ANDY ROBUSTELLI
Director of Operations

Hall of Fame member . . . perennial All-Pro . . . team captain . . . former assistant coach . . . successful businessman . . . those are the impressive credentials that Andy Robustelli brings with him in his new capacity as Director of Operations for the Giants.

As Director of Operations, Robustelli will oversee all field operations of the Giants including coaching, scouting, signing of players, trades and the pre-season training camp.

The 47-year-old Robustelli is one of the great success stories of professional football. A 19th round draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams in 1951 out of little Arnold College in Connecticut, he went on to star with the Rams through 1955, winning All-Pro honors and appearing in two championship games with Los Angeles. He came to the Giants in a 1956 trade and won All-Pro honors consistently. All told, he was an All-NFL selection 9 times during his 14 seasons and appeared in the Pro Bowl nine times as well. He played in six championship games with the Giants, was team defensive captain for six years and was named as the NFL's Most Valuable Player in 1962.

Robustelli was elected to the Professional Football Hall of Fame in 1971 and was additionally voted into the Helms Football Foundation Hall of Fame. His career with the Giants ended in 1964 after spending his final seasons as a player-defensive coach.

In recent years, Andy has served as President of Robustelli Travel Service, Inc., a group of five travel agencies in Connecticut and has also been associated with the Allied Chemical Company. For the past two years, he has also conducted his own TV show during the football seasons, but remains first and foremost a football man and has grown with professional football over the years.

Robustelli was born on December 6, 1926 in Stamford, Conn., graduated from Stamford Public School System and then attended LaSalle Military Academy in Oakdale, L.I. from September 1943 to January 1944. He joined the U.S.Navy in January of 1944 and served for two years in the South Pacific, including the invasion of Okinawa. After his discharge, he matriculated to Arnold College, and graduated with a B.S. Degree, majoring in Health and Physical Education. He was named to the Little All-American team for three years and also lettered in baseball.

Drafted by the Rams in 1951, he played five seasons with L.A., winning All-Pro honors three times and playing on two championship teams. Named MVP on defense for the Rams for three consecutive years, he came to the Giants in that 1956 trade, adding to his laurels with six more All-Pro honors and six more championship game appearances. He was an assistant coach-player for his final four seasons.

In addition to his business and television interests, Andy has been the Connecticut chairman of the United Fund and is also a member of the President's Coucil on Physical Fitness where he organized a business task force for that Coucil group. He is married to the former Jean Dora and is the father of nine children and still resides in Stamford with his family.

GIANTS' COACHING STAFF

BILL ARNSPARGER
HEAD COACH

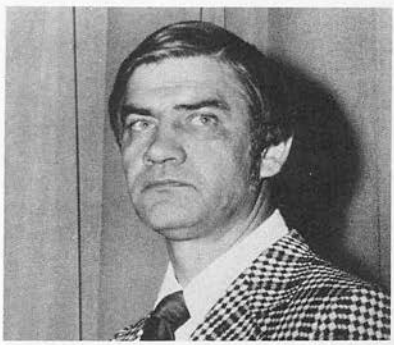

Three days after his Miami Dolphins' "No Name" defense had throttled the Minnesota Vikings in the 1974 Super Bowl, William Stephen "Bill" Arnsparger became the ninth head coach in Giants' history. He had served under Don Shula for four seasons at Miami, initially as Defensive Coordinator and then as Assistant Head Coach. Bill came to the Dolphins in 1970— one year after Miami had finished with a 3-10-1 record and allowed 332 points scored to the opposition. In Arnsparger's first campaign as chief defensive aide, the Dolphins rose to a 10-4 record and a playoff berth while limiting the opposition to 228 points. In 1971, the record was 10-3-1 with but 174 points allowed and in 1972 when Miami went undefeated en route to a Super Bowl crown, the defense allowed but 171 points, the fewest in the NFL, including three shutouts. Last year, with a 12-2 record and second super Bowl title, the Dolphins allowed but 150 points points, again the lowest in the NFL, with two shutouts and four other victories in which no touchdowns were allowed. Bill was affiliated with Shula for nine years in the NFL, joining Shula's staff at Baltimore in 1964 as chief defensive aide. He served with the Colts through 1968 on four playoff teams, then rejoined Shula in Miami in 1970. Prior to being named at Baltimore, Arnsparger's coaching background included assistant stints at Tulane (1962-63); Kentucky (1954-61); Ohio State (1951-53), and at his alma mater, Miami of Ohio (1959). Bill was born on December 16, 1926 in Paris, Kentucky and starred as a lineman at Paris High School where his coach was Blanton Collier. After high school, Arnsparger joined the Marines and served as a sergeant from 1944 to 1946 with a year's duty in China. He entered Miami of Ohio after his discharge and played offensive tackle there on teams that also had such players as Ara Parseghian, Paul Dietzel and Bo Schembechler and a head coach named Woody Hayes. In 1950, Arnsparger was named an assistant coach at Miami by Hayes and the following year when Hayes was named head coach at Ohio State, he brought Arnsparger with him as an assistant there. Bill first worked with Shula at Kentucky where the head coach was Blanton Collier, his old high school mentor. That association with Shula carried into the pros for Bill in 1964 and ended in the Miami locker room after the Super Bowl triumph in January of this year when Arnsparger was presented a game ball by the Dolphin players. Well respected and admired throughout the National Football League, Arnsparger's credentials are prestigious as he becomes a head coach for the first time. Of Dutch descent, Bill married the former Betty Jane Carter in 1959 and is the father of two children, David, 8; and Mary Susan, 5.

FLOYD PETERS

Defensive Line—1st Year

Peters returns to the NFL after serving for three years as the chief scout for the Miami Dolphins in the 13-state Western area. Floyd played 12 years in the NFL as a defensive tackle with the Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions, Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins and had outstanding years with the Eagles winning All-Eastern Conference honors in 1964, 1966 and 1967. He played in the Pro Bowl in each of those years and was selected as the Defensive MVP in the 1966 game. The 6-4, 250-pounder earned four letters as a tackle for San Francisco State and was named to the Little All-American team in 1957. A No. 8 draft choice of Baltimore in 1958, he concluded his career in 1970 as a player-coach with the Redskins. During his playing days as a defensive tackle, Peters had three pass interceptions for 12 yards returned. Floyd was born on May 21, 1936 in Council Bluffs, Iowa then moved to California where he starred at John Swett H.S. in Crockett, Calif. He was drafted by the Packers in 1957 and played on championship teams through 1962 before concluding his playing career with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1963. As a rookie safety in 1957, Symank intercepted 9 passes for the Packers to rank second in the NFL that year. The 5-10, 190-pounder was also rated as a rugged tackler. Born on Aug. 31, 1935 in LaGrange Tex., John was a football and track star at Caldwell High School in Caldwell, Tex., and also earned two letters in track at Florida. Symank is married to the former Sariann Bowers and is the father of four children — Sally Ann, 18; twins Cindy and Susan, 16; and John Jr.,

He was a center, linebacker and even defensive back in his rookie year, and then went on to become a star center for 10 seasons, winning All-NFL and Pro Bowl honors five times, appearing with five Eastern Division title winners and the NFL championship team of 1956. Wietecha joined the Los Angeles Rams as an assistant coach in 1963, then moved on to the Green Bay Packers under Vince Lombardi from 1965 through 1970 where he was offensive line and running game coach with the championship Packers of that era. He also played QB for the San Diego Chargers in 1961 and for the Denver Broncos in 1962 before concluding his playing career with the Oakland Raiders in 1963. Enis returned to TCU to earn a Master's degree in Geology and Mathematics and also served as an assistant coach at TCU during that time. Ted was an outstanding receiver at Baylor for three seasons, playing in both the Gator Bowl and Gotham Bowl. He was drafted by the Buffalo Bills of the AFL in 1962, but a training camp injury cut his pro playing career before it began and he entered the coaching profession Ted first coached at Raymondville High School in Texas, then at Lubbock H.S. in Lubbock, Tex. With the Colts from 1966 through 1969, Rutledge served under Don Shula as a linebackers coach as well as being the man who scouted the upcoming opponents. His previous association with Shula and Arnsparger was at the University of Kentucky where Rutledge served for seven years from 1956 through 1962 under Blanton Collier as both head freshman coach and varsity offensive backfield coach. Ed was born May 14, 1918 in Ironton, Ohio, played his high school football there and went on to Western Kentucky where he lettered in football (as a two-way end), track and swimming. JIM LEE HOWELL
Director of Personnel

Jim Lee Howell, a towering figure in the past and present of the New York Giants, lends a wealth of experience and football savvy to his position as Director of Player Personnel. It was 37 years ago that Jim Lee arrived on the New York scene, a long-legged rookie end out of the U. of Arkansas, and since then he has filled a variety of key roles for the Giants: player, assistant coach, head coach and now, of course, as a top-ranking administrator. Howell's record speaks boldly for itself. During his nine years as a player (1937-42, 1946-48), the Giants posted a mark of 55-37-9 and played in four world championship games (1938-39-41-46). After his playing days, the 6-6 Arkansan served as end coach under Coach Steve Owen from 1949-53 and, when Owen departed after the 1953 campaign, Jim Lee was named head coach. The winning pattern Howell had established as a player continued during his reign as coach. Over the next seven years, the Giants won 56 games, lost just 36 and tied four, and they made the world championship game three times, beating the Bears in 1956 and losing classic struggles to the Colts in 1958-59.

JIM TRIMBLE
Director of Pro Personnel

Few men in professional football are better qualified than Jim Trimble to handle the role of Director of Pro Personnel, an assignment he shouldered at the start of the 1969 season when the Giants reorganized their administrative staff. As Director of Pro Personnel, Trimble serves as a liason between coach Bill Arnsparger and club president Wellington Mara, helps coordinate trades, works closely with Jim Lee Howell and members of the scouting staff and generally handles the myriad details and personnel problems that result from the everwidening range of pro football activity. Whatever the problems, though, it is likely that Jim has encountered them somewhere along the line during his 34 years in football. His background in the game is not only broad, it is also very successful. He was head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles (1952-56), the Hamilton Tiger Cats (1956-62) and the Montreal Alouettes (1963-65) and rarely was he ever on the losing side. His NFL record with the Eagles was 27-20-2. In Canada, he compiled an overall record of 77-61-2 and was named Coach of the Year in 1961. Additionally, he served in the dual role of head coach and general manager.

EMLEN TUNNELL
Assistant Director, Pro Personnel

Perhaps the greatest safetyman ever to play professional football, Em is now in his 24th year with the Giants. . . initially as a player, then a scout, assistant coach and now as Assistant Director of Pro Personnel. Tunnell played 11 seasons with the Giants (1948-58), three more with the Packers (1959-61) and during his brilliant career set four NFL records which still stand—most career interceptions (79) most punt returns (258) and most yardage on both interception and punt returns. Tunnell's exploits were such that he is now a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame and was named to the first team 50th anniversary All-NFL alltime team. Em became a Giant originally after walking into the club front office and asking for a tryout after a college career at Iowa and service in the Navy. The rest is history. He became a perennial All-Pro and was named to the Pro Bowl seven straight seasons. A Giant scout in 1962-64, Em became an assistant coach in 1965 and served in that capacity through this past year when he was named to his new position. Born on March 29, 1925 in Bryn Mawr, Pa., he still makes his home in Philadelphia.

JOE SULAITIS
Assistant Director of Personnel

Joe Sulaitis brings to his role of Assistant Director of Personnel a broad football background that includes playing, scouting and coaching. As a player with the Giants from 1943-45 and again from 1947-53, Joe earned a reputation as one of the most versatile men ever to play the game. He was, at various times, a wingback, end, quarterback (blocking back in the A formation) and guard on offense, while on defense he played defensive end, linebacker and defensive back. At any position, he was known as a tough, aggressive 60-minute football player. After his first three-year stint with the Giants, Joe played one year with the Boston Yanks (1946). He returned to the Giants in 1947 and put in seven more productive seasons before retiring in 1953. Sulaitis' coaching experience included one year (1943) as head coach of North Arlington (N.J.) High School and two years (1947-48) as backfield coach at Wagner College under Jim Lee Howell, who later became head coach of the Giants and who is now Joe's immediate superior in the club's scouting division. Sulaitis was in private business from 1953 until 1966, when he rejoined his old ball club as an area scout.

ANTHONY PISANI, M. D.
Team Orthopedic Surgeon

Dr. Anthony (Tony) Pisani, Chief Orthopedic Surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City, Clinical Professor of Orthopedic Surgery at Bellvue Medical College and consultant to the Surgeon General of the U.S. Army, has been associated with the Football Giants for the past ten years, the last eight as team orthopedic surgeon. In this capacity, he has prolonged the careers of many top Giant players, among them Tucker Frederickson and Greg Larson, and at the same time has won distinction among his fellow medical practitioners. As one of the most skilled orthopedic men in professional sports. It is a matter of record that Dr. Pisani's surgical techniques for repairing torn knee ligaments have been copied by doctors from other pro football teams, as well as those from basketball and baseball. Athletes are sent to Tony from all parts of the country by coaches and trainers who are familiar with his great success in this area of surgery. Dr. Pisani, a native New Yorker, graduated from Fordham U. in 1931, received his medical degree from New York University and Bellvue Medical School and then spent five years there specializing in orthopedic surgery. From 1941-45, he was chief orthopedic surgeon for U.S. Army hospitals here and abroad.

RUDY BONO, M. D.
Team Physician

As they say, Dr. Rudy Bono had "a tough act to follow" when he joined the medical staff of the New York Giants back in 1967 as the successor to Dr. Francis J. Sweeney, who had died the previous year. Doc Sweeney had been with the ball club for over 35 years and was something of a walking legend in the NFL, and his shoes would be hard to fill. But in the ensuing seven years, Rudy Bono has left his own mark on the Giants and and is now regarded as one of the top team physicians in the league. The 45 year-old resident of Englewood, N.J., forms one half of the Giants' medical team. He is responsible for the general health problems of players and coaches while his confederate, Dr. Tony Pisani, concerns himself with the orthopedic problems. Dr. Bono, a bouncy little fellow, received a BS from Union College in 1950 and his MD from Albany Medical College in 1954. He did his surgical internship at St. Vincent's in New York City from 1954-55 and then served for three years as a Navy lieutenant (1955-57). In 1965, he became associate attending surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital and, the same year, was appointed assistant professor of clinical surgery at the New York University-Bellvue Medical Center.

JOHN DZIEGIEL
Physical Fitness Director

John Dziegiel, one of the best known and most widely respected trainers in the sports field, has a career that dates back over 40 years to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. John started in 1928 by assisting the regular West Point trainers with rubdowns; in 1930, he became a fulltime assistant trainer and stayed at The Point until 1944. From 1946 through 1967, Dziegiel was head trainer at Fordham University, dividing his time between Rose Hill and Yankee Stadium, where he was co-trainer, along with John Johnson, for the Football Giants, a post he acquired in 1956. An acknowledged authority on sports injuries and treatment, John helped found the National Association of Athletic Trainers and is also active in the Eastern Athletic Trainers' Association. He and his family live in Nanuet, N.Y. Dziegiel now devotes his full time and energies to a year-round physical training and conditioning program for the Giants. Players living in the New York metropolitan area work regularly with John in the off-season.

JOHN JOHNSON
Trainer

John Johnson, a graduate of the Swedish Institute of Physical Therapy, has been a trainer for the Giants for the past 22 years and, during this period, also has served as head trainer and physical instructor at Manhattan College. After serving an internship period at Brooklyn Jewish and Long Island College Hospitals (1937-38), Johnson worked as a physical trainer for the Bedford YMCA and then, from 1942-46, was in charge of physical therapy and rehabilitation at a U.S. Air Force base hospital. His service hitch included duty as a physical therapy instructor, athletic trainer for post teams and as an air-sea rescue medic. From 1946-47, John was a civilian athletic trainer at the U.S. Naval Preflight School at Ottumwa, Ia. A member of the Eastern and National Athletic Trainers' Associations as well as the National Physical Therapy Association, Johnson also has served as a trainer for visiting teams at Madison Square Garden (1954-63). He lives in Cresskill, N.J., with his wife and two daughters.

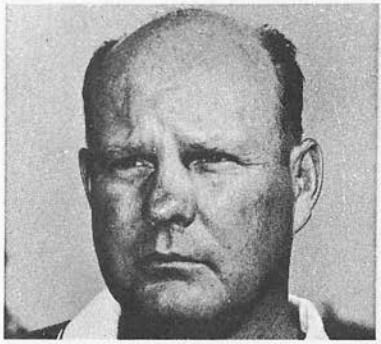

SID MORET
Equipment Manager —Assistant Trainer

For the past 25 years, Sid Moret has been an invaluable contributor to the behind-the-scenes operations of the New York Giants. He has filled a variety of necessary roles, including equipment manager, assistant trainer and director of clubhouse morale. Sid, a New Yorker all the way (via Brooklyn, that is), is a product of New York University. He joined the staff of the Giants in 1949 (the same year as co-trainer John Johnson) and assumed the dual role of equipman and part-time trainer. Moret worked with the N.Y.U. Athletic Association after leaving school and, during World War II, he was associated with the Gene Tunney physical fitness program in the U.S. Navy (1943-45). In 1946-47, Sid was introduced to professional sports as trainer for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the old All America Conference. Prior to joining the Giants, Brooklyn-born Moret handled the training chores for Brooklyn College (1948-49). At various times Sid has also served as trainer for basketball teams visiting Madison Square Garden.

HARRY BUFFINGTON
SCOUT

During his 35-odd years in football, Harry Buffington has gained wide experience on virtually every level of the game, experience that he now brings to the Giants' scouting department. In his time, the Pryor, Okla., native has been player, coach, scout, recruiter and personnel expert. His professional playing experience includes one year with the Giants (1942) when he played running back, guard and linebacker; and three years with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the AAC (1946-48). As a collegian, Harry was an all-conference wingback and blocking back for three years at Oklahoma A&M. He received a Master's Degree in secondary school administration there in 1947. Buffington was head coach and athletic director at Austin College in Texas from 1951-54 and from 1955-62 was defensive coach at Oklahoma State. He filled the same role at Texas Tech in 1963 and then coached the defense for the Edmonton Eskimos in Canada (1964-65). Since 1966, Harry has been an area scout with CEPO.

FRANK (POP) IVY
SCOUT

With the start of the 1972 NFL season, Frank (Pop) Ivy began his second tour of duty as a scout for the Giants. A veteran of head coaching assignments in three major professional leagues (the NFL, AFL and Canada), Ivy first joined the New York organization as defensive line coach in 1965. He held that post through the 1966 season and then left to head up scouting operations in the southwest. Coach Alex Webster talked Pop back into coaching in 1971 and he returned to New York from his home in Norman, Okla., to tutor the offensive line. Now, for the second time in his Giant career, the veteran football man is once again the club's chief talent hunter in the southwest. Ivy has a broad background in pro football. He was head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos in Canada (1954-57), head coach of the Chicago Cardinals in the NFL (1958-61) and then head coach of the Houston Oilers of the AFL (1962-63). An All-American college player at the U. of Oklahoma, Pop saw NFL service as an end with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals.

KEN KAVANAUGH
SCOUT

Ken Kavanaugh, one of the most famous names in National Football League history, joined the Giants' scouting staff in 1971 and brought with him a wealth of experience as both a professional player and coach. Actually, Kavanaugh moved into the Giants' scouting department from the coaching staff, where he had been offensive end coach from 1955-68 and offensive coach from 1969-70, a total of 16 years under three head coaches, Jim Lee Howell (his current scouting superior), Allie Sherman and Alex Webster. Prior to becoming a Giant aide, the Pro Hall of Fame end had spent one season (1951) as end coach for his old club, the Chicago Bears, and one season (1954) at Villanova College in his hometown of Philadelphia. As a player, Ken was one of the Bear greats. He starred at end in 1940-41, left for an Air Force tour of duty and returned to make All Pro again in 1946-47. At LSU, Kavanaugh was a four-year regular (1936-40), twice earning All American honors.

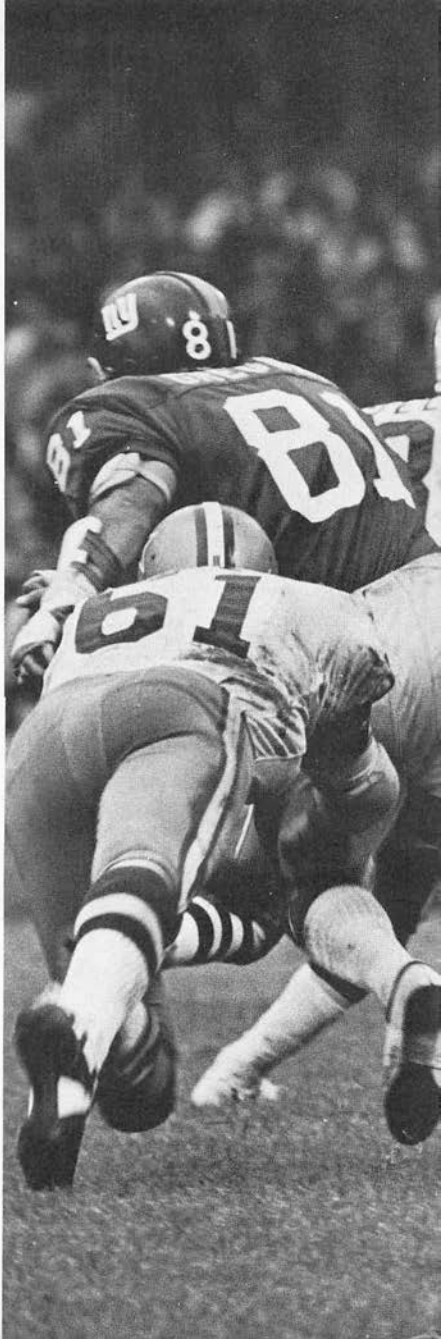

ROSEY BROWN
SCOUT

Roosevelt Brown's appointment to the Giants' scouting staff in 1971 signaled the beginning of yet another era in his outstanding career with the New York ball club. From 1953 through 1965, Rosey ranked as one of the all-time great offensive linemen in the National Football League, a big, fast, wide-ranging tackle, who earned All Pro honors six times, was selected to play in the Pro Bowl on eight occasions and, in 1956, was voted Lineman of the Year in the NFL. When a phlebitis condition forced him to retire in 1966, Brown was immediately named assistant line coach by the Giants, a post he held until 1969 when he became head line coach, replacing Jim Trimble. In 1971, Brown, along with another coaching aide, Ken Kavanaugh, left Alex Webster's staff to assume new responsibilities under Jim Lee Howell, his onetime coach, in the scouting department. Rosey, now 43, is a resident of Teaneck, N.J., but spends a good deal of his time on the road in search of fresh talent for the Giants.

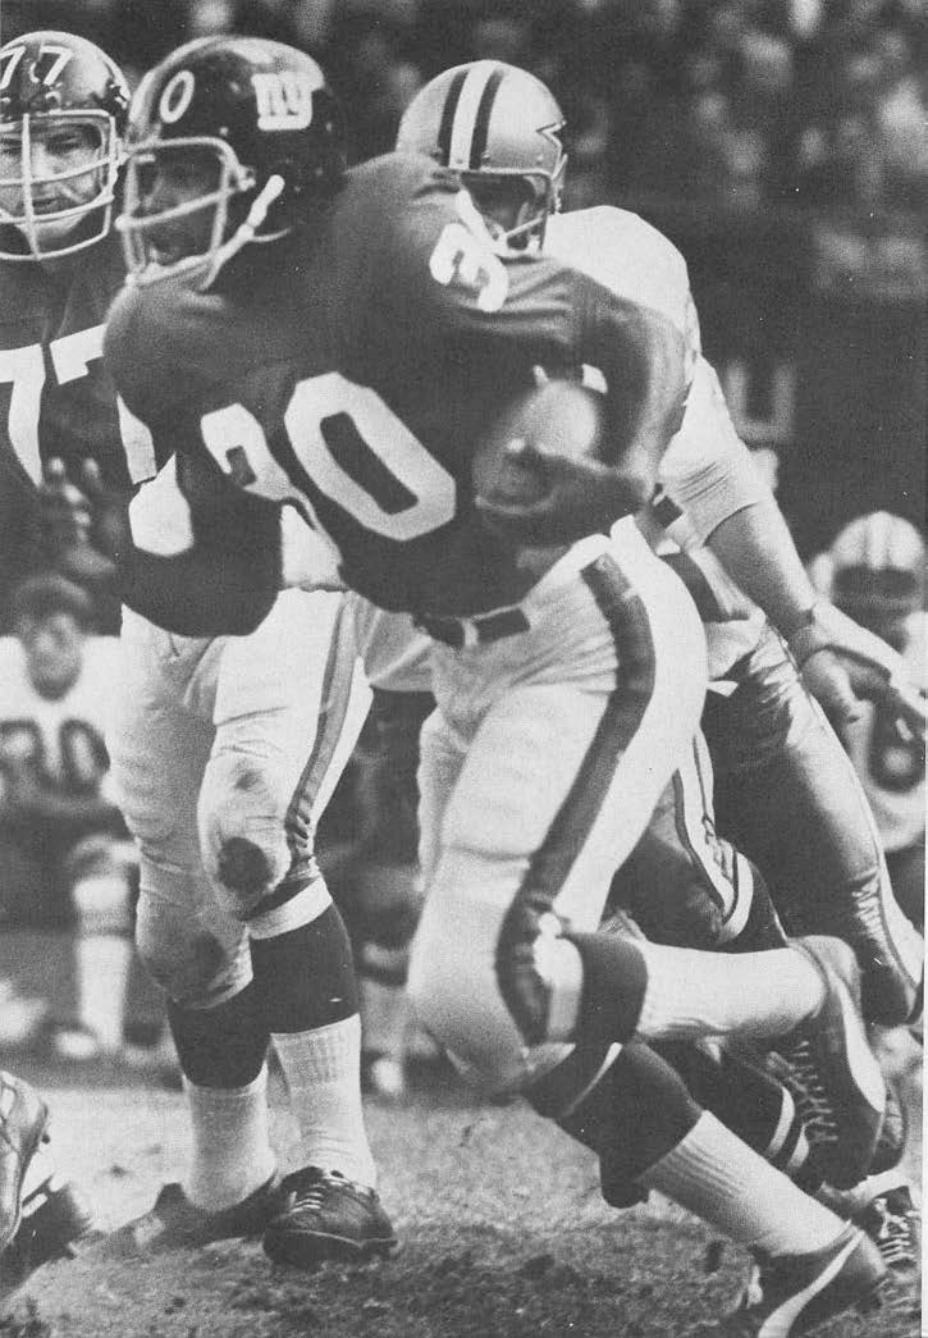

JERRY SHAY
Scout

Former Giants defensive tackle Jerry Shay serves as the Giants' scout in the Western States area, including the West Coast and several other states such as Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas. A native of Gary, Ind., the 30-year-old Shay played for the Minnesota Vikings, Atlanta Falcons and Giants before a broken leg in the final game of the 1970 season ended his playing career. A 6-3, 250-pounder, Jerry was the Vikings' No. 1 draft choice in 1966 after an All-Star career at Purdue. He played two years with the Vikings, then was traded to the Falcons in 1968 where he was a starting tackle for two years. Jerry came to the Giants in 1970 and was a starter for all of that season, a 9-5 year for the Giants. He never recovered fully from the broken leg and retired after the 1971 season in which he appeared in only six games, and has served as a scout since 1972. An All-American for two years at Purdue, Jerry was born on July 10, 1944 in Gary into a family named Dzedzeji (since changed to Shay). He's married to the former Cynthia Zajkowski and has a daughter, Tiffany Leigh, 5.

Delta State — 6-5 250 29 — Okolona, Miss.

PRO: Giants obtained Gregory from the Cleveland Browns just before training camp last year after Jack had played out his option, with No. 1 draft choice going to Cleveland. That proved to be one of the finest acquisitions in years for the Giants as Gregory had an outstanding year and added much-needed sinew to the Giants' front four. Gregory led the NFL in sacking opposing passers, getting to the quarterback 21 times by himself—three more than the entire Giant team did in 1971. For his superb play, Gregory was a first-team All-NFL selection and was named to the Pro Bowl. Last year, hampered by personal problems at home because of his critically ill infant son, Jack's totals fell off somewhat, but he did account for 9 solo sacks and two more assists before an ankle injury sidelined him. Jack was a No. 9 choice of the Browns as a future in 1965 and spent four seasons as a starter with the Browns, getting a second-team All-AFC berth in 1970 and a trip to the Pro Bowl that season also. In his very first game as a rookie, Don caught two TD passes in the final quarter to lead a 24-23 upset of the Vikings at Yankee Stadium and went on to grab 33 for 423 yards and five TDs that season. Herrmann had his best year in 1973, catching 43 for 520 yards and two TDs to finish second among Giant receivers and in the top 10 of the NFC. Don runs excellent patterns, and is adept at catching the ball in close quarters. In five seasons, he's fumbled only once . . . another indication of his good hands.

RICHARD HOUSTON — Wide Receiver — 6th Year

E. Texas State 6-2 197 28 Newark, N.J.

PRO: Houston was the Giants' No. 4 draft choice for 1969, spent two seasons learning the ropes as a reserve pass catcher and kick return specialist and, in 1971, finally earned himself starting status as a wide receiver. With 9.7 speed and a yardage-eating stride, Dick has the credentials needed to become a genuine long-bomb threat but thus far costly dropped passes have delayed his development. In 1971, he caught 24 for 426 yards (a 17.8 average) and four touchdowns. In 1972, Pat won a starting job at outside LB and turned in an outstanding year, getting two pass interceptions and playing tough against the run. He also had one QB "sack" and recovered one enemy fumble. Last year, he continued his fine all-around play, upping his interceptions to three for 13 yards returned, getting another "sack" and recovering a fumble.

SCHOOL: Pat was a genuine two-way performer at Boston U., playing both center and linebacker, but it was as a defensive specialist that he made the biggest impact on pro scouts. He co-captained Boston U., was the team's MVP on defense and earned All-East and All-New England honors in 1969.

Texas A&I — 6-3 205 30 — Tampa, Fla.

PRO: Johnson was a No. 1 draft pick of the expansionist Atlanta Falcons in 1966. He was the Falcons starting quarterback until a knee injury (requiring surgery) sidelined him midway through the 1969 season. After that, he shared the quarterback spot with Bob Berry. Prior to the start of the 1971 season he came to the Giants in the trade that involved Dick Shiner. As a back-up man behind Fran Tarkenton, Randy saw only limited duty, completing 41 of 74 for 477 yards and three TDs. In the final game against Philadelphia, however, he completed 30 of 47 for 372 yards and three TDs. That performance got him into the Giants' record book; his 47 attempts were second only to Charlie Conerly's 53 tries in 1948, and his 30 completions were second to Conerly's 36, also in 1948. The 372 yards put him in the No. 2 spot behind Y.A. Tittle (505). Randy won the the No. 1 job in training camp in 1972, then was injured against the Jets in pre-season, with Norm Snead taking over. Randy was hurt again in the regular season against Dallas, and saw only limited action the rest of the way. Last year, he shared the starting honors with Snead.

A No. 1 draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1969, Ron had 472 yards rushing there in his rookie season, then came to the Giants in the key 1970 trade for Homer Jones. He hit 1,027 yards his first year with the Giants to set a club one-season record and led New York to a 9-5 season, making All-Pro and the Pro Bowl. In 1971, thigh and knee injuries sidelined him for all but two games, but in '72 he came back for another banner year rushing for 1,182 yards and again winning All-Pro and Pro Bowl designations. Last year, despite missing two games and half of another, he added 902 yards. He already holds club marks for most TDs one game (4); rushing yardage one season (1,182); and rushing attempts one season (298) and is closing in on all of the other career rushing marks as well. Bob caught 40 passes for 571 yards and five TDs that year and came very close to winning the NFL's Rookie of the Year award. In 1971, he became the first tight end in NFL history to take a receiving title when he caught 59 for 791 and four TDs. Additionally, he was the first Giant end to earn an individual title since 1935, when Tod Goodwin led the league. Tucker came back with another great season in 1972, winning All-NFL honors for the first time, grabbing 55 passes for 764 yards. He also now has the club mark of catching passes in 45 consecutive games. In 1973, Tucker again led the club with 50 catches to move past the 200th mark and added five more TDs. "Reggie", as his teammates call him, rates as one of the top guards in the NFL and had an outstanding year in 1972 as a leader of one of the most outstanding offensive lines in the NFL, a line which helped the Giants finish No. 1 in offense in the NFC. September 23 GIANTS 23, Eagles 23 (62,289) At Yankee Stadium

A wild and wooly one which saw Giants take a 20-16 lead in waning minutes, only to have Eagles go ahead 23-20 with less than 2:00 to play on Roman Gabriel TD toss to Harold Carmichael . . . and then Giants tie it at the gun on Pete Gogolak's 14-yard FG. Ron Johnson had 112 yards rushing, but also went down with leg injury. Three other Giants – Vin Clements, Pat Hughes and Richmond Flowers also injured. Bob Tucker had eight receptions in the action.

September 30 GIANTS 10, Browns 12 (76,065) At Cleveland

With five regulars sidelined with injuries, Giants nonetheless built a 10-0 halftime lead with solid defense which intercepted two passes, recovered two fumbles and sacked Browns' Mike Phipps six times. Then Browns turned it around with interceptions of their own to set up four FGs by Don Cockroft, last of which won game in final two minutes. Giants blew last-second opportunities with a roughing the kicker penalty and a killing interception.

October 7 GIANTS 14, Packers 16 (70,050) At Yale Bowl

Playing again without injured Ron Johnson and Vin Clements, plus three other starters, Giants again succumbed to last-second miseries. On top 14-13 after a Norm Snead to Bob Grim TD pass, the Giants were stunned by a long punt returned, two quick pass completions and a 32-yard Chester Marcol FG with 5 seconds to play to give Packers the win. Snead had 21 completions in the game, with Bob Tucker grabbing eight of them.

October 14 GIANTS 3, Redskins 21 (70,168) At Yale Bowl

Redskins used four pass interceptions to overcome an early 3-0 Giant lead as turnovers continued to plague the New Yorkers. One of those interceptions was a 28-yard TD return by 'Skins Dave Robinson which broke game wide open in final period. Giants sacked Sonny Jurgensen three times and intercepted him three times, but offense could not take advantage of those turnovers. Ron Johnson returned after two games to rush for 75 yards, but overall offense sagged.

Trailing only 17-14 in the third period, Giants fell apart in final 20 minutes as Cowboys blocked two Jim McCann punts for pair of scores. Randy Johnson replaced Norm Snead in final period and threw for pair of touchdowns, but Cowboys rushing attack by then had made mincemeat of Giant defense. Giants had a go-ahead TD by Ron Johnson in that third period nullified by holding penalty.

October 28 GIANTS 27, Cardinals 35 (47,589) At St. Louis

In his first start of the year, Randy Johnson completed 28 passes for 348 yards, but despite all of that offense the defense again was burned by the Jim Hart to Mel Gray combination which produced three touchdowns. Giants trailed 14-10 at half, stayed close into final period, then saw Hart hit Gray on 55 and 41-yard TD connections. Inability to stop opposition on third and long situations continued to haunt the New Yorkers.

November 4 GIANTS 0, Raiders 42 (51,200) At Oakland

In as one-sided a defeat as the club had ever suffered through, the Giants were intercepted four times, fumbled it away twice and were generally manhandled on both offense and defense. It was the first shutout the Giants had suffered in five years, and Bob Tucker's consecutive game streak of pass receptions also ended – at 45. John Mendenhall was lost for the season, as well, with a knee injury.

New York rallied to close to 13-10 at half-time, but the Cowboy defense shut the door in the second half. Turnovers again haunted the Giants as the Cowboys intercepted Randy Johnson four times.

Snead's 45-yard TD pass to Ron Johnson broke a 10-10 tie in the third period and ex-Cardinal Johnny Roland's 1-yard slant clinched the win in the final period. Ron Johnson rushed for 91 yards and scored a pair of touchdowns and linebacker Pat Hughes had a key interception and fumble recovery in the final quarter. Perhaps the toughest loss of the year. Giants did everything right en route to a 21-3 lead in the first half with Randy Johnson firing a pair of TD passes, and New Yorkers were still on top 24-13 in final period only to have Sonny Jurgensen engineer two late TD drives to pull it out for Redskins in final minutes. Jurgy had come on in relief of Billy Kilmer, kayoed with injury in first half. Ron Johnson had 90 yards rushing, scored two TDs.
