Veterans Stadium

Veterans Stadium, the Eagles' two-year-old home, is undoubtedly one of the nation's finest multi-purpose stadiums. Known to millions in the Delaware Valley as "The Vet," the stadium was completed in 1971 on a 74-acre site in South Philadelphia at a cost in excess of $50 million.

The Philadelphia sports complex of which Veterans Stadium is a part also contains the Spectrum, home of the NHL's Philadelphia Flyers and NBA's Philadelphia 76ers, and the John F. Kennedy Stadium which annually hosts the Army-Navy football game.

The Eagles played their first NFL season at Veterans Stadium in 1971 after the completion of the Philadelphia Phillies National League baseball season. The Eagles and Phils both maintain their executive offices at city owned and operated Veterans Stadium.

The Birds' first victory in "The Vet" was a 34-28 pre-season decision over Buffalo on August 16, 1971. The first championship season win came at the expense of the New York Giants, 23-7, on October 24, 1971.

This season, the Eagles' third in Veterans Stadium, will again see an anticipated seven straight championship game sellouts. Seating capacity for football at "The Vet" is currently listed at 65,720.

Eagles' 1973 Outlook

New faces highlight the Philadelphia Eagles' preview in 1973, new faces on the coaching staff, on the playing field and even in the training room.

Under head coach Mike McCormack and his staff of "teachers and winners," the Birds will attempt to greatly improve on last year's disastrous 2-11-1 record.

McCormack has good reason to believe that he can accomplish his goal with the products of an outstanding draft, three key trade acquisitions, and some talented returnees.

"As an opposing coach last year," Mike says, "the Eagles impressed me as a tough defensive ballclub. They held us (Washington) to our lowest output of the season (14 points) up to the Super Bowl and I don't believe that the nucleus that returns is indicative of the 2-11-1 record."

With that in mind, McCormack set out to strengthen specific areas rather than undertaking a large scale roster revision.

The draft brought in tackle Jerry Sisemore, guard Guy Morriss and tight end Charles Young to shore up an offensive line that McCormack calls "our top priority area for improvement.

"If our line improves, I am certain that our running and passing games will improve also," he says.

Returnees up front from 1972 include center Mike Evans, guards Mark Nordquist, Tom Luken and Vern Winfield, and tackles Wade Key, Steve Smith and Richard Stevens. Steve Wright, a 10-year NFL veteran, is a tackle acquired from St. Louis in the off-season.

That group and the young additions will be charged with opening the holes for seven running backs that McCormack labels "possibly the best group, as a whole, as there is in the league."

Mike's first major trade acquisition, Norm Bulaich, will be counted on heavily as will Lee Bouggess who sat out all of last season with a knee injury. Second year man "Po" James, the club rushing leader last year, returns as do Larry Watkins, Tom Bailey, Tom Sullivan, and Larry Crowe.

The Birds will likely have five quarterbacks in training camp, but the newest Eagle, Roman Gabriel, has to be rated the probable starter for 1973.

McCormack traded wide receiver Harold Jackson, running back Tony Baker, and three high draft choices to obtain Gabriel from Los Angeles but says that "the price we paid will only be considered high if we don't develop into a winner.

"Gabe gives us poise and the leadership a young team needs," Mike continues. "With him I think we can compete with anyone."

The addition of Gabriel is also expected to hasten the learning experience of young John Reaves who, along with veteran Pete Liske, will probably be Roman's main competitors. Strong armed Rick Arrington and young Jim Maxwell fill out the pre-season quarterback roster.

Despite the departure of Jackson, the Eagles retain some fine talent at wide receiver and at tight end where Charles Young is expected to be of considerable value to the Birds' running and passing attacks.

Veteran Ben Hawkins leads the outside receivers along with 6-8 Harold Carmichael, 1972 taxi squadder Don Zimmerman and kick returner Billy Walik.

"The trade of Jackson brings (6th round choice) Bob Picard into the wide receiver picture too," McCormack says.

Defensively the Eagles will feature a few new faces but the unit will greatly resemble the 1972 aggregation for the most part.

Even before veteran defensive end Gerry Philbin was acquired in a trade with Kansas City, McCormack was calling the defensive line "probably as talented a group as we have any place on our football team.

"Philbin's addition gives us another proven pass rusher to take some heat off Mel Tom, our most effective man last year," McCormack says.

It also allows former end Richard Harris to move to a defensive tackle post where his size and quickness should complement veteran Gary Pettigrew. "They should give us a front four to rank with any in the league," McCormack says, "but none of them can rest with a veteran like Don Hultz or men like Larry Estes or (10th round choice) Will Wynn pushing them."

Steve Zabel, coming off a knee injury and a short experience at middle linebacker, is expected to man an outside linebacker spot as is steady veteran Ron Porter.

In the middle, it will probably be seven-year man Dick Absher with Ike Kelley and Bill Cody as other experienced candidates.

Bill Bradley has led the NFL in interceptions for the past two years and is a fixture at free safety. "In Bradley I feel we have one of the two best free safeties in the league," McCormack says, "and our cornerbacks, Nate Ramsey and Al Nelson, are more than adequate."

That leaves the strong safety position formerly held by Leroy Keyes who has been traded to Kansas City as part of the Philbin deal.

Leading candidates for the vacancy are veteran Kermit Alexander and impressive 3rd round choice, Randy Logan.

Key specialists include kicker Tom Dempsey and punters Bill Bradley or former NFC leader Tom McNeill.

McCormack stresses the importance of developing a winning attitude from the first day of training camp.

"I believe winning becomes a habit and so does losing," he says. "We'll try to win during the pre-season to establish that kind of attitude and at the same time accomplish what we have to accomplish. But we'll play all of our games with the idea of winning."

LEONARD H. TOSE, President

Leonard H. Tose, owner and president of the Philadelphia Eagles' Football Club, is looking forward to the 1973 NFL season perhaps more than any of the previous four campaigns under his ownership.

Tose's optimism is based largely on the measure of stability that the Eagles have acquired with the appointment of Mike McCormack, Tose's personal choice, as head coach.

The future appears to be a bright one, indeed, and that is particularly good news to Leonard Tose, who traces his relationship with the Eagles back to the days when he purchased season tickets to support the fledgling team in a time when the Eagles were hardly the attraction that they are today.

In later years, Leonard joined a group of stockholders which oversaw the Birds' last world championship season in 1960.

Then in 1969, Tose realized a longtime dream when he purchased the Eagles for a sum in excess of $16 million. That figure still stands as one of the highest prices ever paid for a sports franchise.

Tose is a native of Bridgeport, Pa. where his late father, Mike, founded Tose Trucking Co., the family business over which Leonard now presides as president. He also serves as president of another large Delaware Valley concern, the K&S Canning Co. also of Bridgeport.

The Eagles' owner is justifiably proud of the effort that has made Tose Trucking a leader in its field.

"My father started carrying things on his back and finally got a truck and then another," Leonard recalls, "and it was hard work that started Tose Trucking."

He joined the business with his father and late brother, Louis, after serving with a military police unit during World War II, and has served in virtually every position from driver to the presidency.

Leonard is well known for his assistance to the various charitable organizations that have sought his aid.

Late in the summer of 1971, Tose's personal donation of $79,000 helped insure the survival of the Philadelphia school system's varsity football program after all extracurricular activities were threatened by financial difficulties.

Tose is also an active supporter of the highly successful athletic program at the University of Notre Dame. Leonard saw some gridiron action for the Fighting Irish before graduating in 1937.

As one of the NFL's "working owners," Tose will remain close to the operation of the Eagles while granting coach McCormack full autonomy in the football phase of the business.

When Tose won control of the Eagles in 1969, he promised the team's supporters "the return of the world championship to Philadelphia and its loyal fans.

"I know most of the owners in the league believe their own fans are the greatest," Tose says, "but I honestly believe that none can compare with ours. I can't think of another team that has enjoyed the support that we have despite some disappointing years.

"I don't think it will be much longer before we can begin repaying this support with an outstanding football team to represent the City of Philadelphia."

MIKE McCORMACK, Head Coach

When Eagles' owner Leonard H. Tose began the search for a new head coach for his team that had just completed a disastrous 2-11-1 season, he had a number of preconceived notions about the attributes that the new head coach should possess.

"I looked for a man with class, one who was associated with winning football, a good organizer, a guy who got along with players and a man with leadership qualities," Tose said later.

In 43-year-old Mike McCormack, the owner selected a man who possesses all of those qualities in addition to having served his coaching apprenticeship under some of the great names in pro football.

Paul Brown, the Cincinnati Bengals' head coach who coached McCormack during his 10 years as a frequent All-Pro offensive lineman with the Cleveland Browns, was eloquent in praise of his former student.

"Paul's recommendation was so strong," said Tose, "that I had to wonder if there wasn't a blood relationship there." There wasn't, just a strong feeling on Brown's part that McCormack has everything it takes to become a great NFL head coach.

McCormack, a native of Chicago, Ill., moved with his family to Kansas City, Kan. as a youngster and attended De LaSalle High School there.

At the University of Kansas, Mike was an All-Big 7 lineman and was selected to play in the East-West Shrine and College All-Star games before joining the New York Yanks as their number one draft choice. McCormack didn't learn of the honor, however, until reporting to his first pro training camp.

A two-year Army tour of duty interrupted his rookie year with the Yanks and it wasn't until 1954 that Mike saw his first NFL action as a member of the Cleveland Browns. Cleveland had acquired his services as part of a 15-player deal with the Dallas Texans (the former New York Yanks franchise).

Mike retired from football after the 1962 season and spent the next two years as an insurance executive in Kansas City. On a part-time basis he assisted with the Kansas City Chiefs and the College All-Star teams that were then coached by his former Cleveland teammate, Otto Graham.

When Graham became head coach of the Washington Redskins, McCormack joined him as offensive line coach, a position he held for seven years under Graham, the late Vince Lombardi and George Allen.

Mike feels that he has learned something from every football situation that he has encountered.

"I spent the longest time with Paul Brown," he says, "so I believe more of his philosophy remains with me and I hope I can motivate men like Lombardi and Allen."

Motivation will be a key concern for McCormack this season, one which he refuses to write off as a rebuilding year.

"I think the days of building programs are over," he says. "You've got to show results on the field. I'm planning on winning this year if it's humanly possible. That's our goal."

At home in Bryn Mawr, Pa., McCormack is a dedicated family man. He and his wife Ann have four children, Michael, 14; Timothy, 13; Molly, 11; and Colleen, 9.

BOYD DOWLER, Passing Game

Boyd Dowler, the Eagles' passing game coach, packs a wealth of football knowledge into his 35 years of age. Born October 18, 1937 in Rock Springs, Wyo., Dowler played both quarterback and wide receiver at the University of Colorado and went on to gain All-Big 8, College All-Star and East-West Shrine game honors in his college career from 1955 to 1959. Boyd's pro career began in 1959 when the Green Bay Packers made him their 3rd draft choice. Dowler's 6-5, 225-pound frame proved a great target for quarterback Bart Starr and the pair formed one of the most respected pass-catch combinations in NFL history. Boyd retired as a player after the 1969 season to become an assistant coach under George Allen at Los Angeles in 1970. When Allen moved to Washington in 1971, Dowler came along as a player-coach for that season and as a receivers coach only in 1972. At the official end of his playing career, Boyd totaled 474 pass receptions and 40 touchdown catches. He and his wife, Patricia May, and their children, Kristen and Brian, will live in Glen Mills, Pa.

JOHN IDZIK, Offensive Backfield

Philadelphia native John Idzik will be experiencing his first assignment in his hometown after 18 years of college and pro coaching. Idzik, 44 (June 25, 1928), attended North Catholic High School here before going on to the University of Maryland where he won a total of seven varsity letters as a football and baseball star from 1947 to 1957. An 11-year college coaching tenure followed with stints at Maryland from 1956 to 1959 and the University of Detroit where he coached that school's final football team. John began his pro career as an assistant coach of the Miami Dolphins where he remained from 1966 to 1970 when he joined the Baltimore Colts. In Baltimore, Idzik helped develop the potent Colts' rushing attack that led the team to the 1970 Super Bowl title. John is pleased to be reunited in Philadelphia with former Colt fullback Norm Bulaich whom the Eagles acquired in an off-season trade. Together, the two could go a long way in rejuvenating the Birds' ground game. John Idzik and his wife, Joyce, are the parents of three children, Cynthia, Joyce and John. They will reside in Hamorton, Pa.

DICK LeBEAU, Specialty Teams

Young Dick LeBeau, 35, is embarking on his first coaching assignment after a spectacular 14-year playing career with the Detroit Lions. Born Charles Richard LeBeau on September 9, 1937 in London, Ohio, Dick was a 5th round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1959 after an outstanding career as a two-way back at Ohio State. He became one of the Detroit team's greatest bargains after he was released by Cleveland and signed by the Lions in his rookie year. LeBeau went on to play in 171 consecutive games and intercept 62 passes to rank third on the all-time list behind Emlen Tunnell and his former teammate, "Night Train" Lane. Dick was selected to play in three Pro Bowl games and enjoyed his greatest statistical season in 1970 when he picked off nine passes for 96 yards. As a rookie coach, LeBeau will be hard pressed to find time for his number one hobby, golf. The only bachelor on the coaching staff, he is a former NFL Players Association golf champion. Dick plans to make his home in Marple Twp., Pa.

JOHN MAZUR, Defensive Backfield

John Mazur, who has had a lot of experience in devising passing offenses in his 18-year coaching career, will be charged with finding ways to stop opposing air attacks as the Eagles' defensive backfield coach. The former head coach of the New England Patriots hails from Plymouth, Pa. in the Pennsylvania coal regions, long noted for their production of football talent. At 42 (June 17, 1930), John has spent nearly half of his life in football coaching after enjoying an excellent career as a Notre Dame quarterback from 1948 to 1951, and an injury-shortened experience with the Vancouver B.C. Lions of the Canadian League. Mazur coached at Tulane (1955-57), Marquette (1958) and Boston U. (1959-61) before becoming a Lou Saban assistant at Buffalo from 1962 through 1968. He took a similar position with the Patriots in 1969 and became head coach in mid-1970. Mazur resigned from the New England post after nine games last season. The Mazur family includes wife, Bernadine, and children, Cynthia, and John, Jr. They will live in Moorestown, N. J.

WALT MICHAELS, Linebackers

Walt Michaels, 43, enjoys a well earned reputation as one of pro football's certified defensive geniuses. Another product of the Pennsylvania coal country, the Swoyersville native (born there on October 16, 1929) tutored some of the best defensive units in the game during his 10-year career with the New York Jets. Walt starred as a fullback and linebacker at Virginia's Washington and Lee University before starting a pro-playing career that spanned 11 years, one (1951) with the Green Bay Packers and 10 with the Cleveland Browns from 1952 to 1961. During part of that period he was a teammate of both Mike McCormack and John Sandusky. As a Browns' linebacker, Walt played on two NFL championship teams and was selected All-Pro four times. Michaels, brother of former Cleveland great Lou Michaels, began pro coaching in Oakland in 1962 before moving on to the Jets. In New York he was associated with Gerry Philbin, the defensive end acquired by the Eagles from Kansas City in an off-season trade. Walt and Elizabeth Ann Michaels have four children, Walter, Mark, Paul and Mary Ann, and reside in Cherry Hill, N. J.

JOHN SANDUSKY, Offensive Line

Charged with developing the Eagles' offensive line is big John Sandusky, 47, the second native Philadelphian on the staff. John, who was born in South Philadelphia on December 28, 1925 near the site where Veterans Stadium now stands, was educated at Southern High School here and at Villanova University after World War II service as an Army staff sergeant. An All-American tackle at Villanova from 1946 to 1950, Sandusky excelled in the NFL as a two-way tackle with the Cleveland Browns from 1950 to 1955. He closed out his playing career at Green Bay in 1956 before joining his college alma mater as an assistant coach in 1957-58. From Villanova, John went to the Baltimore Colts where he coached both offensive and defensive lines at various times until being named interim head coach in 1972. John's lines at Baltimore consistently ranked with the best and the many players that he developed there have been outspoken in praise of his ability. John and Ruth Mary Sandusky will live in Turnersville, N. J. with their children, John, James, Joseph, Gerry and Ruth.

JERRY WAMPFLER, Defensive Line

The Eagles' defensive line coach, Jerry Wampfler, is a product of Miami of Ohio, the school that has produced some of the great names in the coaching profession. Wampfler, 40 (August 6, 1932), was born in New Philadelphia, Ohio where he played high school football before becoming a standout offensive tackle at Miami from 1951 to 1954. Wampfler was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams but an off-season back injury forced him to miss a pro playing opportunity and he turned to high school coaching at schools in New Philadelphia, Lancaster and Massillon, Ohio. He undertook his first major college assignment at his alma mater from 1963 to 1965 before becoming offensive line coach under another Miami graduate, Ara Parseghian, at Notre Dame. Jerry's first Irish offensive line in 1966 helped ND to the national championship. He left Notre Dame in 1970 to become head coach at Colorado State University where he remained until last year. Jerry and his wife, Carol, have three children, Nan, Jody and Tad. They plan to make their residence in Cherry Hill, N. J.

HERMAN BALL, Director of Player Personnel

In the Philadelphia Eagles' new front office alignment, 62-year-old Herman Ball has assumed the most responsible position of his 29-year NFL career. While retaining the title of director of player personnel, Ball has added many of the duties usually associated with a pro football general manager including contract negotiating and the signing of all rookies and veterans. Herman has an impeccable background for his new duties. After starring at guard at little Davis-Elkins College from 1932 through 1934, Ball coached high school teams at Ridgeley, W. Va. and Cumberland, Md. In 1943 he joined the coaching staff at the University of Maryland and remained there until 1946 while serving concurrently for two years as a Washington Redskins' assistant. Ball went on to become head coach of the 'Skins in 1950-51. In 1955 he joined the Pittsburgh Steelers for a year before a seven-year stint (1956-62) with the Baltimore Colts where his talent judging ability was instrumental in obtaining the great Johnny Unitas. He began his association with the Eagles as an assistant coach in 1964 and was appointed to his present position in 1969. A native West Virginian, Herman lives with his wife, Edna, in suburban King of Prussia, Pa.

JOHN CARSON, Assistant Director of Player Personnel

John Carson, former college and pro receiving standout, has been with the Eagles since 1969. Born in Atlanta, Ga., Carson was a two time All-Southeast Conference choice and a senior All-American before graduating from the University of Georgia in 1954. After appearing in the College All-Star and North-South games, John joined the Washington Redskins who had obtained him from the Cleveland Browns (who had drafted him originally). He led the 'Skins in receiving from 1954 to 1958 until joining the Houston Oilers and helping them to the 1960 AFL championship. After retiring as a player, Carson devoted his time to business interests until joining the Eagles. The Carsons, wife Betty, and children Dianne, and John, reside in Turnersville, N. J.

Jackie Graves, 47, begins his second season as an Eagles' talent scout after performing a similar job with the CEPO scouting combine in 1970-71. Graves, who hails from Lubbock, Texas, played football and majored in physical education at Texas College in Tyler. After college he served as an assistant coach at Texas Southern University for nine years and later coached at his alma mater for two seasons. After working in private business from 1961 through 1965, Jackie joined the A. G. Spaulding Co. for five years (1965-70) while working part time for the New England Patriots' scouting department from 1967 to 1969. Jackie, his wife, Willie, and their three children continue to make their home in the Houston area.

OTHO DAVIS, Head Trainer

The Eagles' new trainer is 39-year-old Otho Davis who brings along impressive credentials from his most recent position as associate trainer of the Baltimore Colts. The Elgin, Texas native holds a B.S. degree in physical education from Lamar Tech and an M.A. degree from Kent State. At Duke University he was a trainer and an assistant professor in the P.E. department from 1965 until joining the Colts in 1971. Otho, a two-year veteran of the Army Medical Corps, graduated from Lamar in 1957 and from Kent State in 1964. While at the Ohio school he was also an instructor in the physical education department. Davis will be joined by two young assistants, Ron O'Neil and Jim Rudd, in the Eagles' training room. Otho and his wife, Joanne, have four sons.

VINCENT J. DiSTEFANO, M.D., Team Physician

Team physician Dr. Vincent J. DiStefano is beginning his third season as chief medical man for the Eagles. Dr. DiStefano, a native of South Philadelphia, is assisted in his care of the Eagles by orthopedic consultant Dr. James E. Nixon, internal specialist Dr. Dick Harrell, and dentist Dr. Francis Loftus. 1972

Bright spots were few and far between in a 2-11-1 season that had begun optimistically at what was to become the Birds' final training camp at Albright College. Individual honors went to two of the smallest Eagles, Bill Bradley and Harold Jackson. Free safety Bradley was an All-Pro choice after again leading the league with 9 interceptions while wide receiver Jackson won All-NFC honors for his 62 receptions, tops in the NFL. General manager Pete Retzlaff resigned at season's end and the entire coaching staff was released. Mike McCormack was named head coach in January, 1973. Attendance: home 460,040; away 384,943; overall 844,983.

The Eagles enjoyed a rebirth in '71 as Ed Khayat directed them to a 6-7-1 record after being named the team's 13th head coach after the first three games of the season. On their way to a 6-2-1 mark in the final nine games, the Birds got great performances from an aggressive young defense featuring the team's last four number one draft choices and NFL interception leader Bill Bradley. Kicker Tom Dempsey saw action in only five games but still managed to lead the league in field goal accuracy (12 of 17) and set a team record with a 54-yard field goal. Punter Tom McNeill was the best in the NFC with a 42.8 average. Attendance: home 457,516; away 389,574; overall 847,090.

Crippling injuries to players like Tom Woodeshick, Bill Bradley and Leroy Keyes helped lead to a disappointing 3-10-1 season for the 1970 Eagles. Hardest hit was the defensive backfield which was almost completely depleted before regular season play began but still featured enough capable replacements to rank second in official league statistics. The overall defense ranked seventh and helped the Birds to a respectable 3-3-1 record over the season's final seven games including a memorable 23-20 upset of the New York Giants at Franklin Field. Veteran tight end Gary Ballman was selected by teammates as Most Valuable Eagle and offensive tackle Wade Key made the NFL's All-Rookie team. Middle linebacker Tim Rossovich, playing all year on an injured ankle, led the defense with 174 combined tackles (85 initial hits, 89 assists). Attendance: home 407,353; away 377,374; overall 784,727.

1969

1969 was totally the year of change for the Eagles. Owner Jerry Wolman sold the team to trucking tycoon Leonard Tose for $16,155,000.00. Tose replaced General Manager-Head Coach Joe Kuharich immediately after the purchase. He named Pete Retzlaff, the former Eagle All-Pro tight end, as his General Manager. Retzlaff then picked Jerry Williams, an ex-Eagle player and Assistant Coach, as the Head Coach. Retzlaff and Tose set right to work trading and reorganizing the entire Eagles organization on and off the field. In trades with the Rams Retzlaff picked up player-coach Irv Cross, Don Chuy, and Joe Carollo for tackle Bob Brown. Fullback Izzy Lang headed west and the Eagles received super receiver Harold Jackson who led the league in pass receiving yardage in his first year with the Eagles. Williams' team finished with a 4-9-1 marker and three Eagles went to the Pro Bowl . . . Tim Rossovich, Dave Lloyd and Harold Jackson. Attendance: home 424,606; away 385,545; overall 810,151.

REVIEW OF EAGLES' 1972 SEASON

Dallas 28, Eagles 6

September 17 at Dallas

Two Tom Dempsey field goals held up for most of the first half before a Craig Morton to Ron Sellers touchdown pass put Dallas ahead to stay in the second period. Harold Jackson began the quest for his eventual NFL receiving title with nine catches for 161 yards. Bill Bradley picked off the first of his nine interceptions for 1972.

A 7-3 Eagles lead held up for most of the first half before Charlie Harraway's second period touchdown put Washington ahead for good. Second year tight end-wide receiver Harold Carmichael scored his first pro touchdown on a 10-yard pass from John Reaves for the Eagles' only score. PRESS BOXES: The Eagles maintain three press boxes, A, B, and C, on the 4th level of Veterans Stadium. All working news media with the proper credentials should enter the press gate (Spectrum side of stadium). With the exception of field photographers, all news media should take the press elevator to the 4th level. (Photographers see below.)

CREDENTIALS: News media representatives on assignment who do not hold season press box credentials should request single game press box reservations in advance by writing or calling the Eagles' Public Relations office, Veterans Stadium, Philadelphia, Pa. 19148 (phone 215-463-2500). Reserved credentials may be picked up at the press gate on game day.

TELEVISION AND RADIO: Network television and visiting radio booths are located in the press box area on the 4th level. TV credentials should be reserved through the network game producer, while visiting radio credentials will be issued to the visiting team's PR man unless other arrangements have been made in advance.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Field photographers should enter the press gate and take the press elevator directly to the 1st (field level) where special identifying arm ribbons are issued in the southwest corner of the stadium (off playing field). All field photographers must wear both a credential and the appropriate ribbon. There is also a photo deck located on the 4th level. Space is available there on a reserved basis. Field photographers are cautioned that the bench area inside the 35-yard lines is off-limits to all non-playing personnel. Field photographers must also remain at least six feet outside of the sideline boundary at all times.

SPORTSCOMM: All requests for Sportscomm service should be directed to Rich Sanderson, 2101 Route 70 East, Cherry Hill, N. J. 08003 (phone 609-442-4111).

TELEPHONE: There is one pay telephone located in press box A. Requests for individual telephone circuits should be directed to Judy Albrite, Bell Telephone Business Office, 3rd Floor, 1911 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. (phone 215-466-9900).

Admission to the press club is strictly limited to members of the news media holding credentials issued by the Eagles. No one else will be admitted to the club.

LOCKERROOMS: Admission to the lockerrooms after the games is governed by credentials issued by the Eagles only. There is no admission to the lockerrooms before the game.
