LEADERSHIP

ALEX G. SPANOS

Owner

Alex Spanos and his wife Faye are shining examples of how the American spirit of hard work and determination can pay off for those willing to follow their dreams.

In 1951 at the age of 27, Alex Spanos decided he could no longer support his growing family on $40 per week working in his father's bakery. So he borrowed $800, purchased a used catering truck and set out on his own by providing catering and support services for the migrant farm workers in California's Central Valley.

From those humble beginnings, Spanos' tireless work ethic built one of the leading real estate and development companies in the industry, and today he is the patriarch of one of the most accomplished and philanthropic families in the United States.

A.G. Spanos Companies builds multi-family housing and master planned communities and is one of the nation's largest family-owned builders. Alex Spanos' personal commitment to quality and integrity is now carried on by his family in the daily operation and management of the San Diego Chargers as well as the companies that bear his name.

Spanos made family part of his formula for business success. The A.G. Spanos organization, including the Chargers, is a family-run operation. Alex turned over the day-to-day operations of the Chargers to his oldest son, Dean, in 1994, 10 years after purchasing the team on Aug. 1, 1984. Today he enjoys retirement and watching his sons, Dean and Michael, along with grandsons A.G. and John guide the Chargers as they celebrate the 31st anniversary of the family's ownership.

Spanos' amazing journey and his passion for giving back is outlined in his autobiography, "Sharing the Wealth: My Story," a compelling first-hand account of the events and decisions in his life that became his basic fundamentals for success.

Spanos' community spirit and generosity are renowned. Few can match the benevolence and philanthropy that Alex and Faye have shown through their support of deserving institutions and community-service efforts.

One of his more generous contributions resulted in the opening of the Alex G. Spanos Heart & Vascular Center in Sacramento. San Diegans have Spanos to thank for the huge economic windfall of two Super Bowls (1998 and 2003) and a Republican National Convention to San Diego. In addition to the millions of dollars donated by Spanos and the Chargers Community Foundation, which he established, the Spanos family has delivered more than $12 million to help

San Diego's youth by supporting education as well as health and fitness programs.

In 2008 the President of the Republic of Greece, Mr. Karolos Papoulias, awarded Spanos the Medal of the Commander of the Order of Honor. The honor came in recognition of his many contributions to the birthplace of his parents.

These acts of caring demonstrate the commitment of a man whose rags-to-riches story has been an inspiring example for others. Though his life has taken him places he never dreamed possible, Spanos continues to reside in his hometown of Stockton, California.

Alex and Faye are celebrating 67 years of marriage in 2015. And they will celebrate with their four children (Dean, Dea, Alexis, Michael and their spouses), 15 grandchildren, and eight great grandchildren.

Chargers Owner Alex Spanos and his wife Faye will celebrate 67 years of marriage in 2015. Spanos purchased the team in 1984.

DEAN A. SPANOS

Chairman of the Board

TRADITION OF GIVING

The Spanos family is recognized as one of pro football's most philanthropic families and one of Southern California's most active and caring contributors. Their financial and emotional support of youth sports and education in San Diego is unmatched.

The Chargers Community Foundation and the Spanos family have provided more than $12 million to support a wide range of services and resources for programs directly affecting youth and families in San Diego County. In 1999, Spanos created the Foundation's largest ongoing program, Chargers Champions, which has provided more than $5 million in direct assistance to San Diego County schools, teachers and students. The program provides grants to improve fitness, nutrition and athletic programs on area campuses.

In 2014 Spanos pledged $500,000 to the University of California-San Diego to upgrade and expand the existing Alex G. Spanos Training Facility, recently renamed the Alex G. Spanos Athletic Performance Center. UCSD is the Chargers' former training camp home and this gift raises the value of the family's support of the institution to more than $1.6 million.

In 2012 following the passing of former Chargers linebacker Junior Seau, Dean and his wife Susie brought a shocked team and community together when they hosted a "Celebration of Life" for Seau in Qualcomm Stadium. The event was seen and heard live by more than 150,000 San Diegans and made it possible for a grieving community to heal and pay tribute to one of San Diego's native sons.

Although such examples of Spanos' largesse are too many to count, a number stand out. In 2000, local student-athletes received a giant boost when the Spanos family and Chargers Community Foundation supplied the initial funding to organize the first-ever freshman football and girls volleyball programs in the 16 San Diego City high schools. The Chargers are the top supporter of the California Interscholastic Federation's (CIF) annual high school football championship games. And the Alex Spanos All-Star Classic, the longest-running high school all-star football game in California, celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2015.

This devotion to youth football led the national Pop Warner organization to name the Chargers its 2015 NFL Team of the Year. The Chargers are the first NFL team to receive the honor twice: 2007 and 2015.

When wildfires ravaged San Diego County in 2003 and again in 2007, Spanos made identical $1 million donations to aid affected families and the recovery effort.

Under the leadership of Chairman of the Board Dean Spanos, the San Diego Chargers have become one of the NFL's most respected franchises. Spanos has provided critical direction and resources while building a winning, family environment that has led to consistency and success.

Over the past 11 years (2004-14), the Chargers won 113 games (playoffs included), including five AFC West championships (2004, 2006-09) and four playoff games. Only three teams won more games during that span.

This offseason Spanos handed over the reins of day-to-day leadership to his sons A.G. and John. Eldest son A.G. Spanos now serves as President-Business Operations while John Spanos is President-Football Operations. Dean remains atop the organization's hierarchy as chairman.

That transition in leadership comes soon after Spanos oversaw another key transition period in franchise history. In 2013 new leadership was added for the football team, hiring Tom Telesco and Mike McCoy to serve as the team's new general manager and head coach, respectively. The moves transformed the Chargers' front office from one of the oldest to the NFL's youngest and brought new energy and optimism to the organization and its fan base.

Spanos' leadership is felt throughout the National Football League as well as all Spanos corporate entities. As a member of the Management Council Executive Committee (CEC), he played an integral role in negotiating the NFL's current labor agreement prior to the 2011 season. He serves as chairman of the NFL's Business Ventures Committee, which has oversight regarding various league commercial activities, including consumer products, sponsorship, events, marketing and new business initiatives. He also serves on the League's International and Legislative Committees.

Spanos had served as president of the Chargers since early in 1994, the same year the team culminated its most memorable season in team history with an appearance in Super Bowl XXIX. In addition, he also serves as President of the A.G. Spanos Companies. Dean and his brother, Michael, oversee all construction operations nationwide.

Spanos' commitment to San Diego and the team is undeniable. He has dedicated 14 years and millions of dollars to develop a plan to give San Diegans a modern Super Bowl-quality stadium and secure a long-term home for their football team. The reason for this bond: Dean's family has proudly called San Diego home for 31 years.

Spanos also is a staunch supporter of San Diego's police, fire and sheriff's departments. Critical Communications Centers have been upgraded and mobile command units for the police department have been purchased while their financial support enabled local agencies to purchase wildfire fighting gear as well as other fire-fighting equipment.

Spanos has been a top contributor to Rady Children's Hospital, the San Diego Blood Bank, San Diego State University's Campanile Foundation, University of San Diego, STAR/PAL, the San Diego Police Foundation, the San Diego Hall of Champions and the San Diego High School Sports Association.

Dean and his father Alex Spanos secured Super Bowl XXXII (1998) and Super Bowl XXXVII (2003) for the City of San Diego, each bringing an estimated windfall of more than $300 million to the San Diego economy.

COMMUNITY HONORS

Honors for their generosity come frequently to Dean and Susie.

In 2014, the Spanos family received the Outstanding Community Service Award among all family-owned businesses by the San Diego Business Journal.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation presented the team with its Wish-Granting Partner of the Year Award while the California State Athletic Director's Association presented the Chargers with its President's Merit Award, both in 2012. The Rotary Club of San Diego also presented Spanos and the Chargers organization with its prestigious Heilbron Award, given to companies that "exemplify the pay it forward spirit – that give of themselves and their professional expertise to advance the well-being and success of others in the community."

They received the 2012 Herb Klein Spirit of San Diego Award from the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual awards dinner. In 2011 the Salvation Army recognized Spanos and the Chargers' dedication to helping San Diego's homeless citizens during their annual Golden Bells ceremony.

In 2010, the Association of Fundraising Professionals recognized Spanos and the Chargers as San Diego's Outstanding Philanthropic Corporation, one of the most prestigious awards for community service.

The American Diabetes Association honored Spanos at its annual Fathers of the Year Dinner in 2010. In 2007, the local Salvation Army named Dean and Susie as their Most Valuable Philanthropists.

In 2006 President George W. Bush appointed Spanos as a Board of Trustees member of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. That same year he was the honored recipient of the Golden Achievement Award from the Boys & Girls Clubs of San Diego and Junior Achievement of San Diego inducted him into its Hall of Fame for his community leadership and specifically for his support of youth education initiatives.

The Warner Award, the top honor of the national Pop Warner football organization, was bestowed on him for his commitment to youth football and its Little Scholars education initiative in 2005. The San Diego Chapter of the National Football Foundation also presented Spanos with its highest honor, the Distinguished American Award. In 2004, the Police Historical Society presented him with their first Cota Award for community philanthropy and support of law enforcement. Dean and Susie received the Harold Leventhal Community Service Award in 2003, the top national award of the Huntington's Disease Society of America.

Spanos has the unique distinction of being a second-generation recipient of the renowned Ellis Island Medal of Honor, so honored in 2002, 16 years after his father was similarly honored. He was also inducted into the DeMolay International Alumni Hall of Fame in 2002. DeMolay International is an organization dedicated to preparing young men to lead successful and productive lives.

In 2001, the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum presented Dean and Susie with its Community Champions Award, the Hall's most distinguished award.

BUSINESSMAN AND FAMILY MAN

Dean Alexander Spanos was born in Stockton, California. He earned varsity letters in football and golf at Lincoln High School in Stockton. Dean later received Lincoln High School's Hall of Fame Award, which honors alumni whose contributions and accomplishments are representative of the school. He was recognized for his achievements in the areas of business and athletics. Spanos continued his golfing career at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, graduating in 1972 with a degree in business administration. He maintains close ties with his alma mater, having served as a regent at the university.

An avid golfer since his college years, Dean has been on the winning team in five Pro-Am tournaments, including back-to-back wins in 1990 at the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and the AT&T National Pro-Am at Pebble Beach with partner Hubert Green. He successfully defended his title at the Hope Classic in 1991. Spanos' first win came with Green at the 1985 Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach, where he was awarded the "Most Valuable Amateur" trophy for supplying the most help to his professional partner. Later that year, his second win came in the 1985 Senior Players Reunion Pro-Am in Dallas, where he teamed with San Diego native Billy Casper.

Susie received the prestigious Celebration of Life Award in 2011 from the American Cancer Society. She is a spokeswoman for the NFL's cancer campaign and is a breast cancer survivor. She also was honored as a "Woman of Dedication" by the Salvation Army in 2001 and has been named the Woman of the Year by the San Diego Leukemia Society for her philanthropic work in the community.

Susie works with and serves on the boards of many charitable organizations in San Diego, including the San Diego Women's Foundation. She is on the board of the Village Garden Club of La Jolla and an advisory member of Las Patronas, one of San Diego's leading non-profit organizations. Susie has been a driving force in supporting the San Diego Blood Bank and its umbilical cord blood program, helping the Chargers' annual blood drive become one of the most successful in the nation.

Dean and Susie have resided in La Jolla since moving their family to San Diego in 1984.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

CHERI PEDERSEN
Executive Assistant to the Chairman

MICHAEL A. SPANOS

Vice Chairman

Michael A. Spanos is vice chairman of the Chargers. In that capacity, he assists in financial and management matters pertaining to the team. Michael joins his brother – Chairman of the Board Dean Spanos – in steering the direction of the organization, including the on-going effort to bring a new stadium to the San Diego region.

As president of the A.G. Spanos Companies, Michael is responsible for the company's planning and development activities around the country. He monitors and oversees the office divisions in states where the company builds and develops. His responsibilities also extend to the areas of property management, land acquisition and preparation of all plans for future direction, growth and construction of the company's multi-family communities and land development activities. From the company headquarters in Stockton, Michael travels regularly across the country to monitor and manage building projects.

Born in Stockton, California, he attended Lincoln High School and graduated from the University of the Pacific, with a bachelor's degree in business administration. In 1989, Michael was appointed to the Board of Regents at the University of the Pacific, where he served for five years. Michael continues to contribute both his time and resources to the development and support of charitable projects involving youth sports and education. He and his wife, Helen, have five children and reside in Stockton.

A.G. SPANOS

President — Business Operations

A.G. Spanos was named President—Business Operations for the Chargers in May 2015. He oversees all day-to-day business operations of the organization, including marketing, sales, public relations, digital media and community relations. He also represents the organization at all NFL and ownership meetings.

Prior to being named president, Spanos had served as executive vice president—chief executive officer since July 2011. This followed three years as executive vice president—executive officer (2008-10) and five seasons as director of marketing programs and business development (2003-07).

Witnessing the Chargers enjoy success on the field has always been the number-one goal for Spanos and that includes helping the franchise establish an undeniable home-field advantage. Over the last decade (2005-14), only four teams have more total wins than the Chargers and only six teams have more home wins. The fans are huge part of this success.

Spanos leads with the belief that Season Ticket Members are the backbone of the organization. Under his direction, the Chargers added more value and access that eventually led to a rebranding of the team's most loyal fans – Season Ticket Members – formerly known as season ticket holders. Key benefits include the addition of dedicated service representatives, unique opportunities for facility and stadium tours, exclusive training camp visits, an upgraded and more transparent seat relocation program, a more flexible payment schedule and much more. As a result, in 2015, the Chargers will see their season ticket base increase for the second consecutive year.

In an effort to quench Chargers fans' unending thirst for information about their team, Spanos created the organization's first digital media department in 2012. The department has been instrumental in providing an endless supply of unique content available only on the team's official website, Chargers.com, while expanding the Chargers' social media footprint. Recognizing the benefits of producing web and television content in-house, Spanos led the effort to construct a new television and editing studio at a recently-expanded Chargers Park.

Spanos sits on the Chargers Champions leadership team helping select schools for the school grant program founded by his grandfather, Alex Spanos. Since its inception in 2000, Chargers Champions has provided more than $4 million to assist San Diego schools, teachers and students. Each year the Chargers Champions School Grant Program allows public and private schools within San Diego County to apply for badly-needed funding for physical fitness, nutrition and athletic programs on their campuses. The Chargers Champions program is the cornerstone of a community relations portfolio that includes supporting hundreds of charitable organizations and causes during the year.

Outside the office, Spanos serves on the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors for the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum. He also serves on the Board of Directors for the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce and is an active member of the Young Presidents Organization (YPO).

Spanos attended La Jolla Country Day School in La Jolla, Calif., lettering in football and basketball. He played football as a freshman at Tufts University in Medford, Mass., before returning to California to continue his education at the University of Southern California, earning a bachelor's degree in marketing from the Marshall School of Business.

Spanos is the grandson of Owner Alex Spanos and he is the eldest son of Chairman Dean Spanos and his wife Susie. He and his wife, Kamri, have a son, Dean.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

YOLANDA TUCKER

JOHN SPANOS

President — Football Operations

John Spanos was named President—Football Operations for the Chargers in May 2015. He oversees all of the team's football operations, including player personnel, coaching, player finance and the salary cap, medical, equipment, video, player engagement and security. He also represents the team at all league and management council meetings.

Spanos began working for the Chargers in 1995. Originally, he worked summers as an assistant in football operations, and from 1998-00 he worked under the direction of Ed McGuire, who schooled him in contract negotiations and managing the salary cap.

In 2003, Spanos began working full-time as a scout. He methodically worked his way up through the organization before his career took a giant leap forward in 2013 when he was named executive vice president of football operations. This new position afforded him the opportunity to put his first big imprint on the organization, and he did just that as he was a key member of the selection committee responsible for the hiring of General Manager Tom Telesco and Head Coach Mike McCoy. The Chargers finished 9-7 in both 2013 and 2014. In 2013, the team returned to the playoffs for the first time since 2009 and won its first playoff game since 2008.

Drawing from his scouting experience, Spanos has seen his role in the NFL Draft grow exponentially since his ascension in 2013 and the results have been overwhelmingly positive. The team's 2013 draft yielded three key starters: tackle D.J. Fluker, linebacker Manti Te'o, and wide receiver and Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year Keenan Allen. The 2014 draft class saw four of the six players the Chargers selected make the team's opening day roster, and the 2015 class is full of promising talent, headlined by running back Melvin Gordon, winner of the 2014 Doak Walker Award as the nation's top running back, and runner up for the 2014 Heisman Trophy.

The 2015 season will mark Spanos' 20th year in the NFL and his 17th with the team.

His previous assignments within the organization include stints as a pro and college scout (2003-05), assistant director of college scouting (2006-07) and director of college scouting (2008-12). In addition to the draft, his keen eye for talent has helped the Chargers discover several undrafted free agents who have made a big impact on the field. Running back Branden Oliver, the team's leading rusher in 2014, is a prime example. And Spanos' first year as a full-time scout in 2003 coincided with the arrival of yet another undrafted free agent who's carved out a pretty solid NFL career, eight-time Pro Bowl tight end Antonio Gates.

From 2001-03, Spanos served two stints in the NFL's Management Council office in New York. In 2008, he further expanded his business acumen when he was among a select list of NFL executives invited to participate in the NFL's Executive Education Program at the Stanford Business School in Palo Alto, California.

Spanos continues to work closely with McGuire. They have managed the salary cap and retained some of the team's top players. This includes negotiating lengthy contract extensions for several current and former All-Pro players, including Gates, quarterback Philip Rivers, center Nick Hardwick, running back LaDainian Tomlinson, and safety and special teams ace Darrell Stuckey.

Staying true to his scouting roots, Spanos serves on the board of directors for National Football Scouting. Locally, he serves on the Athletics Board at the University of California-San Diego (UCSD).

In June 2010, Spanos was named one of the "Top 40 Under 40" Greek-Americans by Greek America Magazine. The acknowledgment came in recognition of his achievements in both business and community leadership.

Spanos was born in Stockton, California. He attended The Bishop's School in La Jolla where he lettered in football as a wide receiver and defensive back. He also lettered in golf and basketball, and was a member of three CIF championship teams. After Bishop's, Spanos attended Wake Forest University, graduating with a degree in business.

John and his wife Jodie reside in La Jolla.

ED MCGUIRE

Executive Vice President of Football Administration— Player Finance

Now in his 28th NFL season and 18th with the Chargers, Ed McGuire has enjoyed a steady ascent since joining the team in 1998. He most recently was named Executive Vice President of Football Administration—Player Finance in January 2013. McGuire serves as the club's chief negotiator and manages the salary cap, while overseeing compliance of NFL and Collective Bargaining Agreement rules. He has been a member of the NFL Player Insurance Trust since 2002.

Throughout his tenure with the Chargers, McGuire has negotiated a number of long-term contracts and contract extensions. In 2004, he negotiated an eight-year contract extension for 2006 NFL MVP and two-time NFL rushing champion, LaDainian Tomlinson. At the time, the deal was the largest contract ever signed by a running back in NFL history. In 2009, McGuire negotiated Philip Rivers' six-year, $92 million contract extension, the largest player contract negotiated in team history. And more recently, McGuire has negotiated new contracts and extensions for several key players, including Corey Liuget, King Dunlap, Brandon Flowers, Darrell Stuckey and Donald Butler.

McGuire joined the Chargers after serving as the senior manager of labor operations for the NFL's Management Council from 1996-98. He was the league's manager of player personnel from 1991-96 and originally joined the NFL in 1987 as a player personnel analyst. McGuire also worked in the personnel department for the United States Football League from 1984-86.

During his tenure in the National Football League office, McGuire became a leading expert on the NFL's salary cap and Collective Bargaining Agreement, which was created in 1993 between the NFL and the NFL Players' Association.

TOM TELESKO

General Manager

21st NFL Season, 3rd season with Chargers

Tom Telesco will serve his third season as general manager of the Chargers in 2015.

In his first two seasons, the Bolts won 19 games, including the franchise's first postseason victory since 2008 as well as a win over the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks in 2014.

Telesco was hired by the Chargers in January 2013. Forty years old at the time of his hiring, he became the youngest general manager in team history.

Immediately following his hire, Telesco was part of the committee responsible for hiring Mike McCoy as the team's head coach. Telesco then shifted his attention toward the roster and he helped the Chargers return to the playoffs in 2013 with a roster that featured 25 players who joined the team prior to or during the season.

Telesco made several notable free agent acquisitions in 2013, including running back Danny Woodhead, tackle King Dunlap and outside linebacker Dwight Freeney, and he delivered even more talent to San Diego with an outstanding 2013 draft. That class featured three prominent starters: offensive lineman D.J. Fluker, inside linebacker Manti Te'o, and wide receiver and 2013 Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year Keenan Allen.

Telesco's second draft class in 2014 was equally as impressive. The team's first four picks all made the opening day roster, and after the draft, the Chargers found another gem in University of Buffalo running back Branden Oliver, who ended 2014 as the team's leading rusher. Also in 2014, Telesco signed free agent cornerback Brandon Flowers from Kansas City, and proving that he'd leave no stone unturned, he signed wide receiver and Canadian Football League import Dontrelle Inman, who emerged late in the year and helped the Chargers steal a key late-season win in San Francisco.

A native of Buffalo, New York, Telesco prepped at St. Francis High School in Athol Springs, N.Y. One of his teammates at St. Francis was Jacksonville Jaguars general manager David Caldwell. Days prior to Super Bowl XLVIII in January 2014, which was co-hosted by New York and New Jersey, Telesco and Caldwell were recognized for their accomplishments on the floor of the New York State Senate by Senator Timothy Kennedy.

After graduating from St. Francis, Telesco played wide receiver at John Carroll University in Ohio. He was a starter on the Blue Streaks' 1994 Ohio Athletic Conference Championship team, and two of his teammates at John Carroll were Chris and Brian Polian, sons of Bill Polian, a 2015 inductee into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

While attending John Carroll, Telesco spent four summers (1991-94) as a training camp intern with the Buffalo Bills. At that time, the elder Polian was the Bills' general manager. Polian left Buffalo for Carolina in 1994 and after Telesco graduated from John Carroll with a degree in business management in 1995, Polian hired him to work in the Panthers' scouting department. Then in 1998, Telesco and Polian both moved on to Indianapolis, where Telesco would spend his next 15 NFL seasons as a college scout, pro scout, director of pro scouting, director of player personnel and vice president of football operations. Telesco worked in Indianapolis during Peyton Manning's entire career with the Colts and he was later part of the decision-making process that brought Andrew Luck to the Colts with the first pick of the 2012 NFL Draft. Telesco also was involved in Colts drafts that featured four-time Pro Bowl running back Edgerrin James, five-time Pro Bowl wide receiver Reggie Wayne, and Freeney, a seven-time Pro Bowler as a Colt.

Telesco's tenure in Indianapolis was one of the most successful eras in franchise history. The Colts played in two Super Bowls, including a victory over Chicago in Super Bowl XLI. From 1998-2012, they won 154 regular season games, eight division titles and they appeared in the playoffs 12 times. Indianapolis set an NFL record with 12 or more wins in seven consecutive seasons and they won an NFL record 23 straight regular-season games during the 2008-09 seasons. And their 115 regular-season wins from 2000-09 set an NFL record for wins in a decade.

In March 2015, Telesco was invited to be a presenter at the NFL's Career Development Symposium in Arizona. The program, attended by nearly 70 coaches and front office executives, was designed to engage aspiring head coach and general manager candidates. Telesco was one of only two active general managers invited to address participants at the symposium.

Telesco and his wife, Larah, have a daughter, Elena, and two sons, Thomas and Nicholas.

MIKE MCCOY

Head Coach

18th NFL Season, 3rd season with Chargers

With a pair of 9-7 records and a playoff win in the first two seasons of Mike McCoy's stewardship in San Diego, the Chargers are in good hands with the innovative head coach at the helm.

Hired Jan. 15, 2013 as the 15th head coach in team history, McCoy led the Chargers to the playoffs in his first season. At the time of his hiring, McCoy, then 41, was the second-youngest head coach in the NFL and the second-youngest in team history. The Bolts went 9-7 and won four straight and five of their last six to close out the regular season, including a thrilling season-ending overtime win against Kansas City that vaulted the Chargers into the postseason. During that stretch, the Chargers defeated Kansas City twice, and Denver and Oakland once each to finish 4-2 in the AFC West. McCoy then led the Chargers to a Wild Card Playoff win in Cincinnati for the franchise's first playoff victory since 2008. The Chargers' playoff appearance in 2013 marked the organization's first since 2009 and McCoy joined Sid Gillman (1960), Don Coryell (1979 – Coryell's first full season), Bobby Ross (1992) and Norv Turner (2007) as the only coaches in team history to lead the Bolts to the playoffs in their first season. Then with his team's win over the Bengals, McCoy became only the third head coach (Ross and Turner) to win his first playoff game.

McCoy led the Chargers to nine wins again in 2014. The Chargers defeated the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks, they posted a 31-0 shutout win over the New York Jets, and the team showed its resiliency late in the season, overcoming double-digit deficits to beat Baltimore and San Francisco. When the Chargers won in Baltimore in November, they became the first West Coast team to win a game in the Charm City in 11 tries.

McCoy came to the Chargers from Denver, where he spent the 2009-12 seasons as the Broncos' offensive coordinator. In 2012, the Broncos won 13 games, second-most in a season in franchise history, and captured the No. 1 overall seed in the AFC playoffs. Peyton Manning threw a then-team-record 37 touchdown passes, while Demaryius Thomas and Eric Decker combined to become the youngest receiving duo in NFL history to top 1,000 yards and 10 touchdowns.

A year earlier in 2011, McCoy had a hand in a storied season in Denver as he helped the Broncos reach the divisional playoffs after winning their first AFC West title since 2005. The Broncos upset Pittsburgh in the Wild Card Playoffs with Tim Tebow throwing an 80-yard game-winning touchdown pass to Thomas on the first play of overtime. That season, McCoy completely revamped Denver's offense into a read-option attack that meshed with Tebow's playing style. The Broncos led the NFL in 2011 with a franchise-record 2,632 yards on the ground.

McCoy started in Denver in 2009 as the Broncos' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. In his first season, Kyle Orton set career highs in every major passing category, while wide receiver Brandon Marshall and left tackle Ryan Clady were selected to the Pro Bowl. Clady was also named All-Pro.

A native of Novato, Calif., McCoy was the starting quarterback for two years at San Marin High School, along with being a standout on the basketball court and baseball field. He played quarterback at Long Beach State for the legendary George Allen, and then at the University of Utah after Allen passed and the 49ers disbanded their football program. Upon graduating from Utah, McCoy signed with the NFL's Broncos as an undrafted free agent in 1995. After being cut by Denver, he spent his rookie season on Green Bay's practice squad, followed by stops with the Amsterdam Admirals of NFL Europe, the San Francisco 49ers, Philadelphia Eagles and Seattle Seahawks. McCoy concluded his playing career in 1999 with the CFL's Calgary Stampeders, a Grey Cup finalist. In 2014, he was inducted into the Marin Athletic Foundation Hall of Fame.

McCoy transitioned into coaching in 2000, joining the Carolina Panthers as an offensive assistant. Just four weeks into his first season with the Panthers, he was elevated to quarterbacks coach after the team's position coach stepped down. McCoy would go on to spend nine seasons in Carolina, serving as wide receivers coach (2001), quarterbacks coach (2002-08) and passing game coordinator (2007-08). Led by quarterbacks Steve Beuerlein and Jake Delhomme, Carolina made three playoff appearances, won two division titles, went to two NFC Championship Games and played in Super Bowl XXXVIII (2003).

McCoy did some of his best coaching in Carolina in 2007 when the Panthers won a franchise-best 12 games and earned a first-round bye in the playoffs. Injuries forced the Panthers to start four different quarterbacks (none for more than three games in a row) and Carolina became the first NFL team in 10 years to win at least one game with four different starters at quarterback (Delhomme, David Carr, Matt Moore and Vinny Testaverde).

McCoy and his wife, Kellie, have two children, a daughter, Liv, and a son, Luke.

ASSISTANT COACHES

JOHN PAGANO

Defensive Coordinator
20th NFL Season
14th season with Chargers

The longest-tenured assistant on the Chargers' coaching staff, 2015 will mark Pagano's 14th season with the Chargers and his fourth as defensive coordinator.

The Chargers ranked ninth in the NFL in total defense and fourth in pass defense in 2014. It marked the second time in three years under Pagano that the Bolts ranked in the top 10 in total defense and their pass defense ranking was the unit's highest on his watch. Also in 2014, the Chargers ranked ninth in the NFL in scoring defense during the first eight games of the season, and they ranked fourth in the league in red zone defense over the last eight games.

There were several noteworthy performances by San Diego's defense in 2014, including a shutout victory against the New York Jets. The Chargers held three different teams to 10 points or less, their most in a season since 2010. From Sept. 14-Oct. 5, the Chargers went four games without allowing a point in the fourth quarter, the second-longest stretch in team history. And on Sept. 28 and Oct. 5, the Chargers held Jacksonville and the Jets scoreless in the second halves of both games, marking the first time the Chargers shut out consecutive opponents in the second half since 2006.

During the Chargers' run to the Divisional Playoffs in 2013, Pagano's defense turned in a number of stellar performances, highlighted by a team-record streak of 12 consecutive quarters without allowing an offensive touchdown. Late in the season, San Diego's defense got stingy with the football, recording a season-high four takeaways against Cincinnati in the wild card round and two more against Denver in the divisional round. In total, the Chargers recorded 16 takeaways in the last eight games of the year (playoffs included), more than double the team's total in the first 11 games. The Chargers won four of five in December to qualify for the playoffs and that month, the Chargers surrendered just 315.8 yards per game, sixth-lowest in the NFL. The Bolts also got stingy on the scoreboard, giving up just 17.6 points per game in December, third-fewest in the NFL. And the Bolts also got down to business on third downs, giving up just 37.5 percent of opponent third-down conversions in December. That trend continued into the playoffs as the Bolts held the Bengals to just 10 points and 3-of-12 on third downs in their wild card win.

Pagano made an immediate impression in his first season as defensive coordinator in 2012 as the Chargers ranked ninth in total defense and sixth in run defense. The Chargers recorded 38 sacks, including a team-record-tying 11 during a Dec. road win against the New York Jets. The Bolts scored seven defensive touchdowns (five interceptions and two fumbles), second-most in the NFL and two shy of the team record of nine set in 1961.

Pagano originally joined the Chargers in 2002 as the team's quality control coach for the defense and he moved his way up the ranks. He began as an assistant linebackers coach before moving to outside linebackers and then ultimately to linebackers coach before moving into the coordinator's role in 2012. In 2010, the Chargers had the NFL's No. 1 ranked defense and the squad was second in the league in sacks. And from 2005-11 when Pagano worked with the team's linebackers, a player from that group led the team in tackles and sacks every season. One of Pagano's star pupils was three-time Pro Bowl outside linebacker Shawne Merriman, the NFL's Defensive Rookie of the Year in 2005 and the NFL's leader in sacks in 2006.

A native of Boulder, Colo., Pagano was an all-state linebacker at Fairview High School. He played at Mesa State from 1985-88, earning a degree in business marketing.

John's older brother, Chuck, is the head coach of the Indianapolis Colts. Both John and Chuck played for their father, Sam, at Fairview High. Sam spent 26 years as the head coach at Fairview, winning three state titles, and he also coached internationally in Taiwan, Germany, France and Italy.

For the last three years, Pagano has served as a co-host of the Flavors of the Gaslamp. It's an event that raises funds and awareness for Multiple Sclerosis. Pagano shares hosting duties with former NFL player Eric Allen.

Pagano and wife, Kimberly, have two sons, Jagger and Brody.

FRANK REICH

Offensive Coordinator
24th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

The 2014 season was Frank Reich's first as an NFL offensive coordinator. With Reich calling the signals, the Chargers racked up nearly 4,300 yards through the air and more than 1,350 on the ground.

Reich did an outstanding job of spreading out the offensive yards and touches. The Chargers were the only team in the NFL to feature four players with at least 778 yards receiving and four touchdown catches, and it marked the first time in franchise history that four different players reached those totals in a season. The Chargers also had four receivers finish the season with more than 50 catches for just the fourth time in team annals. And with Reich calling the offensive plays, quarterback Philip Rivers completed a franchise-record 379 passes while throwing 31 touchdown passes.

Reich's rapid ascent up the coaching ladder was well-deserved considering the work he did as quarterbacks coach in 2013. Working with Reich, Rivers was selected for the Pro Bowl after completing a team-record and NFL-leading 69.5 pct. of his passes for 4,478 yards, 32 touchdowns and just 11 interceptions for a career and team-record-tying passer rating of 105.5. Rivers also set the then-team mark for single-season completions (378) and he ended the regular season having thrown a touchdown in 20 straight games, tied for the second-longest streak in team history. This was the same quarterback who threw 83 touchdowns and 48 interceptions over the previous three seasons. Rivers' 2013 passer rating was nearly 10 points higher than his career rating of 96.0 and his completion percentage was more than five percentage points higher than his 64.4 career ledger. Rivers also had one of his best postseasons as he continued to complete passes at a blistering rate (69.8 pct.), going 30 of 43 for 345 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions for a 116.9 passer rating.

A native of Freeport, N.Y., Reich grew up in Lebanon, Pa., where his father was a high school coach. Reich played collegiately at the University of Maryland where he engineered the greatest comeback win in college football history. During his senior season in 1984, Reich led the Terrapins to a 42-40 win over the University of Miami in a game that Maryland at one point trailed 31-0. At the time, it was the largest deficit ever overcome in a college game. A year later, the Buffalo Bills selected Reich in the third round of the 1985 NFL Draft. He spent 10 seasons (1985-94) in Buffalo and in the 1992 NFL playoffs he added to his repertoire by leading the greatest comeback in NFL history. A backup to Jim Kelly with the Bills, Reich was called on to start the Bills' AFC Wild Card Playoff game against Houston in Jan. 1993 for an injured Kelly. Reich rallied the Bills from a 35-3 deficit in the third quarter to a 41-38 win over the Oilers that to this day is still the greatest comeback in NFL history.

After Buffalo, Reich spent one season in Carolina (1995), one with the New York Jets (1996), and two with Detroit (1997-98) before retiring in 1998.

In 2006, Reich accepted a coaching internship with Indianapolis. He spent two seasons (2006-07) as an intern before the Colts promoted him to offensive assistant in 2008, working with the wide receivers and quarterbacks. Reich had a talented cast that included Super Bowl MVP and perennial Pro Bowl quarterback Peyton Manning, and Pro Bowl wide receiver Reggie Wayne. Reich remained in that role in Indianapolis until 2012 when he moved to Arizona and became the wide receivers coach for the Cardinals where he worked with Pro Bowl pass-catcher Larry Fitzgerald.

Reich and his wife, Linda, have three children. His brother, Joe, is the head coach at Wingate (N.C.) University.

KEVIN SPENCER

Special Teams Coordinator
25th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Set to embark on his third season in San Diego, the Chargers' special teams are in capable hands with Spencer.

In 2014, the Chargers ranked eighth in the NFL in kickoff coverage and his top performers included Darrell Stuckey, who played in his first Pro Bowl as a kick-coverage specialist. Spencer also got a solid year out of Nick Novak, who hit 22 of his 26 field goal tries, and punter Mike Scifres, who averaged 45.7 yards per attempt. Rookie Chris Davis also impressed as he averaged 25.1 yards on kickoff returns.

During Spencer's first year with the Bolts in 2013, the team enjoyed a playoff season. Scifres went the first nine games without a touchback and he landed 30 of his 56 punts (53.6 pct.) inside the 20, the highest percentage in the NFL. Novak hit a team-record-tying 34 field goals while finishing the year 34-of-37 for a new team record 91.9 percent conversion rate. And the Chargers blocked two field goals in one game. They were the team's first field goal blocks in 11 years.

The NFL's Special Teams Coach of the Year in 2003 as chosen by his peers, Spencer has spent the last 17 seasons coaching special teams in Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Arizona and San Diego. He won a Super Bowl with Pittsburgh in 2005 (Super Bowl XL) and an NFC Championship with Arizona in '08. In Indianapolis, Terrence Wilkins returned two punts and a kickoff for touchdowns and was selected to a number of all-rookie teams. In Pittsburgh, Antwaan Randle-El set a team record with four punt returns for touchdowns during five seasons working with Spencer. And in Arizona, LaRod Stephens-Howling led the NFL with 1,542 kickoff return yards in 2010, including scoring returns of 102 and 96 yards, while Patrick Peterson tied the NFL record with four punt return touchdowns as a rookie. Peterson also became the first player in league history with four punt returns of 80 yards or longer, including a game-winning 99-yard punt return for a touchdown in overtime of a game against the St. Louis Rams that was the second-longest in NFL history.

A native of Queens, New York, Spencer played football and lacrosse at Springfield (Mass.) College. He earned his bachelor's degree from Springfield and a Master's from Cortland State in 1976. He began coaching as a graduate assistant at Cortland State in 1975 and then served as an assistant coach at Detroit Country Day High School from 1976-79. While at Country Day, Spencer struck up a friendship with Bill Belichick, who was then a quality control coach with the Detroit Lions. Years later that friendship would pay dividends as Belichick would recommend Spencer for the head coaching job at his alma mater, Wesleyan University. Spencer spent five years as the head coach at Wesleyan and in 1991 he landed his first NFL job with Cleveland when Belichick was the Browns' head coach and hired Spencer as a coaching assistant. To this day the two remain friends and once a year Spencer sends a thank you letter to Belichick for helping him begin his climb up the coaching ladder.

Spencer and his wife, Rosemarie, have two sons, Timothy and Jack.

JOE D'ALESSANDRIS

Offensive Line
8th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

A long-time college and NFL coach, D'Alessandris is a proven coach and teacher. He's helped shape the Chargers' offensive line into one of the league's best, despite having a roster that's been hit hard by injuries. Among the pupils under D'Alessandris' tutelage, King Dunlap has evolved into one of the NFL's top left tackles, while former first-round pick D.J. Fluker has become a top-flight right tackle.

In 2014, the Chargers' offensive line performed admirably, allowing only 37 sacks while protecting on 611 attempted passing plays. It did so despite missing two key performers. Starting center Nick Hardwick played just over a quarter of the team's season opener and spent the rest of the season on "Reserve-Injured" before retiring in February. Hardwick's loss started a run in which the Bolts were forced to start five different players at center, the most by any NFL team since the AFL-NFL merger. The line also was without starting right guard Jerome Clary, who spent the entire season on the "Physically Unable to Perform" list before he too retired.

D'Alessandris' first Chargers season in 2013 followed a similar path as injuries forced the team to start seven different combinations of linemen, while playing a total of 17 different combinations on the line at various points of the season. Only seven times did the Bolts' five starting offensive linemen play an entire game together. Despite the revolving door up front, the Chargers made the playoffs by allowing just 30 sacks, tied for fourth-fewest in the league, and they only allowed 150 yards in sack losses, which was the second-lowest total in the NFL. The offensive line helped the team reach the postseason by blocking for more than 100 yards rushing in 12 of 16 regular-season games, including four straight and seven of the last eight to close out the campaign. That stretch included a regular-season-best 186 yards in the regular-season finale against Kansas City that vaulted the Bolts into the playoffs.

A native of Aliquippa, Pa., D'Alessandris spent his summers during college working in the city's steel mills before moving on to Western Carolina University where he earned four letters and started three years as a guard. Team MVP and a team captain as a senior, D'Alessandris graduated in 1977 and earned a master's degree from WCU two years later. While working toward his master's, he began coaching as a graduate assistant. That led to his first full-time job as the offensive line coach at Livingston University in 1979. D'Alessandris has spent the last 38 years as a coach and 2015 will mark his 37th year coaching the offensive line.

D'Alessandris landed his first NFL job with Kansas City in 2008. A year later, guard Brian Waters was voted to his first-career Pro Bowl and running back Jamaal Charles recorded his first-career 1,000 yard season. In 2010, he moved on to Buffalo and in 2011, the Bills led the NFL in fewest sacks allowed (23). It was the third-fewest in team history during a 16-game season.

D'Alessandris and his wife, Toni, have three children: Kelly, Emily and Anna. Anna is married to Allen Thomas and they have a son, Maxwell.

When D'Alessandris joined the Chargers in 2013, he started an event in which each of his offensive linemen takes a child on a holiday shopping spree. In 2014, the children were selected by STAR/PAL and the shopping spree took place at a local Macy's department store.

In 2010, D'Alessandris was inducted into the Beaver County (Pa.) Sports Hall of Fame and the Center High School Hall of Fame.

FRED GRAVES

Wide Receivers
14th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Now in his 39th season coaching wide receivers both professionally and on the collegiate level, Graves has done a fantastic job coaching savvy veterans, while leaning on his experience to help cultivate young players like 2013 Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year, Keenan Allen.

The Chargers performed a franchise-first in 2014 as they were the only team in the NFL to feature four players with at least 778 yards receiving and four touchdown catches. Three of the four (Allen, Malcom Floyd and Eddie Royal) were wide receivers. The fourth was tight end Antonio Gates. The same four players also finished the season with more than 50 catches each, just the fourth time in franchise history that a team had four 50-catch players. Allen, Floyd and Royal combined for 191 catches, 2,417 and 17 touchdowns in 2014.

Things didn't run so smoothly for Graves in his first season with the Bolts in 2013. Just two games in, Graves found himself without the services of the team's two returning receivers as Danario Alexander went down with a season-ending knee injury during training camp and Floyd suffered a season-ending neck injury during a Week 2 game in Philadelphia. Almost seamlessly however, Allen, the team's third-round in the 2013 draft, stepped in and began the path toward his rookie of the year season. Allen became Graves' star pupil and he set team rookie records for receptions (71) and yards (1,046), while also leading all NFL rookies in catches, yards and touchdown catches (eight). When it was all said and done, Allen earned a host of postseason honors, including two as NFL Rookie of the Year. Royal also enjoyed his finest season in San Diego working with Graves as he set a career-high and tied Allen for the team lead with eight touchdown catches.

A native of Los Angeles, Graves played halfback and split end at the University of Utah before embarking on a coaching career that spanned 26 years on the collegiate level, including 19 seasons at Utah. He played from 1969-71, leading the Utes with 45 catches as a senior and graduating with a degree in business. His wife, Michele, was an All-America pitcher for the Utes, who won 64 games during a career that included a perfect game against rival BYU and a trip to the College World Series in 1985.

Graves landed his first NFL job with Buffalo in 2001. There, Eric Moulds and Peerless Price both posted 1,000-yard seasons and Moulds recorded the first 100-catch season in franchise history. In 2002, Moulds, Price and rookie Josh Reed combined to catch 231 passes for 3,053 yards and 21 scores. Graves departed Buffalo after the 2003 season and spent a year each in Cleveland and Detroit before taking a year off from coaching in 2006. He returned with Tennessee in 2007 and spent four seasons with the Titans. Carolina (2011-12) was his last stop prior to joining the Chargers. There, Steve Smith caught 152 passes for 2,568 yards and 11 touchdowns in two seasons with Graves and was named to the Pro Bowl in 2011.

Graves and Michele have a daughter, Amber, a son, Marcus, and two grandchildren, Tenille and Isaiah.

DON JOHNSON

Defensive Line
11th NFL Season
7th season with Chargers

Now in his seventh season as the Chargers' defensive line coach, Johnson has done a masterful job in developing young players. One such example is defensive tackle Corey Liuget, the team's first-round pick from 2011, who appears to be on the cusp of earning All-Pro recognition.

Last season, Liuget led the entire team in sacks, tackles for loss and quarterback pressures, while leading the defensive line in quarterback hits and forced fumbles (tie). That effort followed a 2013 season in which he led the team in sacks, tackles for loss, pressures and quarterback hits.

A Newark, N.J. native, Johnson played linebacker at Butler Community College and Jersey City State in the mid-1970s. He earned a tryout with the New York Jets and later played for the USFL's New Jersey Generals. Johnson segued into coaching in 1976, spending seven seasons at Santa Ana Valley High School outside Los Angeles before returning to his alma mater to coach linebackers in 1984. Johnson spent a total of 28 seasons on the prep and collegiate levels and twice he participated in the NFL's Minority Intern Coaching Program with the San Francisco 49ers in 1997 and '98.

Johnson spent the 2000-04 seasons at UCLA where he coached former Chargers defensive end Dave Ball, who was named the ABC-Chevrolet National Defensive Player of the Year in 2003 after leading the nation in sacks.

Johnson landed his first full-time NFL job with Chicago in 2005. He was a mentor to two-time Pro Bowl defensive tackle Tommie Harris, who later played for the Chargers. Harris helped the Bears to the 2006 NFC title and a berth in Super Bowl XLI.

Johnson spent two seasons in Chicago and two in Oakland before joining the Chargers in 2009. In just his second season in San Diego (2010), Johnson's group helped the Chargers lead the NFL in total defense, while ranking second in sacks and fourth in run defense. Defensive tackle Antonio Garay had a breakout season under Johnson, earning Pro Bowl alternate recognition after setting career highs and leading the defensive line in tackles, sacks, tackles for loss and quarterback hits.

Johnson has 26 years of experience as a high school and college basketball official, including eight at the NCAA Division I level. He was the president of the Orange County (Calif.) Basketball Officials Association for four years and the California Basketball Officials Association for two.

KENT JOHNSTON

Strength & Conditioning
23rd NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Johnston joined the Chargers in 2013 after spending three seasons leading the strength and conditioning program for the Cleveland Browns.

He began his NFL career with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1987. Johnston later spent seven seasons in Green Bay (1992-98), during which time the Packers won three NFC Central titles, went to the playoffs six times and played in two Super Bowls, including a victory in Super Bowl XXXI.

In 1999, Johnston followed former Packers head coach

Mike Holmgren to Seattle, where he spent five seasons (1999-03), while the Seahawks made two playoff appearances. Johnston worked two years as the strength and conditioning coach at the University of Alabama (2004-05) before leaving football to work in the non-profit and business sectors. In 2010, he returned to the NFL with the Browns.

A native of Mexia, Texas, Johnston graduated from Stephen F. Austin University and he earned a master's in physical education from Alabama in 1984. He began coaching high school football in Teague, Texas in 1978 and continued to coach in high school and college, including a four-year stint at Alabama from 1983-86.

In 1997, Johnston was named the Strength and Conditioning Coach of the Year by the Professional Football Strength and Conditioning Coaches Society. In 2005, he was inducted into the Strength and Conditioning Hall of Fame in York, Pa.,

PETE METZELAARS

Tight Ends
27th NFL Season
2nd season with Chargers

In his first season as the tight ends coach, Pete Metzelaars couldn't ask for much better of a season from the team's future Hall of Famer, Antonio Gates.

Gates led the team in touchdown catches (12), while ranking second in catches and yards, and in the 2014 season finale, he became just the fourth tight end in NFL history to surpass 10,000 career receiving yards.

Metzelaars himself is a former NFL tight end. A third-round pick by Seattle in 1982 (75th overall), he played a total of 16 seasons for the Seahawks (1982-84), Buffalo Bills (1985-94), Carolina Panthers (1995) and Detroit Lions (1996-97). During 10 seasons with the Bills, he played in four Super Bowls (XXV, XXVI, XXVII and XXVIII). Metzelaars retired after the 1997 season having played in 235 career games, which at the time was the most by a tight end in NFL history, including a stretch of 169 consecutive games from 1984-95. His final career totals included 383 catches for 3,686 yards and 29 touchdowns. Metzelaars caught a touchdown pass in Super Bowl XXVI against Washington and in 1995, he caught the first touchdown pass in Carolina Panthers history. Metzelaars' career honors included an all-rookie selection with Seattle in 1982 along with being named to Buffalo's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team in 2009. He was also selected as a Pro Bowl alternate three times during his career.

Metzelaars moved into coaching immediately after retiring as a player. He began as the offensive coordinator at Charlotte Christian School in 1998. In 2003, he became an offensive assistant coach at Wingate (N.C.) University, while also completing a training camp internship with the Indianapolis Colts and an offseason stint with NFL Europe's Barcelona Dragons. In 2004, Metzelaars joined the Colts full-time as an offensive quality control coach and spent eight seasons there, including four in quality control, two as assistant offensive line coach and two as the primary offensive line coach. In 2010, the Colts allowed just 16 sacks, tied for the fewest in the NFL. Their ratio of just one sack allowed for every 43.4 pass attempts was the second-best in franchise history. Metzelaars tenure in Indianapolis ended in 2011 and he spent the 2012 season coaching tight ends for the Buffalo Bills.

A native of Three Rivers, Michigan, Metzelaars prepped at Portage (Mich.) Central High School. He played collegiately at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Indiana, competing on an undefeated football team, while also helping lead the Little Giants' basketball team to a NCAA Division-III national championship. He earned a degree in economics at Wabash where he is a member of the school's athletic hall of fame. In 2011, he was inducted into the Academic All-American Hall of Fame.

Metzelaars and his wife, Barbara, have two sons: Anthony and Jonathan.

RON MILUS

Secondary
16th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Coming off a season in which they ranked fourth in the NFL in pass defense, the Chargers are in good hands with Ron Milus heading up the secondary.

In 2014, safety Eric Weddle was voted to his second-straight Pro Bowl along with being named first-team All-Pro after leading the team with 110 tackles. It was the second year in a row that Weddle paced the squad in stops. Cornerback Brandon Flowers, a late free-agent signee, led the squad in interceptions and passes defended as the secondary combined to record 42 passes defended on the season. The group should also benefit from the return of cornerback Jason Verrett, the team's top pick in last year's NFL draft, who was limited to just six games due to injury.

There was plenty of optimism around the secondary heading into last season, especially because of the play of the group late in Milus' first season with the Bolts in 2013. The Chargers intercepted 10 passes in their last nine games of the 2013 season, playoffs included, after intercepting just four in the season's first nine games. The unit combined to break up 44 passes on the year, including a season-high 11 in a key December win against the New York Giants and eight more in the Bolts' Wild Card win in Cincinnati.

A native of Tacoma, Wash., Milus was a cornerback and return specialist at the University of Washington in the mid-1980s. He moved into coaching in 1988, starting at Tacoma's Lincoln High School. That led to a graduate assistant's position at Washington and then ultimately a seven-year stint as the Huskies' defensive backs coach. Washington made two Rose Bowl appearances during Milus' tenure and led the nation with 22 interceptions in 1993.

Milus moved on to the NFL in 2000, joining the Denver Broncos as defensive backs coach. In his first season, the secondary racked up 21 interceptions, its highest total since 1987. A year later in 2001, cornerback Deltha O'Neal made the Pro Bowl after tying for third in the NFL with nine interceptions. Milus spent three seasons in Denver before splitting time between Arizona, the New York Giants, St. Louis and Carolina. He returned to Denver for a second stint in 2011.

In 2012, the Broncos led the NFL in fewest yards allowed per pass play. They ranked second in total defense and third in pass defense en route to winning the AFC West with a 13-3 record and earning the top seed in the AFC playoffs. Cornerback Chris Harris returned two of his three interceptions for touchdowns and veteran corner Champ Bailey was selected to the Pro Bowl for the 12th time in his career.

Milus and his wife, Sandra, have two sons: Ryan and Bobby.

MIKE NOLAN

Linebackers
29th NFL Season
1st season with Chargers

Veteran NFL defensive coordinator Mike Nolan joined the Chargers in January as the team's linebackers coach.

Nolan's resume features 28 years of NFL coaching experience, including four seasons as an NFL head coach (San Francisco, 2005-08) and 17 seasons as a defensive coordinator. A collegiate safety at the University of Oregon, Nolan began his coaching career as a linebackers coach on both the collegiate and professional levels.

Nolan was the Falcons' defensive coordinator from 2012-14. He made an immediate impact in his first season in Atlanta as the Falcons recorded an NFC-best 13-3 record and earned the NFC's number-one seed in the playoffs. Atlanta finished fifth in the NFL in scoring defense (18.7 ppg.), red zone scoring defense (46.1 pct) and total takeaways (31) and interceptions (20). That season Nolan's defense faced three Super Bowl-winning quarterbacks at the Georgia Dome (Drew Brees, Peyton Manning and Eli Manning), and the three threw a combined one touchdown and 10 interceptions as the Falcons went 3-0 against the Saints, Broncos and Giants. Also in 2012, safeties Thomas DeCoud and William Moore both went to the Pro Bowl for the first time in their careers, while linebacker Sean Weatherspoon emerged to post a career-high 114 tackles.

Prior to his stint as defensive coordinator in Atlanta, Nolan held the same titles in Denver (2009) and Miami (2010-11). In Denver, he coordinated the defense opposite current Chargers Head Coach Mike McCoy, who was the Broncos' offensive coordinator at the time. In Nolan's only season in the Mile High City, Denver's team defense improved to seventh overall, including third in pass defense, after ranking 29th in total defense in 2008. And in Miami, the Dolphins ranked sixth in total defense, seventh in run defense and eighth in pass defense in 2010. Then in 2011, they ranked third against the run, sixth in scoring and red zone defense, seventh in third-down defense, and 10th in sacks.

From 2005-08, Nolan was the head coach in San Francisco. He followed in the footsteps of his father, Dick, who coached the 49ers for eight seasons (1968-75) during an 11-year NFL head coaching career. The 49ers were one of the NFL's most consistent teams in stopping the run during Nolan's tenure, ranking fourth in the league in fewest yards per carry allowed (3.9) during that period.

Nolan earned the head coaching job in San Francisco after a successful stint with his hometown team, the Baltimore Ravens, which included three seasons (2002-04) as their defensive coordinator. In 2002 he coached one of the league's youngest defenses, yet the Ravens recorded a franchise-record and AFC-leading 25 interceptions. Over the course of his three full seasons as coordinator, the Ravens tied for the NFL lead in takeaways (106), while ranking fifth in the league in points per game allowed (18.8). Five Baltimore defenders earned a total of nine trips to the Pro Bowl, and Nolan instructed back-to-back Associated Press NFL Defensive Players of the Year in Ray Lewis (2003) and Ed Reed (2004).

Nolan began his coaching career in 1981 as a graduate assistant at Oregon. From there he coached linebackers and defensive backs at Stanford (1982-83) and Rice (1984-85) before coaching linebackers at LSU in 1986. He landed his first NFL job with the Broncos, serving as both the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator from 1987-92. Denver went to two Super Bowls (XXII and XXIV) and an AFC Championship Game during his first stint there.

Nolan became a defensive coordinator for the first time in his career during the 1993-96 seasons with the New York Giants, helping them to the divisional playoffs in 1993 after their defense allowed a league-low 12.8 points per game. Just 33 years old at the time of his hiring, Nolan was the NFL's youngest defensive coordinator. He then spent the 1997-99 seasons in Washington, helping the Redskins to an NFC East crown in 1999, and then Nolan spent the 2000 season with the New York Jets before coaching in Baltimore.

Prior to embarking on his coaching career, Nolan was a three-year starter at safety at Oregon. He enrolled as a walk-on before becoming a starter. He went to training camp with the Broncos in 1981, but returned to Oregon following his release.

Nolan and his wife, Kathy, have four children: Michael, Christopher, Laura and Jennifer.

OLLIE WILSON

Running Backs
25th NFL Season
13th season with Chargers

One of the longest-tenured assistant coaches in franchise history, Ollie Wilson continues to demonstrate why he's one of the most highly-regarded running backs coaches in the National Football League.

With the Bolts' running back corps hit hard by injury last season, Wilson helped prepare Branden Oliver, an undrafted rookie from the University of Buffalo, to become the team's leading rusher and a two-time winner of the NFL's Pepsi Rookie of the Week award. Wilson also made sure that his charges protected the football and the results were outstanding as the team's running backs didn't lose a single fumble in nearly 400 carries on the season.

San Diego's backfield in 2014 looked a lot different than it did during the Bolts' playoff season in 2013 when the team rushed for 1,965 yards, including a career-high 1,255 by workhorse Ryan Mathews. It was the eighth-highest total in franchise history. Mathews tally included an NFL-leading 534 yards in the month of December as the Chargers went 4-1 and pushed their way into the playoffs. Wilson worked diligently with Mathews on his ball security and the effort paid off handsomely as he lost just one fumble in 311 touches. Mathews also rediscovered his nose for the end zone, tying his career high with seven touchdowns. Complementing Mathews in the backfield was newcomer Danny Woodhead, who set career highs and finished the regular season with the most touchdown catches among NFL running backs and the second-most receptions and receiving yards.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Wilson was selected for induction into the 2014-15 Class of the Worcester Public Schools Athletic Hall of Fame. He lettered in football, basketball, baseball and track at Doherty High School before moving on to Springfield College where he became an honorable mention All-America wide receiver and earned bachelor's and master's degrees in physical education.

Wilson made inroads to the NFL by participating in the league's Minority Coaching Internship Program with both the Houston Oilers and Atlanta Falcons. He began his NFL coaching career with the Falcons in 1991 and from 1991-96, he mentored three 1,000-yard rushers, including the late Craig "Ironhead" Heyward, a Pro Bowl pick in 1995.

Wilson is now in the midst of his second stint with the Chargers. The final year of his first go-around was 2001, when LaDainian Tomlinson rushed for a team rookie-record 1,236 yards and 10 touchdowns en route to all-rookie and Pro Bowl alternate honors.

Wilson returned to Atlanta in 2002 and over the next six seasons, the Falcons rushed for an NFL-best 13,994 yards and set several team rushing records, including single-season rushing yards (2,939 in 2006) and touchdowns (23 in 2002).

The 2015 season will mark Wilson's eighth back in San Diego. Since 2008, the Chargers have scored 83 touchdowns on the ground and averaged more than 1,650 rushing yards per season, including a high of 1,965 in 2013.

Wilson is married to Nadine.

Three of the four (Keenan Allen, Malcolm Floyd and Eddie Royal) were wide receivers. The fourth was tight end Antonio Gates. The same four players also finished the season with more than 50 catches each, just the fourth time in franchise history that a team had four 50-catch players.

QUALCOMM STADIUM

Qualcomm Stadium, the Chargers' home since 1967, underwent an expansion in 1997 that included the addition of 11,500 seats, a club level, 37 new suites and a new west-end Jumbotron screen.

The centerpiece of the renovated stadium was the Club level. Chargers season ticket members who purchase seats on the Club level enjoy amenities exclusive to Club members. The 7,800 Club seats are wider and padded, and come equipped with an attached drink holder. Club members enjoy wait service at their seats, featuring a menu complete with a variety of food specialties, as well as the comfort of four fan-friendly lounges where they can relax in an air-conditioned setting before, during and after games. Restrooms on the Club level also are upgraded.

The former Jack Murphy Stadium was renamed Qualcomm Stadium after the Qualcomm Corporation contributed $18 million for naming rights. Additionally, the total number of parking spaces at the stadium was increased to 19,000, including 461 handicapped spaces, making the parking lot at Qualcomm Stadium the second-largest in the National Football League. There was a significant increase in restroom capacity at the stadium, with the number of women's facilities almost doubled and the men's restroom capacity increased by 33 percent.

San Diego Stadium was originally built in 1967 as a home for the Chargers at a cost of $27 million. It was dedicated at a Chargers-Lions game on August 20, 1967, before a crowd of 45,988. The 1997 renovation marks the second major facelift to occur at the stadium. Originally built to a capacity of 52,000, the stadium was expanded in 1984 to increase seating capacity to 60,100. The most recent renovation increased the seating capacity at the stadium to approximately 70,000.

The team played before its first-ever sellout crowd on December 3, 1967, when 52,661 turned out to see the Chargers battle the Oakland Raiders.

JAHLEEL ADDAE

Safety
5-10, 195
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Free Agent - '13
Central Michigan
Riverview HS
Valrico, Fla.

Trying to make an NFL football team as an undrafted rookie is tough enough. Imagine trying to do so 3,000 miles from home around the same time that you've learned your mother is battling breast cancer. For Jahleel Addae, he lived through that reality and it helped make him a stronger player.

Addae joined the Chargers as an undrafted rookie from Central Michigan in 2013. He began to turn heads in the team's offseason program and after a strong training camp, made the team's opening day roster. Addae started the season playing primarily on special teams, but as the season wore on, the coaching staff gained more confidence in his ability and by late in the year, he was a defensive regular. Addae made a number of big defensive plays late in the season and he led the secondary with 13 tackles in the playoffs. When the Chargers beat Kansas City in their regular-season finale to qualify for the playoffs for the first time since 2009, Addae made a key third-down pass breakup during the Bolts' game-winning defensive stand. And in the postseason, he had a key fumble recovery in the team's AFC Wild Card Playoff win at Cincinnati and a forced fumble a week later in the divisional playoffs at Denver.

A hamstring injury and a concussion limited Addae to 11 games with five starts in 2014.

He is a ferocious hitter with a nose for the football. In college, teammates nicknamed the hard-hitting safety, "The Hitman."

Thankfully Addae's mother is now cancer free. Last year, Jahleel showed his appreciation for her courage in battling the disease by serving as an honorary chair for the 2014 Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure.

Addae's older brother, Jahmile, also played Division-I football, starting four years at West Virginia. Jahmile was a two-year team captain for the Mountaineers and a finalist for several coveted postseason awards. After a brief NFL career, Jahmile transitioned into coaching and now is working as a football analyst at the University of Arizona.

KEENAN ALLEN

Wide Receiver

3rd NFL Season

3rd with Chargers

Draft 3 – '13

California

Northern Guilford HS

Greensboro, N.C.

Keenan Allen took the NFL by storm in 2013, earning NFL Rookie of the Year and NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year honors from multiple organizations.

In his second NFL season, Allen had another outstanding year, leading the team with 77 catches, good for 783 yards and four scores.

Looking back, as unfathomable as it might sound, Allen's brilliant start to his NFL career almost never materialized.

Allen was drafted by the Chargers in the third round in 2013. A projected first-round pick, his stock fell as the result of a knee injury late in his senior season at Cal. During his first few months in San Diego, the coaching staff limited Allen's reps to make sure that he was fully recovered from the knee injury. Allen also found himself stacked behind a talented group of veteran wide receivers. At one point during training camp, he began questioning himself and his position with the team. He considered walking away to continue his education at Cal and pursue a career in his other field of dreams: music. Thankfully though, some tough talk and motherly advice from his mom, Doris, convinced Allen to hang in there. Around the same time, returning starter Danario Alexander went down with a knee injury and suddenly Allen found himself receiving more reps with the offense. Then in the Chargers' second game of the season in Philadelphia, Malcom Floyd suffered a season-ending neck injury. With Floyd out, Allen's number was called. On his second play, Allen caught an 18-yard pass on a 3rd-and-8 play that ignited a touchdown drive and a season that would end with Allen being celebrated center stage as the Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year at New York City's Radio City Music Hall.

Allen went on to lead the team and set franchise rookie receiving records with 1,046 yards and 71 catches. He led all NFL rookies in catches, yards and touchdowns (eight), topping the 1,000-yard plateau during the Bolts' regular-season finale. He was just the fifth rookie since 2000 to rack up over 1,000 yards. In three games late in the season, Allen caught five touchdown passes, the most by a Chargers wide receiver in three games since 1996. It included an impressive two-game stretch in the course of five days when he caught two touchdowns against the New York Giants on Dec. 8 and two more at Denver on Dec. 12. Twice in 2013, Allen racked up more than 100 yards in back-to-back games, a feat that hadn't been achieved by a Chargers rookie since 1960.

Allen's outstanding play continued into the postseason as he led the team with eight catches for 163 yards and two touchdowns. It included a 142-yard, two-touchdown performance in the divisional playoffs at Denver. It was the Chargers' second-most receiving yards ever in a playoff game and the team's first two-touchdown game in the playoffs since Jan. 1983 (Kellen Winslow). Allen's yardage total tied for the second-most by a rookie in a playoff game in NFL history (Keith Jackson, Philadelphia) and he became the league's first rookie since New England's Julian Edelman in Jan. 2010 with two touchdown catches in a postseason game.

Long before the 2013 NFL Draft, Allen was a player coveted by Chargers General Manager Tom Telesco. In 2011, Telesco attended Cal's game against USC at San Francisco's AT&T Park and he noted that Allen really stood out on a field that was loaded with great players. Allen enjoyed one of the most prolific days of his career that evening against the Trojans, catching a career-best 13 passes for 160 yards.

Allen left school after his junior season having caught a school-record 205 passes. His half-brother, Zach Maynard, was the quarterback all three years at Cal. Maynard originally enrolled at the University of Buffalo, but transferred to Cal so that he and Allen could play together. In 2011, the two combined for the longest pass play in school history when they hooked up on a 90-yard score against the Washington Huskies.

One of Allen's closest friends is Cincinnati Bengals' receiver Marvin Jones. They became teammates at Cal after Jones hosted Allen during his recruiting visit.

JERRY ATTAOCHU

Outside Linebacker

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Draft 2 – '14

Georgia Tech

Archbishop Carroll HS

Washington, D.C.

In 2014, Jerry Attaochu (uh-TAU-choo) endured the highs and lows of being a rookie in the National Football League.

Attaochu's career jumped out to a fast start as he blocked a punt and logged a sack and forced fumble in the Bolts' season opener on national TV in Arizona. Two games later, however, Attaochu suffered a hamstring injury during a game in Buffalo and the injury dogged him for much of the season. Attaochu showed promise playing in 11 games, and he gained valuable experience from veterans like Jarret Johnson and Dwight Freeney along the way.

When the Chargers traded up seven spots in the second round of the 2014 NFL Draft to select Attaochu, little did they know that he long had his eye on becoming a Bolt. Besides his play at Georgia Tech, the Chargers were impressed by Attaochu's 10-yard split time (1.55) in the 40-yard dash at his pro day, a time that was one-hundredth of a second faster than the draft's No. 1 pick, Jadeveon Clowney, recorded at the NFL Scouting Combine. This came after Attaochu had approached several members of the Chargers' coaching and scouting staff at the 2014 NFL Senior Bowl to gauge their interest in him.

Attaochu was born in Ibadan, Nigeria, and moved to the United States when he was eight. His father, Paul, was an exchange student in the U.S. in the 1980s and he returned to Nigeria where he married Attaochu's mother, Comfort. Shortly after, the family returned to the States and settled in Washington, D.C. Attaochu wasn't formally introduced to football until the ninth grade and it was only after he stumbled into a line for athletic physical exams, thinking they were for the soccer team, only to discover they were actually for football tryouts at Archbishop Carroll High in D.C.

Attaochu grew up playing soccer and he follows the sport closely. His favorite national teams are the United States, Nigeria and France.

Attaochu was a science, technology and culture major at Georgia Tech. With an eye toward life after football, he spent two years interning with the Barton Executive Search Firm in Atlanta, where Tech's campus is located.

In May, the Chargers bolstered their offensive line with the signing of experienced free agent tackle Joe Barksdale, formerly of the St. Louis Rams.

A fifth-year pro, Barksdale spent his rookie season with the Oakland Raiders after being drafted in the third round. He played in all 16 games as a rookie, primarily on special teams, but he was waived early during his second season. The Rams claimed Barksdale and he played sparingly for them in 2012, but three weeks into the 2013 season, he was inserted into the starting lineup at right tackle and he remained there for 13 of the Rams' final 14 games. Last season, Barksdale started all 16 games for the Rams at right tackle and, according to Pro Football Focus, allowed just seven sacks on the season. After the year ended, instead of re-signing in St. Louis, Barksdale opted to test the waters in free agency, which ultimately led to San Diego.

Barksdale plays the game with a chip on his shoulder. That's what happens when you go from a highly-touted free agent to nearly being out of the game just over a year later. As motivation, he keeps a list in his locker that features things he intends to work on each week and throughout the season at hand.

Barksdale's career has been filled with several twists and turns that helped him get to where he is today. A heavily-recruited native of Detroit, Michigan, Barksdale spurned offers from schools all over the country to become the first-ever LSU Tiger football player to hail from the Wolverine State. And when he enrolled at LSU, he did so as a defensive tackle, but since the Tigers had a defensive front loaded with All-America players, the coaching staff convinced him to switch over to offense and the rest is history. Barksdale played immediately on LSU's national championship team as a freshman in 2007, and then he ended up starting for three seasons at both left and right tackle, which ultimately led to his being drafted by the Raiders in the third round.

Signing with the Chargers wasn't the most important occurrence for Barksdale in 2015. In March, he married his long-time girlfriend, Brionna Blackwell. The two grew up together in Detroit and have known each other since the third grade. A couple of years ago, Barksdale took up playing guitar as a hobby and he wowed their guests by knocking out a few blues tunes at the couple's recent wedding. Barksdale enjoys freestyle jam sessions and while playing for the Rams, he made frequent visits to local blues establishments where he played guitar for the patrons.

At LSU, Barksdale was a member of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity. While playing in Oakland, he participated in community service events with the fraternity's Bay Area graduation chapter.

34 DONALD BROWN

Running Back
5-10, 207
7th NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

UFA (Indianapolis) - '14
Connecticut
Catholic HS
Red Bank, N.J.

A 2009 first-round pick of the Indianapolis Colts, Brown joined the Chargers in 2014. He is a sure-handed and durable back who can provide a spark on both offense and special teams.

In Week 3 at Buffalo in 2014, Brown had a career-high 31 rushing attempts, while adding four receptions in a 22-10 win over the Bills.

Chargers General Manager Tom Telesco and Brown have a history together as Telesco was a key member of the Colts' front office when they selected Brown with the 27th overall pick out of Connecticut in 2009.

Brown applied for the 2009 NFL Draft after leading the nation in rushing (2,083 yards) and scoring 18 touchdowns as a junior at UConn.

In six seasons, he has never lost a fumble. That includes carrying the football 636 times, good for 2,600 yards with 17 touchdowns, and catching it 112 times for 978 yards and a pair of scores.

Brown enjoys outdoor activities with his family. He works hard to maintain his conditioning and closely watches everything he eats, not an easy task considering Brown's wife, Mallory, owned a bakery in Indianapolis called Sugar Coated Indy. Mallory graduated from James Madison University. The couple married in 2012 and they have two sons, Hudson and Piersen. They also have two Bernese Mountain Dogs.

This April, Brown was invited to participate in the NFL's Business Management and Entrepreneurial Program at the San Francisco campus of the Wharton School from the University of Pennsylvania. A total of 32 current and former NFL players were invited to participate in the program, which covered topics including financing, operations and business development.

56*DONALD BUTLER*Inside Linebacker*6-1, 242*6th NFL Season*6th with Chargers*Draft 3 – '10*Washington*Del Campo HS*Fair Oaks, Calif.

Donald Butler led the Bolts' linebacking corps with 83 tackles in 2014, second on the squad, and he paced the team with three fumble recoveries. He did so playing in just 14 games as result of an elbow injury that landed him on "Reserve-Injured" for the team's final two games of the year.

The 2014 season was a year that didn't live up to his own lofty expectations, but Butler is determined to return to top form.

Feeling good once again, Butler is eager to regain the form that led the Chargers to sign the former Washington Husky to a multi-year contract extension in Feb. 2014.

Butler set himself up for the contract extension with a huge performance in 2013 as the Bolts reached the NFL's Divisional Playoffs. He ranked second on the team in tackles during the regular season (99) and first during the playoffs (19). He also added an interception, two tackles for loss and a forced fumble in the postseason. His forced fumble turned out to be one of the team's biggest plays of the post-season. Late in the first half of the team's Wild Card Playoff win in Cincinnati, Butler stripped the Bengals' Giovani Bernard from behind as Bernard was on his way to the end zone with a head of steam in a 7-7 game. Instead of falling behind 14-7, the Bolts recovered and went on to outscore the Bengals 20-0 in the second half en route to a 27-10 win. Then a week later in the divisional playoffs in Denver, Butler made an acrobatic interception, pulling down a second quarter Peyton Manning pass while tiptoeing along the back line of the end zone.

The Chargers have long envisioned a bright future for Butler. In 2010, the team made a draft-day trade with San Francisco to move up 12 spots and select him. His rookie season, however, was derailed by a torn left Achilles tendon during a training camp practice. Instead of playing and vying for all-rookie honors, Butler spent 2010 rehabilitating and when 2011 arrived, the door of opportunity swung wide open. He paid close attention and took copious notes from veteran inside linebacker Takeo Spikes. The two started side-by-side and Butler's repaired Achilles held up as he and Spikes ranked 1-2 on the team in tackles with 119 and 102, respectively. By the time the '11 season concluded, Butler had started all 16 games and he was the only Chargers defender to hang a number in every statistical defensive category.

Butler studied construction management at Washington. His mom, Janet Rice, is a single parent who works for the Oakland (Calif.) Housing Authority. Her career path is what spurred an interest in Donald in the business side of construction. For two years while he was in college, he interned with the Walsh Construction Co. in Tacoma, Wash.

A 2014 fifth-round choice, Ryan Carrethers spent his entire rookie season on the Chargers' active roster. He played in six games and made one start.

KELLEN CLEMENS

Quarterback6-2, 220*10th NFL Season*2nd with Chargers*UFA (St. Louis) - '14*Oregon*Burns HS*Burns, Ore.

Kellen Clemens will play his second season with the Chargers in 2015. A second-round pick of the New York Jets in 2006, Clemens has played in New York, Washington, Houston and St. Louis. His resume boasts 21 NFL starts.

Clemens started the last nine games for St. Louis in 2013, leading them to wins in four of their last seven.

Clemens grew up in Burns, Oregon, a cowboy town located in the southeast corner of the state that was more than 100 miles removed from the nearest interstate. His biological father, Vernon Vincent, was killed in a mill accident when Kellen was just six months old and his mother remarried John Clemens a couple of years later. After remarrying, the family moved onto a 3,500-acre Black Angus beef cattle ranch that had been in the Clemens family for six generations since 1870. Located in Harney County in Ore., the house the family lived in was actually the county's first school house before it became an actual working ranch. As a child, Clemens worked on the ranch, doing things like herding cattle, bailing hay and fixing machinery. It's also where he learned to play football and he often trained by dragging tractor tires through the hay fields. His father, John Clemens, played college football as a defensive back at Portland State in the early 1980s and his grandfather, Delmer Clemens, played at Oregon in the 1950s.

Prior to enrolling at Oregon, Kellen prepped at Burns High School where he set state records for passing yards and touchdowns. He went 31-7 as a starter, became the only player from the state to earn Parade Magazine All-America honors, and led the Hilanders to the state finals as a senior.

At Oregon, Clemens set single-season passing records and he finished his career as the Ducks' third-all-time leading passer in both yards and touchdowns. Unfortunately, his career ended prematurely when he broke his leg in the eighth game of his senior season as result of a horse-collar tackle during a game. Still, enamored with his upside, the Jets drafted Clemens in the second round of the 2006 NFL Draft.

A practicing Roman Catholic, Clemens married his wife, Nicole, while playing at Oregon. She had attended the University of San Diego. The couple has three children: Kate, Grant and Scarlett. In 2008, Clemens, Nicole and young daughter, Kate, attended a mass conducted by Pope Benedict in Washington D.C., and after the mass as part of the Papal procession, the Pope walked by and blessed the couple's daughter.

Clemens has four sisters, two of whom, Maria and Jessica, played college volleyball at Portland State after winning state championships in volleyball, basketball and track at Burns High.

20 CHRIS DAVIS

Cornerback
5-10, 201
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Free Agent – '14
Auburn
Woodlawn HS
Birmingham, Ala.

Shortly after the 2014 NFL Draft concluded, the Chargers signed a free agent rookie who made one of the most iconic plays in college football history: former Auburn Tiger Chris Davis.

Davis' improbable 109-yard return of a missed field goal at the end of the 2013 Iron Bowl against in-state rival Alabama vaulted the Tigers into the SEC Championship Game and ultimately a date with Florida State in the BCS National Championship Game. Besides being broadcast to a nationwide audience on CBS, replays of Davis' return against the Crimson Tide have been watched more than 5,000,000 times on YouTube and Davis won the 2014 ESPY Award for the year's best play.

Davis was one of just three undrafted rookies to make the Chargers' opening day roster in 2014. He played sparingly early in the year, but midway through the season he became the team's primary kickoff returner. Davis returned 19 kickoffs for the Chargers, one shy of qualifying for the NFL's official rankings, however his 25.1-yard return average would have tied for 11th in the league.

A peek underneath Davis' helmet reveals a young man who has overcome tremendous adversity in his life. He was raised in the projects of Birmingham, Alabama by a single parent, mother Janice Brown, after his father, Christopher Lynn Davis, Sr., was murdered when he was just two. His aunt, Michelle Brown, and grandmother, Edith Brown, were also very instrumental in his upbringing. Davis refused to give in to the temptations that surrounded him in Birmingham as he excelled in the classroom and on the football field and basketball court at Woodlawn High School. Keeping on the straight-and-narrow led him to Auburn University, which ultimately set the wheels in motion for his history-making play. Davis excelled athletically and academically at Auburn, where he earned his degree in public administration in just 3 1/2 years. Now with a college degree in his back pocket and a year of NFL experience under his belt, Davis is able to focus on doing something else that he never had a chance to experience himself, being a father to his young son, Chris Davis III.

77*KING DUNLAP

Tackle
6-9, 330
8th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

UFA (Philadelphia) - '13
Auburn
Brentwood Academy
Nashville, Tenn.

For King Dunlap, 2014 was a great year to have a great year. The Chargers' left tackle started all 16 games for the first time in his career and, according to Stats, Inc., allowed just 3.5 sacks on the season while protecting Philip Rivers' blindside. In December, Dunlap's teammates elected him the team's Lineman of the Year, and in February, the Chargers rewarded the soon-to-be unrestricted free agent with a new four-year contract.

A 2008 seventh-round pick of the Philadelphia Eagles, Dunlap joined the Chargers in 2013 after five up-and-down seasons in the City of Brotherly Love. In his first season with the Chargers, Dunlap started 11 games and Rivers was sacked just 30 times, tied for fourth-fewest in the league. The offensive line cleared the way for the team to rush for 1,965 yards. Dunlap missed three games late in the season with a neck injury, but he returned in time to help the Bolts win their final four games and reach the playoffs for the first time since 2009.

A native of Nashville, Tennessee, Dunlap was one of the state's most heavily recruited players coming out of high school. Even though he ultimately settled on playing collegiately at Auburn, Georgia Tech was one of the teams trying hard to woo him to their Atlanta campus. Coincidentally the Yellow Jackets' offensive line coach at the time was current Chargers line coach, Joe D'Alessandris.

Dunlap's father, King Dunlap IV, is a former defensive tackle who played college football at Tennessee State before the Baltimore Colts picked him in the fifth round of the 1969 NFL Draft. His mother, Robin, is a former track star who also competed at Tennessee State, while his younger sister, Victoria, spent time in the WNBA playing for the Washington Mystics and the Seattle Storm. Victoria played collegiately at Kentucky where she was an All-America and the SEC Player of the Year who also competed in the high jump for the Wildcats' track and field team.

Dunlap, who loves roller coasters, finds the only downside to being 6-9 is that he's too tall to ride most of them. He hit his big growth spurt in the eighth grade, going from 5-11 to 6-5. He played middle linebacker as a youth before shifting to the defensive line and ultimately to the offensive line.

Dunlap's full name, King David Dunlap V, was derived from the Bible's King David. He has two sons, King VI and Jaylen, and a daughter, Kayla.

BRANDON FLOWERS

Cornerback
5-9, 187
8th NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

UFA (Kansas City) – '14
Virginia Tech
Atlantic HS
Delray Beach, Fla.

Last June, the Chargers added former Kansas City Chiefs Pro Bowl cornerback Brandon Flowers to their secondary. Less than a year later, after leading the Chargers in interceptions and passes defended, the Bolts made sure Flowers wasn't going to get away, signing him to a new four-year contract that will run through 2018.

The new contract wasn't the biggest news of the offseason for Flowers. He became a first-time dad in February when his daughter, Brynn Tylar, was born.

A native of Delray Beach, Florida, Flowers enjoys spending time with his large extended family in the Sunshine State. Though no longer married, his father, Willie, and mother, Patricia, have both been tremendous influences in his life. Willie is a former Florida State free safety who can count on one hand the number of Flowers' games that he's missed since he was just seven years old. It includes travel up and down the East Coast when Flowers played at Virginia Tech, and even further when he played for the Chiefs. Last March, Flowers presented Willie with a brand-new Range Rover for his 58th birthday to help ease the travel burden. Brandon's mother raised he and his sister, Brittany, often working two jobs to provide for her children. Brittany graduated from Florida State in only three years with a degree in communications and has worked for Fox Sports.

Another role model for Flowers is former NFL cornerback Patrick Surtain. In high school, one of Flowers' cousins dated and later married Surtain's brother. At the time, Surtain played for the Dolphins and Flowers was fortunate enough to spend quite a bit of time with Surtain. Years later, it proved to be quite a coincidence when Flowers was drafted by the Chiefs and ended up starting opposite Surtain.

Beyond football and spending time with family, Flowers is a movie buff and a gym rat. He enjoys playing pickup football and basketball games at local parks with kids in his hometown. Flowers also is an active cyclist, believing that it helps him with his stamina and endurance.

Flowers has a personal chef and he maintains a strict diet. He has his blood levels measured and eats foods that metabolize most efficiently in his body. It's not easy to do when your favorite meal is mom's oxtails and gravy, or when you come from a family full of great cooks, including his dad's steaks and his aunt's seafood gumbo.

Flowers originally came into the NFL as a second-round pick of the Chiefs. Just seven games into his rookie season, he intercepted the first two passes of his career against the New York Jets and future Hall of Fame quarterback Brett Favre. Flowers returned one of the picks 91 yards for his first NFL touchdown and he became one of just four NFL rookies in 2008 to record multiple interceptions in a game. Flowers played six seasons in Kansas City and went to his first Pro Bowl after the 2013 season when the Chiefs went 11-5 and made their first playoff appearance since 2010. Flowers enjoyed his top statistical season with the Chiefs in 2009 when he led the squad and set career highs with five interceptions and 28 passes defended.

FIRST PITCH

In April, Flowers was invited to throw out the first pitch before a San Diego Padres game against the Padres' rival, the Los Angeles Dodgers.

MALCOM FLOYD

Wide Receiver

10th NFL Season

12th with Chargers

Free Agent - '04

Wyoming

River City HS

Sacramento, Calif.

The Chargers' Most Inspirational Player and Ed Block Courage Award winner, Malcom Floyd's accomplishments in 2014 were nothing short of remarkable.

Less than a year removed from a neck injury that caused him to be taken away on a stretcher from Philadelphia's Lincoln Financial Field, Floyd returned with a vengeance. He started all 16 games for the first time in his career, while tying his career high and leading the team in receiving yards.

For some, the injury could have been career-ending, but Floyd was determined to re-join his teammates and he started his rehab the day after he got hurt. It started with walking laps in his back yard, then progressed to exercising with rubber therapy bands, and before long he was riding an exercise bike to maintain his cardiovascular conditioning. Assured by doctors that he could return to football, Floyd rejoined his teammates in March 2014 for the team's offseason conditioning program of running, lifting and training.

One of the things that kept Floyd motivated during his rehab was the support he received from teammates. Besides messages of encouragement, some of the team's younger players like Keenan Allen and Steve Williams spent time at Floyd's house, playing video games and keeping him company.

Floyd is now looking forward to 2015, which he has hinted could be his final NFL season. It's been a fantastic run for a player who joined the Chargers 12 years ago as an undrafted rookie from the University of Wyoming.

The eighth-leading receiver in franchise history with 4,989 yards, Floyd needs just 11 more to reach 5,000 for his career. His 291 catches rank 10th in franchise history, while his 31 touchdowns rank 11th.

Even though Floyd caught Philip Rivers' first touchdown pass back in 2004, he didn't become a mainstay in the Chargers' lineup until 2008. Since that time though, his 17.4 yards-per-catch average is the NFL's second highest. Only DeSean Jackson (17.7) has had a higher average than Floyd over the last seven seasons. And his 17.1-yard career average dating to 2004 is the team's fourth highest.

Floyd averaged 16.5-yards per catch in 2014, fifth-highest in the NFL. It included a career-long 59-yard catch against Baltimore and five catches of 40 or more yards, tied for 10th-most in the league.

Floyd performed a rather impressive feat in 2011 when he led the league in average yards per catch (19.9). That season, 41 of his 43 catches went for first downs. The 95.3 percent clip was the second-highest in NFL history (min. 32 catches). Only Henry Ellard, who totaled 71 first downs on 74 catches (95.9%) for Washington in 1994, posted a higher percentage. Floyd's first 23 catches of the season all went for first downs and his first catch that didn't result in a first down wasn't until Dec. 11.

A native of Sacramento, California, Floyd's mother, Leataata, still resides there. She volunteers as a mentor, tutor, counselor and ambassador who teaches Polynesian dancing at one of the city's poorest schools. In 2012, the Sacramento Unified School District paid tribute to her by changing the name of the school from Jedediah Smith Elementary to Leataata Floyd Elementary.

Floyd's older brother, Malcolm, also was an NFL wide receiver. He spent time with the Houston Oilers, Tennessee Titans and St. Louis Rams in the mid 1990s. The elder Floyd is now the head football coach at C.K. McClatchy High School in Sacramento.

Floyd and his wife, Daphne, have three children. When he retires from the NFL, Floyd looks forward to being a full-time father and watching his kids grow up and play sports. He also has his eyes on graduate school with hopes of someday becoming a doctor or biomedical engineer. For now, Floyd enjoys playing basketball and spending time playing with Daphne and the kids.

76 D.J. FLUKER

Tackle
6-5, 339
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Draft 1 – '13
Alabama
Foley HS
Foley, Ala.

A powerful force with a soft heart, 2013 first-round pick D.J. Flucker will play his third season as the Chargers' starting right tackle in 2015.

In his first two seasons, Flucker started 33 of 34 games, including playoffs, and all 16 at right tackle in 2014.

While many athletes overcome personal adversity to reach the pinnacle of their sport, few have experienced the hardships endured by the 24-year-old Flucker.

Flucker, whose initials come from Danny Lee Jesus, was born in New Orleans and spent the majority of his childhood in the Bayou city living in the Lower Ninth Ward. That was until Hurricane Katrina struck in 2005 and started Flucker's life spinning. When the hurricane hit, the family fled to nearby Biloxi, Mississippi. When Katrina passed and they returned to the Lower Ninth Ward, all that remained of their former home was a concrete slab. With their home demolished, Flucker's mother, Annice, scraped together what little money she could and the family headed to Mobile, Alabama. It was a rough time for the family. Flucker, then just 14 and weighing close to 400 pounds, along with his mom and siblings struggled to find shelter. Sometimes it was a church, other times a homeless shelter, and when all else failed, they would sleep in their mom's Ford station wagon. They also foraged for food wherever they could, even if it meant ravaging the dumpsters of fast food restaurants.

The tide finally began to turn when Flucker enrolled at McGill-Toolen Catholic High School and met Head Coach Steve Savarese. Savarese would occasionally let Flucker sleep at his house in a spare bedroom that had become available after Savarese's daughter moved away to college. It meant a lot to Flucker, now aged 15, because it was the first time he'd ever had a bed to himself. With a small sense of stability, Flucker became a star defensive tackle on the football field, but he continued to work hard off the field, taking nothing for granted. Flucker did odd jobs to help out his mom financially. He cut grass, he power-washed houses, he built cabinets and piers, he worked in retail stores, and he cleaned trailers. He also became one of the most popular and well-liked students at McGill-Toolen and people went out of their way to help the Flukers. Students even held a fund drive to assist a family in need and they chose the Flukers.

Then just as quickly as he found firm footing, Flucker had to go through more change. Prior to his junior year of high school, personal issues forced Flucker's mom to move the family back to Biloxi. Shortly after settling, the family's temporary home — a trailer — was burned down by kids playing with matches. The Flukers decided on a return to Alabama, this time settling in Foley for Flucker's senior year. It was at Foley High School that Flucker moved from defensive tackle to offensive tackle and it ultimately started him down the path that led him first to the University of Alabama and later to San Diego where he joined the Chargers.

At Alabama, Flucker was a cornerstone at right tackle and a three-time BCS champion. He started all 27 games during the 2011-12 seasons, earning second-team All-America and first-team All-SEC honors. With his family struggling to make ends meet, Flucker decided it was time to take matters into his own hands and made himself available for the 2013 NFL Draft. That year, Flucker graded out at 98.6% on his blocking assignments, he surrendered just four sacks, and was flagged just twice as the Crimson Tide finished the year 13-1 and 7-1 in the SEC. All the while, Flucker earned a degree in health studies in just 3 1/2 years and by doing so, he received an invitation to the Senior Bowl, which helped bolster his draft stock.

The Chargers picked Flucker 11th in the 2013 NFL Draft. His first contract included a seven-figure signing bonus. The first thing he did was purchase a new home for his mom, younger brother and two younger sisters in Mobile, and the second thing he did was pay tuition so that his younger brother, Leon, could attend college.

Knowing his family was secure allowed Flucker to flourish on the football field as a rookie with the Chargers. Besides earning all-rookie honors, his teammates chose him as the team's Most Inspirational

FIRST PITCH

On June 2, the San Diego Padres invited Flucker to throw out the first pitch before a game against the New York Mets at Petco Park.

Player. So impressive was the young Fluker that late in the year, he walked into Head Coach Mike McCoy's office and asked for permission to address the team at a time when he felt like some of his teammates weren't giving maximum effort. It was a momentum-changing experience for the whole team, which rallied around Fluker as the Bolts won their last four games of the regular season and advanced to the playoffs for the first time since 2009.

In June 2015, Fluker returned to Alabama to host a golf tournament and youth football camp. Proceeds from that camp helped support McGill-Toolen Catholic High School.

Fluker also dedicates himself to helping others in need here in San Diego. One group he's particularly fond of is at-risk youth. Fluker makes regular visits to Juvenile Hall and other facilities that treat at-risk youth. He speaks to them about the hardships and realities of life, and helps provide the children with the tools to overcome them. In July 2015, the San Diego Juvenile Justice Commission honored Fluker at its annual awards banquet. The event pays tribute to members of the law enforcement community who go above and beyond the call of duty to help incarcerated minors in the San Diego community.

Back when Fluker was a rookie in 2013, he and second-round draft pick, Manti Te'o, developed a unique bond while taking part in the NFL's Rookie Symposium in Ohio. During a break from the sessions, Fluker was sitting outside while the former Notre Dame linebacker was swimming laps in the hotel pool. As a child, Fluker nearly drowned in a swimming pool and was deathly afraid of the water. Still, Fluker showed an interest while watching Te'o swim laps, so the linebacker volunteered to hold the 340-pound lineman's midsection while he learned to kick and stroke. After a few short tries, Fluker picked it up and was able to swim a short distance, thanks to the Hawaii native's help.

Besides swimming, Fluker has also taken to boxing while playing for the Chargers. Fluker trains at a local boxing gym and the workouts have helped him drastically improve his speed, footwork and hand placement.

74*ORLANDO FRANKLIN

Guard
6-7, 320
5th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

UFA (Denver) – '15
Miami
Atlantic HS
Delray Beach, Fla.

The Chargers made a big signing early in the 2015 free agency period, inking former Denver Broncos guard Orlando Franklin to a five-year contract. The Chargers are looking for Franklin to play left guard, where the 6-7, 320 pound native of Kingston, Jamaica will line up next to 6-9, 330 pound left tackle King Dunlap, giving the Chargers a formidable duo on the left side of their offensive line.

Franklin was one of the NFL's most sought-after free agents on the heels of a season in which he surrendered just one sack and eight pressures for the league's fourth-ranked offense. It was his first season playing left guard. A year prior in 2013, Franklin helped the Broncos reach Super Bowl XLVIII as the team's starting right tackle, capping off a season in which he gave up just two sacks.

Franklin originally joined the Broncos as a second-round pick (46th overall) in 2011. During his first four seasons, he started 70 of a possible 71 games, including playoffs. From 2011-13, he started 53 of 54 games at right tackle and last season, he started all 17 at right guard.

In the NFL, few players have an easy path to reach stardom. In Franklin's case, his path was filled with potholes.

A native of Kingston, Jamaica, Franklin's mom, Sylvia, decided to relocate Orlando and his brother, Kingsley, to Toronto, Canada in search of a better life when Orlando was three years old. She was a single mother who married a Canadian man so she could live in Canada legally and she took a job working six days a week in an auto garage. After several years, the marriage deteriorated and Sylvia made the difficult decision to leave with the boys. With little money and few personal effects, Sylvia, Kingsley and Orlando moved into a homeless shelter.

Ultimately the Franklins moved out of the shelter and into a community housing project in Victoria Park. It was there that Orlando first started playing football after coming into contact with a gentleman named Roberto Allen, better known as "Coach Bubba." While football provided a positive escape for Franklin, he also had a difficult time steering clear of the wrong crowd. At the age of nine after seeing his brother get arrested, Franklin asked his mom to move him into a group home where he lived for the next 18 months. But while living in the group home, Franklin wasn't living a trouble-free life.

Over the next three years, Franklin continued to find trouble both with the law and in school. He was kicked out of school after being suspended too many times to count. It was a low point for the future NFL star. Franklin's mom once made him suffer through the indignity of incarceration. He ended up spending a couple months behind bars and when he finally returned home, his mom gave him an ultimatum: either turn his life around or the next time he got arrested, he was staying in jail. His mom even went so far as to draw up a contract that Orlando signed promising to keep on the straight and narrow.

Franklin managed to keep his troubled past in the rear-view mirror at the same time he was growing and blossoming into a promising football talent. Knowing that his football options were severely limited in Canada, Franklin convinced his mom to relocate to the United States so he could pursue the opportunity to earn a scholarship and play Division I football. They settled on Delray Beach, Florida and Franklin enrolled at Atlantic High School. He played just one season for the Eagles, but Franklin did so without allowing a sack and scholarship offers poured in, more than 70 in total. He ended up selecting the University of Miami so he could be close to his mom and it was a prophetic choice as Franklin became one of the most decorated offensive linemen in school history. He became the first freshman in school history to start every game and by the end of his college career, Franklin had played in a total of 51 games while twice earning All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors.

All of those negatives that Franklin endured as a youth have now turned into positives as he's become not only a successful professional athlete, but a role model for kids in both Canada and the United States. A kid who at one time appeared destined for a life behind bars, Franklin earned a psychology degree from Miami and he created the Orlando Franklin Foundation, whose mission is to reach out to at-risk youth. Ironically, one of the men who helps him run the foundation is a Toronto police sergeant. And while Franklin has become a success in the NFL, mom, Sylvia, now runs a successful clothing business back in Jamaica, while Kingsley has found success working in the construction industry in Canada.

85*ANTONIO GATES*Tight End*6-4, 255*13th NFL Season*13th with Chargers*Free Agent - '03*Kent State*Central HS*Detroit, Mich.

There is no doubt that five years after he catches his final pass in the National Football League, Antonio Gates will become a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

What he accomplished in 2014 served to further cement his legacy as one of the finest tight ends to ever play the game.

Gates endured and persevered in 2014. The year began in almost unimaginable fashion. In July, his younger sister, Pamela, died after a three-year battle with Lupus. Gates missed the entire offseason program so that he could remain in his hometown of Detroit, close to his family. Gates and his sister were extremely close and her illness hit him hard. With his football home halfway across the country from his hometown, Gates even pondered retirement. The Chargers remained supportive and Gates stayed by Pamela's bedside even as she lay in a coma for weeks prior to her passing. She died the day he ultimately returned to San Diego to join his teammates for the start of training camp. Gates made his peace with Pamela's illness before returning to Southern California and it provided both inspiration and a springboard for what lay ahead. Gates started the season on a tear. He caught nine touchdown passes in the team's first eight games, tying the team record for touchdowns in the first half of a season, and he ended the season with 12, tied for most in the NFL among tight ends and his best tally since 2004. Gates turned 34 two months before the 2014 season started and he became only the fourth 34-year-old player in NFL history with a 12-touchdown season, joining Cris Carter, Marvin Harrison and Terrell Owens. During the season, Gates broke Hall of Fame wide receiver Lance Alworth's franchise record for career receiving yards, giving him a trifecta as he is now the Chargers' all-time leader in receptions, receiving yards and touchdown catches. Just the 44th player and fourth tight end in NFL history to surpass 10,000 career receiving yards, Gates will begin the 2015 NFL season needing one more touchdown catch to become the ninth player in NFL history to record 100. His career totals heading into the season are 788 catches, 10,014 yards and 99 touchdowns. All-time among NFL tight ends, Gates ranks fourth in catches and yards, and second in touchdowns.

Gates is an eight-time Pro Bowl pick, a five-time Associated Press All-Pro, a member of the NFL's All-Decade Team (2000-09) and one of the Chargers' 50 Greatest Players of All-Time. In 2014, he was voted by teammates as the Chargers Offensive Player of the Year for the fourth time in his career.

Gates' route to the NFL has been well-chronicled. When he signed with the Chargers as an undrafted rookie in 2003, he had not played football since his senior season at Detroit's Central High School. He began his collegiate career at Michigan State under the assumption that he could play both football and basketball, but when football coach Nick Saban relented, Gates chose to focus on hoops and decided it was best to leave the East Lansing campus. An up-and-down start to his basketball career sent him to three different schools before he finally found a home at Kent State. He played there two seasons and helped lead the Golden Flashes to back-to-back Mid-American Conference championships and the Elite Eight of the 2002 NCAA Tournament. Gates ended his career as the sixth-leading scorer in school history and in Feb. 2010, he returned to the Kent, Ohio, campus to have his No. 44 jersey retired by the school.

Gates' 99 touchdowns since joining the NFL in 2003 are the most in the league by any player over the last 12 seasons. One of the most clutch receivers the NFL has ever seen, his 36 touchdown catches on third-down plays rank fourth in NFL history among all players and most among tight ends. And since Philip Rivers became the Chargers' starting quarterback in 2006, he and Gates have connected for 72 touchdowns, most in NFL history for a quarterback-tight end tandem.

Gates led the team with 12 touchdown catches in 2014, his fourth season with 10 or more touchdowns, tied for most in NFL history. It marked the eighth time in 12 seasons that Gates led the team in receiving touchdowns. He's also led the team in catches eight times and in yards five times. He has 21 career 100-yard games, sixth-most in team history and tied for fourth among all NFL tight ends.

With football as his platform, Gates has become a prominent community figure. When the NFL sought out spokespeople to appear in their "No More" campaign to stop domestic violence in 2014, Gates was among a select group of players asked to appear in a series of television public service announcements. Locally, his signature Shop with a Charger event is one of the most popular holiday events in San Diego, as Gates annually hosts homeless, neglected and abused children to a special night that includes a Christmas shopping spree. He also serves annually as the honorary chairman for the Shoot to Cure HD, which raises much-needed research funds for the Huntington's Disease Society of America. And Gates works closely with Promises2Kids, an organization that offers support to San Diego's foster youth community. Back in his hometown, Gates is involved in boxing as the owner of AG Promotions. He has a stable of young fighters and regularly stages fight cards in and around Detroit. Gates' paternal grandfather, Henry Hank, was a professional boxer in the 1950s and '60s who went 62-31-4 with 40 wins by knockout as a middleweight and light heavyweight. Hank's 1962 fight against Joey Giardello was voted the Fight of the Year by Ring Magazine. Old photos show a striking resemblance between Gates and his grandfather. Gates now works with his cousin, Tony Harrison, who is one of boxing's top young middleweights. Harrison started his career 19-0 with 16 wins by knockout.

LADARIUS GREEN

Tight End
6-6, 240
4th NFL Season
4th with Chargers

Draft 4 – '12
Louisiana-Lafayette
Booker T. Washington HS
Pensacola, Fla.

The player affectionately known as "Peewee" plays more like a giant.

Over the last two seasons (2013-14), Green has a 16.7-yard average on 36 catches. If he had attained the minimum 40 catches to qualify for the league's official rankings, Green's average would be highest in the NFL among tight ends over that span. As it was, his 22.1 yards per catch average in 2013 led the league at his position.

Green came from the University of Louisiana-Lafayette where he was a three-time All-Sun Belt League choice who scored the second-most touchdowns in school history during his career. The only player with more was former NFL wide receiver Brandon Stokley. Green played his final college game against San Diego State in the 2011 New Orleans Bowl and his five-catch, 121-yard with a touchdown effort left an impression on the local fan base.

Green excelled in the classroom at ULL, earning a degree in finance in just 3 1/2 years. He aspires to one day pursue a career in investment banking.

Both of Green's parents, Shannon and Walter, served in the Army and Green was born in Berlin, Germany, while his parents were serving.

The 6-6 Green was given the nickname Peewee in high school when he stood just 5-10 as a junior. Even though he hit a major growth spurt shortly thereafter and shot up to his present height, the name had stuck and teammates still refer to him by the moniker.

Green's first cousin is former Chargers guard Tyronne Green. They were teammates during Ladarius' rookie season in San Diego.

CHARGERS IN POWER BLUES

Philip Rivers

The Chargers' "Power Blue" / powder blue jerseys first reappeared in 1994 during the NFL's 75th Anniversary Season. Since then, the Chargers have worn their alternate jersey 28 times, posting a 15-13 record in those games. The team redesigned its uniform in 2007, introducing a new version of the powder blue alternate jersey, and the team is 10-8 in the most current version. From 1994-06, Chargers wore their "Throwback" jerseys, modeled after uniforms worn by 1963 AFL Championship squad, 10 times and posted a 5-5 record.

54*MELVIN INGRAM*Outside Linebacker*6-2, 247*4th NFL Season*4th with Chargers*Draft 1 – '12*South Carolina*Richmond County HS*Rockingham, N.C.

The Chargers' first-round pick in the 2012 NFL Draft, Melvin Ingram uses the term "blessed" quite frequently. And even though his last two seasons have been cut short by injury — first a knee, then a hip — Ingram feels blessed that he's healthy and strong heading into the 2015 season.

Ingram has a nose for getting to the quarterback. Despite missing seven games last season due to the hip injury, he ranked second on the squad in sacks and third in quarterback hits.

In 2013, Ingram tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee during an early offseason practice. A medical marvel, Ingram returned to the field in early December, just five months removed from the injury, and he helped boost the Chargers into the playoffs for the first time since 2009. The Bolts went 4-0 down the stretch with Ingram back on the field and they won their first playoff game since 2008. In that playoff victory, a wild card win in Cincinnati, Ingram was outstanding as he collected his first interception and led the team with four quarterback pressures.

Well aware of Ingram's budding potential, the Chargers exercised the fifth-year option on his 2012 rookie contract in April, ensuring that Ingram will remain with the Bolts through at least the 2016 season.

Once in San Diego, the 18th choice in the first round in 2012 made an immediate impression. During the first quarter of his first NFL game — a preseason contest against Green Bay — Ingram pressured reigning NFL MVP Aaron Rodgers into a hurried throw that was intercepted by one of his teammates. It was definitely noteworthy as his play came against a quarterback who threw 45 touchdowns and only six interceptions the entire previous season.

At South Carolina, Ingram ranked fourth in school history in sacks and fifth in tackles for loss. He became the third consensus first-team All-America in school history and the first since 1984. A team captain as a senior, Ingram was a leader on a unit that ranked third in the nation in total defense and 11th in scoring defense. He was part of a resurgence at South Carolina that peaked when the Gamecocks won a school-record 11 games in his final season, including a 30-13 win over Nebraska in the Capital One Bowl on New Year's Day.

To Ingram's family, his success is hardly a surprise. His father, George Melvin Ingram, Jr., predicted that his infant son would one day play in the NFL prior to his premature passing from a massive heart attack in 1998. Raised by his mom, Nancy, and two older sisters, Ingram became a cult hero in his native Rockingham, North Carolina, where the football star and three-year starter at point guard for the school's basketball team earned the nickname "SupaMelvin." So gifted is Ingram that he once walked out of a high school math class so he could go to the school's gym to break the hang-clean record in his school clothes. After a brief warmup, he did so with a lift of 380 pounds, five more than the previous school record. And prior to the 2006 Shrine Bowl All-Star Game featuring the top high school seniors from North and South Carolina, Ingram threw the fastest pass during a pregame carnival, posting the fastest throws with both his left and right hands. Ingram can also perform a standing back-flip, he can spin a football in his hand and dunk it over a crossbar, he can dunk a basketball with ease, and he can throw a football more than 70 yards without taking a step.

Ingram recently launched his own nonprofit foundation, "Melvin Ingram's Mission Possible." Its mission is to provide inner-city and low-income children with additional educational opportunities and resources. In June, he hosted a celebrity waiter event at Donovan's Steak & Chop House in San Diego to raise funds for the foundation.

Also this offseason, Ingram was asked to join professional skateboarder Tony Hawk, BMX Champion Alise Post and County government officials in a public service announcement designed to combat domestic violence. The spots aired on local cable channels throughout San Diego on both Time Warner and Cox Communications.

One of the pleasant surprises of 2014 was the late-season emergence of wide receiver Dontrelle Inman. An import from the Canadian Football League's Toronto Argonauts, Inman grabbed the coaches' attention with a solid preseason, and then he patiently waited his turn while following the lead set by the Chargers' other veteran receivers. When his number was finally called, Inman made the most of his opportunity.

Inman originally came to the NFL in 2011. He signed with Jacksonville, but due to the NFL Lockout, there was no offseason program and Inman went to training camp far behind the team's veterans. After his release, Inman caught on with the Argonauts, where he played two seasons (2012-13) and won a Grey Cup championship in 2012. In Toronto, Inman was coached by former NFL quarterback Scott Milanovich and it turns out that Milanovich was good friends with Chargers Offensive Coordinator Frank Reich. Looking to return to the NFL, Milanovich gave Reich a glowing recommendation and Inman joined the Chargers last February.

Inman earned a spot on the opening day roster on the heels of a preseason that included a 100-yard game against the Dallas Cowboys, highlighted by a 70-yard touchdown on an over-the-shoulder catch. Once the regular season rolled around, Inman's playing time was sporadic. Then during a late December game in San Francisco with the team's postseason hopes on the line, Inman was inserted into the lineup early in the second half of a game the Chargers trailed by 21 points. He made a fingertip catch on the first ball thrown his way and finished the night with seven catches for 79 yards. It included a 17-yard catch on a fourth-down play late in the fourth quarter that was part of a game-tying touchdown drive. The Chargers rallied to defeat the 49ers in overtime, 38-35, matching the greatest comeback in franchise history.

DAVID JOHNSON

Tight End
6-2, 260
7th NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

UFA (Pittsburgh) – '14
Arkansas State
Pine Bluff HS
Pine Bluff, Ark.

The versatile David Johnson proved to be a powerful blocker in his first season with the Chargers, lining up as both a tight end and fullback.

A seventh-round pick by Pittsburgh in 2009, Johnson filled both roles for the Steelers as well. He's played in 66 regular-season games, starting 28, and four postseason games, including Super Bowl XLV for the Steelers against the Green Bay Packers.

Despite being soft-spoken and a player who prefers to lead by example, Johnson is an intense competitor on the field. Back in 2012, he suffered a potentially career-ending knee injury in the first quarter of the Steelers' preseason opener in Philadelphia. Undeterred, Johnson worked his way back and returned to the field 380 days after suffering the injury. He went on to play in the first five games for the Steelers in 2013 until he suffered a wrist injury that landed him back on the "Reserve-Injured" list. At that point, Johnson opted for a fresh start, leading to his signing with the Chargers prior to 2014. Johnson stayed healthy his first season with the Bolts, appearing in 14 games, while starting two.

Two of Johnson's uncles, Cleo and Carl Miller, played professional football. Cleo played running back for the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs (1974-75) and Cleveland Browns (1975-82), as well as the USFL's Michigan Panthers (1983), while Carl spent time as a running back with the Dallas Cowboys. Johnson's cousin, Frank Okam, was a defensive tackle who won a national championship at Texas in 2005. Okam was drafted by the Houston Texans in the fifth round in 2008 and spent time with the Texans, Seattle Seahawks, Tampa Bay Buccaneers and New York Giants.

11*STEVIE JOHNSON

Wide Receiver
6-2, 207
8th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Free Agent - '15
Kentucky
Rodriguez HS
Fairfield, Calif.

The Chargers added a big-play receiver with a big personality when they signed former Buffalo Bill and San Francisco 49er Stevie Johnson to a three-year contract in March.

A seventh-round pick by the Bills in 2008, Johnson spent six seasons in Buffalo (2008-13) and a seventh (2014) with the 49ers. He joins the Chargers having caught 336 passes for 4,267 yards (12.7 average) and 31 touchdowns. From 2010-12, Johnson strung together three straight 1,000-yard seasons in Buffalo, the first player in Bills' history to do so. The run included a 2010 campaign in which he racked up 82 catches for 1,073 yards and 10 scores, all career highs.

Unbeknownst to the Chargers' front office, Johnson quietly hoped he'd get a chance to play for the Bolts in 2015. Knowing he was likely to be released by the 49ers, Johnson started watching Philip Rivers highlight videos on YouTube during the offseason and he did so picturing himself wearing No. 11 and catching passes from Rivers.

Johnson spent many of his formative years living in the Bayview-Hunters Point neighborhood in San Francisco. It was an area rife with gangs, drugs and an extremely high homicide rate. His mother Rhonda and stepfather Andre "Herm" Lewis kept Johnson active in sports and it helped him to steer clear of trouble. When Johnson was a teenager, the family left the city and moved to nearby Fairfield where he attended Rodriguez High School, the same school that produced Jason Verrett, the Chargers' first-round pick in the 2014 NFL Draft. When Johnson attended Rodriguez, however, the school didn't have a football team and it didn't field one until his junior year in 2003. Undeterred, Johnson began playing immediately and as one of the team's best athletes, he played all over the field. One position he didn't play though was wide receiver. Then late during his senior year, Johnson attended a football camp at Stanford University and coaches placed him in a group with defensive backs. Johnson felt over-matched against the wide receivers, so he quietly switched sides and began working out with them instead of against them. Coaches were impressed by his talents as a wide receiver and it gave Johnson a ticket first to Chabot College and then to the University of Kentucky, which plays in the ultra-competitive SEC.

Johnson has long considered himself to be unique and he's done many things throughout his life that some might consider unconventional.

In high school, he showed up at the senior prom with an LED panel attached to his tuxedo that flashed his nickname "Stevie Styles" in bright lights. His date that night was a woman he went on to marry in 2006, wife Britney.

When Johnson arrived at the University of Kentucky, most of the Wildcats' wide receivers wore numbers in the 80s, Johnson selected 13. He wore the number as well early in his NFL career, reasoning that if you connected the 1 and the 3 it would form a B, his affectionate nickname for his wife.

As an adult, Johnson's body is covered in tattoos, all with significant meaning. The most significant of them is a tribute to his mom, who died in her sleep in December 2014. An avid supporter of PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), Johnson also has several tattoos supporting the organization's "Ink Not Mink" anti-fur platform.

Johnson's father, Steve, Sr., and his stepfather both played an important role in his life. His stepfather is now an executive in the music industry, but he didn't always walk the straight-and-narrow path. Lewis spent time locked up earlier in his adolescence, but he turned his life around and became a community activist in addition to his career as a rap producer. Johnson's cousin is rapper Ya Boy and Johnson himself has dabbled in the music game, releasing a rap song himself with rap artist The Game.

Johnson and Britney have two daughters, Miyah and Mia Bella, and a son, Armani.

12*JACOBY JONES*Wide Receiver-Kick Returner*6-4, 215*9th NFL Season*1st with Chargers*Free Agent - '15*Lane College, Tenn.*Marion Abramson HS*New Orleans, La.

The Chargers filled a need prior to the start of unrestricted free agency in 2015 when they inked former Houston Texans and Baltimore Ravens wide receiver and kick returner extraordinaire, Jacoby Jones, to a two-year contract.

Originally a third-round pick of the Texans in 2007 out of Lane College in Jackson, Tennessee, Jones has won a Super Bowl ring and fashioned a career in which he's racked up exactly 10,000 all-purpose yards in eight NFL regular seasons.

Jones spent his first five seasons (2007-11) in Houston and joined the Ravens as a free agent in 2012. It was a memorable season as he played a prominent role in the Ravens reaching and winning Super Bowl XLVII. In their Divisional Playoff game in Denver, the Ravens trailed 35-28 when they got the ball back one final time from their own 23 with 1:09 left in the fourth quarter. On the third play of the drive, Jones snuck behind the Denver secondary on a 3rd-and-3 play and hauled in a 70-yard touchdown pass from Joe Flacco to tie the game and send it to overtime. The teams each possessed the ball twice with neither being able to score in OT, then with 1:01 left in the first overtime, the Ravens intercepted Peyton Manning and six plays later with 13:24 left in the second overtime, they kicked a 47-yard field goal to win the game and move on to the AFC Championship Game.

Baltimore beat New England in that year's title game, 28-13, setting up their Super Bowl showdown with the San Francisco 49ers and Jones again took his game to the forefront. In the big game at the Superdome in his hometown of New Orleans, Jones help put his team up 21-3 in the second quarter with a 56-yard touchdown catch on a 3rd-and-10 play, and then a short time later with his team up 21-6, Jones returned the opening kickoff of the second half 108 yards for a touchdown, setting Super Bowl and post-season records. It was all part of a night that went down in history as he racked up 290 all-purpose yards against the Niners, setting yet another NFL record.

Jones capped off his memorable 2012 season by being selected to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career, in addition to garnering consensus first-team All-Pro honors.

Jones has scored 26 career touchdowns, including playoffs. He has 16 touchdown catches, six kickoff returns and four punt returns. His nine kickoff and punt return touchdowns in the regular season are tied for sixth all-time and his five kickoff return touchdowns are tied for eighth. In addition to his NFL-record 108-yard kickoff return in the Super Bowl, Jones has two equal length returns in the regular season, both tied for the second-longest in NFL history. He had one against Dallas in 2012 and another against Pittsburgh last season. Jones is the only player in Ravens history with three return touchdowns in a single season (2012).

The Chargers saw firsthand just how dangerous Jones could be during their 34-33 win last November in Baltimore. Jones averaged 33.3 yards per return against the Bolts, including a 72-yard return that led to a field goal late in the game. Two of the last three seasons, Jones has averaged more than 30 yards per kickoff return, including a 30.7-yard average that led the NFL and set a Ravens record in 2012 and a 30.6-yard average that ranked second in the NFL last season. And four times during his career, Jones has averaged more than 10.0 yards on punt returns, including a career-best 12.5 average in 2013.

Away from the field, Jones' hobbies include bowling, playing pool, Laser Tag, collecting shoes and watching movies. Comedies, action and Greek Mythology are his favorite genres. Jones is a big basketball and baseball fan. A talent himself on the hardwood, Jones was a three-guard in college who helped take his team at Lane College to the Division II Sweet 16 his sophomore year. Travel within the United States is another passion. Los Angeles and Miami are his two favorite cities to visit. And Jones loves to be by the water, whether relaxing or riding jet skis.

An only child, Jones was raised by a single parent, his mom, Emily, with help from his aunt, Jeanette Larkins, Emily's younger sister. Jones and his mom oversee the Jacoby Jones Foundation, which is based out of their hometown in New Orleans. This offseason, the foundation bought 500 sleeping bags that they donated to local homeless in New Orleans, and last year they bought and distributed an equal number of coats. Every year on the first weekend of June, the foundation hosts a celebrity basketball game, youth football camp, cheerleader dance contest and a cook-out/barbecue to raise money for the foundation. Not limiting his benevolence to the Crescent City, Jones also donated 300 tablets to local school children in Baltimore in 2014.

Another cause that is dear to Jones' heart is breast cancer. Larkins and another aunt both fought and beat breast cancer so every October, Jones wears pink cleats and accessories as a tribute to them.

As recognizable as Jones is on the football field, he's also established quite a following away from it. In 2013, Jones appeared on the popular ABC reality show Dancing with the Stars, finishing third with his partner, professional dancer Karina Smirnoff. During his playing days in Baltimore, Jones hosted a radio show on the Fan 105.7 and a TV show on the city's Fox affiliate.

Nose Tackle
6-3, 303
6th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Trade (Dallas) – '13
William & Mary
Dumont HS
Dumont, N.J.

Nose tackle Sean Lissemore has been a solid contributor for the Chargers since coming over from Dallas in a trade in September 2013. As a nose tackle in the team's 3-4 defense, Lissemore is often tasked with occupying multiple blockers across the line of scrimmage, freeing up those around him to make game-changing plays. Still, he's ranked third on the defensive line in tackles each of the last two seasons.

A native of Dumont, New Jersey, Lissemore grew up a fan of the New York Giants. Lawrence Taylor was his favorite player and Lissemore wore Taylor's No. 56 through junior high and high school. A state medalist as a 215-pound wrestler, Lissemore also was one of the area's top throwers and sprinters, and he played saxophone in the school band. Lissemore could have attended college on a wrestling scholarship, but he decided to pursue his dream of playing in the NFL and attended William & Mary.

Lissemore still maintains close ties to his hometown. For the last several years, he's returned home to host a free football camp for kids 6-and-older in Dumont. A number of athletes and coaches volunteer their time, including former Indianapolis Colts and Giants' safety David Caldwell, who played with Lissemore at William & Mary. Another of Lissemore's teammates at William & Mary was Jake Phillips, the brother of Chargers' tight end, John Phillips.

There is a long history of military and civil service in Lissemore's family. Both of his grandfathers served in the Army and fought in World War II. His maternal grandfather fought in France, while his paternal grandfather, who also served in the Korean War, fought in the Pacific theater. Lissemore coincidentally was born on Sept. 11 and his dad, William Lissemore, a telecommunications specialist, happened to be working in Manhattan on the day of the 9-11 terrorist attacks in 2001. Inspired, like many Americans were after that fateful day, the elder Lissemore offered his services to help the military set up their telecommunications at "Ground Zero," and he later became a volunteer fireman with the Dumont Fire Department.

Besides serving his country, Lissemore's grandfather on his mother's side played semi-pro basketball in Pennsylvania.

This April, Lissemore was invited to participate in the NFL's Business Management and Entrepreneurial Program at the San Francisco campus of the Wharton School from the University of Pennsylvania. A total of 32 current and former NFL players were invited to participate in the program, which covered topics including financing, operations and business development.

In July, Lissemore tied the knot with the former Chelsea Niles, his longtime girlfriend from college. The couple wed on July 4th in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Lissemore's hobbies include boating and fishing.

94*COREY LIUGET*Defensive Tackle*6-2, 300*5th NFL Season*5th with Chargers*Draft 1 – '11*Illinois*Hialeah HS*Miami, Fla.

Corey Liuget has the ability to dominate on the defensive line. In June 2015, the Chargers made sure he would remain in San Diego for the long haul, signing him to a multi-year contract extension that will keep him in Lightning Bolts through 2020.

In 2014, Liuget led the defensive line in tackles (65), while leading the team in sacks (4.5), tackles for loss (19) and quarterback pressures (18). He also tied for the team lead in forced fumbles (two) and ranked second in quarterback hits (18). Liuget even scored the first touchdown of his career on a fumble recovery during a December game in San Francisco.

The Chargers' first-round pick in 2011, Liuget was San Diego's Defensive Player of the Year in 2012. In 2013, he led the team in sacks, tackles for loss, quarterback pressures and quarterback hits. He played some of his best football down the stretch in helping the Chargers reach the playoffs for the first time since 2009. He collected six of his team-leading 10 tackles for loss in the last six games and in the Chargers' Wild Card Playoff win in Cincinnati, he led the line in tackles, while also contributing a sack, a tackle for loss, a pass defended and a quarterback hit.

Liuget's rise on the field is impressive when considering the obstacles he faced early in his career. After being drafted in 2011, the NFL lockout wiped out what would have been Liuget's first offseason with the team. Instead of working out with teammates and studying with coaches, he was forced to go it alone. After the lockout ended and the season rolled around, injuries took a toll on the Chargers' defensive line and Liuget was pressed into immediate duty. He played in 15 games and made 13 starts, but by season's end, his weight had ballooned to more than 325 pounds, due in large part to an extended visit from his mom, Lorene, and her home cooking. Rather than continuing to pack on pounds, Liuget made a decision to travel back to Florida where he could train at his alma mater, Miami's Hialeah High School. The move paid dividends as Liuget lowered his weight to 300 pounds and it set the wheels in motion for a breakthrough 2012 season in which he led San Diego's defensive line in sacks, tackles, tackles for loss and passes defended.

Work ethic is one trait that was drilled into Liuget at an early age. His father, DeJa, was killed while visiting Corey's grandmother in Haiti in 1993. It left Lorene to raise Corey and his four older brothers and sisters as a single parent in Miami's Liberty Square housing projects, also known as the Pork 'n' Beans public housing projects. When her kids were young, Lorene enlisted their help to make ends meet. She would boil peanuts, and make candy apples, conch fritters and sweet potato pies, which Corey and his brothers and sisters would sell. It worked as it taught all of the Liuget kids about work ethic and discipline.

Liuget had a standout prep career as a 6-2, 220-pound quarterback at Hialeah High School. He ran a 4.6-second 40-yard dash and was highly recruited by a number of colleges. Despite hailing from a close-knit family that tops 100 in number and a strong recruiting push from the big in-state schools, Liuget opted to chart his own path and enroll at the University of Illinois. After a couple of years in Champaign, Ill. though, Liuget grew homesick and contemplated returning home after his sophomore season. Some tough love from his mom persuaded him to stick it out and instead of moping over the situation, he used it as motivation. Liuget lost 25 pounds between his sophomore and junior seasons, and feeling re-invigorated, had a career year for the Fighting Illini in 2010. Liuget chose to leave school a year early and apply for the 2011 NFL Draft. The Chargers loved the toughness, tenacity and relentless approach to the game that he showed and made him their first-ever first-round pick from Illinois.

Liuget appreciates living in San Diego, a city with a strong military history, as his two older sisters — Ideidre and Latronika — both serve in the Army.

Liuget enjoys traveling. In 2013, he vacationed in the Dominican Republic, where he learned to surf and scuba dive. In 2014, Liuget and his girlfriend, Faven, visited Ethiopia, Dubai, Costa Rica and the Bahamas. And this offseason the couple visited Egypt and Aruba, while also returning to the Dominican Republic.

One of Liuget's favorite hobbies is fishing. He often goes deep-sea fishing with his cousins back home in Miami. Liuget has also hosted fishing trips in San Diego for children from area nonprofit agencies.

One of the beneficiaries of Liuget's love of the water is F3G (Fish, Food, Feel Good), an organization that collects fish from sport fishermen and distributes it free of charge to local charities. F3G was founded by Todd Bluechel and annually feeds more than 80,000 San Diegans in need, including elderly, homeless, jobless and military veterans.

A former seventh-round pick of the Indianapolis Colts, Mathews joined the Chargers in September 2014, and played in 12 games during his first season in San Diego. Mathews became a regular in the team's defensive line rotation and finished the year with 25 tackles and 1.5 sacks, matching his sack total coming into the season. Mathews also had six tackles for loss and two forced fumbles, tied for the team high.

One of Mathews' forced fumbles was recovered for a touchdown by Corey Liuget during the Chargers' 38-35 overtime win in San Francisco in December. Mathews totaled six quarterback hits during the season as well, including a team-leading three during the Chargers win over St. Louis in late November.

Mathews played college football in Cincinnati, where he and former Bearcats teammate, Leo Morgan, are co-owners of Island Frydays, a Jamaica-themed restaurant that has been featured on Diners Drive-ins and Dives on the Food Network.

Being in San Diego, a city with a strong Naval presence, suits Mathews well. His father, Ricardo, spent time in the Navy, as did his brother-in-law, Joseph Gosch.

KYLE MILLER

2nd NFL Season

Waivers (Atl.) - '15
Mount Union
Elida HS
Elida, Ohio

In May, the Chargers claimed Miller off waivers from the Atlanta Falcons.

He has spent time with Jacksonville, Indianapolis, Miami and the Falcons. Miller originally signed with Jacksonville as an undrafted free agent in 2011, but was waived at the end of training camp. He caught on with Indianapolis in 2012, spending the first nine weeks of the season on the Colts' practice squad before making his NFL debut Nov. 18 at New England. A day later, he was waived by the Colts and claimed by Miami. Miller finished the year with the Dolphins but was inactive for each of their final seven games. He later spent the 2013 season on Miami's practice squad and the 2014 season on Atlanta's.

Miller is a second-generation NFL player. His father Mark was a quarterback who was a third-round pick (68th overall) of the Cleveland Browns in 1978 after playing collegiately at Bowling Green. Mark played in 10 games for the Browns during the 1978-79 seasons. After playing, he returned to Bowling Green as a coach and now works in education, as does Miller's mom, Barb, who is an elementary school physical education teacher in Ohio.

Miller's two older brothers also played college sports. Brother, Adam, played linebacker at Harvard and brother, Zac, was a baseball infielder at Ohio Northern University. Kyle also was a good baseball player. A first baseman in high school, he attended Mount Union to play football, but during his college summers, Miller would return to his hometown and coach the summer league baseball team at Elida High School.

In 2012, in between stints with Indianapolis and Jacksonville, Miller was hired as the head football coach at Columbus Grove High School in Ohio. He spent the offseason coaching the team but had to step down when he signed with the Colts in April.

Miller and his wife, Chelsea, have a son, Lucas.

Miller's two grandfathers, George Miller and Paul Reardon, both served in the Army and fought in World War II.

Kicker
6-0, 198
8th NFL Season
6th with Chargers

Free Agent - '12
Maryland
Albemarle HS
Charlottesville, Va.

The second-most accurate kicker in franchise history, Nick Novak has found a home with his hometown team.

A San Diego native, Novak has hit 101 of 117 during his Chargers career. His conversion rate of 86.3 percent ranks just behind Nate Kaeding's franchise record of 87.0 percent. Kaeding made 180 of 207 during his Chargers career.

Novak made 22 of his 26 field goal tries in 2014 (84.6 pct.), a year after making a team-record 91.9 percent (34 of 37) in 2013. Over the course of those two seasons, he made a franchise-record 32 straight field goals. His 34 field goals in 2013 tied John Carney's single-season record and his 34th was nearly unforgettable as it was an overtime game-winner against Kansas City in the season finale that lifted the Chargers into the AFC Playoffs for the first time since 2009.

Novak heads into the 2015 season with 459 career points for the Chargers, good for seventh on the team's career scoring list. His 101 made field goals rank fourth in team history and he's converted 128 consecutive point after tries, the second-longest streak in team history.

When Novak originally linked up with the Chargers in 2010, it was a chance for a fresh start. It came on the heels of a 2009 season that was a low point both personally and professionally. In 2009, no teams invited him to attend camp, so Novak spent the year at his alma mater, the University of Maryland, cold-calling alumni for donations to the school's athletic department. He was making just 11 dollars an hour. It was a trying time as the country was mired in a financial crisis. However, opportunity knocked once again in 2010 when the Chargers invited him to training camp for a chance to compete with Kaeding. Novak ended up losing a close competition, but his time with the Bolts put him back on football's radar screen. The Chargers were the sixth team Novak had spent time with after brief stints in Chicago, Dallas, Washington, Arizona and Kansas City. After the Chargers let him go, Novak caught on with the Florida Tuskers of the fledgling UFL. Under less than perfect conditions, he hit 15 of 18 field goals for the Tuskers and was named the league's Special Teams MVP. Later that same season, the Chargers attempted to re-sign him after Kaeding suffered a groin injury, but the UFL's rules and stipulations prevented the Bolts from doing so.

In 2011, a seventh team—the New York Jets—signed Novak, but again he lost a close competition, this time to veteran Nick Folk. Disappointed, Novak returned to San Diego to live and train. He happened to be having lunch with former NFL kicker Michael Husted the day of the Chargers' 2011 season opener against Minnesota when Kaeding injured his knee on the game's opening kickoff. Just days later, Novak got the call he long waited for. The Chargers wanted to sign him as the team's replacement for Kaeding.

Novak went on to enjoy a storybook season for the Chargers. A career 63.3-percent field goal kicker prior to 2011, he made his first 12 field goals for the Bolts, including two in a three-point win over Kansas City, four in a 10-point win over Miami and five in a five-point win at Denver that included a then career-long 51-yarder and a clutch 35-yarder with just 24 seconds left in the fourth quarter. Novak finished the season making 27 of 34, while setting team records for field goals of 40 (12) and 50 (4) yards or longer.

The 2012 season was a virtual instant replay. A healthy Kaeding returned to the roster and edged out Novak in another close training camp battle. It was so close in fact that some thought Novak might have won the job after hitting a game-winning 45-yard field goal as time expired in the team's third preseason game at Minnesota.

Again Novak was disappointed at his release, but he continued to train. Then just two days before the Chargers' fourth game of the 2012 season, Kaeding injured his groin in practice and within a couple hours, Novak had returned to Chargers Park, signed a contract and boarded a plane to fly with the team to Kansas City. Two days later at Arrowhead Stadium, he went 3-for-3 on field goal tries, hitting from 24, 47 and 45 yards, and he helped the Bolts to a 37-20 win and a 3-1 start to the season.

Within weeks of Novak's re-joining the team, the Chargers released Kaeding and officially handed him the job. He responded by finishing the year 18-of-20 on field goals, including a perfect 18-18 from inside 50 yards. His 90-percent conversion rate was the third-highest for a season in team history. Novak also helped the Chargers rank among the league leaders in drive starts following kickoffs. Opponents began their drives at the 20.4-yard line, third best in the NFL, as 22 of his 62 kickoffs went for touchbacks.

Novak's career came full circle in March 2013 when the Chargers signed him to a four-year contract that provided stability for the first time in his career.

Novak is very active in community endeavors. He regularly visits area schools to speak on important topics, including bullying. He also hosts an annual free kicking clinic for middle school and high school kickers in San Diego. Last year, he served as an honorary chairman for the Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure in San Diego. In 2011, he lent his name and his right leg to the American Cancer Society in honor of a family friend, Annie Arth, who died of ovarian and breast cancer in 2005. He raised more than $7,500 for the ACS, contributing $100 for every made field goal, a total that was matched by both the Chargers and his agent. In 2012, Novak supported the Chloe Nichols Foundation, which provides college scholarships for students involved in creative arts, while also bringing attention to the serious medical warnings and possible side effects of prescription drugs. And in 2013, he joined forces with Cleveland Browns kicker Billy Cundiff to again fight ovarian cancer through Cundiff's Kicking for the Dream, a program which supports Colleen's Dream Foundation, named after Cundiff's mother-in-law and a victim of ovarian cancer, Colleen Drury.

Novak was born in San Diego, which makes his story even more fascinating. He lived in San Diego until he was 13, when his parents relocated to work at the University of Virginia. One of Novak's close friends growing up was Kellen Winslow, Jr., son of the Chargers' Hall of Fame tight end by the same name. The two share the same godmother.

Novak went to the University of Maryland after a stellar high school football and soccer career in Virginia. He was a scholar-athlete for the Terrapins and twice beat Philip Rivers and North Carolina State with late fourth-quarter kicks.

Novak's mom, Julie, a nurse at the Health Science Center at the University of Texas-San Antonio, was recently inducted into the American Academy of Nursing. His dad, Bob, also works in healthcare as an audiologist, working with wounded veterans.

With an eye toward his post-football livelihood, Novak participated in the NFL's Business Management and Entrepreneurial Program at the Harvard Business School in 2011.

BRANDEN OLIVER

Running Back

5-8, 208

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Free Agent – '14

Buffalo

Southridge HS

Miami, Fla.

One of the fun stories of the 2014 NFL season was the emergence of running back Branden Oliver. Compactly built at 5-foot-8, 208 pounds and wearing No. 43 with an exciting running style, Oliver had fans waxing nostalgic about the similarities to former Chargers running back Darren Sproles.

Oliver ended 2014 as the Chargers' leading rusher. Along the way, he delivered a couple of memorable performances, twice being named Pepsi NFL Rookie of the Week. Oliver earned his first honor after a 31-0 win over the New York Jets. During the victory, he became the first Charger with a 50-yard catch and a 50-yard run in the same game since Lionel "Little Train" James in 1985, and he became the NFL's first rookie to do so since Clinton Portis in 2002. New York came into the game with the NFL's top-ranked rushing defense, allowing just 63.3 yards per game and Oliver gouged them for 114 yards. And his 6.0 yards-per-carry average was double the 3.0 avg. the Jets had allowed coming into the contest. A week after his showing against New York, Oliver earned his second Pepsi award after rushing for 101 yards in Oakland and scoring the winning touchdown late in the fourth quarter of a 31-28 victory over the Raiders.

These were impressive accomplishments for a young player who wasn't even selected in May's NFL Draft despite leaving the University of Buffalo as the school's all-time leading rusher. After a tryout in Indianapolis, Oliver ended up signing with the Chargers. He made the opening day roster after an impressive preseason in which he rushed for 161 yards and a touchdown on just 35 carries for a 4.6-yard per carry average. Oliver really caught the coaches' attention during the Bolts' preseason opener against the Dallas Cowboys when he rushed seven times for 64 yards and had a 16-yard touchdown run and a 27-yard run during the game.

This offseason, Oliver returned to the University of Buffalo and completed the last two classes he needed to earn his degree in sociology. Oliver would like to use his education and life experience to help others by building orphanages and homeless shelters.

One of Oliver's closest friends is Raiders linebacker Khalil Mack. The two were teammates and roommates at Buffalo. Oliver's cousin is former NFL wide receiver Roscoe Parrish.

95 TENNY PALEPOI

Defensive Tackle

2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Free Agent - '14
Utah
Skyline HS
Salt Lake City, Utah

One of only three undrafted rookies to make the Chargers' opening day roster in 2014, Tenny Palepoi impressed San Diego's coaches with his tenacity and workmanlike work ethic.

Palepoi played in all 16 games as a rookie. Palepoi had a leg up in knowing what to expect in the NFL. His older brother, Anton, spent five years as a defensive end in the NFL with Seattle, Denver and Arizona, and his father, Tony, played professional rugby for Samoa's National Team.

While Palepoi experienced the highs of playing in the NFL, he also endured a personal low. Last November during Thanksgiving week, another older brother, Francis, passed away at the age of 42. Palepoi left the Chargers to attend his brother's funeral during a time that is normally reserved for celebration. Days after, Palepoi rejoined his Chargers teammates and matched his season high with three tackles in a 34-33 road win over the Baltimore Ravens.

Palepoi and his wife, Delaney, have two children, daughter, Taytum, and son, Liam.

Boise State

Lutheran HS

Orange, Calif.

In January, the Chargers signed Southern California native and former St. Louis Rams wide receiver Austin Pettis.

Pettis was a third-round pick of the Rams in 2011 after setting the school record at Boise State for career receptions. Pettis played four seasons with the Rams, recording 107 catches for 1,034 yards and nine touchdowns while playing in 47 games. He also has some experience as both a punt and kickoff returner with the Rams.

Pettis grew up in a baseball family in Orange, California. His uncle is former Major League Baseball center fielder Gary Pettis, a five-time Gold Glove Award winner who played for the California Angels, San Diego Padres, Detroit Tigers and Texas Rangers. He's currently the third base coach for the Houston Astros. Pettis' grandfather, Del Rice, also played professionally as a catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, Atlanta Braves, Angels, Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles from 1945-61. Rice later managed the Angels in 1972. And his uncle, Stacey Pettis, is currently a scout for the Seattle Mariners.

League's Anaheim Ducks. Pettis even has the Ducks logo tattooed on his neck.

In 2012, Pettis created the Austin Pettis Foundation, whose mission is to broaden the life experiences of inner-city, underprivileged and disadvantaged youth by raising money for them to attend various sports camps. 83*JOHN PHILLIPS

6-5, 251
7th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

UFA (Dallas) - '13
Virginia
Bath County HS
Hot Springs, Va.

A well-liked and respected figure inside the Chargers' locker room, Phillips played with a chip on his shoulder in 2014.

Phillips originally joined the Chargers in 2013 as an unrestricted free agent from Dallas. He was a solid addition to the offense and a skilled blocker who lined up at multiple positions, including tight end, H-back and even occasionally as a fullback. Phillips played in 15 games and made five starts, but his season was cut short when he tore both the ACL and MCL in his right knee during a late December game against Oakland. It was a tough blow for the veteran tight end. As the Chargers made the playoffs for the first time since 2009 and won their first playoff game since 2008, a Wild Card Playoff win in Cincinnati, Phillips was forced to watch the game from a hospital bed in Dallas, some 900 miles away.

Phillips vowed to come back stronger than ever. He rehabbed the knee ahead of schedule and returned in time for training camp in 2014. He ended up playing in all 16 games and even though he had just one catch on the season, that catch went for a touchdown against one of the Bolts' AFC West rivals: the Kansas City Chiefs.

Phillips is a native of Warm Springs, Virginia, a small-town in the middle of the Allegheny Mountains, about 200 miles southwest of Washington D.C. that borders both Virginia and West Virginia.

TRANSACTION HISTORY: Sixth-round pick (208) by Dallas, April 26, 2009... signed with Cowboys, July 29...contract expired, March 12, 2013...signed three-year deal with Chargers, March 14.

Warm Springs has a population of less than 150 and the town is so small that it doesn't even have a stoplight. People who live in that part of the country make ends meet by living off the land. Phillips grew up doing the same, hunting and fishing in Warm Springs' rural environment. He's hunted since childhood, pursuing everything from deer, turkey, bobcats and even bears. He also enjoys trout fishing in the rivers of Bath County and bass fishing in its lakes.

Phillips was a three-sport star at Bath County High School, earning all-state honors in football and baseball, and all-district honors in basketball. An excellent student, he attended the University of Virginia, one of the nation's top academic institutions, and earned a degree in sociology in less than four years.

Phillips' wife, Nikki, also attended Virginia where she started for four seasons for the Cavaliers' soccer team. She was drafted by Chicago in the second round of the 2009 Women's Professional Soccer League Draft and now plays for FC Kansas City in the National Women's Soccer League. She also competes for Poland's National Team.

In May, the Phillips' celebrated the birth of their first child, son James Dominic.

Phillips continues to extol the grounded roots instilled in him from his Virginia upbringing. His vehicle of choice is a used 1999 Chevy Tahoe that he purchased in college with 90,000 miles on the odometer.

KENDALL REYES

Defensive End

4th NFL Season

4th with Chargers

Draft 2 - '12

Connecticut

Nashua North HS

Nashua, N.H.

The Chargers' second-round pick in the 2012 NFL Draft, Kendall Reyes played the 2014 season with a heavy heart. In February 2014, his father, Gerard Reyes, passed away unexpectedly in Florida at the age of 49 after coming down with a strain of the H1-N1 flu virus. An avid distance runner who'd completed numerous marathons, Reyes fell ill toward the end of the 2013 season. At the time, the Chargers were in the midst of a playoff run and the father kept his illness from his son. As time progressed, Kendall understood that the flu virus was more serious than his dad had let on and perhaps a silver lining from the Chargers' elimination from the 2013 playoffs was that Kendall was able to be by his father's side during the final few weeks of his life.

Reyes played in all 16 games last season and he started 15 at his familiar defensive end spot. He ranked second among the team's defensive linemen in tackles, pressures and quarterback hits.

Reyes joined the Chargers in 2012 and made a significant impact as a rookie, leading the defensive line in pressures and quarterback hits, while ranking third on the team in sacks and tackles for loss. Reyes recorded his first two NFL sacks against future Hall of Fame quarterback Peyton Manning and during a late-season win in New York against the Jets, he racked up 3.5 sacks, the most by a Chargers rookie in 26 years.

A native of Nashua, New Hampshire, Reyes was a 220-pound wide receiver as a prep. He scored the first touchdown in North High School history on an 85-yard kickoff return. He also excelled on the hardwood, starting at power forward for the school's basketball team and he was one of state's premier track and field performers. This was in addition to a term as class vice president. It led him to Connecticut, where Reyes added 80 pounds to his wide receiver's frame and became an All-Big East defensive end. He is so athletic that he can complete a running backflip and at the 2012 NFL Combine, Reyes turned heads by bench-pressing 36 reps at 225 pounds, tied for second-most among all defensive linemen at that year's Combine. When the Chargers selected Reyes with the 49th overall pick in the 2012 NFL Draft, he became the first player from Nashua North High to be drafted and the city's first player drafted since 1988 when the Cincinnati Bengals chose tackle Herb Webster in the fifth round.

Reyes is revered in Nashua. In 2013, the Boys and Girls Club of Greater Nashua inducted him into its Hall of Fame. Reyes spent many days and hours at the Boys and Girls Club as a youth, sharpening his athletic and academic skills in a safe and secure environment. He still works closely with the Club to help develop initiatives for today's youth, including hosting the annual R.E.Y.E.S. Family Field Day (Re-Engaging Youth through Exercise and Sport), which creates athletic opportunities through the Boys and Girls Club and Nashua's Police Athletic League. In 2013, Reyes sponsored a local program in San Diego to help raise awareness and funds for the Boys and Girls Clubs of San Diego.

In 2014 in honor of his work in the community, the Nashua Silver Knights of the Futures Collegiate Baseball League invited Reyes to throw out the ceremonial first pitch before one of their games.

PHILIP RIVERS

Quarterback
6-5, 228'

12th NFL Season
12th with Chargers

Trade (New York Giants) - '04
North Carolina State
Athens HS
Decatur, Ala.

One of the NFL's most accurate and prolific passers over the past decade, Philip Rivers' statistics will one day merit Pro Football Hall of Fame consideration.

Rivers is the Chargers' all-time leader in career completion percentage and passer rating. He performed at an all-star level once again in 2014 while leading the Chargers to nine wins, including an early-season victory over the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks. That win over the Seahawks launched an NFL-record run of five straight games where Rivers posted a passer rating above 120, besting the previous mark of four games set by Johnny Unitas (1965) and Kurt Warner (2009). A Pro Bowl second-alternate, Rivers was named the team's most valuable player for the sixth time in his career after passing for 4,286 yards and 31 touchdowns. Along the way, he moved into 16th place on the NFL's all-time list for touchdown passes (252) and 20th place on the league's all-time list for career passing yards (36,655). In 2014 alone, Rivers moved past some notable greats on both lists, including Steve Young, George Blanda, Jim Kelly and Len Dawson. When 2015 rolls around, Rivers will need just three more touchdown passes to overtake Dan Fouts, the Chargers' all-time leader, whose 254 touchdown passes rank 15th all-time.

A model of consistency throughout his career, Rivers extended a number of marks in 2014.

- He posted his fourth-career 30-touchdown season, tying Dan Marino, Aaron Rodgers and Tony Romo for fifth all-time. Brett Favre and Peyton Manning (9), Drew Brees (7) and Tom Brady (5) are the only players with more.
- He eclipsed 25 touchdown passes for the seventh time in his career, joining Manning (1998-10) and Brees (2006-14) as the only passers in NFL history to throw 25 or more touchdown passes in at least seven consecutive seasons.

- He posted his sixth-career 4,000-yard season, extending his own team mark and tying Favre and Dan Marino for the sixth-most 4,000-yard seasons in NFL history.
- He ended the year having started 144 straight regular-season games, the NFL's second-longest active streak behind Eli Manning's 168. Rivers' streak is the second-longest in team history. He's started every game since 2006, including the 2007 AFC Championship Game that he started just six days after undergoing surgery for a torn ACL.

Rivers' 36,507 passing yards since becoming a starter in 2006 are second-most in the NFL over the last nine seasons.

Rivers is 88-56 (.611) as a starter during his career. His 88 wins are the most by any quarterback in franchise history. Rivers has led the Chargers to four AFC West titles and taken the team to the playoffs five times. His won-loss ledger includes a 50-22 (.694) mark at home, 38-34 (.528) on the road and 36-18 (.667) in AFC West games.

Family is one of the defining elements of Rivers' career. He and his wife, Tiffany, grew up together in Alabama. They were married after his freshman season at North Carolina State. The couple has seven children - five girls and two boys - and an eighth due in October. It is not uncommon to peer down on the field at Qualcomm Stadium after games and see Rivers on the field engaged in a game of catch with his kids.

Rivers' brother, Stephen, is following in his footsteps as a quarterback with future NFL potential. Stephen started his career at LSU and played at Vanderbilt in 2014. He left the Commodores after one season and enrolled at Northwestern State, La., where he'll play his final year of NCAA eligibility in 2015.

BEST QB-TE COMBO EVER

Philip Rivers and Antonio Gates combined for 12 touchdowns in 2014, raising their career total to 72. It's the most in NFL history for a quarterback-tight end tandem.

Gates has caught 74 touchdown passes since Rivers became the team's starting quarterback in 2006, but two of the touchdown passes were thrown by LaDainian Tomlinson on halfback-option plays (Nov. 26, 2006 vs. Oakland and Sept. 9, 2007 vs. Chicago).

MR. DECEMBER

Rivers is one of the NFL's top late-season quarterbacks. Since taking over as the Bolts' starting quarterback in 2006, he has guided the Chargers to a record of 34-9 (.791 winning percentage) in regular-season games played in December and January. All-time, Rivers ranks fifth in passer rating in December & January (95.7), and he has a 77-to-30 touchdown-to-interception ratio.

Rivers is also a great second half quarterback in general. Throughout his career, he's 54-25 (.684) as a starter in games played after Nov. 1 and his 95.3 career passer rating in Games 9-16 of the regular season ranks seventh all-time.

Beyond providing for his own family, Rivers has dedicated himself to helping find permanent, loving homes for foster kids. In 2011, he was named one of three finalists for the prestigious Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award for his work with the Rivers of Hope Foundation, an endeavor he and Tiffany oversaw from 2010-12. The Foundation helped unwanted, abandoned and orphaned children, and raised more than $1,000,000 for the cause through football camps, a 5K Fun Run and personal contributions. The Foundation also supported the San Pasqual Academy, a residential education campus designed specifically for foster teens. Last season, Rivers lent his support to another cause called "Passing it On," where he helped raise more than $112,000 for San Diego's Ronald McDonald House.

Rivers is a devout Catholic and in May 2014, he was invited to deliver the commencement speech to graduating seniors at Catholic University in Washington, D.C. The University also presented him with an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree. It was the second time Rivers had been asked to deliver a commencement speech. In May 2012, he returned to his alma mater, North Carolina State University, to speak at the school's graduation ceremonies.

Rivers grew up in Decatur, Alabama. His dad, Steve, a former linebacker at Mississippi State, was the head football coach at Decatur High School and Philip was a water boy for the team. Rivers found his passion for the game by watching his dad up close and from backyard games in which the future Chargers signal-caller would mark out a field using chalk and pylons borrowed from the equipment room at Decatur High.

Shortly before Philip was set to enroll at Decatur, Steve took the head coaching job at nearby Athens High School and Philip followed. He played linebacker as a sophomore and moved to quarterback as a junior. After graduation, he enrolled at North Carolina State where he led the Wolfpack to four bowl games and a 34-17 record, including 3-1 in bowl games. A five-time MVP in Bowl games, including the 2004 Senior Bowl, Rivers is still the Wolfpack's all-time leader for career passing yards (13,484), attempts (1,710), completions (1,087), touchdowns (95), completion percentage (63.6%), and 300 (19) and 400-yard games (seven). His passing yardage total still ranks seventh all-time among Division-I quarterbacks.

Rivers originally came to the Chargers in 2004 in a blockbuster trade with the New York Giants. Less than an hour after the Bolts selected Eli Manning with the No. 1 pick in the '04 NFL Draft, Manning was on his way to the Big Apple in exchange for Rivers and a slew of draft picks.

Rivers spent the majority of his first two years on the sidelines behind Drew Brees before taking the reigns in 2006. That season, Rivers was voted to the Pro Bowl after leading the Chargers to a team-record 14 wins, including 10-straight to close out the season. The Chargers finished undefeated at home for the first time in team history and scored a team-record 492 points. That November, Rivers became the first quarterback in NFL history to rally a team from 17-point deficits in consecutive weeks and he led 19 straight scoring drives that ended in touchdowns, a team record and the fifth-longest streak in NFL history.

Rivers led the Chargers to the AFC Championship Game in 2007. Rivers' toughness, both mental and physical, was put on full display in the final weeks of the regular season and the playoffs. During a December victory in Tennessee, he had to leave the game briefly after spraining his knee in the first half. He returned in the second half and led the Chargers to a come-from-behind victory in overtime. Rivers continued to play the final month of the season in severe pain. Things got worse five weeks later when Rivers suffered a torn ACL during the Bolts' Divisional Playoff game in Indianapolis. Backup Billy Volek replaced Rivers and led the Chargers to an improbable win over the Colts. Rivers, meanwhile, had arthroscopic surgery to repair a torn ACL the day after the win over Indianapolis, and just six days later he started and took every snap on a frigid day in the AFC Championship Game at New England.

In 2008, Rivers threw a team record 34 touchdown passes, tied for most in the NFL. He recorded

RIVERS & MCCOY — A WINNING COMBINATION

Since Mike McCoy arrived in San Diego in 2013 with a new offensive philosophy, Philip Rivers' completion percentage and touchdown totals have increased, while his interception totals have decreased. Among quarterbacks who played in every game of the 2013-14 seasons, Rivers' had the third-highest passer rating (99.5), second-highest completion percentage (68.0) third-most touchdown passes (tied, 63), and the seventh-fewest (tie) interceptions (29). In 2013, Rivers established the highest season completion percentage in franchise history (.695) and in 2014, he posted the second-highest (.662).

IMPRESSIVE NUMBERS

- Philip Rivers has thrown three or more touchdown passes in a game 39 times in his career. The Chargers are 30-9 in those games.

his first 4,000-yard season and led the league with a team-record passer rating of 105.5. Rivers threw an NFL-best 15 touchdown passes on third down and helped the Chargers score an NFL-leading 152 points in the fourth quarter. He logged six 300-yard games, the most by a Chargers quarterback since 1985 and he became the first Bolts quarterback since 1991 to do so in consecutive games. Rivers capped off 2008 with a sensational December, leading the Chargers to the playoffs with a 4-0 mark to improve his career record in December to 14-0.

In 2009, Rivers was selected to the Chargers' 50th Anniversary All-Time Team. He was one of five quarterbacks that season to pass for over 4,000 yards, throw 25 or more touchdowns and record a season passer rating above 100.0. Four times — tied with Brett Favre for most in the NFL — Rivers posted a single-game passer rating of 130.0 or better. During an 11-game win streak to close out the regular season, Rivers threw 21 touchdown strikes and completed 69.0 percent of his passes. His cumulative passer rating during those 11 weeks (112.0) was tops in the NFL. By the end of 2009, Rivers had thrown 105 touchdown passes to only 44 interceptions, the best-ever touchdown-to-interception ratio by an NFL quarterback in his first four years as a starter.

In 2010, Rivers threw for a career-high and NFL-leading 4,710 yards. It was the 10th-most yards in a season in NFL history and the third-most in team history. Rivers had a career-high six 300-yard games, including a team-record 455 yards against Seattle. His third 4,000-yard season tied Fouts for most in team history. At the midpoint of the season, Rivers had thrown for 2,649 yards, an NFL record for the first eight games of a season, breaking yet another mark which Fouts (2,580) had set (1982). Rivers led the NFL with 66 completions 20 yards or longer, including 12 that went for touchdowns. Those were the second-most in the NFL. Rivers completed a team-record 66 percent of his passes and ranked second in the NFL in passer rating (101.8). It capped a 2008-10 stretch in which he was the only quarterback in the league to post a season passer rating over 100.0 each season. Rivers joined Steve Young and Peyton Manning as the only passers ever to post a rating of 100.0 or higher three straight years. Rivers threw 30 touchdown passes in 2010 and became the first quarterback in team history with 25 or more in three-straight seasons. It included a team-record stretch of 23 straight games with a touchdown pass, breaking Fouts' mark of 20 straight (1979-80). During the streak, Rivers joined Fouts (1985) and Brees (2004) as the only Chargers quarterbacks with back-to-back four-touchdown games.

Rivers completed a then-team-record 366 passes and threw for 4,624 yards in 2011, joining Dan Marino (1980-81), Warren Moon (1990-91), Manning (2009-10) and Brees (2010-11) as the only players in NFL history with back-to-back 4,500-yard seasons. Rivers also joined Manning (1999-04 and 2006-10) and Brees (2006-11) as the only quarterbacks with at least four-straight 4,000-yard seasons.

In 2012, Rivers passed for 3,606 yards, ending a run of four straight 4,000-yard seasons. He threw 26 touchdown passes extending his streak of 25-touchdown seasons to five.

Rivers was named NFL Comeback Player of the Year after leading the Chargers to a 9-7 mark in 2013. He was selected to the Pro Bowl and named team MVP, both for the fifth time in his career. Rivers completed a team-record and NFL-leading 69.5 pct. of his passes for 4,478 yards with 32 touchdowns and just 11 interceptions for a team-record-tying 105.5 passer rating. He completed a team-record 378 passes. Rivers set a team record with three 400-yard passing games, he became the first quarterback to throw for more than 400 yards in consecutive games, and he passed for more than 390 yards four times, tying Marino (1984) and Joe Montana (1990) for the most in a season in NFL history. Rivers also made history, joining Favre (2009) and Brees (2011) as the only quarterbacks in NFL history to complete at least 20 passes and 80 percent of their pass attempts three times in a season.

UFA (New Orleans) - '15

South Miami HS / Gulliver Prep

Miami, Fla.

The Chargers quietly added another experienced veteran to their secondary in March when they signed 2010 first-round draft pick Patrick Robinson, formerly of the New Orleans Saints.

The Saints made Robinson the 32nd overall pick out of Florida State in 2010. He played in 58 games over five seasons in New Orleans, totaling 185 tackles, 46 passes defended and nine interceptions.

A popular player inside the Saints' locker room, Robinson is the Saints' most recent recipient of the Ed Block Courage Award. The award "honors those players who overcome adversity on the field, possess strong character and a will to endure life's trials, and who continuously strive for excellence on and off the field." Robinson earned the honor for his diligent rehab to battle back after rupturing his patella tendon in Week 2 of the 2013 season.

Robinson played in 14 games in 2014 after the knee injury and he recorded 39 tackles, 11 passes defended and two interceptions.

One of Robinson's nine career interceptions is a team-record-tying 99-yard score during a game against Philadelphia in 2012. Robinson also has two blocked kicks on his resume, both occurring during the 2011 season. He's also played in three career playoff games, recording nine tackles and four passes defended.

Robinson and his wife, Chelsey, were high school sweethearts in Miami. They now have four children, son, P.J., and daughters, Paris, Paige and Payton.

Robinson's grandfather, Matthew Napier, served in the U.S. Army.

TREVOR ROBINSON

Center
 6-5, 300
 4th NFL Season
 2nd with Chargers

Free Agent - '14
 Notre Dame
 Elkhorn HS
 Elkhorn, Neb.

Pleased with his clutch performances in 2014, the Chargers re-signed restricted free agent center Trevor Robinson to a two-year contract in early March.

Robinson came through for the Chargers in relief at center last season to help spearhead two of the team's most dramatic wins in recent memory. He initially signed with the Bolts on Oct. 7 from Cincinnati's practice squad. At the time, a litany of injuries had sidelined three Chargers centers - Nick Hardwick, Rich Ohrnberger and Doug Legursky. Robinson did not appear in a game until Nov. 30 at Baltimore, when he took over at center for an injured Chris Watt late in the third quarter. Robinson was part of an emotional 34-33 win, anchoring an offensive line that produced 21 fourth quarter points, including the game-winning eight-play, 80-yard drive in the final seconds.

It was déjà vu three weeks later when Robinson was again needed in relief and helped San Diego tie the greatest comeback in franchise history. It happened on Dec. 20 in a game at San Francisco. Robinson replaced an injured Watt once again, taking over at center late in the first quarter. Down 21 points on the road to the 49ers at the start of the second half, the Bolts rallied for a 38-35 overtime win. Robinson played a pivotal role keeping Philip Rivers upright, as the offensive line allowed only two sacks in 56 passing plays against the 49ers' vaunted defense. He also helped pave the way as Ronnie Brown rushed six straight times for 22 yards to set up the game-winning field goal in the extra period.

Robinson started the Chargers' 2014 season finale at Kansas City. He was the fifth different center to start a game for the Bolts. It was the most players to start at center in a season by any NFL team since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.

Coincidentally, Robinson and Watt were college teammates at Notre Dame during the 2010-11 seasons. Both were guards for the Fighting Irish.

MIKE SCIFRES

Punter

13th NFL Season

13th with Chargers

Draft 5 - '03

Western Illinois

Destrehan, La.

One of the NFL's best punters for more than a decade, Mike Scifres (SIGH-fres) is eager to get back to work.

In 2014, Scifres' season came to a premature end in a nationally-televised game against the New England Patriots when Brandon Bolden blocked a second-quarter punt. The momentum created by the block spun Scifres' body like a propeller and the veteran punter sustained a broken clavicle.

Scifres missed the last three games of the 2014 season but he's back for 2015 and his statistics rank among the NFL's all-time punting leaders.

For the Chargers, Scifres is the franchise's all-time leader for career punting average (45.2). League-wide among punters who've had at least 600 career punts, Scifres has the fifth-highest gross average (45.2), the sixth-highest net average (38.6), the highest percentage of punts landed inside the 20 (40.6 percent, 278 of 684) and the seventh-lowest percentage of punts returned (41.5 pct., 284 of 684). Complete statistics that include opponent returns and touchbacks only date to 1976, but since those statistics have been kept, Scifres' 284 returns against are the NFL's fourth-fewest and his 59 touchbacks are tied for 12th-fewest.

Scifres, who doubles as the team's holder on place-kicks, and tight end Antonio Gates will enter the 2015 season as the longest tenured players on the team's roster. Both joined the Chargers in 2003.

Scifres was drafted by the Chargers in 2003 at the recommendation of Kyle Smith, son of then-Chargers General Manager A.J. Smith. As a freshman at Youngstown State, Smith had returned punts against Scifres, who played for Missouri Valley Conference foe, Western Illinois. Scifres spent his first season learning behind Chargers Hall of Fame punter Darren Bennett and then took over full-time punting duties in 2004. Since then, he has become a member of the Chargers' 50th Anniversary All-Time Team and a seven-time Pro Bowl alternate (2004-09, '13).

Scifres enjoyed his breakout moment during the 2007 divisional playoffs in Indianapolis when he set a team playoff record by averaging 59.0 yards per punt on three punts in the final game ever played at the RCA Dome. It included a team-record 66-yard punt that came with the Bolts backed up at their own 14-yard line with only 1:42 remaining in the fourth quarter. Kicking from his own goal line, the Colts fielded Scifres' punt all the way back at their own 20. His effort lit a fire on the Chargers' sideline and San Diego's defense promptly went out and ended the Colts' season on downs four plays later, sending the Chargers on to the AFC title game.

Scifres' upswing continued into 2008 as he set a team record and ranked third in the league with a 40.9-yard net average. He and the Chargers' coverage teams allowed zero or negative punt return yards in seven of 16 games and he had only five touchbacks in 51 punts (9.8%) for the entire season. Among players with 40-or-more punts, only two allowed fewer than Scifres' 146 return yards, and only five teams had more than 15 punt return yards against the Chargers all season.

Scifres' outstanding season carried into the playoffs where he enjoyed a record-breaking night in another playoff game against the Colts, this time a wild card game decided in overtime in San Diego. Scifres landed all six of his punts inside the 20, the highest number and percentage of punts ever landed inside the 20 during a playoff game, and he averaged a playoff-record 51.7 net yards as the Colts managed just six punt return yards for the entire game. The Colts were forced to start drives at their own 10, 19, 3, 7, 9 and 1-yard lines following punts, and Scifres' last may have been his best as it rolled out of bounds at the one-yard line and set the stage for the Chargers to make a late fourth-quarter comeback.

The 2011 season was another that turned out to be memorable for Scifres. Just days before the regular season began, the team signed him to a five-year contract extension that will run through 2016. When Scifres put pen to paper though, little did he realize that within a few days, his workload would also include kickoffs, field goals and point after tries. That happened in the '11 season opener against Minnesota when Nate Kaeding suffered a season-ending knee injury on the opening kickoff of the season. Scifres, who on paper always had been the team's backup kicker but had never actually been called upon to do so, coolly responded by hitting three extra points and a game-tying 40-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter en route to a 24-17 victory. It was his first made field goal in a live game since his sophomore year in college when he kicked a 56-yard game-winner in overtime against Northern Iowa for a conference title.

A two-time Chargers Special Teams Player of the Year, Scifres won his most recent award in 2012 after averaging a team-record 48.3 yards per punt. It shattered the previous mark of 46.7 that he set in 2010. And with a nod to the team's outstanding coverage units, Scifres posted a 40.6-yard net average in 2012, second-highest in the franchise's 53-year history.

Scifres was on point again in 2013, landing 30 of his 56 punts inside the 20. He allowed but one punt to cross the goal line for a touchback and his percentage of punts landed inside the 20 (53.6) was the league's best.

A native of Destrehan, La., one of Scifres' prep teammates was retired All-Pro safety Ed Reed. When the two were high school teammates, Reed was actually the superior punter and as a result, Scifres was relegated to kickoffs, field goals and extra points. The two have remained good friends.

Scifres' hobbies include golf, weightlifting and Pilates. He and his wife, Stacie, have twin daughters Berkeley and Bristyn, and a son, Brodyn.

DARRELL STUCKEY

Safety

6th NFL Season

6th with Chargers

Draft 4 - '10

Washington HS

Kansas City, Kan.

The Chargers' Special Teams Player of the Year in 2013 and a Team Captain each of the last three years, 2014 was a year to remember for Darrell Stuckey. He started the season by signing a new multi-year contract in March, and he ended it with an invitation to play in his first Pro Bowl in January.

In 2014, Stuckey ranked second on the squad in special teams tackles and he blocked the first kick of his career. Stuckey has long been one of San Diego's top special teamers. In 2013, he tied for third on the squad in special teams tackles a year after tying for the team lead. Over the past four seasons, he's recorded 51 special teams tackles while regularly facing double and triple-teams.

During the 2013 season, including playoffs, Stuckey recorded six special teams tackles and downed four punts inside the 20. In 2012, he led the NFL with six punts downed inside the 20, while tallying six tackles inside the 20.

Stuckey is one of the Chargers' most-active players in the community. It dates back to his college career at Kansas, where he was not only one of the school's most-talented athletes, but also one of its most popular and academically gifted. Raised by a single mother, Michele Foulks, Stuckey graduated in four years. He was named to the Athletic Director's Honor Roll and served in student government. Stuckey enjoys delivering motivational speeches and regularly volunteers to lend a helping hand with community projects in San Diego and his hometown of Kansas City. For the last three years, Stuckey has led a football camp at Bishop Ward High School in Kansas City, and for the last two years, he's headed up a similar camp at Westview High School in San Diego. He also hosted a free football youth clinic at Free State High School in Lawrence, Kansas in 2014, and he sponsors the K.C. United Pop Warner Football League in conjunction with USA Football.

Stuckey is active with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. In May, he served as the host for their annual golf tournament in San Diego.

Also in May, Stuckey was a featured guest speaker at the Marine Aviation Summit in San Diego. It was attended by more than 500 Marine Corps Aviators.

Illegal human trafficking is yet another cause dear to Stuckey's heart and he supports the San Francisco-based nonprofit, Not For Sale, which protects people and communities around the world from modern-day slavery and human trafficking. Stuckey donated one of his personal game checks to the organization in 2014 and he plans to do so again in 2015.

Stuckey has three brothers and three sisters. His younger sister, Denae, played basketball at Iowa State.

Stuckey's hobbies include painting, drawing and collecting DVD movies.

He and wife, Lacie, have a son, Jayton James, and a daughter, Kinsley Ann.

Draft 2 — '13

Notre Dame

Laie, Hawaii

Manti Te'o turned in a dominating performance during the final month of the 2014 season and looks to continue that production in 2015.

In the final month of the 2014 season, Te'o recorded 42 tackles, including 29 in the last two games versus San Francisco and Kansas City. He also collected the first interception and first sack of his career. Te'o's end of the year tackle total (68) tied for fourth on the team.

Te'o was perhaps the most renowned figure in the 2013 NFL Draft. In order to bring him to San Diego, the Chargers made a trade with Arizona, moving up seven spots in the second round to select him with the 38th overall pick. Te'o was the runner-up to Texas A&M quarterback Johnny Manziel in voting for the 2012 Heisman Trophy. At Notre Dame, he captured a host of national awards after leading the Irish to an undefeated 2011 regular season and a meeting with Alabama in the BCS National Championship Game. Te'o led the Irish in tackles and he was third in the nation with seven interceptions. His award haul included the Walter Camp Player of the Year Award, the Maxwell Award, the Lombardi Trophy, the Bednarik Award, the Nagurski Award, the Butkus Award, the Lott Trophy and the Notre Dame Monogram Club MVP Award. A team captain, Te'o was also a consensus All-America on the football field and inside the classroom.

A native of Laie, Hawaii on the island of Oahu, Te'o burst onto the national scene in 2010 when he led the Irish with 133 tackles as a sophomore. Awards began to pour in a year later after a team-leading 128-tackle junior season that included a career-high five sacks. Te'o's seven interceptions in 2012 set a Notre Dame record for linebackers and they were the most by a linebacker in the NCAA since 2000.

JOHNNIE TROUTMAN

Guard
6-4, 330
3rd NFL Season
4th with Chargers

Draft 5 – '12
Penn State
Pemberton Township HS
Brown Mills, N.J.

Johnnie Troutman started 25 of 30 games played over the 2013-14 seasons, including 16 at right guard and nine at left guard.

A native of Brown Mills, New Jersey, Troutman came out of Penn State in 2012 and was selected by the Chargers in the fifth round. A training injury prior to the draft required surgery, however, and Troutman spent his entire rookie season on the NFL's "Reserve-Non-Football Injury" list.

Basically a redshirt rookie, Troutman made his NFL debut in 2013 and played in 16 games, including playoffs, and he started 10. During the season, he started nine games at left guard, and when the team's starting right guard was unable to go in the playoffs, Troutman made his first-ever start at right guard, facing Denver in the 2013 Divisional Playoffs.

In 2014, Troutman won the starting right guard job. He started the team's first 15 games, but suffered a knee injury during the 15th contest, a late December game in San Francisco, and finished the year on "Reserve-Injured." Still, according to Pro Football Focus, Troutman graded out with a 95.3 pass blocking efficiency rating.

As a collegian at Penn State, Troutman started three seasons at left guard and didn't allow a single sack. And as a senior in 2011, he wasn't flagged for a single penalty.

Troutman grew up in Brown Mills, New Jersey, near the Ft. Dix Army Base. His father, Johnnie II, served in the Army.

MITCH UNREIN

Defensive Tackle
6-4, 306
5th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

UFA (Denver) – '15
Wyoming
Eaton HS
Eaton, Colo.

Defensive lineman Mitch Unrein (UN-rine) is set to begin the next chapter of his NFL career in Southern California.

Unrein is a native of Eaton, Colorado located about an hour north of Denver, just south of the Wyoming border. The youngest of six kids, Unrein played his college football at Wyoming after his own state's two biggest schools - The University of Colorado and Colorado State - failed to offer him a scholarship. Two older brothers, Michael and Mark, both played football at the University of Northern Colorado, and his sister, Natalie, was an All-America swimmer there. UNC wanted Unrein, a two-time all-state performer in football and a state-champion wrestler, to play there as well, but he had his own ideas and wanted to chart his own path to play Division I football. He enrolled at Wyoming as a preferred walk-on and within a year, earned a full scholarship. And by the time he graduated with a degree in criminal justice in 2010, Unrein had become a three-time all-conference performer and the defensive MVP of the 2009 New Mexico Bowl.

Despite the lofty accolades during his college career, Unrein went undrafted in 2010. He signed with Houston after the draft, but was released by the Texans at the end of training camp. Thinking his football career could be over, Unrein returned to Eaton and found work cleaning residential sewer lines. All the while, he continued to train and serve as a volunteer coach at his alma mater, Eaton High School. In October, Unrein received a call that would change his life. His hometown Denver Broncos, the team he grew up cheering for, wanted to sign him to their practice squad. Unrein ended up spending the last 11 weeks of the season on the Broncos' practice squad and a year later, he earned a spot on the team's active roster. It was a dream come true. Over the next four years (2011-14), Unrein would play in 60 games for the Broncos, including Super Bowl XLVIII vs. Seattle on Feb. 2, 2014.

A self-described blue-collar player, Unrein learned the value of hard work from his father, Mike, who has toiled as a roughneck on oil rigs in the northern plains since graduating high school in Sterling, Colorado. While dad worked nonstop, Unrein's mom, Kay, almost single-handedly raised he and his five siblings. All three of Unrein's brothers - Michael, Marty and Mark - now work in the oil business.

Besides his own siblings, Unrein comes from a large extended family. One of his distant cousins is Terry Unrein, a defensive end whom the Chargers drafted in the third round in 1986. Both of Unrein's parents had seven brothers and sisters and there are well over 100 cousins spread throughout Colorado between the two sides of the family. When Unrein played for the Broncos, nearly the entire family would attend Broncos games and the family's tailgate parties became one of Sports Authority Field's most popular. Also, with his large fan-base, jerseys featuring Unrein's No. 96 also became very popular and his was one of the few non-starter's jerseys sold in the Broncos' team store.

Unrein plans to someday have a large family of his own. His wife is Corey Cogdell, a two-time Olympic trap shooter who won a bronze medal at the 2008 Summer Games in Beijing.

A popular figure in the social media world, Unrein has an active twitter account (@MitchellUnrein) with more than 22,000 followers. He also has a website, www.MitchUnrein.com from which he supports a number of causes, including the CPFF Foundation, which raises awareness for Colorado firefighters in need of financial assistance.

JASON VERRETT

Cornerback
5-10, 188
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Draft 1 – '14
Texas Christian
Rodriguez HS
Fairfield, Calif.

Talented cornerback Jason Verrett enters the 2015 season refreshed and rebuilt.

The Chargers' 2014 first-round pick is bigger and stronger after his rookie season was cut short by a shoulder injury. Verrett played in six games and made four starts, making impressive plays along the way, including a game-clinching interception Oct. 12 in Oakland. The Bolts put Verrett on the season-ending "Reserve-Injured" list on Nov. 15.

That Verrett is even playing football is a small miracle in and of itself. Back in 2010 during his freshman season at Santa Rosa Junior College, Verrett suffered a hamstring injury. Trainers told him to go home and ice the leg. What they didn't tell him to do was fall asleep with the ice on his leg. Verrett did just that and he slept a full night with the ice on his injured hamstring. He suffered a third-degree burn because of it. Fortunately his mom insisted he go to the hospital where doctors told him had he waited any longer to seek treatment, his leg very well could have become infected and if it had, doctors most likely would have had to amputate it.

After earning all-state and all-conference honors in his lone season at Santa Rosa, Verrett transferred to Texas Christian for the 2011 season. In his first ever game for the Horned Frogs, they faced a Baylor team that was led by quarterback Robert Griffin III "RG3" and future NFL wide receiver Kendall Wright. It was a rough introduction for Verrett as Griffin threw for 359 yards and five touchdowns, while Wright, whom Verrett spent most of the day covering, caught 12 passes for 189 yards and two scores. So distraught was Verrett after the miserable performance to begin his TCU career, he actually contemplated quitting school and returning home. Two phone calls quickly made it clear that that was not going to be an option. The first was to his brother Tre' and the second was to Lenny Wagner, his freshman coach at Santa Rosa. Neither man was going to stand by and let Verrett quit. And little did Verrett know as he would come to find out later, the man who drafted him, Chargers

Refocused after some tough talk from Tre' and Coach Wagner, Verrett settled down and improved each week. Six games into the season, the coaches moved him into the starting lineup and the results were dramatic. Over the Horned Frogs' first six games, the defense was surrendering 267.7 passing yards and 410.0 total yards per game, but then over the last seven games with Verrett in the starting 11, the defense improved significantly, yielding just 194.7 passing yards and 310.0 total yards per game. By the end of the year, Verrett had shown enough to earn honorable mention All-Mountain West Conference honors.

Verrett went on to start three seasons at TCU and as a senior in 2013, he was named the Big 12 Conference's co-Defensive Player of the Year, a consensus second-team All-America and a first-team All-Big 12 pick. One of the nation's top cover corners that season, opposing quarterbacks only threw 52 passes in his direction and only 17 were completed. Already touted as a likely first-round pick, Verrett's stock went up after he clocked a 4.38 in the 40-yard-dash at the 2014 NFL Scouting Combine, the second-fastest time among the cornerbacks.

Verrett is a native of Fairfield in Northern California. It's home to the Jelly Belly candy factory. Verrett's entire family, including his father, Warren, grew up Raiders fans. Brother, Tre, even works for the Raiders as a client services representative in the famed "Black Hole." Verrett joked after his introductory press conference that as soon as he was drafted by the Chargers, the entire family would be converting their allegiance to the Chargers.

Verrett was a sports broadcasting major at TCU. ESPN SportsCenter anchor, Stan Verrett, is a distant cousin.

CHRIS WATT

Center-Guard
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Draft 3 – '14
Notre Dame
Glenbard West HS
Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Chris Watt is the Chargers' heir apparent at center. The team's third-round draft pick in 2014, he gained a wealth of experience as a rookie, seeing action in 12 games, while starting five at center. Watt also saw time at right guard and on special teams.

As a senior at Notre Dame, Watt was part of an offensive line that allowed just eight sacks, tied for second-fewest in the nation. At the end of the season, he received the school's Pietrosante Award, which is given to Notre Dame football student-athletes who best exemplify the courage, loyalty, teamwork, dedication and pride of the late Irish All-American fullback. Pietrosante was Notre Dame's leading rusher in 1957 and '58 and he went on to become a number-one draft pick and a two-time All-Pro selection with the Detroit Lions. Pietrosante died of cancer on Feb. 6, 1988. The recipient is determined by a vote of the players and past winners have included former NFL players Tom Zbikowski, Jeff Faine, Harrison Smith, Aaron Taylor and Chris Zorich.

As a junior, Watt started all 13 games as Notre Dame went 12-1 and played Alabama in the National Championship game. One of his teammates on that squad was Chargers linebacker Manti Te'o. Watt also played alongside offensive lineman Trevor Robinson at Notre Dame.

Watt hails from a family with a significant lineage in college football. His older brother, Kevin, played defensive end at Northwestern from 2007-11. His father, Rich, played at Division II Hillsdale College in Michigan. His uncle, Bobby Watt, played at Brown University, while his grandfather, William Watt, and his great uncle, Dan Hurley, both played at Harvard.

One of Watt's hobbies is collecting baseball cards. His most prized card is autographed by Nolan Ryan.

32*ERIC WEDDLE

Free Safety
5-11, 200
9th NFL Season
9th with Chargers

Draft 2 - '07
Utah
Alta Loma HS
Alta Loma, Calif.

Eric Weddle is recognized as one of the National Football League's elite free safeties.

A five-time Associated Press All-Pro, three-time Pro Bowl selection and three-time Chargers Defensive Player of the Year, Weddle led the squad with 110 tackles in 2014 while helping the Bolts rank ninth overall in total defense and fourth against the pass.

Weddle receives as much recognition for his appearance off the field as he does on it. Since 2013, he's grown a beard of epic proportions. Years earlier, his father, Steve, had grown a beard and it served as an inspiration to Weddle, who has not decided if or when he'll shave the beard. So popular is his beard that it even has its own twitter handle (@weddlesbeard) and T-shirts.

Weddle is one of the NFL's top game-changers. Last December, his forced fumble in overtime set up the Chargers' game-winning field goal to cap off a 21-point come-from-behind win in San Francisco. He has started every game over the last five seasons (80 consecutive) heading into 2015 and his 13 interceptions over the last four seasons (2011-14) are tied for fourth-most in the NFL. Three of Weddle's 18 career picks have been returned for touchdowns. He has three career interceptions against Peyton Manning, two that he's returned for touchdowns and a third that prevented a touchdown during a win over Manning's Colts in the divisional playoffs at the end of Weddle's rookie season in 2007. Weddle also has been a thorn in the side of the Kansas City Chiefs, recording four interceptions against them since 2011.

A second-round pick in 2007, Weddle moved into the starting lineup in 2008 and finished the year second on the team in tackles with a career-high 135, just one behind the team leader. He also had a team-record 86-yard fumble return for a touchdown against the Atlanta Falcons. Weddle's all-around game improved each year and in 2010, he received his first all-pro honors when he was selected to AP's All-Pro second team after the Chargers finished the season ranked first in the NFL in pass defense. Weddle helped turn around a pass defense that just two seasons earlier ranked second-to-last in the league. Within months, the Chargers rewarded Weddle with a new five-year contract and it kicked off the best season of his young career in 2011. He helped clinch two early-season back-to-back wins with late fourth-quarter interceptions, becoming just the third Chargers defender to do so in the previous 20 years. It was the beginning of a Pro Bowl season in which Weddle tied for the NFL lead with a career-high seven picks. And it wasn't just Pro Bowl accolades that Weddle earned, as a slew of All-Pro accolades followed, accompanied by his selection as the Chargers' Defensive Player of the Year. Weddle even intercepted two passes in the Pro Bowl, one of which resulted in a touchdown after a lateral, while also breaking up a game-high three passes in a 59-41 win by the AFC.

A Southern California native, playing for the Chargers has been a dream come true. Weddle grew up in Alta Loma, Calif., a little more than 100 miles north of San Diego. He and his wife, Chanel, his former high school sweetheart, married in La Jolla in July 2005. The couple has four children: Brooklyn, Silver, Gaige and Kamri. On the day in 2007 when the Chargers traded with Chicago to move up 25 spots in the second round to draft Weddle, Chanel surprised him by telling him that she was pregnant with Brooklyn. Eric and Chanel wed before Eric's junior season at Utah. They lived near Utah State in Ogden where Chanel went to school and played soccer for the Aggies. Eric, meanwhile, commuted nearly an hour each way to Salt Lake City where the University of Utah is located for school and football.

Weddle studied special education and mild and moderate disabilities at Utah, and he helped tutor students with learning disabilities. As an NFL player, he supports several worthy causes, including breast cancer and domestic violence. Weddle's grandmother is a two-time breast cancer survivor. And with a disdain for domestic abuse, Weddle joined forces with the company London Bella to create a "Game Day" jewelry collection with proceeds supporting victims of domestic violence.

Weddle is a gym-rat and an avid golfer. He plays basketball and golf several times a week as a single-digit handicap. In January 2014, Weddle hit his first-ever hole-in-one on the 210-yard fifth hole at the Ko'olau Golf Club in Honolulu. Weddle also enjoys bowling and movie nights with his family.

Weddle's incredible rise through the NFL has been chronicled in the book "No Excuses, No Regrets: The Eric Weddle Story." It was written by Trent Toone. The book tells Weddle's story of overcoming adversity and accomplishing impossible dreams. His former coach at the University of Utah, Kyle Wittingham, wrote the foreword.

A former practice squad player in Baltimore, San Francisco and with the Chargers, Wiggins joined the Chargers late in 2014 and played in his first NFL game in the 2014 season finale at Kansas City. Wiggins spent the second half of the 2013 season on the Bolts' active roster, including playoffs, but he did not appear in any games.

Wiggins enjoys playing basketball and fishing when he's not playing football or training with the Chargers. Before he became an all-league hoopster at Elk Grove (Calif.) High School, Wiggins earned a spot on an AAU team in 2004 that was coached by rapper and entertainer Master P. The team played games around the country and featured Master P's son, rapper and actor, Lil Romeo, as well as DeMar DeRozan, a shooting guard for the NBA's Toronto Raptors. Had Wiggins not opted for a career in football, he received several overtures to play Division I college basketball. Wiggins' brother, Josh, played baseball at Mt. Mercy University, an NAIA school in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Wiggins studied communications at Fresno State and has aspirations of a post-football career in broadcasting. He's a frequent guest on the "Rush Hour" show on ESPN Radio's affiliate in Fresno.

STEVE WILLIAMS

Cornerback
5-10, 185
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Draft 5 – '13
California
Skyline HS
Dallas, Tex.

Steve Williams took the field for 13 games in 2014, seeing action both as a reserve cornerback and on special teams.

A 2013 fifth-round pick from California, Williams had to wait until 2014 to make his NFL debut after his rookie season was curtailed by a preseason pectoral injury.

Williams tossed his hat into the NFL ring after only three seasons at Cal, including a 2012 junior campaign in which he earned honorable mention All-Pac-12 and team MVP honors.

Williams originally caught the eye of Chargers General Manager Tom Telesco in 2011, when the former Colts director of player personnel had ventured to "The Big Game" in Palo Alto to scout Stanford quarterback Andrew Luck. Early in the game, Williams jumped an out route thrown by Luck, picking off the pass and returning it 45 yards to the Stanford four-yard line. Even though he was just a sophomore, that play stuck in the back of Telesco's mind. Luck, meanwhile, went on to be selected by the Colts with the first overall pick in the 2012 NFL Draft.

TRANSACTION HISTORY: Fifth-round pick (145), April 27, 2013...signed May 13.

2013: Tore pectoral muscle during Aug. 15 preseason game at Chicago...placed on "Reserve-Injured" list Aug. 26.

TOUREK WILLIAMS

Outside Linebacker
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Draft 6 – '13
Florida International
Norland HS
Miami, Fla.

The Chargers' sixth-round pick in the 2013 NFL Draft, Williams has been a key contributor at both outside linebacker and on special teams. In 2014, he was fifth on the squad with 14 special teams stops.

As a rookie, Williams played 15 games, including playoffs, while starting six during the regular season. Along the way, he recorded his first NFL sack and forced fumble, one which he'll never forget as it came against future Hall of Famer Peyton Manning.

Williams underwent a rather drastic change this offseason. Gone are his trademark dreadlocks, which hadn't been cut since he was in the third grade. Even though Williams played well his first two seasons, he felt like he needed to change his approach to the game this offseason, so besides revising his offseason training regimen, the third-year outside linebacker decided it was also time for a new look.

Williams is a strong swimmer and a former life-guard, who played water polo at Miami's Norland High School. The water polo program had been dormant for some time before Williams and some of his football teammates joined the team as seniors and turned the program around, helping end a winless drought that had extended for 10 seasons prior to their joining.

27*JIMMY WILSON

Safety
5-11, 205
5th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

UFA (Miami) – '15
Montana
Point Loma HS
San Diego, Calif.

For San Diego native and former Miami Dolphins cornerback Jimmy Wilson, life has come full circle.

Wilson signed with the Chargers in March after four seasons with the Dolphins. The former seventh-round pick returns home looking to compete for a starting spot in San Diego's defensive backfield.

Wilson traveled a winding road for the opportunity to play for his hometown team.

A first-team all-league football and basketball player at San Diego's Point Loma High School, Wilson was selected to represent the South squad in the 2004 Alex Spanos All-Star Classic, the longest-running high school all-star football game in California. Despite top billing locally, Wilson was lightly recruited by Division I schools so he ended up signing with the University of Montana. He played right away for the Grizzlies and his first career start as a true freshman came against Northern Colorado and a 6-5, 220-pound receiver named Vincent Jackson who would later become a second-round pick and record-breaking wide receiver for the Chargers. Undeterred, Wilson helped lead the Grizzlies to a win that day with three late-game pass defenses to seal the victory. By the end of that season, Wilson had helped to lead the Grizzlies to the Division I-AA national championship game. Wilson continued to blossom at Montana and by the end of his junior season in 2006, he had become an All-Big Sky cornerback who helped lead Montana back to the Division I-AA national semifinals.

On June 2, 2007, Wilson, a preseason All-America pick, was about to return to Missoula, Montana to begin training for his senior season. Before starting the near 20-hour drive, Wilson stopped by his grandmother's house in Lancaster, Calif., north of Los Angeles. While he was eating dinner, Wilson's grandmother received a phone call that would forever change his life. Wilson's aunt, Opal Davis, who lived nearby, called the grandmother in tears because she and her boyfriend, Kevin Smoot, had gotten into an ugly argument. Wilson hurriedly drove to his aunt's house, intent on picking up she and her two small children and driving them back to the safety of their grandmother's house. When Wilson arrived at the house, however, an intoxicated Smoot emerged from the garage and an argument ensued. A moment later, Smoot produced a gun, a struggle took place, the gun went off, Smoot fell to the ground and later died, and a freaked out Wilson got back into his car unsure of what to do and decided to drive to Montana.

Three days later, a distraught Wilson made what he thought was the right decision. He secured an attorney and returned to Los Angeles to turn himself in. Instead of receiving sympathy or understanding from L.A. County prosecutors, Wilson was instead indicted on first-degree murder charges and sent to the Los Angeles County Jail. Little did he know at the time, but the jail was where Wilson would reside through two trials and the next 25 months of his life. His first trial ended in November 2008 in a hung jury with 11 of 12 jurors voting in favor of acquittal. And despite the apparent sense of jurors that Wilson was not a murderer, he had to endure a second trial in which prosecutors added an additional charge of voluntary manslaughter. Eight months later Wilson returned to court for the second trial and on July 10, 2009, more than 25 months after the ordeal had begun, the second jury unanimously acquitted Wilson on all charges. He was a free man.

For virtually anyone in a free society, spending time in jail is perhaps the hardest thing a person can ever endure. Two things in particular were tantamount in helping Wilson survive those two-plus years in L.A. County. The first and perhaps most important was his father, James. Wilson's father has a long criminal history that included many years of incarceration. He gave his son some key words of advice that helped him through. They were "Stand on your own two feet. Don't steal anything from anyone. Don't borrow anything. Watch everything, watch everybody. And have the will to endure." The second was a bible verse he happened upon while incarcerated, Psalm 142, which reads "With God we will gain the victory, and he will trample down our enemies."

Wilson not only survived, but he grew beyond his years during those two-plus years in the L.A. County Jail. After his release in 2009, Wilson returned to San Diego intent on re-starting his life. Initially, he found work in construction, building decks and laying sheetrock for his uncle's company. Slowly he returned to training and as he began to re-adjust to life on the outside, his desire to play football returned. Because of his incarceration, Wilson's window of NCAA eligibility had expired, but he appealed to the NCAA in hopes of receiving an extra year of eligibility. In what turned out to be truly a one-of-its-kind case, the NCAA ruled in his favor and in 2010 Wilson was granted an extra year of eligibility. After careful thought and consideration of where he would attend school, Wilson felt as though he had unfinished business at Montana and with the blessing of the coaching staff and school administrators, he returned to Missoula in the Fall of 2010.

Still a ferocious hitter, Wilson played with a renewed sense of purpose as a senior in 2010. He played in eight games and earned honorable mention All-Big Sky honors. Wilson did not receive an invitation to the NFL Scouting Combine in 2011, but he did participate in an on-campus Pro Day at Montana that was attended by nine teams. He put up some impressive numbers, including a 40 time in the 4.5 second range and in April, the Miami Dolphins selected him in the seventh round with the 235th overall pick.

Over the last four years, Wilson played in 60 games and made 21 starts for the Dolphins. He saw action on both defense and special teams. One of his specialties was blocking punts. Wilson blocked three during his Dolphins tenure, tying Tim Foley's franchise record. He also recorded four interceptions, including a game-clinching pick against Atlanta in 2013, and 137 tackles, two sacks, three forced fumbles, 16 passes defended and 17 stops on special teams.

Wilson has grown immensely as both a man and football player since his incarceration from 2007-09. He's now married and he and his wife, Alexandra, have two children, Alessia and Maximus. Wilson harbors no bitterness over his time behind bars and he has used that misfortune to share his story. Wilson was heavily involved in community relations in Miami where he participated in numerous charitable causes.

MIKE WINDT

Long Snapper
6-1, 237
6th NFL Season
6th with Chargers

Free Agent – '10
Cincinnati
Elder HS
Cincinnati, Ohio

Mike Windt is one of the NFL's most accurate long snappers. His pin-point accuracy has helped punter Mike Scifres and kicker Nick Novak rank among the franchise's all-time greats, Scifres as the team's all-time leader for career punting average and Novak as the team's second-most accurate field goal kicker of all-time. One of the league's more athletic long snappers, Windt also excels in special teams coverage.

Windt can credit his father, Joe, for helping him fulfill his potential as a long snapper. Joe is a former bowler and softball pitcher who never played football, but he noted that Windt had the unique ability of launching a football between his legs faster and more accurately than he could throw it overhand so he convinced his son to give long snapping a try. Windt put his talents to work at Elder High School in Cincinnati and ended up playing on back-to-back state championship teams in 2002 and '03.

Windt became the Chargers' long snapper as a rookie in 2010. Signing the Cincinnati native proved to be a fortuitous move as Windt proved to be a capable snapper for punts and field goals. In 2013, the Bolts locked him up for the long haul, inking him to a four-year deal before the start of free agency.

Windt is married to the former Kate Fredrikson, a pediatric oncology nurse at Rady Children's Hospital in San Diego. In 2015, she was the recipient of a Nurse of Excellence Award. The couple wed in April 2014 in Encinitas, California.

Windt's hobbies include golf, stand-up paddle-boarding and spending time with his English Bulldog, Hemingway. He also has a taste for fine wines and music. Two of his favorite musicians are Michael Buble' and Frank Sinatra.

DANNY WOODHEAD

Running Back
5-8, 200'
7th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

UFA (New England) – '13
Chadron State
North Platte HS
North Platte, Neb.

The Chargers are happy to have a healthy Danny Woodhead back in 2015. San Diego's jack-of-all-trades running back signed a two-year contract extension prior to the start of the 2014 season, but less than two months later, he suffered a season-ending broken ankle early in a Week 3 game in Buffalo.

Woodhead wears many hats for the Chargers and the team is eager to get him back into the fold. During his first season with San Diego in 2013, Woodhead set career highs for catches, yards, touchdown catches, scrimmage yards and all-purpose yards. He finished the regular season with the most touchdown catches among all NFL running backs and the second-most receptions and receiving yards. Woodhead also scored two rushing touchdowns setting a new career high for total touchdowns in a season.

A native of North Platte, Neb. (pop. 25,000), Woodhead is one of the most popular athletes ever to come out of the Cornhusker state.

He first came onto the national scene at Chadron State College after a record-setting career at North Platte High. Nebraska's 2003 Player of the Year, Woodhead was overlooked by the state's biggest schools, including the University of Nebraska, so he followed his older brother, Ben, to Chadron State where he became the first athlete in school history to receive a full-ride scholarship. Despite his diminutive 5-8, 200-pound frame, Woodhead set a number of records for the Eagles and he became a two-time winner of the Harlon Hill Award, Division II's equivalent of the Heisman Trophy. Woodhead left Chadron as the NCAA's all-time leading rusher (7,962 yards) and he tied the national mark with 109 touchdowns. Though Chadron State never won a national championship during Woodhead's career, the Eagles went 35-11 during his tenure, including back-to-back undefeated seasons and Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference titles his junior and senior years. Their only loss each of those two seasons came in the NCAA Division II quarterfinals where both times they were defeated by Northwest Missouri State. In 2013, Woodhead was named to the Division II 40th-Anniversary Tribute Team.

Despite a record-breaking college career, Woodhead did not receive an invitation to participate at the 2008 NFL Combine. Instead he took part in a pro day on the University of Nebraska campus and posted a 40-yard dash time that would've been among the fastest at the Combine. Still, when the 2008

NFL Draft rolled around, all seven rounds came and went without Woodhead hearing his name called and he ended up signing a free agent contract with the New York Jets. Woodhead suffered a knee injury in training camp and spent his entire rookie year on the "Reserve-Injured" list. He returned in 2009 and played sparingly for the Jets, but in 2010 he was released after the first game of the season. It didn't take long for the rival New England Patriots to scoop up the Nebraska native and his career quickly hit an upswing. Woodhead played in 14 games for the Patriots and averaged a team-record 5.64 yards per carry for a squad that reached the AFC Divisional Playoffs. A year later, Woodhead helped the Patriots to a 13-3 regular season that culminated with a date with the New York Giants in Super Bowl XLVI. And in 2012, he helped New England to a 12-4 mark and a trip to the AFC Championship Game.

Woodhead seemed destined to play football from early on. As a child, he drew numbers on the backs of his cowboys and Indians and he held make-believe games in his bedroom. Looking for a bigger field, he once drew a football field in the middle of the family's living room with a green marker. And by the fourth grade, he was working as a ball boy at North Platte High School, where his dad, Mark, was an assistant coach.

The Woodhead family is extremely close. Danny was home-schooled until the ninth grade and his parents still live in North Platte, where Mark is now a school teacher and high school girls basketball coach. Both of his parents attended Chadron State. Mark played wide receiver for the Eagles in the late 1970s. Danny and Ben roomed together at Chadron and they later served as the best men in each other's weddings. All of the men in the Woodhead family go by the nickname "Woody," except for Mark, who goes by "Big Woody." They all enjoy playing golf and Danny, a scratch player, is the family's best. Mom, Annette, is extremely devout and to this day she still sends Danny scriptures prior to each of his games.

Woodhead has always been a popular NFL player but his popularity reached new heights in 2013 when Academy Award-winning actress Anne Hathaway was photographed walking her dog in Los Angeles, while sporting a replica of Woodhead's No. 39 Chargers jersey.

Woodhead and his wife, Stacia, have two children, daughter, Gia Grace, and son, Will Daniel.

MELVIN GORDON

Running Back
Rookie

Draft 1 - '15
Wisconsin
Bradford HS
Kenosha, Wis.

The Chargers kicked off their 2015 NFL Draft with a trade to move up two positions in the first round to select former University of Wisconsin running back Melvin Gordon with the 15th overall choice. The Chargers sent the 17th overall pick, along with their fourth-round choice in this year's draft and their fifth-round choice in the 2016 draft, to San Francisco to move up and select Gordon.

Winner of the Doak Walker Award as the nation's top running back, as well as the runner up for the 2014 Heisman Trophy, Gordon rushed for 4,915 yards and scored 49 total touchdowns, both third in school history, in just three-plus seasons in Madison. He averaged an FBS-record (Football Bowl Subdivision) 7.8 yards per carry for his career and finished his career at Wisconsin third in career rushing yards and total touchdowns. In 2014, Gordon also took home the Grange-Griffin Award as the Big Ten Running Back of the Year and the Ameche-Dayne Big Ten Running Back of the Year Award. These accolades all came at the conclusion of a year during which he set the FBS single-game record with 408 yards along with four touchdowns in a 59-24 win over Nebraska. Incredibly, he set the record playing just three quarters against the Cornhuskers.

Gordon originally enrolled at Wisconsin in 2011. He played in three games as a true freshman but was sidelined for a majority of the year with a groin injury and he was granted a medical redshirt year. Gordon played sparingly in 2012, but he burst onto the scene and affixed himself on Chargers General Manager Tom Telesco's radar after rushing for 216 yards and a touchdown on just nine carries in the 2012 Big Ten Championship Game against Nebraska.

Gordon's workload grew immensely in 2013 as he rushed for 1,609 yards, second in the Big Ten and most ever by a sophomore in school history. That season, he led the nation and set a school record by averaging 7.8 yards per carry.

Gordon's redshirt junior season in 2014 showed America that he was ready for the NFL. He rushed for 2,587 yards, a Big Ten record and second-most in FBS history. His 184.8 yards per game average was the most by an FBS player since former Chargers great LaDainian Tomlinson averaged 196.2 yards per game for TCU in 2000. Gordon became just the third player in FBS history to rush for at least 2,000 yards and score 30 touchdowns, joining the likes of Barry Sanders and Central Florida's Kevin Smith. Gordon capped off his illustrious career by being named the most valuable player of the 2015 Outback Bowl after rushing for an Outback Bowl-record 258 yards while scoring three touchdowns in a 34-31 overtime win against Auburn.

A native of Kenosha, Wisconsin, and an only child, both of Gordon's parents played an instrumental role in his upbringing. His mom, Carmen, a former nurse, has never missed one of his games. Before enrolling at Wisconsin, she often shuttled Melvin to and from football camps and combines as far away as Tennessee and Alabama to help his football career. She also stayed after him to maintain good grades and the life science communications major was named to a host of all-academic teams during his college career at Wisconsin. Melvin wore No. 25 for the Badgers because it was his mother's age when he was born.

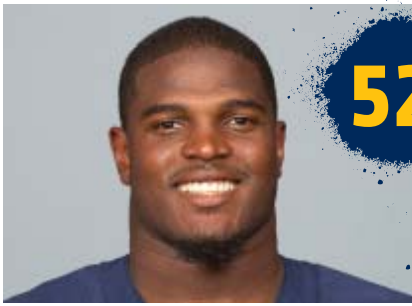

Gordon's father, Melvin, has also played an instrumental role. As a child, the elder Gordon used to show his son tapes of great running backs like Barry Sanders and Walter Payton. Gordon's father also had first-hand experience with the game as he once played semi-pro football.

CRAIG MAGER

Cornerback
5-11, 200
Rookie

Draft 3 - '15
Texas State
Luling HS
Luling, Tex.

In the third round of the 2015 NFL Draft, the Chargers selected Texas State cornerback Craig Mager. An All-Sun Belt and All-WAC performer for the Bobcats, Mager recorded eight career interceptions along with 211 tackles, 47 passes defensed, 9.5 tackles for loss and a pair of sacks.

Many players overcome adversity to play in the NFL, but Mager has been forced to endure more than most. He grew up without a father-figure in his life and in 2007, his mom, Cathy, died suddenly, leaving Mager and his three younger sisters without a parent. The kids moved in with their maternal grandmother and Mager became the proverbial man-of-the-house.

At the time, he was just 15 years old.

Mager attended Luling High School in tiny Luling, Texas. Just over a year after his mother died, Luling's Head Football Coach, Robert Dean, died suddenly of pneumonia early during his sophomore season.

And then last March, Mager's grandmother, the woman who took in he and his siblings after their mother died, passed away too.

All of these tests of faith have made Mager a much stronger person and it was part of the reason the team had no trepidation about taking the former Texas State cornerback in the third round of this year's draft.

The Schuyler, Nebraska native originally enrolled at NDSU after being overlooked by his home state's schools despite an all-state prep career, yet he left Fargo as one of the most highly-decorated players in school history. Besides the Buchanan Award, Emanuel was named Defensive Player of the Year in 2014

The San Diego Chargers rounded out their 2015 draft class with the selection of former Arkansas defensive end Darius Philon in the sixth round.

2014 GAME SUMMARIES

Arizona Cardinals 18, San Diego Chargers 17 — Monday, September 8, 2014 — University of Phoenix Stadium (Glendale, AZ)

The Chargers dropped a heartbreaker in Arizona, surrendering 12 fourth-quarter points in falling to the Cardinals, 18-17.

The game was tight in the first half with the Chargers gaining their only points on a 36-yard Nick Novak field goal four plays after rookie outside linebacker Jerry Attaochu blocked a Cardinals punt. A late second-quarter interception by Arizona's defense led to a field goal on the final play of the half and the Cardinals led 6-3 at the break.

The Chargers burst out of the gates in the third quarter, scoring a touchdown at the end of a seven-play, 80-yard drive for their first lead of the night, 10-6. Then on Arizona's next series, Attaochu sacked Cardinals quarterback Carson Palmer on a 3rd-and-9 play and the Bolts recovered, leading to a 20-yard touchdown run by Ryan Mathews that extended the Chargers' lead to 17-6. Three series later, Arizona went on a 10-play, 64-yard drive that ended with a touchdown pass from Palmer to running back Stepfan Taylor on a 3rd-and-goal at the 5 on a play which Palmer scrambled to his right and found Taylor just before being pressured out of bounds. The Chargers had an opportunity to get off the field early in the drive but Marcus Gilchrist had a potential interception get thru his hands and the Arizona drive stayed alive. Arizona went for two after the Taylor touchdown, but Richard Marshall snuffed out the Cardinals' attempt out of the wild-cat formation with help from Shareece Wright and Donald Butler and the Bolts maintained a 17-12 lead. On the Chargers' next possession, the team drove to the Arizona 29, aided in part by a game-long 34-yard catch by Antonio Gates on a 3rd-and-13 play, but on a 3rd-and-8 from the 29, the Chargers had an errant exchange from center to quarterback and Philip Rivers had to fall on the ball back at the 44-yard-line, taking the team out of field goal range.

Arizona re-took possession with 6:50 left in the final quarter and went on an 11-play, 91-yard drive with Palmer throwing a 13-yard touchdown pass to John Brown on a 3rd-and-9 play with 2:32 left in the game. Palmer made a big play early in the drive for the Cardinals, scrambling for 12 yards on a 3rd-and-10 from their own nine-yard line. Again, Arizona went for two after the touchdown and failed to convert.

The Chargers had one final drive to try and win the game, but the effort fell short, ending on downs at their own 40-yard line and Arizona was able to convert a first down and run out the clock for the victory.

San Diego Chargers 30, Seattle Seahawks 21 — Sunday, September 14, 2014 — Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers knocked off the defending Super Bowl Champion Seattle Seahawks, 30-21, on a blistering hot day at Qualcomm Stadium. The official air temperature at kickoff was 94 degrees, but a field thermometer shown on television by FOX Sports showed a reading of 115 degrees at kickoff. The Chargers dominated the reigning champions in several key areas, including time of possession (42:15 to 17:45), first downs (26 to 14) and third down conversions (10 of 17 to 3 of 8).

San Diego scored first and led 20-14 at the half on two touchdown catches by Antonio Gates, who tied his career high with three on the afternoon. The Bolts sacked Seattle quarterback Russell Wilson twice in the first half and capitalized on a turnover during a Seahawks kickoff return, scoring a touchdown for a 20-7 lead.

The teams traded touchdowns in the third quarter, including Gates' third of the afternoon, but the Chargers' defense proved to be the difference down the stretch, holding Seattle to just 35 total yards and two first downs in the final quarter as the Bolts tacked on a late field goal to seal the victory.

Quarterback Philip Rivers had an excellent afternoon for the Chargers, completing 28 of 37 (75.7 pct.) for 284 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions, while San Diego's offensive line allowed just one sack and blocked for 101 yards in the run game.

San Diego Chargers 22, Buffalo Bills 10 — Sunday, September 21, 2014 — Ralph Wilson Stadium (Orchard Park, NY)

The Chargers won their second game in a row, defeating the Buffalo Bills, 22-10, on a warm but windy day at Ralph Wilson Stadium in Orchard Park, N.Y. Despite winds of 24 mph at kickoff, the Chargers were efficient on offense and got off to a fast start against the Bills. They scored a touchdown on their first offensive possession and added two field goals before halftime, including a 17-play, 89-yard drive, and led 13-3 at the half.

The Chargers came out fast again in the third quarter, driving 14 plays and 80 yards for a touchdown on their first possession of the second half to stretch the lead to 20-3. From then on, San Diego's defense took over, tallying three second-half sacks, while adding a safety late in the game as the Bolts won, 22-10.

San Diego went into the game without running back Ryan Mathews, who was nursing a knee injury, and Danny Woodhead was lost early in the contest to a broken fibula. Donald Brown shouldered the workload in their absence, carrying a career-high 31 times, while Philip Rivers was an efficient 18 of 25 with two touchdown passes to Eddie Royal.

The Bolts' defense held the Bills to just 10 points. They recorded the three sacks of quarterback E.J. Manuel, while collecting an additional two points late in the game on the safety.

San Diego Chargers 33, Jacksonville Jaguars 14 — Sunday, September 28, 2014 — Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers extended their winning streak to three games as they knocked off the Jacksonville Jaguars, 33-14, on Sept. 28 at Qualcomm Stadium.

The game was a back-and-forth affair early before Philip Rivers led the Chargers to 23 straight points to close out the win. Rivers had one of his best performances of the season, completing 29 of 39 for 377 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions. He threw two touchdown passes to Eddie Royal and one to Malcom Floyd, while Nick Novak put four field goal tries through the uprights for the Chargers. And though he didn't reach the end zone, Keenan Allen played a big role, setting career highs with 10 catches and 135 yards.

After giving up 14 points early in the game, San Diego's defense came to life and shut out the Jaguars for the final 37:17. The Chargers sacked Jaguars' rookie quarterback Blake Bortles three times and they picked off two of his passes for the team's first two interceptions of the season. The Bolts' defense also stopped two other drives on downs and one on a takeaway by fumble.

Punter Mike Scifres also enjoyed his finest afternoon of the early season, landing all three of his punt attempts inside the 10, while not allowing any of the three to be returned.

The Chargers jumped out to a 21-0 lead at halftime by converting 9-of-10 third-down opportunities, controlling the ball for 20:20 to the Jets' 9:40 and by forcing two Jets' turnovers.

The Jets replaced an ineffective Geno Smith at halftime and put Michael Vick into the game. Smith completed just 4 of 12 for 27 yards with an interception for a 7.6 passer rating, and the Bolts' defense didn't let up when Vick entered the game, recording two second-half sacks while holding him to 8 of 19 passing for 47 yards.

San Diego Chargers 31, Oakland Raiders 28 — Sunday, October 12, 2014 — O.co Coliseum (Oakland, CA)

The Chargers won their fifth straight and improved to 5-1 on the season after overcoming a fourth-quarter deficit to beat the Oakland Raiders, 31-28, at the O.co. Coliseum in Oakland.

The game was a see-saw battle that was tied 7-7, 14-14 and 21-21 before the Raiders took a 28-21 lead in the fourth quarter. The Chargers rallied however over the final 10:01, driving for a 30-yard Nick Novak field goal and a one-yard touchdown run that put them up 31-28 with 1:56 remaining. Oakland had one last chance to tie or take the lead at the end of regulation but Jason Verrett, a native of Fairfield, California, about an hour north of Oakland, and the Chargers' first-round pick in the 2014 NFL Draft, snagged his first-career interception with 1:13 remaining and the Chargers ran out the clock to leave Oakland with the victory. Ironically it was the game's only turnover.

Branden Oliver, who scored the go-ahead touchdown for the Bolts late in the fourth quarter, rushed for 101 yards, while Malcom Floyd had a team-high 103 yards and was one of three different Chargers to catch touchdown passes. Philip Rivers passed for 313 yards and three TDs to lead the Bolts.

Kansas City Chiefs 23, San Diego Chargers 20 — Sunday, October 19, 2014 — Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers' five-game winning streak came to an end with a heartbreaking 23-20 loss to the Chiefs at Qualcomm Stadium.

The game was a see-saw battle throughout. The Chargers scored first to go up 7-0 and then scored a late second-quarter touchdown to go up 14-13 at the break. Kansas City came out of the locker room at halftime and dominated time of possession in the third quarter, 13:58 to 1:02 and they scored 10 straight points to take a 20-14 lead early in the fourth quarter.

The Chargers rallied and strung together two field goal drives in the fourth quarter to tie the game, but it wasn't enough as Kansas City drove for the game-winning field goal to escape with the win.

Miami Dolphins 37, San Diego Chargers 0 — Sunday, November 2, 2014 — Sun Life Stadium (Miami Gardens, FL)

The Chargers traveled to Miami and lost to the Dolphins, 37-0, for their first shutout loss since a 34-0 defeat at Kansas City on Oct. 31, 1999. The Bolts' streak of 240 games without being shutout had been the NFL's third-longest active streak.

Miami dominated the game, outgaining the Chargers in total yards, 441 to 178, including a yardage differential of 132 to 50 on the ground and 309 to 148 through the air.

The Chargers opened the game with a solid 13-play, 77-yard drive to the Dolphins' 22 but they were unable to convert a 4th-and-1 late in the drive. On the ensuing possession, Miami drove 10 plays and 82 yards for a touchdown and a 7-0 lead. The Dolphins would go on to tack on 13 more points in the first half for a 20-0 lead at the break and then they broke open the game in the third quarter, outscoring the Bolts 17-0 en route to the victory.

The Chargers were stymied by four turnovers, including three interceptions by Philip Rivers, who had his team-record streaks for games with a touchdown pass (28) and games with multiple touchdown passes (7) both come to an end.

With the loss, the Chargers record fell to 5-4 on the season.

San Diego Chargers 27, St. Louis Rams 24 — Sunday, November 23, 2014 — Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers won one of the most entertaining games of the season, defeating the St. Louis Rams, 27-24, before a crowd of more than 66,000 at Qualcomm Stadium.

The game featured a 99-yard interception return touchdown for the Rams; a 13-yard scoop-and-score fumble return touchdown for the Chargers; a blocked field goal for the Bolts; a pair of long touchdowns for the Chargers, one from Keenan Allen and another from Ryan Mathews, and in the end, a game-saving interception in the end zone with just over a minute left from Marcus Gilchrist to preserve the victory.

The teams traded field goals early and then the Rams took a 10-3 lead in the second quarter on the interception return by Janoris Jenkins as the Chargers appeared headed for a score to take the lead. The ledger remained 10-3 until late in the first half when Darrell Stuckey blocked a 46-yard field goal try as the Rams looked to stretch their lead. Instead the Bolts countered with three points of their own and went to the locker room down 10-6 at halftime.

After a three-and-out by the defense to open the third quarter, the Chargers re-claimed the lead when Mathews scored on a 32-yard run at the end of a 61-yard drive. Then just 21 seconds later, Corey Liuget performed a sack-and-strip against Rams quarterback Shaun

Hill and a heads up Andrew Gachkar scooped up the loose ball and skirted 13 yards down the sideline for a touchdown and a 20-10 lead.

Energized, San Diego's defense came out and forced a punt, but Chris Davis ran into Allen as he was attempting to field the punt, leading to a muff, which was recovered by the Rams, and a touchdown following the turnover. Now with the Chargers' lead reduced to three (20-17), Allen again was involved in a pivotal play as Jenkins stripped him at the end of a 35-yard run-and-catch on a 3rd-and-6 at the St. Louis 16 and the Rams prevented another potential Chargers score. Allen would have the final say, however, as after San Diego's defense came up with a stop, he caught a short pass from Philip Rivers and wove his way 29 yards to the end zone for a touchdown to cap off a season-long 93-yard drive and give the Chargers a 27-17 lead.

Down by 10 once again late in the game, the Rams though refused to quit. They scored a touchdown with 2:04 remaining to get within three and then their defense forced the Chargers to go three-and-out, giving St. Louis the ball back with a chance to tie or win the game, but on a 2nd-and-goal at the Chargers' four with 1:03 remaining, Gilchrist intercepted Hill in the end zone and the Chargers were able to run off the remaining time to escape with the 27-24 victory.

San Diego Chargers 34, Baltimore Ravens 33 — Sunday, November 30, 2014 — M&T Bank Stadium (Baltimore, MD)

The Chargers picked up an important late-season victory, overcoming a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit by scoring 21 points in the final period to defeat the Baltimore Ravens, 34-33, before a crowd of 71,060 at M&T Bank Stadium.

The Chargers fell behind the Ravens early and trailed for nearly the entire game until taking the lead with 38 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter.

The game was a wild one. It featured 55 first downs, 31 for the Chargers and 24 for the Ravens, and both teams were efficient on third down with the Bolts converting 9 of 11 (second best in team history) and the Ravens converting 7 of 12. One of the big differences in the game was in the red zone, especially for San Diego's defense. The Ravens made seven trips into the red zone, but the Bolts' held them to field goals on four of the seven trips and it made a difference at the end. There were also 22 penalties called in the game with the Bolts getting flagged eight times and the Ravens 14.

Even though the Ravens led for nearly the entire game, it was close throughout. Baltimore's lead never grew larger than 10 points. The Chargers trailed 23-13 going into the fourth quarter and 30-20 with 6:13 remaining but Philip Rivers threw two touchdown passes in the final 6:13 and San Diego's defense came up with a huge stop to force a field goal try with 2:22 remaining to set the wheels in motion for the game-winning touchdown drive. On the game winning drive, Rivers led the team 80 yards in eight plays and Eddie Royal caught the winner, a one-yard touchdown pass from Rivers, with 38 seconds left in the game. Keenan Allen had three big catches for 33 yards on the game-winning drive, while Malcom Floyd converted a key third down, and then one play later he helped set up the game-winner by drawing a 23-yard pass interference penalty in the end zone to give the Bolts the ball at Baltimore's one.

The Chargers improved to 8-4 while Baltimore fell to 7-5.

The Chargers' three-game winning streak came to a halt as the New England Patriots defeated the Bolts, 23-14, in an NBC Sunday Night Football game in San Diego. The Patriots overcame an early 14-3 deficit and scored the contest's final 20 points in the win.

New England scored first putting up a field goal at the end of a 17-play drive, the longest drive of the season against San Diego's defense. The Chargers countered though with an 80-yard touchdown drive to go up 7-3 followed by a scoop-and-score 53-yard fumble return by Darrell Stuckey and the Bolts went up 14-3 early in the second quarter. New England answered with 10 points before half-time, including a touchdown on a short field after Brandon Bolden blocked a Mike Scifres punt, setting up the Patriots with the ball at the Chargers' 25. Scifres suffered a clavicle injury on the play and would be replaced for the balance of the game by Nick Novak.

Denver Broncos 22, San Diego Chargers 10 — Sunday, December 14, 2014 — Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers lost to the defending AFC Champions, 22-10, at Qualcomm Stadium. The Chargers trailed throughout the contest and were hampered by two missed field goals and two late interceptions. The Bolts' defense held the Broncos to five field goals, including field goals on three of Denver's trips into the red zone.

The Chargers struggled offensively early on, but the defense kept them in the game and a late second quarter field goal allowed the Bolts to go into the locker room at halftime down just 9-3.

Denver stretched their lead to 16-3 in the third quarter, capitalizing with a touchdown after the Chargers' second missed field goal of the game, an attempt that bounced off the left upright. The Chargers clawed right back though, driving 80 yards in 11 plays and getting back to within 16-10 on a five-yard touchdown pass from Philip Rivers to Antonio Gates.

On the ensuing Denver possession, the Chargers were poised to force a Broncos punt, but a third-down pass interference penalty early in the drive kept it alive and the visitors took advantage of the new life and drove for a field goal to stretch their lead to 19-10. A Rivers interception led to another field goal and a 22-10 lead. The Chargers had one late chance to drive and cut into the Broncos' lead but an interception in the end zone sealed the Bolts' fate and Denver closed out the victory.

San Diego Chargers 38, San Francisco 49ers 35 (OT) — Saturday, December 20, 2014 — Levi's Stadium (Santa Clara, CA)

The Chargers kept their playoff aspirations alive and improved their record to 9-6 with one of the most improbable wins in the franchise's 55-year history by overcoming a 21-point deficit to defeat the San Francisco 49ers in overtime, 38-35, at Levi's Stadium in Santa Clara.

The Chargers fell behind 21-0 after barely more than a quarter. The lone defensive highlight of the first half was a forced fumble by Marcus Gilchrist at the Chargers' two that was recovered by Corey Liuget and prevented a fourth potential touchdown. The Chargers' offense cracked the scoreboard with 5:09 left in the second quarter, but a late San Francisco touchdown sent the teams to the locker rooms at halftime with the 49ers up 21 once again, 28-7.

In the third quarter, Antonio Gates caught a one-yard touchdown pass to get the Bolts within 28-14. Then on San Francisco's next series, one play after Dwight Freeney drew a chop block penalty to negate a 63-yard touchdown pass to Vernon Davis, Freeney and Ricardo Mathews combined to sack Colin Kaepernick for a 14-yard loss. On the play, Mathews poked the ball loose and Liuget fell on it in the end zone for a touchdown and the Bolts trailed just 28-21. With momentum on the Chargers' sideline, Kaepernick quickly seized it back, escaping a near sack before scrambling 90 yards for the second-longest touchdown in NFL history by a quarterback.

Down 35-21 in the fourth quarter, the Chargers got rolling again on offense. Philip Rivers threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to Gates and the Bolts climbed back within seven at 35-28. The Chargers got the ball back once again with 3:30 left in the fourth quarter and Rivers led the Chargers 80 yards in 14 plays, converting a 4th-and-8 with a 17-yard pass to Eddie Royal and a 4th-and-10 with another 17-yarder to Dontrelle Inman, who was seeing the first significant action of his NFL career at wide receiver. Rivers capped the drive with an 11-yard game-tying touchdown pass to Malcom Floyd with just 29 seconds left, sending the game to overtime.

The 49ers won the coin toss to start the extra period, but on the second play of their drive Eric Weddle forced a fumble by Quinton Patton on an end-around and Sean Lissemore recovered for the Bolts. Nine plays later, Nick Novak's 40-yard field goal attempt split the uprights and the Chargers escaped Santa Clara with the win.

The Chargers' 21-point deficit that the team overcame to win tied for the greatest in team history and the Chargers became the first team in NFL history since the merger to give up more than 355 yards rushing and still win the game.

Kansas City Chiefs 19, San Diego Chargers 7 — Sunday, December 28, 2014 — Arrowhead Stadium (Kansas City, MO)

The Chargers' 2014 season came to a disappointing end as the Bolts fell to the Chiefs, 19-7, at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium in a game in which a victory would have qualified the Bolts for the AFC Playoffs.

With Chiefs starting quarterback Alex Smith sidelined by injury, Kansas City trotted out Chase Daniel to start. Daniel warmed right up on a 31-degree day, completing his first nine passes in helping the Chiefs jump out to a 10-0 advantage. The Chiefs scored their touchdown on a heads-up play by tight end Travis Kelce, who scooped up a loose ball in the end zone after Jahleel Addae had dislodged it from Dwayne Bowe at the goal line. The Chargers answered the Chiefs touchdown with a score of their own on a one-yard run by Branden

Oliver to narrow the gap to 10-7, but Kansas City tacked on two field goals before halftime and led 16-7 at the break.

The Chargers' defense did its part in the second half, holding the Chiefs to just three points, which came after a sack and fumble by the offense, but the Bolts offense wasn't able to penetrate Kansas City's defense. Two second-half drives ended on downs deep in Chiefs territory, and a third ended with a 52-yard missed field goal.

The Chargers and Chiefs both ended the season at 9-7 with Kansas City taking second place in the AFC West over the Chargers by virtue of having beaten the Chargers in both regular season meetings.

2013 AFC Divisional Playoffs

Denver Broncos 24, San Diego Chargers 17

Sunday, Jan. 12, 2014 - Sports Authority Field (Denver, CO)

The Chargers' storybook season came to an end on Jan. 12 in the AFC Divisional Playoffs at Denver's Sports Authority Field as the Broncos defeated the Bolts, 24-17, to eliminate San Diego from the AFC Playoffs. Weather was a factor early in the game as winds at kickoff were blowing across the field at 17 mph with gusts up to 27 mph. Despite the unfavorable conditions, the Chargers didn't go down without a fight, rallying from a 17-point deficit to get within seven points late in the fourth quarter. Down 24-7 with 8:12 left in the fourth quarter, the Chargers scored a touchdown, recovered an onside kick and kicked a field goal to get within seven points at 24-17. That would be as close as the Chargers would get, however, as Denver took possession with 3:53 remaining in the game and converted two first downs, including a 3rd-and-17, to run out the clock and advance to the AFC Championship Game.

2009 AFC Divisional Playoffs
New York Jets 17, San Diego Chargers 14
Sunday, Jan. 17, 2010 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The No. 5 seed New York Jets upset No. 2 seed Chargers. San Diego's defense opened game with four straight three-and-outs, not allowing Jets first down until 8:11 remained in second quarter. Stephen Cooper set up Chargers' first touchdown of game, forcing three-and-out with four-yard tackle for loss on 3rd-and-4. On ensuing drive, Kris Wilson caught 13-yard touchdown pass for 7-0 lead. Antonio Gates helped set up TD with brilliant one-handed 23-yard reception to 16. Quentin Jammer had solid afternoon, breaking up third-down pass in second quarter to force punt and intercepting another in third quarter. Paul Oliver provided pressure and hit on Jets' quarterback Mark Sanchez on interception and Steve Gregory, in coverage, tipped pass that Jammer picked off. Jacob Hester got his hand on late fourth-quarter punt by Jets, contributing to just 26-yard punt. On ensuing possession, Philip Rivers scored TD on one-yard sneak with 2:20 left. Vincent Jackson, who had game-high 111 yards receiving, set up Rivers TD with 12-yard catch to one on 3rd-and-7.

2008 AFC Divisional Playoffs
Pittsburgh Steelers 35, San Diego Chargers 24
Sunday, Jan. 11, 2009 - Heinz Field (Pittsburgh, PA)

The Chargers' run through AFC Playoffs came to abrupt end in Pittsburgh as Steelers dealt Chargers 35-24 setback on cold and snowy day in Steel City. Chargers staked out to early lead on long touchdown catch by Vincent Jackson and led or were tied for most of first half, but game's momentum changed right before and right after halftime. Down 10-7, Pittsburgh drove 66 yards for touchdown just before halftime, giving them their first lead of night at 14-10. Steelers got ball first coming out of locker room and drove 77 yards for another score that extended lead to 21-10. Darren Sproles' 63-yard kickoff return gave ball to Chargers at Pittsburgh's 23-yard line, but Philip Rivers' first-down pass was tipped and intercepted by Steelers. Though replays showed ball appeared to hit ground, play withstood instant replay challenge and Pittsburgh maintained possession. Chargers' defense held and forced punt, but punt inadvertently hit unknowing Eric Weddle and Steelers recovered and took over at Chargers' 23. Again Chargers defense would hold, stopping Pittsburgh on downs at one, but with Bolts offense unable to get out of shadow of its own goal line, Steelers got ball again in San Diego territory and 49 yards later, Steelers scored to take 28-10 lead. San Diego managed pair of late touchdowns, including 62-yarder by Sproles, who finished game with 274 all-purpose yards, but Pittsburgh held Bolts at bay and held on for win.

2008 AFC Wild Card Playoffs

San Diego Chargers 23, Indianapolis Colts 17 (OT)
Saturday, Jan. 3, 2009 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The San Diego Chargers' miracle season of 2008 stayed alive as Bolts rallied from 17-14 fourth quarter deficit behind outstanding defensive effort and legs of Darren Sproles to defeat Indianapolis Colts, 23-17, in overtime in Saturday night home playoff game at Qualcomm Stadium. After trailing 7-0 and 10-7, Chargers rallied and led 14-10 at half. In third quarter, Colts caught Chargers off-guard while substituting defenders and made them pay with 72-yard TD pass from Peyton Manning to Reggie Wayne. San Diego's defense settled down though and did not allow Colts any more points. Key defensive stand late in fourth quarter, fueled by Tim Dobbins' sack of Manning at Colts' one-yard line, allowed offense time for one final drive in regulation. Philip Rivers drove Bolts to Colts' eight-yard line and Nate Kaeding's field goal from 26 yards out tied game with 31 seconds left. San Diego won coin toss in overtime and Rivers led offense on 11-play, 75-yard march that ended with 22-yard touchdown run by Sproles to win game in overtime. Sproles finished night with 328 all-purpose yards, third-most ever by player in NFL Playoff game. Dobbins' sack that enabled Bolts to begin comeback was first of his career.

2007 AFC Championship Game

New England Patriots 21, San Diego Chargers 12
Sunday, Jan. 20, 2008 - Gillette Stadium (Foxborough, MA)

Despite playing with torn ACL in his right knee, Philip Rivers started and played entire game. contest was played in sub-freezing weather with kickoff temperature of 23 degrees and wind-chill factor of nine degrees. Chargers were doomed by their inability to score touchdowns inside red zone, instead settling for four Nate Kaeding field goals. NFL rushing champion LaDainian Tomlinson, who was suffering from strained MCL in his left knee, tried to go, but was unable to complete game. Chargers struck first following Tom Brady interception. Chargers were also hurt by turnovers as second-quarter interception thrown by Rivers resulted in TD and 14-6 lead for Pats. Chargers made another run at Patriots in third quarter, intercepting Brady on opening drive. It would lead to one of game's most critical plays. After turnover, Chargers drove to New England's four, but on 3rd-and-1, Michael Turner was tackled for two-yard loss by former Bolt Junior Seau and Chargers had to settle for another field goal. New England made Chargers pay three series later as Wes Welker caught six-yard pass from Brady and Patriots extended their lead to 21-12. After San Diego punt, New England took ball with 9:13 to play in fourth quarter and killed entire clock, overcoming 2nd-and-18 early in drive. With win, Patriots advanced to Super Bowl XLIII to face New York Giants.

2007 AFC Divisional Playoffs

San Diego Chargers 28, Indianapolis Colts 24 Sunday, Jan. 13, 2008 - RCA Dome (Indianapolis, IN)

The Chargers advanced to AFC Championship game in New England with 28-24 win in final-ever game at RCA Dome. contest included multiple lead changes that were sparked by handful of reserves who were forced into action after key starters were sidelined with injuries. Down 7-0, Philip Rivers threw interception and Colts drove to Chargers' 17-yard line, but Antonio Cromartie forced fumble by Marvin Harrison to end threat. Chargers capitalized, tying game on touchdown pass from Rivers to Vincent Jackson. Late in second quarter, Cromartie snagged his second takeaway when slightly overthrown Peyton Manning pass went off Reggie Wayne's fingertips. Cromartie returned interception 89 yards for what appeared to be go-ahead score, but holding call during return brought play back to midfield and teams went to locker room with Indy up 10-7. Chargers scored on their opening possession of second half and took their first lead at 14-10. Indianapolis then drove to Chargers' four, but rookie safety Eric Weddle intercepted pass intended for Kenton Keith. On last play of third quarter, Rivers tossed his third touchdown pass of day, short screen that Darren Sproles took 56 yards to house, but euphoria of 21-17 lead was temporarily dampened as Rivers left game with sprained right knee suffered on play. With Rivers out, LaDainian Tomlinson also battling sore knee and Colts retaking lead 24-21, backups Billy Volek and Michael Turner were called on to carry load. And they delivered with Volek giving Chargers lead one final time on one-yard quarterback sneak with 4:54 remaining. Colts had two late tries to reclaim lead, but Bolts defense buckled down with two stops on downs, including one at Chargers' seven yard line and another that started far down field thanks to 66-yard punt by Mike Scifres as Chargers held on for victory.

Chris Chambers and Vincent Jackson became first pair of Chargers to each record more than 100 yards receiving in playoff game since 1983 as Chambers went for 121, while Jackson tallied career-high 114, including touchdown catch that proved to be eventual game winner. Nate Kaeding field goal to open third quarter made score 6-3 and after defensive stop, Philip Rivers tossed 25-yard TD pass to Jackson for 10-6 lead. Tennessee drove deep into San Diego territory on their next drive, but Rob Bironas pushed 38-yard field goal wide to left and Chargers made them pay. Rivers engineered 12-play, 72-yard drive and LaDainian Tomlinson scored from one yard out on fourth-and-one play to put game away. Chambers 39-yard catch on third-and-10 play set up score. Late in game Tennessee was stymied in its comeback effort by three-and-out and Drayton Florence interception. Titans finished their year 10-7, while Chargers advanced to face Indianapolis in AFC Divisional Playoff round.

2004 AFC Wild Card Playoffs

New York Jets 20, San Diego Chargers 17 (OT)
Saturday, Jan. 8, 2005 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers' 2004 postseason came to early end as in 20-17 overtime loss to New York Jets in Wild Card Playoff Game at Qualcomm Stadium. sellout crowd of 67,536 braved elements as Drew Brees led furious fourth quarter comeback during which Chargers outscored New York 10-0 to send game into overtime. Given new life by roughing-the-passer penalty on what appeared to be San Diego's last play of game, Brees found Antonio Gates in end zone for one-yard touchdown pass with 11 seconds left to send game to extra period. It was only second overtime playoff game in team history. Both teams traded possessions in extra period before Nate Kaeding's game-winning attempt from 40 yards sailed wide right, opening door for New York to drive down and kick game winner with five seconds left in overtime. Keenan McCardell scored game's first touchdown on 26-yard catch. He was initially ruled out of bounds, but San Diego challenged call and ruling was reversed. It was McCardell's sixth-career touchdown catch in post-season. Brees opened game by completing his first eight passes and on McCardell touchdown drive, he was 5 of 5 for 61 yards and touchdown. He finished night 31 of 42 (.738), setting team playoff record for completion percentage.

Super Bowl XXIX

Sunday, Jan. 29, 1995 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers were no match for high-powered San Francisco offense as 49ers scored early and often en route to handing San Diego 49-26 defeat. Steve Young passed for four first-half touchdowns as 49ers jumped out to 28-10 lead at halftime. barrage continued in second half and Young finished night with 325 yards and six touchdown passes. Chargers' offense was forced to play catch-up most of game, and as result, quarterback Stan Humphries passed 49 times, completing 24 for 275 yards with one touchdown, but two interceptions proved costly. Natrone Means became youngest player in Super Bowl history to score touchdown when 22-year-old dived over 49ers' defense for a one-yard scoring plunge in first quarter. Chargers rookie Andre Coleman tied Super Bowl record for longest kickoff return when he went 98 yards for touchdown in third quarter. Following kickoff return, Humphries passed to Mark Seay for first two-point conversion in Super Bowl history. Later, after 30-yard Humphries to Tony Martin touchdown pass late in fourth quarter, Humphries completed his second two-point conversion of game, this time to Alfred Pupunu. Linebackers Dennis Gibson and Junior Seau led Chargers with 11 tackles apiece, while Seau added sack. Raylee Johnson paced Chargers with two sacks.

Steelers opened second half with field goal to extend lead to 13-3. Later in quarter, Stan Humphries connected with Al Pupunu on 43-yard touchdown strike to close gap to 13-10. score remained as such until late in fourth quarter when Humphries threw another 43-yard touchdown pass, this one to Tony Martin, and Bolts claimed their first lead of game at 17-13. 1994 AFC Divisional Playoffs

San Diego Chargers 22, Miami Dolphins 21
Sunday, Jan. 8, 1995 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers advanced to AFC Championship Game with 22-21 victory over Miami Dolphins in front of San Diego-record home crowd of 63,381 fans. win moved Chargers to AFC title round for only third time in team history and first time since 1982. Dan Marino threw three first-half touchdown passes and Dolphins led 21-6 at half. San Diego's offense came alive and dominated third quarter. Chargers took opening drive of second half and marched 15 plays to Dolphins' one-yard line before losing ball on downs. But on Miami's first play from scrimmage, Reuben Davis stopped Bernie Parmalee in end zone for safety to make score 21-8. San Diego took ensuing kick and Natrone Means finished 54-yard drive with 24-yard scoring run, breaking several tackles along way and Dolphin lead was trimmed to 21-15. teams traded possessions through fourth quarter before Stan Humphries hit Mark Seay for what would prove to be game-winning touchdown. But before that could happen, Marino moved Dolphins to San Diego's 30-yard line with 35 seconds left and positioned Pete Stoyanovich for 48-yard field goal attempt, but kick sailed wide right. San Diego dominated game's time of possession, controlling ball 39:20 compared to Miami's 20:40. Another factor was San Diego's running game, which rolled up 202 of team's 466 total yards. Means rushed for personal best 139 yards and Humphries completed 20 of 26 attempts in second half.

1992 AFC Divisional Playoffs

Miami Dolphins 31, San Diego Chargers 0 Sunday, Jan. 10, 1993 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers history-making season ended with 31-0 loss to Miami Dolphins in Joe Robbie Stadium. Intermittent downpours and soggy field slowed both teams early as each squad was forced to punt on their first four series. Second quarter proved disastrous for San Diego. Stan Humphries was intercepted three times with each leading to Dolphins touchdown and 21-0 halftime lead for Miami. San Diego also suffered fumbled snap on punt attempt in period. Chargers could not get on track in second half either, as Miami chalked up 10 more points and forced two more San Diego turnovers. Chargers' defense was on field most of game (37:08). Junior Seau recorded personal-best 19 tackles. Dolphins special teams put Chargers in poor field position on several occasions, including punts, which pinned San Diego's offense back on its own five, six, four and 15-yard lines.

1980 AFC Championship Game

Oakland Raiders 34, San Diego Chargers 27

Sunday, Jan. 11, 1981 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Oakland took 28-7 lead in first half and then held off late San Diego bid to beat Chargers for American Football Conference championship. On third play from scrimmage, Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett had pass bounce off hands of his intended receiver Kenny King and into grasp of Raymond Chester, who took pass in for 65-yard score. San Diego's initial drive was halted when John Jefferson slipped on wet turf and Dan Fouts' pass zipped into hands of defender Lester Hayes. Chargers tied score minutes later on 48-yard pass from Fouts to Charlie Joiner but Oakland retaliated with 76-yard scoring drive, aided by Plunkett pass to Cliff Branch for 48 yards and pass interference penalty. By end of the first quarter, Oakland led 21-7, and two quarterbacks had combined for 314 yards passing. Oakland later scored on three-yard run by Mark Van Eeghen, making score 28-7. San Diego scored near end of first half on eight-yard pass from Fouts to Joiner. In third quarter, Rolf Benirschke kicked field goal and Chuck Muncie scored from six yards to narrow Raiders' lead to 28-24. Oakland then marched 68 and 37 yards to set up two Chris Bahr field goals while running 10:38 off clock. Trailing 34-24 Chargers drove for field goal from Benirschke that left them one touchdown behind with 6:52 to play, but Oakland controlled ball for final 6:52 and held on for victory.

1965 AFL Championship Game

Buffalo Bills 23, San Diego Chargers 0

Sunday, Dec. 26, 1965 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

It was same two teams that met in 1964 Championship game with scene shifting from East to West Coast. But there obviously was no hometown advantage for San Diego Chargers. Coach Lou Saban's Buffalo Bills found 59-degree weather much to their liking in San Diego's Balboa Stadium, rolling to 23-0 victory before 30,361 downhearted fans. San Diego's offensive unit was unable to generate any type of serious attack after first quarter and Jack Kemp-led Bills broke loose in second period. Kemp teamed with end Ernie Warlick for initial score, 18-yard pass play capping 60-yard drive. Just 2:20 later, Bills struck again on 74-yard punt return by Butch Byrd and at halftime, Buffalo was ahead 14-0. In second half, Chargers were able to contain Buffalo's ground game and Kemp's passing, but couldn't stop talented toe of placekicker Pete Gogolak. His soccer-style kicks connected twice in third quarter from 11 and 39 yards and once more in final period from 32 yards.

1964 AFL Championship Game
Sunday, Dec. 26, 1964 - War Memorial Stadium (Buffalo, NY)

Lou Saban sent his Buffalo Bills out for post-Christmas gift after three lean years and one near miss in American Football League. Bills found what they were looking for and wrapped up defending champion San Diego Chargers, 20-7, for AFL Championship before 40,242 howling hometown fans. Chargers started out as if they meant to repeat their 51-10 conquest of Boston Patriots in 1963 title game. They boomed from their own 20 in four plays with payoff 26-yard strike from retiring quarterback Tobin Rote to tight end Dave Kocourek. Keith Lincoln's PAT at 2:16 of first period was last time San Diego got on scoreboard. Disaster soon struck visitors when Lincoln was forced out of action with broken rib on "the tackle heard around world" by Buffalo linebacker Mike Stratton. Coupled with absence of Lance Alworth, injury to Lincoln left Chargers offense impotent. Buffalo forged to 13-7 halftime lead on field goals from 12 and 17 yards by rookie ace Pete Gogolak and four-yard touchdown run by halfback Wray Carlton. Bills tallied again in final quarter on sneak by quarterback Jack Kemp.

1963 AFL Championship Game
San Diego Chargers 51, Boston Patriots 10
Sunday, Jan. 5, 1964 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Before 30,127 in Balboa Stadium and 30 million more on national television, Keith Lincoln ran, caught and passed like no other athlete ever has in professional title match as Californians crumbled Boston Patriots, 51-10. Chargers' offense produced 610 yards. Lincoln accounted for 349 of them in virtuoso performance that included touchdown sprint of 67 yards, touchdown reception of 25 yards, 206 yards gained rushing, 123 gained pass receiving and 20 gained passing. Lincoln's heroics were mightily abated by others on San Diego team that played with brilliance. It was powerhouse show by team that had failed in two previous tries to win AFL title. But Patriots, with league's proudest defensive outfit, were no match for San Diegans. Splendidly prepared by Sid Gilman to combat Boston's almost constantly rushing linebackers, Chargers scored on their fourth scrimmage play, as well as their sixth and 10th. Patriots' ground attack suffered after full-back Larry Garron incurred head injury midway through second period. Garron later returned to game but remained in it only briefly.

1961 AFL Championship Game

Houston Oilers 10, San Diego Chargers 3

Sunday, Dec. 24, 1961 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The 1961 American Football League Championship game in San Diego's Balboa Stadium was carbon copy of previous season's title game in that Houston Oilers beat San Diego Chargers 10-3. On Jan. 1, 1961, Oilers edged Chargers, 24-16, in Houston's Jeppesen Stadium. live audience of 29,556 fans and nationwide television audience estimated in vicinity of 40 million viewers witnessed monument to defensive football at its best. crowd at stadium was limited because game was played on Christmas Eve and game was telecast into Los Angeles area and many San Diegans received LA's ABC affiliate, Channel 7. Oilers scored on 46-yard field goal by George Blanda midway through second quarter and added clincher, 35-yard touchdown pass by Blanda to Billy Cannon, late in third quarter. Chargers only scoring came on 12-yard field goal early in final period. Indication of evenness of ballgame is that both clubs had total net offense of 256 yards.

- Oct. 9—Nick Novak hits a career-high five field goals, one shy of the team record, including a 35-yarder with 24 seconds left to lead the Bolts to a 29-24 road win over the Denver Broncos.
- Nov. 6—Philip Rivers has four touchdown passes but throws three interceptions in a 45-38 loss to the defending Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers. It's the first three-interception game of his career (90 games) and ends his NFL record streak for the start of a career. Hall of Fame quarterback Joe Montana had set the previous mark of 57 games.
- Nov. 20—Philip Rivers throws his 150th career touchdown pass at Chicago.
- Nov. 27—Junior Seau is formally inducted into the Chargers Hall of Fame.
- Dec. 11—Antonio Gates catches his 75th career touchdown pass in a 37-10 win over the Buffalo Bills. Takeo Spikes plays in his 200th career game.

- Dec. 24—Antonio Gates catches his 587th career pass in his hometown of Detroit, Mich. to pass Charlie Joiner and become the Chargers' all-time leading receiver.

- Jan. 1—Philip Rivers passes for 310 yards in a season-ending win at Oakland and becomes only the fifth quarterback in NFL history with back-to-back 4,500-yard passing seasons.
- May 2—Twelve-time Pro Bowl linebacker Junior Seau dies of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in his Oceanside, Calif. home. Hundreds of fans flock to his home to pay tribute to the fallen Chargers great.
- May 11—A crowd of 20,000 fans attend a Celebration of Life memorial service at Qualcomm Stadium for Junior Seau. Guest speakers include Bobby Ross, Dan Fouts, LaDainian Tomlinson Billy Ray Smith and John Lynch. The evening concludes with Chargers' President Dean Spanos announcing that Seau's No. 55 will be retired during ceremonies that will take place at the team's 2012 home opener on Sept. 16 against the Tennessee Titans.
- June 18—LaDainian Tomlinson, the Chargers' first-round pick in the 2001 NFL Draft and the NFL's fifth all-time leading rusher, signs a one-day contract and retires as a San Diego Charger after 11 seasons in the NFL. A press conference to announce his retirement is held at Chargers Park and is attended by nearly 200 friends, family, former teammates and media.
- Dec. 9—The Chargers shock the heavily-favored Pittsburgh Steelers, 34-24, at Heinz Field for the Bolts first-ever regular-season win in the Steel City. After the game Spanos presents a game ball to embattled Head Coach Norv Turner.
- Dec. 31—Dean Spanos announces that A.J. Smith and Norv Turner will not return for the 2013 season.

- Jan. 15—Dean Spanos introduces Mike McCoy as the 15th head coach in Chargers history. At age 40, McCoy becomes the second-youngest active head coach in the NFL and the second-youngest in team history.
- Sept. 15—Nick Novak kicks a game-winning 46-yard field goal with seven seconds left to give the Chargers a 33-30 win over the Philadelphia Eagles at Lincoln Financial Field for McCoy's first win as head coach. Inside the locker room following the game, Spanos presents McCoy and Telesco each with a game ball.
- Nov. 24—The 4-6 Chargers stun the 9-1 Kansas City Chiefs at Arrowhead Stadium, 41-38, as Philip Rivers throws a game-winning 26-yard touchdown pass to Seyi Ajirotutu with 26 seconds left in the fourth quarter, the final score in a game that saw a total of nine lead changes throughout. During the game, Antonio Gates becomes the fourth tight end in NFL history to surpass 700 career catches and 9,000 career yards. His biggest catch of the day is a 12-yarder for a first down on a 3rd-and-10 play during the Bolts' game-winning touchdown drive.
- Dec. 29—In nearly improbable fashion, the Chargers clinch the final spot in the AFC Playoff field with a 27-24 win against the Chiefs in overtime at Qualcomm Stadium. The Chargers overcame a 10-point deficit entering the fourth quarter and survived a missed 41-yard field goal attempt by the Chiefs' Ryan Succop in the waning seconds of the fourth quarter. On the opening drive of overtime, Rivers drove the Chargers 62 yards in 9:30 and Novak hit a 36-yard field goal for the winning points.

- Jan. 5—The Chargers win their first playoff game since Jan. 2009, defeating the Cincinnati Bengals, 27-10, in a Wild Card Playoff game at Paul Brown Stadium. The Bengals led 10-7 at the half, but the Chargers outscored them 20-0 in the second half.
- Jan. 12—The Chargers' miracle season comes to an end in a 24-17 loss to Denver in the Divisional Playoffs at Sports Authority Field. The Chargers trail 17-0 going into the fourth quarter and rally to get within seven points on a pair of 16-yard touchdown catches by Keenan Allen, but the Bolts' rally comes up short and Denver advances to the AFC Championship Game.

- Oct. 23—Antonio Gates surpasses Lance Alworth as franchise's all-time leading receiver.

- Nov. 23—The Chargers streak of 58 consecutive scores inside the red zone comes to an end. It had been the NFL's longest active streak, dating to Nov. 10, 2013.
- Nov. 30—Down 10 entering the fourth quarter, Philip Rivers leads the Chargers to 21 fourth quarter points and the Chargers defeat Baltimore, 34-33. He threw the game-winning touchdown pass to Eddie Royal with 38 seconds remaining. During the game, Rivers throws the 250th TD pass of his career.

Dec. 20—Down 21 points twice in the game, including at the start of the third quarter, Rivers leads the Chargers to 28 second half points and the Bolts rally to stun the San Francisco 49ers, 38-35, in overtime. Philip Rivers overcomes three interceptions and throws four touchdown passes, including a game-tying TD to Malcom Floyd with 29 seconds remaining. Nick Novak wins the game with a 40-yard field goal in overtime.

HISTORY OF CHARGERS UNIFORM

Helmet was white with gray facemask. It had dark blue bolt and black numbers outlined in gold. Home jersey was Collegiate blue with white numbers on front, back and sleeves outlined in gold. White strip on each shoulder had dark blue bolt outlined in gold. Road jersey was white with Collegiate blue numbers on front, back and sleeves outlined in gold and white lightning bolts on sleeves outlined in gold. Was also Collegiate blue strip on each shoulder with white bolt outlined in gold. Pants were white with dark blue lightning bolt outlined in gold running down each leg. Owner Barron Hilton chose lightning bolts because he associated "Charge" of lightning with lightning bolt. He also liked bolts that were on helmets of Air Force Academy football team, but wanted something slightly different, so had "Chargers Bolt" designed to be different and placed on uniforms.

Bolt on helmet, shoulders and pants is changed to gold. On home jersey, helmet and pants, bolt is outlined in blue. On road jersey, it is outlined in white.

1966

Bolt on helmet is changed to dark blue. Pants are changed to gold with solid white stripe running down each leg, outlined in blue. Stripe replaces lightning bolt.

1967

Gold bolt is placed back on helmet with blue outline. Home jersey is darker shade of blue and has white numbers on front, back and sleeves, and white strip on each shoulder with gold lightning bolt. Road jersey had darker blue numbers also on front, back and sleeves and blue strip on each shoulder with gold lightning bolt. Lightning bolt is placed back on pants, dark blue and outlined in white.

1968-71

Home jersey is changed to Powder blue with white numbers on front, back and sleeves with white strip on each shoulder and gold lightning bolt outlined in blue. Road jersey is still white with Powder blue numbers on front, back and sleeves, and Powder blue strip on each shoulder with gold lightning bolt outlined in white.

1972

Lightning bolt on pants is again replaced by solid white stripe running down each leg, outlined in Powder blue.

1973-78

Numbers on home uniform are changed to gold outlined in white. Numbers on road uniform remain Powder blue outlined in gold.

1979-83

Helmet is changed to Navy blue with gold facemask and gold lightning bolt outlined in Navy blue and white. Primary jersey is white with Royal blue numbers outlined in white and gold. Secondary jersey is Royal blue and features gold numbers on front, back and sleeves outlined in blue and white. Lightning bolt is brought back to pants. It is white with Royal blue outline.

1984

Home jersey is changed to Navy blue with gold numbers on front, back and sleeves outlined in Navy blue and white. There was white strip on each shoulder that had gold lightning bolt outlined in Navy blue. Road jersey is white with Navy blue numbers on front, back and sleeves outlined in white and gold, and Navy blue strip on each shoulder with gold lightning bolt outlined in Navy blue and white. Strip on pants is changed to Navy blue. Lightning bolt on pants is gold with Navy blue and white outline.

1986-87

Number on front, back and sleeves of home jersey is changed to white with Navy blue and gold outline.

1988-89

Lightning bolt on helmet is changed from gold to white and features Navy blue and gold outline. Facemask on helmet is changed from gold to Navy blue. White strip on Navy blue home jersey is removed, leaving white lightning bolt outlined in Navy blue and gold. Lightning bolt on shoulders of road jersey is changed to white with Navy blue and gold outline and remains on Navy blue strip. Lightning bolt on pants is removed and replaced with Navy blue strip outlined in white and gold.

1990-91

Road pants are changed to Navy blue with white stripe down each pant leg outlined in Navy blue and gold.

1992-06

White lightning bolt returns to pants. On home white pants, it is outlined in Navy blue and gold and is in blue strip down each pant leg. On road Navy blue pants, there is just white lightning bolt outlined in Navy blue and gold down each pant leg. There is no strip on road pants.

2007-11

Uniforms feature Navy blue jerseys and white pants for most home games, white jerseys and Navy pants for road games, and Powder blue jerseys with white pants for designated home games. On all jerseys, bolt has been moved down sleeve, below shoulder. Bolt is Gold and outlined in both powder blue and Navy. On Navy and Powder blue jerseys, bolt is in white strip, and on white jerseys, bolt is in Navy blue strip. Numbers are now on shoulder above bolt. Front of all jerseys have Chargers scripted across front above numbers and below NFL shield. Team name, numbers and player's names all feature new font. Home white pants feature strip down side of each pant leg with curved bolt in Navy strip to be worn with Navy jerseys and Powder blue strip to be worn with Powder blue jerseys. Navy pants feature same bolt inside of white strip down each pant leg. Helmet is changed to metallic-white and features Gold bolt outlined in Powder blue and Navy.

2012

In 2012, Nike became the official uniform provider for the NFL. The Chargers' color scheme did not change. The only changes to the uniform were a thin white flap that previously followed the V-neck line now stops just below the shoulder numbers, and Nike's emblematic swoosh appears on the left hip of the pants as well as on the right shoulder pad. Nike's uniform technology is hailed as less restrictive with greater ventilation.

The Chargers made some slight modifications to the team's jerseys for 2013. The home jersey (Navy blue) now has a blue collar that is the same color as the jersey. The nameplate has changed to two colors. The white road jerseys now feature a Navy blue nameplate outlined with gold. The Navy blue home jerseys feature a gold font on the nameplate outlined in powder blue and the "Power Blue" alternate jerseys are white outlined in Navy blue. Socks feature a gold stripe. The helmets and pants remain the same.
