49ERS' ADMINISTRATION AND COACHES

Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr.
President

For San Francisco 49ers President Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., the sine qua non is that 1981 marks a significant year. Significant because this is Edward Jr.'s fifth season as the team's owner and chief executive officer. Five years have passed since the National Football League's San Francisco franchise became a vital acquisition of the nationwide DeBartolo Corporation, and for the team's president, stability now has fully arrived on his football club.

DeBartolo points with pride to the "settling effect" that has permeated the organization since he hired Bill Walsh as head coach and general manager in January of 1979. The 49ers were a team in transition through 1977 and '78, but that transition began to diminish with the arrival of Walsh and his staff. DeBartolo says the turnaround came because "all of us have a singleness of purpose" where the 49ers are concerned. He adds, "The people presently guiding the team under Bill's direction are the people who will be operating the team for a long time. I have pledged my total support to their efforts."

The 49ers' 34-year-old President serves the DeBartolo Corporation as President and Chief Administrative Officer, a role that demands nearly all of his attention and time. The Corporation's home offices are located in Youngstown, Ohio, the DeBartolo family hometown.

Founded in 1948 by Edward J. DeBartolo, who is the father of the 49ers' president, the DeBartolo Corporation has become one of America's great business success stories. It is the leading planner, builder, owner and operator of enclosed regional shopping malls in the world, malls that total more than 50 million square feet of retail space.

In addition, the Corporation owns thoroughbred race tracks, including luxurious Louisiana Downs, hotels, industrial and executive office parks, a foreign trade zone and overseas shipping operation, the Pittsburgh Penguins hockey franchise, the Pittsburgh Civic Arena, and holds many commercial bank interests, including its role as majority stockholder in three banks.

Ed Jr. not only is one of America's fastest rising young executives for a major corporation, but he also is the youngest owner in the 28-team National Football League. His rise began upon graduation from Notre Dame in 1968 when he joined the company full-time, moving from department to department learning the many facets of the company which, by then, had grown into a national corporation and had become recognized as the largest shopping center firm in the United States. In 1971 he was appointed a vice president.

Five years later he was named executive vice president while taking over the in-house DeBartolo staff of some 300 engineers, architects, designers, financiers, leasing agents, lawyers, management and operations teams, along with advertising, public relations and marketing personnel. He was appointed President and Chief Administrative Officer in July of 1979.

Working a demanding seven-days-a-week schedule that he has continued to today, Ed Jr. found little time for those pursuits he still lists as hobbies—golf and football. The latter, the dominant interest in his life, would become more than just a hobby when he became the 49ers' President and General Partner. In that capacity he controls 90 percent of the club, with limited partners Jane Morabito and Franklin Mieuli, who each own five percent.

Edward Jr. gives generously of his time and influence when it comes to charitable endeavors. He is highly active in the St. Jude Childrens Research Hospital, having directed the Youngstown effort for national chairman Danny Thomas, an effort that netted the greatest sum of any city its size in the nation.

He also has for several years directed the Youngstown Cancer and Heart Fund Drives, served as director of a local youth center, and served as a member of the Board of Trustees at Youngstown State University.

His wife Cynthia, who prefers the nickname Candy, was his childhood sweetheart, and they are the parents of three daughters, Lisa Marie 11, Tiffanie Lynn 10, and Nicole Ann 6.

THIS SEASON WILL BE EDWARD DeBARTOLO, JR.'S FIFTH AS THE 49ERS' CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

BILL WALSH
Head Coach-
General Manager

Though he avoids unbridled optimism, San Francisco 49ers Coach and General Manager Bill Walsh talks with confidence about his third San Francisco football squad.

"I am optimistic about our improvement and our chances going into the 1981 season," says Walsh. "We have slowly been able to add potentially better all-round athletes to our squad, especially with this year's draft, and that is working to make us potentially better overall.

"There is still a long way to go. But I am certain we have turned the corner and are becoming a well-based, more versatile team that will be a consistent contender in the years to come.

"We became a competitive team last year. Our final game against Buffalo was played in a constant downpour; it was a game we could have simply gone through the motions, while Buffalo was playing to get into the playoffs.

"They had to win, yet we played fiercely until the final down, and nearly scored on our last two passes in the end zone. Sure I would have liked to have won there, just as I felt there were several games during our losing spell last year when we could have won.

"But most importantly, after that final game I felt our team had become competitive. It had taken us two complete—and long and struggling—seasons, but we left 1980 with the feeling we can step on the field and compete with any team in the National Football League.

"That feeling must carry over into 1981 for us to continue our improvement."

In his two-plus seasons as the 11th coach in the history of the 49ers, Walsh has avoided sweeping promises to the championship-barren 49er followers. He also disdains the use of cliches when assessing his team. Too, Walsh avoids the overstatement.

Thus, he is restraining his optimism entering the new season, probably because his long apprenticeship as an assistant coach in the NFL taught him an abundance of caution and humility.

Still, he lets it be known that he has his fingers crossed: "My last year with the Bengals in 1975 we had one of the best clubs in the NFL (11-3), and I think this year's 49ers team has young talent that could become comparable to that Cincinnati squad. You couldn't say that about us a year ago."

Bill Walsh's NFL apprenticeship included tours of duty with the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers, as well as the Bengals. He sandwiched a season apiece with Oakland and San Diego around eight years as the offensive coordinator of the Bengals under Paul Brown in the late '60s and early '70s. He began with the Raiders in 1966 as the offensive backfield coach under Al Davis.

He moved on to Cincinnati to coach the quarterbacks and receivers, and it was on the Ohio riverfront that Walsh's reputation as the No. 1 tutor of quarterbacks in the nation began to grow. There he had two passers capture three NFL QB proficiency titles. Greg Cook was the league's top-rated passer under Walsh's guidance in 1969 and Ken Anderson turned the trick twice, in 1974 and 1975, the only quarterback in NFL history to win the award in back-to-back years.

When Brown retired at the end of the 1975 season, Walsh moved to the Chargers as Coach Tommy Prothro's offensive coordinator. There he nurtured the career of Dan Fouts, changing him from an unhappy and unranked quarterback into one of the game's best, which Fouts has remained over the last five years.

Walsh continued the Merlin work when Stanford beckoned for his return as their head coach in 1977 (he was an assistant there from 1963 through '65). His '77 quarterback was unheralded Guy Benjamin, who proceeded to lead the NCAA in passing and was a first team All-America. Walsh turned the same trick the following year with an untried senior, Steve Dils, who led the country in passing in '78 and is today—like Benjamin—an NFL quarterback.

Walsh's first season as grid boss of the 49ers in 1979 saw Steve DeBerg move up 15 places from the previous year's quarterback rankings and attempt and complete more passes in a single season than any signal caller in NFL history.

At the end of last season Walsh handed the 49er quarterback reins to Joe Montana, and he was the fifth ranked QB in the NFL at season's end and broke John Brodie's long-standing 49er completion percentage mark for a season.

And while developing quarterbacks, Walsh also has turned out prolific receivers, namely Pro Bowlers Bob Trumpy, Eric Crabtree, Chip Myers and Isaac Curtis in Cincinnati, and Charlie Joiner in San Diego, along with All-Americas James Lofton and Ken Margerum at Stanford. Forty Niners receivers Freddie Solomon and Dwight Clark have surprised nearly everyone with their performances under Walsh's direction the last two years. Solomon caught 105 passes in 1979-80, 15 for touchdowns, while Clark snared 82 last year, the most by a wide receiver in team history. In addition, fullback Earl Cooper caught 83 passes in '80, the most by any rookie in league history, and tops in the NFC.

Walsh has offered a basic explanation for all this: "There is no special secret to what I have learned or what I know about the passing game. I simply have spent a lot of time and put in a lot of hard work mastering techniques of the passing game, techniques that I believe in. As an assistant coach, I decided that the way to succeed was to become expert in one area, and I did that with the pass offense."

Walsh was 47 years old before his time finally came to be an NFL head coach. He had transformed the Stanford Cardinals into a 9-3 team in 1977 and victors in the Sun Bowl over LSU. He was named the Pacific-8 Conference Coach of the Year that fall.

His '78 Stanford team posted an 8-4 mark and went to the Bluebonnet Bowl, where it posted the greatest comeback in Stanford football history by overcoming a 22-0 halftime deficit to defeat Georgia, 25-22.

It was nine days after that game that 49ers' President Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., hired Walsh as the Niners' head coach. He added the title of General Manager 20 days later, giving him total authority over the club.

After 21 years of coaching, Walsh took command of pro football's youngest, most inexperienced team, a club that had won just 31 of its previous 86 games and had fallen far from its early-'70s form when San Francisco captured three consecutive NFC Western Division championships (in '70, '71 and '72).

Walsh's two 49er teams have been a combined 8-24. Last year's 6-10 mark included a pair of three-game winning streaks, one at the beginning of the year before key injuries took their toll, and one at the end once the team had regrouped after the loss of its top offensive and defensive performers, Paul Hofer and Dwaine Board, both to knee surgery. Included among the year's highlights was another one of Walsh's specialties—the great comeback. Last Dec. 7 the 49ers overcame a 35-7 halftime deficit to the New Orleans Saints to win in overtime, 38-35—the biggest comeback victory in NFL history!

Bill Walsh was born Nov. 30, 1931, in Los Angeles. He left Los Angeles following his junior year when his parents moved to Hayward, Calif., in the San Francisco East Bay area, where Bill finished high school.

Following two years at San Mateo Junior College, he enrolled at San Jose State for his final two college years, where he majored in education and played end on the football team for Coach Bob Bronzan. He obtained his master's degree in 1959 and is a U.S. Army veteran.

Walsh's first head coaching job was at Washington Union High School in Fremont, also in the East Bay, in 1957, where he reversed the school's previous three-year record of 1-26 into a conference championship team with a 9-1 record by his second season.

That led to his appointment as defensive coordinator on Marv Levy's University of California staff in 1960, before he moved to John Ralston's Stanford staff in '63 as administrative asistant and secondary coach.

Today Bill and his wife Geri live in nearby Menlo Park and have three children: Steve 24, Craig 21 and Elizabeth 10. Steve is a television news reporter and writer, Craig is a junior at UC-Davis, and Elizabeth is in the fifth grade.
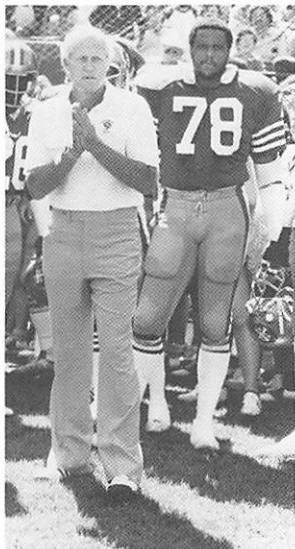

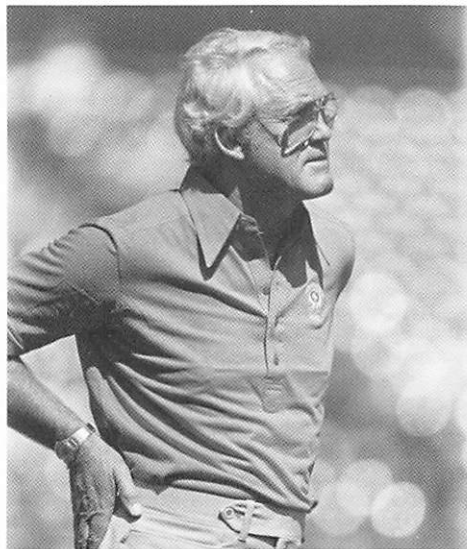

John McVay, Director of Football Operations
Ken Flower, Director of Marketing and Community Affairs

In today's era of specialists, the San Francisco 49ers have two who direct the front office portion of the team's day-to-day operation—Director of Football Operations John McVay and Director of Marketing and Community Affairs Ken Flower.

McVay specializes in all front office aspects pertaining to football, specifically pro and college scouting and drafting, player contract negotiations, trades and waivers. Flower scrutinizes all matters relating to radio and television broadcasting, along with directing all advertising and marketing sales. He also oversees business affairs with the City of San Francisco and at Candlestick Park.

Prior to this year, McVay was for two seasons the 49ers' Director of Player Personnel and thus responsible for preparing the 49ers' drafting strategy. He also supervised the organization's scouting department and is continuing to oversee those areas of the 49ers' operation in his new role. He assumes many of the duties of a general manager for 49ers' Coach-GM Bill Walsh during football season, when Walsh's attentions must be focused more on the coaching half of his dual role.

A former college and pro head coach himself and also a one-time college athletic director, McVay has four decades of football experience at every level to draw from. Prior to joining the 49ers in early 1979, he was for two and one-half years the head coach of the New York Giants.

He originally went to the Giants in late 1975 as an assistant coach in charge of research and development but was elevated by Owner Wellington Mara to replace fired Head Coach Bill Arnsparger at the midway point of the '76 season. McVay's record with the Giants was 14-23.

Prior to joining the Giants, he was the head coach and general manager of the Memphis Southmen of the World Football League, where his team won 24 of 31 games in the year and one-half that league existed. McVay had left the University of Dayton, where he was head football coach for nine years (1965-73) and athletic director in 1972 and '73, to join the Southmen.

An Ohio native from famed Massillon High School, McVay played collegiately at Miami of Ohio for Woody Hayes and Ara Parseghian. A three-year starter at center, he won All-Midwest and team MVP honors his final two years. He went from there to become one of Miami's 20-plus "Cradle of Coaches" alumni who are successful football coaches and administrators at the college and pro levels.

His coaching career began with a ten-year tenure (1953-62) at Canton Central Catholic High School in Ohio before he joined Duffy Daugherty's staff at Michigan State as an assistant in 1962. Following three years there, McVay took over the Dayton post, and led the Flyers to their first winning season in football in ten years when they finished 8-2 in 1966.

McVay was born January 5, 1931, and is the father of three sons—John, Jim and Tim. He and his wife Lee built a new home during the off-season at Lake Anderson in Morgan Hill, California.

Flower moved into his busy job responsibilities full-time last season after spending the previous year in a consulting role with the 49ers' staff.

A native son of San Francisco and one of the finest West Coast basketball players in history, Flower has an extensive background in sales and marketing, including other jobs connected to the National Football League with NFL Films and at CBS and ABC.

In addition to his various administrative responsibilities, Flower handles the 49ers' broadcasting relations with local radio and television, including contract negotiations for the team's pre-season television package and year-round radio network agreement. He also directs advertising sales for Pro! Magazine and coordinates all business affairs with the city and county of San Francisco for 49ers' operations at Candlestick Park.

In addition, Flower devotes considerable time to the club's ongoing relationship with the San Francisco Recreation and Parks Commission, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the local business community, and with NFL matters directed towards his speciality.

A graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco and Menlo College, he obtained his BA degree from Southern California in 1954. As a roundballer at USC, he was the Southern California Collegiate Player of the Year in 1953-54, his team's captain, All-Pacific Coast Conference and an All-America selection.

Following graduation, he entered the U.S. Air Force as a First Lieutenant and coached the U.S. Air Force All-Star basketball team to the AAU National Championship in 1957.

A member of the Menlo College Hall of Fame, Ken has been a broadcast sales executive for CBS Films, worked for ABC Television Station Division and Network in New York and San Francisco, has been Vice President for Sales and Marketing for NFL Films, and served as a sports communications specialist for the Hyatt Hotel Corporation and the performing group "Up With People".

Flower was born August 26, 1931, and he and his wife Alvina live in Sausalito, California. They have two sons, Jeffrey and Kenny, and a daughter, Kimberly.

Ken Flower

CHUCK STUDLEY, Defensive Coordinator

Chuck Studley begins his third season as the 49ers' defensive coordinator. Studley is in his 12th year in the NFL after spending ten seasons with the Cincinnati Bengals, where he coached for Paul Brown and Bill Johnson.

Chuck was a successful college coach before entering the pro ranks. He won two Missouri Valley Conference championships as head coach at the University of Cincinnati (1961-68). He also coached the University of Massachusetts to a Yankee Conference title in 1960, before beginning an 18-year association in Cincinnati.

An All-America guard at Illinois, Studley was captain of the 1951 Illini Rose Bowl team that captured the Big 10 title with a 9-0-1 record. After graduation, he spent three years coaching at Alton High School in Illinois, before he joined the University of Illinois staff (1955-60).

Chuck was born in Maywood, Illinois, January 17, 1929. He and his wife Peggy have six children and live in Sunnyvale, California.

NORB HECKER, Linebackers

Norb Hecker, the 49ers' linebackers mentor, returned to the pro ranks in 1979 following seven years at Stanford University, the last two coaching on Bill Walsh's staff there.

As a player, Norb was a Little All-America offensive end at Baldwin-Wallace College in northeastern Ohio. His professional career began with the Los Angeles Rams, where he played both offensive end and defensive back (1951-53). He then went to Toronto of the Canadian Football League in 1954, then to the Washington Redskins a year later.

He returned to the CFL as a player-coach in 1958 with the Hamilton Tiger Cats. In 1959, Hecker joined Vince Lombardi as an assistant coach in Green Bay. With the Packers he was part of the team's glory years in the 1960s and has three World Championship rings from his time there. He has a fourth championship ring from his Rams' playing days.

Hecker, co-founder of the NFL Players Association, left Green Bay in 1966 to become the first head coach of the Atlanta Falcons, a post he held for two and one-half years.

His final pro stint before going to Stanford in 1972 was three years (1969-71) as defensive coordinator for the New York Giants.

Norb was born in Olmsted Falls, Ohio, on May 26, 1927. He and his wife Barbara have five children and live in Palo Alto, California.

Jackson   Matthews

MILT JACKSON, Special Teams—Receivers

Milt Jackson, the 49ers' special teams-receivers coach, was a four-sport athlete at Sacramento's Grant High School in football, basketball, track and baseball in the 1960s. After a football-baseball collegiate career at Tulsa, he was drafted by both the 49ers (sixth round) and Philadelphia Phillies (first round) in 1967. He was a cornerback in football and a pitcher in baseball.

Prior to coming to San Francisco, Jackson spent five years coaching in the Pacific-10 Conference. He coached UCLA's offensive tackles and tight ends in 1979 after coming from the University of Oregon(1977-78), where he had been the defensive backfield coach.

He coached outside linebackers at the University of California (1975-76), coming to Cal from Rice University (1974), where he was the running backs coach. Prior to that, Milt was a graduate assistant coach at Oregon State University in 1973. He obtained his master's degree in education while at OSU.

Jackson is a bachelor and resides in Foster City, California.

BILLIE MATTHEWS, Running Backs

Billie Matthews will coach 49ers running backs in his third season as a pro coach. Matthews joined the 49ers' staff in 1979 after spending eight seasons at UCLA (1971-78). Included among the UCLA runners Matthews directed were five 1,000-yard rushers: Kermit Johnson, James McAlister, Wendell Tyler and Theotis Brown (twice). The '73 Bruin squad rushed to 4,403 yards in 11 games.

Billie also spent a season at Kansas (1970) where he coached current pro backs John Riggins and Delvin Williams. Previously, he had an outstanding 12-year (1958-69) prep coaching career at Kashmere High School in his hometown of Houston, Texas.

A star quarterback at Southern University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Matthews led his team to an 11-0 record and the National Black championship as a freshman in 1948. During his four years, Southern compiled a 37-4 record.

Matthews was born March 15, 1930, in Houston. He and his wife Gene have four children and make their home in Redwood City, California.

BOBB McKITTRICK, Offensive Line

Bobb McKittrick has been an NFL coach since 1971, nearly all of that time under Tommy Prothro. His 20-year association with Prothro began with three years (1955-57) as a Prothro-coached player at Oregon State. He joined the coaching staff at Oregon State in 1961 after three years as a Marine Corps officer, and then went to UCLA (1965-70) as an assistant coach with Prothro.

They later went on to the Los Angeles Rams (1971-72), before once again moving, this time to the San Diego Chargers.

Bobb took a sabbatical from football in 1973 to do graduate work at his alma mater before re-joining Prothro at San Diego. He also coached there under Don Coryell at the conclusion of the 1978 season.

McKittrick was born in Baker, Oregon, December 29, 1935. He and his wife Teckla have two children and live in San Mateo, California.

BILL McPHERSON, Defensive Line

After spending one season as the 49ers' linebackers coach (1979), Bill Mc-Pherson directed the 49ers' defensive line in 1980. A defensive tackle at Santa Clara in the early '50s, McPherson began coaching in 1956 at his high school alma mater, San Jose's Bellarmine Prep (1956-62), following Army service in Korea. He later was the defensive coordinator at Santa Clara (1963-74) for 12 years before moving to UCLA (1975-77). McPherson coached defensive lines at both Santa Clara and UCLA.

At UCLA, McPherson worked with Dick Vermeil. He later joined Vermeil's Philadelphia Eagles' staff as linebackers coach in 1978, before moving back to his native state of California with the 49ers.

Bill and his wife Elsie have five children and live in San Jose. He was born there October 31, 1931.

Seifert   Wyche

GEORGE SEIFERT, Defensive Backs

New to the 49ers' coaching staff in 1980 was George Seifert, the secondary coach. Seifert was regarded as one of the nation's top tutors of defensive backs following 15 years in the collegiate ranks, six of those years at Stanford University, when he was asked to join the 49ers.

After graduation from Utah in 1963, Seifert served a six-month tour of duty with the U.S. Army before returning to Utah as a graduate assistant coach. Then, in 1965, he was named head coach at Westminster College in Salt Lake City.

He moved on to Iowa (1966), then Oregon (1967-71) as an assistant there before joining the Stanford staff (1972-74) as secondary coach, transforming the defensive backfield into the Pac-8 Conference's best statistically in both '72 and '73.

Seifert left Stanford in 1975 to become head coach at Cornell University. He returned to Stanford to join Bill Walsh's coaching staff in 1977. The Cardinals were second in pass defense in the Pac-10 in both '78 and '79.

A native San Franciscan, Seifert and his wife Linda have two children and live in Sunnyvale, California.

SAM WYCHE, Quarterbacks

Sam Wyche has provided ample proof of his coaching abilities during his first two years as a full-time coach, by helping develop 49er quarterbacks Joe Montana and Steve DeBerg into effective NFC passers.

Sam was a walk-on quarterback at Furman University in 1962. After college he signed and played one year for the Wheeling Ironmen of the Continental Football League in Wheeling, West Virginia. The following year was spent as a graduate assistant for Paul Dietzel at the University of South Carolina, where he also obtained his master's degree in Business Administration.

Wyche then played nine years in the NFL, beginning with the expansion Cincinnati Bengals in 1968. He was traded to the Washington Redskins (1971-73), then to Detroit (1974-75). Sam played with St. Louis and Buffalo his final season in 1976.

Wyche gathered football knowledge playing for George Allen, Don Coryell, Jack Pardee, Ted Marchibroda, Paul Brown, Paul Dietzel and Raymond Berry in addition to Bill Walsh in Cincinnati.

He was born in Atlanta, January 5, 1945, and attended Atlanta's North Fulton High School. He and his wife Jane have two children and live in Sunnyvale, California.

AL VERMEIL, Conditioning

The 49ers' strength and conditioning programs again will be directed by Al Vermeil.

A well-known Bay Area coach at the prep level for a number of years, Vermeil was head football coach and athletic director at Moreau High School in Hayward, California, for six years (1973-78). His teams won two championships and one co-championship during the period. Vermeil was named Coach of the Year in 1975 in the Catholic Athletic League, a Bay Area prep league.

Vermeil played linebacker during his collegiate days at Utah State and was captain of the Aggie team his senior year. He received his master's degree in physical education from Kansas State in 1970.

The brother of Philadelphia Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil, Al and his wife Diane have two children and live in Fremont, California.

CAS BANASZEK, Assistant Offensive Line

Casimir Joseph Banaszek, II, known as Cas to his teammates during his nine playing years with the San Francisco 49ers, has returned to the Niners, this time as an assistant to Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick. With the appointment, he becomes the tenth member of Bill Walsh's coaching staff.

A Chicago native and a graduate of Northwestern (1967), Banaszek was the offensive line coach at the University of California the last two years. His playing career ended abruptly when he suffered a broken leg in the sixth game of the 49ers' 1977 season.

In nine years as a starting offensive tackle, Banaszek played in 120 games. He missed all of his rookie year in 1967 with an ankle injury. He had been the 49ers No. 1 draft choice that season.

According to Walsh, Cas' coaching specialty will be in the area of overall run blocking with the 49ers, coordinating his work with the reputable McKittrick.

Cas and his wife Diann live in San Carlos, California. They have two children.

LINDSY McLEAN, Co-Trainer

Lindsy McLean has been a trainer for 19 years, including 11 years as head trainer at the University of Michigan prior to joining the 49ers as co-trainer in 1979.

Before he became Michigan's trainer, McLean served three years as head trainer at San Jose State University (1965-67) and two years as head trainer at the University of California at Santa Barbara (1963-64).

A native of Nashville and a 1960 graduate of Vanderbilt, McLean received his certification in physical therapy from Herman Hospital in Houston in 1961.

McLean makes his home in Redwood City, California.

HAL WYATT, Co-Trainer

Hal Wyatt is in his third season as co-trainer in 1980, after serving the Niners as assistant trainer in 1977 and 1978.

Wyatt is a native Texan from San Angelo who graduated from North Texas State University with a degree in physical education in 1972. Now 30, Hal spent the next three years operating a sports medicine clinic in Dallas, where he was trainer for the Dallas Tornado soccer team in 1975. He joined the 49ers in July, '77.

He and his wife Kathy have a son and were expecting a second child this fall. They make their home in Redwood City, California.

CHICO NORTON, Equipment Manager

Forrest "Chico" Norton has become a virtual San Francisco 49ers institution. Chico, whose nickname comes from his hometown of Chico, California, begins his 27th year as 49ers' equipment manager. He has been with the organization longer than any other working member.

Born November 24, 1919, Norton first entered professional athletics when he went to work for the San Francisco Seals baseball team in 1948. He joined the 49ers in 1955.

He and his wife Sylvia live in San Francisco. They have seven grown children and seven grandchildren.

49ERS' PROFILES

John Ayers • 68

GUARD • WEST TEXAS STATE • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 255 • BORN: 4-14-53 • (D-8 IN '76)

PRO: He's been with only one NFL team since being drafted by the 49ers in the eighth round in 1976, but he could easily be called a "journeyman" offensive lineman because until he found a home at guard in 1979, John Ayers traveled up and down the Niners' line, playing every position. "I guess you could say I've found a home and I'm happy to be here," says Ayers of his left guard post where he has started every game for the past two seasons. Others are happy, too. "One of the good, young guards in the NFL; we're glad he's there. It seems that's where he is best suited," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "John is gifted by his excellent foot movement, and is sound enough to become one of the league's top guards by reaching his full potential." Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick says: "John is one of our top three offensive linemen. He has excellent speed and balance. He also has the potential to be the line's best pure pass protector." Ayers missed the 1976 season on injured reserve but came back to see action in all 14 1977 games. He came back again in 1979 and started every game even though he missed the entire preseason due to late July surgery to remove calcium deposits from his ankle. Ayers gets a lot done on natural ability and has added physical maturity the past several off-seasons. He tipped the scales at 238 on draft day—1976, built up to 247 in 1977, to 250 in 1980 and now weights 255 because of a dedicated weight program.

COLLEGE: Ayers played defensive end at West Texas State and was named All-Missouri Valley Conference as a senior. John was drafted as an offensive tackle although he never played that position in college. He started 32 consecutive games at WTSU after transferring there from the University of Texas.

PERSONAL: An All-Texas schoolboy team honoree as a senior, John was a standout athlete at Carrizo Springs High School in Carrizo Springs, Texas. He and his wife, Laurel, have one son, J.T. (6-5-79), and they make their home in Canyon, Texas, during the off-season. His NFL stats include recovering a fumble in 1978. He was born in Carrizo Springs, Texas.
Missed 1976 season; on injured reserve.

Jean Barrett • 77

TACKLE • TULSA • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 250 • BORN: 5-24-51 • (D-2B IN '72)

PRO: His listed position on the team roster reads tackle but it could easily read guard, center or tackle because Jean Martin Barrett, Jr., could play any one of the posts equally well. He is an experienced veteran whose ability to play several positions gives depth to the 49ers' offensive line. "Jean is an intelligent, hard working player with excellent agility and fine body control," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He gives us depth all along the offensive line, and especially at tackle." His offensive line coach, Bobb McKittrick, agrees with the head mentor: "Jean Barrett is one of the better athletes among the offensive linemen. He has the speed to play guard and the mental and physical ability to play any one of the line positions with very little practice. He does a good job on movement type run blocks. He is experienced and has the talent to replace either tackle with little loss of productivity." Barrett played in 15 of the 49ers' 16 games in 1980. He had been a starter until injured for the 1978 season. He was the team's 2B draft pick in 1972 and was on the Niners' taxi squad that fall. Besides playing back-up at either tackle post, Jean also makes major contributions on the 49ers' special teams. "Usually, you can't use an offensive lineman too extensively on special teams, but Barrett is such a good athlete that we are able to use him throughout the different units," says McKittrick.

COLLEGE: Barrett was All-Missouri Valley Conference and played in the Blue-Gray, Coaches All-America and College All-Star games as a senior at the University of Tulsa, where he was a three-year starter. He received his bachelor of science degree in business administration from Tulsa in 1972.

PERSONAL: Jean was the first athlete at W.T. White High School in Dallas, Texas, ever to receive an athletic scholarship. He and his wife, Jane, live in Tulsa, Oklahoma, in the off-season and own a construction company there. They have one son, John (8-19-73), and one daughter, Jennifer (3-18-80). His pro statistics include one fumble recovery in 1973 and another in 1974, plus a kickoff return in 1979 for five yards. He was born in Fort Worth, Texas.

Missed 1972 season; on taxi squad.
Missed 1978 season; on injured reserve.

Dwaine Board • 76

DEFENSIVE END • NORTH CAROLINA A&T • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 245 • BORN: 11-29-56 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: The word around the 49ers' camp is if Dwaine Board can put in a full and healthy season in 1981 . . . watch out! "Dwaine is one of the fine young players on the squad and appears to have an unlimited future," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is an outstanding pass rusher, the key to our rush line. He is an extremely quick, agile athlete who was obviously missed very much after his early season (third game) knee injury in 1980." Board originally was drafted by Pittsburgh in the fifth round in 1979 and waived in Pittsburgh's final cut. San Francisco wasted no time in claiming the big defensive end. He made a surprisingly easy adjustment from small college linebacker to NFL defensive end with the 49ers in '79, earning a starting nod in the 11th game of the season and becoming the 49ers' most successful rookie. Board established himself in substitute play early, then replaced Cedrick Hardman (later traded to Oakland) at right end against New Orleans in mid-October. He led the '79 team in quarterback sacks with seven (one-fourth of the team's total) and had 34 tackles. "I think with a full year of experience, Dwaine can become one of the better defensive ends in pro football," says Defensive Coordinator Chuck Studley. "He is fast, aggressive, and has good strength-size ratio," In 1980, in three games (before the knee injury sidelined him for the season), Dwaine had two QB sacks, one pass deflection, five tackles and one assist. "Dwaine is a truly natural athlete with very fluid actions," says defensive line coach Bill McPherson. "He has good straight ahead speed and body control with fine quickness for change of directions."

COLLEGE: Board was a four-year starter at North Carolina A&T at linebacker and was selected to the Mutual Black Radio All-America Team three times (1975, '76, '77). An All-Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference first team selection his final two seasons, he was voted the MEAC Defensive Player-of-the-Year in 1977. He received his bachelor of science degree in industrial technology from North Carolina A&T in 1979.

PERSONAL: Dwaine is a graduate of Rocky Mount High School in Virginia and makes Union Hall, Virginia, his off-season home. His nickname is "Pee-Wee" (His explanation is simply, "you should see my brother."). His 40-yard dash speed is 4.8. He was born in Union Hall, Virginia.

Ken Bungarda • 72

TACKLE • MISSOURI • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 270 • BORN: 1-25-57 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: Ken Bungarda is a converted defensive player who spent last year learning the offensive tackle post. Now, in 1981, he will be tested "on the job" to see just how good a student he really is. "He has great physical potential and, providing he continues to make dramatic improvement, he has a chance to move into the starting lineup," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick agrees: "Ken may have more physical potential than any lineman on the 49ers' roster. He combines unusual size, speed, and athletic ability with hustle, intensity and aggressiveness. He could be a big help to us in 1981." Originally, he was drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals in the 11th round in 1979 as a defensive end/defensive tackle. He played briefly in Canada in 1979 after being released by the Bengals during pre-season camp that year and was signed by the 49ers in 1980 as a free agent. The Niners converted him from a defensive lineman to offensive tackle and played him in 15 games last year, almost exclusively on special teams. "I haven't learned everything," Bungarda says. "The thing that helps me make the switch from defense to offense is that I know the moves the defense might make because I played defense for so many years. A lot of time I won't take those fakes

. . . because I know, maybe subconsciously, what the man opposite me is planning."

COLLEGE: Bungarda played defense at Missouri following his transfer from Arizona Western Junior College.

PERSONAL: Ken graduated from Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights, New Jersey. His real name is Kestutis (named after a tenth century Lithuanian king) but he goes by Ken J. (for John) Bungarda, or by his nickname of "Tarzan". He was born in Hartford, Connecticut. The name Bungarda is from Lithuanian heritage. Ken is an Americanized name he was given in grade school.

Dan Bunz ● 57

LINEBACKER ● CAL STATE-LONG BEACH ● 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 ● WT: 225 ● BORN: 10-7-55 ● (D-1B IN '78)

PRO: It takes a special type of player to be willing to hit and block on special teams while holding down a starting inside linebacker post, but then middle linebacker Dan Bunz has always enjoyed hitting, and the blocking aspects of special teams is just a change of pace for him. "When I hit a guy, I don't want him to have to look up to see who hit him. I want him to know," says Bunz with his mischievous, gap-tooth smile. "Dan is a spirited, hard-hitting, intense player who has made a major contribution to 49ers' football through defense and special teams," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. Linebacker Coach Norb Hecker agrees: "He is a very strong, very intense player who helps the team at linebacker and is a top special teams player as well". Bunz was the Niners' 1-B draft pick in 1978. He enjoyed a solid learning year in '78 and led the team in tackling with 92 solo stops (he has paced the team in tackles each year). In 1979, Bunz ran into bad luck right out of the blocks and missed nearly the entire pre-season with a throat infection and flu which caused him to lose 20 pounds. He showed marked improvement in the second half of '79, however, and finished with a team-high 74 primary tackles. "Dan has shown improvement every week since he arrived at our training camp as a rookie," says Defensive Line Coach Bill McPherson. "He has had his peaks and valleys, but he keeps working and improving." Last year was a good example of those peaks and valleys. He began the year with 49 tackles through the first five games (counting assists), then slumped to just five tackles over the middle five games, but finished with a flurry of 58 total tackles (counting assists) in the final six contests as the team's leading tackler (with 74).

COLLEGE: As a three-year starter at Cal State-Long Beach, Bunz recorded 448 tackles, including 72 solo stops and 99 assists as a senior. He was an honorable mention All-America and was voted MVP in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association as a senior. He played in both the East-West Shrine and the Senior Bowl games.

PERSONAL: Dan graduated from Oakmont High School in Roseville, California, and makes his off-season home on a ranch near Sacramento (just minutes from the Niners' summer training site in Rocklin). He was born in Roseville. He filled in a bit part in the movie "North Dallas Forty" following the '78 season.

Ricky Churchman • 33

SAFETY • TEXAS • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 193 • BORN: 3-14-58 • (D-4A IN '80)

PRO: When you think of Ricky Churchman, the person, you picture a bespectacled, mild-mannered Texan laced with a touch of scholar. When you think of Ricky Churchman, the pro football player, your mind conjures up bone-jarring tackles, interceptions, and defensed passes. This player's name could easily be Clark Kent. His off-the-field to on-the-field appearance is the closest thing to Superman on the 49ers' roster with his quick-change artistry and a "33" on his chest instead of a big block "S". In 1981, as a rookie from Texas (the team's No. 4A draft pick in 1980), he recorded 55 tackles, 20 assists, three interceptions and 14 passes defensed (six of which came in game No. 1). He more than reached his first-year potential and first-year goals: "I thought I had a chance to come in and play. It was a goal I had set for myself," said the football-smart safety. What he lacks in speed (4.70 in the 40), he more than makes up for in intelligence and a knack for being around the ball. Churchman also is reputed for his hitting. "Rick gets quite a bit out of what God-given ability he has," praises Defensive Backfield Coach George Seifert. "He is very smart, learns fast, and he understands concepts of the whole defensive picture. His sense for the ball is very good, and he is fearless when tackling." Ricky played in all 16 games for the Niners last year, 15 as a starter; and his interceptions (four) and passes defensed (14) were co-bests for the 49ers (with Dwight Hicks' totals). "Ricky has outstanding instincts as a football player. He is a heads-up, alert-type that is capable of making the big play," describes Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is a good special teams player as well." Churchman's best single-game performance last year probably came in the Detroit game when he was asked to take on the Lions' running game and Billy Sims most of the contest. He helped hold Sims to 37 yards rushing with five tackles and two assists that day.

COLLEGE: Churchman was a third team Football News and College and Pro Football Newsweekly All-America and honorable mention All-America by the Associated Press in 1979. The All-Southwest Conference performer also played in the East-West Shrine Game as a senior. Ricky finished his college career with 267 tackles (20 for losses), two quarterback sacks, 32 defensed passes, six interceptions and four fumble recoveries. He even quarterbacked one play for the Longhorns and handed off to "Ham" Jones, who went 66 yards for the touchdown against TCU.

He was a four-year starter for Texas.

PERSONAL: Ricky played quarterback and defensive back in high school at Pearland, Texas. In a little league football game once, Ricky was embarrassed when the defender pulled Churchman's pants down while making a tackle. His hobbies include building and flying model airplanes, building guns and drag racing. He is married (Dana) and they make their home in Austin, Texas, during the off-season. He was born in Houston.

WIDE RECEIVER   •   CLEMSON   •   3RD YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 205 • BORN: 1-8-57 • (D-10A IN '79)

PRO: Who is Dwight Clark? Up until last year not many people knew, not even the most studied of football fans. It's still a good question and one that often is asked. But it's easier to answer now because there are so many possibilities: He is a good looking young man of 24, 6-3, 205, the boyfriend of Miss Universe, 1980 (Shawn Weatherly); he was the 49ers' first of two tenth round draft picks in 1979 (249th player selected that year), and yet he came on by his second year to catch more passes than any wide receiver in Niners' history with 82; "and, he's an all-weather receiver who can catch the ball in any situation," according to Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is a much better football player than any of us could have anticipated." Dwight was a fine receiver at Clemson, playing on an 11-1 1978 Tiger squad there, but was unheralded due to the publicity directed at QB Steve Fuller (Dwight's college roommate and best friend, now with the Chiefs), and receiver Jerry Butler (Buffalo Bills). He caught more passes last season for San Francisco than during his entire collegiate career. "Dwight is a most unusual receiver—he has deceptive speed (4.6 for the 40), good hands, an exceptional feel for getting open, and is a solid runner after the catch," says Receivers Coach Milt Jackson. "He is durable and even became our 'Mr. Clutch' in 1980." Clark caught at least two passes in each of the last 15 games of '80 after being shut out in the opener at New Orleans. His best games of 1980 were at Dallas (8 catches, 148 yards, long of 52, two TDs), versus New Orleans (6 catches, 155 yards, long of 71, one TD), and at Atlanta (9 catches, 90 yards, long of 19, one TD). In three different games, he nabbed a pair of scoring passes—versus the Jets, Cowboys and Rams.

COLLEGE: Clark caught 55 passes for 845 yards and a 15.4 average per catch in three years of varsity action at Clemson. He played strong safety for the Tigers as a freshman. He earned his degree in history from Clemson in 1980. Dwight is one of three Clemson players on the '81 49ers' roster, along with Archie Reese and Jim Stuckey.

CLARK, Cont.

PERSONAL: Clark was born in Kingston, North Carolina, and grew up in Charlotte, where he attended Garinger High School. He is an "electronics game freak" and favors golf and basketball as other sports of interest. He served as a judge for the 1981 Miss USA Pageant last summer in Biloxi, Mississippi.

Earl Cooper ● 49

FULLBACK ● RICE ● 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 ● WT: 227 ● BORN: 9-17-57 ● (D-1A IN '80)

PRO: The halftime statistics of the 1980 season opener for the 49ers told a big story: 49ers 14, New Orleans Saints 7 ... rookie Earl Cooper's stats included eight carries for 45 yards, a 5.6 average, and two scores. He also hauled in eight first-half passes for 63 yards. He'd finish with 77 yards on 17 carries and 71 receiving yards on 10 catches (the 10 catches and 77 rushing yards were game highs) ... Welcome to the NFL Earl! After the Saints opener, his reputation was established, even though he never cracked that magical 100-yard rushing barrier in a game. But he did impress people. Former 49er O.J. Simpson calls Cooper "another Franco Harris; Earl keeps his feet close to the ground like Franco and shifts and cuts like him and he has similar size". Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula says "Cooper is one of the fine young backs to come into the NFL. He's even more versatile than Joe Cribbs and Billy Sims". Added Giants Coach Ray Perkins, "I can't say enough good things about Earl Cooper. Every time I turned around in our game, he was doing something that was hurting us." (Cooper carried 21 times for 86 yards and caught four passes for 84 yards and one score against the Giants). "Earl Cooper was tied for seventh in the NFC in points scored (54 on nine TDs—five rushing and four receiving) and led the NFC in receptions with 83 (most ever by an NFL rookie), while he rushed for 720 yards (12th in the NFC). That's not bad for a rookie fullback," summarized Bill Walsh. "But even with a very good rookie season under his belt (his 83 receptions ranked No. 1 in the NFC and No. 2 in the NFL—he also was No. 7 in the NFC in scoring), we expect much more productivity from Earl in 1981." He was one of only seven 49ers to start all 16 games in 1980.

COLLEGE: On draft day, 1980, Earl was likened to Chuck Muncie and Chuck Foreman by Walsh, a back with "size, power and speed ... the best combination runner/receiver to come out of college in a long time." All this was based on his unheralded Rice career that saw him rush for 1,583 yards on 407 carries and catch 101 passes for 802 yards and score 21 touchdowns in four straight losing seasons with the Owls (Rice was 1-10 in 1979, his senior season). As a senior, Earl rushed 146 times for 536 yards and hauled in 47 passes for another 463 yards and seven scores. He played in the Blue-Gray, Senior and East-West Shrine all-star games following his final Rice campaign.

PERSONAL: As a high school quarterback, halfback, receiver, and linebacker, Cooper played at a small school in Lexington, Texas, where he also was a four-event track and field performer and a basketball player. His off-season home is Houston, where he earned his degree (physical education) from Rice this past spring. He was born in Giddings, Texas.

Randy Cross • 51

GUARD • UCLA • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 255 • BORN: 4-25-54 • (D-2A IN '76)
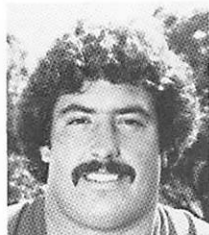

PRO: When Randy Cross played college football at UCLA, the Bruins used a game plan that had Randy playing ten downs at center, ten at guard, ten at center, ten at guard, etc., and he still was named All-America at guard as a senior. In somewhat of a carryover from his Westwood days, Cross played his initial three NFL campaigns at center before switching to guard in 1979. This is his third season at guard and word around the NFL is that if the 49ers have a Pro Bowl candidate on the 1981 roster, it's Cross. "Except for Kent Hill (L.A. Rams)," says Pro Football Weekly, "there isn't a better guard in the NFC. Cross has started every game the past two seasons at right guard and really seems to be blossoming." "The difference between the two positions is that at center you can't be as aggressive—you have to call blocking signals and you're always starting with that one hand on the ball," relates Cross. "At guard you make more decisions on the move. I like that." "Randy made the position switch as well as any player I've seen," says Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick. He made the switch well enough to be named All-NFC last season by Pro Football Weekly. The 49ers chose Randy with their first pick (2-A) in the 1976 draft, and he immediately became the team's starting center until an ankle injury sidelined him the latter part of 1978. When he came back, he moved to right guard because of rapid development by Fred Quillan at center.

COLLEGE: Cross played both guard and center and started every game in his junior and senior seasons as well as five at center as a sophomore at UCLA. He was AP and UPI All-America at guard as a senior.

PERSONAL: Cross was the California high school state champion in the shot put, besides being a standout gridder at Encino's Crespi High. He and his wife, Patrice, make their home in Redwood City, California. He was born Randall Laureat Cross in Brooklyn, New York. Of all the 49ers, Cross probably is most involved in community affairs, charital organizations and fund raising efforts. Just a few of his service activities are: member of the National Easter Seals Sports Council, member of a "Super Star Team" for the California Association for the Retarded, honorary chairman for the Santa Clara County Chapter of the Special Olympics, and fund raiser for the March of Dimes, Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation, St. Jude's Research Hospital, United Way, American Cancer Society, Stanford's Childrens Hospital, Lions Club, Heart Association, and the Arthritis Foundation. His pro statistics include three fumble recoveries (one in 1976 and two in 1979).

Steve DeBerg • 17

QUARTERBACK • SAN JOSE STATE • 5TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 205 • BORN: 1-19-54 • (FA IN '77)

PRO: "An amplified back-pack to counter a severe case of laryngitis, and fitted under his jersey," said the voice in the 49ers' 1980 highlight film, "made Steve DeBerg the NFL's first stereophonic quarterback." DeBerg came back from that early season voice problem—caused by a blow to his throat during preseason play—to finish with 1,998 passing yards on 186 completions in 1980. It wasn't the first time he faced adversity in his career. With only one season of major college experience as a starting quarterback under his belt, DeBerg was selected by the Dallas Cowboys in the tenth round of the 1977 draft and was in the next-to-last player cut by Dallas in '77. He passed through waivers and was signed by San Francisco as a free agent. He made the 49ers' roster but did not play a single down in 1977. In 1978, DeBerg saw action in 12 games, starting 11, after Jim Plunkett was waived. He sat out four games with a wrist injury and ended the year with a knee injury (suffered in the season finale) that required surgery. He came back in 1979 as the team's full-fledged starter and set an NFL record for completions and attempts (347 of 578), previously set by Fran Tarkenton in 1978. DeBerg played in all 16 games in '79 (starting 15 times), despite a left wrist fracture that hampered his play. Appearing in 11 games last year (he started nine times), he sat out five games as the season wound to an end when Joe Montana became the team's starter. "Steve is one of the most accurate, pure passers in the league. He demonstrated that by setting NFL records in 1979 and throwing for a team mark of 3,652 yards," says Quarterback Coach Sam Wyche. "His pluses are his arm and his excellent knowledge of the game, but he needs to work to produce. His limitations are a general lack of speed and mobility." Coach-GM Bill Walsh agrees: "Steve has developed a good knowledge of our system, has provided leadership, has directed the team well and has improved with each season. He is quite capable of taking the starting role again."

COLLEGE: Steve set nine school records at San Jose State in just one season as a starter. His 1976 stats for the Spartans included 141 completions in 262 attempts for 2,084 yards, 19 touchdowns and a .538 completion percentage. He was named Pacific Coast Athletic Association Offensive Player-of-the-Year as a senior. He transferred to SJSU from Fullerton Junior college, where he was a JC All-

America. Steve returned to Sparta in 1980 and finished his bachelor of science degree studies.

PERSONAL: DeBerg is a native of the Bay Area since he was born in Oakland, but he grew up in Southern California. He is a product of Savanna High School in Anaheim, California. Steve and his wife, Marcia, make their home in Cupertino with their daughter Amy Marie (2-15-80).

Walt Downing • 62

CENTER-GUARD • MICHIGAN • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 254 • BORN: 6-11-56 • (D-2 IN '78)

PRO: "Walt Downing is listed on our depth chart as a back-up at left guard, right guard and center. That should tell you something about his versatile talents," says 49ers' Coach-GM Bill Walsh. Downing has always been versatile. He was a center-guard at Michigan and was drafted in the second round of 1978 by the Niners as a guard. He started at right guard for the 49ers in 1978 and was named to the United Press International All-Rookie Team. In 1979, when Walsh took over the reins, Downing was switched to center and has backed up at both positions since. "Walt is intelligent, he hustles, he is tough and he is in a class with Randy Cross as to strength among our linemen," says Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick. He played in 14 games in 1980, all 16 in 1979, and all 16 in 1978 (starting 14 times).

COLLEGE: Walt was a consensus All-Big Ten selection as both a junior and a senior, and he was team co-captain and first-team All-America in 1977 at Michigan. His All-America selection came at center. He earned his bachelor of science degree from Michigan in 1978.

PERSONAL: Downing attended high school in Coatesville, Pennsylvania, and now calls Mountain View, California, home. He and his wife, Sue, have one daughter, Kristen (2-13-81). His professional statistics include two kickoff returns for 13 yards and one fumble recovery, all in 1978. He was born in Coatesville.
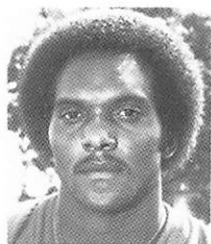

Lenvil Elliott • 35

RUNNING BACK • N.E. MISSOURI • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 210 • BORN: 9-2-51 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: The old saw "You're not getting older, you're getting better" seemingly fits 49ers' running back Lenvil Elliott. In 1980, his eighth season of pro football, Lenvil averaged 4.5 yards per rush and hauled in 27 receptions (third best season rushing average and second best season reception total in his career). He was the team's second leading rusher with 341 yards, even though he started only three times all year. "Lenvil is an excellent performer who is well along in his career. He is more than capable of being a spot performer and could once again take the role as Paul Hofer's back-up or alternate," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. Elliott was originally the tenth round pick of the Cincinnati Bengals in the 1973 NFL draft. He played six years with Cincinnati, totaling some fine stats: 1,396 rushing yards on 326 carries for a 4.3 average per carry, with three touchdowns. He also caught 102 passes for 921 yards, a 9.0 average and nine scores, and returned 19 kickoffs for 366 yards and a 19.3 average per return. In addition, he was perfect as an option running back with one completion in one attempt for 17 yards with the Bengals. He was waived by Cincinnati in preseason 1979 and was claimed by San Francisco after he cleared AFC waivers. His two-year 49ers' statistics include: 476 yards on 109 rushes for five TDs, and 482 yards on 50 receptions for one score. "Lenvil is a fine back-up type player," says Running Backs Coach Billie Matthews. "He has good quickness and size and has a good ability for finding cracks in the defense." In the 49ers' overtime comeback win against New Orleans last year, Elliott carried 20 times for 125 yards and the game-tying touchdown. He is bouncing back this year from off-season knee (cartilage) surgery.

COLLEGE: Elliott gained nearly 3,000 yards in his collegiate career at Northeast Missouri State. As a senior, he rushed for 1,138 yards on 191 tries, averaging 113.8 yards per game.

PERSONAL: Lenvil and his wife, Linda, make their home in Fairfield, Ohio, just north of Cincinnati, and have one daughter, Melissa Renee (5-28-73). Elliott attended high school in Richmond, Missouri, where he grew up. He was born in Lexington, Missouri.

Keith Fahnhorst • 71

TACKLE • MINNESOTA • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-6 • WT: 263 • BORN: 2-6-52 • (D-2A IN '74)

PRO: If there is a "Most Respected" San Francisco 49er among the members of the team, it likely is right tackle Keith Fahnhorst—the squad's 1981 offensive captain, the team's NFLPA representative, and a player with 101 NFL games to his credit (including 43 consecutive starts dating back to the Niners' game at Los Angeles, October 10, 1978). Fahnhorst has started the last 66 games he has played in for the Niners (he missed one game in 1978, but started all 16 games in 1980, all 16 in 1979, 15 times 1978, all 14 in 1977, and the final five games of 1976). "Keith Fahnhorst is the most tenacious and aggressive of our offensive linemen, and he is an accepted leader by the other players on the team," says 49ers' Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick. Keith was taken by San Francisco in the second round of the 1974 draft as a tight end and was moved to tackle in his rookie season after spending a short time in his initial training camp at tight end. O.J. Simpson, who ran behind Fahnhorst before his retirement in 1979, calls him "all-pro caliber, . . . he is as good as anybody at offensive tackle that I've seen in this league. Keith has speed, strength, size, intelligence and aggressiveness." Coach-GM Bill Walsh agrees: "Keith is a steady, solid performer, who is highly respected on the team and throughout the league. He has the skills necessary to be one of the better tackles in the NFL." His games played by years are: 1974 (14), 1975 (14), 1976 (13), 1977 (14), 1978 (15), 1979 (16), and 1980 (16).

COLLEGE: Keith was an All-Big Ten tight end as a senior at Minnesota and played in the East-West Shrine and Senior Bowl games to finish off his career. He played three seasons for the run-oriented Gophers and caught 28 passes for 416 yards and one touchdown. He was the team's top receiver in 1973, as a senior. His college degree is in psychology.

PERSONAL: Fahnhorst was a standout athlete at St. Cloud Technical High School in Minnesota and earned all-league honors in football, basketball and track and field. Keith and his wife, Susan, have two daughters, Tiffany Dawn (6-19-79) and Brittney Brook (5-13-81), and make their off-season home in St. Paul, Minnesota. His younger brother, Jim, is an All-America linebacker candidate as a senior at Minnesota this fall. Keith's professional stats include two fumble recoveries (1974), one pass reception for one yard, one kickoff return for 13 yards and one fumble recovery (1975), one fumble recovery (1977), and one fumble recovery (1978).
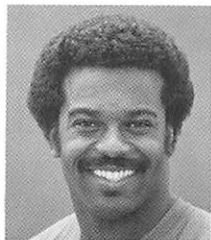

Bob Ferrell • 38

FULLBACK • UCLA • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 219 • BORN: 11-13-52 • (FA IN '76)

PRO: Depth is a key to any team's success and Bob Ferrell is a key to the 49ers' depth. He has been since he was signed by San Francisco as a free agent in 1976 (following one year in the World Football League with the Southern California Sun). Ferrell has been used in a back-up role on offense and in a spirited role on special teams. "Bobby has stepped in and played tough, though sparingly. He has good size and strength but he lacks the speed (4.8 for the 40) to be ultra-effective as a runner," says Billie Matthews, running backs coach with the 49ers. "Ferrell can play running back or fullback and he is an outstanding special teams player," adds Coach-GM Bill Walsh. He was special teams captain in 1979 and 1980. "Special teams is one-third of the game, and if it is where I can contribute the most, then I'm happy to be part of it. It's playing time in the NFL," explains Ferrell. He has played in 68 games for the 49ers, including a dozen games last season.

COLLEGE: Bob didn't see much backfield action at UCLA either because of James McAllister and Kermit Johnson, who played ahead of him with the Bruins.

PERSONAL: Ferrell makes his home in Los Angeles, where he was born and attended college. He went to high school at Ganesha High in Pomona and as a senior gained 2,200 yards in just nine games. He once scored seven touchdowns in a single contest. His name by birth is Robert Steven Ferrell. In addition to the following statistics, Bob also recovered one fumble in 1977 and returned one punt for one yard in 1980.

Phil Francis ● 48

FULLBACK ● STANFORD ● 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-1 ● WT: 215 ● BORN: 1-10-57 ● (D-7 IN '79)

PRO: When coaches talk about Phil Francis, they talk about his "potential" as in "potential to be a fine fullback in the NFL" and "injury potential." He missed three games in his senior season at Stanford with an ankle sprain (missing out on potentially being the NCAA reception leader for 1978), and he played in only five games in 1980 (not fulfilling his potential to improve on his 1979 NFL statistics). In 1979, Phil accounted for 198 yards receiving, 118 in rushing and 102 in kickoff returns for the 49ers, not a bad rookie year for a fill-in at both running back positions. "Phil has size, speed (4.6 in the 40), good quickness and good strength," says Running Backs Coach Billie Matthews. "As a runner, he is well above average with ability to break to daylight, take on tacklers, and make the tough run. He is a better-than-average blocker and is effective running outside. In short, if Phil stays healthy, he could have a good year and help us quite a bit." Adds Bill Walsh, "Phil is coming off a rather serious knee operation after finishing 1980 on the injured reserve list and his health is a concern of ours. If he is over last year's injury and can stay healthy in 1981, Phil will have an impact on our team." Francis is one of three running backs (Paul Hofer and Lenvil Elliott are the others) who is attempting to return in 1981 after knee surgery in 1980. Francis originally was a seventh round draft pick in 1979.

COLLEGE: Phil rushed for just under 500 yards, averaging 4.5 yards per carry, and caught 49 passes for 378 yards and a 7.7 average as a senior at Stanford. In his three years as a letterman for the Cards, he hauled in 85 receptions for 679 yards. Francis earned his degree in 1979.

PERSONAL: Francis spends most of his off-season time in his hometown of Beaverton, Oregon, but also lives in Foster City, California, during the year. He was born in Kewanee, Illinois, and grew up in Beaverton. Love for football began at age 11 for Phil when his father took him to a USC-Oregon State grid battle in Corvalis, Oregon. "Oregon State won 3-0, but what I remember most was O.J. Simpson running for 180 yards that day. From that moment on, I was hooked on football."

Lewis Gilbert • 82

TIGHT END • FLORIDA • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 225 • BORN: 5-24-56 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: Lewis Gilbert entered training camp as the No. 3 tight end on the 49ers' roster (behind Charle Young and Eason Ramson). He is, in the words of Coach-GM Bill Walsh, "a solid, rugged performer with no previous NFL statistics entering 1981 because injuries have slowed his progress as a pro." Gilbert was obtained on waivers from Philadelphia during the 1980 regular season. He had previously been on Philadelphia's injured reserve. He originally entered the NFL as a free agent in the spring of 1978 (following graduation from Florida) with Detroit. He was released by the Lions in training camp, and Atlanta signed him as a free agent in November of '78. He played four games with the Falcons that season but spent the entire 1979 campaign on injured reserve because of a knee injury suffered during preseason. He was acquired by Philadelphia in 1980 and then obtained by the 49ers. Gilbert had no stats in '80; he played in just six games.

COLLEGE: An honors graduate with a 3.73 GPA in physical education, Gilbert played both fullback and tight end for the University of Florida.

PERSONAL: Lewis played in his first organized football game at the age of eight—a Pop Warner League game in Naples, Florida. He makes his off-season home in Norcross, Georgia, with his wife, Claudia, and spends his off-season time touring the Southeast speaking to high school students through the High School Outreach program, sponsored by Sports World Ministries in Atlanta. He was born in Naples, Florida, and attended Naples High School.

Willie Harper • 59

LINEBACKER • NEBRASKA • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 215 • BORN: 7-30-50 • (D-2 IN '73)

PRO: Willie Harper is a true NFL veteran . . . in every sense of the word. He has played pro ball since 1973 (97 games entering the 1981 regular season), and he has made more than 500 tackles, yet he seems to be getting better with age. "Willie had an excellent year in 1980 although he was hampered by an ankle injury in the latter portion of the season," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is a steady veteran with excellent ability, a mainstay on the 49er defense. He provides maturity and stability to the defense." The last two seasons have been good ones for Willie (57 solo tackles and 32 assists in 1980 and 59 tackles with 37 assists in 1979), and 1977 wasn't bad either (60 solo and 27 assisted tackles). But injuries have plagued Harper in other campaigns since he was drafted No. 2 in 1973. He became a starter in the fourth game of his rookie season and held that job until the opening of the '75 season when a painful sprained arch, suffered in training camp, forced him out of the lineup. He suffered broken ribs in 1977 and missed a pair of games, then spent the entire 1978 season on injured reserve with a knee injury. "Injuries are part of the game, that's why we wear pads," explains Willie. "I have had my share, but no more than my share. The important thing is to keep coming back. I'm ready for several more seasons of 49ers' football." Willie seems to play better on the road. For example, during his career, five of his best games statistically were: 1973 at Atlanta (7 tackles, 5 assists), 1974 at New Orleans (9 tackles, 3 assists, 1 pass defensed), 1977 at Pittsburgh (9 tackles, 2 assists, 1½ sacks for minus 21 yards), 1977 at New Orleans (12 tackles, 1 assist, 2 passes defensed), and 1980 at Los Angeles (9 tackles, 3 assists, 1 pass defensed). He's had some excellent home games also, including 1979 versus Los Angeles (10 tackles, 4 assists, 1 sack for minus 10 yards), and 1980 against St. Louis (7 tackles, 6 assists, 1 pass defensed).

COLLEGE: Harper was named Lineman-of-the-Year as a sophomore at Nebraska and made consensus All-America as a senior defensive end. He played running back and middle guard before moving to defensive end for the Cornhuskers. He set a career record with 178 tackles, including 90 unassisted and 40 for losses of 258 total yards.

PERSONAL: Willie stood out in football, basketball and track and field at J.W. Scott High School in Toledo, Ohio. He and his wife, Roxanne, have three children (and were expecting their fourth this past summer)—Terrell (8-30-66), Willie (10-1-72), and Qiava (12-12-75). Willie has been active in NFL United Way efforts. He and his family make their home in Sunnyvale. He was born Willie Miles Harper in Toledo, Ohio. Missed 1978 season; on injured reserve.

Dwight Hicks ● 22

SAFETY ● MICHIGAN ● 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-1 ● WT: 189 ● BORN: 4-5-56 ● (FA IN '79)

PRO: Health foods can be good for you, just ask Dwight Hicks, the 49ers' free safety. After failing tryouts with the Detroit Lions and the Philadelphia Eagles in 1978 and '79, respectively, Dwight briefly changed professions and went into managing a health foods store in Southfield, Michigan (a suburb of Detroit). That was in October of '79, but by November he was a starting NFL free safety with the 49ers. Hicks was selected in the sixth round of the 1978 NFL draft by Detroit and was among those released by the Lions in the next-to-last player cut that year. He took his talents to the Canadian Football League and the Toronto Argonauts for the remainder of the CFL season. Hicks then signed as a free agent with Philadelphia and made it until the Eagles' last player cut of 1979. That's when he turned to managing the health foods store in Michigan (from August to October of '79). Since joining the 49ers on October 24, 1979, he hasn't done many healthy things to opposing teams. He finished '79 with eight games to his credit and stats that included 11 unassisted tackles and 13 assists, one fumble recovery, one pass defensed, and a team-leading five interceptions for 57 yards in returns (one-third of the team's total season interceptions). Last year, Dwight really came into his own and totaled 54 solo stops, 38 assisted tackles, two fumble recoveries, 14 passes defensed, one-half of a quarterback sack on a blitz, and four interceptions for 73 yards in returns. He tied for the team lead in passes defensed and interceptions and was second in total tackles. "Dwight Hicks improved measurably in 1980 and played extremely fine football," praises Bill Walsh. "He was the team's top tackling defensive back last year. He is the soundest tackler on the team, is very intelligent and understands coverages and receiver routes. He should continue to develop into a top pro." Says Hicks: "I'm thrilled to be on the 49ers' roster, and I am extremely happy to be playing in the NFL. It was a struggle to get here and now that I am, I'm planning on making the best of it, improving each year and becoming the finest defensive back I possibly can."

COLLEGE: Dwight was a four-year letterman at the University of Michigan, playing in 38 wins, two ties and only seven losses during his Wolverine career. He was defensive captain for the '77 Michigan team that played in the 1978 Rose Bowl (and 49ers' teammate Walt Downing was the offensive captain for that squad).

Michigan played in two Rose Bowls and an Orange Bowl during Dwight's tenure in Ann Arbor. He was named All-Big Ten in 1977, after leading the Wolverines in interceptions with four.

PERSONAL: Hicks was born in Mount Holly, New Jersey, and grew up in Pennsauken, New Jersey, where he attended high school. He was a standout in football, basketball and baseball at PHS. Dwight and his wife, Josefa (who was the state high school champion in the quarter-mile as a senior), were expecting their first child at press time. They make their home in Palo Alto, California, year-round and Dwight works at a local juvenile center and for a local bread company during the off-season. He has 4.68 speed for 40 yards.

Scott Hilton • 55

LINEBACKER • COLLEGE: None • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 230 • BORN: 5-28-54 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: It's no secret that the 49ers are trying to build a defense. So, could they find a better man to play linebacker than Scott Hilton, a professional carpenter? Hilton has been a carpenter by trade since dropping out of college without playing a single collegiate down of football nearly ten years ago. "Scott is a street fighter learning how to play in the NFL. He's not a natural athlete, but he is a very tough, hard-nosed type of player with the potential to be a top performer in the NFL," says Linebacker Coach Norb Hecker. He played six years of semi-pro football for the Somerton All Stars (1973-78) in Pennsylvania (the Delaware Valley Football League) and had two tryouts with the Philadelphia Eagles. After graduating from Upper Moreland High School in Willow Grove, Pennsylvania, Scott enrolled at Salem College in West Virginia to play baseball, but only lasted part of one term before dropping out. He became a carpenter and semi-pro gridder and as the latter gained enough notice to earn a tryout with the Eagles in 1977 as a tight end. He left camp voluntarily in July of 1977, returning to house building and the Stars. Hilton had never played offense prior to his first Eagles' tryout. He was re-signed by Philadelphia in 1978 as a linebacker and was in the last player cut prior to the '78 season. Niners' Defense Coach Bill McPherson was the Eagles' linebacker coach in 1978 and liked what he saw in Hilton. When McPherson joined Bill Walsh's staff in San Francisco, one of the first people he called was Hilton. "I wasn't sure I wanted to try again," related Hilton. "Mac convinced me that I should give it one last try. I had made up my mind that this would be it. Either the 'third time would be a charm', or it would be the end," says Hilton of his start in pro football. He made the team and started the first seven games of 1979 at weakside or middle linebacker. He played the last several of those nine contests while wearing a harness for a shoulder injury that eventually forced him to undergo surgery. He finished '79 on the injured reserve list, but not before he recorded 77 tackles (49 unassisted), three passes defensed and one sack good for minus-10 yards. He had 18 tackles in one game versus the Rams. Last year's stats were even more impressive, despite being hampered by a knee injury and broken ribs (see below). He played in 13 games in '80, starting eight.

COLLEGE: Technically, Hilton did attend Salem College during 1973-74, but did not play football. He played baseball there, but was only in school for part of one term before he realized: "I was more into earning a dollar, getting a girl friend and buying a car. I was not into books and studying. I just wasn't the student type. It was a big mistake."

PERSONAL: He was born in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and calls Hatboro, Pennsylvania, his off-season home. It is in Hatboro where he works as a carpenter with his brother in a house building corporation that operates throughout the Philadelphia suburbs.

Paul Hofer • 36

RUNNING BACK • MISSISSIPPI • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 195 • BORN: 5-13-52 • (D-11 IN '76)

PRO: Will Paul Hofer be ready or not? That's the question fans and media have been asking ever since Hofer underwent an operation for a serious knee injury suffered at Dallas last October. "I'll be ready. I feel better every day," says Hofer, the most productive all-purpose performer in 49ers' history. "Everyone is telling me to be patient and that's the hardest part. I've devoted full-time to rehabilitating my knee during the off-season and I'll be ready to go in 1981." Coach-GM Bill Walsh has included Hofer in the team's '81 plans, but probably not as soon as Hofer would like: "If we hold Paul out for the four pre-season games and, say, four-to-six regular season games, then we'd still have him for 10 to 12 contests. If his rehabilitation goes well, he'll still be a big factor in our offense and our season. The biggest mistake would be to try to bring him back too early. We won't use him until we get everyone's okay, and then some." Not playing until the season is well underway should be no shock to Hofer . . . he's almost used to it. Paul was selected in the 11th round of the 1976 NFL draft and appeared in all 14 games of '76, but didn't carry the ball until game No. 6, and only carried it in five games all year. In 1977, he returned 36 kicks for 863 yards, but again only carried the ball from scrimmage in eight games, while he backed-up Delvin Williams. With O.J. Simpson the main running back in 1978, Paul didn't get much playing time until game No. 10, when Simpson was placed on injured reserve. Still, he ended the campaign with 465 yards rushing, 386 in kickoff returns, and 170 receiving yards. Hofer played back-up to Simpson to begin 1979, too, until the ninth game of the season when Walsh replaced O.J. with the younger, healthier, quicker-starting Hofer. The amazing thing about Hofer's '79 season was that he missed the entire pre-season with a hamstring pull, then played sparingly in the first four games because of a hamstring injury to his other leg, suffered in the season opener against Minnesota. He gained a total of 25 yards in the first six games of '79, but finished with 615 yards rushing, 662 receiving yards and 124 yards on kickoff returns. He started 1980 in the same manner he finished '79—with a flurry—but was lost for the year in the sixth game (at Dallas) with a knee injury that required cartilage and ligament repairs. In only a half-dozen games, Hofer accounted for 293 yards on the ground, 467 through the air, and two on returns. Prior to the injury, he had 41 receptions—a season's work for most backs. "Paul is a great performer and an outstanding leader," says Walsh. "When healthy, he is one of the outstanding backs in the NFL. He could be a 1,000-yard rusher if he could put together a full 16-game season." Hofer has carried the ball ten times or more in 18 games during his career for 1,207 total yards in those games. Projected, that 67.06-yards-per-game average would convert into a solid 1,000-plus season over 16 games. His career bests have included: 120 return yards against Los Angeles in San Francisco in 1977, three running touchdowns against the Rams at home in 1978, 147 rushing yards and 212 all-purpose yards at New Orleans in 1979, and 135 receiving yards and 224 all-purpose yards versus St. Louis at Candlestick in 1980.

COLLEGE: Prior to playing for five different head coaches in his first four years at San Francisco, Hofer played for three head coaches from 1972 through 1975 at the University of Mississippi. He was a team tri-captain in '75 as a senior and led Ole Miss in kickoff returns three consecutive years. In his four-year Rebel career as a fullback, Paul rushed for 1,430 yards on 296 carries, a 4.8 yard average.

PERSONAL: Hofer has 4.7 speed. He is married (Penny) and the couple gave birth to their first child in June, a boy—Paul David (6-16-81). Hofer is one of seven children (five sisters and one brother) and grew up in Memphis, Tennessee. He was born in Memphis and attended Christian Brothers High School there. The Hofers make their home in Los Altos, California.

Gary Huff • 19

QUARTERBACK • FLORIDA STATE • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 200 • BORN: 4-27-51 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: Gary Huff, the 49ers' No. 3 quarterback, has played seven years of pro football with three clubs (four with Chicago, two with Tampa Bay and 1980 with San Francisco). He is a solid, reliable back-up signal caller. Gary joined the 49ers in 1980 as a free agent. He originally was drafted by the Bears in the second round of 1973 and was their starting QB through 1974 and 1975. In 1977 (12 days before his 26th birthday), he was traded to Tampa Bay for two second round picks in the '77 NFL draft. Huff, who grew up just a few miles from Tampa Stadium, played in 14 games for the Buccaneers, six as a starter, before being replaced by Doug Williams. He was released by the Bucs in August of '79 and sat out the entire 1979 season before signing as a free agent with the Niners in March, 1980. He was released by San Francisco and then recalled to fill the No. 3 spot when Steve DeBerg lost his voice due to laryngitis in the opening weeks of the season. Gary did not play a down for the 49ers in '80. "Gary can be an asset to the club due to his intelligence, accuracy and strong arm. He is a class person," says 49ers' Quarterbacks Coach Sam Wyche, "and was an exceptional addition to our team last year."

COLLEGE: Gary threw 52 touchdown passes in his Florida State career. His Seminole stats included 436 of 795 attempts (54.9 percent) for 6,378 yards. He led the NCAA in total offense (241.2 yards per game) as a junior in 1972 and passed for five TDs versus South Carolina that year and was the MVP of the Fiesta Bowl. He was selected to several All-America teams, including two Academic All-America units, and played in the East-West Shrine, Senior and Coaches All-America bowl games. He graduated in 1973 with a bachelor of science in accounting from FSU, where he also played shortstop in baseball.

PERSONAL: Gary was born in Natchez, Mississippi, and grew up in Tampa, Florida. He was a standout in basketball, football, baseball and track and field at Leto High School in Tampa. He and his wife, Susan, have three children: Julie (6-23-75), Jason (11-24-77) and Harry (4-3-81). Gary works for a Tampa accounting firm in the off-season.

Charles Johnson • 44

CORNERBACK • GRAMBLING • 3RD YEAR
HT: 5-10 • WT: 180 • BORN: 5-5-56 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: Oh, that Charles Johnson. The 49ers' starting right corner in 14 of 16 games last season (played in all 16) was Charles Johnson ... one of three players in the NFL with that name (others are the starting middle guard with Philadelphia and a starting defensive tackle at Green Bay). The Niners' Johnson originally was drafted by Atlanta in the fourth round of 1979 and spent the first month of the regular season on injured reserve. Waived and claimed by San Francisco in November of 1979, he played in four games with the 49ers in '79 and finished that season with one tackle, one assist and one pass defensed. "Charles made dramatic improvement in 1980," relates Bill Walsh. "He picked up invaluable experience and could easily develop into one of the better cornerbacks in the NFL." Adds Secondary Coach George Seifert, "Charles Johnson was, as far as playing time goes, basically a rookie in 1980, and though he had some off-days, his play really improved over the season. He also is a good special teams player and that adds value to his talents." Johnson's better days in '80 included seven tackles against Green Bay and two tackles, an assist and a pass interception (for 15 yards) at Detroit. He has 4.55 speed.

COLLEGE: Charles intercepted 11 passes in his final two seasons at Grambling and was named honorable mention All-America by Sporting News. He also was named to the Mutual Black Sports Radio Network All-America squad.

PERSONAL: Johnson was born and raised in Mansfield, Louisiana. He once took a center-snap through the quarterback's legs, while playing running back for Mansfield High School in Louisiana, and ran 75 yards for a touchdown. The play was to no avail, however, as rival Minden High won the game, 14-13. He is single and lives in Mansfield in the off-season.

Bobby Leopold • 52

LINEBACKER • NOTRE DAME • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 215 • BORN: 10-18-57 • (D-8 IN '80)

PRO: Linebacker Bobby Leopold gave himself a tough act to follow this year when he was named to the 1980 NFL All-Rookie Team. Bill Walsh agrees with those who selected Leopold to the All-Rookie Team: "Bobby had an outstanding rookie season and is expected to play a major role in the 49ers' defense for years to come. He is quick, active, intelligent and a relentless player." Not a bad description of the eighth round draft choice and fourth linebacker taken by the Niners in the 1980 draft. Leopold played in all 20 games (counting the four preseason contests) and started 15 regular season games. Bobby also played on all special teams in '80. His stats included 56 unassisted stops, 32 assisted tackles, two-and-one-half sacks for minus-eight yards, one interception for ten return yards and three fumble recoveries. His best games in '80 included three tackles and two fumble recoveries at Detroit, an interception at Atlanta (with five tackles) and two-and-a-half sacks and a pass deflection against the New York Giants (with six tackles). His season high for unassisted stops was in the season opener at New Orleans when he recorded seven solo tackles. "Bobby is dedicated, works hard, and wants to be the best in the NFL at his position," says Linebackers Coach Norb Hecker. Leopold's 40 time is 4.75. Adds 49ers' radio announcer Wayne Walker, a former All-Pro linebacker, "Leopold knows all about leverage in playing the position. In fact, he's a very intelligent young player."

COLLEGE: Bobby was a four-year letterman at Notre Dame. He accounted for 180 career tackles, including 66 as a senior. He had six career interceptions and returned three for scores. He played in the East-West Shrine Game in 1980. Bobby earned his economics degree from Notre Dame in 1980.

PERSONAL: Leopold is single and lives in Port Arthur, Texas, in the off-season. He was born in Port Arthur and attended Lincoln High School, where his father taught biology and coached the offensive line. He stood out in football (three year captain), basketball and track and field in high school.

Jim Miller • 3

PUNTER • MISSISSIPPI • 2ND YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 183 • BORN: 7-5-57 • (D-3A IN '80)
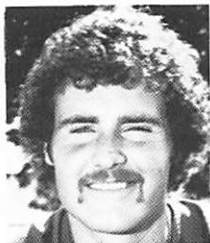

PRO: When Jim Miller was selected as the 66th player drafted by the NFL in 1980, he became San Francisco's fourth punter in four years. And when the curtain came down on the '80 campaign, he had recorded the club's finest punting statistics since 1975 and was named NFL Rookie Punter-of-the-Year. But Miller probably will never get an advertising contract from a sports shoe company. Jim, you see, kicks barefoot—and how: 77 punts in 1980 for 3,152 yards, a 40.9-yards-per-punt average, five touchbacks, 11 kicks inside the 20, and a long punt of 65 yards (at the New York Jets). And he kept his personal career record intact by not having a single punt blocked. "Jim will be with us for a long time," says Bill Walsh of the team's 3A draft choice in 1980. "He was one of our most important draft picks last year and he improved as the season progressed. He is capable—through experience and hard work—of becoming one of the top punters in all of pro football." Miller did improve in '80. He started the season a little nervously, although he averaged 40.0 yards on his first 20 kicks through five games. He settled down to average 41.3 on 57 boots over the final 11 contests. "Early, I would tense up and my legs would feel heavy," admits Miller, "but after awhile, I began getting it worked out correctly in games." He is not just a good kicker, according to 49ers' Assistant Coach Milt Jackson, "he also is an excellent athlete with 4.6 speed in the 40."

COLLEGE: Jim was a consensus All-America in 1979 for the Ole Miss Rebels. He averaged 43.4 yards per punt for four seasons at Mississippi. He set school and Southeastern Conference marks for most punts (266) and yards (11,549) in a career. He led the SEC in punting as a junior and senior with averages of 43.2 and 44.6, respectively. His sophomore average was a whopping 45.9 for 66 punts.

PERSONAL: Miller is single and makes his off-season home in Ripley, Mississippi, where he was born and raised. Playing for Ole Miss, Jim once kicked a ball off the scoreboard gondola at the Louisiana Superdome in a game with Tulane, a feat previously achieved only by one other punter, Ray Guy of Oakland. Miller's punting hang time is 4.3 according to scouts, and he had no punts returned for scores in 1980.

Joe Montana • 16

QUARTERBACK • NOTRE DAME • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 200 • BORN: 6-11-56 • (D-3 IN '79)

PRO: Joe Montana was one of the top five passers in the NFL last year (No. 4 in the NFC and No. 5 in the NFL) with an 87.8 quarterback rating in what was virtually his first year. He improved each week and finished the season by starting seven of the 49ers' final ten contests, including the final four. "Joe is intelligent and quick on his feet," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He improved weekly as he began getting into the starting role. We expect more improvement from Joe in 1981. He had the highest completion percentage in the NFL last year and best in 49ers' history at 64.5 and had the fifth lowest interception percentage in the league at 3.3." San Francisco drafted Montana in the third round of 1979 and brought him along slowly. He threw just two passes during his first 11 NFL games (he was one-for-one at Los Angeles for eight yards and was one-for-one versus Atlanta for minus-eight yards); playing mainly as the team's placement holder for kicker Ray Wersching. In the 12th game of 1979, against Denver, Joe threw for his first touchdown—a 16-yarder—and finished that game three-for-five for 30 yards. His first NFL start came in game 14 at St. Louis in '79. He was held back early in 1980, too, throwing only six passes in his first four games . . . all six came in the New York Jets game at Shea Stadium as Joe completed four for two scores (both to Dwight Clark) and ran the ball once for a five-yard touchdown. He finished with 60 yards passing. Montana began seeing more and more playing time shortly after that game and soon developed into the team's starter. His first career interception came at Los Angeles in game five of '80 on his 27th pass of the contest. It was his 56th career pass. His first 1980 start came two weeks later at home versus the Rams and his stats for that contest included 21 of 37 for 252 yards and two TDs. But his finest hour as a pro came in his New Orleans performance in the 49ers' overtime win last Dec. 7. Montana was 24 of 36 for 285 yards and two TDs and he carried four times for 13 yards and another score as San Francisco overcame a 28-point halftime deficit to win. He also fired three TD strikes in the win over New England in '80. "Joe is a threat as a scrambler and has a better-than-average throwing arm," relates Quarterback Coach Sam Wyche. "He has natural leadership qualities, and with his good hands and passing ability, he adds the threat of fake field goal tries since he's been our holder too."

COLLEGE: During his collegiate career at Notre Dame, Montana completed 269 of 515 passes (.522 percent) for 4,121 yards and 25 touchdowns. As a senior, he was named to several All-America teams after completing 141 of 260 passes (.542 percent) for 2,010 yards and ten touchdowns. The Fighting Irish won the national title in Montana's junior season. He earned national acclaim in the Cotton Bowl, when he guided Notre Dame to a grand comeback against Houston following the 1978 campaign. Montana brought the Irish back from a 34-12 deficit midway through the fourth period to a 35-34 win with no time showing on the clock. For the game, he rushed for 34 yards and two touchdowns and completed 13 passes for 163 yards and one score, plus he threw for two two-point conversions. Montana earned his degree in marketing from Notre Dame in '78.

MONTANA, Cont.

PERSONAL: Joe was born in Monongahela, Pennsylvania. He attended Ringgold High School in Monongahela, and sheepishly admits he once lined-up under the guard instead of the center in a game there. Joe recently purchased a new home near Woodside, California.

James Owens ● 89

WIDE RECEIVER ● UCLA ● 3RD YEAR
HT: 5-11 ● WT: 188 ● BORN: 7-5-55 ● (D-2 IN '79)

PRO: They call him "J.O." (and his auto tags read— "JO'S JET"), but "quick change" might be a better nickname for James Owens, the second round draft pick by San Francisco in 1979 (as the team's No. 1 choice that NFL draft). Why "quick change"? Well, he was drafted as a running back but the plan was to move him to wide receiver. Because of injuries he was pressed into service at both spots and then, in game 9 of his rookie season, he was shifted to the defensive backfield as a free safety. An excellent return specialist because of his quickness, speed and ability to change directions, James also changed his jersey number from 20 in 1979 to 89 last season. He'll wear 89 in '81 as a wide receiver on the roster, although he may be used releasing from the backfield in the 49ers' passing offense. He is versatile and has stats to back this fact up. In 1979, for example, J.O. had 11 tackles (mostly on special teams play), nine of which were solo stops; 41 kick returns for 1,002 yards (3rd in the NFC), eight carries for 52 yards, and ten receptions for 121 yards. Last year, his statistics included nine receptions for 133 yards and 31 kickoff returns for 726 yards and a 23.4 average (No. 3 in the NFC and No. 4 in the NFL). He had a runback of 101 yards for a score at Detroit (3rd finest in 49ers' history, best in the NFL in '80) and an 85-yard kickoff return for a TD in '79. He has never carried the ball more than once in a game, and he hasn't caught more than two passes in a single contest since becoming a 49er, but has managed to finish with 90-or-more all-purpose yards on eight occasions. "James has been plagued by injuries and we've shifted him around between positions, but despite it all, I have no doubts concerning his ability to become a top pro," says Bill Walsh, the 49ers'

Coach-GM. "We'd like to use him more as a combination wide receiver-running back and less in the kick return department in 1981."

COLLEGE: James was the co-MVP at UCLA in football as a junior and was the Offensive Player-of-the-Game at the Fiesta Bowl as a senior. He was an outstanding football player for the Bruins, but he was even better on the track. He won both the NCAA and AAU high hurdle national titles (in identical 13.49 times) and placed sixth in the 1976 Montreal Olympics. His best hurdles clocking as a collegian was 13.46. He finished his grid career at Westwood as the No. 4 rusher in Bruins' history with 1,984 yards on 397 carries (5.0 average). He also caught 21 passes for 200 yards and scored a total of 14 touchdowns.

PERSONAL: Owens was a three-sport high school All-America (basketball, football and track and field) at Notre Del Rio High School in Sacramento, California. He was married this off-season to long-time sweetheart Marinea. James was born in Sacramento, the sixth of eight children. As a rookie, he overcame a mild case of meningitis during pre-season training camp.

Ricky Patton • 42

RUNNING BACK • JACKSON STATE • 4TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 192 • BORN: 4-6-54 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: Ricky Patton carried the ball just once for a gain of one yard in 1980 after signing as a free agent with the 49ers in October, but you may just see more of him in 1981. "Ricky joined us after the seventh game in 1980," explains Coach-GM Bill Walsh, "and is an outstanding special teams player with an excellent attitude and good speed. He is a fine coverage guy on special teams and may see more action in the backfield this year as well." Patton was signed as a free agent after being released by Green Bay. He originally was drafted by Atlanta in the tenth round of 1978 but released in October of 1979. He was signed two weeks later by the Packers. The highlight of his NFL career came in the final game of the '79 season with Green Bay when he rushed for 99 yards on 19 carries against Detroit. Besides his single rushing attempt for the 49ers last year, Ricky returned four kickoffs for 43 yards and a 10.8 average in nine games.

COLLEGE: Patton played one year at Ferris State in Michigan and transferred to Jackson State in Mississippi to finish his collegiate career. He rushed for 640 yards and a 5.6 average as a senior and scored seven touchdowns (five on runs from 40 yards or further out).

PERSONAL: Born Ricky Riccardo Patton in Birmingham, Alabama, he attended Flint Southwestern High School in Flint, Michigan, and now makes his home in Lithonia, Georgia. He has a relative named Walter Payton, whose footsteps he followed at Jackson State. He is not related to Rickey Patton, the wide receiver with New Orleans in 1980. In a high school game once, Ricky ran the ball for a 50-yard score, but it was called back due to penalty, and on the very next play, he broke loose for a TD again.

Lawrence Pillers • 65

DEFENSIVE END • ALCORN A&M • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 260 • BORN: 11-5-52 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: When San Francisco won its third straight game to begin 1980 — 37-27 over the Jets in New York — one of the problems for the 49ers' offense was Jets' Defensive End Lawrence Pillers, who had two unassisted tackles, two assists, and half of a quarterback sack for nine yards that afternoon. One week later, the veteran defensive end was in a Niners' uniform playing for San Francisco against Atlanta, having been waived by the Jets in a shakeup among veterans following their defeat to the 49ers. He ended up starting 10 of the 13 games he played in for the 49ers and did a solid job. Pillers finished 1980 with 70 tackles (61 at San Francisco) and three sacks for 24 yards (1½ as a Niner for 15 yards). His most active game came in Week 9, at Detroit, when he had five solo stops, three assists, one pass deflection and one sack for six yards, as the 49ers limited Billy Sims to 37 rushing yards. He played defensive end for most the season but also saw action at defensive tackle last year. "I really liked playing tackle in the 4-3", says Pillers. "People say you have more freedom on the outside at end, but you also have containment responsibilities. Really, I guess I enjoy playing both positions." Lawrence originally was drafted by the Jets in the 11th round of 1976, as a linebacker (at 225), but came to camp that year at 250 with the same speed (4.85 in the 40).

COLLEGE: Lawrence was first team small college All-America defensive end for Alcorn A&M. He led a defense that topped the nation against the run as a senior (his team allowed just 159 yards on the ground in 10 games). Alcorn won the Black National Championship in Pillers' senior campaign. He was All-Southwestern Athletic Conference three times and finished with 12 blocked punts and 15 fumble recoveries in his career.

PERSONAL: Pillers was born in Hazlehurst, Mississippi, where he grew up and attended high school. He is one of 10 children. Lawrence and his wife, Carri, have two daughters, LaCuria (11-27-74) and LaVechelle (3-19-80). They make Port Gibson, Mississippi, their off-season home, where Lawrence is a deputy sheriff.

Craig Puki • 54

LINEBACKER • TENNESSEE • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 231 • BORN: 1-18-57 • (D-3B IN '80)

PRO: At one time or another last year, Craig Puki filled in at all four linebacker positions with the 49ers, besides playing on all special teams. Playing several positions is a carry over from his collegiate days at Tennessee (where he played linebacker, center and fullback), and Puki doesn't mind one bit: "I enjoy playing the game. Football, being a team sport, is what the game is all about. It takes 11 men all doing their individual jobs to the best of their ability. This team concept is what I really enjoy more than my own personal position. I'll play where the coaches want me." And play well, too. In 16 games in 1980, the rookie earned the following stats: 27 solo tackles, 10 assists, three defensed passes, and an interception. He had 11 of his 27 total tackles in the final two games, including six unassisted stops in Week 16. Coach Bill Walsh predicts: "Craig is expected to vie for a starting position at strong inside linebacker in 1981. He is an active, intense football player with good strength and intelligence." Norb Hecker, the 49ers' linebackers coach, agrees: "Craig did a good job in '80 for what we asked him to do. He could be an excellent linebacker in the NFL if we concentrate with him at one position. He has real good speed (4.75) and loves to hit people and be engaged in the rough stuff of the game. He also is a better-than-average special teams player." Puki was selected 3B in the 1980 draft by San Francisco as the second of four linebackers taken by the Niners (behind Keena Turner) that spring.

COLLEGE: Craig was the team's tri-captain (with Roland James and Jimmy Streater) at Tennessee as a senior and was first team All-Southeastern Conference in '79. He paced the Vols with 122 total tackles in his senior campaign and played in the East-West Shrine Game. He had an impressive four-game period in 1979 when he averaged 14 hits a contest and ended the season with three sacks and four fumbles recovered. He ended his career in Knoxville with 358 total tackles in three seasons at linebacker. Puki was a fullback as a freshman in 1975 and missed the 1977 season with a knee injury.

PERSONAL: Craig was born in the great named town of Deadwood, South Dakota, and attended Glacier High in Seattle, Washington. He calls Seattle home in the off-season, although he attends Arizona State in Tempe, Arizona, where he is working on his business administration/marketing degree. He was knocked out in a game once, went to the bench and fell asleep and didn't wake up until the game was completed. "I had to ask who won the game," he laughs.

Fred Quillan • 56

CENTER • OREGON • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 260 • BORN: 1-27-56 • (D-7 IN '78)

PRO: When Randy Cross was injured and had to sit out part of the 1978 season, it marked the turning point in Fred Quillan's career. Cross was the team's center but Quillan stepped in and performed so well that Randy was moved to guard when he was healthy again. That injury came in the last weekend of October, 1978, and beginning with Week 10 of that campaign (November 5), Quillan has started every game since (39 straight entering 1981). It hasn't been easy; he's had to improve and grow. For example, when he was a rookie, Quillan weighed 240 pounds (light for an NFL center). He has bulked up each year since ... 249 (1979), 254 (1980) and 260 (1981). He has gained experience and knowledge to the point "that he is probably the best athlete among the 49ers' starting offensive linemen," according to Offensive Line Coach Bobb McKittrick. "Fred has outstanding balance, good strength and ability and plays with a low center of gravity which enables him to have leverage on many of his blocks." Quillan is the long snapper for punts besides the regular short-snap center. He will be a key to the 49ers' use of the Shotgun attack this fall as well. "We've had him practicing it," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh, "because the big danger is a snap over the quarterback's head. Fred has been doing a good job with it."

COLLEGE: Quillan played several positions at Oregon and was named an All-Coast center as a junior. He played mostly at tackle during hs senior season.

PERSONAL: Fred, who graduated from Central Catholic High School in Portland, Oregon, where he was a three-sport athlete, originally was recruited as a tight end by the Ducks. He is working on his degree at Oregon during the off-season and calls Portland home during that time. He was born in Portland. His NFL stats include 46 games played and a kickoff return for eight yards in 1978.
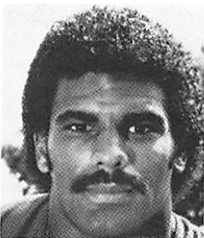

Eason Ramson • 80

TIGHT END • WASHINGTON STATE • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 234 • BORN: 4-30-56 • (FA IN '79)

PRO: Eason Ramson, who came to the 49ers late in 1979 and played in only two games for San Francisco that season, blossomed in '80. He could very well develop into one of the league's better tight ends and/or special teams players. "Eason was one of the most improved and most impressive performers on the team last year," praises 49ers' boss Bill Walsh. "An outstanding special teams player, he plays with great enthusiasm. He is a solid blocker and an excellent pass receiver." Ramson originally was selected by the Green Bay Packers in the 12th round of 1978. He was released by Green Bay in training camp and signed by St. Louis a week later (in '78). He caught 23 passes in 15 games (for 238 yards) with the Cardinals in 1978, but didn't make a catch with them in 1979 before being placed on injured reserve, and ultimately being released in September of that year. Eason signed with San Francisco in December of '79 and played in that season's final two games with no stats. He caught three or more passes in five different game for the 49ers in 1980. Playing in all 16 games last season (including three as a starter), Ramson also carried the ball twice for a minus-two yards.

COLLEGE: Ramson was a four-year player at Washington State, where he was on the receiving end for passer Jack Thompson (Cincinnati Bengals). His best pass-catching year was as a junior with 41 receptions. He originally was recruited to WSU as a fullback.

RAMSON, Cont.

PERSONAL: Eason and his wife, Diana, have two sons—Eason L. (5-2-75) and Joshua (3-28-78). He works with a youth rehabilitation program in the Bay Area during the off season. The Ramsons make their home in Foster City. He was born in Sacramento and attended Christian Brothers High School there. Eason also has one NFL fumble recovery (1978) to his credit in addition to the following stats.

Archie Reese • 78

DEFENSIVE TACKLE • CLEMSON • 4TH YEAR
HT: 6-3 • WT: 262 • BORN: 2-4-56 • (D-5A IN '78)

PRO: Archie Reese is the quintessential hard-working, spirited player in the NFL. "Archie always puts forth a tremendous effort," says Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is dedicated, spirited and a natural leader. He is a hard worker who plays with great determination." Archie is the defensive team captain and his teammates voted him the winner of the 1980 Len Eshmont Award (see page 129). "Hard work pays off," admits the former walk-on at Clemson. "When you work as hard as I have in life, you'll find that good things have to happen to you." And, they have. Archie originally was acquired by San Francisco as a fifth round draft choice in 1978. He earned his first start against Cincinnati in the fifth week of his rookie season as a defensive end. Reese, who has never missed a game as a 49er, finished his first season with 71 total tackles, six sacks (for 43 yards) and three fumble recoveries, among other stats. His best two statistical games in '78 were at Washington (4 tackles, 4 assists, and 2 sacks for minus-8 yards) and versus Los Angeles (6 tackles and 1 assist). He was a starter at defensive end for the Niners in '79, too, and totaled 53 stops, recorded one blocked PAT (against Atlanta), and had 4½ sacks for minus-33 yards. Last year, he and Jimmy Webb traded positions (Webb moved to defensive end and Reese was switched to defensive tackle/nose tackle in the 4-3 and 3-4 defenses, respectively) ... and Archie seemed a little more at home. He finished with 90 total tackles, a fumble recovery and 4½ sacks for 20 yards in losses. He had 12 tackles against Tampa Bay, ten versus Atlanta, and seven solo stops at Dallas. Reese produced 2½ of his season total sacks against the New York Giants. He first saw action at nose tackle at Detroit and recorded six solo tackles, one assist, one pass defensed and one sack for minus-seven yards in a great individual performance.

COLLEGE: A defensive tackle at Clemson, Archie came from being a walk-on to leading his Tiger teammates to a Gator Bowl game with Pittsburgh in his senior season. As a senior, Reese was in on 107 tackles (81 solo, 26 assists), including 16 tackles for losses, and broke up three passes and recovered one fumble.

PERSONAL: He was born Archie Ronald Bernard Reese at Mayesville, South Carolina, and grew up there. He attended Mayesville High School, and was a combination tackle/punter-place kicker. A second cousin who played for the Tigers got Archie interested in Clemson and his mother talked him "into going to college and not enlisting in the U.S. Army." He returned to Clemson during the off-season to work on his degree. He is single and calls Mountain View, California, home.

Jack Reynolds • 64

LINEBACKER • TENNESSEE • 12TH YEAR
HT: 6-1 • WT: 232 • BORN: 11-22-47 • (FA IN '81)

PRO: The 49ers acquired 33-year-old Pro Bowl linebacker Jack Reynolds as a free agent in late June. Reynolds, who has spent 11 years in the NFL with Los Angeles, the last eight as the starting middle linebacker for the Rams, was named to the Pro Bowl after the 1980 season, the second time he was voted that honor during his career (he also was named following the '76 season). Though the Rams replaced Reynolds in the lineup on most passing downs a year ago, still he led the team in solo and total tackles with 81 and 119, respectively. He also intercepted a pass and returned it eight yards, recovered two fumbles and forced a fumble. So why was he a free agent, cast loose by the Rams? Because his contract demands were not what the Rams wanted to pay Reynolds in '81, and the Los Angeles club also is ready to place young Carl Ekern into its starting lineup at middle linebacker. So where will Reynolds fit into the 49ers' scheme? "At inside linebacker in the 3-4," reports Coach-GM Bill Walsh, who signed Reynolds to a three-year pact that stipulates the rugged veteran still must make the 49ers' final 45-man squad each year. "We're hoping to switch to the 3-4 full-time this year," added Walsh, "and Jack can play in there with our other veterans, Dan Bunz, Scott Hilton and Terry Tautolo, and with second-year man Craig Puki. Or he'll be the middle linebacker if we have to return to the 4-3. Mostly, he'll give us leadership and experience in big games. He's played in plenty of those with the Rams."

COLLEGE: Reynolds was selected All-SEC at Tennessee and played in the 1970 College All-Star game. Los Angeles made him its 1B pick in the '70 draft. He played all 16 games last year, the third consecutive season he started all 16 in the middle for the Rams. Jack was named All-NFC by The Sporting News and UPI following the '79 season, which oddly was the only year in the last six (except for an injury-filled '77 season) when he didn't lead the Rams in tackling.

PERSONAL: Nicknamed "Hacksaw" because he hacksawed his 1953 Chevy in half following a Tennessee loss to Mississippi, Jack was born in Cincinnati, where he attended Western Hills High School. He and his wife, Pat, Have a home in Huntington Beach, California, and are building another home on San Salvador Island in The Bahamas.

Ray Rhodes • 26

CORNERBACK • TULSA • 8TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 185 • BORN: 10-20-50 • (TRADE IN '80)
PRO: Sometimes The Best Defense Is A Good Offense, or in the case of 49ers' Cornerback Ray Rhodes, A Good Defender Was Once The Best On Offense! Rhodes is, in fact, a converted wide receiver who once led the NFC in average-yardage-per-catch. Instead of catching them, his job now is to bat them down. Ray originally was a tenth round draft choice of the New York Giants in 1974. He was drafted by New York as a wide receiver and used as a receiver, at running back and as a punt return specialist. In 1975, he concentrated on pass catching only and led the NFC with a 20.7 average per reception. In '76, the Giants rushed him twice and threw to him 16 times before switching him to defensive back in 1977 (a position he has played since). San Francisco acquired Rhodes (along with Jimmy Robinson) in a trade with New York that sent Mike Hogan and Tony Dungy to the Big Apple prior to the 1980 season. He finished 1980 with 42 total tackles, four passes defensed, one forced fumble, one fumble recovery, and one pass interception. "Ray is a smart veteran player and an inspiration to the other players on the roster," says Bill Walsh of his cornerback. "His experience is invaluable and he is a highly dedicated athlete. In 1981, he'll be like a coach on the field for our young defensive backfield. He's a very positive influence on the team." The majority of Ray's '80 stats came in the latter portion of the slate (after he became accustomed to the Niners' system and shook early season injuries). During those final six games of the year, he earned 29 of his total tackles (23 of 32 solo tackles), nabbed his one interception, recovered a fumble, and batted down a pass.

COLLEGE: Ray's pro career is sort of a replay of his collegiate days when he played two years of running back at Texas Christian before transferring to Tulsa where he was a wide receiver, kick returner, and defensive back. He also earned letters in track and field at Tulsa. Rhodes rushed for 786 yards and a 4.9 average for his best rushing season (sophomore year at TCU), and hauled in 43 passes for five scores from quarterback Drew Pearson (present Dallas wide receiver) at Tulsa.

PERSONAL: A native of Mexia, Texas, Ray and his wife, Carmen, have three daughters—Detra (11-4-69), Candra (5-23-76) and Tynesha (9-10-79)—and make their off-season home in Teaneck, New Jersey. Ray plays several musical instruments, including trumpet, trombone and french horn. His longest NFL interception return is 40 yards, but he once took a lateral from teammate Clyde Powers after an interception for the Giants and returned it 56 yards against Tampa Bay.

WIDE RECEIVER • TAMPA • 7TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 188 • BORN: 1-11-53 • (TRADE IN '78)

PRO: Forty Niners Coach-GM Bill Walsh feels that Freddie Solomon has grown up as a pro player. "Last year I said Freddie had his best season as a pro in 1979," relates Walsh. "Well, in 1980, he was even better. He should be a vital part of the 49ers' offense again in 1981 and probably for a number of years to come. I feel he has matured. He has not reached his full potential, but he has grown up as an NFL player." Over the past three seasons with the 49ers, Solomon has touched the ball on 240 plays (counting passing, receiving, rushing, punt returns, and kickoff returns), and he has accounted for 2,767 yards for an average gain of 11.5 yards each time he touches the ball. The majority of that yardage has come via punt returns (60 returns for 475 yards at San Francisco), where he is the current leader among active NFL punt returners, and pass receiving (136 catches for 1,923 yards with the Niners). Freddie originally was drafted 2-A by Miami (with a pick the Dolphins received in a trade with Green Bay for quarterback Jim Del Gaizo) in the 1975 NFL draft. He played three seasons in Miami (totaling 190 yards in 14 rushes, 973 yards on 61 catches, 810 yards via 71 punt returns, and 633 yards in 28 kickoff returns), before coming to San Francisco with Vern Roberson and two draft picks for Delvin Williams prior to the 1978 season. He was named All-NFC as a punt returner on Pro-Football Weekly's 1980 squad. Solomon became the first 49er in history to return two punts for touchdowns in a season last year.

COLLEGE: Solomon played quarterback at the University of Tampa for four years (1971-74), rushing for 39 touchdowns and passing for 11 during his career. He had 17 games with 100-or-more-yards rushing and his career totals were 3,299 yards on 557 carries and 2,504 yards on 188 completions in 436 attempts. He played in the College All-Star Game in 1975.

PERSONAL: Freddie once had an amazing 252-yard, three TD game against Buffalo (1976) when he scored on a 79-yard punt return, a 59-yard flanker reverse, and a 53-yard pass reception for the Miami Dolphins. Born in Sumter, South Carolina, he grew up and attended high school there, too. He and his wife, Delilah, make their off-season home in Tampa, Florida. He was named to the NFL All-Rookie Team at Miami in '75.

Jim Stuckey • 79

DEFENSIVE END • CLEMSON • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 251 • BORN: 6-21-58 • (D-1B IN '80)

PRO: The NFL can mature an athlete fast! Just ask Jim Stuckey. "When Dwaine Board was lost for the season, I was thrust into a role that I had hoped to gradually come into," says the 23-year-old. "I had to perform, and I know I did the best I could under the circumstances. I had to grow up fast, get on the ball, set my priorities, and realize that I had a contribution to make to this team." Ignoring an ankle injury and a hip pointer (that hampered him through most of the season) and the pressures that go with an initial NFL campaign, Stuckey played well enough in 1980 to lead the team in quarterback sacks (with 8½) and earn NFL All-Rookie Honors. Stuckey was the 49ers' 1B choice (20th pick overall) in the '80 NFL draft. He finished '80 with 48 total tackles and two deflected passes. Jim became a starter in Game 4 (starting nine of the 16 games he played in), fought off the aforementioned injuries and started the final eight games of the season. He had five total tackles in five different games, including five solo stops versus New Orleans in Game 14. "Jim met all expectations as a rookie defensive end," says his coach, Bill Walsh. "He played through nagging injuries early and made great progress at the end of the season."

COLLEGE: Stuckey was a two-year All-America at Clemson and one of 12 finalists for the Lombardi Trophy. He was All-Atlantic Coast Conference three straight seasons. In four seasons with the Tigers (he became a starter in the eighth game of his freshman year), he piled up 267 tackles, including 146 unassisted stops and 121 assists. He had 28 tackles for losses, battled down four passes, recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass. He played in the Senior and Hula Bowls.

PERSONAL: A bachelor, Stuckey was born in Columbia, South Carolina, and grew up in Cayce, South Carolina. He attended Airport High in Cayce and makes his off-season home there. He returned to Clemson during the off-season to finish his degree requirements.

Terry Tautolo • 50

LINEBACKER • UCLA • 6TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 235 • BORN: 8-30-54 • (FA IN '80)

PRO: From an "unemployed" free agent to a starter in the NFL is the manner in which Terry Tautolo spent his 1980 fall. He was signed on Saturday, September 20, and was in uniform when the 49ers took the field against the New York

TAUTOLO, Cont.

Jets in Shea Stadium the next day. Before the '80 campaign came to an end, Terry was a starter, getting the call in four of the final six games. Originally drafted in the 13th round by Philadelphia in 1976, Tautolo played in 59 games for the Eagles over four years. He was traded to Chicago in the pre-season of 1980 and released by the Bears prior to the start of the regular season. He was at home in Long Beach, California, when the 49ers contacted him. Terry finished 1980 with 76 total tackles. In his final campaign at Philadelphia, Terry started eight games at inside linebacker in place of injured Bill Bergey and was credited with 37 solo tackles, 22 assists and a fumble recovery. He also captained the Eagles' special teams that year. His 40 speed is 4.8.

COLLEGE: A transfer from Long Beach City College, Terry played for Dick Vermeil (Philadelphia Eagles) at UCLA. He played for the 1976 Rose Bowl Championship team and led that year's Bruins squad with 117 tackles. He had a season high of 15 tackles against USC. He majored in kinesiology at UCLA.

PERSONAL: Tautolo (pronounced: Ta-TOE-low) was born in Corona, California, and is of Samoan decent. He is the cousin of Manu Tuiasisopo (Seattle Seahawks), Frank Manumaleuga (Kansas City Chiefs), Jack Thompson (Cincinnati Bengals), Wilson Faumuina (Atlanta Falcons), and Mosi Tatupu (New England Patriots). He calls Long Beach, California, his home and attended R.A. Millikan High School there. In addition to the following stats, Terry also returned three kicks 45 yards in 1978 for the Eagles.

Keena Turner ● 58

LINEBACKER ● PURDUE ● 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-2 ● WT: 219 ● BORN: 10-22-58 ● (D-2 IN '80)

PRO: "Keena Turner probably has more potential than anyone on the team ... at any position ... offense or defense," praises Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "He is capable of being a top NFL linebacker, without a doubt." Keena came to the 49ers in 1980 as the team's No. 3 draft choice (second round), and exhibited great potential from the start. He played in all 16 games as a rookie and started four times (after an injury sidelined veteran Willie Harper). "Turner plays very comparable football to Harper," explains Walsh. "Some would even say superior football." High praise, indeed, for a mere rookie. Keena finished the slate with 48 total tackles (22 coming in the final four games of the season—his four starts) and two interceptions for 15 yards in returns. His top two games statistically were against New Orleans (6 tackles, 2 assists) and in his first start against New England (3 tackles, 3 assists, 1 game-clinching interception for 4 yards). Norb Hecker, 49ers' linebackers coach, evaluated Turner's rookie season by saying: "Keena is an excellent special teams player and was a valuable back-up player behind Harper in 1980. He had a groin pull during the first of the season that slowed him, but once healthy, he learned from his experience and playing time, and really developed."

COLLEGE: Turner was a two-time All-America and an All-Big Ten pick as tri-captain for Purdue. Boilermaker MVP as a junior, his senior stats included 11 tackles against UCLA, ten tackles, two QB sacks and two forced fumbles versus Ohio State, and 11 tackles against Illinois. He had 57 tackles for losses totaling 345 yards during his three years as a starter. Keena played in the Japan Bowl and the Hula Bowl following his career. He played defensive end in college.

PERSONAL: Keena is a product of Chicago's Vocational High School (CVS)— the same school that produced Dick Butkus (Chicago Bears) for the football world. About his unique first name, Keena, he explains: "My mother claims it's an Indian name she heard once and just liked." He was born in Chicago.

Jimmy Webb • 74

DEFENSIVE END • MISSISSIPPI STATE • 7TH YEAR
HT: 6-5 • WT: 245 • BORN: 4-13-52 • (D-1 IN '75)

PRO: Jimmy Webb is the type of player that every team needs, "a veteran player and an inspirational leader," according to 49ers' mentor Bill Walsh. Webb, who was the Niners' No. 1 pick in 1975, has played every position in the defensive line since coming to San Francisco from Mississippi State as a defensive end/defensive tackle seven years ago. "He is the most intelligent defensive lineman on the squad," says Defensive Line Coach Bill McPherson, "a very competitive player, and most coachable ..." Webb, who switched to defensive end with the Niners in 1980 (after five years of defensive tackle play), recorded 40 total tackles last year, along with four and one-half sacks for minus-38 yards. His first start as a 49er came in Game 11 of '75, his rookie season, at Philadelphia. Jimmy has played in 90 consecutive regular season games and, until breaking his hand at mid-season in '80, had started 73 straight times (he still played in all 16 games in '80). Among his career highlights are games against the New York Giants (2 solo stops, 4 assists, and 3 sacks for 34 yards) in 1976, the Rams (7 unassisted tackles) at Los Angeles in 1978, and against Atlanta (4 total tackles, a sack for 11 yards, and a blocked PAT) in 1979.

COLLEGE: Webb played both end and tackle on defense for Mississippi State, earning All-Southern Conference and All-America honors as a senior. He played in the Senior Bowl and the College All-Star game to finish up his Bulldog career.

PERSONAL: Jimmy was born in Jackson, Mississippi, and grew up in Florence, Mississippi. He attended Florence High School. He and his wife, Cindy, have twin sons—Joshua and Micah (11-6-77). The Webbs call Starkville, Mississippi, home in the off-season, and Jimmy is working on his D.V.M. (doctor of veterinary medicine).

Ray Wersching • 14

PLACE KICKER • CALIFORNIA • 9TH YEAR
HT: 5-11 • WT: 210 • BORN: 8-21-50 • (FA IN '77)

PRO: Many players have held the title from time to time with different teams, but for now at least Place Kicker Ray Wersching has a good claim on the moniker of "Mr. Clutch" of the 49ers. It was his instep that finally gave San Francisco the historical 38-35 overtime win against New Orleans Dec. 7, 1980 (it goes down in NFL history as the "biggest comeback win" ever—San Francisco was down 28 points and came back to win the game) and made him the only NFL player to kick overtime field goals for wins in two games against the same team (he beat the Saints in the Superdome in 1977 in a similar fashion). Ray rated tops in the NFC (for the second straight year) and No. 2 in the NFL in field goal accuracy in '80 (15 of 19 with no misses inside 30 yards), and he totaled a club high 78 points last season (to pace the Niners for the third consecutive year). "He has tremendous poise and is capable of winning many games for us due to his poise and accuracy," claims Coach-GM Bill Walsh. "Mr. Clutch's" reply is simply: "I learned that whatever else happens, I don't have to put pressure on myself. I know what I'm supposed to do, I keep myself ready, and I go out there and try to do it, but I don't make it any more dramatic than that." Originally, Ray was signed as a free agent by Atlanta in 1971 and released that same season. He was signed as a free agent by San Diego in 1973 (released and re-signed by the Chargers in 1976) and released by San Diego in 1977. San Francisco signed him as a free agent with ten games left in '77. Wersching thus found a permanent NFL home in the Bay Area. In his 109 NFL games over the last eight seasons, Wersching has connected on 92 of 151 field goal attempts and on 159 of 174 PAT tries. He has sidewinded to 435 career points. He kicked a 50-yard field goal in his first appearance as a 49er in 1977.

COLLEGE: Ray attended Cerritos JC and the University of California and had outstanding careers at both schools.

PERSONAL: He was born Raimund Wersching in Mondsee, Austria, and graduated with a B.S. degree in accounting from Cal. He grew up in California and attended Earl Warren High School in Downey, California. He works as a CPA for Price Waterhouse Company in San Diego during the off-season. He and his wife, Diane, make their home in nearby Leucadia, California.

Jerry Wilkinson • 66

DEFENSIVE END • OREGON STATE • 3RD YEAR
HT: 6-9 • WT: 260 • BORN: 2-27-56 • (FA during '80)

PRO: Jerry Wilkinson has a chance to be a big surprise on the 1981 49ers. The San Francisco Bay Area product from San Mateo High School was vying for a spot on the final roster as both a defensive end, his normal position, and defensive tackle as training camp opened this year. At 6-9, the tallest 49er in history along with former tackle Bob St. Clair, and 260 pounds—with the capacity to add more bulk to his tall frame—Wilkinson, it is believed, can be an effective inside pass rusher at tackle. "He has a chance at that spot," says Defensive Line Coach Bill McPherson. "Really, he's a pretty good defensive end too, but we need him to show us he can play at tackle." Wilkinson spent his first NFL season backing up Pro Bowler Jack Youngblood at defensive end for the Rams, appearing in all 16 games in 1979 after being a fourth round draft choice from Oregon State that year (he had three tackles and a QB sack). He was waived during pre-season last year, claimed by the Browns, then waived again after eight games with Cleveland. He joined the 49ers for the final six games of '80, but played sparingly, notching only one tackle for the season in San Francisco. "This is my home, it's a big opportunity for me," said Wilkinson.

COLLEGE: Wilkinson was a three-year letterman at Oregon State and was named All-Coast by UPI his senior season. He also played in the East-West Shrine game at Stanford that year and the Challenge Bowl. His degree from OSU is in speech communications.

PERSONAL: Originally a high school basketball star, Jerry did not play football as a schoolboy until his senior year. He also lettered in track and field at San Mateo High, a town that nearly reaches the shadows of San Francisco's Candlestick Park. Jerry and his wife, Brenda, make their year-round home in Corvalis, Oregon. He also is active in gymnastics and writes poetry as a hobby.

Herb Williams • 23

SAFETY • SOUTHERN • 2ND YEAR
HT: 6-0 • WT: 198 • BORN: 8-30-58 • (D-6 FOR '80)

PRO: Herb Williams appeared in nine games for the 49ers in 1980 after coming off the injured reserve list (shoulder injury) during the season's seventh week. He saw action in the secondary in just one game, but made the most of it by racking up five tackles and defensing a pass (after replacing an injured Ricky Churchman in the next-to-last game at Atlanta). "Herb is a hitter and he has good size to play safety in the NFL," says Bill Walsh. "He's raw, and his lack of experience last year kept him from gaining much playing time. He'll be in a lot of competition to make this year's team, but he has an above average chance." Defensive Backs Coach George Seifert says Williams has "positive characteristics from which to build" and ticks them off ... "good size, strength and excellent straight-ahead speed." Williams played very well on special teams for the Niners a year ago, especially in punt and kickoff coverage.

COLLEGE: Williams led his small college team, Southern University of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, in tackles as a junior and senior. He had 44 tackles as a junior and 47 as a senior. He also had the highest academic average on Southern's team in 1979 (3.5 in physical education). He captained the Southern secondary in '79 that led all NCAA Division 1-AA teams in pass defense. He also played in the Black College All-Star Game that fall.

PERSONAL: A native of Louisiana, where he returned during the off-season, Williams attended McKinley High School in Baton Rouge. He was born in Lafayette, Louisiana. A bachelor, he was one of two members of the 1979 Southern team drafted by the 49ers last year. The other was defensive tackle Ken Times, who was waived early in the regular season a year ago.

Don Woods • 47

RUNNING BACK • NEW MEXICO • 8TH YEAR
HT: 6-2 • WT: 204 • BORN: 2-17-51 • (FA during '80)

PRO: Six weeks into the 1980 regular season, the 49ers acquired running back Don Woods as a free agent. Waived by his long-time team, the San Diego Chargers, during training camp last summer, Woods appeared to be out of football for good. But the classy veteran responded when Bill Walsh called for help following the season-ending knee injury to Paul Hofer in Week 6 last year. Walsh and Woods had worked together in 1976 when the former was the Chargers' offensive coordinator and Woods was San Diego's star halfback, although Woods' rushing production that year fell to 450 yards because of injuries. Woods rushed for 1,162 yards his rookie year in San Diego in 1974, at that time the most rushing yardage ever by a rookie, and was named NFL Rookie-of-the-Year. Last year, in ten games with the 49ers (five as a starter), he rushed 50 times for 229 yards (a 4.6 average) and caught 20 passes for 171 yards (8.6 average). Don missed the final game of the year against Buffalo with fractured ribs. "Don can play halfback or fullback and contributed a lot to us last year, both with his play and attitude," related Walsh. "He's never come completely back from a serious knee injury several years ago, but he can do some things to help a team, as he did for us last season."

COLLEGE: Woods played quarterback at New Mexico Highlands, setting an NAIA record for total yards in 1972 with 2,206. After Highlands dropped football, he enrolled at New Mexico and rushed for 971 yards in 1973 and added 869 yards passing that year.

PERSONAL: Born Donald Ray Woods in Denton, Texas, he and his wife, Linda, have two children, Donald, Jr. (8/12/77) and Tatasha (2/17/75, same birthday as Don). They live in San Diego throughout the year. Prior to his great rookie season, Don was selected by Green Bay in the sixth round of the NFL draft that spring, then placed on waivers during training camp. The Chargers claimed Woods, and because of injuries, he moved into their starting lineup to win the league's top rookie honor.

Charle Young • 86

TIGHT END • USC • 9TH YEAR
HT: 6-4 • WT: 234 • BORN: 2-5-51 • (TRADE IN '80)
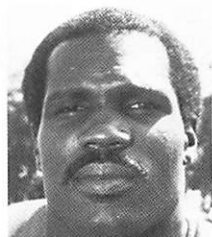

PRO: Veteran tight end Charle Young was rejuvenated by the 49ers in 1980 as the former NFL Rookie-of-the-Year (1973 with the Eagles) started 15 of 16 games and caught 29 passes for 325 yards (an average of 11.2 per reception) and two touchdowns. But what about leaving the Rams, for whom he played from 1977 through '79, a team that went to the Super Bowl his final season there, for the rebuilding 49ers? At age 29? "Actually, it was the best thing for me," explains Young, who never was a starter in Los Angeles after catching 197 passes (including 63 in 1974) in four seasons with Philadelphia. "Those Rams' years were three of the most productive of my life." Only Charle Young could say something so seemingly illogical, and have it make sense. He explains, "I learned patience, to persevere, to cope and deal with problems. When a man can deal with the situation I was in with the Rams, it tells something about that man's character. Besides, playing so little for them probably added three years to my career." A consensus All-America at USC where he was considered by many to be the greatest tight end in collegiate history, Young added a dozen TD receptions to his Philly pro totals, then tailed off to just 36 receptions, three for touchdowns, during his Rams' stint, where he was a back-up to starter Terry Nelson. Young's 49er efforts a year ago were not lost on Bill Walsh: "He made a real contribution to the team, and will make an even larger contribution in the future. Charle is dedicated and has the leadership qualities you need from veteran players." Originally drafted No. 1 by the Eagles in 1973, Young was traded by Philadelphia to Los Angeles in 1977. The 49ers acquired him through a trade in '80 with the Rams for a 1983 draft choice.

COLLEGE: In addition to his consensus All-America honors his senior year at USC in 1972, Young helped lead the Trojans to the national championship that fall. He is the top pass-catching tight end in Southern Cal history. At the conclusion of his career, Charle played in the Hula Bowl, Coaches All-America game and the 1973 College All-Star game against the World Champion Miami Dolphins.

YOUNG, Cont.

PERSONAL: A product of Edison High School in Fresno, California, Young is an ordained minister who is ultra-active in youth and charity work. He and his wife, Colleen, reside with son Charles II (12/24/75) and daughter Candace Euphrates (1/9/79) in Belmont, California. Young was traded to the Rams March 10, 1977, for quarterback Ron Jaworski in a deal that saw both teams trade their compensation rights for the two players, who both were unsigned free agents at the time. Young's full name is Charles Edward Young but he prefers to drop the letter "s" from Charles. He was All-Pro in '74 and '75. Charle was born in Fresno.

Other 49ers With Pro Experience

LEO BIEDERMANN, a 6-8, 265-pound offensive tackle, played the 1978 season with the Cleveland Browns, then was in Cleveland's final pre-season cut in 1979. He was in Philadelphia's camp a year ago and was in the final cut there. Biedermann is from nearby Daly City, California, attended Diablo Valley Junior College in the Bay Area, and the University of California. He was the Browns' No. 12 draft choice in '78.

JOHN CHOMA, an offensive line candidate at tackle, guard and center, was the San Diego Chargers' No. 5 draft choice in 1978, and he spent time in Chargers' training camp in both '78 and '79. He also had a training camp look with the Chiefs in 1980. A 6-6, 261-pounder who is most experienced at guard, Choma is from Parma, Ohio, and attended the University of Virginia.

KEVIN COLE, a running back from San Jose State, played for the British Columbia Lions in the CFL for a short time last fall after going to training camp with the Philadelphia Eagles. The 6-foot, 190-pound running back is a Michigan product who went to Harbor JC before enrolling at San Jose State, where his senior year of football was 1979.

FRED DeBERNARDI, a former defensive end with the Kansas City Chiefs in the mid-'70s, was invited to the 49ers' training camp this summer as a punter-place kicker. He punted in the Minor League Football All-Star East-West game last year in New Orleans after playing for the Baltimore Eagles in the Atlantic Conference in '80. DeBernardi, 6-5, 230, attended Texas-El Paso where he was the NCAA shot put and discus national champion in 1973. He hails from Santa Monica, California.

ROBERT GAINES, who is known by his nickname, "Spider", has been invited to training camp as a wide receiver-kick returner candidate. The rangy 6-3, 190 pounder is from the University of Washington, where he was a world class hurdler in track and field. A product of Kennedy High in Richmond, California, Gaines was drafted in the sixth round by the Chiefs in 1979 but missed that season on injured reserve because of a non-football related knee injury.

WILBERT HASLIP, a 5-11, 215-pound fullback, is making his fourth NFL attempt to stick after being in camp with the Chargers in 1979 and the Chiefs in both '79 and '80. He attended the University of Hawaii after graduating from Santa Ana High School in Santa Ana, California.

SALADIN MARTIN, a speedster from San Diego State, was in the New York Jets pre-season camp last summer. The 6-1, 180 pounder attended Lincoln High in San Diego, then went to San Diego City College before transfering to San Diego State for his final two years.

RON McCALL, a 6-2, 197-pound wide receiver from the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, is related to tight end Reese McCall of the Colts. He is from Bess, Alabama, and was an NAIA All-America his senior year at Arkansas-PB. Pittsburgh drafted him on the ninth round of the '80 draft, and he lasted with the Steelers through most of pre-season last summer.

LARRY MUCKER, an NFL veteran of four seasons with Tampa Bay, was released by the Bucs last year following seven games. He caught two passes for 37 yards in those contests. Mucker is a product of Arizona State University and from McLane High in Fresno, California. He has caught a total of 48 passes, five for touchdowns, in his NFL career. Mucker is 5-11, 180.

JIM NICHOLSON is a 6-6, 275-pound giant who was a six-year starter at right tackle for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1974 through '79. He spent last year on the San Diego Chargers' injured reserve with a knee injury and was not offered a contract by the Chargers this spring, which made him a free agent. He signed with the 49ers in late June. A product of St. Louis High School in Honolulu, Hawaii, he attended Michigan State and was a ninth round pick of the Rams in '73, a year he spent on injured reserve before being traded to the Chiefs to begin the 1974 season.

GUS PARHAM played minor league football in 1980 with the Twin Cities Cougars after trying out with the Philadelphia Eagles in '79. Parham is a 6-6, 260-pound defensive tackle who originally is from Detroit. He attended San Jose State University, where he played two varsity seasons, 1977 and '78.

BILL RING, a 5-10, 215-pound running back from Brigham Young, made it to the Pittsburgh Steelers' next-to-last cut in 1980 after signing with the Steelers as a free agent. He is a local product, having graduated from Carlmont High in Belmont, California. Ring played two years at San Mateo JC before transferring to BYU, where he rushed for 782 career yards, averaging 4.5 yards per carry, and was the MVP in the 1979 Japan Bowl.

CHARLES STONE, a product of North Carolina State, was the 12th round draft choice of the Miami Dolphins in 1980. He was released by Miami late in August a year ago. The 6-2, 255-pounder is a guard. He originally is from Bucyrus, Ohio.

GEORGE VISGER, a 6-4, 255-pound defensive tackle, appeared in one game for the 49ers last year after dressing out for three, which makes him a second-year player in '81. Visger graduated from Colorado and was a 6A draft choice of the Jets a year ago. He hails from Amos Alonzo Stagg High in Stockton, California.

HARRY WASHINGTON, a wide receiver from Colorado State, played portions of two seasons in 1978 and '79 with the Vikings and Bears. He also played for the Pierce County Bengals, a minor league football club, two years ago. The 6-foot, 180 pounder is a product of Tacoma, Washington. He signed with the Vikings in '78 as a free agent.

EDDY WHITLEY, a 6-3, 230-pound tight end and the cousin of defensive tackle Wilson Whitley of the Bengals, was the Colts' 11th round draft selection a year ago. While a four-year performer at Kansas State, he caught 46 passes for 587 yards and four touchdowns and played in the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl games as a senior. Also, he played high school football at Port Arthur, Texas, with 49ers' linebacker Bobby Leopold.

ROOKIES
(1981 Draftees)

Lott

Harty

RONNIE LOTT • CORNERBACK-SAFETY • USC
HT: 6-0 • WT: 199 • BORN: 5/8/59 • DRAFTED: 1

Ronnie Lott was being hailed as the finest athlete on the 1981 49ers' roster as early as draft day this spring. "He may just be the best athlete this club has at this point in time," said Coach-GM Bill Walsh upon the selection of Lott by the Niners.

A consensus All-America, Lott was the No. 8 player picked in the 1981 NFL draft. He used his 4.57 speed and hard hitting tackling talents to be named first team All-America by AP, Football News, UPI, Sporting News, NEA, College and Pro Football Newsweekly, Football Writers, Walter Camp and Football Coaches.

He had 86 tackles (five for losses) last year, giving him 250 in his four-year career at Troy. Rated fourth in career pass interceptions at USC with 14 (two for TDs), Lott ranked second in the nation and No. 1 in the Pac-10 in 1980 with eight interceptions for 166 yards (20.7 average per return).

In 1980, Lott also added three fumble recoveries, giving him 10 for his career, and he had 16 passes defensed (37 in his career).

The All-Pac 10 performer was Southern Cal's MVP in 1980 and won the award as the team's Most Inspirational Player as well. An all-round athlete, Lott also played basketball for the Trojan varsity in 1979-80, as a junior.

A product of Rialto, Calif., Lott played in the 1981 Hula Bowl and the '81 Japan Bowl to finish up a brilliant collegiate career.

He was born in Albuquerque, N.M., in 1959. He majored in public administration at USC.

JOHN HARTY • DEFENSIVE TACKLE • IOWA
HT: 6-4 • WT: 253 • BORN: 12/17/58 • DRAFTED: 2A

The 49ers were pleasantly surprised when John Harty's name still appeared on the draft board as time came for the Niners to make the 36th selection in the draft. San Francisco had acquired that second-round pick in a trade last summer that saw fullback Wilbur Jackson go to the Washington Redskins.

"I was pleased and surprised to see John there in the second round," said Walsh. "We had him rated at the top among prospective nose tackle candidates coming out of college this year."

Named to several all-star teams last fall, including UPI, NEA and College and Pro Football Newsweekly's second team All-America squads, Harty also received All-Big Ten honors in each of his four seasons at Iowa (including first team UPI in '80). He captained the Hawkeyes last fall and played in the Blue-Gray and Japan Bowl games to top off his Iowa career.

The big lineman had 58 tackles for Iowa in 1980, including 37 unassisted stops and 21 assisted tackles. He made six tackles for losses totaling 49 yards. For his career, Harty accumulated 232 total tackles, including 136 solo stops. His individual game-high tackling performance was 11 versus Indiana in a 1979 game. He also had nine tackles in games against Nebraska and Iowa State.

Harty, 22, is from Sioux City, Iowa, where he was a three-sport performer (football, basketball, track and field) at Heelan High School.

ERIC WRIGHT • CORNERBACK-SAFETY • MISSOURI
HT: 6-1 • WT: 180 • BORN: 4/18/59 • DRAFTED: 2B

"We feel Eric Wright can play cornerback in the NFL," said Walsh following the selection of the All-America athlete from Missouri. "He was a free safety throughout college but has the speed and agility to be a pro corner."

San Francisco tabbed Wright as the 40th player in the draft after the 49ers had traded the 38th choice (their own) to Chicago for the 40th and a fifth round pick (122nd overall). Wright was San Francisco's second, second round selection.

Wright hails from East St. Louis, Illinois, and was a three-year starter at Mizzou. He was AP and UPI first team All-America as a junior when he notched a career-high 55 tackles. He made honorable mention All-America last fall on the AP and Sporting News teams and played cornerback for the North squad (coached by the 49ers' coaching staff) at the Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala.

His senior season included a career-high five interceptions and three fumble recoveries (team high). His 47 tackles in 1980 gave him 156 for his career (including 94 unassisted). He also had 11 interceptions, seven fumble recoveries and 13 pass deflections in his career. Wright's three interceptions against San Diego State in 1979 (including a return on one for 77 yards and a score) is a Tiger record.

CARLTON WILLIAMSON • SAFETY • PITTSBURGH
HT: 6-0 • WT: 204 • BORN: 6/12/58 • DRAFTED: 3

The 49ers' third round choice was the third defensive back selected by San Francisco as Carlton Williamson of Pittsburgh was taken as the 65th player in the draft.

Williamson led all Pitt defensive backs in tackling the last two seasons after being recruited by the Panthers originally as a fullback. He switched to defense to make the travelling squad, then took over the starting strongside safety position his junior year.

Williamson, who is 6-0, 204, had a career high 65 tackles as a junior and followed that with 46 last fall. Williamson intercepted three passes in both his junior and senior seasons and had seven in his career. He also had six passes defensed and seven-and-one-half quarterback sacks for his career.

He was an All-America quarterback at Brown High School in his hometown of Atlanta, Georgia.

LYNN THOMAS • CORNERBACK • PITTSBURGH
HT: 5-11 • WT: 181 • BORN: 7/9/59 • DRAFTED: 5A

The first of two fifth round picks by the 49ers and the 121st player chosen, Lynn Thomas was taken with San Francisco's original fifth round selection.

Thomas, like Carlton Williamson, is a defensive back from Pitt. The younger brother of Norris Thomas (now with Tampa Bay after three seasons at Miami), he also is the nephew of former Kansas City Chief Jim Marsalis. Lynn's younger brother, Wallace 'Pappy' Thomas, will be a senior defensive back with the Pitt Panthers in '81.

At 5-11, 181 pounds, Thomas is agile and quick enough to run the 40 in 4.43. He led Pitt in interceptions last fall with five, giving him seven for his career. He also had 27 tackles (19 unassisted), eight passes defensed and a quarterback sack.

A three-year starter at Pitt, he was named honorable mention All-America and played in the Senior Bowl last January. He was a four-year letterman.

He is a native of Pascagoula, Mississippi.

ARRINGTON JONES • FULLBACK • WINSTON-SALEM
HT: 6-0 • WT: 230 • BORN: 2/16/59 • DRAFTED: 5B

The second of two fifth round picks by the Niners and the 122nd player chosen, Arrington Jones was taken with a choice acquired from Chicago in a trade that included San Francisco's original 2B (or 38th overall pick). The 49ers also received the No. 40 pick in the draft with that trade and used it to select Eric Wright.

Jones was used at North Carolina's Winston-Salem State University mostly as a blocking back and receiver, but he ran with the ball enough to gain 709 yards in his senior season and 2,668 (in 500 carries) in his career. He also caught 49 passes for 637 yards (234 yards in 1980) in his four seasons.
Wright　　　　　Williamson　　　　　Thomas

At 6-0 and 230 pounds, he is strong enough to bench press 380 pounds and has good quickness.

One 1980 thrill came against Livingstone College when he passed for a TD. He was the team's player-of-the-game on four occasions in '80 and played in the Blue-Gray Game.

He is from John Marshall High School in Richmond, Virginia.

PETE KUGLER • DEFENSIVE TACKLE • PENN STATE
HT: 6-4 • WT: 255 • BORN: 8/9/59 • DRAFTED: 6

The final player selected on the first day of the draft by the 49ers was Pete Kugler of Penn State. Drafted as a defensive tackle, he played both offense and defense for the Nittany Lions.

He was a defensive tackle in 1978 and then switched to offense in the spring of 1979. He started the first eight games of 1980 there before returning to defense when injuries took All-Americas Bruce Clark and Matt Millen out of the lineup. Kugler played the last four games at DT and accounted for 23 total tackles in '79.

In 1980, he was credited with 40 stops and three QB sacks. He performed in both the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl following his senior year.

A native of Cherry Hill, New Jersey, his father is the former New Jersey Attorney General under Governor William Cahill. Pete is a business administration major at Penn State.

GARRY WHITE • RUNNING BACK • MINNESOTA
HT: 5-11 • WT: 201 • BORN: 11/5/58 • DRAFTED: 8

Garry White, Minnesota's leading rusher in 1979 and '80, was selected 10th in round eight (203rd overall).

Used mostly to block for fullback Marion Barber in 1978 when Barber ran to a 1,200-yard season, White led Minnesota in rushing in '79 (861 yards, second in Big Ten) and '80 (959 yards, third in Big Ten).

He has run 9.6 seconds for 100 yards and his 40 time is 4.7. Minnesota's second all-time rusher (2,345 yards), White turned in eight 100-plus-yard games in his career and three 200-plus-yard showings. He also had 46 career pass receptions for 451 yards.

His career-best was 221 yards and one touchdown (on 34 carries) and he caught four passes for 67 yards and another score, all in the Gophers' Ohio State game in 1979. He ended his collegiate rushing career with three strong outings: 103 yards against Illinois; 145 yards versus Indiana; and 201 in a game with Michigan State. A 73-yard touchdown run against Northwestern was his career best individual effort.

The All-Big Ten performer was an AP honorable mention All-America in 1980. He is from Rockdale, Texas, and is a business administration major.

RON DeBOSE • TIGHT END • UCLA
HT: 6-5 • WT: 229 • BORN: 10/13/58 • DRAFTED: 11

With no picks in rounds nine and ten, the next Niners' selection was Ron DeBose, a tight end from UCLA, in the 11th round.

Used as UCLA's 'Zoom' back (blocking back) for extra blocking and man-in-motion on sweeps, DeBose was drafted more for his potential and size than off his college stats, despite his having led the Bruins in TD receptions in 1980.

His '80 stats included nine catches for 103 yards (11.4 average per catch) and three TD receptions. He lettered at UCLA in 1978, 1979 and '80, but played in only five games as a junior (first four and finale) due to injuries.

He was born in Los Angeles and attended Westchester High School, where he lettered in football, basketball and track and field. Ron played one season of football at Los Angeles College and was all-conference there in 1977 before transferring to UCLA in '78.

MAJOR OGILVIE • RUNNING BACK • ALABAMA
HT: 5-11 • WT: 202 • BORN: 12/12/58 • DRAFTED: 12A

The only player in the history of NCAA football to ever score one or more touchdowns in four consecutive major bowl games, Major Ogilvie was the MVP of the Cotton Bowl in 1981 and the Sugar Bowl in 1980. His late TD beat Penn State in the 1979 Sugar Bowl and his first collegiate score came against Ohio State in the 1978 Sugar Bowl.

His name by birth is Morgan Ogilvie and his brother, Ry (Riley) will be a split end for the 1981 Crimson Tide of Alabama. They are descendants of a 15th century Catholic Saint.

His 1980 stats were 78 carries in 11 games for 439 yards (5.7 average per carry in 1980, same as his career average) and eight TDs. Ogilvie's career stats included 12 receptions for 54 yards and one score and 299 carries for 1,718 yards and 25 TDs. He also returned 17 punts for 101 yards and four kickoffs for 69 yards as a senior. His 40 time is 4.73.

A four-year Alabama letterman, he attended Mountain Brook High School in his hometown of Birmingham, Alabama.

JOE ADAMS • QUARTERBACK • TENNESSEE STATE
HT: 6-3 • WT: 185 • BORN: 5/4/58 • DRAFTED: 12B

The final pick of the 1981 draft for San Francisco was Tennessee State quarterback Joe Adams as the second Niners' pick in round 12.

Adams, who fired an NCAA Division I-A national record 81 TDs in his career, was second in the country in 1980 with 30 TD passes. His 1980 stats included 333 attempts, 200 completions for 2,848 yards and a 60.1 completion percentage (all Tennessee State records, except the attempts; he set that mark in 1979 with 343).

He shattered every TSU mark previously held by Eldridge Dickey and Joe Gilliam and finished with career stats that included 604 completions in 1,100 passes for 8,653 yards and the 81 TDs.

His 1980 bests included a 412-yard, four-score game versus Alabama State and a four-TD performance against Kentucky State in the season finale. Adams also threw 37 yards for a touchdown in the 1981 Hula Bowl and had 104 yards and one TD in the '81 Black College All-Star Game.

He hails from Gulfport, Mississippi.

1981 NFL Rule Changes

Because they believe NFL football in its present form is enjoying unparalleled popularity, National Football League owners adopted only minor rule changes for the 1981 season at their annual league meetings last March.

Action taken to clarify existing rules or initiate new rules was as follows:

1. Intentional grounding penalties will result in a loss of down and the ball will be next put in play at the spot of the foul if that spot is more than 10 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

2. The penalty for offensive blocking from behind above the waist was reduced from 15 yards to 10 yards.

3. It is now illegal for players to use any form of adhesive substance while participating in a game; e.g., foreign substance such as "stickum or firm grip."

4. It is now mandatory for players who change their eligibility by virtue of a change of positions to report such change to the Referee before the start of each play.

5. The double foul without a change of possession rule has been adjusted to prevent the team which committed a minor foul from benefitting on plays that included both major and minor fouls.

6. Eliminated was the spot where possession was lost as a potential spot of enforcement for a personal foul committed prior to a completion or interception of a pass. Penalty now is assessed from the previous spot and offended team retains possession of ball.

7. Teams now are allowed to reverse their original decision to change player eligibility before the succeeding down is played, provided the team uses one of its time outs.

8. Clarification was made for the interpretation that a player would be credited with a catch as long as he controls the ball when his second foot clearly lands on the ground inbounds.

9. Approved that the penalty for defensive fouls committed behind the line when the runner or intended passer is tackled behind the line would be enforced from the spot of the foul, or the spot where the ball became dead.

The 49ers' Historical Highlights

Here are the team's historical highlights beginning with its first year in the NFL:

1950 — The 49ers fell flat on their faces in their NFL debut, winning only three games. A rival coach described them as "not big enough or tough enough."

1951 — In an amazing reversal of form sparked by a great rookie group, the 49ers were in the race to the final day and finished only a half game off the top. Led by Hardy Brown and his famed "shoulder tackle" the club had one of the toughest defensive units in the league. Y.A. Tittle and Billy Wilson began their great careers.

1952 — After a blazing start, the 49ers slumped in midseason. It can't be written off as unsuccessful for Hugh (The King) McElhenny came off the University of Washington campus to become "Player of the Year" and the most feared runner in football.

1953 — The 49ers had their best NFL showing, 9-3, normally good enough for a championship. But Detroit was 10-2. Two of the San Francisco losses came with Tittle benched because of a severe facial injury. The three defeats were by a total of nine points. Joe (Jet) Perry became one of the few players in pro history to gain more than 1,000 yards in a single season. Gordy Soltau was the league's top scorer for the second straight year.

1954 — Early momentum was broken by injuries to key players such as Tittle, McElhenny, and Joe Perry. Perry gained more than 1,000 yards again, the first man ever to achieve this distinction.

1955 — With McElhenny hobbled by a foot injury, the 49ers had their second worst season in history under Norman P. Strader who succeeded Shaw as a head coach.

1956 — In Albert's first year at the helm, the 49ers were bogged in last place at midseason with a 1-6 record. They won four and tied one of their last five games for a brilliant stretch drive.

1957 — This undoubtedly was the most emotional and dramatic season in 49ers history. Every game was a "Cliffhanger" and the "Alley-Oop" pass from Tittle to rookie R.C. Owens became a household byword. Emotions reached a peak when the beloved Tony Morabito collapsed and died of a heart attack at the Chicago Bears game on Oct. 27. Trailing 17-7, the 49ers fought back for their greatest victory of all time, 21-17. The magnificent Wilson caught a pass from Tittle for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter. Tied with Detroit at 8-4 when the season ended, the 49ers lost the playoff game, 31-27, although they held a 27-7 lead in the third quarter.

1958 — An up-and-down season which finished on a high note when Green Bay and Baltimore were defeated in the last two games. The 6-6 record, however, was blackened by the 33-3 and 56-7 lacings at the hands of Los Angeles and Albert resigned at the end of the year.

1959 — With Hickey in charge, the 49ers were in contention all the way and John Brodie came into his own at quarterback when he led the team to a 21-20 upset of Cleveland. J.D. Smith, converted from a defensive back, became the second 49er to accumulate more than 1,000 yards rushing.

1960 — Hickey saved a seemingly hopeless season when he installed his Shotgun attack and the club captured four of the last five games to finish in a tie for second place. Third-string quarterback Bobby Waters threw the passes that upset Baltimore, 30-22, in the final two minutes.

1961 — The success of Hickey's Shotgun amazed the football world, especially the 49-0 victory over Detroit. Quarterback Bill Kilmer, a passing-running rookie from UCLA, was made to order for the new offense. When the Shotgun was stopped, Brodie took over again in the T and had the finest season in 49er q.b. annals. Indicating the evenness of NFL competition, the 49ers were playing for a second-place tie, plus a trip to the Runner-up Bowl at Miami, or a fifth-place position on the last day of the season. The Colts again won by three points, but 1961 must remain as one of the most exciting and interesting years in 49ers history.

1962 — For the first time since 1956, the 49ers finished the frustrating season with more defeats than victories. In so doing, the honored adage of "it's easier to win at home than on the road," proved false — the 49ers won only one of seven at home, but captured five of seven road contests.

1963 — Injuries in multitude to key personnel started the 49ers off to a disappointing 2-12 league season. One of the victories, however, was a smashing 20-14 upset of ultimate World Champion Chicago, the only league defeat suffered by the Bears all season.

1964 — Club chief executive Victor P. Morabito died of a heart attack in May. Injury to key personnel prevented the 49ers from gaining enough offensive momentum to forge a winning season although they proved to be one of the toughest defensive clubs in the league. Outstanding rookie performances by end Dave Parks, quarterback George Mira and linebacker Dave Wilcox also took some of the sting from the 4-10 overall record.

1965 — Outstanding offensive performances enabled the 49ers to jump from the bottom to fourth place in the Western Division as the team led the NFL in both scoring and total offense. John Brodie was the most productive passer in the NFL. Dave Parks led the league in receiving and rookie Ken Willard and veteran John David Crow, acquired in an off-season trade, led a strong ground game. The over-all record was 7-6-1 and the season-opening 52-24 beating of the Chicago Bears marked the largest number of points ever scored by the 49ers in NFL play.

1966 — After a somewhat slow start, the 49ers got in gear just before midway in the season and became one of only two teams to beat the eventual World Champion Green Bay Packers. After that, they rolled to a respectable 6-6-2 record and were in the battle for second place in the Western Division until the final league game. Guard John Thomas and end Dave Parks were All Pro, and they joined guard Howard Mudd, center Bruce Bosley, fullback Ken Willard and linebacker Dave Wilcox in the Pro Bowl.

1967 — An auspicious start (they were 5-1) disintegrated into disappointment for the 49ers as injuries took a heavy toll and a six-game losing streak took them out of the running. Quarterback George Mira came off the bench to lead the squad to two season-ending victories and salvage a 7-7 record. There were bright spots however, as, with John Brodie in fine form, the 49ers were the only team to beat the power-laden Rams in a league game, guard Howard Mudd and linebacker Dave Wilcox were named to All-Pro teams, and Mudd and center Bruce Bosley played in the Pro Bowl for the second straight time.

1968 — Under new coach Dick Nolan the 49ers posted a 7-6-1 record as the season turned on key wins over New York, 26-10, and Green Bay, 27-20. Brilliant performances by QB John Brodie, receiver Clifton McNeil and running back Ken Willard led a prolific offense, while tackle Charlie Krueger, linebacker Dave Wilcox and defensive back Kermit Alexander, sparked a revitalized defense. McNeil and guard Howard Mudd were chosen All-NFL, and joined by Wilcox, Willard and Alexander in the Pro Bowl.

1969 — Beset by injuries that nearly decimated the defensive unit, the 49ers struggled through the early part of the season, went five games before beating Baltimore, the first time they had done that in 13 previous games. It got a little better after that (final record was 4-8-2) and five players — Jim Johnson, Dave Wilcox, Elmer Collett, Ken Willard and rookie Gene Washington — were selected for the Pro Bowl. Johnson was also All-Pro and winner of the Eshmont Award.

1970 — This was the greatest year since the club became a member of the NFL in 1950. The 10-3 record was the best as an NFL club, the Western Division (NFC) championship was the first in the NFL. In a season of superlatives, John Brodie was the NFL's "Player of the Year," Bruce Taylor was NFC "Rookie of the Year," coach Dick Nolan was a near-unanimous choice as NFC "Coach of the Year." Brodie, receiver Gene Washington, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jimmy Johnson were All-Pro and joined by tackle Len Rohde in being selected for the Pro Bowl.

1971 — The 49ers forged a 9-5-0 record and won their second consecutive NFC Western Division title, clinching the crown on the final day by beating Detroit, 31-27, the identical score by which the Lions had knocked the 49ers out of championship play in the bitterly-remembered 1957 game. The season was also the club's first in its plush new home, Candlestick Park. Center Forrest Blue, linebacker Dave Wilcox and cornerback Jimmy Johnson were All-Pro and joined in the Pro Bowl by Ted Kwalick, Gene Washington, Vic Washington, Cedrick Hardman and Bruce Taylor.

1972 — Early-season inconsistency compounded by an injury to John Brodie in the fifth game of the season cast a pall on 49er prospects for a third-straight NFC West title, but Steve Spurrier stepped in for Brodie and turned things around with a brilliant, poised prformance. In the final quarter of the final game the recovered Brodie relieved Steve, threw two TD passes for a 20-17 win over Minnesota that clinched NFC West title No. 3, but Spurrier's nine-game contribution was the key. Center Forrest Blue, defensive back Jimmy Johnson, tight end Ted Kwalick, wide receiver Gene Washington and linebacker Dave Wilcox were All-Pro selections.

1973 — In what was both a disappointing and significant year, the 49ers were 5-9 after tackling the NFL's toughest schedule and falling victim to a rash of key injuries and an unsettled quarterback situation. It also marked the end of the brilliant careers of quarterback John Brodie and defensive tackle Charlie Krueger, both of whom retired at year's end. Center Forrest Blue and Dave Wilcox were All-Pro and joined in the Pro Bowl by Ted Kwalick, Woody Peoples and Tom Wittum.

1974 — The 49ers used five different quarterbacks after an injury to starter Steve Spurrier a week before the season opened sidelined him for most of the year. After winning the first two games the club lost a team record seven straight and then closed with a rush, winning four of the last five games to finish the season at 6-8. Running back Wilbur Jackson was named SPORTING NEWS "Rookie of the Year" and was named to the NFL All-Rookie team along with quarterback Tom Owen and defensive back Mike Holmes. Center Forrest Blue and punter Tom Wittum were All-NFC and selected for the Pro Bowl along with Jimmy Johnson. A knee injury forced perennial All-Pro linebacker Dave Wilcox to retire after a brilliant 11-year career with the 49ers.

1975 — A strong defensive performance throughout the season couldn't offset an erratic offense troubled by an unsettled quarterback situation and a rebuilding offensive line. High point of the 5-9 season was a 24-23 win over Los Angeles in Los Angeles to end a 10-game losing streak to the Rams. At season's end, defensive end Cedrick Hardman was the club's only All-Pro selection and only player chosen for the Pro Bowl. Jimmy Johnson became the club's first-ever two-time Eshmont Award winner.

1976 — A turnaround year for the 49ers as the team, under coach Monte Clark, posted an 8-6 record, their first winning season since 1972. With new quarterback Jim Plunkett at the controls, the 49ers got off to their best start ever, 6-1, before hitting a mid-season four-game losing streak that knocked the club out of playoff contention. The season saw the emergence of a powerful defensive unit that led the league in quarterback sacks with 61. Delvin Williams set a 49ers single-season rushing record with his 1,203 yards on the ground. Tommy Hart was named All-Pro and played in the Pro Bowl along with Williams, Cleveland Elam, and Dave Washington. Center Randy Cross was a NFL All-Rookie team selection. Tommy Hart became a two-time winner of the Eshmont Award. Cornerback Jimmy Johnson retired after a brilliant 16-year career with the 49ers.

1977 — In the 32nd year of their existence, the 49ers began an all new era. On March 31, 1977, the club became the property of Edward J. DeBartolo, Jr., and came under the guidance of Joe Thomas as general manager. The changeover was made more dramatic because the San Francisco 49rs were one of the few NFL franchises which had never previously changed ownership or location. On the field, under Coach Ken Meyer, the 49ers ran hot and cold. The club lost its first five games, then won five of the next six before dropping the final three contests for a 5-9 record overall. Strong safety Mel Phillips was named winner of the coveted Eshmont Award. Cleveland Elam was slected All-Pro and played for the NFC team in the Pro Bowl.

1978 — The 49ers suffered through their longest season as the club fell to 2-14 in '78 and three coaches were hired and fired in less than 12 months. First, Pete McCulley departed after nine games with a 1-8 record, and his replacement, Fred O'Connor, was let go at the end of the year as the team won just one of its final seven contests. Bill Walsh was hired as the new Coach and General Manager on January 9, 1979, replacing O'Connor as coach and Joe Thomas as General Manager. Running back Paul Hofer, who replaced acclaimed O.J. Simpson when the newly-acquired star went to the sidelines for the year with a shoulder injury, was named recipient of the Len Eshmont Award. No 49ers received post-season honors in '78, as five starters — in addition to Simpson — were lost for the year with injuries.

1979 — The 49ers suffered through their second consecutive 2-14 season, but there were several indications of improvement. San Francisco went from virtually the worst ranked offensive team in the league in '78 to one of the most productive offensive units in the NFL in '79, ranking first in passing offense in the NFC and sixth in total offense in the NFL. Running back Paul Hofer again was the Len Eshmont Award recipient and individual leader, racking up 615 yards rushing and an additional 662 yards receiving on 58 catches in only seven starts. Quarterback Steve DeBerg broke Fran Tarkenton's NFL record for completions by connecting on 347 passes. Kicker Ray Wersching set a new club record 83.3 field goal percentage, also leading the league with that mark. No 49ers were named to the Pro Bowl squad. O.J. Simpson retired from the 49ers and the NFL, finishing as the second leading rusher of all time with 11,236 yards.

1980 — In their second season of the Bill Walsh era, the 49ers showed gradual improvement in their rebuilding program. A three-game winning streak the first three weeks of the season, combined with a three-game victory string from Week 12 through Week 14 enabled the Niners to post a 6-10 season, tripling the number of victories from each of the previous two 2-14 campaigns. Week 14 was a day when the 49ers made NFL history. That Dec. 7 in Candlestick Park, the 49ers overcame a 35-7 halftime deficit to the New Orleans Saints to win in overtime, 38-35. The 28-point comeback was the biggest points margin comeback in NFL history. The Niners also won in overtime in their '80 home opener (Week 2) when Ray Wersching, who would later win the New Orleans comeback game with a field goal, booted the game-winning three pointer in a 24-21 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The biggest victory of the season came in a 21-17 upset of New England at Candlestick on Thanksgiving weekend, a victory that helped grease the skids for the Patriots' late slide from the AFC playoff picture. No 49ers were named to the Pro Bowl squad for the third consecutive year, but Randy Cross at guard and Freddie Solomon as a punt returner were All-NFC selections by Pro Football Weekly. In addition, linebacker Bobby Leopold, defensive end Jim Stuckey and punter Jim Miller made All-Rookie teams, while another rookie, fullback Earl Cooper, led the NFC in receptions with a team-record 83, the most catches ever by an NFL rookie. Dwight Clark caught 82 passes to break the team wide receiver mark, and Joe Montana set the club passing percentage record at .645 with 176 completions in 273 attempts. Defensive tackle Archie Reese was voted the team's Len Eshmont Memorial Award winner.

Len Eshmont Award

Defensive tackle Archie Reese was awarded the coveted Len Eshmont Memorial Award for his inspired play during the 1980 football season. He was the recipient by vote of his teammates.

The team's defensive captain for '80, Reese started all 16 games at either left tackle or nose tackle, depending upon San Francisco's defensive alignment. He accumulated 58 tackles and 32 assisted tackles, both the third best totals on the team, had four and one-half quarterback sacks, two pass deflections and two fumble recoveries.

But more than any statistical achievements, Reese epitomized what the Eshmont Award really stands for—"inspirational and courageous play". Reese is all of that, and in fact, plays with such intensity that his coaches presently are trying to find a suitable backup man, so that he can take a few more breathers since every down Archie plays is to the hilt.

A secret ballot by the 49er players prior to the last game of the season determines the annual winner. Eshmont, a Fordham graduate, was a member of the original 49ers' squad in 1946. He subsequently coached at the Naval Academy and the University of Virginia before his untimely death in May of 1957. Club founder Tony Morabito established the award the same year.

Reese becomes the fourth 49er defensive lineman to be voted the award in team history. The others were Leo Nomellini (1961), Charlie Krueger (1964) and Tommy Hart (1972 and '76).

Stadium Information

The San Francisco 49ers begin their 11th year in Candlestick Park. Candlestick is one of 17 combination pro football and baseball stadiums in the United States.

The "new" Candlestick was completed in 1972 (the 49ers played in the park while it was still under construction in 1971), when it was completely encircled, carpeted with Astroturf, furnished throughout with comfortable chairs (no bleachers), and surrounded by additional parking space.

The stadium seats 61,185 for football. There are three major ticket plazas and entry levels. Every seat in the stadium is a chair-type, plastic unit for comfort and durability. Completely double-decked, the park features a 7,394-seat movable section.

In the spring of 1979, the artificial turf was replaced by natural grass, and last summer, the Giants shortened the infield (dirt surface) for baseball by cutting back the "infield arch" from 57 feet to 43 feet. They shortened the dirt area behind second base by 14 feet and the areas behind first and third by eight feet each.

1980 Achievements

When Ray Wersching kicked the winning field goal against New Orleans in overtime in the 49ers' great comeback last year, he became the first player ever in the NFL to defeat the same team twice in overtime with field goals. He first beat them in 1977 in the Superdome.

Both Earl Cooper and Freddie Solomon caught passes in all 16 games in 1980. Going into the 1981 season, Solomon now has caught passes in 17 consecutive games, Cooper in 16 and Dwight Clark in 15. The 49er record is 28, held by Danny Abramowicz.

Freddie Solomon is the first 49er ever to return punts for touchdowns twice in the same season.

ODDITIES

On December 10, 1978, when the 49ers defeated Tampa Bay 6-3 (two field goals to one), it was the first time in 49ers NFL History that an entire game was played without a touchdown being scored.

On December 8, 1957, Baltimore was awarded five downs in the final sequence of plays of the first half at Kezar Stadium.

On October 4, 1959, Y.A. Tittle's pass against the Los Angeles Rams was blocked. Tittle caught his own pass and ran for four yards.

On October 25, 1964, against Minnesota, George Mira passed to Bill Kilmer who caught the ball but fumbled when hit. Jim Marshall of Minnesota picked the ball up and ran 66 yards in the wrong direction, scoring a safety for the 49ers.

"Name" Backfields

The San Francisco 49ers have been known for their "name" backfields. From 1954 through 1956 it was "The Million Dollar Backfield" of Y.A. Tittle, Joe Perry, Hugh McElhenny and John Henry Johnson. Then, in 1960, came "The Alphabet Backfield" of Y.A. Tittle, J.D. Smith, R.C. Owens and C.R. Roberts.

The 49ers' on Radio

The 49ers' radio signal in 1981 will be the strongest in club history with KCBS Newsradio 74 beginning the first year of a new, three-year contract with the club.

The KCBS signal alone reaches 35 California counties with its 50,000 watt range. In addition, 14 stations throughout California, with one each in Reno, Nevada, and Honolulu, Hawaii, have joined the 49ers' network.

With the advent of 49ers' broadcasts on KCBS, the news that Don Klein, KCBS' sports director, is San Francisco's new radio play-by-play voice (replacing Lon Simmons, who opted to broadcast Oakland A's games this year) surprised no one close to the scene.

Klein has been the voice of the Stanford University football and basketball Cardinals for the last 25 years and is the dean of all West Coast football sportscasters. Klein also has done a number of Monday Night radio broadcasts for CBS' Monday Night football games.

He will be joined in the booth by Color Man Wayne Walker, the popular former Detroit Lions' linebacker who also is the highest rated television sports anchorman in San Francisco at KPIX-TV, Channel 5. Walker, 15 years a player with the Lions and five times All-Pro prior to his retirement in 1972 when he began television work in the Motor City, has been the 49ers' color commentator the past two years. He also handles Oakland A's baseball games on television each summer, and for several years was a CBS color commentator for NFL telecasts.

With KCBS as the flagship station at 74 am on the dial, the other stations on this year's 49ers' network include: KFBK, Sacramento (1530); KMJ, Fresno (580); KBEE, Modesto (970); KOH, Reno, Nevada (630); KINS, Eureka (980); KDAC, Ft. Bragg (1230); KWSD, Mt. Shasta (620); KSYC, Yreka (1490); KQMS, Redding (1400); KOCN, Pacific Grove and Monterey/Salinas (105FM); KBLC, Lakeport (1270); KPAY, Chico (1060); KIAH, Ukiah (103FM); and KHVH, Honolulu, Hawaii (990).

Nomellini

Former San Francisco 49er tackle Leo "The Lion" Nomellini is a member of Pro Football's Hall of Fame, but he also has another distinction. He is the only player ever to make All-Pro both on offense and defense since two-platoon all-stars have been selected. Nomellini was an All-Pro choice on offense in 1951 and 1952, then switched to defense and was an All-Pro selection in 1953, 1954, 1957 and 1959. Leo also played in 10 Pro Bowl games, two on offense, eight on defense.
