PRESENTS THE

EAGLES' ALL-TIME TEAM

STEVE VAN BUREN, Back, 1944-51—While he played for the Eagles, Steve Van Buren was regarded as the greatest ball carrier in the history of the National Football League. And, he set six running records to prove it.

During his eight years as the scourge of Eagles' opponents, Van Buren led the league in rushing four seasons and hit the high of 1,146 yards in 1949—a mark that lasted until Jimmy Brown ground out 1,527 for the Cleveland Browns in 1958. Van Buren was named to the All-NFL team five times and spearheaded the Eagles to world championships in 1948 and 1949.

In the '48 title game against the Cardinals at Connie Mack Stadium, Steve scored the game's only touchdown in a blinding snow storm. A year later in Los Angeles, he waded through mud and torrential rain for 196 yards rushing, a record still on the NFL books.

This all-time Eagles' team was selected by working newspapermen, radio and TV sportscasters regularly assigned to cover Eagles' games. Because of an unbreakable deadlock, the offensive team was selected with 12 players.

...Eagles Aim To Fly Higher!

The "new" Eagles are a full season old, and the new look is aimed squarely at a rise in the National Football League standings.

Tireless Joe Kuharich, who added the general manager's mantle to his coaching assignment at the start of last season, is embarked on the second phase of a rebuilding and revitalizing program that's zeroed in on a championship.

Joe's six big trades in his first season last fall brought new faces and new talents into the Eagles' nest. The Birds started strong, picked up new momentum in the middle of the campaign, but, hit with a rash of injuries, sputtered at the end for a 6-8 record that earned third position in the Eastern Conference.

Now, with problems of a "freshman" year behind, the Eagles are looking to blend experience and youth into a team that will hold up as a contender throughout the winter.

"We need more coordinated team play, improved offensive line play and strength at defensive end and in our defensive secondary," coach Kuharich says summarily. He also, naturally, wants fewer fumbles and a healthy squad.

Kuharich's training camp contingent at Hershey, Pa., consisted of 78 players—42 veterans and 36 rookies. The rookie corps included two All-Americans and a number of heralded performers from lesser known colleges that consistently turn out top football products.

Ollie Matson and Jim Ringo started their 13th NFL seasons, George Tarasovic his 12th, Sam Baker his 11th and Pete Retzlaff his 10th—the entire decade, incidentally, with the Eagles.

The full training season was scheduled for Hershey this year, although the Eagles took off for Minneapolis and Los Angeles to test the Vikings and Rams in pre-season frays.

Two official changes occurred in the Eagles' front office. Ed Snider advanced to vice-president and treasurer from the latter post and business manager Joe King added the title of assistant treasurer.

Philadelphia's loyal fans greeted the Eagles' exciting "Sound of Brass" with great enthusiasm last year, and the 100-piece band with accompanying drum majors, colorguard and bevy of pretty Eaglette cheerleaders will return to continue its top level entertainment.

President Jerry Wolman hasn't changed his ideas since he became the Eagles' chief executive last year.

"Our only goal," he still says with his cheery smile, "is to give Philadelphia a winner!"

1960 WORLD CHAMPIONS

JOSEPH LAWRENCE KUHARICH

GENERAL MANAGER—COACH

Born: April 14, 1917, South Bend, Ind. . . . Married: Madelyn Eleanor Umholz . . . Children: Joseph Lawrence, Jr., 19; William Martin, 12 . . . Playing Career: 1935-37, guard at Notre Dame; 1940-41 and '45, guard with Chicago Cardinals . . . Coaching Career: 1946, line, Pittsburgh Steelers; 1947, line, University of San Francisco; 1948-51, head coach, San Francisco; 1952, head coach, Chicago Cardinals; 1954-58, head coach, Washington Redskins; 1959-62, head coach, Notre Dame; Eagles since 1964. In 1953 served as scout for Detroit Lions, Pittsburgh Steelers.

A veteran coach and football administrator with experience covering two decades, Joe Kuharich has guided nationally-ranked college elevens and three clubs, the Cardinals, Redskins and Eagles in the National Football League. His background also includes service as a technical scout in the NFL and as supervisor of officials for pro football's major league—where he was able to objectively observe every NFL team in action and gain extensive knowledge of every player in the loop . . . Taking over the Eagles' helm for the 1964 season, Kuharich quickly became "Trader Joe" as he sent a host of the club's veterans to other teams for new faces as a primary step in rebuilding the Birds. Injuries continued to plague the Eagles, but the "new" club fashioned a creditable 6-8 record and finished third in the Eastern Conference . . . Revitalizing teams really is nothing new to the big, wavy-haired Kuharich. He piloted the Redskins into second place in two years and won "Coach-of-the-Year" honors . . . Joe feels he must be a master blender if the Eagles are to improve in 1965. "We have to improve our offensive line play and gain strength at defensive end and in our defensive secondary," Joe says. "We're looking for more coordinated team play." . . . Hard work has been an integral part of Joe Kuharich's life almost since he was born 48 years ago in South Bend, Ind. He weighed only 150 pounds as a high school guard and only his aggressiveness kept him from being sidetracked. By the time he entered Notre Dame (1934) his weight leaped to 185, and he was first-string for two seasons at college . . . He continued his fiery play with the Cardinals and in his second year called signals from his guard spot and earned all-NFL honors. Joe spent the next four years in the Navy, earning a lieutenant's commission as an anti-submarine patrol officer, and returned to the Cardinals in 1945 to complete his final season as a player.

Walston is the Eagles' liaison with BLESTO—the Bears, Lions, Eagles, Steelers Talent Organization—which correlates year-round scouting reports on all college players who may be National Football League prospects . . . BLESTO is a combine of eight seasoned scouts, all former players and/or coaches, who pool talent information for these four NFL clubs on a fulltime basis. College players are rated in the spring and during the fall season, and the Bears, Lions, Eagles and Steelers each receive identical copies of the rating report. BLESTO scouts then meet with officials of the four clubs and run through a mock player draft so that each team gets a complete rundown of the abilities and pro potential of some 300 collegians each year . . . An all-purpose kicker and one of the National Football League's top punters, Sam Baker is the Eagles' kickoff specialist and field goal booter. He set an Eagles' season mark last fall by booting 16 field goals to break Bobby Walston's record of 14 set back in 1960 and equalled in 1961. Baker kicked three-pointers in eight straight games last season. He ranks second in all-time National Football League annals with 105 field goals, second only to the 198 booted by Cleveland's Lou Groza.

There's more spirit to it.

TIMMY BROWN

22

Position: Halfback

Born: 5/24/37

Height: 5'11 Weight: 198

College: Ball State (Ind.)

Eagle: 6th Year

NFL: 7th Year

Residence: Philadelphia

Out for four games with thigh injury that required surgery, Timmy nevertheless accounted for highly respectable 356 yards in remaining 10 last season and wound up club's second best scorer with 60 points on 10 TDs (five rushing, five receiving). In 1963, he provided most of the excitement with sensational 841 yards rushing—highest ever by an Eagle other than club recordholder Steve Van Buren (1146 in 1949). Brown's 2425 yards total offense in '63 set a National Football League record. Great runner with speed and maneuverability, Tim also is a popular singer with several records on the market.

Why is Ballantine Beer like a 95-yard punt return?

There's more spirit to it.

Why is Ballantine Beer...
like a 60-yard TD pass,
like a 50-yard field goal,
like a 95-yard punt return,
like a goal-line stand?

There's more spirit to it...
THAT'S WHY!

Ballantine beer..

there's more spirit to it.
