishing the campaign with 43 tackles, two passes defended, and two fumble recoveries. Fletcher blocked a key field goal attempt in a Bronco win over the Raiders (11/2) and deflected an extra point in Denver's one-point win over the Redskins (12/13). He saw action in both AFC playoff games and in Super Bowl XXI, contributing seven tackles and two assists during post-season play. 1985: Fletcher played in all 16 games in 1985 and increased his playing time as the season went on, making his first pro start at Pittsburgh (12/1). Denver's second pick in the second round, Fletcher finished the season with 17 total tackles and one quarterback sack, that coming in the season finale at Seattle (12/20).

COLLEGE: Simon was a three-year starter at the University of Houston, where he posted 209 total tackles, including 30 tackles for losses and 14 quarterback sacks. Fletcher also defended 10 passes during a career in which he started 33 of the 37 games in which he played for the Cougars. As a senior he had 11 tackles for losses and eight sacks despite playing the last six games with a pinched nerve in his shoulder. He started at both right tackle (1982 and 1984) and right end (1983) during his college career, which he closed out with a Cotton Bowl appearance against Boston College.

PERSONAL: Simon is married (Pinkie) and has three daughters, Ashley Nicole (1/12/84), Neomi Patrice (1/25/88) and Rasheedah (11/2/90). They make their home in Aurora, Colo. Fletcher is the owner of three restaurants in the Denver metropolitan area that specialize in hot dogs. The establishments are called The Dog House. He earned letters in both football and track at Bay City HS, and has an older brother who played football at Texas A&I.

Year with Broncos - 2nd

Randy Fuller returns to the Broncos secondary in 1995 after putting together an impressive rookie season a year ago. 1994: Fuller made his mark mainly in the nickel package and on special teams, but did make one start in his 10 games played. He started in the secondary against Atlanta (11/20) as an extra defensive back and finished the day with four tackles (3 solo) and one pass defended. He also made four solo tackles the following week against Cincinnati (11/27). Fuller finished the season with 22 total tackles (17 solo) and three passes defended.

COLLEGE: Fuller excelled at Tennessee State with his exceptional quickness and leaping ability, finishing his four-year career with 318 tackles (223 solo), 12 interceptions for 194 yards, 31 passes broken up and three forced fumbles. A four-year starter for the Tigers, Fuller capped his career with appearances in the Blue-Gray Game and the Senior Bowl. As a senior he was named second-team All-America and first-team All-Ohio Valley Conference by the NFL Draft Report after posting totals of 65 tackles (51 solo) with seven pass deflections.

PERSONAL: A native of Griffin, Ga., Fuller 10 high school letters – three each in football and basketball and four in track – at Spencer HS in Columbus, Ga. He was All-Big City and the Athlete of the Year selection as a senior, picking off 15 passes and making 187 tackles in his final campaign. An all-state choice in track as well, Randy set a Georgia state record with a long jump of 24'-6". He earned his degree in criminal justice from Tennessee State and lists fishing, golf and reading among his hobbies.

Dave Garnett comes to the Broncos as a free agent after spending the first two years of his career as a member of the Minnesota Vikings. After becoming a free agent, he had signed with Carolina on May 5, 1995, but was waived by the Panthers on May 19. For his career, he has 22 tackles (11 solo), and 27 special teams stops in 25 regular season games, and has also participated in two playoff games. He holds the distinction of being the only Vikings rookie to play in every game in 1993, despite not being drafted. 1994: Garnett had 11 tackles (eight solo), two fumble recoveries, seven special teams tackles in nine games. He was active but did not play in the other seven. He recovered a fumble that led to a touchdown at Chicago (9/18) in a 42-7 victory. Garnett also had three stops and a special teams tackle against the Bears. He recovered an onside kick in the fourth quarter that led to a field goal, helping the Vikings to a 38-35 win over Miami (9/25). Garnett also had one special teams stop vs. the Dolphins and had five stops at Arizona (10/2). He injured his knee at the Giants (10/10) and had his streak of 22 consecutive games played snapped at Green Bay (10/20) because of the injury. He was inactive vs. Green Bay and also for the next six games. He recovered a squib kick and also had one special teams stop at Buffalo. He recorded two tackles at linebacker and two on special teams vs. San Francisco (12/26). Garnett also recorded one special teams stop in the Vikings' NFC Wild Card Game vs. Chicago (1/1/95). 1993: Garnett played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams. He had 20 tackles on special teams, second-highest on the team, and had 11 stops from his linebacker position. He played up on the line all season during goal-line and short-yardage situations. He was second on the team vs. Kansas City (12/26) with a career-high seven tackles in a 30-10 victory over the eventual AFC West champs. He also played on special teams in Minnesota's NFC Wild Card Game at the Giants. Garnett was originally signed by the Vikings as a free agent out of Stanford University.

COLLEGE: Garnett was a three-time captain and four-year letterwinner from his linebacker spot at Stanford, where he was teammates with current Broncos Glyn Milburn and Ed McCaffrey. He was also a three-time Academic All-Pac-10 pick and an honorable mention All-Pac-10 selection. He started 40 of 45 games and led the team in 1992 in solo tackles with 48 and tied for the lead in fumble recoveries with two. He also finished second on the team in total tackles (72), tied for second in tackles for loss (12), and third in sacks (4). In 1990, he tallied a season-high 12 stops, including one for a loss and a sack in a 36-31 victory at top-ranked Notre Dame. He received his bachelor's degree in political science in 1993.

PERSONAL: Garnett was an honorable mention All-America pick by USA Today, as well as earning all-state honors while at Naperville (Ill.) HS. He was also named the outstanding student of his high school graduating class, one of the outstanding high school students of America, and to the Who's Who among America's high school students. In addition, he was a Youth Government lobbyist and legislator, as the Youth Governor of Illinois in 1989. His father David played running back at the University of Pittsburgh and was drafted in the ninth round in 1971 by the Raiders. One of his father's blockers at Pitt was current Chicago Bears head coach Dave Wannstedt. His brother Kevin also played for Stanford in 1994. David currently resides in Washington, D.C.

Brian Habib is one of just two returning starters on the Broncos offensive line where he did a fine job at the right guard position a year ago. He is likely to start at that position again in '95 as new offensive line coach Alex Gibbs works in at least two new starters around him and Gary Zimmerman. 1994: Habib started all 16 games at right guard for the second consecutive season. He did not miss a start in '94, though he had to leave the Seattle game (11/13) early with a right calf strain. 1993: Habib spent his first year as a Bronco entrenched at the right guard position. His solid play helped propel John Elway to his finest year as a pro. Habib started every game for the Broncos at right guard and steadily improved each week. He was a key part of the offensive line's success in the last two games versus the Raiders. In those two matchups, the offensive line allowed only one sack in 90 passing attempts. 1992: He started at the right guard position in 15 of the 16 regular season games for the Minnesota Vikings in 1992, and also started in the Vikings playoff game against the Washington Redskins (1/2/93). 1991: Habib started in eight of the 16 games in 1991, seeing action at both the guard and tackle positions. 1990: In 1990 he played a back-up role at offensive tackle and continued his play on special teams. 1989: In the 1989 season Habib played on the special teams in all 16 regular season games and saw action in the playoffs. 1988: Habib was drafted as a defensive lineman in the 10th round by the Vikings in 1988, and was the 264th player taken overall. He spent the entire 1988 regular season on injured reserve after injuring his right shoulder vs. Miami (8/26/88), but was activated for the Vikings' two playoff games. Midway through that season he was moved to the offensive side of the ball because of the Vikings' lack of depth on the offensive line.

COLLEGE: Habib had a productive senior season as a co-captain for the University of Washington in 1987. He improved on his junior year totals by racking up 70 tackles, two sacks, seven tackles-for-loss, and two fumbles. In 1986 he finished the season with 64 tackles, one sack and three tackles-for-loss, which made him an All-Pac-10 honorable mention selection.

PERSONAL: Brian and his wife Shannon make their home in Woodinville, Wash., with their daughter Kaitlin Alexandra (4/30/93). Brian was a four-sport athlete at Ellensburg HS (football, basketball, powerlifting and swimming, in which he was a state record-holder. Brian holds a real estate license and is working toward certification for health and life insurance. His full name is Brian Richard Habib.

Britt Hager comes to the Broncos as a free agent from Philadelphia, where he was a vital cog in their defensive scheme for the past six years. He was also pivotal in the Eagles' special teams success over that period. He saw action in 90 games with Philadelphia, 13 of them in a starting role at middle linebacker. He has 187 career stops as well as 92 career special teams tackles, the most by any Eagle during his six years with the club. He was a teammate of former Eagles' offensive lineman and current Bronco Broderick Thompson. 1994: Hager played in all 16 games, with five starts, registering 60 tackles (41 solo) and one sack. He also had 13 special teams tackles. He started the season as Philadelphia's fourth linebacker in short yardage situations and recovered a fumble on a key drive against Houston (10/24). He received his first start of the season on 11/20 at Arizona when Byron Evans injured his knee on 11/13 vs. Cleveland. He filled in for Evans against the Browns and had 12 tackles (eight solo) and one pass deflection. He registered 10 tackles (nine solo) and one pass deflection vs. Dallas on 12/4. On 12/11 at Pittsburgh he had 11 stops (six solo) and his second career interception. 1993: Hager played in 16 games with seven starts, totalling 78 tackles (55 solo), one sack, one interception and 13 special teams tackles. Hager became a regular starter after Byron Evans fractured his right arm on 10/31 vs. Dallas. In his second start of the season on 11/7 at Phoenix (started set on 10/17) he recorded career highs in tackles (15) and solos (13). Two weeks later he had 13 stops and his first career interception (19-yard return) vs. the New York Giants. He also played RLB in overtime at San Francisco (1/3/94) for William Thomas, who had sprained his right knee. 1992: Hager played in 10 games with 16 tackles (12 solo) and 10 special teams tackles. He played mostly as an extra linebacker in running situations and on special teams. He suffered a herniated disc at Green Bay on 11/15 and was placed on injured reserve on 11/17 and missed the remainder of the season after undergoing surgery. 1991: Hager played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams. He had 15 tackles (six solo) and 12 special teams tackles. On 11/10 he recovered a Webster Slaughter fourth-quarter fumble on a punt return at the Browns' one-yard line, setting up the game-winning touchdown in the second-greatest comeback in club history. The next week vs. Cincinnati, he made solo stops on 3rd and 4th down from the two-yard line to preserve an Eagle victory. 1990: Hager played in all 16 games with one start, registering seven stops on the season (three solo). He also led the team with 23 special teams tackles. He played mostly on short-yardage defense vs. various multiple tight end sets. He made his first NFL start vs. the Giants on 11/25 in place of cornerback Eric Allen, as the Eagles opened the game in a 4-4-3 defensive set. He also started the first three preseason games in place of an unsigned Byron Evans at middle linebacker and led the team in tackles for those three games. He played in the Eagles' NFC Wild Card Game vs. Washington (1/5) and had one assist and one special teams stop. 1989: As a rookie, Hager played in all 16 games as a contributor on special teams. He led the team with 21 special teams stops and was named Eagles' special teams player of the year. He also had 11 tackles (seven solo) and two fumble recoveries. He saw linebacker duty vs. double-tight end sets. He played in the second half for an injured Seth Joyner (knee) at left linebacker vs. Minnesota (11/19) and recovered a fumble at the Eagles' one-yard line to help preserve a 10-9 win. Over the next two weeks, he saw additional playing time in nickel situations. He played in the Eagles' NFC Divisional Playoff Game at Chicago in the famous "Fog Bowl" and had one special teams tackle. He was the Eagles' third-round draft pick (81st overall) in 1989.

COLLEGE: Hager was a two-time first-team All-Southwest Conference choice at Texas. As a senior, Hager was the team MVP, a third-team All-America (AP), and was nominated for the Butkus Award, given annually to the nation's top linebacker. In his final two seasons at UT, he wore jersey number 60, given to the UT linebacker who demonstrates the leadership and character displayed by previous Longhorn greats Tommy Nobis and Johnny Treadwell. As a junior, Hager set the single-season tackle record with 187, a mark he topped as a senior with 195 and five sacks. He ended his career with over 500 stops. He also returned an interception 25 yards for a touchdown versus Oregon State in 1987 as a junior. He was a speech communications major.

PERSONAL: Hager and his wife Bridgette reside in Austin, Texas with their sons Bron, Bryce and Brayven. While in Philadelphia, Hager frequently visited schools on behalf of the New Jersey State Police's "Say No To Drugs" campaign. He and Bridgette, along with teammate David Alexander and his wife, co-chaired a fund raising dinner/auction that raised $100,000 for cystic fibrosis on Nov. 7, 1994. Hager rushed for over 1,00 yards and 17 TDs as a senior fullback and linebacker at Odessa (Texas) Permian HS. He was a prep All-American. He is the second of three sons, Kevin and Parker. His full name is Harley Britt Hager.

Harald Hasselbach enters his second NFL season looking to pick up where he left off last year when he made an immediate impact just out of the CFL. He possesses a unique package of size, strength, agility and quickness that has allowed him to move his way further up the Broncos' depth chart on the defensive line. 1994: Hasselbach turned some heads after spending the previous four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League. He played in all 16 games, including the final nine in a starting role at defensive right tackle. For the season Hasselbach accounted for 66 total tackles (40 solo), two sacks for 13 yards lost, one pass defended and one fumble recovery. He was given his first start against Cleveland (10/30) and responded with five total tackles (2 solo), then posted his best numbers of the season the following week with 10 tackles (3 solo) against the Rams (11/6). Hasselbach went on to start the final nine games of the season and recorded his first NFL sack against Cincinnati (11/27). His impressive play allowed the team to rest previous starter Dan Williams who was slowed by injury. Hasselbach was an instant hit in training camp, then progressed slowly during the regular season before jumping into the starting lineup. 1990-93: Hasselbach spent four seasons with the Calgary Stampeders of the CFL, emerging as one of the league's top defensive stars. He posted four-year career totals of 72 tackles and 14 sacks, seven of which came in his final season, 1993.

COLLEGE: Hasselbach lettered one season (1989) at the University of Washington as a reserve defensive lineman for a Husky team that defeated Florida 34-7 in the 1989 Freedom Bowl. He made four solo tackles during his senior season (1989), his second consecutive as a backup to All-American and current San Francisco 49ers defensive end Dennis Brown. Hasselbach redshirted in 1985 and spent the next three seasons as a non-letterman squad member with great physical attributes and potential.

PERSONAL: A native of Amsterdam, Holland, Hasselbach has also lived in Suriname, Indonesia, Kenya and Canada. He is fluent in Dutch and has also spoken French, German, Japanese, Swahili and Indonesian. His father is a retired agronomist whose job took the family all around the world before settling in British Columbia. Hasselbach grew up playing soccer, cricket, rugby and field hockey as well swimming, and did not begin to play football until his final two years at South Delta High School in Tsawassen, B.C., where he was a two-year letterman offensive and defensive tackle. He was named to the Fraser Valley All-Star team and was an All-British Columbia choice.

Tim Hauck was signed as a free agent from the Green Bay Packers to help strengthen the Broncos secondary. He will be a valuable addition at one of the safety positions with his veteran leadership. He uses his intelligence and knowledge of the game to overcome what he lacks in size. He should also be a major contributor on the Broncos' special teams units. 1994: Hauck played in 13 games with the Packers, including three starts. He finished the season with 40 tackles (28 solo) and three passes defended. He also had 16 special teams tackles (second on team). In two playoff games he had one solo stop and four special teams tackles, which led the team. The 40 stops during the regular season were 12 more than he had had in his four previous seasons combined. It was also tops among non-starters. In the season opener vs. Minnesota (9/4), he recorded a career-high four special teams tackles. He got his first NFL start at Philadelphia on 9/18 in place of an injured LeRoy Butler (bruised right shin). He started the next two weeks vs. Tampa Bay (9/25) and at New England (10/2). He had a career-high nine tackles against the Patriots. He sprained the medial collateral ligament in his left knee on 11/20 at Buffalo and was inactive for the next three games. He returned to action on 12/18 vs. Atlanta. He also led the team in interceptions in the preseason with two. 1993: Hauck played in 13 games, mostly on special teams. He had two tackles (one solo) and he made eight tackles (five solo) on special teams. He suffered a hamstring injury vs. Detroit (11/21) and was inactive for the next three weeks. On 10/31 vs. Chicago he recovered a Craig Heyward fumble in the second quarter of a 17-3 victory. He also saw action in both Packer playoff games at Detroit (NFC Wild Card) and at Dallas (NFC Divisional Playoff). 1992: Hauck played in all 16 games, primarily on special teams. He had 15 tackles (all solo), three passes defended and one forced fumble. He also had 14 special teams tackles. On 9/27, he forced a Rod Woodson fumble on a punt return to set up the Packers' final touchdown in a 17-3 win vs. Pittsburgh. On 12/13, he had five tackles and two passes defended vs. Houston. Filled in late at free safety for Chuck Cecil in a 28-13 victory over the Rams (11/20). He forced a Cleveland Gary fumble in win over Rams. 1991: Hauck joined the Packers on the final day of Plan B free agency (April 1), leaving the New England Patriots. He played in all 16 games, finishing with seven tackles (six solo) and was fourth on the team in special teams stops with nine. He also had one fumble recovery at the Jets (11/3). He had a season-high five stops at Minnesota in the season finale on 12/21. 1990: Hauck played in 10 games with the New England Patriots. He had four tackles (three solo) and seven special teams stops, second-most on the team. He had four tackles (three solo) vs. Buffalo on 10/28. He had been waived by the Patriots on 8/28 after signing with them as an undrafted free agent. He was later re-signed on 10/3.

COLLEGE: Hauck was a three-year starter at Montana (1987-89) after beginning his college career at Pacific University in 1985. He sat out the 1986 season as a redshirt after transferring to Montana. He was Big Sky Defensive Player of the Year after unprecedented two consecutive years after walking on at Montana. He was also a Division I-AA first-team All-America selection (AP) on two occasions. He led Montana with a career-high 129 tackles (64 solo), seven interceptions and three blocked kicks as a senior. He was named Big Sky Conference Defensive Player of the Week a school-record five times in his career. He also won the school's Grizzly Golden Helmet Award (given annually to the teams' hardest hitter) in both 1987 and '88. Hauck was also named to the Big Sky All-Academic team in '87 and '88. He has a bachelor's degree in business education.

PERSONAL: Hauck attended Sweet Grass County HS in Big Timber, Mont., where his father, Bob was the head coach. He lettered four times in football and three times in basketball and track. He was an All-State selection in football as a quarterback and defensive back. He was also state pole vault champion as a senior. Hauck enjoys fishing, water skiing and snow skiing in his spare time. He has also worked with Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Missoula, Mont. He is single and his full name is Timothy Christian Hauck.

Randy Hilliard returns to the Denver secondary in 1995 after contributing in nickel situations and as a part-time starter at both cornerback positions in last year. 1994: Hilliard joined the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent in the offseason after four years with the Cleveland Browns. He used the momentum of an outstanding preseason to move up the depth chart and play in 15 games, making four starts. He finished the season with 51 tackles (46 solo), tied for the team lead in interceptions with two (for eight yards in returns), had 14 passes defended and forced two fumbles. Hilliard made his first start at Seattle (10/9) in place of injured right cornerback Ray Crockett and responded with five tackles (4 solo), two passes defended and his first interception of the year, which he returned for eight yards. He posted his best tackle numbers of the season in a start the following week against Kansas City (10/17) in a Monday Night game, recording 14 total (11 solo). Hilliard missed the Cleveland contest (10/30) with an injured hamstring but returned to start the next two games on the left side in place of Ben Smith, at the L.A. Rams (11/6) and against Seattle (11/13). He recorded his second interception of the season and had three passes defended in the Rams game, and followed that with a 10-solo tackle performance against Seattle. 1993: Hilliard played in 12 games for the Browns and started five, recording 41 total tackles, including 26 solo and 15 assists. Hilliard knocked down 10 passes, fourth-best among Cleveland defenders, and had one interception that he returned 54 yards. He was a valuable special teams performer, in addition to his defensive backfield duties. 1992: He had 27 tackles, seven passes defended, forced one fumble and recovered another for the Browns, as he played in every game and started four. Hilliard started in the six-DB alignment vs. Houston (12/20) and recorded six stops, including an 11-yard quarterback sack, forced a fumble which he also recovered. 1991: He started 10 of 14 games and recorded 59 tackles, with two sacks, nine passes defended, one interception, and a fumble recovery. Hilliard started at right cornerback for the final six games. He posted his first career interception to thwart a Patriots' drive in a Cleveland win over New England. 1990: His rookie season was spent mostly on special teams, making five tackles on kick coverage and two more in the Cleveland secondary. Hilliard was the Browns' sixth round selection in the 1990 draft.

COLLEGE: Hilliard returned three of his 10 career interceptions for touchdowns, earning first-team All-Southland Conference and second-team All-American honors as a senior at Northwestern Louisiana. He was honorable mention All-Conference as a junior and second-team All-Southland as a sophomore. His longest touchdown run was on a 73-yard interception return as a freshman.

PERSONAL: Randy is married (Lynette), and they make their home in New Orleans, La. A native of Metairie, La., he was a three-time all-district choice at East Jefferson HS in Metairie, where he won MVP honors as a senior. Randy also lettered in track as a prep athlete. A journalism major at Northwestern Louisiana, Randy hopes to get into broadcasting after his playing career.

LONG DROUGHT

The Broncos and the New England Patriots will meet on October 8, 1995, their first meeting in four years. However, the Broncos' longest current drought between meetings with any NFL opponent is with the Miami Dolphins, whom they have not played in a regular season game since September 29, 1985. In fact, they have only played the Dolphins twice in the last 20 years.

Ray Jacobs proved to be a valuable member of the Broncos linebacking corps and special teams as a rookie last year, and looks to parlay that experience into increased playing time in 1995. Jacobs was recognized for his outstanding play by being named the Broncos' special teams MVP last year. 1994: Jacobs played in all 16 games as a member of the special teams unit, finishing the year with six special teams tackles (3 solo), according to unofficial press box statistics. He registered two stops, both very hard hits, in the Broncos' 16-9 win at Seattle (10/9).

COLLEGE: Jacobs was a four-year letterman and one-year starter at North Carolina, where he played both inside and outside linebacker before settling into the starting rush outside linebacker position his senior year. Jacobs finished his career with 169 total tackles and 6.5 sacks, accounting for 60 of the tackles and 3.5 of the sacks during his outstanding senior campaign.

PERSONAL: A native of Hampstead, N.C., Jacobs played fullback, tailback, linebacker and defensive end at Topsail High School, where he rushed for 600 yards and made 100 tackles as a senior. He was a two-time all-conference selection who was picked to the East-West All-Star Game and the Shrine Bowl as a senior, the only 1A player to be selected to the latter. He is the first player from Topsail to earn a football scholarship to a major college program. Jacobs also lettered three years each in basketball and track, setting school records in the 100 and 200 meters and the 300m intermediate and high hurdles. He is single and resides in Littleton, Colo. His full name is Ray Anthony Jacobs.

Vance Johnson, one of Denver's all-time most prolific wide receivers, returns to the Broncos for his 10th NFL season after spending last season away from the game. Johnson ranks second on the Broncos career receptions list (403) and fourth on the career receiving yardage list (5,525), and has been on the receiving end of more John Elway touchdown passes in his career than any other receiver (35). His 37 total career touchdowns are tied for the eighth-most all-time by a Broncos player, and he is tied for the longest streak of consecutive games with a touchdown by a Bronco (6 in 1987). 1994: Johnson was signed as an unrestricted free agent by the San Diego Chargers March 18, 1994, but was later waived by the club prior to the start of the '94 season. 1993: Johnson began the year in the Broncos camp, but was then traded to Minnesota, who released him just prior to the season-opener. He re-signed with Denver just prior to game two against the Chargers and went on to play in 10 games, making eight starts. Johnson finished the year with 36 receptions for 517 yards (14.4 average) and five touchdowns (second-most among receivers). He caught two passes for 57 yards against San Diego, including a 46-yarder that set up Rod Bernstine's one-yard touchdown run. He made his first start of the season vs. Indianapolis (10/3) and made two catches for 43 yards, then followed up with a career-best 10 receptions for 148 yards and one touchdown at Green Bay (10/10). Johnson's season was cut short, however, when he dislocated his ankle and missed the final five games and one postseason contest. 1992: Johnson finished the season fifth on the Broncos with 24 catches for 294 yards and two touchdowns. He was on the "reserve-injured" list for the first four games of the year after tearing a pectoral muscle in training camp, and then later missed the game against Seattle (12/20) because of a strained hamstring. His first catch of the year was a game-winning, 12-yard touchdown reception with 38 seconds left in the contest versus Kansas City (10/4). 1991: Johnson rebounded from a slow start to lead the team in receptions over the final month of the season. He closed out the regular season with 21 catches for 208 yards and three touchdowns, and ranked seventh in the AFC with a 7.3-yard average on 24 punt returns. Johnson spent the first four weeks of the season on injured reserve after suffering a preseason knee injury, and was then on the Broncos' inactive list for games six and seven. He had just four receptions through the first 11 weeks of the year, then made 16 catches in the final four regular season games. Johnson was the Broncos' postseason reception leader as well, catching 10 passes for 178 yards and a touchdown in two games, while also returning three punts for 36 yards. Against Houston in a divisional playoff game (1/4) he caught five passes for 78 yards, and two of those receptions were pivotal to the outcome of the game. Johnson was on the receiving end of a 10-yard pass from John Elway for the Broncos' first points of the day. Denver's winning field-goal was set up by a pass from Elway to Johnson that gained 44 yards on fourth-and-10 from the Broncos' 35. In the AFC Championship game at Buffalo (Jan. 12) Johnson caught seven passes for 100 yards to lead all receivers. 1990: Johnson finished second on the team with 54 receptions for 747 yards and three touchdowns, and also returned 11 punts for an 8.4-yard average and six kickoffs for 126 yards. He tied his single-game high with nine receptions versus Seattle (9/23), the Broncos' top mark of 1990. He also led the team with a 150-yard performance versus Kansas City (9/17), including a fourth-down, 49-yard pass from Elway that helped set up a game-winning field goal. 1989: Johnson had an outstanding season and became the first Bronco to catch more than 70 passes since Lionel Taylor in 1965. He set career highs with 76 catches for 1,095 yards and seven touchdowns. His reception total ranked tied for fourth in the AFC and ninth in the NFL, while his yardage total ranked ninth in the conference and 12th in the league. Johnson accounted for six of Denver's top eight receiving days in 1989 and had five or more receptions in eight games, with nine against Philadelphia (10/29) and Phoenix (12/16). He was on the receiving end of six of the team's 15 longest pass plays, including receptions of 68 and 69 yards. He had six receptions for a career-high 154 yards and two touchdowns against Seattle (11/26), all coming in the first half. That game marked his third 100-yard effort of the season and his first two-TD game ever. Johnson caught nine passes for 148 yards and a score against Philadelphia (10/29) and five for 145 yards and a score at Cleveland (10/1). He was Denver's primary punt returner in the last half of '89 and closed out the campaign with 12 returns for a team-high 9.8-yard average. He led all Denver receivers in postseason play with 12 catches for 197 yards and a TD and returned seven punts for a 7.6-yard average. Against Pittsburgh in the divisional playoff (1/7) he registered three receptions for 85 yards and a TD, then caught seven passes for 91 yards in the AFC Championship Game versus Cleveland (1/14). He caught two passes for 21 yards in the Super Bowl XXIV (1/28) against San Francisco. 1988: Johnson led the team with 68 catches (6th AFC, tied 15th NFL), the eighth-highest single-season total in Broncos history to that point, and gained 896 yards (9th AFC, 20th NFL). He combined with Elway for an 86-yard pass play against the Raiders (9/26), tying the team record for longest non-scoring completion. He was the only Bronco that season to record a catch in every game, and gained 50 or more yards receiving in nine of his 16 games. 1987: Johnson had an outstanding campaign despite missing most of two regular season games with a dislocated shoulder suffered early in a Dec. 6 contest versus New England. He led the team with 684 yards on 42 catches and scored seven touchdowns to tie for the team lead. Johnson had a 115-yard performance against the Raiders (11/22) and tied the team record by scoring a receiving touchdown in six straight games. In a divisional playoff game versus Houston (1/10) he caught four passes for 105 yards before being sidelined with a groin injury that kept him out of the AFC Championship Game, but healed in time for him to return for Super Bowl XXII. 1986: Johnson turned in a tremendous performance in the 1986 postseason, completing a comeback from an early-season knee injury. After a dazzling exhibition in the final preseason game versus the L.A. Rams in which he caught 11 passes for 195 yards and a score he injured his knee in the season-opener, leading to arthroscopic surgery. He spent four weeks on injured reserve, but still finished the regular season with 31 receptions for 363 yards and two touchdowns, rushed five times for 15 yards, and returned three punts and two kickoffs. He led the team in the postseason with 12 catches for 235 yards and two TDs. In the divisional playoff game versus New England (1/4) he caught four passes for 89 yards and scored on a 48-yard pass from John Elway. His three-catch performance in the AFC Championship Game at Cleveland (1/11) led to a five-catch, 121-yard performance in Super Bowl XXI that topped all receivers, and included a 47-yard TD pass from Elway. 1985: Johnson made the conversion from running back to wide receiver and set new Bronco rookie records for receptions (51) and reception yardage (721). He also led the team in punt and kickoff returns, and his 1,757 all-purpose yards were tops among all NFL rookies. Although he did not become a full-time starter until Week 10, Johnson's receiving totals placed second on the team. He registered Denver's high-yardage mark that year with 116 yards on six catches versus Kansas City (12/14) and recorded three of the top six yardage marks for the team, including 96 yards at Atlanta (9/22) and 92 yards versus San Francisco (11/11). He scored three touchdowns, the longest of which was a 63-yard catch and run against the Falcons. Johnson was Denver's first pick in the second round and the 31st player chosen overall in the 1985 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE: Johnson was the University of Arizona's key player at tailback in his four years with the Wildcats, finishing fourth in school history in all-purpose yards (3,442), fifth in scoring (168 points), and sixth in receptions (78). He closed out his college career with appearances in the Senior Bowl and the East-West Shrine Game where he caught seven passes and threw a touchdown pass. As a junior, Vance led the Pac-10 in touchdowns with 13, 10 of which came on the ground. He was a 1982 All-Pac-10 selection and led the team that season in rushing (433 yards) and kickoff returns (27.2 average). He set several Arizona freshman records and was named to Blue Chip Magazine's second-team Freshman All-America squad. A great track athlete as well, Vance won the 1982 NCAA long jump championship with a leap of 26'-11 1/2" and captured the '84 Pac-10 long jump title, finishing second in the NCAA. He was an alternate in the long jump on the '84 Olympic team, missing the team by one inch. He was chosen to compete with the American Olympic team in the spring of '85 in Monaco, France, but decided to pass up the opportunity to concentrate on his football career. Johnson majored in commercial art.

PERSONAL: Vance and his wife Holly reside in Fort Collins where he is host of a sports talk show on a local radio station. He and Holly are the parents of a daughter, Paris (3/12/92). He has two sons, Vaughn (10/21/87) and Vincent (4/18/89). An accomplished artist, specializing in acrylic fine art, Johnson had seven showing of his work at Denver's Gallery One during the 1987 offseason. He was raised in Tucson, Ariz., where he lettered twice in football and four times in track at Cholla High School. He scored 22 touchdowns as a senior and had a 9.1-yard rushing average while gaining 1,382 yards. Johnson set school records in the long jump, high jump, 100- and 220-yard dashes, and was Arizona's long jump champion in 1980. He was an all-state selection in 1984. Vance Edward Johnson was born March 13, 1963 in Trenton, N.J.

Danté Jones comes to the Broncos as a free agent from the Chicago Bears, where he was the starter at middle linebacker in 1994 and the backup to Mike Singletary for most of his career. In seven seasons, Jones has played in 87 regular season games with 29 starts, and in seven playoff games with two starts. He has 407 career tackles (247 solo), including 108 (68 solo) in 15 games (11 starts) in 1994, the most tackles by a Bears defender. He also had nine tackles (six solo) in the Bears' two playoff games. 1994: Jones started in 11 of the 15 games he played in the regular season, and started both of the Bears' playoff games. He led the team in tackles for the second straight season with 108 (68 solo), and also had two fumble recoveries and five pass breakups. Jones also had nine stops in two playoff games. He was a major contributor on a defense that ranked fifth in the NFL against the pass (192.9 yards per game). He had 10 tackles against Tampa Bay (9/4) and at Philadelphia (9/12) before shoulder and groin injuries suffered in the fourth quarter against the Eagles limited his playing time over the next four weeks. He was inactive on 10/2 vs. Buffalo. He returned to the starting lineup at Detroit (10/23) and led the team with 13 tackles (11 solo) and one fumble recovery, then followed that performance with a season-high 14 tackles vs. Green Bay (10/31). He led the team at Miami (11/13) with 11 stops (nine solo), one fumble recovery and one pass defended. He did not start at Minnesota (12/1) as the Bears opened the game in a nickel package. Jones had 10 stops at Green Bay (12/11) and did not start vs. the Rams (12/18), playing only on special teams because of a chest injury. He had four stops (two solo) in the Bears' 35-18 NFC Wild Card Game victory at Minnesota (1/1/95). He followed that with seven stops (four solo) at San Francisco in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/7/95). He was released by Chicago on March 7. 1993: Jones set a Bears record for most tackles in a season with 189 (117 solo) as he started all 16 games for the first time in his career. He also tied for the team lead with four interceptions for 52 return yards, becoming the first Bears' linebacker since Ross Burpacher in 1976 to lead the team in that category. No Bears middle linebacker had picked off that many passes since Dick Butkus had four interceptions in 1971. He also finished second in pass defenses with 11 and led the team in tackles on nine different occasions, contributing at least 10 tackles in 13 different games. He had 15 stops (10 solo) in the season opener vs. the Giants (9/5). He had three passes defended and a career-high two interceptions vs. Tampa Bay (9/26). Jones had 15 stops, a sack and a fumble recovery at Philadelphia (10/10). He logged 64 tackles in a four-game stretch from 10/10-11/7, including a career-high 18 stops at the Raiders on 11/7. He was awarded the game ball at San Diego (11/14) for registering 14 tackles (12 solo). Jones had a 22-yard interception, 12 tackles (10 solo) on Thanksgiving Day at Detroit (11/25). He was voted the NFC Defensive Player of the Week vs. Green Bay (12/5) for his 11-tackle (six solo), one-interception, one-fumble recovery performance in a 30-17 victory. He returned his interception six yards before laterally to CB Jeremy Lincoln who ran 80 yards for a touchdown. Jones returned the fumble 32 yards for his first professional touchdown. He also led the team in tackles in the final three games of the season (12/18 vs. Denver, 12/26 at Detroit and 1/2/94 at the Rams), including a 14-tackle performance against the Rams. 1992: Jones played in the first 13 games of the season before injuring his right hamstring at Houston (12/7) and being placed on injured reserve (12/11). He finished the season with 29 tackles and 10 special teams stops, the second-highest total on the team. He had five tackles (four solo) at Green Bay (10/25) and seven tackles vs. Minnesota the following week. 1991: Jones played in all 16 games, registering 28 stops (16 solo) and one forced fumble. He had a season-high nine tackles (six solo) vs. the Giants (9/15), preventing a touchdown with a goal-line stop of future Hall of Famer Otis Anderson. He also had six stops (four solo), and one forced fumble at Buffalo (9/29). He had four solo tackles the following week at Washington (10/6). In an NFC Wild Card Game vs. Dallas (12/29), Jones had a career playoff-high eight stops. 1990: Jones played in only two games after injuring his knee in a preseason practice (8/27) and being placed on injured reserve (9/4). He finished the year with nine tackles (six solo), one forced fumble and two sacks. He was activated on 12/29 following the game at Detroit when Ron Rivera, John Roper and Ron Cox were all injured. He had four tackles and a 14-yard sack vs. Tampa Bay (12/23) and another sack for minus seven yards the next week at Kansas City (12/29). Jones recovered a blocked field goal on 1/6/91 vs. New Orleans in a 16-6 NFC Wild Card Playoff victory. He also contributed two tackles on special teams. 1989: Jones played in 10 games, including one start, and registered 28 tackles (14 solo). He started at right outside linebacker in the season opener vs. Cincinnati, recording six tackles. He injured his hamstring at Detroit (9/24) and was placed on injured reserve (9/27). Jones returned to action at Pittsburgh (11/12) and contributed primarily on special teams for the rest of the season. He did replace an injured Mike Singletary in the season finale at San Francisco (12/24) and finished with 14 tackles (nine solo). 1988: Jones played in 15 games in his rookie season, including the first start of his career vs. Dallas (10/16) at right outside linebacker for an injured Ron Morrissey. He had 10 tackles (six solo) before spraining his ankle in the fourth quarter. He did not play the following week at Minnesota (12/19). Jones played on special teams in the Bears' two playoff games, including the NFC Championship Game vs. San Francisco (1/18/89). He had 16 tackles (10 solo) on the season. He was a second-round pick (51st overall) by Chicago in 1988.

COLLEGE: Jones was a four-year letterman at Oklahoma, where he was teammates with former Broncos running back Steve Sewell and current Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman. The Sooners were 42-6-1 while he was there, playing in four consecutive Orange Bowls. He was the Big-8 Defensive Player of the Year and a consensus All-American in 1987, finishing with 118 tackles on a unit that allowed only 82 points in 11 games. In 1986, he played on a defense that was ranked No. 1 in the country in total defense. They set school records for yards per play (2.8), yards per game (169.6) rushing yards per play (1.6) and rushing yards per game (60.7). He was also the Defensive Player of the Game in the 1987 Orange Bowl vs. Arkansas, filling in for a suspended Brian Bosworth. He finished the game with nine solo tackles, one interception and one pass defended. In 1985, the Sooners were the consensus national champions, and Jones filled in for injured starter Paul Migliazzo in the second half of the 1986 Orange Bowl and finished with seven solo tackles, as the Sooners beat Penn State 25-10. He had 71 tackles and four sacks on the season. Jones received a degree in political science from OU.

PERSONAL: Jones attended Dallas' Skyline HS, where he was an all-state linebacker. He enjoys writing songs in his spare time, and has also started his own business, Pro Sports Placement, which sets up appearances for players and organizes special events for charities. His full name is Danté Delaneo Jones. He and his wife Pamela have a son, Jamarcus, and they currently reside in Liberty, Ill.

James Jones comes to the Broncos as a free agent from the Cleveland Browns, along with his former Browns linemate Michael Dean Perry. He is expected to step in and be a force on the revamped Bronco defensive line. Jones is a very athletic player who uses his quickness to beat blockers. He has been a mainstay on the Browns' defensive line for the past four seasons, starting in 49 of his 64 career games played. He has 178 career tackles (117 solo), 12 1/2 career sacks, six fumble recoveries, three forced fumbles and one interception. He has also scored 20 points in his career on a rushing touchdown, a receiving touchdown, his lone interception and a safety. On many occasions he worked out of the Browns' backfield as a lead blocker. 1994: Jones played in all 16 games with five starts. He had 43 tackles (30 solo), three sacks, two forced and two recovered fumbles and one pass defended. He started at right defensive tackle vs. Pittsburgh on 9/11 and recorded seven tackles (six solo). Had a key block on Earnest Byner's one-yard TD run vs. the Jets (10/2) in a 27-7 win. He had his first sack of the year in an 11-8 win at Houston (10/13). He had three stops and four quarterback pressures in a 37-13 win vs. Cincinnati (10/23). He had four stops and forced a Leonard Russell fumble at Denver (10/30). He had five tackles, one sack, one rush for no yards and one reception for one yard vs. New England (11/6). He forced a fumble as he sacked Billy Joe Tolliver in 34-10 win over Houston (11/27). He started at left defensive tackle at Dallas on 12/10 and had five stops. He also played as a blocking back in Cleveland's "Jumbo" formation. Jones started for and injured Bill Johnson at left defensive tackle at Pittsburgh (12/18) and recorded five tackles. He recovered a Dan McGwire fumble in a 35-9 win vs. Seattle in the regular season finale (12/24). He had two stops in an AFC Wild Card Game vs. New England (1/1/95) and four tackles in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game at Pittsburgh. (1/7/95). 1993: Jones played in all 16 games with 12 starts. He registered 39 tackles (22 solo) and a career-high 5.5 sacks for 41 1/2 yards lost. He also scored a rushing touchdown and played on the kickoff return team. He had three tackles and 1 1/2 sacks in the season opener vs. Cincinnati (9/3). He scored his third career touchdown on a one-yard run in front of a Monday Night Football audience in Cleveland's 23-13 win over San Francisco. He recorded three tackles and one sack of Dan Marino (10/10). He had two tackles and one sack at Cincinnati on 10/17 and had five tackles and one sack vs. New Orleans (12/5). Jones had three more tackles and another sack on at the Rams (12/26). 1992: Jones played and started in all 16 games, recording 45 tackles (31 solo), four sacks for 46 yards lost, and one forced and one recovered fumble. He had three tackles and one sack against Todd Marinovich at the Raiders (9/20). He had his most productive game of the season at Cincinnati (11/1) with five solo stops, one assist and a fumble recovery. He was the lead blocker on Kevin Mack's one-yard TD plunge in the fourth quarter to seal a 27-14 win vs. Chicago (11/29). On 12/6 vs. Cincinnati he had two tackles and one sack of David Klinger, forcing a fumble that was recovered by Mike Johnson for a touchdown. Jones caught a one-yard touchdown pass from Bernie Kosar vs. Houston (12/20) and also had two stops and one sack against the Oilers. He had four tackles and one sack in the season finale at Pittsburgh (12/27). 1991: Jones played in and started all 16 games, finishing the year with 51 tackles (34 solo), one sack, three fumble recoveries, one interception, one pass defended and one safety (9/15 vs. Cincinnati). His efforts earned him All-Rookie Team honors from College and Pro Football Newsweekly and the Wooster Browns' Backers' Unsung Hero Award. Jones was credited with three tackles (one solo) and a 15-yard fumble return vs. the Jets (10/6). He tied a team record with two fumble recoveries and added four tackles vs. Kansas City (11/24). He recorded his first NFL interception and returned it 20 yards for a score in a 31-0 victory at Indianapolis. (12/1). He also recorded one sack against the Broncos on 12/8. He was a third-round pick (57th overall) by the Browns.

COLLEGE: Jones played every position on the defensive line at Northern Iowa, as well as starting 11 games at inside linebacker. As a junior and a senior he earned first-team All-America honors from the Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and was also an All-Gateway Conference first-team choice. He finished with 65 tackles (40 solo), four sacks and eight stops for 15 yards in losses as a senior. He also recovered a fumble and caused three others. Jones was also used as a fullback and lead blocker in goal-line situations and scored a touchdown against Illinois State. As a junior, he started every game at defensive end, finishing second on the team with 70 tackles (46 solo), six sacks and seven stops for 17 yards in losses. He also recovered one fumble and caused three others. He was a Gateway Conference honorable mention selection as a defensive end as a sophomore, registering 59 tackles (18 solo) with six sacks and 10 tackles for losses of 62 yards, plus three fumble recoveries. As a freshman he had 33 tackles (12 solo) with four sacks and three fumble recoveries. He majored in science at Northern Iowa.

PERSONAL: Jones was a two-time all-conference selection during his two year football career at Central (Davenport, Iowa) HS. With the Browns, James was very active in the community. He was named the 1993 "Edge NFL Man of the Year" for his community involvement. He designated the United Negro Fund as recipient of the $1,000 donation he received with his award. He received the 1993 Cleveland Touchdown Club's Humanitarian Award. Among the causes James has donated time to are: The Cleveland Food Drive for the hungry, youth talks at local YMCA's about the importance of staying in school, Western, Pa. "Make-A-Wish", Cleveland cops, Kids & Christmas Function, Multiple Sclerosis Walk, Swim for Diabetes, Anti-Drug and Alcohol Awareness talks, Celebrity Waiter for the American Lung Association, Concern II (cancer research) and hospital visitation programs. He also participated in the Cleveland Plain Dealer spelling bee in the spring of 1994 and '93 with then-teammate Tommy Vardell. Jones enjoys playing baseball and videos games in his spare time. He is the co-owner of Jones' Tire Service in his hometown of Davenport, Iowa. He once attempted a boxing career for one week before realizing it was more fun to hit people than to get hit. He is married and his wife's name is Son-Ja. His full name is James Alfie Jones.

Rondell Jones returns in his third season to bolster the Broncos' secondary, whether in nickel situations or as a starting free safety. 1994: Jones played in all 16 games and made three starts at free safety. He finished the season with 55 tackles (37 solo), two interceptions (tied for the team lead) for nine return yards, five passes defended and one fumble recovery. His first career start came in game two at the New York Jets (9/11) and he responded emphatically, leading the team with nine tackles (4 solo) and pulling down his first two career interceptions, one of which came with the Jets driving deep in Broncos territory. Jones also had a fine game against Seattle, scooping up his first career fumble recovery, and matched his season high of nine tackles (7 solo) in game 15 at San Francisco. 1993: Jones played primarily on special teams in his rookie season, being credited with four solo and two assisted tackles.

COLLEGE: Jones was a first team All-America and All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection as a senior. A durable athlete, Jones started 38 regular season games for North Carolina, with four-year totals of 350 tackles (212 solo), three interceptions, and 19 passes defended for the Tar Heels. As a senior, Jones led the team in tackles with a career-high 110 (63 solo). He was a second-team All-ACC pick as a junior and was the team's Most Outstanding Defensive Back as a sophomore. Jones tallied 72 tackles in six games and intercepted two passes as a freshman. He majored in industrial relations at North Carolina.

PERSONAL: Rondell is single and makes his offseason home in Sunderland, Md. He was a two-time all-county selection as a defensive back and all-conference on both offense and defense in his senior year at Northern (Sunderland) HS. He was also county MVP and a Washington Post all-metro second-team selection. Overall, he lettered three times in football and track, and twice in basketball.

Keith Kartz returns for his ninth season with the Broncos in 1995 after missing the entire 1994 season while recovering from an offseason ski accident that required knee surgery. As a pro, Kartz has started in 89 of the 100 games in which he has played and is regarded as a team leader by his peers. His competitive nature and toughness earned him the team's nomination for the Ed Block Memorial Award For Courage in 1990. 1994: Kartz was placed on the inactive list for the first 11 games and was then placed on injured reserve just prior to the Cincinnati game (11/27) for the remainder of the season. 1993: Kartz battled injury for much of the 1993 season. After missing several weeks in mid-season, he returned to the starting lineup in week thirteen to solidify the line for the home stretch. 1992: Kartz continued his fine play as Denver's starting center in 1992, starting 15 games and missing only the season opener because of a strained calf. 1991: He started every regular season game in 1991 but saw only limited action against Houston and Buffalo in the playoffs because of a thigh strain. He took the field only to snap on field goals and extra points in those games. 1990: He is considered by Denver coaches to be one of the NFL's top centers, and in 1990 was named the Broncos' Most Inspirational Player by his teammates. He was also honored as Denver's nominee for the Ed Block Memorial Award For Courage. 1989: Kartz started every game at center in 1989 for Denver, his first season ever at that position. His play was impressive enough to garner alternate status for the Pro Bowl. 1988: He started 12 games at the right guard position for Denver in 1988 but was hampered late in the season by a dislocated right toe. He began the season as a reserve but moved into a starting role in week two after Stefan Humphries was injured. Kartz started the next 11 games before injuring his toe at New Orleans (11/20). He sat out the following three contests but returned to start in the season finale vs. New England (12/17). 1987: Kartz joined the Broncos as a free agent in 1987 and was placed on injured reserve with a back injury in early September. He rejoined the active squad before the Oct. 4 contest vs. Houston and started all three replacement games. Kartz went on to play in all but one of the remaining regular and postseason games. He turned in a fine performance in Super Bowl XXII (1/31) after Dave Studdard left the game with an injury. 1986: Kartz attended Seattle's training camp in 1986.

COLLEGE: Kartz was All-Pac-10 and All-West Coast as a tackle at the University of California. He played for the Golden Bears from 1981-85, redshirting in 1983. Kartz has a bachelor's degree in social science.

PERSONAL: Keith is single and resides in Aurora, Colo. He attended San Diequito HS in Encinitas, Calif., lettering three times in football and track, and twice in basketball. His full name is Keith Leonard Kartz.

Tony Kimbrough looks to make his mark among Denver's wide receivers and on special teams in 1995 as he returns for his third season with the club. 1994: Kimbrough played in 12 games, was inactive for three and did not play in one (at N.Y. Jets, 9/11). He finished the season with two receptions for 20 yards, the first of which came against Atlanta (11/20). He registered his other reception several weeks later, an eight-yard catch at San Francisco (12/17). 1993: Kimbrough was asked to play in key situations for the Broncos in his rookie year and gained valuable experience. Blessed with blazing speed, Kimbrough was often a target on fly patterns, catching eight passes for 79 yards.

COLLEGE: Kimbrough was drafted by the Broncos in the seventh round from Jackson State in 1993. In his collegiate career, Kimbrough caught 46 passes for 1,178 yards and eight touchdowns. He was a third-team All-America and an All-Southwestern Athletic Conference selection as a senior. In his final year, Kimbrough caught 35 passes for 900 yards and six touchdowns. On the season he also had four 100-yard reception games. As a junior, Kimbrough played in seven games, catching two passes for 80 yards. In 1990, he caught seven passes for 146 yards and one touchdown. Following his redshirt freshman year, Kimbrough caught two passes for 52 yards and a score. He was a criminal justice major while attending Jackson State.

PERSONAL: Tony is single and makes his offseason home in McCool, Miss. He was an all-state receiver in his final two years at Weir HS in Weir, Miss. His full name is Antonius Kimbrough.

Bill Lewis comes to the Broncos as a free agent in 1995 after sitting out the 1994 season. Lewis was last active with the New England Patriots in 1993. He has played in 71 career NFL games, starting 63 of them for the Los Angeles Raiders, Phoenix Cardinals and New England Patriots. 1994: Lewis was released by the Patriots on June 1st and did not play with any NFL team. 1993: Lewis played in seven games, starting five at center for New England. He signed with the Pats as an unrestricted free agent from the Arizona Cardinals. The Patriots had their top three rushing outputs of the season in three of the seven games in which Lewis played. He started at center for the first two games of quarterback Drew Bledsoe's career, at Buffalo (9/5) and vs. Detroit (9/12). The Bills game was his first start as a Patriot. He suffered an injury to his right knee in the Lions game that sidelined him for the next five weeks. He returned to the active roster on 10/31 at Indianapolis, but did not see any playing time. He returned to the starting lineup on 11/7 vs. Buffalo, as the Pats rushed for 187 yards, their second-highest total of the season. He also started the next two weeks at Miami (11/21) and vs. the Jets (11/28). Against New York, the Patriots rushed for 155 yards, their third-highest total of the season. In the Jets game, Lewis suffered a sprained left knee and was inactive on 12/5 at Pittsburgh. He was active on 12/12 vs. Cincinnati, but did not play. He played in a reserve role at Cleveland on 12/19 and vs. Indianapolis on 12/26. Against the Colts, the Pats had their highest offensive total of the season (400 yards) and their highest rushing output of the season (257 yards, 8th most in team history). Lewis did not play in the season finale vs. Miami (1/2/94). 1992: Lewis started all six games in which he played for the Cardinals. He missed the first four games of the season due to contract negotiations, eventually signing on 10/7. He started at center in his first game back at the Giants (10/11). He started three more games before suffering an injury that sidelined him for five more weeks. 1991: Lewis started all 16 games for the Cardinals, taking 993 snaps throughout the season, despite a number of injuries. He was one of only two Cardinal players to play every offensive down that season. He sustained a fracture to his right thumb vs. the Giants (11/10) and was forced to switch to his left hand to snap the ball. He then sprained his left wrist the following week at San Francisco (11/17), but still handled the snapping duties. Lewis was also credited with one fumble recovery during the season. 1990: Lewis started all 16 games for the Cardinals after signing as a Plan B free agent from the Los Angeles Raiders. Lewis only missed three offensive plays all season (leg injury). He helped to solidify an offensive line that only allowed 43 sacks on the season, fewest since 1979 (39), and opened up holes for running back Johnny Johnson, who earned Pro Bowl honors in his rookie season. 1989: Lewis did not play in any games, suiting up for eight and being inactive for seven others with the Los Angeles Raiders. 1988: Lewis played in 14 games for the Raiders, starting all 14 of them. He took over the starting position after Pro Bowl center Don Mosebar was moved to tackle early in the season. 1987: Lewis played in eight games for the Raiders, starting six of them. He played a guard position on an offensive line that opened holes for a league-leading average of 4.6 yards per rush and enabled the Raiders to finish second in the league in rushing offense. 1986: Lewis played in four games as a rookie. He was placed on the non-football illness list for one month (9/22-10/23) after undergoing an apendectomy. He was a seventh-round draft pick (191st overall) by the Raiders.

COLLEGE: Bill became the fourth All-America center at Nebraska in five years as a senior in 1985. He earned first-team honors from the Football Writers Association of America. He was an Associated Press second-team All American and also garnered All-Big Eight recognition. He played in three bowl games in his career (Orange, Sugar and Fiesta), including the 1984 Orange Bowl vs. Miami (Fla.), regarded by many as one of the greatest college football games of all time. Lewis was also nominated for the Outland Trophy in 1985. He played tackle and guard early in his career while earning three varsity letters. He majored in business administration.

PERSONAL: Bill and his wife Kimberly have one daughter (Taylor) and one son (Alexander). Kimberly is the cheerleader director for the NBA's Phoenix Suns. Lewis earned all-conference and second-team all-state honors as a center at East (Sioux City) HS. He also played forward on the basketball team and catcher and first baseman on the baseball team. Lewis was a teammate of fellow Bronco newcomer Lionel Washington when the two played for the Raiders. His full name is William Glenn Lewis.

97 MIKE LODISH • Defensive Tackle

Birthplace – Detroit, Mich.
Residence – Chicago, Ill.
How Acquired – Unrestricted FA 1995
College – UCLA
High School – Brother Rice HS,
 Birmingham, Mich.
Height – 6-3
Weight – 280
Pro Year – 6th
Year with Broncos – 1st

Mike Lodish was signed by the Broncos as free agent from the Buffalo Bills, where he was a top backup on a defensive line that featured perennial All-Pro Bruce Smith. Mike was a part of the Bills' four consecutive AFC championship teams. Lodish is regarded as a player with tremendous work ethic and enthusiasm. He will be a pivotal addition to Denver's defensive line in 1995. In his career, he has played in 76 games, with 12 starts, and in 13 playoff games as well. He has 74 career stops (55 solo), 4 1/2 sacks, 15 quarterback pressures, and three fumble recoveries, one of which he returned for a touchdown. 1994: Lodish played in all 16 of the Bills' games, starting five. He had 17 tackles (nine solo), three quarterback pressures, and one fumble recovery. He started the first five games of the season in place of an injured Jeff Wright. In week two vs. New England (9/11), he recovered a fumble in the endzone for Buffalo's only second half touchdown (and the second of his career) against the Patriots in a 38-35 victory. Cornerback Mickey Washington and Bruce Smith forced the fumble by Drew Bledsoe. Lodish played in a reserve role for the remainder of the regular season. 1993: Lodish played in all 16 games, including one start, and registered seven stops (all solo), one half of a sack and two quarterback pressures. He also played in all three playoff games, registering two stops (both solo). On 10/11 he combined with Mickey Washington for a sack of Warren Moon in a 35-7 Monday night victory. On 11/1, he saw extensive action vs. Washington, recording one quarterback pressure in a 24-10 win. He recorded his second career fumble recovery at Miami (12/19) as the Bills came from behind to beat the Dolphins 47-34. He had one unassisted stop in both the AFC Championship Game vs. Kansas City (1/23) and Super Bowl XXVIII vs. Dallas (1/30). 1992: Lodish played in all 16 games and in all four playoff games. He was part of a defensive line that helped the Bills finish tied for second in the NFL in defense against the run. He had seven stops on the year (five solo), one half of a sack, four quarterback pressures, one pass defended, and a fumble recovery on which he scored his first NFL touchdown. He scooped up a fumble by current Bronco teammate Hugh Millen and rumbled 18 yards for a score at New England (9/27) in a 41-7 victory. He also had a half a sack at New Orleans (12/20) in a 20-16 victory. 1991: Lodish played in all 16 games, starting six, and also played in all three playoff games. He finished the regular season with 37 tackles (28 solo), one and a half sacks, four quarterback pressures, two passes defended and one forced fumble. He also added two stops in postseason play. He filled in admirably in the absence of both Bruce Smith and Jeff Wright during the season. He received his first NFL start vs. Miami (9/1) in place of Smith, and then received another start the next week at nose tackle in place of Wright vs. Pittsburgh (9/8). He recorded his third career sack and his first career forced fumble at the Jets in a 23-20 win. He recorded two solo stops in Super Bowl XXVI vs. Washington (1/26). 1990: Lodish played in 12 games as a rookie, as well as all three playoff games. He registered six tackles (all solo), a career-high two sacks, two QB pressures and one pass defended in the regular season, and added two solo stops in three post season games. He was part of a defense that ranked eighth in the league in total defense in 1990. He recorded his first career sack against Randall Cunningham and the Eagles (12/2). His second career sack came against Dan Marino vs. Miami on 12/23. He also had two solo stops in Super Bowl XXV vs. the New York Giants (1/27). Lodish was Buffalo's 10th-round selection in the 1990 NFL Draft, the 265th player taken overall.

COLLEGE: Mike was an All-Pac-10 performer at UCLA, where he and his Bruin teammates went to a bowl the first three years that he was there (Freedom, Aloha, and Cotton). In 1987, his Bruins tied for the Pac-10 Conference title with USC. He was a candidate for the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award as a senior when he earned second-team All-Pac-10 honors. Lodish was an extraordinarily strong athlete at Westwood, squatting over 650 pounds for the school record in that category. He recorded 193 tackles with 14 sacks and three interceptions in his Bruin career. In 1987 and '88 he was part of a defense that ranked in the top 10 in the nation against the run, allowing just 95 yards per game over those two seasons. The defensive line coach at that time was current Bronco defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Mike was a history major with a specialization in business administration.

PERSONAL: Mike lettered three years in football at Brother Rice (Birmingham, Mich.) HS, where he led his team to the Michigan State Class A title in 1983. He also lettered in lacrosse and hockey. He was named All-America by Adidas-Scholastic Coach. Lodish is single and makes his offseason home in Chicago, Ill. His full name is Michael Timothy Lodish.

Ed McCaffrey has proven throughout his career that he is a dependable wideout and valuable special teams player. He was signed by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from the San Francisco 49ers, and should compete for considerable playing time behind Anthony Miller and Mike Pritchard. He has played in all 64 regular season games in his career and has also participated in five playoff games, including Super Bowl XXIX as a member of the 49ers, where played with current Broncos Bill Musgrave and John Ivlov and played for current Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan, as well as assistant coaches Gary Kubiak and Brian Pariani. McCaffrey has 103 career catches for 1,222 yards (11.9 average) and nine touchdowns in the regular season, as well as six receptions for 64 yards (10.7) in the postseason. 1994: McCaffrey played in all 16 regular season games for the 49ers and in all three postseason games. He had 11 catches for 131 yards (12.0 average) and two touchdowns in the regular season and one reception for five yards in the playoffs. He also had eight special teams tackles in the regular season. McCaffrey caught one pass for eight yards, recorded two special teams tackles and forced a fumble at Detroit (10/9). He had three receptions for 34 yards, including a 34-yard touchdown versus Tampa Bay (10/23), and recovered an on-side kick late in the fourth quarter of the 49ers 21-14 victory over Dallas (11/13). He caught five passes for 59 yards, including a one-yard touchdown in the regular season finale at Minnesota (12/26). He is one reception against San Diego in the Super Bowl (1/29/95), a five-yarder, came in the second quarter. McCaffrey was acquired by the 49ers July 25, 1994 as a free agent after being waived by the Giants July 18. 1993: McCaffrey played in all 16 regular season games with one start for the New York Giants, and also played in both New York playoff contests.

He finished fourth on the team with 27 receptions for 335 yards and two touchdowns. He had touchdown receptions versus Philadelphia (10/17) and Phoenix (11/28). McCaffrey's one start came against the Jets (10/31) when he replaced an injured Mike Sherrard in the lineup. His most productive game of the season was in the NFC Divisional Playoff Game at San Francisco (1/15/94) when he caught five passes for 59 yards. 1992: McCaffrey played in all 16 games with three starts and led the Giants in receiving with 49 catches for 610 yards. He was also the team's fourth-leading scorer with five touchdowns. McCaffrey had back-to-back five-reception outings to begin the season versus San Francisco (9/6) and Dallas (9/13). He received his first NFL start versus Green Bay (11/8) and also started against Philadelphia (11/11) and Dallas (11/26). He had career highs in receptions (6), yards (105) and longest reception (44 yards) in the Thanksgiving Day clash with the Cowboys. 1991: McCaffrey played in all 16 games as a third wide receivers and on special teams. He finished the year with 16 catches for 146 yards as a rookie. He had three receptions versus the Rams (9/8) and also at Philadelphia (11/4). The best game of his rookie season came at Tampa Bay (11/24) when he caught four passes for 35 yards, including two on the Giants' game-winning drive in a 21-14 victory. He was a third-round pick of the Giants in 1991, No. 83 overall.

COLLEGE: McCaffrey was a Kodak All-America choice following his senior season at Stanford (1990) and was selected to play in the East-West Shrine Game. He was an All-Pac-10 choice as a junior and senior and finished his career with 146 receptions for 2,333 yards (16.0 average) and 14 touchdowns. During his senior season he pulled down 61 receptions for 917 yards (15.0) and eight touchdowns. The Cardinal receiving corps that year compiled 2,763 yards receiving, the most since 1985 (2,874). One of McCaffrey's teammates at Stanford was current Broncos running back Glyn Milburn. Ed was a biology major at Stanford and plans to attend medical school when he is finished playing pro football.

PERSONAL: Ed and his wife Lisa make their offseason home in Allentown, Pa., with their son Maxwell. McCaffrey was an All-America football player, MVP in baseball with a .540 batting average, and a 21.3-point per game scorer in basketball at Central Catholic HS in Allentown. His brother Billy was All-America basketball guard at Vanderbilt after being a member of Duke's NCAA championship squad in 1991. McCaffrey's hometown has also produced some pretty fair quarterbacks, such as Joe Namath and Joe Montana. Ed's full name is Edward McCaffrey.

68 REGGIE McELROY • Off. Tackle

Birthplace - Beaumont, Texas
Residence - Beaumont, Texas
How Acquired - FA 1995
College - West Texas State
High School - Charlton Pollard HS
 Beaumont, Texas
Height - 6-6

Pro Year - 12th
Year with Broncos - 1st

Reggie McElroy was signed by the Broncos as a free agent in 1995 to help solidify the offensive line. He is a veteran of 11 previous NFL seasons and figures to be a valuable addition to the offensive line. He has played in 142 career games with 88 regular season starts, and in the three playoff games with one start. During his career he has blocked for many great backs, including Marcus Allen of the Chiefs/Raiders, and Freeman McNeil of the Jets. He spent the 1994 season with the Minnesota Vikings and helped them to have a fine offensive season. The Vikings offensive line gave up a sack every 22.7 pass attempts in 1994, second-best in team history. 1994: Reggie played in 10 regular season games for the Vikings and in one playoff game. He played mostly in short yardage and goal-line situations. He also played on the extra point and field goal protection teams while backing up at both tackle positions. He was signed by the Vikings prior to their preseason game vs. Kansas City (8/7) in Tokyo, but was not allowed to play because he did not have a Japanese work visa. He had been released by the Chiefs earlier in the year. 1993: Reggie played in eight games for the Kansas City Chiefs after being signed by the club June 11. While at K.C., McElroy's offensive line coach was current Broncos offensive line coach Alex Gibbs. The Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game at Buffalo (1/23/94). McElroy was inactive for the championship game. 1992: McElroy played in all 16 games with the Raiders, including 12 starts at right tackle. 1991: Reggie played in all 16 games with the Raiders, including four starts at right guard. He also played in the Raiders' 10-6 AFC Wild Card Game loss at Kansas City (12/28/91). He joined the club as a free agent on March 20, 1991. 1990: McElroy was waived by the New York Jets (6/21/90) and did not play for any team in the league during the 1990 season. 1989: Reggie played in 15 games for the New York Jets, starting all of them. He suffered a knee injury versus the Rams (12/17) and spent the season finale against Buffalo (12/23) on injured reserve. 1988: Reggie started all 16 games at right tackle for the first time in four years. During that season, McElroy and his linemates helped Freeman McNeil record the eighth-highest single-game rushing total in Jets history (154 yards vs. Kansas City, 10/2). They also helped the Jets set a team record for total offense in a game with 597 yards vs. Miami (11/27) in a 38-34 victory. 1987: McElroy played in eight games, including five starts at right tackle. He rebounded from knee surgery to play in the final eight games of the season, including starting the last five. He was activated from the "reserve/PUP" list (11/8) and saw spot duty during the next three games. 1986: Reggie played in eight games, starting all eight and making the switch from left tackle to right tackle. During that season, the Jets passed for 3,646 yards, second-most in team history. They also tied for second in team history for total offense in a game on Sept. 21 vs. Miami (581) in a 51-45 overtime victory. The 51 points is third-most in team history. He started the first seven games of the season at right tackle before suffering a left knee injury in Week seven vs. Denver (10/20) that put him on injured reserve from Oct. 22 until he was activated Dec. 12. Until his injury, he had not allowed a sack or the quarterback to be hit in a game. He returned to the starting lineup Dec. 13 vs. Pittsburgh, but twisted his knee again and was placed on IR (12/17) following knee surgery, forcing him to miss both playoff games. 1985: Reggie played in 13 games, starting 11 of them at left tackle. During that season, the Jets enjoyed one of their finest offensive outputs in team annals. They scored 393 points (second-most ever), had 2,312 rushing yards (third), 3,584 passing yards (third) and 5,896 total yards (first). Reggie missed the season opener (at Raiders, 9/8) because of contract negotiations. He also missed two other games with a groin injury. On 9/15, the Jets rolled up the third-highest rushing total in team history (288 yards, 42 att.) in a 42-3 victory vs. Buffalo. They also had their second-highest total offensive output vs. Tampa Bay (11/17) with 581 yards in a 62-28 win. The 62 points was also a team record. Reggie also started in the AFC Wild Card Game vs. New England (12/28). 1984: For the first time in his career, McElroy started all 16 games. 1983: Reggie played in all 16 games, including one start. During that season, the Jets amassed 5,493 total yards, second-most in team history. McElroy received his first career start in the season finale at Miami (12/16), playing left guard. 1982: Reggie spent the entire season on injured reserve after suffering a preseason knee injury. He was a second-round pick (51 st overall by the Jets), the 11th offensive lineman taken in the '82 draft.

COLLEGE: Reggie was a four-year starter at offensive tackle at West Texas State. He was an All-Missouri Valley Conference choice his freshman, junior and senior years. He was an honorable mention All-America pick as a senior. McElroy earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from West Texas State.

PERSONAL: McElroy was an all-league pick in both football (as a two-way lineman) and basketball (as a center) at Beaumont Carlton HS, Beaumont, Texas. He has two sons, Michael and Christopher.

Bob Meeks looks to return to the active roster this year after missing last season with a neck injury. Meeks is considered one of the strongest offensive linemen on the team and can play both guard and center, but will primarily focus on the guard position in 1995. 1994: Meeks spent the entire season on injured reserve after undergoing surgery during training camp to repair a bulging disk in his neck. 1993: Meeks played a back-up role on a very talented offensive line, participating in seven games. 1992: Meeks earned a spot as the third center on Denver's roster. He was one of the Broncos' inactive players for 10 games and was active but did not play in six others. Meeks joined the team as a 10th-round draft choice.

COLLEGE: Meeks was a first team All-Southeastern Conference and honorable mention All-America candidate as a senior center at Auburn. A team captain that year, he was also named the Tigers' best lineman and offensive player of the year. He closed out his college career with appearances in the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl all-star games.

PERSONAL: Bob and his wife Monique are the parents of a daughter, Jasmine Alexandria Meeks, born Sept. 3, 1994. The couple makes their home in Littleton, Colo. A native of Andalusia, Ala., Meeks lettered four times in football and three times in basketball at Evergreen HS in Evergreen, Ala. Bob was an adult education major at Auburn and lists fishing, hunting, and weightlifting as his favorite hobbies. His full name is Robert Earl Meeks, Jr.

22 GLYN MILBURN • Running Back

Birthplace – Santa Monica, Calif.
Residence – Highlands Ranch, Colo.
How Acquired – Draft #2, 1993
College – Stanford
High School – Santa Monica HS
 Santa Monica, Calif.
Height – 5-8
Weight – 177
Pro Year – 3rd
Year with Broncos – 3rd

Glyn Milburn has proven himself as one the NFL's quickest and most dangerous all-purpose backs in his first two seasons in the league, and looks to flourish in Mike Shanahan's new offensive schemes. The speedy and versatile Milburn has already accumulated 2,943 all-purpose yards in his first two seasons in the league. He was invited to participate in the 1995 NFL's Fastest Man Competition in Phoenix in May. 1994: Milburn compiled a career-best 1,818 all-purpose yards, including 201 rushing (58 attempts, 3.5 average), 549 receiving (77 receptions, 7.1 average), 793 on kickoff returns (37 returns) and 379 on punt returns (41 returns). His 77 receptions were first among all NFL running backs in '94 and the most ever in a season by a Broncos running back, while his 9.2-yard punt return average ranked sixth in the AFC. Milburn had his best day as a pro in all-purpose yardage at Los Angeles (Rams, 11/6), amassing 202 yards on rushing, receiving and kick returning, and scoring once on a 20-yard pass reception. He also had a 34-yard punt return and a 38-yard kickoff return in that contest. Milburn's longest punt return came at San Diego (10/23) when he broke loose on a 44-yard scamper. His top rushing outing was a 38-yard performance against Cleveland (10/30), while his top receiving showing came against the L.A. Raiders when he hauled in nine passes for 85 yards. That receiving performance earned Milburn the weekly MVP vote from his teammates. He scored his first career rushing touchdown at San Francisco (12/17) on an 11-yard dash. For the season he played in 16 games and made three starts. 1993: Milburn showed the versatile talents the Broncos expected in his rookie season, catching 38 passes for 300 yards and three touchdowns, rushing 52 times for 231 yards, returning 40 punts with a 10.6-yard average (fifth in the AFC and eight in the NFL) and returning 12 kickoffs with a 15.7-yard average. He finished his rookie season with 1,125 all-purpose yards. Milburn had a sterling debut at the New York Jets (9/5), accounting for 148 all-purpose yards, including a 50-yard reception, a 36-yard punt return, and a 25-yard touchdown reception. Two weeks later at Kansas City (9/20), Milburn caught a season-high eight passes. Versus Minnesota (11/14) he accounted for a season-high 173 all-purpose yards, handling the ball 16 times as a rusher, pass receiver and return man. Versus Tampa Bay (12/26), Milburn broke loose for his longest punt return of the season, 54 yards.

COLLEGE: Milburn was one of the most exciting players in college football his last three years at Stanford, accounting for 6,049 all-purpose yards during his collegiate career. His 2,263 rushing yards ranks third in Cardinal history, and he added 1,558 receiving yards, 1,186 kickoff return yards, 1,042 punt return yards, and scored 24 touchdowns in his three years at Stanford. As a senior Milburn was a first-team All-American (Associated Press and Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft), rushing for 851 yards and four touchdowns, catching 37 passes with two touchdowns, and finishing with a 17.3 yard punt return average with three touchdowns.

PERSONAL: Glyn is single and makes his offseason home in Inglewood, Calif. He received numerous accolades as a prepster, including prep All-America (Super Prep Magazine), second-team All-America (USA Today), and "Best of the West" (Long Beach Press Telegram) to name a few. His full name is Glyn Curt Milburn.

Ostell Miles came to the Broncos as a free agent and will be a valuable addition to Denver's backfield. He is an impressive runner who has excellent speed for his size. He is also a solid contributor on special teams. Miles started his pro career with the Cincinnati Bengals in 1992, playing in 26 games, including two starts. 1994: Miles was released by the Bengals on Aug. 1 and did not sign with any other team. 1993: Miles played in 15 games with the Bengals, starting two. He finished the season with 22 carries for 56 yards (2.5 average) and one touchdown. He also caught six passes for 89 yards (14.8), returned four kickoffs for 65 yards and had three special teams tackles. Miles started the season opener at Cleveland (9/6) in place of Harold Green and scored the Bengals' first touchdown of the season on a four-yard run in the first quarter. He had receptions of 27 (career long) and 22 yards at Houston (10/24) and had 39 yards on 14 carries in the next game with Houston (11/14). Miles was the only Bengal to record three Hit of the Week Awards on special teams (at Cleveland, vs. Indianapolis and vs. Houston). He also led all Bengal running backs with 231 special teams plays, fifth-most on the team. 1992: Miles played in 11 games, totalling eight carries for 22 yards (2.8), eight kickoff returns for 128 yards and one special teams stop. He made his pro debut at Seattle (9/6) and had four carries for nine yards. He was a teammate of current Broncos defensive back Eric Thomas in '92 with the Bengals. Miles was a ninth-round draft pick (226th overall) of the Bengals.

COLLEGE: Miles played six games in 1991 at the University of Houston, where he rushed for 360 yards on 50 carries (7.2 average) and one touchdown, while catching six passes for 39 yards (6.5) before leaving school for personal reasons. Two of his teammates at Houston were Cincinnati Bengals quarterback David Klingler and current Broncos linebacker Allen Aldridge. During his one season at Houston, the Cougars finished 13th in the nation in total offense (446.2) and 17th in scoring offense (32.1). They also finished first in the Southwest Conference in total offense and second in scoring offense. Miles produced two 100-yard rushing games that season, the first of which came at Illinois (9/21) when racked up 107 yards on 13 carries (8.2). He also topped the century mark at Arkansas (10/12) with 179 yards on 19 carries (9.4). Miles transferred to Houston after two stellar seasons at Pasadena (Calif.) City College. He was a first-team junior college All-American his senior season when he rushed for 1,560 yards on 264 carries (5.9 average). Miles had 160 yards in the Orange County Bowl and also was a two-time all-conference selection.

PERSONAL: Miles is originally from Denver where he attended George Washington HS. He is single and makes his home in Denver.

17 HUGH MILLEN • Quarterback

Birthdate – November 22, 1963
Birthplace – Des Moines, Iowa
Residence – Seattle, Wash.
How Acquired – Unrestricted FA, 1994
College – Washington
High School – Roosevelt HS
 Seattle, Wash.
Height – 6-5

Hugh Millen enters his second season with the Broncos looking to solidify his position as the backup to starting quarterback John Elway. The reliable Millen came through on several occasions last year and guided the fortunes of the Broncos offense admirably while Elway was out with an injury. The nine-year NFL veteran has passed for 6,223 yards in his career and has completed 60.1% of his passes (534 of 888). He has played for six different teams, five of which have featured a Pro Bowl quarterback as the starter: L.A. Rams (Jim Everett), Atlanta (Chris Miller), Dallas (Troy Aikman), Miami (Dan Marino) and Denver (John Elway). 1994: Millen played in five games and made two starts, against the Raiders (12/11) and New Orleans (12/24) while Elway was resting an injured left knee. He finished the season with 81 completions in 131 attempts (61.8%) for 893 yards, two touchdowns and three interceptions. He also rushed five times for 57 yards, with a long of 24. Millen saw his first action of the season in game three against the Raiders when he completed 11 of 17 passes for 101 yards. His next appearance was perhaps his finest of the season as he replaced an injured Elway in the fourth quarter at Kansas City (12/4) and led the team to an overtime victory. Though he completed just 5-of-13 passes for 37 yards, he rushed for a key first down on a third-and-17 play, picking up 21 yards to keep the winning drive alive. He drove the Broncos to the K.C. 17-yard line where Jason Elam came on to kick to game-winning field goal. That win made Millen 3-0 in overtime games in his career (the other two were starts while with New England in 1991). Millen made his first start the following week at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) and finished the day 20-of-33 for 242 yards and one touchdown, also rushing one time for 24 yards. He then posted his most impressive numbers the following week at San Francisco when he replaced Elway in the third quarter and went on to complete 19-of-23 passes (82.6%) for 217 yards. Among those was a 76-yard pass play to Anthony Miller that goes into the Broncos' record book as the team's third-longest non-scoring pass play. He entered the game in the third period and immediately drove the Broncos to a touchdown after an Elijah Alexander interception set them up at their own 49-yard line. Millen completed all seven of his passes on the drive to put Denver at the San Francisco 11-yard line, where Glyn Milburn took a handoff on the following play and found the end zone to cut the 49ers lead to 28-13. Millen again led the Broncos to a touchdown on their next possession aided by the 76-yard pass play to Miller. Millen completed his last seven passes at L.A. and his first 13 at San Francisco, tying Ken Anderson for the all-time AFC record for consecutive completions with 20. Anderson did it against the Oilers Jan. 2, 1983. That mark was just two shy of the NFL record of 22 set by Joe Montana. He made his second start of the season in the finale against New Orleans, completing 25 of 44 attempts for a season-high 290 yards, one touchdown and three interceptions, while rushing for eight yards. Millen was signed by the Broncos during the summer of '94, just prior to the start of training camp. 1993: Millen was traded to Dallas on Draft Day

'93 where he spent the first half of the season before being waived when the Cowboys signed Bernie Kosar. He was then signed by Miami (11/15), with whom he spent the remainder of the season. He did not play in any games for either team. 1992: Millen finished his second of two seasons in New England where he threw for 4,276 yards in just 20 games over that span, finishing as the club's No. 5 all-time leader in passing yardage. He also set a team record for career completion percentage at 60.4% (370 of 612), a record that still stands. He started 20 of the Patriots 32 games in his two years. In '92, Millen started the first five games of the year, even after separating his shoulder in the first quarter of the season-opener against the Rams (9/13). He missed one start but returned to the lineup in Week Seven vs. Cleveland (10/25). He re-aggravated the shoulder and missed the next five games. He started again in Week 13 against Indianapolis (12/6), but then re-injured the shoulder and was placed on injured reserve Dec. 9. He underwent surgery to repair the shoulder Dec. 15 and sat out the rest of the season. In his seven starts in '92 he completed 124 of 203 passes (61.1%) for 1,203 yards and eight touchdowns. He also rushed for 108 yards on 17 attempts. 1991: Millen started the final 13 games in his first season with New England, after moving in to the starting lineup in Week Four. His 3,073 passing yards marked only the fifth time in New England's 31-year history that a quarterback had surpassed the 3,000-yard barrier in a season. His 246 completions were the third-most in team history, and his completion percentage of 60.1% for the season tied for the second-best single-season mark in club history. Selected the team's MVP in a vote among Patriots' players, Millen's 7.51 yards per attempt ranked him second in the AFC behind Jim Kelly. He led the rebuilding Patriots to a 6-10 record after the club had posted the NFL's worst mark (1-15 in 1990) prior to his arrival. He earned his first Patriot start on 9/22/91 and led his team to a 24-20 upset over the previously undefeated Oilers by completing 22 of 33 passes for 326 yards and one touchdown. Millen was named the Miller Lite Player-of-the-Game at Miami after completing 20 of 26 attempts for 257 yards and two TDs in a losing effort. He then topped that performance the next week (11/17) by collecting a career-high 372 yards in a loss to the Jets where he completed 30 (third-most completions in Patriot history) of 43 passes with one TD to win the Miller Lite Player-of-the-Week award again. He picked up his only career rushing TD on a one-yard run in a 16-13 win over the AFC Champion Buffalo Bills (11/24). Millen also led the Patriots to overtime victories against Minnesota and Indianapolis. 1990: Millen started the final two games of the season for the Atlanta Falcons, completing 34 of 53 passes and leading the Falcons to two victories that snapped a seven-game losing streak. In the final game of the '90 campaign he led Atlanta to a 26-7 win over Dallas that knocked the Cowboys out of the playoff picture. 1989: Millen made his first career start for Atlanta against the Packers (10/1), completing 20 of 29 passes for 294 yards, and completed 31 of 50 passes for 432 yards in five games worth of action for the year. 1988: Millen was claimed off waivers by the Falcons in August of 1988 and played in three games, completing 17 of 31 attempts (54.8%) for 215 yards. 1987: Millen spent the season with the Rams, but missed 15 games with a back injury. 1986: Millen entered the NFL as a third-round pick of the Los Angeles Rams out of the University of Washington, the 71st player taken in the draft. He spent the entire season on injured reserve with a fractured ankle.

COLLEGE: Millen was a two-year starter at the University of Washington where he led the Huskies to a win over Oklahoma in the 1985 Orange Bowl, just narrowly missing the vote as national champion. The Huskies finished No. 2 overall behind national champion Brigham Young in the closest Associated Press voting ever. He completed 247 of 435 career passes (56.8%) for 2,616 yards. As a junior he competed against current St. Louis Rams quarterback Chris Chandler and won the starting job. Prior to enrolling at UW Millen spent two seasons at Santa Rosa (Calif.) Junior College where he threw for 1,217 yards and eight TDs. Millen was a National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Academic All-American at Washington where he also earned GTE Academic All-America honors.

PERSONAL: Hugh B. Millen was born in Des Moines, Iowa. He is a graduate of Roosevelt High School in Seattle, located just several miles from the University of Washington campus. Millen is single and makes his home in Seattle.

Anthony Miller showed last season that he is still one of the NFL's most dangerous receivers, with blazing speed and quick hands. The four-time Pro Bowler joins Mike Pritchard, Shannon Sharpe and several others to form what could be one of the league's most talented receiving corps, hoping to give John Elway plenty of targets in '95. He needs just 16 receptions to reach 450 for his career, and 66 to reach 500. In the last three seasons Miller has now amassed 3,329 receiving yards (average of 1,110 per season), fifth-best in the NFL and best among AFC receivers. He is also only the eighth player in league history to achieve 1,000 receiving yards in a season with two different clubs, having done so three times for San Diego (1989, '92, '93) and once for Denver. 1994: Miller came to the Broncos as a free agent in the 1994 offseason from the San Diego Chargers and made his presence felt by finishing the season with 60 catches for 1,107 yards and five touchdowns. That yardage total led the Broncos and was sixth in the AFC, while the 60 catches were third-most on the squad. He also became just the fourth Bronco to surpass the 1,000-yard mark in a season, joining Lionel Taylor (four times), Steve Watson (three times) and current teammate Vance Johnson (once). Shannon Sharpe (1,010 yards) would surpass the 1,000-yard mark later in the year to give the Broncos two 1,000-yard receivers in the same season for the first time in club history. He was a model of consistency and steady improvement in 1994, as suggested by the following statistical breakdowns: His per-catch average increased each month, as he averaged 13.5 yards in September, 14.5 in October, 17.6 in November and 26.9 in December. In eight home games he caught 30 passes for 560 yards (18.7 average), while in eight road games he caught 30 for 546 yards (18.2). In addition, he caught 29 passes for 530 yards (18.3 average) in the first half of games, compared to 31 passes for 577 yards (18.6) in the second half of games. Miller had five 100-yard games - four of which came in the season's final six weeks - marking just the fifth time a Broncos receiver has posted that many in a season. (Taylor had seven in 1960 and five in '61, while Watson had five in 1981 and '83). He now has 24 100-yard receiving games in his seven-year career. He came within one yard of making it six 100-yard games, amassing 99 yards receiving against Kansas City (10/17). Over the last six games of the season, Miller hauled in 27 passes (4.5 per game) for 649 yards (108.2 per game), an average of 24 yards per catch. Miller posted his first 100-yard game as a Bronco in game two at the New York Jets (9/11) when he caught six passes for 105 yards. He became only the third Bronco to top the 100-yard mark in three consecutive games when he accomplished the feat with 102 against Atlanta (11/20), 116 against Cincinnati (11/27) and a season-high 153 at Kansas City (12/4), joining Lionel Taylor (1960) and Mark Jackson (1988). His 102-yard performance against Atlanta (11/20), coupled with Cedric Tillman's 175-yard effort gave Denver two 100-yard receivers in the same game for the 15th time in history. He posted the longest reception of his career in a 118-yard performance at San Francisco (12/17) when he took a Hugh Millen pass just beyond the line of scrimmage and advanced it 75 yards to the San Francisco one-yard line for a 76-yard gain. It was the third-longest non-scoring pass play in franchise history. His previous longest catches of the year (57 and 54 yards) came in the Broncos' 20-17 overtime win at Kansas City (12/4). 1993: Miller finished second in the AFC in receptions with a career-high 84 catches for 1,162 yards and seven touchdowns. He led his Charger team in receptions in 10 of 16 regular season games and had a career-best six 100-yard receiving games, the most since Kellen Winslow's six in 1982. That gave Miller 19 100-yard receiving days in his career. In the season finale at Tampa Bay (1/2) Miller caught seven passes for 119 yards and a touchdown. His big day reception-wise came at Seattle (10/3), where he caught a career-high 10 passes for 123 yards and a score. Miller's big yardage day came at Minnesota (11/7), where he racked up 142 yards on seven catches and a TD. 1992: After arthroscopic knee surgery prior to training camp, Miller finished 1992 as the only AFC receiver to surpass the 1,000-yard mark, exploding after a slow start to finish fifth in the conference with 72 catches for 1,060 yards and eight touchdowns. He added four 100-yard receiving performances with his big yardage day coming at Cleveland, where he finished the day with 110 receiving yards on seven receptions. His big catch day came at Seattle, where he caught nine passes, tying his career mark. 1991: Miller averaged nearly four catches per game despite being slowed by injuries in 1991. He still managed to surpass the 100-yard mark twice, going for 149 yards at the L.A. Rams (10/13) and 124 yards versus Seattle (11/10). He finished the season second on the team in receptions with 44 for 649 yards and three touchdowns, missing the final three games because of injury. 1990: Miller was selected to his second straight Pro Bowl following the 1990 season. He led the team for the second straight season in receptions with 63 for 933 yards and seven touchdowns. He had a then-career-high nine receptions versus Cincinnati (9/16) and finished the season with a streak of 33 games with at least one reception. 1989: Miller earned his first Pro Bowl berth with career highs of 75 receptions for 1,252 yards and 11 touchdowns. He led the team in receptions, while finishing fifth in the AFC in catches and second in yards. His 11 touchdowns were the most by a Charger since Chuck Muncie scored 13 in 1983, and his 10 receiving were the most since Wes Chandler's 10 in 1985. His 1,252 were the most since Kellen Winslow gained 1,290 yards in 1980. Miller caught fire in the second half of the season, catching 47 passes and scored seven touchdowns in the final eight games, compared to 28 catches and two TDs in the first eight. He caught five or more passes in each of the final eight games, and finished the season with five 100-yard games. He made a then-career-high eight receptions at Washington (12/10) and racked up a career-high 162 yards versus Houston (9/17). Miller returned a kickoff 91 yards for a score versus the Raiders, becoming the only Charger in team history to return two kickoffs for touchdowns. He ended the year with numerous honors, including Pro Bowl, second team All-NFL (College and Pro Football Weekly), All-AFC (Pro Football Weekly), and second team All-AFC (UPI). 1988: Miller finished his rookie season second on the team in receptions with 36 for 526 yards and three touchdowns. He also finished the year with a 25.9-yard kickoff return average, third in the NFL, with one touchdown. His lone kickoff return for a touchdown went for 93 yards versus the Rams. Miller was the Chargers first-round selection in 1988, the 15th player taken overall in the draft.

COLLEGE: Miller was a preseason All-America choice prior to his senior year at the University of Tennessee in 1987. His senior season was interrupted for five games because of a knee injury, finishing the year with just 11 receptions. As a junior Miller averaged 18.5 yards on 36 catches, ended the campaign 667 yards and five touchdowns. He was also a track star at Tennessee where he majored in physical education.

PERSONAL: Anthony is single and makes his offseason home in San Diego, Calif. He played just one year of football at John Muir HS in Pasadena, Calif., before signing a track scholarship to San Diego State. He ran the 100 meters in 10.3 seconds and the 200 meters in 20.6 seconds as a prepster. His full name is Lawrence Anthony Miller.

Bill Musgrave comes to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from the San Francisco 49ers, and will get an excellent opportunity to compete for the backup role at quarterback to John Elway. he is considered to be an accurate passer who reads defenses well. Musgrave already has an excellent grasp of the Broncos' new offense since he studied it for three years under current Broncos head coach Mike Shanahan. He was also coached by new Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak (Brian Pariani was also an assistant) and played with current Broncos running back Sheldon Canley at San Francisco. 1994: Musgrave was designated as the third quarterback for every regular and postseason for the 49ers. He was part of a 49er unit that won Super Bowl XXIX over San Diego (1/29/95), seeing action in the game and completing his only pass. 1993: Musgrave was active but did not play in the first four games of the season. He replaced Steve Young for the final series versus Minnesota (10/3) but did not attempt a pass. Musgrave was inactive for weeks 6-18. He was also inactive for both the NFC Divisional Playoff Game versus the Giants (1/15/94) and the NFC Championship Game at Dallas (1/23/94). 1992: Musgrave was active at the Giants (9/6) but did not play. He was inactive for weeks 2-14, and was then placed on injured reserve (12/15) with an injured left knee, causing him to miss both playoff games. 1991: Musgrave joined the 49ers as a free agent when he was signed to their practice roster on Aug. 28. He had been waived by Dallas at the end of training camp. Musgrave was activated from the practice squad roster by the 49ers on Nov. 10 and was inactive versus New Orleans (12/1), at Seattle (12/8) and versus Kansas City (12/14). He made his NFL debut versus Chicago (12/23), replacing Steve Young late in the game and completing four of five passes for 33 yards, including his first professional touchdown pass. Musgrave was originally a fourth-round pick (107th overall) by Dallas in 1991.

COLLEGE: Musgrave finished an excellent four-year career at Oregon as the school's career record-holder in 15 different offensive categories, including: pass attempts (1,106), completions (643), touchdown passes (60) and completion percentage (.573). His touchdown pass mark was second in Pac-10 (60) behind John Elway at the end of his career, and is now third behind former Stanford QB Steve Stenstrom, while his career yardage total of 8,343 now stands fourth behind Stenstrom, Erik Wilhelm (Oregon State) and Elway. He was named All-Pac-10 and honorable mention All-America as a senior. He led the Ducks to consecutive bowl appearances in his junior and senior seasons, the school's first back-to-back bowl berths since 1947-48. He also participated in the East-West Shrine Game, Hula and Japan Bowls following his senior season. Musgrave was a three-time Pac-10 All-Academic selection and was named the nation's All-Academic Player of the Year. He received an NCAA post-graduate scholarship as well as the National Football Foundation's Scholar-Athlete Award for his academic achievements.

PERSONAL: A native of Grand Junction, Colo., Musgrave starred in football at Grand Junction HS where he was named the Colorado High School Athlete of the Year for 1985, tossing a state-record 30 touchdown passes. He was also winner of the Denver Post Gold Helmet Award as the state's top scholar-athlete. He is single.

Tom Nalen looks to contend for the starting center job in a competition with Keith Kartz and Joe Burch following the departure of Dave Widell to the Jacksonville Jaguars. 1994: Nalen played in seven games for the Broncos, including a start at left guard in his first NFL appearance against the Rams (11/6). Nalen continued to make appearances on the offensive line over the remainder of the season. Nalen entered camp in July as a rookie draft choice out of Boston College, was waived just prior to the start of the regular season and then re-signed to the practice squad Sept. 6. He was signed to the active roster the week of the Rams game to start in place of an injured Jon Melander.

COLLEGE: Nalen was a three-year starter in his five seasons at Boston College, earning numerous honors that included third-team Associated Press All-America, second-team All-Big East, and first-team ECAC citations. He closed out his outstanding college career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games. In 1993 Nalen was an honorable mention All-American and All-Big East second-team pick by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, starting all year and leading the way as the Eagles ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (506.4 yards per game). Nalen's blocking was a key factor in the Boston College upset win over Notre Dame in South Bend. Nalen started every game from 1991-93 after serving as the deep-snapper, backup center and then starting center for the last three games in 1990. He redshirted in '89.

PERSONAL: A native of Boston, Mass., Nalen lettered three times each in football and basketball and twice in track at Foxboro (Mass.) HS. He was All-Hockamack League and an all-state selection by the Boston Globe, Boston Herald, Sun Chronicle, and Patriot Ledger, adding state Lineman of the Year honors as a senior. Tom led the team to a pair of Division III titles and played in the Shrine All-Star Game, serving as team captain in both football and basketball. An all-conference and team MVP in basketball, he was named to the Academic All-State team by the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association. Tom has his degree in accounting from Boston College and would like ultimately to become a certified public accountant. Tom likes golf, basketball, and video games, and he has the strange superstition of not allowing his practice uniform to be washed during the season. His full name is Thomas Andrew Nalen.

Willie Oshodin returns for his fourth season in Denver to provide depth on the Broncos' new-look defensive line. Oshodin will compete for playing time with several new free agent additions. 1994: Oshodin played in 13 games for the Broncos as a reserve defensive lineman and special teams players. He finished the season with five total tackles, all solo. Oshodin made his first appearance of the season in game three against the Raiders (9/18) and recorded one tackle after being on the inactive list for the first two games. Oshodin made two tackles each against Atlanta (11/20) and New Orleans (12/24). 1993: Oshodin was considered a long shot to make the Bronco roster in 1993 after missing his entire rookie season with a foot injury, but he quickly made believers out of the coaching staff and fellow players during the preseason and maintained his steady play throughout the year. For the year he was credited with 21 solo tackles, 15 assists, one sack, and one forced fumble. His sack came in the season opener at the New York Jets (9/5), and his forced fumble came versus Indianapolis (10/3). 1992: Oshodin spent the entire year on the physically unable to perform list.

COLLEGE: Oshodin earned All-ECAC honors as a defensive end at Villanova and was a G.T.E. Regional Academic All-American four consecutive years. He began his Wildcat career as a linebacker, but was moved to the defensive line his sophomore year. For his career Oshodin recorded nine sacks and 82 tackles, and was named team captain as a senior. He has a degree in international business and has completed one year of work toward his MBA.

PERSONAL: Willie is single and makes his offseason home in Denver, Colo. He attended Georgetown Prep HS in Rockville, Md., lettering twice in lacrosse and once in football. He lists music and electronics as hobbies. One of five children, Oshodin moved to the United States at age 12 for education, starting at Harker Academy in San Jose, Calif. His full name is William Ehizela Oshodin.

REACHING A MILESTONE

John Elway's next touchdown pass will be the 200th of his career. He will join an illustrious group of only 17 quarterbacks to have thrown that many touchdown passes in their careers. The most recent to do so was Warren Moon of Minnesota, who did it during the 1994 season. With 2,267 yards passing, he will become the sixth quarterback in league history to throw for 40,000 yards in a career, a task most recently accomplished by Joe Montana in 1994 with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Michael Dean Perry, one of the most sought-after free agents this past offseason, signed with the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from the Cleveland Browns and will immediately improve a revamped Broncos' defensive line. The five-time Pro Bowler has been one of the most consistent performers at his position during his seven-year career, with his quickness and agility for a player his size being the keys to his success. During his career, he has played in 108 regular season games (89 starts) and five playoff games (five starts). He has registered 506 tackles (379 solo), 51 1/2 sacks (fourth in Browns' history), 10 forced fumbles, seven recovered fumbles and 15 passes defended in his regular season career. He also has 17 tackles and 18 quarterback pressures in postseason play. He, along with former Browns teammate – and current Bronco linemate – James Jones, were part of a defense that gave up 17 points or less in 43 of their last 64 regular season games. 1994: Perry played in 14 games, including 13 starts, and registered 69 stops (46 solo), four sacks and three passes defended en route to his fifth Pro Bowl appearance in the last six seasons. He was named to the starting lineup for the third time in his career (1989 and '90). He was also named second-team All-Pro and All-AFC by Football News. Perry had five tackles and one pass deflection in the season opener at Cincinnati (9/4) in a 28-20 victory. He had six tackles and three QB pressures vs. Pittsburgh (9/11). Perry recorded two solo stops and four QB pressures vs. Arizona (9/18). He had five stops and four QB pressures in an 11-8 win at Houston (10/13). Perry registered six solo tackles, four QB pressures and a batted pass in a 37-13 win vs. Cincinnati (10/23) in his 100th pro game. He recorded six stops and two more QB pressures at Denver (10/30) before leaving the game with a bruised shoulder. He was inactive (11/6) vs. New England. He returned to action at Philadelphia and had seven tackles, two sacks and a forced fumble in a 26-7 victory. He was credited with nine tackles at Kansas City (11/20). He recorded a solo stop and a QB pressure vs. the Giants (12/4) before leaving the game with back spasms. He did not start at Dallas (12/10) due to back pain, but saw action and recorded two tackles and two QB pressures in a 19-14 win. He had five tackles and one sack at Pittsburgh (12/18). In an AFC Wild Card Game vs. New England (1/1/95) he had four QB pressures and one tackle in a 20-13 win. On 1/7/95, he had three solo tackles and a QB pressure at Pittsburgh in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game. 1993: Perry played in all 16 games with three starts. He had 81 tackles (63 solo), six sacks, two forced and two recovered fumbles. He earned Pro Bowl honors and was named to the Sporting News All-Pro Team. He led the team with 11 stops (nine solo) and two sacks in an opening-day victory vs. Cincinnati (9/5). One of his sacks of David Klingler forced a fumble. He recorded six tackles and recovered a fumble in a 23-13 Monday Night win vs. San Francisco. He had seven tackles (six solo) and one sack at Atlanta (11/28). He duplicated his stats against the Falcons when the Browns beat New Orleans 17-13 (12/5). He recorded the 47th sack of his career at Houston (12/12) to move into fourth place on the team's all-time sack list. He had six tackles, including two half sacks at Pittsburgh (1/2/94). 1992: Perry started all 14 games in which he played. He finished the season with 51 tackles (39 solo), eight-and-a-half sacks and three passes defended. He earned first-team All-NFL from the Sporting News. Due to an injury to his knee suffered in the preseason, he was inactive for the second and third games of the season (9/14 vs. Miami and 9/20 at Raiders). He had an eight-yard sack and four QB pressures vs. Denver (9/27). He registered the 35th sack of his career at New England (10/25) to move into fifth place on the team's all-time sack list. He had five tackles and one-and-a-half sacks in a 27-14 win over Chicago (11/29). He recorded two sacks among his five solo tackles, and had five QB pressures in a 37-21 win over Cinc. (12/6). He had his second straight two-sack game at Detroit (12/13) and was second on the team with eight total tackles (seven solo). He had five stops and a sack at Pittsburgh (12/27). 1991: Perry played in all 16 games, starting 15. He finished the season with 81 tackles (64 solo), eight-and-a-half sacks, two forced fumbles and two passes defended. He was the only Brown to be named to the Pro Bowl, while also earning second-team AP All-Pro honors. He was also named USA Today and NFLPA Outstanding Player, NEA All-Pro, Sporting News All-Pro, Pro Football Weekly All-AFC and Cleveland Touchdown Club Defensive Player of the Year. He did not start in the season-opener vs. Dallas due to contractual holdout, but still played against the Cowboys. On 9/8, he had eleven stops (nine solo) and two sacks at New England. On 9/22 at the Giants, he recorded a season-high 10 solo tackles, one assist, two sacks and a forced fumble. He had his third two-sack game of the year vs. Philadelphia (11/10), along with seven tackles (six solo). In season-finale at Pittsburgh he had four tackles, one-and-a-half sacks and a blocked field goal attempt. 1990: Perry started all 16 games en route to his best professional season to date. He had 101 tackles (85 solo), 11 1/2 sacks, two forced fumbles, and one fumble recovery. He was a Pro Bowl starter whose sack total and 28 QB pressures were the most by any NFL interior lineman. The sack total was also the seventh-best single-season mark in team history. He was named to AP's All-Pro team, UPI's All-AFC team, PFWA's All-Pro team, NEA's All-Pro team, Pro Football Weekly's All-Pro team, The Sporting News All-Pro team, College & Pro Football Weekly's NFL All-Pro second team, and Football Digest's All-Pro team. He recorded two sacks for 29 yards in losses in the fourth quarter vs. Pittsburgh, among his six solo stops, and also had five QB pressures. He had two sacks at the Jets (9/16). He recorded his ninth sack of the season among his three tackles at Houston (12/9). He had a career-high two-and-a-half sacks vs. Atlanta (12/16). 1989: Perry started all 16 regular season games, and two playoff games. He had 92 tackles (62 solo), seven sacks, 49 QB pressures, two forced and two recovered fumbles, and a career-high seven passes defended in regular season play, and added nine stops and nine QB pressures in the playoffs. That season, Perry was named UPI Defensive Player of the Year, a Pro Bowl starter for the first time in his career, K.C. 101 Club Defensive Player of the Year, AP All-Pro, UPI All-AFC All-Star (first team), Pro Football Weekly All-Pro (AFC), Football News All-Pro (AFC) and Cleveland Touchdown Club Defensive Player of the Year. Perry also managed to draw 16 holding penalties during the season. He recorded six tackles and two sacks at Indianapolis (12/10), while also causing a fumble, batting a pass and recording two QB pressures. In the Pro Bowl, he recorded five tackles and a batted pass, starting at nose tackle alongside Bruce Smith and Lee Williams. 1988: Perry played in all 16 games as a rookie, starting two, and played in the Browns' playoff game vs. Houston (12/24/188). He finished the year with 25 tackles (20 solo), six sacks, and two forced and two recovered fumbles. He also returned one of his fumble recoveries for his only professional touchdown. He recorded his first career sack in a 23-17 win over Indianapolis (9/19). He sacked Boomer Esiason on the game's last play to preserve a 23-16 win vs. Cincinnati. He had his first career two-sack game on 11/20 vs. Pittsburgh, and also had three tackles, one QB pressure and a fumble recovery against the Steelers. He scored on a 10-yard fumble for his first professional TD vs. Houston. He started the final two games of the year (12/12 at Miami, his first NFL start) and the AFC Wild Card Game vs. Houston (12/24/188). Perry was Cleveland's second-round selection, the 50th player taken overall in the 1988 NFL draft.

COLLEGE: Perry holds Clemson's all-time sack mark with 28, breaking the mark previously held by his brother, William "Refrigerator" Perry (played with Bears and Eagles). As a senior (1987), Michael Dean won the ACC Defensive Player of the Year Award, as well as second-team All-America honors from The Sporting News and Football News. He was one of the three finalists for the Outland Trophy, given to the nation's best down lineman. Perry earned first-team All-ACC and AP All-America honorable mention as a junior. He was hampered by an ankle injury and played in only 37% of the defensive snaps. He still led the team with nine sacks and 15 tackles for 84 yards in losses. He missed five games due to a fractured right fibula (9/31/85) as a sophomore. As a freshman, he recorded 15 tackles for loss, including seven sacks, second to his brother William's 26 loss-tackles as a senior in 1984. Michael Dean earned first-team freshman All-America honors in 1984 after redshirting in 1983. He was a recreation and parks major.

PERSONAL: Michael Dean starred at South Aiken (SC) HS, capturing all-conference and all-district honors three straight years. During the 1990 season with the Browns, he and teammate Eric Metcalf delivered pizzas on Monday nights as part of a Pizza Hut promotional campaign. He has participated in the Foot Locker Slam Fest competition (Jan., 1991) in Boca Raton, Fla., against such athletes as Barry Sanders, Deion Sanders and Barry Bonds. Michael is also only the second athlete (after Michael Jordan) to have a McDonald's hamburger named after him (The "MDP"). He has also participated on the Browns' charity basketball team. He is one of 12 children. He and his wife Trini have three daughters (Taylor Denise, Amber, and Tyrah). His full name is Michael Dean Perry.

Mike Pritchard looks to put together a full season of the type of numbers he produced last year in his injury-shortened first season with the Broncos. Now recovered from a lacerated kidney, he is back to join a multi-talented receiving corps that includes Shannon Sharpe and Anthony Miller, both of whom topped the 1,000-yard receiving mark a year ago. Pritchard will look to re-establish himself as one of John Elway's prime targets after developing into that role early last year. He came to the Broncos via a trade with the Atlanta Falcons on draft day 1994. Pritchard is a local favorite, playing his college ball at the University of Colorado in Boulder. In his first three years in the league, Mike put up some very impressive numbers, and was on the way to continuing that last year until the injury. His three-year total of 201 receptions ranks fifth all-time, one more than perennial All-NFL receiver Jerry Rice had in his first three seasons, and one behind Gary Clark. 1994: Pritchard was off to fantastic start in his first year with the Broncos before being sidelined with a lacerated kidney after just three games. The injury occurred in practice Sept. 23 while diving to catch a pass in practice, and forced him to endure six months of complete inactivity while it healed. He was inactive for games 4-8 and was then placed on injured reserve Nov. 2 where he spent the remainder of the season. Prior to the injury Pritchard recorded impressive three-game totals of 19 catches for 271 (14.3 average) yards and one touchdown. He made his Broncos debut Sept. 4 against San Diego and quickly had the best game of his short season. He caught five passes for 119 yards, including a 50-yard touchdown from John Elway just 2:39 into the game for the Broncos' first score of the season. He then topped that number of catches the following week with nine for 100 yards at the New York Jets (9/11). Pritchard caught five more for 52 yards against the Raiders (9/18) in what would turn out to be his last game of the year. 1993: Pritchard finished the year with 74 catches for 736 yards and seven touchdowns. His big game came in the season opener at Detroit, where he caught a team-leading 10 passes for 97 yards. He had a two-touchdown day in a big win over Dallas, finishing with six catches for 71 yards. Pritchard finished the '93 season with at least one catch in every game in which he participated. Pritchard was a member of a Falcon trio (Pritchard, Andre Rison, Michael Haynes) that led the NFL in receptions (232) and touchdowns (26). Pritchard and Rison's touchdown totals of 7 and 15 respectively, led the NFL among receiving tandems. 1992: Mike continued to be a potent target in the Falcons' Red Gun offense in his second year in the system. He also was second on the club in receiving yards with 827 and third in touchdowns with five. He tied his personal best with a nine-catch affair against Dallas, which included the first 100-yard game of his career (105). The former Colorado product collected eight receptions (89 yards) versus the Jets and Bears (52 yards). He hauled in seven catches each against the Saints (85), Dolphins (46) and Rams (82), while establishing four of his top five career receiving yardage games in '92. He scored the Falcons' lone touchdown in the narrow 10-7 loss to the Saints from 14 yards out and grabbed four other scoring passes versus the Packers (2 yards), Dolphins (18), Buccaneers (38) and Rams (11). He had six games with seven or more receptions in '92. In addition, Mike also carried the ball for the first time in his brief career, gaining 38 yards on three carries (long of 22) against the Rams in Week 9. 1991: Pritchard was a unanimous All-NFL rookie in '91 for producing the second-best totals among all first-year receivers with 50 catches for 818 yards to trail only Lawrence Dawsey (55-218) of the Bucs. He posted the sixth-highest numbers by a rookie wideout No. 1 pick in the last 12 years with only Shawn Collins, Art Monk, Sterling Sharpe, Eddie Brown and Andre Rison ahead of him. He broke into the starting lineup 11 times in his initial season, ending up tied for second on the club charts with Michael Haynes. A nine-catch, 82-yard day against the Vikings was his best rookie outing. He flashed the skills that made him a No. 1 draft pick in his first preseason game in Jacksonville when he scored three touchdowns against the Rams in spectacular fashion with open field runs.

COLLEGE: Pritchard was a picture of versatility for Colorado with his ability to play tailback, wingback, wide receiver and returner. Mike averaged 18.8 yards every time he touched the ball in a Buffalo uniform. Breaking it down further, he boasted averages of 26.4 per reception (second best ever), 10.6 per rush and 23.1 per kick return while scoring 15 career TD's. His longs were just as impressive through the air (70t, 67, 55, 52, 48, 45t and 44t yard catches) or on the ground (78t by rush, 70 and 68 on reverses, 77 KOR). He totaled 2,538 all-purpose yards for the Boulder, Colo., school, including 1,528 yards as a senior for the Co-National Champions, for an average of 123.1 an outing. His 284 total yards against Tennessee outdistanced another more heralded player's best game (268 yards by Raghieb Ismail of Notre Dame). As a senior, he established a single-season school record with his 733 receiving yards, and his 10 TD's were the second-most ever. His 217 rushing yards against Tennessee was the sixth-best total in the 102-year history of football at Colorado.

PERSONAL: Mike is single and makes his offseason home in Denver, Colo. He captured the prestigious Gatorade "Circle of Champions" National Player of the Year award for his exploits on the high school gridiron. An All-America and all-state selection at Rancho High in Las Vegas, he rushed for 1,213 yards with 17 TDs as a senior. That followed a junior season in which he scored 15 times with 1,108 yards on the ground to help the school to the Sunrise League title with a 9-2 record. The gifted runner further impressed scouts with a 169-yard rushing effort on only 14 carries in a postseason all-star game. He also had a track background as a prepster running the 100 meters and competing in the long jump. The economics major at Colorado has always been a big proponent of education. He was a member in good standing of the Academic Starters' program at CU which rewarded those athletes who held a high grade point average. Mike took the time to show his dedication to education while playing in Atlanta by posing in a Falcons uniform and graduation cap with the inscription, "The Most Important Head Gear You'll Ever Wear." The posters were given to every school in the state of Georgia. His full name is Michael Robert Pritchard.

Reggie Rivers continued to be a versatile player for the Broncos in 1994, excelling on special teams and out of the backfield as a rusher and receiver. 1994: Rivers played in all 16 games and finished the year with 83 rushing yards on 43 carries (1.9 average) and scored two rushing touchdowns. He also caught 20 passes for 136 yards, including a long-reception of 25 yards at Buffalo (9/26). He saw more time at running back after Rod Bernstine was sidelined with an injury. Rivers carried the ball a career-high 10 times at Seattle (10/9) for 24 yards. His top rushing performance came at Kansas City (12/4) when carried the ball seven times for 25 yards. Rivers caught four passes for a season-high 37 yards in the game at Buffalo (9/26) and matched that number of catches (for 25 yards) in the season-fine versus New Orleans. 1993: Rivers blocked two punts at critical times in the Broncos' wins over Cleveland (11/7) and Kansas City (12/12). At Cleveland, Rivers' blocked punt resulted in a safety, putting the Broncos up 9-0. Versus Kansas City, Rivers' block put the Broncos in position for the touchdown that put the team ahead for good. Rivers was the only NFL player to block two punts in the 1993 season. He also contributed at the running back position, compiling 50 yards rushing with one touchdown, and catching six passes with one TD. 1992: Rivers emerged as one of Denver's key offensive performers in 1992. He moved into the starting fullback position midway through the season and ended the campaign second on the team in rushing with 282 yards and three touchdowns on 74 carries. He was third with 45 receptions for 449 yards and a score. He scored two game-winning touchdowns, one on a 20-yard run vs. Houston (10/18) with 1:34 left and also with a one-yard run against the Raiders (9/6) with just 55 seconds left in the game. Rivers rushed for a career-high 66 yards at Cleveland (9/27), including a 48-yard run. He set new career marks in receiving with nine catches for 76 yards at San Diego (10/25) and a 37-yard reception vs. Seattle (12/20). Rivers received the Broncos' 1992 Bob Martin Award, which is given annually to the Broncos player who is most cooperative with the media. He also received the team's Community Action Player Award for his volunteer service throughout Colorado. 1991: He played primarily on special teams in 1991, although he did see some action as a back-up fullback. On the special teams unit Rivers registered 10 tackles, seven assists, and four knockdown blocks – enough to earn a spot on the Pro Football Weekly All-Rookie team as a special teams player. He also rushed two times for five yards.

COLLEGE: Rivers rushed for 2,507 yards and 10 touchdowns in four seasons at Southwest Texas State. Following a senior campaign in which he led the Southland Conference with 1,145 yards and five scores for the Bobcats, he earned numerous first- and second-team All-America honors, and was a first-team all-conference selection. In 1989 he was named second-team all-conference and as a freshman was a member of the conference's All-Academic squad.

PERSONAL: Reggie is single and lives in Littleton, Colo. Born in Dayton, Ohio, he lettered twice each in football, basketball, and track at Randolph HS in San Antonio, Tex. Reggie has a degree in journalism and writes a weekly Sunday sports column for the Rocky Mountain News, which is syndicated in 14 other newspapers. During the offseason he also hosts a Sunday afternoon radio program broadcast on KOA-850 AM, the Broncos' flagship station. He has interned at the San Antonio (Tex.) Light, the Austin (Tex.) American-Statesman, and Newsday (Long Island). Last year he co-authored the autobiography of Broncos teammate Vance Johnson, titled The Vance: The Beginning and the End. He is currently working on a novel about a professional football player, titled Power Shift. Reggie enjoys reading fiction novels and writing short stories and articles. His full name is Reginald C. Rivers.

Jeff Robinson saw more playing time last year in his second season and will look to increase that to an even greater amount in 1995. He is regarded as a very hard worker and a good pass rusher. 1994: Robinson played in all 16 games as a backup defensive end and on special teams. He finished the season with 14 tackles (8 solo), one sack for one yard lost, and one pass defended. His sack came in the final game of the season against New Orleans (12/24). Robinson saw his most extensive action against Atlanta (11/20) and made two tackles (1 solo) with one pass defended. 1993: Robinson played sparingly in his rookie season, but improved with each game. He showed a nose for the ball in limited action, picking up 3.5 sacks on the year. His most productive game came in the season finale at the L.A. Raiders. On the day, he was credited with two solo tackles, both sack-related, and one forced fumble.

COLLEGE: Robinson was a first-team Division I-AA All-America selection (Kodak, Walter Camp, Associated Press and Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft) as a senior at Idaho, along with being named to the All-Big Sky first team for the three straight years. He finished his collegiate career with 57.5 sacks, 16 passes defended, and 277 tackles as defensive end. As a senior Robinson recorded 13.5 sacks, 79 tackles (58 solo), 35 pressures, six forced fumbles, five passes defended, and 27 tackles for loss, and earned an invitation to play in the Senior Bowl. He earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Idaho.

PERSONAL: Jeff is single and makes his offseason home in Spokane, Wash. He was an All-Greater Spokane League selection during his three-year prep career at Ferris HS in Spokane, WA, lettering in basketball (2 years) and baseball (2) as well. Jeff was an honor roll student, graduating with a 3.7 GPA. His hobbies include waterskiing, snowmobiling and golf. His full name is Jeffrey William Robinson.

Tom Rouen returns for his third year with the Broncos after establishing himself as one of the league's most consistent punters in 1994. 1994: Rouen enjoyed an outstanding season, leading the entire NFL in net punting average at 37.1 yards. His overall average per punt of 42.9 tied him for third in the AFC. Rouen had just one punt in the season-opener, but served notice of the type of year he would have by booming a season-best 59-yarder. He matched that effort again later in the year at San Diego (10/23). His best average per punt (excluding the one-punt, 59-yard effort in the opener) came at Buffalo (9/26) when he covered 100 yards with his two punts (52, 48) for a 50.0-yard average. He was busiest in the game at the L.A. Raiders (12/11) with eight punts for 337 yards (42.1 average). For the season Rouen placed 23 of his 76 punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. 1993: Rouen punted exceptionally well after earning a roster spot in training camp and preseason. He finished second in the AFC and second in the NFL with a 45.0-yard punting average, fourth-best in Bronco history, and a 37.1-yard net average. Rouen's best game came at San Diego where he averaged 50.5 yards on six punts. 1992: Rouen played for the World Football League's Ohio Glory, and participated in the training camp of the L.A. Rams. Rouen earned All-World League honors with a 41.5-yard punt average. 1991: Rouen was a free agent in the New York Giants' training camp.

COLLEGE: Rouen finished his collegiate career with a 42.8-yard average, playing for both Colorado (1988-90) and Colorado State (1987). As a junior, Rouen led the nation in punting with a 45.9-yard average, earning him All-America honors.

PERSONAL: Tom is single and makes his offseason home in Aurora, Colo. He attended Heritage HS in Littleton, Colo., playing both football and baseball. Tom is heavily active in the community, frequently speaking at schools and functions in the metro Denver area. His full name is Thomas Francis Rouen.

MAKING HISTORY

The Broncos were the first AFL team to ever defeat an NFL team when they beat the Detroit Lions 13-7 on August 5, 1967, in a preseason game at the University of Denver Stadium.

69 MARK SCHLERETH • Guard

Birthdate – January 25, 1966
Birthplace – Anchorage, Ak.
How Acquired – Unrestricted FA, 1995
College – Idaho
High School – Robert Service HS, Anchorage, Ak.
Height – 6-3
Weight – 278
Pro Year – 7th
Year with Broncos – 1st

Mark Schlereth comes to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from Washington, where he was one of the mainstays in a long line of great Redskin offensive linemen. Overcoming various injuries throughout his career has given him a reputation as being one of the toughest players around the league. During his six-year career, he has played in 75 regular season games and seven postseason games, including a 37-24 victory over the Buffalo Bills in Super Bowl XXVI (1/26/92). He also was named to the 1991 NFC Pro Bowl squad, helping lead the Redskins to the World Championship. At one point in his career, he started 43 consecutive games and is one of the main reasons the Redskins were one of the most formidable rushing teams in the league in recent years. 1994: Schlereth played in all 16 games – including five starts at right guard – and participated in 607 of a possible 1,016 snaps (60%). He played in every game despite having to recover from various physical problems that hampered his success in 1992 and '93. He played all of the season opener vs. Seattle (9/4) and a Week 15 (12/18) matchup vs. Tampa Bay. He also started the season finale at the Rams (12/24). 1993: Schlereth played in nine games, starting eight. In week one, he and his offensive linemen helped Brian Mitchell to a 116-yard rushing performance vs. Dallas (9/6). They sealed the 35-16 victory over the defending world champions with a 99-yard drive late in the third quarter. He had started 43 consecutive games until he injured his left knee before a week three matchup at Philadelphia (9/19). He came back the following week and started every game until week nine at the Giants, when he was diagnosed with Guillain-Barre syndrome, a neurological condition that involves the destruction of the outside covering around nerves or the extensions of the nerve cells that carry signals. It strikes one out of every 100,000 people. Guillain-Barre syndrome short-circuits the route between the impulses sent from the brain and the body's muscles and produces weakness in the body's extremities. The syndrome tends to move up the body, from the feet to the legs to the thighs to the hands. It forced Mark to be placed on injured reserve for the rest of the season. 1992: despite playing in constant pain on a left knee sprain and a right elbow sprain that required surgery on the same day following the season, Mark was the only Redskin offensive linemen to start every game at the same position, including both playoff games. 1991: Schlereth enjoyed the finest season of his career, starting all 16 games and being selected to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career. He also started all three playoff games, as the Redskins went on to win Super Bowl XXVI over Buffalo 37-24. He also earned three Redskin offensive player of the week honors (11/3 vs. Hou.; 11/17 at Pitt.; 12/15 vs. Giants). He was one of the reasons the Redskins allowed a league-low nine sacks (team record) and had the league's seventh-best rushing attack (128.1 yards per game). The Redskins offensive line also helped to produce a 1,000-yard rusher that season in Earnest Byner, who finished the season with 1,048 yards on 274 carries (3.8 avg.) and five touchdowns. 1990: Schlereth played in 12 games, starting seven, and also started both playoff games. He started the first four games of the season, then suffered a sprained ankle at Detroit (11/4) that sidelined him for four weeks. He returned to the starting lineup in a 25-10 victory at New England (12/15). Schlereth started at Philadelphia in an NFC Wild Card Game (1/5) and at San Francisco in an NFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/12). 1989: Mark started all six games in which he played during his rookie campaign. He got his first career start at right guard in a 10-3 victory at Philadelphia (11/12). He had to move into the starting lineup due to various injuries to the starters.

COLLEGE: Mark played nose tackle, defensive tackle, and center before settling into the guard spot his junior season at Idaho. Despite being hampered by knee and elbow injuries, Mark came back his senior season to help the Vandals to the I-AA semifinals and a school record 11 victories (11-2).

PERSONAL: Mark attended Robert Service HS, Anchorage, Ak., where he won the state heavyweight wrestling title despite being the lightest competitor at 210 pounds. He was one of the most active players in community and charity appearances as a member of the Redskins. He has talked to many children about his battle with dyslexia. He was named the Professional Athlete of the Year in the state of Idaho in 1991, edging out college teammate and current Redskins quarterback John Friesz. Mark and his wife Lisa have three children: daughters Alex and Avery, and son Daniel. Mark and his wife are also involved in Ronald McDonald House, and he is a past honorary co-chariman of Camp Dynamite, working with disadvantaged children in Southeast Washington, D.C. The one-week camp in Lancaster, Pa., exposes children to sports, singing, arts and crafts and other activities that aren't available in Southeast Washington. Schlereth is also the only native born Alaskan to play in the NFL. His former Redskin teammates nicknamed him Stinky, after stinkheads, an Eskimo delicacy made from rotting fish heads.

Bill Schultz joined the Broncos during the 1995 offseason as a free agent from the Houston Oilers. Schultz, a five-year NFL veteran, joins several other new faces on the Broncos' offensive line who will compete for open starting positions under the direction of line coach Alex Gibbs. Schultz played for Indianapolis from 1990-93, was signed by the Rams 7/8/94, was waived by the Rams 8/28/94, and then signed by the Oilers 9/4/94. 1994: Schultz agreed to terms with the Oilers after the first regular season game at the Colts (9/4). He did not play in any games as a reserve guard, but did dress for games 5, 7 and 13-15. Schultz was placed on the inactive list for the other 10 games. 1993: Schultz started the first 12 games of the season for Indianapolis at right guard before being sidelined with an ankle injury. He missed the next two games but returned to action at the Patriots (12/26) to start the final two games. 1992: Schultz was a reserve guard and participated on special teams. He played in 10 games and started two. He was placed on injured reserve (11/13) with an ankle injury and missed games 10-13, but returned to the active roster on Dec. 12. He saw action on special teams at the N.Y. Jets (12/13) and started at right guard in place of the injured Ron Solt against the Cardinals (12/20) and at the Bengals (12/27). Schultz caught a three-yard touchdown pass from QB Jeff George on a tackle-eligible play versus the Chargers (10/18). 1991: Schultz saw action in 10 games after starting the season on injured reserve with a knee injury. He started two games at left guard and seven at right guard, and missed the final two games after being placed on injured reserve (12/13) due to a virus. 1990: Schultz saw limited special teams duty while seeing action in 12 games. He was drafted by the Colts with the second selection in the fourth round (94th overall) in 1990.

COLLEGE: Schultz started 10 games and the Rose Bowl at left tackle as a senior at Southern California. He earned the starting job at that position as a junior but was sidelined for the season due to injury. He redshirted in 1987 after transferring from Glendale (Calif.) Junior College where he spent his freshman and sophomore seasons. Schultz majored in public administration at USC.

PERSONAL: A native of Granada Hills, Calif., Schultz was all-state as a two-way tackle during his senior year at Kennedy High School. He was honorable mention All-CIF on offense as a junior, and also lettered in track and field with a shot put best of 54'-8". Bill and his wife, Deborah, make their offseason home in Indianapolis, Ind. His full name is William Schultz.

Shannon Sharpe has established himself as one Denver's most valuable offensive players in his first five seasons, whether catching the ball or blocking. This season the three-time Pro Bowler will team with the talented wide receiving duo of Mike Pritchard and Anthony Miller to give quarterback John Elway three very dangerous – and diverse – targets. 1994: Sharpe was selected to his third straight Pro Bowl as he posted career-best numbers in receptions (87) and yardage (1,010), though he did not play in the Pro Bowl game because of ankle and knee injuries. His 87 catches were the most by any Bronco since 1961 (Lionel Taylor, 100) and the third-most all-time for a Denver player. He ranked fourth in the AFC and eighth in the NFL in receptions. His 1,010-yard total was second-best on the team as well as ninth in the AFC, and gave Sharpe his first 1,000-yard season after just missing with 995 in 1993. He joined Anthony Miller (1,107 yards) to give Denver two 1,000-yard receivers in the same season for the first time in franchise history. He scored four touchdowns and had six or more catches on eight occasions. He and his brother Sterling (Green Bay Packers) remain the only brother combination to lead their teams in receptions in the same year, as they have now done for three straight seasons. Sharpe matched his career high with 10 receptions (95 yards) in Denver's dramatic overtime victory at Kansas City (12/4), and followed that a week later with nine catches for 89 yards at the Raiders (12/11). His career high in yardage came in game seven at San Diego (10/23) when he gained 121 yards on six catches, including a 44-yard pass from Elway for his longest reception of the year. Sharpe played in 15 of the Broncos' 16 games and made 13 starts. After an outstanding opening day (9/4) on which he caught nine passes for 97 yards against San Diego, he was placed on the inactive list for game two at the N.Y. Jets (9/11) because of a knee injury suffered in the opener. He was expected to miss up to five weeks, but returned for spot duty the next weekend at the L.A. Raiders and went without a catch for the first time since Nov. 30, 1992. He returned to the starting lineup in game five at Seattle and stayed there the rest of the season, playing through the pain of aching knees and ankles. He did not practice at all the week of the Cleveland game (10/30), but showed up on Sunday to lead the team in receptions (9) and yards (85). 1993: Sharpe was named to his second straight Pro Bowl, along with being named to virtually every All-NFL team. He led the Broncos in receptions with 81, which ranked third in the AFC and eighth in the NFL. His 81 receptions ranked fourth in Bronco history, and were at the time the most since Lionel Taylor's 85 in 1965. Sharpe was also on the receiving end of nine TD passes, which tied for second in the AFC. He accounted for at least two receptions in every game in 1993, with his season high coming against Kansas City (12/12). In that game Sharpe recorded 10 receptions for 65 yards and three touchdowns. His best game yardage-wise came in the season finale at the L.A. Raiders (1/2) when he accounted for 115 yards on six receptions with two touchdowns. The next week in the wild card matchup with the same Raiders (1/9), Sharpe tied a playoff record with 13 receptions. 1992: Sharpe led all Denver receivers in 1992 with a career-high 53 receptions for 640 yards and two touchdowns. Shannon and his brother Sterling of the Green Bay Packers became the only brother combination in NFL history to lead their respective teams in receiving in the same season. Sharpe had two 100-yard receiving games in '92, catching seven passes for 109 yards at Buffalo (12/12) and nine for a career-high 118 yards vs. Kansas City (10/4). He also had nine receptions at Washington (10/12) and had seven in the season finale at Kansas City (12/27). Sharpe, who was in the starting lineup 12 times in 1992, also set a new career high with a 55-yard reception at Cleveland (9/27). 1991: Sharpe was converted from wide receiver to H-back in 1991 and had a fine season, catching 22 passes for 322 yards and a touchdown and also gaining 15 yards on a reverse. He made half of his receptions in the final three weeks of the campaign, with 11 catches for 159 yards. Sharpe established new career highs at Cleveland (12/8) with four receptions for 59 yards, and had four catches the following week vs. Phoenix (12/15). On special teams he posted a team-high 12 tackles, with five assists and two knockdown blocks. Sharpe appeared in Denver's starting line-up nine times during the regular season. He closed out the postseason with six catches for 60 yards, with three for 20 against Houston (1/4) and three for 40 at Buffalo in the AFC Championship Game (1/12). 1990: Denver's seventh-round draft choice in 1990, Sharpe saw more playing time as the season progressed and closed out the year with seven receptions for 99 yards and a score. He had his top receiving game at Kansas City (12/9) with three catches for 41 yards and his first professional touchdown. Sharpe was also one of the Broncos' top special teams performers, netting 16 total tackles, six knockdown blocks, and a forced fumble.

COLLEGE: Sharpe had a tremendous career at Savannah State College, where he was a three-time All-American, All-Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, and all-state selection, as well as the three-time conference offensive player of the year. Sharpe closed out his college play with 192 receptions for 3,744 yards, a 19.5 average, and 40 touchdowns. He ended his career with appearances in the East-West Shrine and Blue-Gray all-star games. He set school records for most consecutive games with a reception (39), with a touchdown (14), and for most games with over 100 yards receiving (17). As a senior he caught 61 passes for 1,312 yards and 18 TDs, and had three games with more than 200 yards receiving and one game with four touchdown catches. Sharpe was a criminal justice major.

PERSONAL: Shannon is single with a daughter, Shannen Kaley (4/3/93). He makes his home in Glenville, Ga., where was all-county, all-region and all-area in football at Glenville HS. In addition to four letters in football, he lettered three times in basketball and four times in track, setting a Georgia state Class A record in the triple jump (48-3) as a junior, and breaking that mark as a senior (49-5). He won the regional triple jump title three straight years and the regional discus throwing title twice. Shannon was also a two-time all-area selection in basketball, and he scored over 1,000 points in three seasons, and averaged 30 points and 15 rebounds as a senior. He once scored 52 points in a game and once grabbed 27 rebounds in a game. His brother Sterling was an All-American at South Carolina and earned All-Pro status in five of his first seven NFL seasons with the Green Bay Packers. Shannon has several cousins who played college football, and he lists his hobbies as fishing, basketball, weight lifting, and his two Rottweilers, Kane and Killian.

Deon Strother begins his second season in Denver looking to make an impression among a crowded stable of running backs. 1994: Strother entered the Broncos training camp as a rookie free agent. He was waived just prior to the start of the regular season and then signed to the practice squad Aug. 30. Strother was signed to the active roster in December when Leonard Russell went on injured reserve with a neck injury. He played in the final two regular season games, at San Francisco (12/17) and versus New Orleans (12/24), but did not carry the ball or make a catch. Strother finished the season on the active roster.

COLLEGE: Strother was a four-year letterman as a tailback and fullback at Southern California, where he rushed for 360 yards and scored five touchdowns on 69 carries as a senior. He was named co-Most Inspirational Player that season, and finished his career with 238 carries for 1,127 yards and 15 touchdowns. Strother also caught 75 passes for 672 yards and a touchdown in his career. His longest run was a 92-yard scamper at California in 1991 that was the longest rushing gain in the Pac-10 that season. He majored in business at USC.

PERSONAL: A native of Saginaw, Mich., Strother was a high school All-American at Skyline High School in Oakland, Calif., the same school that produced NBA All-Star Gary Payton of the Seattle Sonics. He was named the San Francisco Examiner Bay-Area Player of the Year as a senior in 1989, as well as earning Blue Chip All-America third-team, USA Today All-USA honorable mention, SuperPrep All-Far West Blue Chip All-Western Region and Long Beach Press-Telegram Best in the West. An excellent student as well, Strother was named the 1989 Oakland Tribune Scholar Athlete of the Year and National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Northern California Scholar Athlete. He is single and makes his home in Aurora, Colo.

Ralph Tamm enters his first season with the Broncos after spending the previous three seasons with the San Francisco 49ers. He is an outstanding athlete who blocks well in both the running and passing games, and was regarded by the team as the strongest 49er during his time with the club. He can also serve as a long snapper on kick placements and punts. Tamm has played in 61 regular season games, including 30 starts, and three postseason games, including two starts. 1994: Tamm played in one game with San Francisco, starting on opening night at right guard vs. the Raiders (9/5) before injuring his left arch/foot in the first quarter. He was inactive for the rest of the regular season, but returned to the active roster in time for the postseason and played in all three 49ers playoff games, including Super Bowl XXIX. Tamm played right guard in the first two playoff games and the second and fourth quarters of the Super Bowl against San Diego. He also performed all long-snapping duties on field goals, point-after attempts and punts in the Super Bowl. He later failed his physical (5/5) and was released by the 49ers. 1993: Tamm started all 16 games at right guard, including playing all the way in 13 of those games under offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan. He also started both of San Francisco's postseason games as the 49ers advanced to within one game of the Super Bowl. Tamm took over the starting position early in the preseason when incumbent Roy Foster was sidelined with a knee injury. He scored his first NFL touchdown after recovering a Ricky Watters fumble in the end zone at Tampa Bay (11/14). 1992: Tamm played in 14 games for the 49ers with one start. He also played in the NFC Championship Game vs. Dallas (1/17/93), snapping on PATs and field goals. He played at center and left guard during the second half vs. Atlanta (10/18), when the 49ers set a team record for most points in a game with 56, including 42 in the first half, also a team record. He started at right tackle in place of Harris Barton (left knee) at Minnesota (12/13), but he was replaced by Harry Boatwain after injuring his left knee in the second quarter. He was placed on injured reserve on 12/15 due to that injury, but was activated on 1/16/93 for the NFC Championship Game. He signed with the 49ers as a Plan B free agent from Cincinnati. 1991: Tamm began the season with Cleveland, appearing in one game before being released (9/5). He signed with Washington (9/11) where he was a teammate of current Bronco Mark Schlereth on a squad that would go on to win the Super Bowl. Tamm played in 10 contests for the Redskins before being waived in November after Week 11. He was claimed by Cincinnati (12/9) before clearing waivers, and finished the season with the Bengals, playing in three games. 1990: Tamm signed with Cleveland as a Plan B free agent from Washington on 3/21. He played in all 16 games and started the final 12 at guard for the Browns, and handled snaps on field goals, extra points, and punts. He made his first NFL start at Denver (10/9) as a left guard. 1989: Tamm signed with Washington as a Plan B free agent from the Jets. He was inactive for the first two games and spent the final 14 weeks on injured reserve with an injured shoulder. 1988: Tamm spent his entire rookie season on injured reserve with a pulled hamstring and a broken hand (8/29-entire season). He was originally a ninth round pick (230th overall) by the New York Jets.

COLLEGE: Tamm earned Kodak All-America and all-conference honors at West Chester College. He started at guard his junior and senior seasons. He was also an All-American and school record-holder in the shot put (58' 9") and discus (174' 4") at West Chester. He majored in physical education.

PERSONAL: Tamm was born and raised in Philadelphia, Pa. He attended Bensalem (Pa.) HS and participated in football and track & field. He has also done work with various childrens charities. His full name is Ralph Earl Tamm. He is single.

Birthplace – Tucson, Ariz.
Residence – Sacramento, Calif.
College – Tulane
High School – Norte Del Rio HS
 Sacramento, Calif.
Height – 5-11
Weight – 184
Pro Year – 9th
Year with Broncos – 1st

Eric Thomas comes to the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from the New York Jets. He spent the majority of his career with the Cincinnati Bengals, going to one Pro Bowl (1989), a Super Bowl (XXIII-1988), and the playoffs twice in six seasons. He spent two years with the Jets where his position coach was Broncos defensive back coach Ed Donatell and his defensive coordinator was Broncos defensive coordinator Greg Robinson. Eric looks to shrug off recent injuries to regain the form that made him one of the league's top cover men early in his career. He has played in 97 regular season games, starting 93, and has played in five postseason games (all starts). He has 302 career tackles, 17 interceptions (one TD), two fumble recoveries and two sacks in regular season play, and 20 tackles and two INTs in postseason action. 1994: Thomas played in one game with the Jets (11/13 at Green Bay) and was inactive for the final six contests. He re-signed with New York (11/9) after being released by the Jets April 28. 1993: Thomas started all 16 games for the Jets at left cornerback, finishing the season with 63 tackles (46 solo), 10 passes defended, two forced fumbles and one special teams tackle. He was part of a defense that ranked 3rd in the AFC and 6th in the NFL in points allowed (15.4), and was tied for 5th in the AFC and fifth in the NFL in takeaways (37). He had the second two-interception game of his career on vs. Dallas (12/18), as the Jets held their own in a losing effort to the eventual World Champions. He had been signed by the Jets as an unrestricted free agent (4/3/93) from the Bengals. 1992: Thomas started all 16 games for the Bengals and finished eighth on the team with 42 tackles. He also finished fourth on the team with eight passes defended and one forced fumble. 1991: Thomas started all 16 games, finishing fifth on the team with 56 tackles, and also had three interceptions, three blocked kicks and one fumble recovery. He had a key play in the Bengals first win of the season when his blocked field goal attempt preserved a 23-21 victory vs. Cleveland (11/3). He also had blocked field goals at Denver (9/1) and at Philadelphia (11/17). He had been re-signed by the Bengals (7/16) after being granted unconditional free agency March 1. 1990: Thomas played in four games, starting two. He also started both playoff games. He had 11 tackles during the regular season and nine more in the playoffs. He missed most of the season after undergoing reconstructive surgery for a torn ACL ligament in his right knee. He was on the reserve/non-football injury list from 9/3-11/6. He returned to start the last two games of the regular season (victories vs. Houston, 12/23, and vs. Cleveland, 12/30) to help the Bengals win the AFC Central Division title. He had six tackles in his return to the lineup against the Oilers. He also started vs. the Oilers in an AFC Wild Card Game (1/6) and at the Raiders in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game (1/13). 1989: Thomas played in all 16 games, including 15 starts. He finished the season with 48 tackles, two sacks and one fumble recovery. He also finished second on the team with four interceptions, including one for his only career touchdown. His TD came on an 18-yard interception return in the fourth quarter vs. Seattle off Dave Krieg (12/10). 1988: Thomas started all 16 regular season games and three playoff contests, producing the best season of his career, including his only Pro Bowl appearance. He finished the season with career highs in tackles (64) and interceptions (seven). He also had 11 tackles (10 solo) and two interceptions in the playoffs. He had his first career two-interception game vs. Houston (10/23). Thomas had two game-saving pass defenses in the final two minutes of a 28-24 victory at Philadelphia (9/11) and an interception in the final seconds of a 17-12 victory the next week at Pittsburgh (9/18). Thomas had an interception vs. Seattle in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game (12/31) and a 26-yard interception return vs. Buffalo in the AFC Championship Game (1/8/89). He started at left cornerback against the 49ers in Super Bowl XXIII (1/22/89). 1987: Thomas started all 12 non-strike games as a rookie, finishing the season with 18 tackles and one interception. He received his first career start at Indianapolis (9/13) in a 23-21 win. He got his first career interception on vs. Houston (11/1) when he picked off a Warren Moon pass in the fourth quarter and returned it three yards. He was a second round pick (49th overall) by the Bengals in 1987 and signed on 7/27.

COLLEGE: Thomas earned All-America and All-Louisiana honors as a two-year starter for Tulane after transferring from Pasadena City College. Bronco running back Ostell Miles, a former teammate of Thomas' at Cincinnati, also attended Pasadena City College. While at Pasadena, Thomas earned all-conference honors in football and track. He was also a sprinter for the Tulane track team. He finished his college career by playing in the Blue-Gray Game and the Senior Bowl.

PERSONAL: Thomas attended Notre Del Rio HS in Sacramento, Ca., where he earned all-conference honors in football and track. He wants to be a track coach after his football career is over. His hobbies include track, basketball, weightlifting and music. He has a son, Brandon, and is single.

Broderick Thompson was signed by the Broncos as an unrestricted free agent from the Philadelphia Eagles, and figures to see extensive playing time during the 1995 season. He was an integral part of the Eagles' offensive line the last two seasons and with the San Diego Chargers and Dallas Cowboys before that. He has played in 125 NFL games with 105 starts, and has played two seasons in the USFL. 1994: Thompson started the first 14 games of the year at right tackle. He was replaced in the starting lineup by Tom McHale for the final two games (vs. N.Y. Giants, did not play; at Cincinnati, inactive). 1993: Thompson started the first 10 games of the season at left tackle and helped the Eagles to a 4-0 start. He had no previous experience at left tackle, but was enjoying one of the finest seasons of his career until suffering a left calf strain on the first play from scrimmage vs. the Giants (11/21) that sidelined him for the last six games of the season. He had been traded to the Eagles from San Diego on draft day 1993 (4/27). 1992: Thompson played in 12 games for San Diego, starting all 12 at right guard. He also started both playoff contests that season. Thompson missed games 2-5 due to a shoulder injury suffered against Kansas City (9/6), snapping his string of consecutive starts and consecutive games at 68 and 71, respectively. He was placed on injured reserve from Sept. 14-Oct. 17. The Chargers won their first AFC Western Division crown in 11 years and advanced to the AFC divisional playoffs. 1991: Thompson started all 16 games for the fourth consecutive season. He made his 50th consecutive start in a Charger uniform at San Francisco (9/8), and recovered one fumble for the season. 1990: Thompson started all 16 games at his natural position of right tackle. He was selected by his teammates as their offensive captain for the season. In 1990 and '91, Thompson's offensive line coach at San Diego was his current offensive line coach with the Broncos, Alex Gibbs. 1989: Thompson started all 16 games at left guard. 1988: Thompson started all 16 games at left guard, developing into one of the Chargers' top offensive linemen. 1987: Thompson played in nine games, starting four. He alternated between right tackle and right guard, starting three times at RT and once at RG. During that season, the Chargers went 8-7, their first winning season in four years. Thompson had been acquired by San Diego on 4/13. 1986: Thompson played in five games with the Dallas Cowboys before being released. 1985: Thompson played in 11 games for the Dallas Cowboys, starting one. He also played in all 18 games of the Portland Breakers season in the USFL, meaning that Thompson actually played in 29 professional games that calendar year. He was not on the Cowboys active roster for their two playoff games that season. Thompson had signed with the Breakers on 1/23/85. He was later claimed on waivers by the Memphis Showboats on 8/1 and then released by the Showboats on 8/2. He was then signed by the Cowboys on 8/3. 1984: Thompson played in all 18 games for the Portland Breakers of the USFL, earning All-USFL honors. He had signed with the Los Angeles Rams on 5/4, but was released on 8/21. Thompson was originally a rookie free agent with the Cowboys in 1983, but did not adapt to being a pro offensive lineman after playing the defensive line in college, and was released on 8/2. He then signed with the San Antonio Gunslingers of the USFL (11/12), and was traded by San Antonio to the Chicago Blitz for the rights to former NFL quarterback Bob Gagliano (1/3/84). He was then released by the Blitz on 1/31/84. He signed with the Los Angeles Express on 2/10/84, but was released on 2/13.

COLLEGE: Thompson earned All-Big 8 and honorable mention All-America acclaim as a senior defensive tackle at Kansas. The Jayhawks finished 8-4 in 1981 – their first winning season in five years – and made an appearance in the Hall of Fame Bowl. He played two seasons for the Jayhawks after transferring from Cerritos (Calif.) Junior College, where he first played football and was an all-conference selection. He was a personal administration major at Kansas.

PERSONAL: Thompson played at Gahr HS in Cerritos, Calif., where he was a basketball star and did not play football. Broderick, who is single, owns Express Communications, a cellular phone business in San Diego, where he resides in the offseason. He is also part-owner of a monthly sports newspaper which operates in four metropolitan areas: San Diego, Phoenix, San Francisco and Orange County, Calif. It covers just about every sport from little league to the major leagues in each particular area. He has one brother, Clarence, and a sister, Necie, who was an All-American basketball player at UCLA.

Frank Wainright returns to Colorado after signing with the Broncos as a free agent from the New Orleans Saints. He spent the past four seasons with the Saints as a reserve tight end and a long snapper on punts. He has played in 43 career games, including eight starts. Wainright has also participated in two postseason games. 1994: Wainright spent the entire season on injured reserve with a foot injury. He was placed on the IR list Aug. 23. 1993: Wainright played in all 16 games for the Saints, starting two. He played primarily in two- and three-tight end sets throughout the year. Twice during the season the Saints opened games in two-tight end sets, with Wainright being one of the two. He also served as the team's deep snapper on punts and was second on the team in special teams stops with seven. 1992: Wainright played in 13 games, starting four. He finished the year with nine catches for 143 yards (15.9 avg.) and also played as a long snapper and served as a backup on placements. He contributed seven tackles on special teams, including three at New England (11/8). The eight receptions were second-most among Saints tight ends. He received three of his four starts when the Saints opened games in a two-tight end set. He was inactive for the first game of the year (9/6 vs. Philadelphia) and did not play the next week at Chicago because of a partial tear of a medial collateral ligament in his knee sustained during training camp. He also did not play at Detroit (10/4) because of a back injury. Wainright hauled in two passes for 30 yards, including a 22-yarder vs. Phoenix (10/18). He also caught two passes for 42 yards, including a career-long 29-yarder vs. Atlanta (12/3). 1991: Wainright played in 14 games, starting two. He had one catch on the season for three yards and also registered three stops on special teams. He spent the first two weeks of the season on the practice roster, and was then activated for the third game vs. the Rams (9/15) when Greg Scales suffered a knee injury. He played mostly in three-tight end sets and special teams as a rookie. His first NFL reception came vs. Tampa Bay (10/20) for three yards. He also had a key block to spring Dalton Hilliard loose for a 65-yard TD run at Atlanta (9/29) in a 27-6 victory. He was originally an eighth-round pick (210th overall) by the Saints in 1991. He had been released by the Saints on 8/26, but re-signed to their practice squad on 8/28.

COLLEGE: Wainright started his college career as a defensive back at Northern Colorado, but eventually was switched to tight end where he was an All-North Central Conference selection his junior and senior seasons. He finished his four-year career with 86 receptions for 981 yards and nine touchdowns, including a career-high 31 catches for 386 yards as a senior, when he also returned 13 kickoffs for 304 yards (23.4 avg.). He was a business major.

PERSONAL: Frank began his high school career in Peoria, Ill., where he lettered in football, basketball, and baseball. He moved to Colorado where he was a two-time all-city and all-conference selection in his two years at Pomona HS. He and his wife Stacie make their home in Littleton, Colo. His full name is Frank Wesley Wainright.

Lionel Washington joins the Broncos after signing as a free agent during the 1995 offseason. He is expected to compete for the starting right cornerback position for the Broncos in 1995. The fast, quick, mobile veteran defensive back has played in 166 games in 12 NFL seasons with the Raiders and St. Louis Cardinals. 1994: Washington participated in 11 games and started seven for the Los Angeles Raiders and placed second on team with three interceptions, adding to his total of 33 in his pro career and 17 as a member of the Raiders. Two interceptions came against Atlanta (10/23). He returned an interception 31 yards for a touchdown against San Diego (9/25) and also recorded six tackles and one pass defended in the game. 1993: Washington was the Raiders' starter at right cornerback in all 16 games. He recorded an interception in the season opener against Minnesota (9/5) and another against San Diego (10/31). 1992: Washington started for the Raiders at cornerback in all 16 games and placed third on the team in interceptions with two. He was second on the squad in passes defended with 13 and eighth tackles with 63. He had four passes defended at Philadelphia and eight tackles, one pass defended versus Dallas. 1991: Washington started all 16 regular season games plus the Wild Card contest for the Raiders. He intercepted five passes to tie for fourth in the AFC, led the Raiders in passes defended with 21 and ranked among the team leaders in tackles with 51. 1990: Washington started 15 regular season games and both postseason games for the Raiders, finishing among the top tacklers with 62. He was second on the team in passes defended with 10 and recorded one interception against Green Bay. 1989: Washington started all 16 regular season games for the Raiders at cornerback, leading the team in passes defended with 20 and tying for second in interceptions with three. He scored two touchdowns on the season, one on a 32-yard interception return against Denver and the other on a 37-yard fumble return versus Seattle. He tied for sixth among Raider defenders in tackles with 67. 1988: Washington was nagged by injuries, but still played in 12 regular season games. He played mostly in nickel back situations and on special teams. 1987: Washington was obtained by the Raiders in a spring, 1987 trade from the St. Louis Cardinals for a fifth-round draft pick (punter John Bruno). He played in 11 games for the Raiders in '87, starting 10 at left corner. He tied for the team lead with 11 passes defended and was in on 37 tackles with a high of eight against Denver. 1986: Washington played in all 16 games for St. Louis in 1986, starting 12, and had two interceptions. 1985: Washington opened the season as the starter and was then sidelined by injury in the second game. He had a 48-yard interception return for a touchdown against Cleveland. 1984: Washington played in 15 games with five interceptions and 67 tackles. 1983: Washington, a rookie with St. Louis, had his best interception season with a club-high eight, all in the last nine games when he became a starter. He had 67 tackles on the season. Washington was a fourth-round draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals, the 103rd player taken overall. He originally was selected by the Tampa Bay Bandits in the USFL draft (20th round, 229th overall) but did not sign with the club.

COLLEGE: Washington was a three-year starter and four-year letterman in football at Tulane, serving as team co-captain as a senior. He intercepted eight passes during his four-year college career. Washington earned all-conference honors as a sophomore and junior, and had five interceptions as a sophomore. Following his senior year he was selected to play in the Hall of Fame Bowl and the Blue-Gray Game. He also lettered in track and field at Tulane, running the 60, 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes with a best of 9.4 seconds for the 100 yards, 10.3 for the 100 meters and 21.0 for the 200 meters. He also ran hurdles and was a member of Tulane's relay team. Washington was a sports administration and physical education major.

PERSONAL: Born in New Orleans, Washington lettered in football, basketball and track at Lutchter High School in Lutchter, La. He was an all-state safety as both a junior and senior, and was all-state in track in the hurdles and sprints. He recorded a best of 13.8 in the 120 high hurdles to win the state championship as a senior. Lionel was also all-district in basketball. Washington was a teammate of fellow Bronco newcomer Bill Lewis when the two played for the Raiders. Lionel has a son, Deron, and a daughter, Lakaia, and makes his offseason home in LaPlace, La.

College - Toledo
High School - Ypsilanti HS
 Ypsilanti, Mich.
Height - 6-4
Weight - 290
Pro Year - 3rd
Year with Broncos - 3rd

Dan Williams returns for his third season with the Broncos as a candidate to start on the defensive line. He is attempting to come back from offseason surgery for a knee injury that kept him out of five of the last six games of the season last year. 1994: Williams played in 11 games and made eight starts at defensive right tackle. He started the first eight games before being replaced by Harald Hasselbach in game nine at the L.A. Rams (11/6). Williams finished the year with 22 tackles (11 solo), one interception and two passes defended. The interception - the first of his career - and one of the passes defended came against Kansas City (10/17). He had a season-high six tackles (3 solo) against the Raiders (9/18). 1993: Williams was the Broncos' first-round draft choice (11th pick overall) and was considered a force against the run in his rookie season. After suffering a knee injury in the second game of the season versus San Diego (9/12), Williams missed three games and then re-injured the same knee in the final regular season game at the L.A. Raiders (1/2). For the season Williams started in 11 of the 13 games in which he played, accounting for 37 total tackles on the year, 18 solo and 19 assisted. He was also credited with 1.5-sacks and one fumble recovery.

COLLEGE: Williams was regarded as one of the premier pass rushers in the 1993 NFL draft. He was an All-American and a first-team All-Mid American Conference pick as a senior at Toledo by the Football News. He posted 13 sacks as a senior to go along with 104 tackles (59 solo), and 33 quarterback pressures. For his career at Toledo Williams accounted for 256 tackles (143 solo), 28 sacks, and 80 pressures. He was a criminal justice major at Toledo.

PERSONAL: Dan and his wife Angela make their offseason home in Parker, Colo., with their first child Courtney Danielle (4/4/94). Dan lettered once in both football and basketball at Ypsilanti (Mich.) HS, earning all-conference, all-metro, and all-area honors in his only varsity season. His full name is Daniel Williams II.

Dave Wyman faces the task of trying to return from injury in 1995, looking to land a starting spot among the Broncos' linebacking corps. An intelligent and skilled player with eight years of NFL experience, Wyman will be a key part of the Broncos defense if healthy. 1994: Wyman played in four games and finished the season with 11 tackles (7 solo). He was placed on the inactive list for each of the first 11 contests of the season with a knee injury. Wyman made his first appearance of the season against Cincinnati (11/27) and made two tackles (1 solo). He reinjured the knee three games later at San Francisco (12/17) and was placed on injured reserve for the final game against New Orleans (12/24). 1993: Wyman played solid at inside linebacker in his first year as a Bronco. His veteran leadership helped fill the Bronco linebacking spot that was left vacant in the 1993 offseason. Wyman finished second on the team in tackles with 133 (91 solo), as well as scoring his first touchdown on a fake field goal play at San Diego (12/5). Wyman was also credited with one pass interception, versus Tampa Bay (12/26), and two fumble recoveries, at Seattle (11/28) and at Chicago (12/18). 1992: Wyman started the first 11 games at middle linebacker for the Seahawks before injuring an arch while making a goal-line tackle against Kansas City (11/22). The foot injury caused him to miss the last five games of Seattle's season. Wyman finished the season with 83 tackles, which led the team at the time of his injury. 1991: Wyman started the first four games before sustaining another knee injury at Kansas City. He spent the next 10 weeks on injured reserve before returning to the starting lineup against Atlanta. He was credited with 22 tackles for the season. 1990: Wyman spent the first eight games of the season on injured reserve, due to a knee injury suffered during training camp. Upon his return in the final eight games, Wyman was credited with 48 tackles, two tackles for loss, a sack, a fumble recovery and two interceptions. 1989: Wyman developed further as an inside linebacker, becoming the only Seahawk linebacker to start all 16 games, and finished second on the team in tackles with 98. 1988: Wyman started all 16 games, ranking second on the team in tackles with 97. In his big game against San Francisco, Wyman racked up 14 tackles, including 2.5 sacks. He had five games in which he made at least 10 tackles. 1987: Wyman was a second-round draft choice of the Seahawks in 1987, 45th overall. He played in four games with no starts as a rookie. Seattle had reached an agreement to trade Wyman to San Francisco in November of 1987, but a shoulder injury caused him to fail the 49er's team physical, which voided the trade.

COLLEGE: Wyman was a first-team All-America and a first-team All-Pac-10 selection as a senior at Stanford. He led the team in tackles in 1986 with 169, intercepted three passes and recovered one fumble. He had a season-high 27 tackles against USC and totaled 11 tackles in a 27-21 loss to Clemson in the Gator Bowl. Wyman was redshirted in 1985 after suffering a severe knee injury in 1984. He was a second-team all-conference choice in 1983 and 1984 along with the team MVP honor in 1984. He had 128 tackles as a junior and 144 as a sophomore. Wyman finished his career at Stanford with 458 tackles, seven fumble recoveries, and seven interceptions. He majored in communications.

PERSONAL: David and his wife Shannen were married May 22, 1993, and the couple makes their home in Parker, Colo., with their son Jake (4/14/94). He earned the Nevada Player of the Year honor as a senior at Wooster HS in Reno, Nev. He also was the state champion in the shot put and lettered in basketball. His full name is David Matthew Wyman.

65 GARY ZIMMERMAN • Off. Tackle

Birthplace - Fullerton, Calif.
Residence - Parker, Colo.
How Acquired - Trade (Minn.), 1993
College - Oregon
High School - Walnut HS
 Walnut, Calif.
Height - 6-6
Weight - 294
Pro Year - 10th
Year with Broncos - 3rd

Gary Zimmerman returns as the anchor of the Broncos' offensive line in 1995 after starting all 16 games at left tackle a year ago and earning his fifth Pro Bowl appearance. He is one of two returning starters (Brian Habib, RG) on the Denver line, which looks to improve under new line coach Alex Gibbs. Zimmerman is very durable, starting 123 straight games for the Broncos and Vikings, and has started every game in which he has played as a pro (140). A consummate professional year in and year out, he has been named All-NFL twice (1987-88), NFL Lineman of the Year in 1987, and second-team All-NFL of the 1980's. He was a Pro Bowl alternate in 1993, which would have given him six selections. 1994: Zimmerman did not miss a game as the starter at left tackle, and was one of the few bright spots on an offensive line that struggled at times. He was recognized for his outstanding play with selection to the Pro Bowl, his fifth such selection. 1993: Zimmerman was acquired by the Broncos in a trade with Minnesota prior to the last preseason game in 1993 and was immediately inserted into the starting lineup. He started every game at left tackle for the Broncos, solidifying an offensive line that allowed time for quarterback John Elway to post career numbers. He was a major factor in the success of the Broncos offensive line, and was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl. 1992: In 1992 he was named to the Pro Bowl as a starter, his first trip since 1989. 1991: In 1991 he anchored a Minnesota line that helped the Vikings lead the NFC in rushing. 1990: In 1990 Zimmerman started all 16 games despite being hampered by various injuries. He underwent surgery on his ankle and elbow at the end of that season. 1987-89: In 1989 he was selected to his third Pro Bowl appearance. The other two appearances were in 1988 and 1987. 1986: Zimmerman earned All-NFL honors for Minnesota in his first season in the league. He was originally obtained by the Giants in the first-round of the 1984 supplemental draft, third overall, and then had his rights traded to Minnesota for two second-round picks (CB Mark Collins and S Greg Lasker) in the 1986 draft. 1984-85: He began his pro career as a second-round pick, 36th overall, by the Los Angeles Express of the USFL in 1984.

COLLEGE: Zimmerman was a first-team All-Pac-10 selection and earned Sporting News second-team and Associated Press third-team honors as a senior in 1983. He was a part-time player as a freshman, and played both ways in 1981 before becoming a starter as a junior.

PERSONAL: Gary was born in Fullerton, Calif., where he was an all-league middle linebacker at Walnut High. He and his wife Lisa have two daughters, Lindsay Rae (2/9/88) and Kelsey Marie (1/14/92), and the couple makes their offseason home in Parker, Colo. His hobbies include hunting, fishing, working with computers and flying. His full name is Gary Wayne Zimmerman.

JAMIE BROWN Florida A&M
Offensive Tackle 6-8 • 320
Birthdate: April 24, 1972
Draft Choice: #4a (121st overall)

Jamie Brown figures to be a "big" part of the Broncos' future on the offensive line future. The 6-8, 320-pound tackle is the tallest player ever drafted by the Broncos and is the second tallest player ever signed by the club (6-9 Kevin Farkas did not make the club in 1994). Brown made great improvement from his freshman year at Division I-AA Florida A&M to his senior year, starting 38 of 45 games, and figures to continue his improvement at the professional level. He has good feet and rangy moves for a man his size. 1994: Brown started all 11 games, earning All-Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference honors for his work on the Rattlers' offensive line. The Rattlers averaged 158.5 yards per game on the ground and 4.8 yards per play on offense. He was the lead blocker for halfback Shama Simpson, an all-conference player who rushed for 1,100 yards and eight touchdowns, including seven 100-yard rushing performances. In one of his better games of the season, the Rattlers upset third-ranked and undefeated Grambling State 13-0 in the Orange Blossom Classic in Miami. 1993: Brown started all 11 games for the Rattlers. 1992: Brown was an integral part of Florida A&M's first postseason team since 1978, as they earned a bid in the Alamo Heritage Bowl against Grambling State. 1991: Brown started seven games during his freshman year and showed excellent potential. The Rattlers boasted the most prolific offense in the MEAC that season, as quarterback Tony Ezell passed for over 2,200 yards and 14 touchdowns, while halfback Chuck Duffy ran for over 700 yards and 13 scores.

PERSONAL: Jamie is a graduate of Killian (Miami, Fla.) HS, where he was a prep All-American in football, and also ran track and played basketball. He did not start playing football until he was a junior in high school, having spent his first two years at the New World School of Arts. While at Killian he played with current University of Miami wide receiver Tony Gaiter, as well as current Boston College wide receiver Greg Grice, who was a college teammate of Broncos center Tom Nalen. Brown's head coach at Florida A&M was Billy Joe, who was a fullback for the Broncos from 1963-64. Other former Rattlers to play for the Broncos include WR Ray Alexander (1984), WR Al Denson (1964-70), and FB Hewitt Dixon (1963-65). Jamie has three sisters, Wendy, Sandy, and Lekietrise, and one brother, Bruce. Sandy, a former Miami Dolphins cheerleader, is married to the Dallas Cowboys' All-Pro wide receiver Michael Irvin. His parents are Jimmie Brown and Jeannie Blunt. Jamie was born April 24, 1972 in Miami, Fla.

KEN BROWN Virginia Tech
Linebacker 6-1 • 235
Birthdate: May 5, 1971
Draft Choice: #4b (124th overall)

Ken Brown comes to the Broncos as a versatile athlete who can play both inside and outside linebacker, though he will be primarily used as an outside linebacker in the Broncos' defensive scheme. Brown, who has outstanding coverage skills and excellent speed, is a durable player who started 42 of his 44 games at Virginia Tech. 1994: Brown started 10 games at outside linebacker, registering 93 tackles (54 solo, third on team), two sacks for minus 23 yards and six stops for losses of nine yards. He also batted down five passes and picked off two others. He was an honorable mention All-American and All-Big East first-team selection by

The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft and The Sporting News after a senior season in which he was team captain. He registered nine tackles vs. Arkansas State and seven stops with a pass deflection against Southern Mississippi. He tied his career high with 15 tackles (nine solo) with a 13-yard sack, two tackles for losses and a pass breakup in a 12-7 victory at Boston College. Brown had seven stops and an interception in a 34-6 win vs. West Virginia on national television. He had eight tackles vs. Syracuse and was in on 12 stops (10 solo) with three for losses in a 41-13 win over Temple. He made 11 tackles (seven solo) with an 11-yard interception return and a fumble recovery vs. East Carolina. The next week he had 11 more stops (six solo) and a 10-yard sack in a 45-7 win over Pittsburgh. Brown contributed 10 stops at Miami. In the 1994 Gator Bowl vs. Tennessee, Brown had three tackles (two assists) while playing sparingly because of a hamstring injury. 1993: Brown started all 11 games at inside linebacker, earning All-Big East second-team honors. He led the team and was tied for second in the Big East with 113 tackles (61 solo), two sacks and eight stops for 20 yards in losses. He also picked off one pass and batted down three others. It was the first time a Tech player made more than 100 tackles in a season since 1987. Brown added seven quarterback pressures despite playing throughout the season with tendonitis in his right knee. Brown had 14 tackles (10 solo), two stops for losses of four yards, and a fumble recovery at Miami. He also had 13 stops (seven solo) and an eight-yard sack vs. Maryland. He had 12 more stops (seven solo) vs. Temple and had a career-high 15 tackles (eight solo) vs. Boston College. He was credited with eight tackles (five solo) and 2.5 sacks vs. Indiana in 45-24 Independence Bowl victory. 1992: Brown started all 11 games at right outside linebacker, finishing the season with 82 tackles (46 solo), five sacks and two stops for losses. He also intercepted three passes for 46 yards in returns. He was the Big East Conference Defensive Player of the Week vs. Temple, as he finished with six tackles, one sack and one interception. He had nine tackles and a 10-yard sack vs. Miami and had 12 stops and an 18-yard interception return vs. Rutgers, as well as two sacks vs. Syracuse. 1991: Brown played in all 11 games, starting nine at right outside linebacker. He was a second-team Freshman All-America choice by Football News and The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He finished the season with 54 tackles (34 solo), three sacks and two stops for losses. He had 10 tackles, including one for a six-yard loss in his first game as a Hokie, a 41-12 win over James Madison. He earned his first career start, responding with six tackles vs. South Carolina. 1990: Brown did not play because he did not enroll in school until spring drills for the 1991 season were ready to begin. Prior to enrolling at Tech he played at Fork Union (Va.) Military Academy where he had a 96-yard interception return for a TD vs. Virginia Tech's junior varsity team. He also had a blocked punt return for a TD vs. Montgomery College, adding seven tackles (four solo) and two sacks. The list of former players at Fork Union includes Cleveland Browns quarterback Vinny Testaverde.

PERSONAL: Brown was a two-time All-District selection as both a linebacker and running back at Monacan (Richmond, Va.) HS. He was an all-region pick on defense as a senior and on offense as a junior, and was also two-time team MVP. He led the team to a regional title as he averaged 11 tackles per game in his final season. Brown lettered twice in basketball and performed on the AAU hoop squad that advanced to the national finals. He was a housing, interior design and resource management major at Virginia Tech, and has a 340-pound bench press and a 520-pound squat to his credit. He is the son of Joseph and Joy Brown, and was born on 5/5/71 in Wiesbaden, Germany. His full name is Kenneth Anderson Brown.

BYRON CHAMBERLAIN Wayne State
Wide Receiver 6-1 • 225
Birthdate: October 17, 1971
Draft Choice: #7b (222nd overall)

Byron Chamberlain comes to the Broncos with tremendous athletic skills and the power of a tight end, though he will be a wide receiver in the Broncos offense. He also possesses excellent quickness for such a big receiver and runs sharp routes. He can also be an effective blocker, having done some punting during his college career at Division II Wayne State (Neb.) University. He set the school record for receptions with 161, and ranks third on the all-time list for receiving yards with 1,941. He began his college career at Missouri, where he was an All-Big Eight Conference honorable mention selection in 1991. 1994: Chamberlain started all 10 games at Wayne State, registering a school record 83 catches for 926 yards (11.2 avg.), and seven touchdowns. He also rushed seven times for 100 yards (14.3) and one touchdown. Chamberlain was a Division II first-team All-America choice by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. His average of 8.3 catches per game ranked fourth in Division II. He had eight catches for 132 yards and a score in a 40-7 win over Nebraska-Omaha, and also gained 113 yards on 13 catches with two scores in a 33-12 victory over Winona State. His 13 catches for the game was third-best in school history, equalling a mark he established in 1993. He grabbed four passes for 44 yards against Phil Simms' former school, Moorhead State (Minn.), and followed that performance with a school record 16 receptions for 231 yards and two TDs vs. Bemidji State. His receptions and yards broke his own school records set in 1993. He closed his career with an eight-catch, 58-yard performance, plus a career-high 66 yards on two carries in a 33-6 victory over Peru State. 1993: Chamberlain played in and started nine games, finishing with 78 receptions for 1,015 yards (13.0) and seven touchdowns. He also had 16 rushes for 122 yards (7.6) as well as 21 punts for 735 yards (35.0), including a career-long 61-yarder. He was a Little All-American first-team pick by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft. He ranked fourth in the nation with 8.7 catches per game and sixth with an average of 112.8 yards per game. He missed one game with a dislocated shoulder. He had eight receptions for a school record 210 yards and a 90-yard touchdown in his first game in a Wildcat uniform, a 32-19 win over Nebraska-Omaha. His 90-yarder was the third-longest in school history, and his 210 yards broke a nine-year old mark of 195 yards, held by Sonny Jones. He had eight grabs for 108 yards before hurting his shoulder in a 44-17 win over Morningside. He also had a school single-game record of 15 receptions for 133 yards and a career-high three touchdowns vs. Southwest State (Minn.). He re-separated his shoulder vs. Minnesota-Duluth while grabbing 10 catches for 82 yards. 1992: Chamberlain did not play collegiate football. 1991: Chamberlain was an All-Big Eight honorable mention selection at Missouri, playing in eight games, with five starts, and registering 39 catches for 464 yards (11.9) and four touchdowns. He also returned four kicks for 61 yards (15.3) and 13 punts for 81 yards (6.2). He started at tight end in three games and at split end in two others. He did not play against Nebraska, Oklahoma State and Colorado because of a sprained ankle. He opened the season with a school single-game record of 10 receptions for 110 yards vs. Baylor, breaking the mark of nine set by many others. He had five catches for 65 yards and two touchdowns vs. Indiana, and grabbed five passes for 58 yards vs. Memphis State. He also added seven grabs for 88 yards vs. Oklahoma. 1990: Chamberlain was redshirted at Missouri. 1989: Chamberlain played in all games as a freshman at Missouri, catching three balls for 92 yards (30.7) and one TD. His first career reception was an eight-yarder vs. Nebraska. His first TD came on a 41-yard toss in a 21-9 victory over Kansas State. He also had a 43-yard grab vs. Oklahoma. Chamberlain was a parks and recreation major at Wayne State.

PERSONAL: Chamberlain was a third-team all-state selection as a wide receiver at Eastern Hills (Fort Worth, Texas) HS. He was also an all-district and All-Tarrant County first-team choice. He caught 34 passes for 645 yards (19.0 avg.) and seven touchdowns, adding 216 yards rushing with a pair of scores on 13 carries as a senior. He had 70 receptions for 1,390 yards (19.9) and 15 touchdowns during his career. Byron also lettered twice in track and three times in baseball. His sister Dhana, was the district champ in the triple jump at Eastern Hill in 1987. Byron, the son of Jo Carolyn Boyd, and was born 10/17/71 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

TERRELL DAVIS Georgia
Running Back 5-11 • 200
Birthdate: October 28, 1972
Draft Choice: #6b (196th overall)

Terrell Davis is another in a long line of standout tailbacks to perform for the Georgia Bulldogs in recent years, and now Davis will have an opportunity to show his abilities at the professional level. He follows in the footsteps of former Bulldogs greats Herschel Walker (Giants), Rodney Hampton (Giants), Garrison Hearst (Cardinals) and Tim Worley (formerly of the Steelers and Bears). He is a powerfully built athlete with excellent hands, good speed, and good escapability. 1994: Davis played in eight games as a scatback, starting seven. He missed three contests due to a groin injury, but still managed to lead the team with 445 yards and seven touchdowns on 97 carries (4.6 average). He also had 31 receptions for 330 yards (10.7). Davis had seven catches for 48 yards and 11 carries for 42 yards against South Carolina. He had 79 yards on four catches, including a 46-yarder, and rushed for 42 yards on 10 carries, including a one-yard score vs. Vanderbilt. The next week he rushed for 77 yards and a pair of one-yard scores on 13 carries, plus 69 yards on seven catches vs. Kentucky. He gained 113 yards on 25 carries and 42 yards on two catches in a 23-23 tie with Auburn. Birthdate: January 31, 1972 Draft Choice: #6a (182nd overall)

Iowa

Fritz Fequiere comes to the Broncos from the University of Iowa, where he was a rising star who improved steadily throughout his career. He has explosive leg drive and good lateral movement, and is a physical trap-blocking type of lineman. He is also very fluid in his pass blocking skills. 1994: Fequiere was a Super Sleeper Team member and an All-America third-team selection by The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft, as he started all 11 games at right guard. He made 57 knockdown blocks and graded out at 82% for blocking consistency. He played a major role in the Hawkeyes ability to average 221.0 yards per game on the ground and 406.9 yards in total offense. Fequiere registered seven knockdowns while delivering key blocks on touchdown runs of five yards by Kent Kahl and 80 yards by tailback Sedrick Shaw as the Hawkeyes amassed 568 yards in total offense vs. Central Michigan. He dropped linebacker Brian Gelzeiser of Penn State on a blitz to enable quarterback Ryan Driscoll to hit Harold Jasper with a 26-yard scoring strike as the team totaled 455 yards of offense. Fritz helped the Hawkeyes roll up 265 yards rushing in a 37-9 victory over in-state rival Iowa State. He upended defensive tackle Aaron Jackson with a cut block on Kent Kahl's three-yard touchdown run with 2:01 left to beat Michigan State 19-14. He also helped the Hawkeyes rush for 310 yards in a 21-21 tie with Purdue. 1993: Fequiere started eight games at right guard and showed excellent pass protection skills as the Hawkeyes averaged 189.7 aerial yards per game. He led quarterback

Paul Burmeister into the endzone for a one-yard score in a 26-25 victory over Tulsa. Fequiere also earned game MVP honors against Penn State after making five knockdown blocks and catching a deflected pass for a three-yard gain. He also helped the Hawkeyes rush for 287 yards in a 31-28 victory over Iowa State. 1992: Fequiere appeared in eight games as a reserve guard, performing with the second unit at right guard behind Mike Ferroni. 1991: Fequiere saw limited action in three games. 1990: Fequiere was redshirted as a freshman. He was a sociology major.

PERSONAL: Fritz was a third-team All-American and first-team All-East Region selection by Prep Football Report at Uniondale (NY) HS. He was also All-Long Island, all-state, team MVP and captain, leading the squad to the state title in 1989. He was a two-way lineman, averaging eight tackles per game while making 14 stops behind the line of scrimmage as a senior. Fequiere was born January 31, 1972 in his hometown of Uniondale, New York.

Linebacker 6-2 • 220
Draft Choice: #5 (146th overall)

Phil Yeboah-Kodie is another in a long line of outstanding linebackers from Linebacker U., Penn State. He figures to be a contributor for the Broncos this season. Yeboah-Kodie was part of a Nittany Lions squad that went 12-0 in 1994, finishing No. 2 in all the major polls. 1994: Phil started all 11 games from his outside linebacker position. He was chosen as a second-team All-Big 10 pick by the conference coaches. He ranked third on the team with 70 tackles (32 solo) and tied for the team lead with 14 tackles behind the line of scrimmage for 47 yards lost. He also had two sacks (-18 yards), four pass breakups, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. In a matchup between the then-No. 3-ranked Lions and then-No. 5 Michigan, Yeboah-Kodie had 10 stops to help Penn State to a 31-24 victory in Ann Arbor. He recovered a blocked punt midway through the first quarter at Iowa, scoring his second collegiate touchdown. He also recovered a fumble against the Hawkeyes that set up a Ki-Jana Carter score on the next play. He had a career-high 12 stops at Illinois in a 35-31 victory. He capped his collegiate career with six tackles and two sacks (-17 yards) in a 38-20 win over Oregon in the 1995 Rose Bowl. Yeboah-Kodie received a special award from the State College Quarterback Club at the football team's senior banquet. 1993: Yeboah-Kodie had 24 tackles (12 solo) on the season in nine games. He had a season-high five stops against Tennessee in the Florida Citrus Bowl. He also had five stops in a start at Ohio State. 1992: Yeboah-Kodie assumed the starting position for the first time, and responded by leading the team in tackles with 63 (40 solo). He was the only linebacker to start every game and finished third on the squad in playing time with 811 plays. He was also credited with six tackles for loss (-30 yards), three sacks (-32) and eight pass deflections. He provided one of the season's most memorable plays when he picked off a pass at West Virginia and returned it 23 yards for his first collegiate touchdown. He had nine stops vs. Notre Dame and had eight each vs. Cincinnati and Maryland. He also had six tackles in the Blockbuster Bowl against a Stanford Cardinal team that featured current Broncos teammate Glyn Milburn. 1991: Yeboah-Kodie played in 11 of 13 games, including the Fiesta Bowl. He played mostly on special teams, totalling eight tackles (six solo) on the season. He had three tackles each vs. defending national champion Georgia Tech and Cincinnati. He had three stops in the Fiesta Bowl vs. Tennessee, a 42-17 victory. 1990: Phil entered school in the spring and went through spring drills with the team. He was then redshirted for the '90 season.

PERSONAL: Yeboah-Kodie was born in Ghana (1/22/71), on the West Coast of Africa. His family moved to Canada when he was a youngster, and he grew up in Montreal. His brother Frank played cornerback at Penn State in the late '80s and currently plays for the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League. Phil first became interested in playing football while watching his brother play, and then decided to join a pee-wee league with his friends. 1994 GAME SUMMARIES WEEK-BY-WEEK

Sept. 4, 1994 • Mile High Stadium, Denver

The Denver Broncos dropped their home and season opener to the San Diego Chargers by a mere three points in a scoring barrage by both teams.

The Broncos opened the season by scoring the first 17 points of the game. Wide receiver Mike Pritchard started the scoring, running under a 50-yard toss from quarterback John Elway, putting the Broncos ahead 7-0. After a 53-yard punt by the Chargers' John Kidd, the Broncos set up shop at their 20-yard line and proceeded to march the 80 yards for yet another touchdown. Newest Bronco running back Leonard Russell dashed around the left end for a 22-yard touchdown to put Denver ahead 14-0.

On the ensuing kickoff linebacker Allen Aldridge forced a Charger fumble that was recovered by running back Reggie Rivers on the Charger 16. Seven plays later, kicker Jason Elam made the Chargers pay with a 25-yard field goal to build a 17-0 lead.

That's when the game began to change for the Broncos. The Chargers marched 82 yards on nine plays on their next possession, capping the drive with a 22-yard TD toss from quarterback Stan Humphries to tight end Alfred Pupunu. The Chargers were unsuccessful on their two point conversion attempt, 17-6. Denver answered the Charger score with a nine-play, 83-yard drive, capped by a nifty eight-yard scamper by Bronco running back Glyn Milburn, 24-6.

Not to be outdone, the Chargers answered quickly, taking just four plays to go 83 yards. The drive ended with Humphries tossing a 47-yard bomb to wide receiver Shawn Jefferson, 24-13. Elway tossed an interception just two plays into the Broncos' next possession, setting up the Chargers first-and-10 at the Bronco 41. Four plays later, Humphries hooked up with wide receiver Mark Seay for a 29-yard score. Again the Chargers were unsuccessful on their two point conversion attempt, 24-19. After a punt by both teams, the Broncos took possession at their own 28 and moved downfield to the Charger five, facing a third-and-one. Elway was picked off by safety Stanley Richard at the Charger one. Richard didn't stop there, he proceeded to make a 99-yard interception return for the touchdown. The Chargers again went for two and were finally successful, 27-24 Chargers at the half.

The offensive explosion slowed a bit in the second half with the Broncos moving 51 yards on the opening possession, finishing with a 42-yard field goal by Elam, 27-27. The Chargers also opened the second half with a field goal on their first drive, a 27-yarder from Carney, 30-27. The Broncos chewed up nearly seven minutes on their next drive, going 67 yards in 11 plays with tight end Shannon Sharpe scoring on their next touchdown toss from Elway, 34-30 Broncos early in the fourth quarter.

The Chargers then consumed over 10 minutes on their next drive, embarking on a 19-play, 89-yard drive, that ended in a one-yard touchdown by running back Natrone Means, 37-34 Chargers. The Broncos then took possession at their own 25 and drove to the Charger three with just 43 seconds remaining. On second down, Elway rolled right and fumbled when the ball slipped out of his hand as he attempted to throw to a wide open Anthony Miller in the back of the end zone. Charger linebacker Junior Seau caught the fumble before it hit the ground to secure the Charger win, 37-34.

Sept. 11, 1994 • Giants Stadium, East Rutherford, N.J.

The Broncos suffered their second loss of the season in overtime to the New York Jets by three points. It was the second straight week in which the Broncos lost by a field goal, and dropped them to 0-2 on the season.

The Jets struck first after both teams failed to move the ball on their opening possessions. It was linebacker Mo Lewis stepping in front of a John Elway pass intended for running back Rod Bernstein. Lewis returned the interception 67 yards for the score, putting New York ahead 7-0.

The Broncos answered early in the second quarter, going 95 yards in nine plays. Elway capped the drive with a 40-yard touchdown strike to wide receiver Anthony Miller. The Broncos took the lead on their next possession with a 42-yard field goal by kicker Jason Elam after a seven-play, 29-yard drive, 10-7 Broncos.

New York answered the Bronco challenge by scoring on a six-play, 76-yard drive, that was highlighted by a 38-yard completion from quarterback Boomer Esiason to wide receiver Rob Moore that set the Jets up at the Bronco one. On the next play, Esiason hit tight end Fred Baxter for a one-yard touchdown, 14-10 Jets. Elam brought the Broncos within one at the half on a 21-yard field goal after a nine-play, 63-yard drive, 14-13 Jets at the half.

The Broncos regained the lead on their first possession of the second half, going 60 yards in 11 plays. The drive saw only two running plays, both were the last two plays of the drive. Running back Derek Clark got the first call, going two yards to the Jets' three. Then running back Leonard Russell finished the drive with a three-yard touchdown dive. The Broncos' attempt at two points failed, 19-14 Broncos.

The Jets regained the lead midway through the fourth quarter when Esiason led the Jets on a 10-play, 88-yard drive, capped by a 35-yard TD pass from Esiason to Moore. The Jets were successful on their two-point conversion, 22-19 Jets.

But Elway answered the challenge and led the Broncos 53 yards in 10 plays, setting up Elam for a 29-yard field goal that tied the score, 22-22 with 1:41 left in regulation. The defense held and the game went to overtime. The Bronco offense didn't see the ball, as the Jets took possession and marched 45 yards in seven plays, ending the game on a 39-yard field goal by Nick Lowery, 25-22 Jets in overtime.

Sept. 18, 1994 • Mile High Stadium, Denver

Denver dropped to 0-3 on the season by losing to the Los Angeles Raiders at Mile High Stadium. The Raiders put the game away early, scoring touchdowns on their first four possessions, with drives 58, 69, 61 and 35 yards.

Running back Harvey Williams started the Raiders' scoring, running in from two yards out. Quarterback Jeff Hostetler tossed the other three TD's to running back Tyrone Montgomery (65 yards), wide receiver Tim Brown (43 yards) and tight end Andrew Glover (seven yards) to end the Raiders scoring at 28 for the half.

Denver's only points of the half came on the team's second possession when Jason Elam booted a 43-yard field goal, resulting in a 28-3 halftime lead for Los Angeles.

The second half opened up promising for the Broncos when safety Steve Atwater forced a Raider fumble that cornerback Ray Crockett returned to the Raiders' nine. Running back Leonard Russell plowed in three plays later, 28-9 Raiders after a failed two point conversion attempt. Russell fumbled on the Broncos' next possession and the Raiders capitalized, scoring on a Hostetler-to-Williams five-yard pass, 35-9.

The Broncos rebounded with a four-play 60-yard drive, finished by Russell from four yards out, 35-16. That would prove to be all the Bronco scoring, but the Raiders tacked on two Jeff Jaeger field goals from 42 and 33 yards away, along with a 15-yard interception return for a touchdown by cornerback Terry McDaniel making the final score 48-16 Raiders.

BUFFALO 27, DENVER 20

Sept. 26, 1994 • Rich Stadium, Buffalo, N.Y.

The Broncos dropped their fourth straight in a valiant effort at Buffalo's Rich Stadium. Things looked good for the Broncos early in the contest, as the defense stepped up big on the game's opening drive.

Linebacker Simon Fletcher intercepted Bills' quarterback Jim Kelly at the Broncos' 45-yard line and returned it four yards to set his team up near midfield. Denver's offense took over and marched to the Bills' 24, but kicker Jason Elam missed a 41-yard field goal. The Bills capitalized on the ensuing possession, going 50 yards in 10 plays, capped by a Steve Christie 36-yard field goal to put Buffalo ahead 3-0.

The Broncos bounced back on their next possession, taking almost six minutes to go 72 yards in 10 plays. Wide receiver Anthony Miller hauled in an 11-yard touchdown toss from quarterback John Elway, 7-3 Broncos.

After punts by both teams, Buffalo took possession on their own 32. Nine plays later, Bills' running back Thurman Thomas scampered 16 yards for a touchdown, 10-7 Bills. The Broncos' took over on their own 12-yard line after the kickoff and moved the ball effectively inside the final two minutes of the half. But faced with a first-and-15 at their own 41, Elway was sacked by Bills defensive end Bruce Smith, forcing a fumble that was recovered by Cornelius Bennett and returned eight yards to the Bronco 27. The Bills scored on the next play when Thomas darted 27 yards for the touchdown with just 26 seconds remaining in the half, 17-7 Buffalo at the half.

Trouble continued for the Broncos on their first possession of the second half. Elway was intercepted by cornerback Mickey Washington on the second play, and Washington returned the pick to the Broncos' 25. Five plays later fullback Carwell Gardner busted up the middle for a three-yard TD run, 24-7.

Elway led the Broncos back on their next possession, going 57 yards in nine plays, capping the drive with a running back Leonard Russell score from two yards away, 24-14. The rest of the game's scoring would come on field goals, as Elam kicked two for the Broncos (28 and 43) and Christie kicked one for the Bills (28). The Broncos did move into scoring position with just seconds remaining in the contest, but failed to convert on a fourth-and-two at the Bills' four with 25 seconds remaining, giving Buffalo the 27-20 win.

Oct. 9, 1994 • Husky Stadium, Seattle, Wash.

The Denver Broncos snapped a four-game season-opening losing streak - one that stretched to seven games dating back to the 1993 season - by beating Seattle at Husky Stadium, 16-6. The game was played at the University of Washington because the Seahawks' normal venue, the Kingdome, was closed for repairs to its roof.

Broncos won the game the old fashioned way, with "True Grit." Running back Leonard Russell set the tone on offense, rushing 24 times for 103 yards, and cornerback Randy Hilliard paced the defense with two forced fumbles, one interception and several good defensive plays.

The Broncos got in the scoring column first on a 26-yard field goal by kicker Jason Elam that was set up by an interception of Seattle quarterback Rick Mirer by safety Steve Atwater. Bronco quarterback John Elway moved the team 58 yards in nine plays to give Elam the field goal opportunity, 3-0.

Neither team was able to move the ball into scoring range again until midway through the second quarter when Mirer drove the Seahawks 46 yards in nine plays, setting up a John Kasay 37-yard field goal, 3-3.

The Broncos punted on their next possession, giving the Seahawks the ball at their own 22. On the second-play of the drive, Mirer scrambled and completed a 39-yard pass to wide receiver Michael Bates, but Hilliard stripped Bates of the football, allowing Atwater to pick the fumble up and return it 17 yards to the Broncos' 30-yard line. Denver capitalized, driving 70 yards in 8 plays, capping the drive with a two-yard touchdown run by Elway, 10-3 at the half.

In the second half, Seattle cut the Denver lead to four on their first possession, driving 30 yards in 10 plays, setting up Kasay's second field goal of the game from 36 yards out, 10-6. Elam answered back on the Broncos' next possession with a 33-yarder after the Broncos drove 42 yards on nine plays, 13-6.

On the ensuing kickoff, Hilliard stripped Bates for the second time, resulting in a fumble that was recovered by cornerback Ronnie Bradford on the Seahawks' 19. The Broncos failed to move the ball, and settled for a 37-yard field goal by Elam, 16-6.

The Seahawks got another Kasay field goal from 42 yards away in the fourth quarter, but that would prove to be all the scoring, as Hilliard ended the Seahawks' last ditch effort with an interception of Rick Mirer. The final score read Denver 16, Seattle 9.

GAME 6

KANSAS CITY 31, DENVER 28

Oct. 17, 1994 • Mile High Stadium, Denver

The Denver Broncos and Kansas City Chiefs staged a classic battle on national television. The game saw good offense and good defense displayed by both teams, and two legendary quarterbacks showing why they're considered to be among the game's greatest.

In a game that would ultimately be decided by quarterbacks John Elway and Joe Montana, most the first quarter was ruled by punters Tom Rouen of Denver and Louie Aguiar of Kansas City. Rouen punted on the Broncos' first three possessions, and Aguiar punted after the Chiefs' first two possessions stalled. On the Chiefs' third possession, Bronco defensive tackle Ted Washington tipped a Montana pass that landed in the hands of fellow defensive tackle Dan Williams for his first career interception, setting up the Broncos up a the Kansas City 21-yard line. Three plays later running back Leonard Russell rushed around the left end for a 12-yard touchdown, 7-0 Broncos.

Kansas City was held on four downs deep in Bronco territory on their next possession, but again the Broncos were forced to punt. The Chiefs capitalized on their next possession as Montana led Kansas City on an 8-play, 45-yard drive that resulted in a seven-yard touchdown by running back Marcus Allen, 7-7.

Denver responded with an Elway-led seven-play, 60-yard drive drive that was capped by a 27-yard touchdown strike to wide receiver Anthony Miller, 14-7 Broncos. But Montana struck back with a second quarter scoring barrage, driving the Chiefs 62 yards in nine plays, tossing his first TD of the game to J.J. Birden from six yards out, 14-14 at the half.

Halftime didn't seem to cool the Chiefs and Joe Montana, as they took the first possession of the second half 76 yards in 10 plays, with Montana tossing four-yard TD to offensive tackle Joe Valerio, 21-14 Chiefs.

That lead would last until the Broncos' second possession of the second half when Elway led the Broncos on an eight-play, 73-yard drive that was culminated by a 20-yard touchdown toss to tight end Jerry Evans, 21-21.

The Chiefs regained the lead in the middle of the fourth quarter on a 19-yard field goal by Lin Elliott, after the Denver defense held on a third-and-goal from its own one, 24-21 Chiefs.

The Broncos were driving on their next possession with just over four minutes remaining in the contest when tight end Shannon Sharpe had the ball jarred out on a hit from his back side at the Chiefs' 41 with 2:45 remaining. It didn't look good for the Broncos, but defensive tackle Ted Washington forced a Marcus Allen fumble that was recovered by Bronco linebacker Karl Mecklenburg on the Chiefs' first play from scrimmage. Denver took over at the Chiefs' 39, where John Elway took matters into his own hands six plays later, running in for a touchdown from four yards out on a quarterback draw, 28-24 Broncos with just 1:29 left on the clock.

But that would prove to be plenty of time for Montana, as he led the Chiefs on an incredible nine-play, 75-yard drive in which he completed seven of eight passes, capping the drive with the game-winning toss to wide receiver Willie Davis with just eight seconds remaining. The final score read, Kansas City 31, Denver 28, dropping the Broncos to a 1-5 record on the season.

Oct. 23, 1994 • Jack Murphy Stadium, San Diego, Calif.

The Broncos avenged their opening day loss by dropping the San Diego Chargers, the National Football League's only unbeaten team, by the score of 20-15. Kicker Jason Elam became the team hero after missing early in the contest, and running back Leonard Russell continued to have a nose for the end zone.

The Chargers began the day with the football, but their first drive ended when Charger quarterback Stan Humphries was intercepted by defensive lineman Ted Washington. The Broncos were unable to capitalize, as Elam missed a 49-yard field goal.

San Diego took possession at its own 40 and drove 55 yards in eight plays, setting up kicker John Carney with a 22-yard field goal, 3-0 Chargers. On the Broncos' next possession defensive end Leslie O'Neal forced quarterback John Elway to fumble on third down, setting the Chargers up first-and-10 at the Broncos' 21-yard line. The Denver defense held, forcing a 39-yard field goal by Carney, 6-0.

The Broncos coughed up the ball again on their next possession when running back Reggie Rivers fumbled on third-and-one. Linebacker Junior Seau was there for the recovery, setting the Chargers up again in Bronco territory at the Denver 44. Eight plays later Carney kicked his third field goal of the game from 25 yards away, 9-0.

The Broncos stopped the bleeding on the next drive, eating up eight minutes and 58 seconds, on a 16-play, 80-yard drive that was capped off by a Leonard Russell three-yard touchdown on fourth down, 9-7 Chargers. The Chargers were forced to punt on their next possession, but the Broncos gave the ball back after wide receiver Anthony Miller mishandled a high pass from Elway that fell into the hands of safety Darren Carrington, who returned the interception to the Denver 13-yard line. The defense again came up big again, when cornerback Ray Crockett made his first interception of the year at Denver's 12 to stop the Charger threat.

The Broncos were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt, giving the Chargers good field position at their own 48. Seven plays later, Carney kicked his fourth field goal of the half from 26 yards away, 12-7 Chargers at the half.

The Broncos opened the second half with an impressive drive that ended on a fake field goal that went bad at the Charger's six-yard line. The Chargers couldn't move the ball on their next two possessions and the Broncos punted once before John Elway hooked up with tight end Shannon Sharpe on a 43-yard touchdown pass. That pass was set up by a 44-yard punt return by running back Glyn Milburn, 14-12 Broncos.

After punts by both teams, San Diego regained the lead on a 44-yard field goal by Carney, after an eight-play, 55-yard drive, 15-14. On the ensuing kickoff cornerback Butler By'not'e returned the kick to the Bronco 45, but 15 more yards were tacked on after a Charger penalty. That eventually set up what would prove to be the game-winning field goal by Elam from 54 yards away, 17-15. Elam tacked on a 25-yarder, and cornerback Ben Smith stopped a Charger threat with an interception to help lift the Broncos to a 20-15 win. The Broncos improved their record to 2-5 while handing the Chargers their first loss of the season.

GAME 8 DENVER 26, CLEVELAND 14 Oct. 30, 1994 • Mile High Stadium, Denver

Denver stretched its winning streak to two games, winning at home for the first time. Quarterback John Elway operated on the Cleveland defense with the skill of a surgeon, and the Broncos' defense held Browns' running back Eric Metcalf and the rest of his teammates in check for most of the day.

The Broncos scored first after punting on their opening possession. Elway led the team on a 15-play, 80-yard drive, that consumed nearly nine minutes. The drive was capped by a one-yard touchdown toss from Elway to tight end Jerry Evans, 7-0.

The Browns answered with a Matt Stover field goal from 43 yards away on their next possession, 7-3 Broncos. Stover added another field goal from 45 yards away, after Elway set the Browns up in good field position with a fumble, 7-6 Broncos.

The Broncos awoke on their next possession with a 10-play, 81-yard drive, that was ended with a one-yard touchdown plunge from running back Leonard Russe71, 14-6 Broncos at the half.

Denver took the first possession of the second half and marched 65 yards in 11 plays, setting up a 27-yard field goal by Jason Elam, 17-6. After a series of punts and one turnover, Elam came on to hit his second field goal of the game from 32 yards away, after a seven-play, 27-yard drive, 20-6.

But Cleveland didn't quit, as backup quarterback Mark Rypien led the Browns on a seven-play, 60-yard drive early in the fourth quarter, capped by a six-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Mark Carrier. The Browns converted on a two-point try to pull within six, 20-14.

The Broncos, however, would not fold again at home, closing the door on the Browns by driving 74 yards in just six plays. Wide receiver Derek Russell set up the score with a 43-yard catch and run. Glyn Milburn capped the drive with a great catch to score from 17 yards away. The two-point conversion attempt was no good by the Broncos, but that would be all the scoring the Broncos needed. The final score read 26-14 Denver, improving the team's record to three wins and five losses.

LOS ANGELES RAMS 27, DENVER 21

Nov. 6, 1994 • Anaheim Stadium, Anaheim, Calif.

The Denver Broncos dropped their sixth game of the season with a 27-21 loss to the Los Angeles Rams, and lost on the road for the first time since the September 26 Monday night matchup at Buffalo.

The Broncos made critical errors in all phases, but two off-sides penalties and a holding call on special teams helped the Rams gain better field position.

The Rams were forced to punt on their first possession after just a three-play series. The Rams took over at their 48 and drove the 52 yards in eight plays, scoring on a one-yard plunge by running back Jerome Bettis. The play was set up by a 43-yard reception by wide receiver Todd Kitchen from quarterback Chris Chandler on third-and-15, putting the Rams ahead 7-0.

The Broncos failed to move the ball and punted on their second possession, giving the Rams possession at their own 20-yard line, from which they drove 80 yards in 12 plays, eating up over seven minutes on the clock. The drive was capped when Chandler hit running back Howard Griffith from three yards away, 14-0.

The Broncos punted on their next two possessions, but cornerback Randy Hilliard and the defense came up with a big interception that gave the offense the ball at the Rams' 45. Denver moved into field goal range and kicker Jason Elam came on to hit from 42 yards away, 14-3 Rams. After an off-sides penalty on the kickoff, the Rams returned the kick to their 36. Eleven plays later, kicker Tony Zendejas booted a 35-yard field goal, 17-3 Rams at the half.

Los Angeles came out in the second half and took its opening possession 76 yards in seven plays to take a commanding 24-3 lead. The drive was finished after a 30-yard touchdown toss from Chandler to wide receiver Willie Anderson.

The Broncos got a little back after an 11-play, 69-yard drive that resulted in a 29-yard field goal by Elam, 24-6. The Rams were forced to make their first punt of the contest on their next possession and the Broncos capitalized, driving 82 yards in 11 plays with quarterback John Elway hooking up with running back Glyn Milburn for the team's first touchdown from 20 yards away. The Broncos then made their first two-point conversion attempt of the year when Elway hit tight end Shannon Sharpe, 24-14.

The Rams were pinned deep inside their 10 on the ensuing kickoff, but the Broncos' second off-sides penalty nullified the good coverage, and the Rams returned the second kickoff to their 33. That set up an eight play, 66-yard drive that was capped by a Zendejas 18-yard field goal, 27-14.

But the Broncos would not die quietly, as Elway marched his team 80 yards in nine plays to pull the team within six, after he hit wide receiver Derek Russell from 12 yards away, 27-21 Rams late in the fourth period.

The Broncos' defense did its job, stopping the Rams and forcing a Punt with just over two minutes remaining in the contest. Milburn took the punt and returned it 34 yards to the Rams' 49, almost taking it the distance. But the Broncos' offense could not capitalize on its great field position, allowing the Rams to hold on to a 27-21 victory.

GAME 10

DENVER 17, SEATTLE 10

Nov. 13, 1994 • Mile High Stadium

The Broncos picked up their second home win of the season, defeating the Seattle Seahawks for the second time.

Bronco quarterback John Elway was held in check for most of the contest, but was able to lead the team downfield in the fourth quarter for the winning touchdown. Bronco running back Leonard Russell dueled Seattle running back Chris Warren, as each rushe for over 100 yards.

The first quarter ended scoreless, but the Seahawks missed a golden opportunity after an interception by linebacker Terry Wooden that set the team up at the Broncos' 17-yard line. Seattle's offense failed to move the ball and kicker John Kasey slipped just prior to kicking a short field goal, allowing the Broncos to escape the threat.

The teams exchanged punts until Bronco linebacker Karl Mecklenburg stripped the ball from Seattle running back Tracy Johnson and recovered the fumble at the Seahawk 40. The Bronco offense then marched the 40 yards in 5 plays, with Elway capping the drive by running 12 yards for the touchdown, 7-0.

The Seahawks drove into field goal range on their next possession, but the Kasey field goal was short and the Broncos took over at their 46. The Bronco offense then moved into field goal range with just seconds remaining in the half, but holder Jeff Campbell mishandled the snap and the Broncos settled for the 7-0 halftime lead.

The team increased its lead in the third with a 42-yard field goal by kicker Jason Elam, after a nine-play, 62-yard drive, 10-0. The Seahawks answered with a nine-play, 64-yard drive, that set up a 19-yard field goal by Kasey, 10-3 Broncos.

Elway tossed his second interception of the game on the Broncos' next possession, and the Seahawks capitalized by driving 43 yards in four plays with Warren hitting pay-dirt from 23 yards out, 10-10. But the Broncos answered the challenge with a nine-play, 80-yard drive, capped by an 11-yard touchdown run by Russell, 17-10.

The defense then held off a late Seattle drive to secure the Bronco win, giving the team its fourth victory of the season.

GAME 11

DENVER 32, ATLANTA 28

Nov. 20, 1994 • Mile High Stadium

The Broncos improved their record to 5-6 with a spectacular come-from-behind victory over the Atlanta Falcons. Bronco quarterback John Elway had the second-highest passing yardage day of his career, finishing with 382 yards. Wide receiver Cedric Tillman had a pretty good day of his own, finishing with a career-high eight receptions for a team season-high 175 yards.

The Broncos started the scoring by driving 80 yards in nine plays. Running back Reggie Rivers took the ball in from one yard out for the score, but the drive was kept alive on a great catch by Tillman for a 49-yard gain, 7-0. Kicker Jason Elam booted a 35-yard field goal on the Broncos next possession, after the team drove 71 yards in five plays. Again Elway and Tillman hooked up for a long gain in the drive, this time for 63 yards on first down, 10-0 Broncos.

But that's when the Broncos' fortunes began to change. After three consecutive punts, the Falcons put together a 13-play, 76-yard drive that was capped by a six-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jeff George to running back Craig Heyward, 10-7.

Atlanta defensive lineman Chris Doleman intercepted an Elway pass on the Broncos' next possession, setting Atlanta up at the Bronco 22. Five plays later, George hit wide receiver Bert Emanuel for an 11-yard touchdown, 14-10 Falcons. The Broncos drove on their next possession, but Elway was sacked and fumbled at the Falcon 16, leaving the score 14-10 at the half.

On the Broncos' first possession of the second half, Elam had a 50-yard field goal attempt blocked. The defense forced a Falcon punt on the first possession, and the Bronco offense capitalized, driving 93 yards in 12 plays. Wide receiver Jeff Campbell made his first score and reception of the season on a 22-yard toss from Elway, 17-14 Broncos.

But the Falcons answered on their next possession, driving 91 yards in seven plays. Wide receiver Terance Mathis was on the receiving end of a 47-yard toss from George, 21-17 Falcons.

After a Bronco punt, Atlanta took a commanding lead on its first play. George went for it all on first down, hitting Mathis again. This time it was a 49-yard touchdown to give the Falcons a 28-17 lead in the fourth.

But Elway led the Broncos back, driving his team 73 yards in 10 plays to pull within five, after hitting wide receiver Anthony Miller for a 32-yard score. The two hooked up again on the two-point conversion to pull the team within three, 28-25 Atlanta.

After two punts by Atlanta and one by Denver, the Broncos took possession at their 43. Elway was magic on the team's winning drive, scoring the go-ahead touchdown on a four-yard quarterback draw, 32-28 Broncos with under two minutes to play. The defense held and the Broncos walked away with their fifth victory, and third at home.

DENVER 15, CINCINNATI 13

Nov. 27, 1994 • Mile High Stadium

The Broncos reached the .500 mark for the first time in 1994 by beating the Cincinnati Bengals in a defensive struggle.

Bronco quarterback John Elway eclipsed the 3,000-yard mark passing for the ninth time in his career. Wide receiver Anthony Miller reached the 100-yard receiving plateau for the second time in as many weeks, and running back Glen Milburn tied the single-season receiving record for Bronco running backs with a six-reception day.

Things looked good early for the Broncos, as the team took the opening kickoff and drove 58 yards in seven plays, setting up a 34-yard field goal by kicker Jason Elam to put Denver ahead 3-0. Elam later in the quarter tacked on a 33-yard field goal after an interception by cornerback Ray Crockett to push the lead to 6-0.

The Bengals pulled to within three after an 11-play, 55-yard drive that set up a 43-yard field goal by kicker Doug Pelfrey.

The Broncos answered when Elway hooked up with Miller on a 16-yard scoring toss. The drive covered 58 yards in seven plays, but the extra point was muffed, leaving the Broncos ahead 12-3.

Bengal quarterback Jeff Blake was sacked by defensive lineman Harald Hasselbach on the next Cincinnati possession, coughing the ball up at the Cincinnati 26. Elam again came on to poke through a 37-yard field goal to increase the Bronco lead to 15-3. But Blake wasn't discouraged, as he drove his team 66 yards in 11 plays, setting up a 32-yard field goal by Pelfrey just before half to narrow the Denver lead to 15-6.

Not many points were scored in the second half, but Blake did manage to hook up with wide receiver Carl Pickens early in the fourth period on a 70-yard touchdown reception to pull within two, at 15-13.

The Bengals threatened late, but Bronco safety Steve Atwater forced a fumble by Cincinnati running back Harold Green deep in Bronco territory to solidify the win. The final score read 15-13 Broncos, giving the team an even six-and-six record and a three game winning streak for the first time since the 1991 season.

Dec. 4, 1994 • Arrowhead Stadium, Kansas City, Kan.

Denver passed the .500-mark for the first time in the 1994 season with a thrilling 20-17 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Bronco quarterback John Elway completed 18 of 22 passes for 256 yards and a touchdown before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with an injured left knee. Wide receiver Anthony Miller finished with over 100 yards receiving for the third straight game, and tight end Shannon Sharpe caught a season high 10 passes.

The Broncos got on the board first after an eight-play, 61-yard drive that was capped by a one-yard touchdown plunge by running back Reggie Rivers, putting Denver ahead 7-0.

After the two teams exchanged punts, Kansas City got on the board with a 22-yard field goal by Lin Elliott, cutting the Bronco lead to 7-3. Denver drove to the Kansas City one on its next possession, but failed to capitalize on four tries at the goal line and had to settle for a 7-3 halftime lead.

The Chiefs had the ball first in the second half, and punted on their first two possessions. The Broncos punted on their first possession, but hit paydirt on their second. Elway and Sharpe hooked up on a 24-yard score after a six-play, 88-yard drive that was set up by a 57-yard reception by Anthony Miller, pushing the lead to 14-3.

The Chiefs answered quickly, however, taking only four plays to go 76 yards. Running back Marcus Allen scored from a yard away, trimming the Broncos' lead to 14-9 after the two point conversion failed.

Elway and the Broncos then held the ball for nearly 11 minutes, taking 18 plays to go 65 yards, setting up a 34-yard field goal by Elam to increase the Denver lead to 17-9.

The Chiefs then brought the game even on a 62-yard bomb from quarterback Steve Bono to wide receiver Willie Davis and a successful two-point conversion attempt.

The Chiefs got the last opportunity to win the game in regulation, but Lin Elliott's field goal attempt was blocked by defensive end Shane Dronett, sending the game into overtime.

The Broncos won the toss to begin the extra period, but backup quarterback Hugh Millen, filling in for the injured Elway, fumbled at the Denver 35. Kansas City's Allen then returned the favor after Bronco linebacker Karl Mecklenburg stripped him of the football. Safety Dennis Smith was there for the recovery, averting a Kansas City field goal attempt.

After the Broncos failed to move the football, Kansas City was also forced to punt, setting up the Broncos first-and-ten at their own 42. Elam came on nine plays later to kick the winning field goal from 34 yards away, after Millen kept the drive alive with 21-yard run. The final score read 20-17 Broncos in an overtime thriller.

GAME 14

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS 23, DENVER 13

Dec. 11, 1994 • Los Angeles Coliseum, Los Angeles, Calif.

The Los Angeles Raiders handed the Broncos their seventh loss of the season, sweeping the series for the second time in as many years.

Denver played without the services of quarterback John Elway and safety Steve Atwater, while running back Leonard Russell saw limited action.

Quarterback Hugh Millen took the reigns of the offense, but it was the defenses that controlled the action in this game. Both teams punted on their first four possessions before Raiders kicker Jeff Jaeger broke the stalemate midway through the second quarter with a 44-yard field goal after a 10-play, 59-yard drive.

The Broncos again failed to move the ball on their next possession, resulting in Tom Rouen's fifth punt of the half. The Raiders responded by driving 49 yards in seven plays, setting up a 29-yard Jaeger field goal to put the Raiders ahead 6-0.

Hugh Millen and the Bronco offense then came alive on the final possession of the half, driving to the Raiders' one-yard line. But the team failed to punch the ball in on three tries, settling for a 20-yard field goal by kicker Jason Elam after the nine-play, 68-yard drive, cutting the Raiders lead to 6-3 at the half.

The Broncos opened the second half on offense and seemed to be poised to move the ball downfield, but running back Derrick Clark fumbled at the Los Angeles 43 and the Broncos failed to recover. The Raiders capitalized by moving 28 yards in nine plays, setting Jaeger up for his third field goal of the game, a 47-yarder to put his team up 9-3.

Denver didn't roll over, however, driving to the Los Angeles 1-yard line for the second time in the game. But again the team had to settle for an Elam field goal after three Reggie Rivers runs could not find the goal line. The 21-yarder was good, after a 13-play, 71-yard drive, to pull the Broncos to within 9-6 at the end of three quarters.

Jaeger came on to hit a 30-yard field goal on the Raiders' next possession, after the team drove 61 yards in nine plays, increasing the L.A. lead to 12-6.

The Broncos were then forced to punt on their next two possessions, allowing Raider wide receiver Tim Brown to return the second punt to the Bronco 17. L.A. would capitalize six plays later when quarterback Jeff Hostetler hit running back Harvey Williams out of the back field for a five-yard touchdown. The Raiders were successful on their two-point try, pushing their lead to 20-6.

Things then continued to unravel for the Broncos, as they punted and fumbled on their next two possessions, while Jaeger connected on his fifth field goal of the game from 28 yards away to make the score 23-6.

The Broncos added a late touchdown from Millen to wide receiver Cedric Tillman to make the final score 23-13.

GAME 16

NEW ORLEANS 30, DENVER 28

Dec. 24, 1994 • Mile High Stadium, Denver

The Broncos finished the 1994 season on a sour note, losing to New Orleans by a score of 30-28 at Mile High Stadium. Bronco quarterback John Elway did not play in the contest due to a knee injury suffered against Kansas City three weeks earlier, leaving the leadership duties to veteran backup Hugh Millen.

The first quarter ended scoreless after five consecutive punts. Millen then led the Broncos on an eight-play, 33-yard drive, setting up kicker Jason Elam's 32-yard field goal to put the Broncos ahead 3-0.

New Orleans' quarterback Jim Everett then led the Saints to a field goal by kicker Morton Anderson, tying the game at 3-3. After another Tom Rouen punt, the Saints drove 61 yards in seven plays to take a 10-3 lead. The Broncos were unable to move the ball on their next possession, but the Rouen punt was muffed by Tyrone Hughes and recovered by linebacker Richard Harvey. That set up a 30-yard field goal by Elam after a six-play, 10-yard drive to cut the Saints' lead to 10-6.

But New Orleans rebounded, driving 83 yards in just five plays to push the Saints lead to 17-6 at the half.

The Broncos got their first touchdown of the game midway through the third quarter when rookie running back Derrick Clark went in from one-yard away. The Broncos converted the two-point attempt to cut the deficit to 17-14, but again the Saints answered, this time in just two plays. Everett connected with Torrance Small on a 75 yard touchdown pass to put the Saints ahead 24-14.

The Broncos narrowed the gap to 24-21 on their next possession when Clark scored his second touchdown of the game after a nine-play, 63-yard drive. But Anderson tacked on his second field goal from 37 yards away on the next Saints possession to put them ahead 27-21 midway through the fourth quarter.

Millen was intercepted on the the Broncos' next possession, setting up Anderson for his third field goal of the day from 40 yards out as New Orleans went up 30-21.

The Broncos staged a last-gasp drive, covering 84 yards in seven plays, on their next possession, resulting in a five-yard Millen to Shannon Sharpe touchdown pass. That pulled the Broncos to within 30-28, but the onside kick failed and the Broncos finished the season with an overall record of 7-9.

DENVER BRONCOS STARTERS, 1960-94

Listed below are the usual starters, by position, for the Denver Broncos on a season-by-season basis from 1960-94. A player must have been the starter for the majority of the games that season to be designated as the starter. If the number of starting assignments at a position were virtually equal, two players have been listed, with the player who had the greater playing time listed first. The term "Ret" is used to designate someone who was a kick return specialist.

WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS 42, DENVER 24

LOS ANGELES, CA, Jan 9 — The Broncos returned to the playoffs after a one-year hiatus and faced the L.A. Raiders for the second time in as many weeks, but unlike the previous week, this time it was a do-or-die situation for both teams. Early on the game looked to have the makings of a defensive struggle, with both teams going four downs and out on their first possession, but the game's pace quickly picked up on the second possession. The Raiders struck first on a seven-play, 80-yard drive that was capped off with a nine-yard touchdown pass from QB Jeff Hostetler to TE Ethan Horton. QB John Elway and the Broncos responded with a drive of their own, going 63 yards in seven plays, as Elway hooked up with TE Shannon Sharpe for a 23-yard touchdown. The Raiders bounced back with a 65-yard TD toss to WR Tim Brown to take a 14-7 lead. The Broncos, not to be out done, drove 64 yards in 11 plays setting up a 16-yard TD toss from Elway to TE Reggie Johnson to tie the score. Hostetler continued to be red hot on the Raiders' next possession, leading the Raiders 84 yards in just five plays. WR James Jett helped pad Hostetler's totals by catching a 54-yard TD pass in the five-play drive. As bad as the Bronco defense looked in three straight possessions, the Bronco offense picked up the slack. In the Broncos' last drive of the half, the offense chewed up nearly seven minutes and went 77 yards to tie the score 14-14. WR Derek Russell was on the receiving end of a six-yard TD pass that tied the score, but the real hero of the drive was John Elway. Elway completed passes to six different receivers on the drive and showed his versatility by running twice. At the half both teams had showed how potent their offenses could be, racking up nearly 500 yards of total offense combined. In the second half good things continued to happen for the Raiders, but for the Broncos, their playoff advancement hopes quickly began to fade. After receiving the opening kickoff of the second half, the Broncos failed to move the ball on their first three possessions, giving the Raiders great field position after three punts that averaged 30 yards by P Tom Rouen. The Raiders took advantage of the field position, starting drives at the Denver 43 and 35, and their own 48. The Raiders punted on their first possession to the Bronco three, but in their next two possessions they hit paydirt, scoring touchdowns on drives of three and five plays to take a commanding 35-21 lead. The Broncos made a dent in the score at the beginning of the fourth period on a 33-yard field goal by K Jason Elam, but the Raiders responded to that with a 10-play, 76-yard drive that was capped by Napoleon McCallum's third touchdown of the game from one yard out. That would prove to be all of the scoring, as the Raiders walked away with a 42-24 victory.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

BUFFALO 10, DENVER 7

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y., Jan 12 — The Broncos were denied their fifth AFC Championship, losing 10-7 to the Bills before 80,272 in Rich Stadium. Denver's defense shut down the high-powered Buffalo offense, limiting it to just 213 total yards and only 12 first downs, but the Bronco offense failed to capitalize on several first-half opportunities. Buffalo punted after its first two drives netted minus two yards. On the second play of the Bills' third possession, NT Greg Kragen deflected a pass at the line and turned and dove for the ball, making an interception on the Buffalo 29. After three plays gave Denver a third-and-11 on the 30, David Treadwell's 47-yard field goal attempt sailed wide right. The defense rose up again to thwart the Bills and the Broncos began their next drive on their own 24. Fifteen plays into the drive, on fourth-and-19 from the Buffalo 24, Treadwell attempted a 42-yard field goal but the ball hit the right upright. Once again the Bills punted after failing to get a first down, and a 10-yard punt return by Vance Johnson set Denver up on the 50. On first down, QB John Elway threw a middle screen to RB Steve Sewell, who gained 26 yards to the Buffalo 24. The Broncos could move no closer than the 20, and David Treadwell's 37-yard attempt hit the right upright, ending the last scoring threat of the first half. Through the first two quarters Denver outgained the Bills 123 yards to 58, had nine first downs to Buffalo's three, and had a time of possession of 20:19, but at halftime the score stood at 0-0. The Bills' second drive of the third quarter began at their 20 and 11 plays later they faced a third-and-seven on Denver's 26. Kelly attempted to hit WR James Lofton but CB Tyrone Braxton intercepted the ball and returned to the Denver 19. On second-and-ten Elway attempted another middle screen to Sewell, but LB Carlton Bailey picked off the pass and ran 11 yards for a touchdown. The Broncos' first possession of the fourth quarter began with Gary Kubiak at quarterback, replacing Elway, who left the game with an injured thigh muscle. Kubiak drove Denver from its 21 to the Buffalo 23, but the Broncos failed to convert a fourth down attempt. The Bills then drove 50 yards in nine plays to score on a 44-yard field goal by Scott Norwood. Now down 10-0, Kubiak engineered a frantic drive in which Denver covered 85 yards in eight plays, and Kubiak scored a three-yard quarterback draw to pull Denver within three points. The ensuing onside kick was recovered by the Broncos' Steve Atwater, and Denver began its last chance drive on its 49 with 1:43 left on the clock and two time-outs. On first down, Kubiak hit Sewell for seven yards, but CB Kirby Jackson stripped the ball away and he recovered on the Buffalo 44. The Bronco defense forced the Bills to punt, but Denver could only reach the 50 as time ran out. Kubiak, playing his final game as a pro, outgained both Elway and Kelly, completing 11 of 12 passes for 136 yards.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

DENVER 26, HOUSTON 24

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 4 — The Denver Broncos advanced to their fourth AFC Championship Game in six years after defeating Houston 26-24 before 75,301 in Mile High Stadium. David Treadwell's 28-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining capped a 12-play, 78-yard drive in which the Broncos converted two fourth down plays. On the first play of the game, QB Warren Moon connected with WR Haywood Jeffries for a 49-yard gain, giving the Oilers a first down on the Denver 21. Two plays later Moon hit Jeffries for 15 yards and a score, giving Houston a 7-0 lead with only 1:46 gone in the game. After a Denver punt, Moon again drove his team down the field and threw his second TD pass, this one for nine yards to WR Drew Hill. The Broncos started their next possession on their 35 and covered 65 yards in eight plays to score on a 10-yard pass from QB John Elway to WR Vance Johnson, but a fumbled snap on the conversion attempt left the score 14-6. On the sixth play of the ensuing Oilers' drive, Moon was intercepted by FS Steve Atwater, but a roughing the passer call nullified the effort. Three plays later Houston scored on a six-yard pass from Moon to WR Curtis Duncan. The next Oilers' possession ended when Atwater intercepted a pass and gave Denver the ball on its own 12 with 6:03 left in the half. In a drive that saw Elway complete all six passes for 64 yards, and Steve Sewell complete one to Johnson for 10, the Broncos covered 88 yards in 12 plays to score on a one-yard run by RB Greg Lewis, cutting the Houston lead to 21-13. Denver reached the Houston 30 on its first possession of the second half, but Elway was intercepted by CB Richard Johnson and the Oilers took over on their 33. That led to a 33-yard field goal attempt by Al Del Greco, but the ball sailed wide right. The Broncos then drove from their 20 to Houston's 31 and David Treadwell nailed a 49-yard field goal, the longest in Denver postseason history. Now up by only five at 21-16, the Oilers reached the Broncos' seven on their next drive, but had to settle for a 25-yard field goal. Denver started on its 20 and nine plays later faced a fourth-and-four from the Houston 41. Elway threw a short pass to WR Michael Young, who broke two tackles and was finally brought down on Houston's 15, a gain of 26 yards. Three plays later Lewis bowled over from one for his second TD of the day, making the score 24-23 in favor of Houston. The Oilers' next drive stalled and Greg Montgomery punted to the Denver two. With 2:07 and no time outs remaining, Elway hit Young for a 22-yard gain on first down, but three plays later the Broncos had a fourth-and-six on the 28. Elway dropped back, then scrambled left upfield and ran out of bounds a yard past the first down marker. Three straight incompletions again left Denver with a do-or-die fourth down situation. Elway again dropped back and scrambled left, but as he headed upfield he tossed a pass to Johnson, who ran for the Houston 21 for a 44-yard gain. RB Steve Sewell ran for 10 yards on first down, and two plays later Treadwell came on for the winning kick.

SAN FRANCISCO 55, DENVER 10

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Jan. 28 — The San Francisco Forty-Niners captured their fourth World Championship with a 55-10 victory over Denver in Super Bowl XXIV, played in the New Orleans Superdome. San Francisco QB Joe Montana completed 22 of 29 passes for 297 yards and five touchdowns, three to WR Jerry Rice. The Forty-Niners scored two touchdowns in every quarter and outgained the Broncos 461 yards to 167. After stopping Denver on the game's initial possession, San Francisco drove 66 yards in 10 plays, scoring on a 20-yard pass from Montana to Rice. The Broncos next possession covered 49 yards in 10 plays and resulted in a 42-yard field goal by David Treadwell. After limiting the Niners to four yards on their next drive, Denver took possession on its own 49, but on first down RB Bobby Humphrey fumbled and DE Kevin Fagan recovered for San Francisco on the Niners' 46. That turnover led to a seven-yard TD pass from Montana to TE Brent Jones, and after a failed extra point attempt, San Francisco led 13-3 with three seconds left in the first quarter. The Broncos failed to cross midfield in the second period while the Niners scored on a one-yard run by RB Tom Rathman and a 38-yard pass from Montana to Rice. San Francisco was unable to move the ball to the initial drive of the second half, but Elway was intercepted on the first play of Denver's next drive and the Niners took possession on the Broncos' 28. On first down Montana threw a TD pass to Rice to put his team up 34-3. The next Denver drive also ended with an interception, leading to a 35-yard scoring pass from Montana to WR John Taylor. The Broncos, spurred by a 34-yard run by Humphrey, moved 61 yards in five plays and a penalty to score on a three-yard run by Elway. San Francisco roared back with an 11-play, 75-yard drive that ended with a three-yard TD run by Rathman. Following another Bronco fumble, RB Roger Craig plowed one-yard into the endzone to round out the scoring.

DENVER 37, CLEVELAND 21

DENVER, COLO., Jan. 14 — The Denver Broncos won their third American Football Conference Championship in four years with a dynamic 37-21 victory over Cleveland before 76,005 fans in Mile High Stadium. Broncos QB John Elway threw for 385 yards and three TDs, RB Sammy Winder tied a Denver postseason record with two touchdowns, and SS Dennis Smith nabbed two of the Broncos' three interceptions. Denver had 497 yards of total offense to the Browns' 256 and had a time of possession of 36:53. The Broncos took the opening kickoff and drove to the Cleveland one, but on third down, Elway's pitch to RB Bobby Humphrey was fumbled and the Browns' Andrew Stewart recovered on the eight. With five minutes left in the first quarter, Smith picked off a Bernie Kosar pass and returned it to the Cleveland 32. Denver moved to the Cleveland 12 but had to settle for a 29-yard field goal by David Treadwell. Neither team mounted scoring drives until the Broncos took possession on their own 18 with 6:54 left in the half. On first down Elway hit WR Mark Jackson for 12 yards, and three plays later he connected with WR Michael Young for a 70-yard touchdown play. The Browns took the opening kickoff to the second half and drove 70 yards in six plays, scoring on a 27-yard pass from Kosar to Brian Brennan. Denver roared right back on its next possession, going 80 yards in six plays and scoring on a five-yard pass from Elway to TE Orson Mobley. The key play on that drive was a 53-yard pass from Elway to Young. Cleveland was unable to move the ball and punted back to Denver. The Broncos moved from their own 40, and buoyed by a 25-yard run by Elway, covered 60 yards in six plays and scored a seven-yard run by Winder, making the score 24-7. The Browns needed just six plays to go 72 yards and score on a 10-yard Kosar-to-Brennan pass, and two plays into Denver's next drive, Cleveland's Felix Wright recovered a Denver fumble and returned it to the Bronco one. One second down Tim Manoa barreled over from the two, cutting Denver's lead to 24-21 with one second left in the third quarter. The Broncos shut out the Browns in the final quarter while posting 13 points. Their initial drive of the quarter covered 80 yards in six plays and ended with a 39-yard touchdown pass from Elway to Winder. Denver's Kip Corrington intercepted Kosar to set the Broncos up on the Cleveland 39. Denver got as far as the Browns' 17 but had to settle for a 34-yard Treadwell field goal. Smith grabbed his second interception to end the Browns' next drive, leading to a 31-yard field goal.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

DENVER 24, PITTSBURGH 23

DENVER, COLO., Jan. 7 — The Denver Broncos advanced to their third AFC Championship Game in four years with a come-from-behind 24-23 victory over the Steelers before 75,868 in Mile High Stadium. Although Pittsburgh held the upper hand in total yards, 404 to 364, and time of possession, 34:14 to 25:46, Denver was able to mount a late fourth quarter drive and score the winning touchdown with just 2:27 remaining. The Steelers took the opening kickoff and drove 65 yards in 13 plays, scoring on a 32-yard Gary Anderson field goal. Late in the opening quarter Pittsburgh took possession at its own seven-yard line, but on first down RB Merrill Hoge ran for 45 yards to the Bronco 48. Quarterback Bubba Brister connected with RB Tim Worley for a 33-yard gain on the next play, and three plays later Hoge scored on a seven-yard run to put Pittsburgh up 10-0. The Broncos took their first possession of the second quarter and drove 75 yards in 12 plays to score on a one-yard plunge by RB Mel Bratton on third-and-goal. The Steelers roared back, traveling 77 yards in 12 plays to score on a nine-yard pass from Brister to WR Louis Lipps. The Broncos got the ball back on their own 33 with 20 seconds left in the half. On first down, QB John Elway and WR Mark Jackson combined for 26 yards, and then Elway fired a 15-yard pass to WR Ricky Nattiel, giving Denver the ball on the Pittsburgh 26 with two seconds left. David Treadwell kicked a 43-yard field, making the score 17-10 in favor of Pittsburgh at halftime. Early in the third quarter, Denver NT Greg Kragen forced a Tim Worley fumble, and CB Tyrone Braxton recovered for the Broncos on the Steeler 37. On first down Elway hit WR Vance Johnson for a touchdown, tying the score at 17 apiece. Pittsburgh's next two possessions ended in Anderson field goals and the Steelers held a 23-17 lead in the early stages of the fourth quarter. After an exchange of punts the Broncos took possession on their own 29 with 7:06 left in the game. After a first down penalty, making it first-and-19 from the 20, Elway hit Jackson for 18 yards. On the next play, Elway handed off the RB Bobby Humphrey, who pitched the ball back to Elway, and he threw a 36-yard strike to Johnson, giving Denver a first down on the Steeler 26. Humphrey ran on the next four plays, gaining 24 yards and taking the ball to the two. On third-and-goal from the one, Bratton scored again and Treadwell's extra point gave Denver its first lead of the game with 2:27 left. Pittsburgh got the ball on its own 20, but on third down Brister's signals were drowned out by the crowd and he mishandled the snap. Randy Robbins recovered for Denver on the Pittsburgh 18 and the Broncos were able to run out the clock to preserve the victory.

SUPER BOWL XXII

WASHINGTON 42, DENVER 10

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 31 — The Washington Redskins scored 35 points in the second quarter to power their 42-10 victory over the Broncos in Super Bowl XXII, played at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium. Super Bowl MVP Doug Williams of Washington completed 18 of 29 passes for 340 yards and four TDs, while rusher Timmy Smith gained 204 yards on 22 carries, scoring twice, and wide receiver Ricky Sanders caught nine passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns. Overall, The Redskins gained 602 yards of total offense to Denver's 327. The Broncos took the early lead on their first play from scrimmage, a 56-yard bomb from John Elway to Ricky Nattiel, coming with just 1:57 gone in the game. Denver's next possession stalled at the Redskins' seven-yard line, as Rich Karlis put the Broncos up 10-0 with a 24-yard field goal. In the second quarter, however, Denver's dreams of a World Championship were blown apart by Redskins. On Washington's first play of the quarter, Williams and Sanders combined for an 80-yard TD to bring the score to 10-7. The Redskins took the lead for good on the fifth play of their next possession when Williams hit Gary Clark for 27 yards and a score. Denver got as far as the Washington 26 on its next drive, but Karlis' 43-yards field goal attempt sailed wide left. Two plays later Timmy Smith scored on a 58-yard run to increase the Washington lead to 21-10. The Redskins' next possession ended with a 50-yard Williams-to-Sanders TD pass, and minutes later, Williams and Clint Didier combined for a seven-yard TD pass to give Washington a 35-10 lead at halftime. The Broncos could move only as far as the Redskins' 48-yard line in the second half, while Washington closed out the scoring late in the game on a four-yard run by Smith.

DENVER, CO., Jan. 17 — Denver's Jeremiah Castille recovered a Cleveland fumble on the Denver three-yard line with just over a minute left in the game, halting a desperate drive by the Browns and preserving a victory for Denver. With the win, Denver became the first AFC Champion since the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1978-79 to win the conference in consecutive seasons. The Broncos were presented with the first scoring opportunity of the game when Freddie Gilbert caught a deflected Bernie Kosar pass on the contest's third play. Denver took four plays to go 18 yards, scoring on an eight-yard pass from John Elway to Ricky Nattiel. The Browns next drive reached the Bronco 45 before Kevin Mack fumbled, and it was recovered by Steve Wilson on the Denver 40. Two plays later Gene Lang took off on a 42-yard run, the longest in postseason history for Denver, taking the ball to the Cleveland 11. Six plays later, faced with a third-and-goal from the three, Elway's pass into the endzone fell incomplete, but Cleveland was penalized for holding, giving the Broncos new life at the Browns' one. Steve Sewell scored on first down to give Denver a 14-0 lead with 11 minutes gone in the first quarter. The Browns took 13 plays to move 64 yards for their first points of the game, scoring on a 24-yard Matt Bahr field goal. On the sixth play of the following Bronco drive, Elway scrambled for seven yards to the Denver 46, and a Cleveland penalty put the Broncos at the Cleveland 39. Four plays later Elway hit Ricky Nattiel for 21 yards, down to the Cleveland one, and Gene Lang carried it into the endzone to up Denver's lead to 21-3. Both teams missed field goals in the latter part of the first half, and the Broncos took their 18-point lead into the dressing room at halftime. After Elway was intercepted by Felix Wright four plays into the second half, Cleveland needed just three plays to go 35 yards and score on an 18-yard pass from Bernie Kosar to Reggie Langhorne. The Broncos answered that four plays into their next drive, when on a third-and-10 from the Denver 20, Elway scrambled right and threw a pass to Mark Jackson, who was standing at the Bronco 25. Jackson evaded two tackles and sprinted for a touchdown to complete an 80-yard scoring play and give the Broncos a 28-10 lead. Kosar and the Browns roared right back, moving 80 yards in five plays to score on a 32-yard Kosar-to-Earnest Byner pass. After a Bronco punt, Cleveland engineered another scoring drive, going 42 yards in four plays and scoring on a four-yard run by Byner to narrow the Bronco lead to 28-24. Just before the end of the third period, Rich Karlis capped off a Denver possession with a 38-yard field goal. The Browns, however, moved 86 yards in nine plays to tie the score at 31-31 on a four-yard pass from Kosar to Webster Slaughter. After an exchange of punts, Denver began a drive at their own 25 with 5:14 left in the game. On first down, Elway threw a 26-yard pass to Nattiel, and three plays later, duplicated the play to take the ball to the Cleveland 20. On the next play Elway passed to Sammy Winder, who caught it at the 23 and rambled the rest of the way into the endzone to put the Broncos up 38-31 with just over four minutes left. Kosar and the Browns rallied back and got to the Denver eight-yard line with 1:12 remaining, when Byner ran to the three, but had the ball stripped by Castille, who recovered for the Broncos. Denver was forced into a fourth down situation with 13 seconds left, and punter Mike Horan carried the ball out of the back of the endzone for a safety, making the score 38-33 in Denver's favor. After the ensuing free kick, Cleveland attempted one pass before time ran out.

DENVER 34, HOUSTON 10

DENVER, CO., Jan. 10 — The Broncos advanced to the AFC Championship game after beating the Oilers 34-10, the largest margin of victory ever for the Broncos in postseason play. The Broncos were led to an offense by Mark Haynes and Karl Mecklenburg, who both picked up key interceptions, and on offense by quarterback John Elway (14 of 25, 259 yards, two TDs) and receivers Vance Johnson (four catches for 105 yards) and Clarence Kay (three catches for 57 yards and two TDs). Punter Mike Horan put the Oilers in a hole after the Broncos' first drive stalled, sending a punt to the Houston five-yard line, where two plays later, a lateral pass from Warren Moon to Mike Rozier was fumbled, and Steve Wilson recovered for Denver on the one. Gene Lang scored two plays later to give the Broncos an early 7-0 lead. Houston's next drive reached the Bronco 20-yard line before Mecklenburg intercepted a pass and returned it to the Denver 28. Elway hit Kay for 29 yards on the next play to move into Houston territory, and five plays later the same connection was made for a 27-yard touchdown pass, giving the Broncos a 14-0 lead. Both teams added field goals on their first drive of the second quarter to make the score 17-3 in Denver's favor. On the fourth Denver play after Houston's field goal, Elway threw a 55-yard bomb to Johnson to move the ball to the Oiler 11. Five plays later Elway hit Kay, again for a touchdown on a one-yard pass to up the lead to 24-3 with less than two minutes left in the half. Denver's first possession of the second half resulted in a Rich Karlis field goal. Houston then took 10 plays to reach the Denver seven, but Mark Haynes picked off a Moon pass in the end zone and returned it 57 yards, a Bronco playoff record. Houston's next drive reached the Bronco 11 but a pass on fourth down fell incomplete. The Oilers got the ball back three plays later when Patrick Allen intercepted an Elway pass, and that led to a 19-yard TD pass from Moon to Ernest Givins, cutting Denver's lead to 27-10. The Broncos' Kevin Clark recovered the onside kick that followed, and Denver moved 52 yards in seven plays to score the final points of the game on a three-yard run by Elway.

NEW YORK GIANTS 39, DENVER 20

PASADENA, CA., Jan. 25 — The New York Giants broke open a close game with 24 unanswered points to open the second half, capturing a 39-20 win over the Broncos in Super Bowl XXI. The game, played before a crowd of 101,063 in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, featured outstanding performances by the two quarterbacks, Super Bowl MVP Phil Simms of New York (22 of 25, 268 yards, 3 TDs) and Denver's John Elway (22 of 37, 304 yards, 1 TD). The Broncos won the toss and opened their first drive on the Denver 24, taking eight plays to reach the Giants 31-yard-line. Rich Karlis scored the first points of the game with a 48-yard field goal, tying the Super Bowl record. New York roared right back with a nine-play, 78-yard scoring drive that culminated with a six-yard touchdown pass from Simms to tight end Mark Bavaro. On the possession, Simms was six-for-six for 69 yards, and running back Joe Morris gained 19 yards on just three carries. With five-and-a-half minutes remaining in the first quarter, the Broncos took possession on their own 42 after a 28-yard kickoff return by Ken Bell. Elway completed passes on the first three plays of the drive as Denver reached the New York 33. Two Giant penalties left the Broncos with a first-and-10 at the 12, and on third down, Elway called his own number, scoring from four yards out on a quarterback draw to give Denver a 10-7 lead. The Giants next drive stalled and the Broncos got the ball back at the 14-minute mark of the second quarter. On the third play of the drive, on third-and-18, Elway unleashed a 54-yard bomb to Vance Johnson, giving the Broncos a first down on the Giant 28. Seven plays later Denver had a first-and-goal at the New York one, but failed to score in three plays and Karlis was wide right on a 23-yard field goal attempt. Denver's Orange Crush defense stifled the next Giant drive at the New York 47, and after a punt, the Broncos got the ball back on their own 15. Controversy entered the game when, on second-and-twelve, Elway threw an apparent completion for a first down to Clarence Kay. The pass was ruled incomplete, and that decision was upheld after review of the television replay. On the next play, Giant defensive end George Martin sacked Elway in the end zone for a safety to pull New York within a point of Denver at 10-9. The Giant offense was unable to move the ball on its next possession and punted to Denver. Taking the ball at their own 37, Elway quickly hit Steve Watson for 31 yards and Gerald Willhite for 11 more to give the Broncos a first-and-10 at the Giant 21 with 43 seconds left in the half. Denver was able to get to the 16-yard-line, but Karlis was wide right on a 34-yard field goal attempt with 13 seconds left in the half. New York shot out of the starting blocks in the second half and never looked back, scoring on all three third quarter drives and outgaining Denver in the period 163 yards to two. With the score at 26-10, the Giants mounted a scoring drive on their first possession of the fourth quarter, and they went up 33-10 after Phil McConkey caught a deflected pass in the end zone, Simms's third TD strike of the day. Denver got the ball back at its own 16 and Elway moved the squad to the New York 10, as Karlis kicked a 27-yard field goal to make the score 33-13. The Giants took only five plays to move 46 yards for their next TD, a two-yard run by Otis Anderson which made the score 39-13. Elway took Denver down the field again and hit Vance Johnson with a 47-yard TD pass for the game's final points.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP

DENVER 23, CLEVELAND 20 OT

CLEVELAND, OH, Jan. 11 — Rich Karlis kicked a 33-yard field goal 5:48 into overtime to give the Broncos a 23-20 victory over the Browns. The game was played before a crowd of 79,915 people, who braved a wind chill of five degrees. Cleveland scored first, on the heels of a 14-play, 86-yard drive. Bernie Kosar threw a six-yard TD pass to Herman Fontenot with 5:19 left in the first quarter to put the Browns up 7-0. The next Cleveland drive ended when Ricky Hunley intercepted a Kosar pass, and he returned 14 yards to the Browns' 36. Although the Broncos' ensuing drive stalled, Kosar threw another interception, this one to Jim Ryan, and he returned the ball 26 yards to the Cleveland nine. Four plays later Karlis nailed a 19-yard field goal to make the score 7-3. Denver got another break on Cleveland's next play when Keven Mack fumbled and Ken Woodard recovered the ball on the Browns' 37. On first down John Elway rambled 34 yards, and two more rushes got Denver to the one-yard line. On fourth-and-goal Gerald Willhite plunged into the end zone to give the Broncos a 10-7 lead. Cleveland kicker Mark Moseley tied the score at 10 apiece with a 29-yard field goal with 20 seconds left in the first half. Both teams saw their first two possessions of the second half end in punts before Denver engineered the first scoring drive of the second half. Elway drove the Broncos 61 yards in 11 plays, and Karlis put Denver up 13-10 with a 26-yard field goal 12 minutes into the third quarter. The Browns wasted no time mounting a scoring march of their own. Mack rushed for 34 yards in a 10-play, 76-yard drive that culminated with a 24-yard Moseley field goal, knotting the score at 13-13. The Broncos next two possessions ended in punts, and when Cleveland got the ball on its own 48 with 6:40 left in the fourth quarter, the Browns struck quickly. On third-and-six from Denver's 48 yard line, Kosar threw a TD pass to Brian Brennan to give the Browns a 20-13 lead with 5:43 left in regulation. The ensuing kickoff rolled to the Denver two-yard line where Gene Lang fell on it. Pro Bowl-bound Elway then engineered the longest and most important drive of his four-year career. On the fifth play of the drive (on second-and-seven from the Broncos' 15), Elway rushed for 11 yards and a first down. He hit Steve Sewell for a 22-yard gain on the next play, and followed that with a 12-yard strike to Steve Watson to give Denver a first down on the Cleveland 40. After an incompleteness and an eight-yard sack, Elway threw a 20-yard pass to Mark Jackson, moving the team to the Cleveland 28. Another incompleteness was followed by a 14-yard, Elway-to-Sewell pass, giving the Broncos a first down on the Browns' 14 with 57 seconds left. Elway's next pass was incomplete, and on second down he ran nine yards to the Cleveland five-yard line. On the next play, he hit Jackson for a TD, and Karlis's extra point tied the score at 20 with 39 seconds left in regulation. Cleveland was unable to move the ball as time ran out in the fourth quarter. The Browns won the overtime coin toss and elected to receive. Three plays into the drive, (on third-and-two from the Cleveland 38), the Orange Crush rose up to snuff Herman Fontenot for no gain. Cleveland punted and Willhite returned it to the Bronco 25, where the Denver juggernaut revved it up again. On second-and-five, Elway hit Orson Mobley for a 22-yard gain, and three plays later Elway threw a 28-yard pass to Watson. With a first down on Cleveland's 22-yard line, the Broncos rushed three times to get to the 15, and on fourth down, Karlis hit the 33-yard game winner. Elway accounted for 300 total yards in the game, rushing for 56 and completing 22 of 38 passes for 244 yards. The Broncos kept alive a 1986 record of 13-0 when they scored 20 or more points. Denver also notched its 11th win on natural turf, losing only to San Diego at home on grass.

DENVER 22, NEW ENGLAND 17

DENVER, CO., Jan. 4—Rulon Jones sacked Tony Eason in the end zone for a safety with 1:37 left on the clock to put Denver up 22-17 and halt the Patriots' final comeback drive. The playoff victory was the first since Jan. 1, 1978 for the Broncos, when they defeated Oakland for the AFC Championship. The two teams traded punts in the first nine minutes of the game before Denver posed the initial scoring threat. Starting at their own 20, the Broncos took four plays to reach the New England 7, behind John Elway completions of 39 and 21 yards. On second-and-goal from the four, Elway rolled around the left side and was hit just short of the goal line. He was penalized (delay of game) for spiking the ball after the play, and that set Denver back to the six. Two plays later Rich Karlis nailed a 27-yard field goal to give Denver a 3-0 lead. New England mounted a seven-play, 87-yard drive later in the quarter, with Eason hitting Stanley Morgan for a 19-yard TD. The Broncos roared right back with a 13-play, 82-yard drive that was punctuated by a 22-yard TD run by Elway, giving Denver a 10-7 lead midway through the second quarter. The Patriots tied the score on the last play of the half with a 38-yard Tony Franklin field goal. Denver received the kickoff to open the second half and proceeded to chew up over nine minutes off of the clock. The Broncos ran the ball 11 times on the drive, which stalled on the Patriot five. Karlis's 22-yard field goal put Denver up 13-10. Five plays into the next New England drive, the Patriots took a page out of Dan Reeve's bag of tricks, scoring on a flea-flicker that ended with a 45-yard TD pass from Eason to Morgan to give New England its first lead of the game at 17-13. Denver jumped right back on top, traveling 86 yards in six plays to score on a 48-yard Elway-to-Vance Johnson pass on the last play of the third quarter. The two teams both punted three times in the fourth quarter, and the last one, a Mike Horan punt of 54 yards, backed New England to its own 10. On first down, Eason dropped back to pass but was sacked for a safety by Rulon Jones. Denver recovered the onside free kick and held on to the ball to preserve the win.

PITTSBURGH 24, DENVER 17

DENVER, CO., Dec. 30—Denver had two possessions in the final two minutes of the game but failed to score as Pittsburgh advanced to the Conference Championship game. Denver's opportunistic defense recovered two Steeler fumbles in the first quarter. The first one resulted in a Rich Karlis field goal attempt, but it sailed wide right. Pittsburgh fumbled on the next play, and the Broncos recovered again. That turnover led to a seven-yard touchdown pass from John Elway to Jim Wright. Pittsburgh scored on a 28-yard field goal on the first play of the second period, and just before intermission, the Steelers took the lead on Frank Pollard's one-yard TD plunge. Denver tied the game early in the third quarter on a 21-yard Karlis field goal. The Broncos regained the lead on their next possession, scoring on a 20-yard pass from Elway to Steve Watson. For the game, Watson gained 177 yards on 11 receptions. The Steelers mounted a scoring drive of their own, tying the game at 17-17 on a Mark Malone to Louis Lipps pass late in the quarter. Later, Pittsburgh's Eric Williams intercepted an Elway pass and returned it to the Denver two-yard line with only 2:45 left in the game. Pollard scored two plays later to give the Steelers the lead 24-17. Denver couldn't move the ball on its final two possessions as time ran out.

SEATTLE 31, DENVER 7

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 24—Seattle broke open a close contest with two second-half Dave Krieg touchdown passes as the Seahawks beat Denver 31-7 in the AFC Wild Card playoff game. Seattle scored on its first possession of the day with a 17-yard pass from Krieg to Steve Largent. Later in the first quarter, Denver mounted a nine-play, 76-yard drive, scoring on a 13-yard pass from Steve DeBerg to Jesse Myles. Seattle cornerback Kerry Justin intercepted a DeBerg pass on Denver's next drive and the Seahawks drove to the Denver 20-yard line, with Norm Johnson converting a 37-yard field goal. Denver then drove down to the Seattle four-yard line, but Gerald Willhite fumbled and Seattle recovered, and then ran the remaining time off the clock. The second half belonged to the Seahawks as Krieg passed for two touchdowns and running back David Hughes ran for another, making the final score 31-7.

WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME

HOUSTON 13, DENVER 7

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 23—Toni Fritsch kicked two field goals to provide the margin of victory as the Houston Oilers played strong second half defense and defeated the Broncos, 13-7, earning the Oilers advancement in the American Football Conference playoffs.

Fritsch opened the scoring with a 31-yard first period field goal, but Denver came back to take a 7-3 lead on a seven-yard pass from Craig Morton to running back Dave Preston, an 80-yard drive that took the Broncos 13 plays.

Houston went ahead to stay on a three-yard burst by Earl Campbell at 14:14 of the second period. However, Campbell was injured on the play and did not return to action in the second half. Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini and wide receiver Ken Burrough also left the contest due to injuries, both early in the second half, putting a severe crimp in the Houston attack. But the Broncos were able to move the ball for only 216 yards total offense, and the tenacious Houston defense sacked Morton six times for 40 yards in losses as the Oilers held on to win.

Linebacker Bob Swenson intercepted a Gifford Nielsen pass at the Oiler 26-yard line midway through the fourth period, but two sacks of Morton led to a 50-yard field goal attempt by Fred Steinfort. Steinfort's kick hit the upright, and the Oilers later drove for a second field goal by Fritsch, this one of 20 yards, providing the final victory margin.

Denver drove to the Houston 27 at the two minute mark, but the Oiler defense again rose to the occasion to stifle the threat and secure the win, eliminating the Broncos from the playoffs.

DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

PITTSBURGH 33, DENVER 10

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 30—Two fourth quarter touchdown passes by Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw lifted the Steelers to a 33-10 victory over the Denver Broncos and into the American Football Conference championship game.

Bradshaw's scoring tosses included a 45-yard bomb to John Stallworth and a 38-yarder to Lynn Swann, capping a brilliant performance by the Pittsburgh passer.

The Broncos took the early lead on a 37-yard Jim Turner field goal, but Pittsburgh's Franco Harris ran one and 18 yards for touchdowns and Roy Gerela kicked a 24-yard field goal to give the Steelers a 16-3 advantage. Denver cut the margin to 16-10 on a three-yard Dave Preston TD, but Gerela kicked another field goal to make the halftime margin 19-10. Denver threatened to come closer in the third period, but Turner's 29-yard field goal attempt was blocked, and Bradshaw's passing sealed Denver's fate early in the final stanza. The Steelers rolled to 425 yards total offense, with Bradshaw accounting for 272 through the air, 156 on ten receptions by Stallworth. The eventual World Champion Steelers limited the Broncos' ground game to just 87 yards in earning the right to play the Houston Oilers for the AFC crown the following week.

DALLAS 27, DENVER 10

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 15—The Dallas Cowboys evened their Super Bowl record at 2-2 by defeating the Denver Broncos 27-10 before a sellout crowd of 76,400, plus 90 million television viewers, the largest audience ever to watch a sporting event. Dallas converted two pass interceptions by safety Randy Hughes and cornerback Aaron Kyle into 10 points and Efren Herrera added a 35-yard field goal to give the Cowboys at 13-0 halftime advantage. The Denver offense had trouble getting untracked against the hard-hitting Cowboy defense. The Broncos lost three fumbles and were intercepted twice on their last five possessions of the first half. The Broncos came back momentarily at the outset of the third period. Craig Morton engineered a drive to the Cowboys 30-yard line from where Jim Turner booted a 47-yard field goal to make the score 13-3. After an exchange of punts, Dallas wide receiver Butch Johnson made a spectacular diving catch in the end zone to complete a 45-yard pass from Roger Staubach to put the Cowboys ahead 20-3. However, the momentum swung back to the Broncos as Rick Upchurch returned the kickoff 67 yards to the Dallas 26. On the second play of the series, Norris Weese relieved Craig Morton at quarterback. Morton, who was intercepted only eight times during the regular season, had thrown a Super Bowl record four interceptions. Weese guided the Broncos to a touchdown—a one-yarder by Ron Lytle—to cut the Dallas lead to 20-10 with 5:39 left in the third quarter. Dallas clinched the victory when running back Robert Newhouse threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Golden Richards on an option play with 7:04 remaining in the game. It was the first pass thrown by Newhouse since the 1975 regular season. The Cowboys offense amassed 325 yards while the defense limited the Broncos to 156 in a game which saw the Cowboys control the ball 38:34 to Denver's 21:26. Roger Staubach completed 17 of 25 passes for 183 yards while Harvey Martin and Randy White, who were named Co-MVPs, led the Cowboys defense which recovered four fumbles and intercepted four passes.

DENVER 20, OAKLAND 17

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 1—Denver quarterback Craig Morton threw two touchdown passes to Haven Moses as the Broncos defeated the defending NFL Champion Oakland Raiders 20-17 and moved into their first Super Bowl. Morton, who was drafted and spent nine-and-a-half years with the Cowboys, would face his former Dallas teammates after completing 10 of 20 passes for 224 yards. It would be the second meeting in five weeks for these two teams—Dallas won 14-6 in the regular season finale as Morton played only the opening series due to a bruised hip. On a sunny, 18-degree day before 74,982 Denver partisans, the Raiders scored on their initial possession as Errol Mann kicked a 20-yard field goal to climax an 18-play drive. Morton hit Moses on their first scoring hookup two plays later on a 74-yard touchdown bomb, and the Broncos were on top to stay. Denver took advantage of two Oakland turnovers in the second half to win its second game in three meetings with the Raiders during the 1977 season. Defensive end Brison Manor recovered running back Clarence Davis' fumble at the Oakland 17 and running back Jon Keyworth scored from the 1-yard line to increase the margin to 14-3 in the third quarter. Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler hit tight end Dave Casper on the first of two scoring passes to narrow the lead to 14-10 with 39 seconds elapsed in the final period. But on Oakland's next possession, linebacker Bob Swenson intercepted a Stabler pass and ran to the Raiders' 14. Morton then threw 12 yards to Moses for the Broncos' final touchdown. Oakland finished the scoring on the next series as Stabler threw 17 yards to Casper for the game's last touchdown. Denver controlled the ball for the final 3:08 and gave Red Miller the AFC title in his first year as a head coach. Moses, a 10-year veteran, had five receptions for 168 yards. The Denver defense, which was No. 1 against the rush in the NFL during the regular season, held the Raiders to 94 yards on the ground.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 24—After ties at 7, 14, and 21, veteran Jim Turner kicked a 44-yard field goal to put Denver ahead to stay as the Broncos—in their first playoff game ever—beat the perennial AFC Central Champion Steelers. Leading 24-21, the Broncos capped their victory with two fourth-quarter interceptions by linebacker Tom Jackson, the last of which set up Craig Morton's 34-yard game-clinching touchdown pass to Jack Dolbin. Denver capitalized on a blocked punt and a fumble recovery for two scores in the first half, which ended 14-14. Morton and Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw traded touchdown passes in the second half before Turner's kick. Jackson's interceptions, and Morton's arm kept Pittsburgh from the AFC title game for the first time in four years. The Denver victory set up a third game between the AFC Western Champion Broncos and the AFC Wild Card Raiders, who split two regular season games.

*Season tickets sold out. Every Bronco game at Mile High Stadium has been a sell-out since the beginning of the 1970 season, with the exception of two replacement games played during the 1987 strike (both games were sold out before the strike). The Broncos have sold out 187 consecutive non-strike regular season games, and with post-season games the total reaches 196.

BRONCOS IN THE HALL OF FAME

The Denver Broncos are represented in the Pro Football Hall of Fame by four individuals, including a former player, two former coaches, and a former administrator.

Fred Gehrke, who was the Broncos' General Manager for four years (1977-1980) and a member of the team's staff for 16 years, was the first winner of the Hall of Fame's Pioneer award in 1972.

Gehrke, as a Los Angeles Rams' halfback in 1948, painted golden rams' horns on his team's helmets and thus started the trend toward today's colorful, uniquely-decorated helmets worn by all NFL teams.

Cornerback Willie Brown, inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1984, played for the Broncos from 1963-66 and was named All-American Football League in 1964, a season in which he intercepted nine passes, including a team-record four in one game (vs. New York, 11/15/64).

Stan Jones, whose 1991 induction honors a 12-year career with Chicago and Washington, gained All-Pro honors four times as an offensive guard and appeared in seven Pro Bowls. Jones coached Denver's defensive line for 18 years, from 1967-71 and 1976-88.

Doak Walker, who was the Broncos' receivers coach in 1966, was inducted into the Hall in 1986 on the basis of his brilliant six-year career (1950-55) with the Detroit Lions.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame is located in Canton, Ohio.

RETIRED NUMBERS

The Denver Broncos have retired two jersey numbers in their 35-year history, quarterback Frank Tripucka and running back Floyd Little.

Tripucka, who wore number 18, was Denver's first quarterback and called signals for the Broncos from 1960-63. He played in the American Football League all-star game in 1962 and passed for 7,676 yards in his Denver career.

Little, who wore number 44 for the Broncos as well as during his legendary college career at Syracuse, played in Denver from 1967-75 and is the team's all-time leader in rushing (6,323 yards) and total touchdowns (54). Little was All-AFL in 1969 and played in two AFL all-star games (1968, 1969) and three Pro Bowls (1971, 1972, 1973).

FEBRUARY 3 — Safeties Steve Atwater and Dennis Smith, along with running back Bobby Humphrey, appear in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game in Honolulu, Hawaii. It is the first appearance each for Atwater and Humphrey. JULY 27 — The Broncos lose 14-3 to Detroit in the Hall of Fame Game played in Canton, Ohio. Former Broncos assistant coach Stan Jones is inducted into the Hall. SEPTEMBER 1 — Denver records its biggest opening day win ever with a 45-14 pounding of Cincinnati. DECEMBER 8 — A 17-7 win at Cleveland clinches a playoff berth for the Broncos. DECEMBER 22 — Denver closes out the regular season at 12-4 and wins the AFC West title for the fifth time in eight years.

JANUARY 4 — The Broncos overcome a 21-6 deficit to defeat Houston 26-24 in an AFC Divisional Playoff Game. The winning field goal was set up by a drive that began at the Denver two. The Broncos converted two fourth down plays to keep the possession alive. JANUARY 12 — Despite a sterling effort by Denver's defense, the Broncos fall 10-7 to Buffalo in the AFC Championship Game. The Bills' high-powered offense managed just 213 yards and 12 first downs in the game. FEBRUARY 2 — Running back Gaston Green, linebacker Karl Mecklenburg, and safeties Steve Atwater and Dennis Smith represent the Broncos in the Pro Bowl. MARCH — The Broncos conclude season ticket renewals and waiting list additions for 1992, virtually assuring the franchise of its 23rd consecutive sellout season. Denver is also named a participant in America Bowl '92, to be played in Berlin. AUGUST 15 — The Broncos lose to the Miami Dolphins, 31-27, in American Bowl '92 in Berlin's Olympic Stadium. DECEMBER 28 — Denver Broncos President Pat Bowlen announces that the franchise will not renew the contract of Dan Reeves, thus creating a coaching vacancy in Denver for the first time since 1981. Reeves ends his Denver career with a record of 116-78-1.

1993

JANUARY 25 — Wade Phillips is hired as the 10th head coach in Broncos history, signing a three-year contract as head coach after four seasons as the Broncos' defensive coordinator. MAY — The Broncos conclude their season ticket sales, guaranteeing the 24th straight sellout campaign at Mile High Stadium. DECEMBER — Quarterback John Elway is named AFC Most Valuable Player (UPI, Kansas City 101 Club, Football News) after his best pro season, in which he led the AFC in rating (92.8), attempts (551), completions (348), completion percentage (63.2), touchdowns (25), and yards (4,030).

JANUARY 9 — The Broncos return to the playoffs as a Wild Card team, dropping a 42-24 first round game to the Los Angeles Raiders at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. The wild card playoff game marked Denver's ninth nationally televised game of the 1993 season, bringing the Broncos' eight-year total (1986-93) to 84 national television dates. FEBRUARY 6 — The Broncos are represented in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game by quarterback John Elway, tight end Shannon Sharpe, linebacker Karl Mecklenburg, and safeties Steve Atwater and Dennis Smith. MARCH — The Broncos and Raiders are named to oppose each other in an American Bowl '94 Game in Barcelona. The Broncos thus join San Francisco as the only two teams to have been asked to represent the NFL in London, Tokyo, Berlin, and Barcelona. MAY — The Broncos conclude season ticket renewals and waiting list additions for 1994, leading to an anticipated 25th consecutive season of sellouts at Mile High Stadium.

JANUARY 31 — Mike Shanahan is hired as the 11th head coach in Broncos history. Shanahan, a Denver assistant coach from 1984-87 and 1989-91, signed a seven-year contract as head coach after spending the previous three years in San Francisco where he served as offensive coordinator. FEBRUARY 5 — The Broncos are represented in the annual AFC-NFC Pro Bowl by safety Steve Atwater, quarterback John Elway and offensive tackle Gary Zimmerman. Tight end Shannon Sharpe was also selected but did not play. MARCH — The Broncos are selected to face San Francisco in an American Bowl '95 Game in Tokyo, joining the 49ers and Dallas as the only NFL teams to participate in five American Bowl Games.

MISCELLANEOUS

Left tackle Gary Zimmerman earned his fifth Pro Bowl appearance in 1994 after starting all 16 games for the seventh consecutive season. He has started each of the 140 games he has played in his nine-year career.

DENVER BRONCOS COMMUNITY RELATIONS

Denver Broncos In the Community

For 35 years, the Denver Broncos have committed their resources to making a positive and measurable impact on the quality of life in the Rocky Mountain Region. And the commitment continues. It is only through this dedication to the roots of our communities that we can return the loyal support we receive from our fans.

Focused on the ambition to mirror the spirit of the Colorado communities, the Denver Broncos organization recognizes the integral role it plays in developing and supporting programs that reflect our communities' diversity. Our resources are dedicated to promoting Colorado's youth, identifying their needs and encouraging them to set and reach goals.

Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation

Aimed at that goal, the Broncos dramatically increased their financial impact on the community through the development of The Broncos Charities Fund, a fund of the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation. The Charities Fund, established in December, 1993, enables the Broncos to raise and give away money to qualified non-profit organizations throughout the state of Colorado. Through June 1995, the Broncos Charities Fund already raised over $1,400,000 and made numerous grants to area non-profits.

In addition, the Broncos' support extends to graduating high school students through the offering of educational scholarships in assistance for higher education. The organization also provides players, coaches and staff as speakers for projects such as D.A.R.E., Read to Me and Career Days.

In 1993, the Broncos Academy was developed as a dropout prevention high school program within the Denver Public School System. In the summer months, the Broncos host an annual summer minicamp, held at the Broncos facility with participating current and alumni players, providing Denver-area youth with a true pro football experience.

The Denver Broncos organization is committed to the people of Colorado, and looks forward to the continued opportunity to contribute its resources to improve the quality of life for Colorado residents.

Denver Broncos players and cheerleaders help children participate in the Broncos' Obstacle Course at the 1995 Colorado Relay and Family Classic, one of the many events in which the Broncos participate through the Broncos Charities Fund. Pat Bowlen and the Broncos have been involved in the Classic for 11 consecutive years.

THE DENVER BRONCOS CHEERLEADERS

The last decade saw phenomenal growth in women's fitness, sports savvy and specifically, women's interest and connection to football and the NFL. It is because of this growth that the Broncos felt a responsibility to develop a cheerleading team of which women could be proud.

Traditionally, there are plenty of opportunities for men to participate in all aspects of pro football. The breaks in the game — pre-game, halftime and timeouts — provide an opportunity for fan entertainment to strengthen the home field advantage. Additionally, this opens up possibilities for women to participate in the sports world. Cheerleaders bring an athleticism to the game-day performance as well as an ability to heighten crowd response.

Each member of the Broncos cheerleaders has an average of more than 14 years of dance experience. This team has spent as many years dancing as most NFL players have playing football. In addition, several hold athletic titles such as Miss National Fitness, aerobic champions and track and field athletes. Academic and professional achievements include Maser's Degrees, Pre-Med students, CPAs, singers, business owners and a pilot.

The Broncos cheerleaders are also active in the Denver community, volunteering their time and energy to area non-profits. Their promotional schedule, much like their volunteer schedule keeps them busy most weekends of the season. Their contribution to the Broncos and to the community prove that they are an asset both on and off the field.

THUNDER — THE DENVER BRONCOS MASCOT

When the Denver Broncos take the field at Mile High Stadium, Thunder, the team's mascot, with rider Angela Moore, leads the charge.

Although Thunder's registered name is JB Kobask, he was given the "stage name" Thunder for his mascot duties. Thunder made his Mile High Stadium debut September 12, 1993 for the Broncos' victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The 11-year old, pure-bred Arabian stallion, provided by Magness Arabians of Fort Lupton, Colo., is in his second season with the Denver Broncos Football Club in 1995. In his "rookie" season, Thunder delighted the crowds and was a big hit with the children. He has also started a new tradition at the Broncos, holding an annual Christmas party for underprivileged kids of the Denver area.

"We are avid Bronco fans and felt that an Arabian stallion would be an appropriate mascot. We are thrilled to have this chance to show the general public that Arabians are athletic, intelligent and friendly animals," says Sharon Magness, administrator of Magness Arabians.

Thunder lives on the 350-acre ranch that serves as the training, showing, breeding and marketing center of Magness Arabians. Bob and Sharon Magness also own and operate a ranch in Santa Ynez, Calif., that bears the same name.

The one constant in the switch from the pasture to the playing field is Thunder's rider, Angela Moore. Moore, the other half of the Denver Broncos mascot tandem, has been showing horses and competing in barrel racing most of her life. As assistant manager of Magness Arabians, Moore trains, assists with veterinary care and grooms the horses.

The 29-year old Fort Lupton resident's love of animals does not stop at horses. Moore has a B.S. degree in equine science with a second major in zoology from Colorado State University. Her goal is to go back to school and receive her master's degree and doctorate in zoology to begin field research in feline physiology.

Neither Thunder nor Moore is shy in front of crowds. Thunder is a champion show horse whose wins include the Hunter Pleasure Champion of the Wyoming Arabian Horse Association Show in 1993, Reserve Champion of the Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Colorado State Fair in 1989 and first place in Pure Breed Western Pleasure at the Rocky Mountain Arabian Horse Show in 1989. Moore's honors include the Scottsdale top-10 for Hunter Pleasure and three-time Colorado Hunter Futurity.

Thunder is trained by Tom Hudson, manager/trainer of Magness Arabians and accomplished equestrian. Hudson shows horses in the top Arabian horse shows around the country, although not with Thunder — he has been taken off the horse-show circuit for his career in football.

Thunder — with rider Angela Moore — made his debut as the Broncos' mascot last year and was an instant hit with fans in Mile High Stadium.

RING OF FAME

The Denver Broncos' Ring of Fame was inaugurated in 1984 to honor former players and administrators who played significant roles in Bronco history.

In 1993 cornerback Louis Wright (1975-86) was inducted into the Ring of Fame, and linebacker Tom Jackson (1973-86) entered the Ring of Fame in 1992.

Linebacker Randy Gradishar (1974-83) was the only 1989 inductee into the Ring of Fame, while quarterback Craig Morton (1977-82), wide receiver Haven Moses (1972-81), and kicker Jim Turner (1971-79) were inducted in 1988.

Former defensive back Billy Thompson (1969-81) was honored in 1987 and three players joined the elite group in 1986, quarterbacks Frank Tripucka (1960-63) and Charley Johnson (1972-75), and defensive end Paul Smith (1968-78).

In 1985, former owner Gerald H. Phipps became the first non player to have his name placed on the Ring.

Four former players were the original Ring of Fame inductees, running back Floyd Little (1967-75), defensive end Rich Jackson (1967-72), wide receiver Lionel Taylor (1960-66), and safety Austin "Goose" Gonsoulin (1960-66).

The Ring of Fame is on the facade of Mile High Stadium's east stands, just below the third level.

MILE HIGH STADIUM

Mile High Stadium, home of the Denver Broncos, has been filled for every regular season game since and including the 1970 season, with the exception of two replacement games played during the 1987 player's strike (both games were sold out before the strike). The Broncos have sold out 187 consecutive non-strike regular season games, and with postseason contests the total reaches 196 over the 25-year period.

Expansion of the stadium, begun in 1975, was completed for the 1977 season to give the Broncos the seventh-largest home facility in the league (capacity 76,273).

Denver voters passed a $25 million bond issue in 1974 to expand and improve the stadium from its capacity of 51,706 to 75,100. The stadium held 63,532 for the 1976 season, halfway through the project.

Bringing the stadium capacity to its present 76,273 in 1986 was the construction of the Penthouse Suites atop the west stands. There are 60 luxury suites that seat 14, 16 or 24 fans each, accessed by private elevators and fully serviced for every Bronco home game.

Making Mile High Stadium unique, however, is its movable east stands. The east stands move in a single section which, when fully extended, forms a horseshoe configuration for football. When the section is retracted, the stadium is in position for baseball.

The dynamics involved in the move are fascinating. First, bear in mind that the east stands section is a three-tiered structure, 535 feet long, 135 feet tall and 200 feet deep, weighing nearly nine million pounds. Second, the stands must be moved a distance of 145 feet.

How is it done? The answer, says DMJM-Phillips-Reister, the engineering-architectural firm in charge of the project, is water.

More than 90,000 square feet of runways serve as the operating surfaces over which the stands will move. Water is pumped onto the runways and form a .003 inch sheet upon which the stands rest. Hydraulic rams then push the stands forward at the rate of three feet per minute, making the move last somewhere around two hours.

Originally called Bears Stadium, the facility was built in 1948 for the Denver Bears of baseball's old Western League, with long range plans to utilize it for football as well. When Denver became a charter member of the American Football League in 1959, the south stands (8,100 seats) and portable east stands (9,616 seats) were added to give a capacity of 34,657 for football.

After Denver voters turned down a stadium bond issue to build an all-purpose metropolitan stadium in 1967, a non-profit group began a fund-raising drive with the goal of purchasing the stadium for the city.

In February of 1968, the group bought the stadium from Rocky Mountain Empire Sports for $1.8 million and presented it to the city of Denver. A 16,000-seat upper deck was immediately constructed over the west stands, raising the capacity to over 50,000 for the 1968 season. In December of 1968, the stadium was renamed Denver Mile High Stadium.

BRONCOS' RADIO NETWORK

For the 26th consecutive season, Denver's 50,000-watt station KOA (850) will serve as the flagship station for the Denver Broncos game broadcast network.

Larry Zimmer is in his 25th consecutive season as a member of the Broncos' broadcast team and his fifth handling play-by-play. He was the color commentator from 1971-89. Zimmer has been named the Colorado Sportscaster of the Year three out of the last seven years, including 1991. He also does play-by-play for the University of Colorado football team.

Joining Zimmer on the broadcast is Dave Logan, who will provide color commentary for his sixth year as a part of the KOA announcers team. He played with the Cleveland Browns from 1976-83 and the Broncos in 1984, and has been active in Denver sports radio since leaving the NFL. Logan was named the Colorado Sportscaster of the Year for 1992 and 1993.

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

AC Joint — Acromioclavicular joint; joint of the shoulder where acromion process of the scapula and the distal end of the clavicle meet; most shoulder separations occur at this point.

Abduct — Movement of any extremity away from the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an abductor muscle.

Abrasion — Any injury which rubs off the surface of the skin.

Abscess — An infection which produces pus; can be the result of a blister, callus, penetrating wound or laceration.

Adduct — Movement of an extremity toward the midline of the body. This action is achieved by an adductor muscle.

Adhesion — Abnormal adherence of collagen fibers to surrounding structures during immobilization following trauma or as a complication of surgery which restricts normal elasticity of the structures involved.

Aerobic — Exercise in which energy needed is supplied by oxygen inspired and is required for sustained periods of vigorous exercise with a continually high pulse rate.

Anabolic Steroids — Steroids that promote tissue growth by creating protein in an attempt to enhance muscle growth. The main anabolic steroid is testosterone (male sex hormone).

Anaphylactic Shock — Shock that is caused by an allergic reaction.

Anterior Compartment Syndrome — Condition in which swelling within the anterior compartment of the lower leg jeopardizes the viability of muscles, nerves and arteries that serve the foot. In severe cases, emergency surgery is necessary to relieve the swelling and pressure.

Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL) — A primary stabilizing ligament within the center of the knee joint that prevents hyperextension and excessive rotation of the joint. A complete tear of the ACL necessitating reconstruction could require up to 12 months of rehabilitation.

Anterior Talofibular Ligament — A ligament of the ankle that connects the fibula (lateral ankle bone) to the talus. This ligament is oft times subject to sprain.

Anterogram — A film demonstrating arteries after injection of a dye.

Arthrogram — X-ray technique for joints using air and/or dye injected into the affected area; useful in diagnosing meniscus tears of the knee and rotator cuff tears of the shoulder.

Arthroscope — An instrument used to visualize the interior of a joint cavity.

Arthroscopy — A surgical examination of the internal structures of a joint by means for viewing through an arthroscope. An arthroscopic procedure can be used to remove or repair damaged tissue or as a diagnostic procedure in order to inspect the extent of any damage or confirm a diagnosis.

Aspiration — The withdrawal of fluid from a body cavity by means of a suction or siphonage apparatus, such as a syringe.

Atrophy — To shrivel or shrink from disuse, as in muscular atrophy. Avascular Necrosis — Death of a part due to lack of circulation. Avulsion — The tearing away, forcibly, of a part or structure.

Baker's Cyst — Localized swelling of a bursa sac in the posterior knee as a result of fluid that has escaped from the knee capsule. A Baker's cyst indicates that there is a trauma inside the knee joint that leads to excessive fluid production.

Bone Scan — An imaging procedure in which a radioactive-labeled substance is injected into the body to determine the status of a bony injury. If the radioactive substance is taken up by the bone at the injury site, the injury will show as a "hot spot" on the scan image. The bone scan is particularly useful in the diagnosis of stress fractures.

Brachial Plexus — Network of nerves originating from the cervical vertebrae and running down to the shoulder, arm, hand, and fingers.

Bruise — A discoloration of the skin due to an extravasation of blood into the underlying tissues.

Bursa — A fluid-filled sac that is located in areas where friction is likely to occur, then minimizes the friction; for example between a tendon and bone.

CAT Scan — Use of a computer to produce a cross sectional view of the anatomical part being investigated from X-ray data.

Cervical Vertebrae — Group of seven vertebrae located in the neck.

Charley Horse — A contusion or bruise to any muscle resulting in intramuscular bleeding. No other injury should be called a charley horse.

Colles' Fracture — A fracture of the distal end of the radius with the lower end being displaced backward.

Concentric Muscle Contraction — A shortening of the muscle as it develops tension and contracts to move a resistance.

Concussion — Jarring injury of the brain resulting in dysfunction. It can be graded as mild, moderate or severe depending on loss of consciousness, amnesia and loss of equilibrium.

Contusion — An injury to a muscle and tissues caused by a blow from a blunt object.

Cryotherapy — A treatment with the use of cold. Cyst — Abnormal sac containing liquid or semi-solid matter.

Degenerative Joint Disease — Changes in the joint surface as a result of repetitive trauma.

Deltoid Ligament — Ligament that connects the tibia to bones of the medial aspect of the foot and is primarily responsible for stability of the ankle on the medial side. Is sprained less frequently than other ankle ligaments.

Deltoid Muscle — Muscles at top of the arm, just below the shoulder, responsible for shoulder motions to the front, side and back.

Disc, Intervertebral — A flat, rounded plate between each vertebrae of the spine. The disc consists of a thick fiber ring which surrounds a soft gel-like interior. It functions as a cushion and shock absorber for the spinal column.

Disc, Intervertebral — A flat, rounded plate between each vertebrae of the spine. This disc consists of a thick fiber ring which surrounds a soft gel-like interior. It functions as a cushion and shock absorber for the spinal column.

Dislocation — Complete displacement of joint surfaces.

Eccentric Muscle Contraction — An overall lengthening of the muscles as it develops tension and contracts to control motion performed by an outside force; oft times referred to a "negative" contraction in weight training.

Eccymosis — Bleeding into the surface tissue below the skin, resulting in a "black and blue" effect.

Edema — Accumulation of fluid in organs and tissues of the body; swelling.

Effusion — Accumulation of fluid, in various spaces in the body, or the knee itself. Commonly, the knee has an effusion after an injury.

Electrical Galvanic Stimulation (EGS) — An electrical therapeutic modality that sends a current to the body at select voltages and frequencies in order to stimulate pain receptors, disperse edema, or neutralize muscle spasms among other functional applications.

Electromyogram (EMG) — Test to determine nerve function. Epicondylitis — Inflammation in the elbow due to overuse.

Ethyl Chloride — "Cold spray," a chemical coolant sprayed onto an injury site to produce a local, mild anesthesia.

Fat Percentage — The amount of body weight that is adipose, fat tissue. Fat percentages can be calculated by underwater weighing, measuring select skinfold thickness, or by analyzing electrical impedance.

Femur Thigh bone; longest bone in the body.

Fibula — Smaller of the two bones in the lower leg; runs from knee to the ankle along the outside of the lower leg.

Flexibility — The ability of muscle to relax and yield to stretch forces.

Flexibility Exercise — General term used to describe exercise performed by a player to passively or actively elongate soft tissue without the assistance of an athletic trainer.

Fracture — Breach of continuity of a bone. Types of fractures include simple, compound, comminuted, greenstick incomplete, impacted, longitudinal, oblique, stress, or transverse.

Gamekeeper's Thumb — Tear of the ulnar collateral ligament of the metacarpophalangeal joint of the thumb.

Glycogen — Form in which foods are stored in the body as energy.

Grade One Injury — A mild injury in which ligament, tendon, or other musculoskeletal tissue may have been stretched or confused, but not torn or otherwise disrupted.

Grade Two Injury — A moderate injury when musculoskeletal tissue has been partially, but not totally, torn which causes appreciable limitation in function of the injured tissue.

Grade Three Injury — A severe injury in which tissue has been significantly, and in some cases totally, torn or otherwise disrupted causing a virtual total loss of function.

Hamstring — Category of muscle that runs from the buttocks to the knee along the back of the thigh. It functions to flex the knee, and is oft times injured as a result of improper conditioning or lack of muscle flexibility.

Heat Cramps — Painful muscle spasms of the arms or legs caused by excessive body heat and depletion of fluids and electrolytes.

Heat Exhaustion — Mild form of shock due to dehydration because of excessive sweating when exposed to heat and humidity.

Heat Stroke — Condition of rapidly rising internal body temperature that overwhelms the body's mechanisms for release of heat and could result in death if not cared for appropriately.

Heel Cup — Orthotic device that is inserted into the shoe and worn under the heel to give support to the Achilles tendon and help absorb impacts at the heel.

Hematoma — Tumor-like mass produced by an accumulation of coagulated blood in a cavity.

Hot Pack — Chemical pack that rests in water, approximately 160 degrees, and retains its heat for 15-20 minutes when placed in a towel for general therapeutic application.

Hyperextension — Extreme extension of a limb or body part.

Iliotibial Band — A thick, wide fascial layer that runs from the iliac crest to the knee joint and is occasionally inflamed as a result of excessive running.

Inflammation — The body's natural response to injury in which the injury site might display various degrees of pain, sweating, heat, redness, and/or loss of function.

Lesion — Wound, injury or tumor.

Ligament — Band of fibrous tissue that connects bone to bone or bone to cartilage and supports and strengthens joints.

Lumbar Vertebrae — Five vertebrae of the lower back that articulate with the sacrum to form the lumbosacral joint.

Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) — Imaging procedure in which a radio frequency pulse causes certain electrical elements of the injured tissue to react to this pulse and through this process a computer display and permanent film establish a visual image. MRI does not require radiation and is very useful in the diagnosis of soft tissue, disc, and meniscus injuries.

Meniscectomy — An intra-articular surgical procedure of the knee by which all or part of the damaged meniscus is removed.

Meniscus — Crescent shaped cartilage, usually pertaining to the knee joint; also known as "cartilage." There are two menisci in the knee, medial and lateral. These work to absorb weight within the knee and provide stability.

Metatarsals — Five long bones of the foot, running from the ankle to the toes.

Myositis — Inflammation of a muscle. Necrotic — Relating to death of a portion of tissue.

Neoprene — Lightweight rubber used in joint and muscle sleeves designed to provide support and/or insulation and heat retention to the area.

Neuritis — Inflammation of a nerve.

Orthotic — Any device applied to or around the body in the care of physical impairment or disability, commonly used to control foot mechanics.

Parasthesia — Sensation of numbness or tingling, indicating nerve irritation.

Patella — The kneecap. The patella functions to protect the distal end of the femur as well as increase the mechanical advantage and force generating capacities of the quadriceps muscle group.

Patella Tendinitis — Inflammation of the patella ligament; also known as "jumpers knee."

Patellofemoral Joint — Articulation of the knee cap and femur. Inflammation of this joint can occur through: 1) acute injury to the patella, 2) overuse from excessive running particularly if there is an associated knee weakness, 3) chronic wear and tear of the knee, 4) as a result of poor foot mechanics. Patellofemoral irritation can lead to chondromalacia, which in its most chronic condition, could require surgery.

Peroneal Muscles — Group of muscles of the lateral lower leg that are responsible for evert the knee. Tendons of these three muscles are vital to the stability of the ankle and foot.

Plica — Fold of tissue in the joint capsule and a common result of knee injury.

Posterior Cruciate Ligament (PCL) — A primary stabilizing ligament of the knee that provides significant stability and prevents displacement of the tibia backward within the knee joint. A complete tear of this ligament necessitating reconstruction could require up to 12 months of rehabilitation.

Quadriceps Muscles "Quads" — A group of four muscles of the front thigh that run from the hip and form a common tendon at the patella; they are responsible for knee extension.

Radiography — Taking of X-rays.

Radius — Forearm bone on the thumb side.

Reconstruction — Surgical rebuilding of a joint using natural, artificial or transplanted materials.

Referred Pain — Pain felt in an undamaged area of body away from the actual injury.

Retraction — The moving of tissue to expose a part or structure of the body.

Rotator Cuff — Comprised of four muscles in the shoulder area that can be irritated by over use. The muscles are the supraspinatus (most commonly injured), infraspinatus, teres minor, and subscapularis.

Rotator Cuff Impingement Syndrome — A microtrauma or overuse injury caused by stress, and the four stages are: 1) Tendinitis with temporary thickening of the bursa and rotator cuff; 2) Fiber dissociation in the tendon with permanent thickening of the bursa and scar formation; 3) A partial rotator cuff tear of less than 1 cm.; and 4) A complete tear of 1 cm. or more.

Sacrum — Group of five fused vertebrae located just below the lumbar vertebrae of the low back.

Scapula — Shoulder blade.

Sciatica — Irritation of the sciatic nerve resulting in pain or tingling running down the inside of the leg.

Sciatic Nerve — Major nerve that carries impulses for muscular action and sensations between the low back and thigh and lower leg; it is the longest nerve in the body.

Shin Splint — A catch-all syndrome describing pain in the shin that is not a fracture or tumor and cannot be defined otherwise.

Sorbothane — An energy absorbing polyurethane utilized in some foot orthotics to absorb shock forces of the foot.

Spasm (Theory) — Muscle soreness induced by exercise; is the result of reduced muscle blood flow, which results in pain.

Spleen — Large, solid organ responsible for the normal production and destruction of blood cells.

Spondylolisthesis — Forward displacement of one vertebrae over another below it due to a developmental defect in the vertebrae.

Spondylosis — Abnormal vertebral fixation or immobility.

Sprain — Injury resulting from a stretch or twist of the joint and causes various degrees of stretch or tear of a ligament or other soft tissue at the joint.

Sternum — The breast bone.

Steroids — Any one of a large number of hormone-like substances. See Anabolic steroids and cortical steroids.

Strain — Injury resulting from a pull or torsion to the muscle or tendon that causes various degrees of stretch or tear to the muscle or tendon tissue.

Stress Fracture — A hair-line type of break in a bone caused by overuse.

Stress X-ray — A continual X-ray taken when a portion of the body is stressed to its maximum in order to determine joint stability. This is a test utilized in some ankle injuries.

Stretching — Any therapeutic maneuver designed to elongate shortened soft tissue structures and thereby increase flexibility.

Subluxation — Partial dislocation of a joint. The term usually implies that the joint can return to its normal position without formal reduction.

Talus — The ankle bone that articulates with the tibia and fibula to form the ankle joint.

Target Heart Rate — A pre-determined pulse to be obtained during exercise when circulation is working at full efficient capacities.

Tarsals — Group of seven bones of the foot consisting of the calcaneus, talus, cuboid and three cuneiform bones.

Temporomandibular Joint (TMJ) — The articulation of the jaw and skull; considered by some to be vital in resolution of injuries throughout the body.

PLAN OF THE PLAYING FIELD

Tendinitis — Inflammation of the tendon and/or tendon sheath, caused by chronic overuse or sudden injury.

Tendon — Tissue that connects muscle to bone. Tennis Elbow — General term for lateral elbow pain.

Tennis Elbow — General term for lateral elbow pain.

Thoracic — Group of twelve vertebrae located in the thorax and articulate with the twelve ribs.

Trachea — The windpipe.

Transcutaneous Electrical Nerve Stimulator (TENS) — An electrical modality that sends a mild current through pads at the injury site which stimulates the brain to release the natural analgesic, endorphin.

Transverse Process — Small lateral projection off the right side and left side of each vertebrae that functions as an attachment site for muscles and ligaments of the spine.

Trapezius — Flat triangular muscle covering the posterior surface of the neck and shoulder.

Ulna — Forearm bone that runs from the tip of the elbow to the little finger side of the wrist.

Ulnar Nerve — Nerve in elbow commonly irritated from excessive throwing.

Ultrasound — An electrical modality that transmits a sound wave through an applicator into the skin to the soft tissue in order to heat the local area for relaxing the injured tissue and/or disperse edema.

"Wind Knocked Out" — Syndrome describing a contraction of the abdominal nerve trunk, the solar plexus, as a result of an abdominal contusion.

Wrist — The junction between the two forearm bones (radius and ulna) and the eight wrist bones (trapezium, capitate, hamate, pisiform, triquetrum, lunate and scaphoid).

Zygoma — The cheekbone.

THE 1995 SEASON

Safety Steve Atwater earned his fifth consecutive Pro Bowl appearance in 1994, finishing the season with 125 tackles, one interception and two fumble recoveries. He was voted the Broncos defensive MVP for the second time in his career.

NFL PLAYER PERSONNEL DATES AND INFORMATION FOR 1995

|------------|---|
| June 1 | — Deadline for old clubs to send tender to unsigned unrestricted free agents to receive exclusive negotiating rights for rest of season if player is not signed by another club by July 15. |
| June 1 | — Deadline for old clubs to send tender to unsigned restricted free agents or to extend qualifying offer to retain exclusive negotiating rights for rest of season. |
| June 15 | — Deadline for old club to withdraw original qualifying offer to unsigned restricted agents and still retain exclusive negotiating rights. |
| July 5 | — Claiming period of 24 hours begins in waiver system. All waiver requests for the rest of the year are no-recall and no-withdrawal. |
| July 15 | — Signing period ends at 4 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, for franchise and transition players and unrestricted free agents who received June 1 tender. |
| Mid-July | — Preseason training camps open. Clubs not permitted to open camps before July 5. Veteran players cannot be required to report earlier than 15 days prior to club's first preseason game or July 15, whichever is later. |
| July 29 | — Pro Football Hall of Fame Game, Canton, Ohio: Carolina Panthers vs. Jacksonville Jaguars. |
| Aug. 4 | — First Preseason weekend. |
| Aug. 6 | — American Bowl, Tokyo, Japan: Denver vs. San Francisco. |
| Aug. 12 | — American Bowl, Toronto: Buffalo vs. Dallas. |
| Aug. 22 | — Roster cutdown to maximum of 60 players on Active List by 4 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time. |
| Aug. 27 | — Roster cutdown to maximum of 53 players on Active/Inactive List by 4 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time. Clubs may dress minimum of 42 and maximum of 45 players and third quarterback for each regular season and postseason game. |
| Aug. 28 | — After 4 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, clubs may establish a Practice Squad of five players by signing free agents who do not have a season of free-agency credit, unless that season was achieved by spending an entire regular season on Reserve/Injured or Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform. |
| Sept. 3-4 | — Regular season opens. |
| Sept. 20 | — Priority on multiple waiver claims is now based on the current season's standing. |
| Oct. 10 | — All trading ends at 4 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time. |
| Nov. 7 | — Deadline for clubs to sign by 4 p.m., Eastern Time, their Unrestricted Free Agents to whom June 1 tender was made. If still unsigned after this date, such players are prohibited from playing in NFL in 1995. |
| Nov. 7 | — Deadline for clubs to sign by 4 p.m., Eastern Time, their Restricted Free Agents to whom June 1 tender was made. If such players remain unsigned, they are prohibited from playing in NFL in 1995. |
| Nov. 7 | — Deadline for clubs to sign Drafted players by 4 p.m., Eastern Time. If such players remain unsigned, they are prohibited from playing in NFL in 1995. |
| Nov. 7-8 | — Fall Recessed Meeting, Dallas, Texas. |
| Dec. 23-25 | — Regular season closes. |
| Dec. 30-31 | — Wild Card Playoff Games. |
| Jan. 6-7 | 1996 |
| Jan. 14 | — Divisional Playoff Games. |
| Jan. 28 | — AFC and NFC Championship Games. |
| | — Super Bowl XXX at Sun Devil Stadium, Tempe, Ariz. |

- Feb. 4 — AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, Honolulu, Hawaii.
 Feb. 8-12 — National Invitational Camp, RCA Dome, Indianapolis, Ind.
 Mar. 10-14 — NFL Annual Meeting, West Palm Beach, Fla.
 Apr. 15-18 — PR/Marketing Directors Meeting, Jacksonville, Fla.
 Apr. 20-21* — Annual player selection meeting, New York, N.Y.
 May 21-22 — Spring Recessed Meeting, Charlotte, N.C.
 May 22-23 — Finance Directors Meeting, Charlotte, N.C.
 July 27 — Hall of Fame Game, Canton, Ohio.
 Aug. 2-4 — First preseason weekend.
 Sept. 1-2 — Regular season opens.
 Oct.* — Fall Recessed Meeting
 Dec. 21-23 — Regular season closes.
 Dec. 28-29 — Wild Card Playoff Games.

- Jan. 4-5 — Divisional Playoff Games.
 Jan. 12 — AFC and NFC Championship Games.
 Jan. 26 — Super Bowl XXXI, Louisiana Superdome, New Orleans, La.
 Feb. 2 — AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, Honolulu, Hawaii.
 Feb.* — National Invitational Camp, RCA Dome, Indianapolis, Ind.
 Mar. 9-14 — NFL Annual Meeting, Palm Desert, Calif.
 Apr. 13-17 — PR/Marketing Directors Meeting, San Diego, Calif.
 Apr. 19-20* — Annual player selection meeting, New York, N.Y.
 May 20-21 — Spring Recessed Meeting, San Diego, Calif.
 May 22 — Finance Directors Meeting, San Diego, Calif.
 July 26 — Hall of Fame Game, Canton, Ohio
 Aug. 1-3 — First preseason weekend.
 Aug. 31-Sept. 1 — Regular season opens.
 Dec. 20-22 — Regular season closes.
 Dec. 27-28 — Wild Card Playoff Games

- Jan. 3-4 — Divisional Playoff Games.
 Jan. 11 — AFC and NFC Championship Games
 Jan. 25 — Super Bowl XXXII, Jack Murphy Stadium, San Diego, Calif.
 Feb. 1 — AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, Honolulu, Hawaii
 Mar. 22-27 — NFL Annual Meeting, Orlando, Fla.
 Aug. 1 — Hall of Fame Game, Canton, Ohio
 Aug. 7-9 — First preseason weekend.

- Jan. 2-3 — Wild Card Playoff Games.
 Jan. 9-10 — Divisional Playoff Games
 Jan. 17 — AFC-NFC Championship Games
 Jan. 31 — Super Bowl XXXIII, Candelstick Park, San Francisco, Calif.
 Feb. 7 — AFC-NFC Pro Bowl

NFL TERMINOLOGY

The term NFL Rookie is defined as a player who is in his first season of professional football and has not been on the roster of another professional football team for any regular-season or postseason games. A Rookie is designated by an "R" on NFL rosters. Players who have been active in another professional football league or players who have NFL experience, including either pre-season training camp or being on an active roster for fewer than three regular-season or postseason games, are termed NFL First-Year Players. An NFL First-Year Player is designated by a "1" on NFL rosters. Thereafter, a player on an NFL active roster for at least six regular-season or postseason games is credited with an additional year of NFL playing experience.

MEDIA INFORMATION

JIM SACCOMANO

Director of Media Relations
Denver Broncos, 13655 Broncos Parkway,
Englewood, CO 80112

Telephones: Office — (303) 649-9000

Office Private — (303) 649-9338

Home: Jim Saccomano — (303) 288-1182

When making requests for working press credentials, please allow time for mailing. Press credentials are normally issued approximately seven days before the game. Should transmission facilities be required, please arrange for same through local representatives.

As a general rule, the Denver Broncos do not issue any types of press credentials to weekly newspapers or magazines, unless they are of national circulation on specific assignment.

It is understood that all credentials will be used for the purpose for which they were issued, without exception. Violation of this policy will subject the bearer to ejection from Mile High Stadium.

WORKING PRESS: Admittance to the Broncos' press box is restricted to the WORKING PRESS ONLY. Credentials are marked with individual identification. Passes are non-transferable.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Photographers are asked to take special note of the following conditions for use of press credentials, as set by the National Football League:

"This credential is non-transferable and is issued for the sole purpose of performing a working function relative to this date's game at Mile High Stadium. At no time is the bearer of this credential allowed to request autographs. ANY VIOLATION OF TERMS OF CREDENTIAL USE SUBJECTS BEARER TO POSSIBLE EJECTION FROM MILE HIGH STADIUM.

This working credential is issued to an organization for the sole purpose of providing stadium access to an accredited individual who has a legitimate working function (media or game service) in connection with this game. Any unauthorized use of this credential subjects the bearer to ejection from the stadium and prosecution for criminal trespass. The NFL assumes no responsibility for any equipment use in the stadium.

The use of any photograph, film, tape or drawing of the game, player interviews or other stadium activities taken or made by the accredited organization or the individual to whom this credential has been issued is expressly prohibited except for regularly scheduled news coverage of the game by the organizations to which this credential is issued. Additionally, television stations are prohibited from making available game film or tape to any other organization without advance written permission from the NFL or the appropriate member club. Such film or tape may be aired only by the specific station or entity to whom this credential is issued.

Television stations filming or taping NFL games recognize that any films or tape may only be used in connection with a regularly scheduled television newscast within a seven-day period following the game and the film clip or taped portion of each such showing will not exceed two (2) minutes in length.

Additionally, television stations agree not to use more than six (6) minutes of filmed or taped "same-day" highlights from NFL games on any regularly scheduled news programs (i.e. no more than six minutes of highlights on Sunday night). This is the only exception to the two-minute limitation.

Television stations wishing to use NFL film or tape in any other manner must obtain written permission for such usage from the National Football League.

The bearer of this credential and his or her employer assume all risk incident to the performance by the bearer of his or her services; assume all risk incident to attending NFL games; and agree to indemnify and hold harmless the NFL, its member teams, and their agents and employees from and against all liability, loss, damage or expense resulting from or arising out of his or her presence in the stadium.

Acceptance of the credential constitutes agreement by the bearer and his organization to abide by the foregoing conditions. Thank you for your cooperation.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Filmed or taped highlights of Denver Broncos football games obtained on game day pursuant to this credential may not be used for any purpose other than regularly scheduled news programs as set forth above. Filmed or taped highlights for use in programming other than regularly scheduled news programs may be obtained only subsequent to game day directly from NFL Films, Inc. pursuant to license.

This credential is subject to such additional credential use conditions as to which the Denver Broncos from time to time may give notice. Any violation of terms of credential use or such additional conditions may result in the withholding or revocation of this credential and any credential for any subsequent Denver Broncos football games."

Sideline photo passes will be tightly controlled by the Public Relations Department and are generally limited to photographers shooting for a daily newspaper, wire service, or magazine of national circulation on specific assignment, or television station.

RADIO-TELEVISION: In making requests for broadcast credentials, please specify requirements for spotters and/or statisticians.

STADIUM ACCESS: To get to Mile High Stadium, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street, take Interstate 25 to the Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit). The Press Box is located on the West side of the stadium.

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO MILE HIGH STADIUM FROM DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT: Exit airport on Pena Boulevard and continue to Interstate 70. Take Interstate 70 West to Interstate 25 South. Continue on Interstate 25 South until you come to Mile High Stadium Exit (19th Avenue Exit).

DRIVING INSTRUCTIONS TO DENVER INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT FROM MILE HIGH STADIUM: Take one of two routes depending on your parking lot location. You can take 20th Avenue East to Clay Street, turning left at Clay and proceeding to 23rd Avenue. Take a right at 23rd Avenue and continue to Interstate 25 entrances. Another route (Northbound) would be to take 17th Avenue East, which will continue beneath an overpass and will take you directly to Interstate 25 north. Take I-25 North to I-70 East. Follow the signs to DIA. Please allow 45 minutes from Mile High Stadium to DIA.

TRANSMISSION FACILITIES: The Broncos provide five complimentary telephones in the visitors area of the working pressbox for use with VDT or telecopier equipment. Only collect, credit card or third party billing calls can be made from these telephones. Should you wish a private telephone installed at your seat, the Broncos will be pleased to assign you a seat location and provide you with a contact for you to make the appropriate arrangements with the local telephone company.

POST-GAME TRANSPORTATION: Please advise Broncos PR personnel as soon as possible should you require transportation following the game. The amount of time you must wait will obviously decline as time goes by following the conclusion of the game. All taxis will make pick-ups curb side at the Ticket Office, which is located at 19th Avenue and Eliot Street. Should you wish to make your own arrangements, the numbers of local cab companies are 777-7777 and 333-3333.

DENVER BRONCOS HIGHLIGHT VIDEO

NY Life is the sponsor of the Denver Broncos highlight video which is available at no cost to groups of all sizes through the Broncos public relations department. The 1994 highlight video, titled A New Beginning, can be obtained by calling the public relations department of the Broncos at (303) 649-9000. The team address is 13655 Broncos Parkway, Englewood, CO 80112. Please give as much advance notice as possible in requesting the 1994 video, or other films available through the Bronco library.

1. The Denver Broncos are a professional American football team based in Denver, Colorado. They are a member of the National Football League (NFL) and compete in the AFC West division. The team's home stadium is the Invesco Field at Mile High. The Broncos have won two Super Bowl championships (Super Bowl XXXII and Super Bowl XXXIII) and have been the AFC West champions multiple times. The team is owned by Pat Bowlen and coached by Dan Teagarden. The 1995 season was the team's 27th in the NFL.

2. The Denver Broncos have a rich history of success, including multiple AFC West titles and two Super Bowl victories. The team has been a consistent contender in the AFC West and has produced several Hall of Fame players. The 1995 season was a challenging one for the team, as they finished with a record of 10-6 and missed the playoffs. Despite this, the team remains a fan favorite and a competitive force in the NFL.

3. The Denver Broncos have a strong fan base and a long-standing rivalry with the San Francisco 49ers. The team's colors are blue and orange, and their mascot is the horse. The Broncos have a proud tradition of excellence and are committed to being a winning team. The 1995 season was a testament to the team's resilience and determination, as they fought hard to make the playoffs and ultimately fell just short.

4. The Denver Broncos have a strong commitment to community service and social responsibility. The team has been involved in numerous charitable activities and has a long history of giving back to the community. The 1995 season was no exception, as the team participated in several community events and supported various causes. The Broncos are proud to be a part of the Denver community and are committed to making a positive impact.

5. The Denver Broncos have a strong commitment to player safety and health. The team has implemented strict protocols to ensure the well-being of its players and has a dedicated medical staff. The 1995 season was a testament to the team's commitment to player safety, as they maintained a strong record of player health and safety throughout the season.
