SAM WYCHE
Head Coach

Innovation, excitement, motivation, a commitment to winning and a commitment to his community - these are the things Sam Wyche has come to stand for in his 21 years in the National Football League as a player, assistant and head coach. He enters his second season as the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' head coach ready to apply his talents towards the effort to produce a successful season.

"Professional football is the greatest weekly spectacle in sport," says Wyche. "It is the essence of unpredictable competition. It can unify and galvanize a community like nothing else. I've experienced that feeling before, that special feeling when the home team turns it around, in San Francisco and Cincinnati. There is nothing I want more than to experience it here in Tampa Bay."

Wyche is one of only nine active NFL head coaches who have directed his team to a Super Bowl and, along with Dan Reeves and Tom Flores, one of only three active head coaches to participate in pro football's championship game as a player, assistant coach and head coach.

He has already made his mark on the Tampa Bay area with his articulate and enthusiastic approach and a series of roster and strategic moves which have laid the groundwork for success.

Wyche was born in Atlanta, Georgia, on January 5, 1945, where he attended North Fulton High School. He was a walk-on quarterback at Furman University where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration.

He played with the Wheeling Ironmen of the Continental Football League in 1966 before going to the University of South Carolina as a graduate assistant for two seasons. In 1968, he earned a master's in business administration management.

With the help of Lou Holtz, also a South Carolina assistant, Wyche had a tryout in 1968 with Paul Brown's Cincinnati Bengals, an AFL expansion team. He made the squad and was a starter much of the time and was a member of Cincinnati's first AFC Central champions in 1970. During three seasons with the Bengals, he completed 115 of 220 passes (52.3%) for 1,743 yards and threw 12 TDs.

In 1971, Wyche was traded to the Washington Redskins for whom he participated in Super Bowl VII, before being traded to Detroit in 1974. In 1976 he played with the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills.

After retiring as a player, Wyche and a partner opened Sam Wyche Sports World in Greenville, South Carolina, which became a chain of 11 stores.

Successful in business, Wyche still had a desire to be involved with football which was kindled with a visit to the San Francisco 49ers' training camp in 1979. Wyche joined his former quarterback coach with the Bengals, Bill Walsh, in San Francisco as quarterbacks and passing game coach for the next four seasons, including Super Bowl XVI when San Francisco defeated the Bengals, 26-21, at the conclusion of the 1981 season.

He was widely credited with developing quarterback Joe Montana, as the 49ers finished in the top half of the league in offense in each season.

Wyche became head coach at Indiana in 1983. His rebuilding program was interrupted the next year when Paul Brown brought him to the Bengals as head coach. In eight seasons, he became Cincinnati's winningest coach with two division champions.

He was voted the NFL and AFC Coach of the Year after his team posted a league-best 12-4 regular season record in 1988. The Bengals added playoff wins over Seattle and Buffalo before losing one of the most closely contested Super Bowls ever (XXIII), 20-16, to the 49ers in Miami. Among those choosing him as Coach of the Year were the Pro Football Writers, College & Pro Football Newsweekly, Football News and Washington Touchdown Club.

His Bengals then won a second AFC Central crown in 1990.

He has established himself as one of the top offensive thinkers in football with innovations such as the no-huddle offense. The results have been a combination of rushing and passing which produces yardage and touchdowns. The nine teams he has been the head coach of have averaged over 500 yards per season more than the league average. In the last nine years only 14 times has a team gained over 6,000 yards in a season - three times they have been coached by Wyche.

In addition to his commitment to football, Wyche is known for his community service. He gives his time to many charitable groups and is especially committed to helping the homeless. He was widely regarded as the leading spokesperson and advocate for the plight of the homeless in Cincinnati and has been similarly active since coming to Tampa Bay.

When away from football, Wyche is a pilot (owning a Cessna) and a skilled magician. He also enjoys playing golf, tennis and the guitar. A skilled public speaker who is articulate, enthusiastic and always delivers a message, Wyche donates a substantial portion of any speaking fees to charity. He and his wife, Jane, have two children, Zak, 22, and Kerry, 20.

POSITION COACHES

Linebackers

PRO

A member of the Los Angeles Rams' and Philadelphia Eagles' All-Time Teams, Buccaneer linebackers are fortunate to study under one of the league's greatest linebackers, Maxie Baughan.

In his 10-year NFL coaching career, Baughan has twice coached with Floyd Peters in two different roles. Baughan spent the 1990 season as the linebackers coach for Minnesota under Defensive Coordinator Peters, and for two seasons (1980-1981) he served as the Detroit Lions' Defensive Coordinator while Peters was the defensive line coach.

During his stint as Lions' defensive coordinator, Baughan's defense ranked first in the NFC against the rush and also ranked number one in sacks in 1982.

Baughan first joined the NFL coaching ranks in 1974 as a player/coach for George Allen and the Washington Redskins. After leaving the Redskins, he spent the next five seasons (1975-1979) as the defensive coordinator for the Baltimore Colts. The Colts were the AFC East Champions three of those five seasons.

Maxie Baughan was an outstanding outside linebacker in his 13-year NFL career. His nine Pro Bowl selections tied former Lion Joe Schmidt for most by a linebacker until Lawrence Taylor broke the mark in 1990. Drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles in the second round of the 1960 Draft, Baughan culminated a great rookie year by helping the Eagles win the NFL Championship and finished as the runner-up for 1960 Rookie of the Year.

He played six years in Philadelphia (1960-1965) and then spent five seasons in Los Angeles (1966-1970), during which time the Rams were a three-time playoff participant. Baughan finished his playing career in 1971 with Washington.

COLLEGE

Baughan began his coaching career in 1972 as the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at his alma mater, Georgia Tech (1972-1973) and helped lead the Yellow Jackets to a 1972 appearance in the Liberty Bowl. He also served six years in the Ivy League as the head coach at Cornell University (1983-1988).

PERSONAL

Maxie Callaway Baughan, Jr. was born August 3, 1938, in Bessemer, Alabama. He and wife, Diane, have three sons, Max III (30), Mark (28) and Matt (23). He graduated from Georgia Tech with a degree in industrial management. He was a four-year letterman and was selected as an All-America center in his 1959 senior season.

Baughan is a member of the Georgia Tech All-Time Team and Hall of Fame and was recently inducted into the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame. He enjoys golf and hunting in his leisure time.

HAROLD JACKSON
Wide Receivers

PRO

For the second season, Buc wide receivers have the opportunity to learn from one of the best in NFL history: Harold Jackson.

Jackson started his coaching career with New England Patriots in 1985 as an assistant receivers coach and began a six-year stint as the receivers coach in 1986. He spent 1991 as the Assistant Head Coach/Off. Coordinator for Eddie Khayat, now Bucs' defensive line coach, with the New Orleans Night of the Arena Football League.

During his 17-year career, Jackson caught 579 passes for 10,372 yards with 76 touchdowns. He ranks 13th in NFL history in catches and his career yardage total is seventh best. He is tied with Hall of Famer Fred Biletnikoff for 10th in career receiving touchdowns. Jackson participated in five Pro Bowls (1969,1972,1973,1975 and 1977) and had 29 100 yards-plus receiving days in his career (sixth best in NFL history).

Drafted by the Los Angeles Rams in the 11th round of the 1968 Draft, he spent his rookie year in Los Angeles before playing five seasons with Philadelphia (1969-1972). Perhaps his best season came in 1969 as he teamed with QB Norm Snead for 65 receptions for 1,116 yards and nine TDs and earned his first selection to the Pro Bowl. He returned to the Rams in 1973 as part of the Roman Gabriel trade and led the league in average yards per catch (with a 21.9 average) and receiving touchdowns (13). Jackson next played with New England (1978-1981) where he was coached by Raymond Berry. In just four years, he became the Patriots' 12th top receiver in passes caught and fourth in yards receiving. He finished his career with Seattle in 1983.

Defensive Line

PRO

Known for his ability to teach and motivate his players, Eddie Khayat brings over 31 years of NFL experience (both playing and coaching) to the Buccaneers' defensive linemen.

During his 23 years of coaching on the professional level, he has worked with such players as Hall of Famer Doug Atkins (New Orleans), Claude Humphrey (Falcons), Mike Barnes and John Dutton (Colts) and Doug English (Lions). All were selected to the Pro Bowl under Khayat's guidance.

Khayat's five seasons as the defensive line coach of the New England Patriots (1985-1989) were highlighted by a berth in Super Bowl XX in 1986. He spent three seasons (1982-1984) with the Detroit Lions as the defensive line coach and helped coach the Lions to the 1983 NFC Central title.

He began his coaching career in 1967 with the New Orleans Saints for four seasons and moved to the Philadelphia Eagles as the defensive line coach in 1971. Three games into 1971, he became the head coach through the end of the 1972 season.

In 1973, Khayat became the defensive line coach at Detroit for two seasons before joining the Falcons for two years. In 1977, he joined the Baltimore Colts' staff as the defensive line coach under Ted Marchibroda. During his stint with Baltimore, the Colts won the AFC East title in 1977.

Khayat was the head coach in 1991 for the New Orleans Night of the Arena Football League where he worked with present Bucs' receivers coach Harold Jackson. He and Jackson became acquainted in 1971 while Jackson was a receiver and Khayat was head coach with the Eagles.

Khayat entered the NFL in 1957 as a free agent defensive lineman with the Washington Redskins. He played four seasons (1958-1961) with the Philadelphia Eagles. During the 1960 season, he was the starting defensive tackle on the Eagles team that defeated the Green Bay Packers for the World Championship. Khayat went back to Washington for two seasons (1962-1963) before making a return trip to Philadelphia (1964-1965). THE BUCCANEER GRANT PROGRAM

The Buccaneer Grant Program enters its fifth season in 1993, having already distributed over $100,000 in funds to community groups in the Tampa Bay area. This season, the program fund is expected to double with contributions from area sponsors. Last year, $40,000 was distributed to non-profit local organizations.

The program was started by President Gay Culverhouse as a way to help reach the unfortunate in the six-county area. The recipients are selected by a special panel of community leaders who review the hundreds of applications each year. The panel looks for worthy organizations with specific needs over and above their regular operating costs.

Sherry Gruden, Community Relations Assistant for the Buccaneers, will accept 1993 applications until September 25th. The grants will be awarded during the halftime of the Bucs game against the Chicago Bears on December 12th.

WILLIE PEETE

PRO

In their first season under Coach Peete, Tampa Bay Buccaneer running backs ran for 277 more yards than the previous season and Reggie Cobb produced the first 1,000 yard season by a Buc in seven seasons. FLOYD PETERS
Defensive Coordinator

PRO

A popular man among Buccaneer fans for bringing back memories of the tough, relentless Buc defenses from the glory days in 1979 and 1981, Floyd Peters begins his third season as defensive coordinator in 1993 determined to improve even more, thanks to the offseason additions of veteran NFL players.

Peters is no stranger to success in the NFL. This will be his 11th consecutive season as a coordinator and he has 18 years of experience as a defensive line coach. Sixteen of the last 17 defenses he has been associated with have ranked in the NFL's top 15.

Peters shaped the Minnesota Vikings defense for five seasons (1986-1990) and developed them into one of the most feared units in the league. His Viking defense was the number-one rated defense in the NFL in both 1988 and 1989. The 1989 Vikings also led the league in passing defense and sacks (71), while his 1988 squad topped the NFL in takeaways (53), interceptions (36) and fewest first downs allowed (243). During his tenure with the Vikings, he developed such Pro Bowl talents as Keith Millard (1989 NFL Defensive Player of the Year), Chris Doleman, Joey Browner and Carl Lee.

Before his stint with the Vikings, Peters was assistant head coach/defensive coordinator with the St. Louis Cardinals (1982-1985) where his 1983 unit led the NFL with 59 sacks. He also served as defensive line coach at Detroit for four seasons (1978-1981), where he worked with two-time Pro Bowl selection Al "Bubba" Baker. The 1978 Detroit defense set a team sack record with 55 and the 1981 Lions topped the NFC with 47 sacks.

In 1976, while serving as defensive line coach with San Francisco, his defensive line helped lead the NFL in sacks with 61. He spent the 1970 season with Vince Lombardi and the Washington Redskins as a player/coach and became a full-time NFL defensive line coach with the New York Giants in 1974.

Peters was an eighth-round draft choice of the Baltimore Colts out of San Francisco State in 1958. He spent the 1958 season with the Colts and then played for Cleveland for four years (1959-1962), one season with Detroit (1963) and six years with the Philadelphia Eagles (1964-1969). While at Philadelphia, he was selected to play in three Pro Bowls (1964,1966 and 1967) and was named Most Valuable Player of the 1966 game. Peters served as a player/coach for the Redskins in 1970 for a total of 12 years as a player.

The Buccaneers' special teams and tight ends improved greatly in 1992 under first-year coach George Stewart. Rookie tight end Tyji Armstrong took the league by storm and was selected to several NFL all-rookie squads.

RICHARD WOOD
Defensive Assistant

PRO

As a player, Richard Wood told his teammates that one day he would return to Tampa as a coach and they would go to the Super Bowl. They all laughed at Wood then but no one is laughing now. Hired by Richard Williamson in 1991, Wood is one of four coaches retained by Wyche. His responsibilities include assisting Maxie Baughan with the linebackers and working on video breakdown.

In his playing days, he was known for his intense attitude on the field and he has carried that fervor into coaching. One of his strengths as a coach is his ability to relate to the player on a common ground.

Wood played linebacker for the Buccaneers for nine seasons (1976-1984) and is the team's all-time tackle leader with 847. He played in a team-record 132 games. Wood started 88 consecutive games between 1976 and 1981 and never missed a game due to injury in his career. He had five seasons of over 100 tackles and led the team in tackles four times, including the 1979 squad which led the NFL in defense. He also intercepted nine passes during his career, caused 12 fumbles and scored three touchdowns.

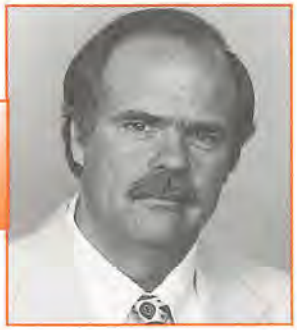

He was a third-round draft choice of the New York Jets in 1975 and played one season there before a 1976 trade to Tampa Bay where he was reunited with his college coach, John McKay. He enjoyed a star-studded career at Southern California as the first three-time All-America in the school's history (1972-1974) while playing on two national championship teams.

PERSONAL

Richard Wood was born on May 31,1953, in Elizabeth, New Jersey where he graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School. He and wife, Karen, a marketing officer at Chase Bank, have two children, Rachelle (11) and Marlon (9). His interests include long distance bicycle riding, drag racing and tae kwon do (in which he holds a black belt). Richard is better known by the nickname "Batman" which he acquired in college when he stood up in the first football meeting and jokingly stated that he was Batman from Gotham City.

BOB WYLIE
Offensive Line

PRO

After his innovative techniques boosted the efficiency of the offensive line in his first year with the Bucs, Bob Wylie plans to continue building on the progress achieved last season. Last year, Wylie initiated an offensive line-platooning system which substitutes a group of linemen for another allowing brief rests during the game. The system worked very well as the Bucs dominated the first two games at the line of scrimmage with 663 yards of total offense until the offensive line was hit by a rash of injuries.

In order to help tackles hear the signal count in loud dome arenas, Wylie came up with the idea of having the tackle put his hand on the guard's outstretched hand. When the guard jerks his hand away, the tackle knows the ball has been snapped.

Wylie spent two years as a tight ends coach with the New York Jets. As a volunteer at Bengals' training camps for nine summers (1981-1989), Wylie learned under Jim McNally, considered to be one of the NFL's best line coaches.

COLLEGE

Wylie started his coaching career at Brown (1981-1982) as an offensive line coach before moving to Holy Cross for two seasons (1983-1984). He coached at Ohio University for three seasons (1985-1987) and was the offensive coordinator in his final year. He moved to Colorado State in 1988 and spent two seasons coaching the offensive line under Earle Bruce.

PERSONAL

Bob Wylie was born on February 16, 1951, in Providence, Rhode Island. He played three seasons at Colorado before transferring to Roger Williams College where he earned his bachelor's degree in American Studies in 1973. In 1975, he earned his master's degree in economics from Rhode Island. His wife's name is Kay and he has a daughter, Jennifer (15). In his spare time, he plays golf as often as possible and has his pilot's license and enjoys flying.

Roll also worked with big men Russell Maryland and Cortez Kennedy in strength training at Miami.

In 1985 & 1986, Roll was selected to travel to Moscow for the summer to train with the Russian Olympic weightlifters. These visits had a lasting impact on Roll as he came back with new techniques and drills.

Austin University in 1980 and left his native state of Texas to become the first full-time Head Strength and Conditioning Coach at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in 1981. On the field, Buccaneer safety Tony Covington strives to be poetry in motion, but off the field, he spends his free time putting poems onto paper.

"I'm a private person and poetry is my release to let out all of my feelings and frustrations. I've written over 75 poems since college and hope one day to have a book of my work published."

God, Make me a tool,
Oh Lord I pray;
Let me give every ounce of me
to show thanks for this day.

Make me like thunder
so that I may move the crowd;
Make me like lightning
so that my actions speak loud.

Make me a clock
so I tick with precision;
Make me a wiseman
that will make only the right decisions.

On that field today
Make me like fire;
Leading by example
With shear emotion and desire.

Make me like a gladiator
that fearsome warrior from the past;
And as I line up each play to do my job
I will play each play as if it is my last

THE BUCS' FIRST MR. IRRELEVENT

When the Bucs acquired defensive back Garry Lewis in an August 26, 1992 trade with Dallas, it set the wheels in motion for Tampa Bay to have its first-ever Mr. Irrelevent, the final player chosen in the NFL College Draft.

Originally the Buccaneers were supposed to give Dallas a ninth-round draft choice for Lewis. But when the NFL's new labor arrangement provided for only an eight-round draft, a proviso in the trade to cover this situation went into effect.

That proviso called for the teams to switch selections in the final round of the revised draft if Tampa Bay's pick was earlier. With Dallas having emerged as the Super Bowl champions, every team in the league had a selection earlier than the Cowboys.

Thus Dallas utilized the seventh pick in the eighth round (Dave Thomas, DB, Tennessee) and Tampa Bay had the 28th pick of the round and the 224th overall.

With the choice the Bucs' took Daron Alcorn, placekicker from the University of Akron, who became Mr. Irrelevent XVIII. Alcorn was feted in Southern California's Orange County from June 22nd to the 27th at numerous events and was presented with the Lowsman Trophy, emblematic of final selection. The annual celebration, organized by businessman Paul Salata in 1976, annually salutes the NFL's final selection.

BUCS-VIKINGS NOTES

For the third straight week, Tampa Bay took a lead into halftime, but a third-quarter letdown proved too much to overcome as Minnesota rallied for the victory...Both starting quarterbacks were knocked out of the game early: the Vikings' Rich Gannon was hit by rookie DL Santana Dotson attempting a pass that was intercepted by CB Darryl Pollard, and the Bucs' Vinny Testaverde experienced numbness in his throwing hand after being sacked...Rookie WR Courtney Hawkins hauled in his first touchdown pass from back-up QB Steve DeBerg on a 28-yard catch-and-run that helped the Bucs to a 13-7 halftime lead...The Vikings stormed back in the third period with back-to-back TDs, including a 29-yard TD catch by WR Cris Carter, his second score of the game...A field goal and a safety in the fourth put the Vikings up by 13, but DeBerg directed an 80-yard TD drive in two minutes that pulled the Bucs to within 26-20...The Vikings were able to run the clock down to 18 seconds, however, before giving Tampa Bay their final shot at the win...Dotson tied the Buccaneer rookie sack record for a season with his fifth in just three games.

BUCS-49ERS NOTES

The Bucs rebounded with one of their strongest efforts of the season and came within a few yards of the biggest upset of the season...The two teams played to a 7-7 halftime tie, with Tampa Bay striking first on a smoothly-executed gadget play: QB Vinny Testaverde found rookie FB Anthony McDowell on a 51-yard TD pass after RB Gary Anderson faked a sweep and pitched back to the QB...49er QB answered with a four-yard TD pass to WR John Taylor on the last play of the first quarter...A second scoring threat was removed by SS Marty Carter, who blitzed Young, sacked the mobile QB and forced him to fumble; DE Keith McCants recovered for the Bucs...San Francisco scored twice in the second half on TD passes to All-Pro WR Jerry Rice, sandwiched around a one-yard touchdown run by Buc RB Reggie Cobb after a gritty 15-play, 80-yard drive...After Rice's second score gave the 49ers a 21-14 lead, Testaverde and Cobb again moved the Bucs down the field to a first down at the San Francisco three-yard line, but Tampa Bay was unable to convert the TD...The game was not decided until the final seconds, when Testaverde's 35-yard Hail Mary pass was batted away...RB Reggie Cobb peppered the league's number one run defense for 90 yards, giving him at least 50 rushing yards for a team-record 12th straight game...Rookie DL Santana Dotson was given his first start at end after playing tackle in the first 14 games, and responded with his 10th sack of the season, doubling the previous team rookie record; Dotson joined Lee Roy Selmon and Broderick Thomas as the only players in Tampa Bay history to reach double digits in sacks in a season.

BUCS-CARDINALS NOTES
The Bucs ended the 1992 season the way they began it, by defeating Phoenix...This contest was played on Sun Devil Stadium's loose, gravelly field, leading to three missed field goals by each team's placekicker...The Bucs netted the game's only TD on a second-quarter 23-yard pass from QB Vinny Testaverde to WR Mark Carrier...The Buc defense allowed a 21-yard field goal by Phoenix in the first quarter but kept their opponents off the board for the rest of the game with a string of timely turnovers...FS Joe King, making only his second start, turned in a Player-of-the-Game performance with the first two interceptions of his career, including one on a pass after an end-around by WR Ricky Proehl...CB Milton Mack also picked off two passes, including a last second toss to the corner of the end zone by substitute QB Timm Rosenbach that sealed the victory...Former Buc QB Chris Chandler started the contest for Phoenix and completed 23 of 43 passes for 234 yards, but was picked off three times and forced to fumble for a fourth turnover...The Bucs' five interceptions and six turnovers were both season highs for the defense...The Bucs committed just a single interception to give them just two turnovers in the final three games.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS

Two separate awards are presented each year to the team member chosen as the Bucs' Most Valuable Player. The St. Petersburg Times' award is determined by a vote of writers who regularly cover the team and the Tampa Sports Club, a cross section of the Tampa sports community, votes for its award. The Newspaper Enterprise Association no longer conducts a poll which was won in 1977 and 1979 by Lee Roy Selmon, in 1976 by Dave Pear and in 1978 by David Lewis.

1. If all the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tie-breaker.
2. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the following steps:

When the first Wild Card team has been identified, the procedure is repeated to name the second Wild Card (i.e. eliminate all but the highest-ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to step two), and repeated a third time if necessary, to identify the third Wild Card. In situations where three or more teams from the same division are involved in the procedure, the original seeding of the teams remains the same for subsequent applications of the tiebreaker if the top-ranked team in that division qualifies for a Wild Card berth.

Tampa Stadium, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' home for the past 17 seasons, will be the address for exciting football this fall.

With Buccaneer Head Coach Sam Wyche directing the show, the Tampa Bay offense will light up the Tampa skyline with points while the defense continues to frustrate the opposition.

Tampa Stadium is no stranger to exciting football, however. Tampa Stadium has hosted two Super Bowls: XVIII won by the Los Angeles Raiders over the Washington Redskins, 38-9 on January 22,1984 and XXV, won by the New York Giants over the Buffalo Bills, 20-19, on January 27,1991.

Tampa Stadium is also the home of the Hall of Fame Bowl, inaugurated in December, 1986, which showcases some of college football's brightest talent on New Year's Day.

Known for the outstanding field and layout, other improvements were made before the 1990 season to update Tampa Stadium. The Buccaneers installed a 24-foot by 32-foot Sony Jumbotron above the south end zone to offer playbacks and features for the fans. The installation of seatbacks throughout the stadium also added to the comfort of Buccaneer fans in the stadium.

Tampa Stadium now seats 74,301 for Buccaneer games (including 61 Sky Suites over the east stands with seating capacity varying between 12 and 40 seats). Tampa Stadium is the third largest stadium in the NFC with only the Pontiac Silverdome and Giants Stadium boasting greater capacity.

Construction on Tampa Stadium began in October, 1966, and it was dedicated on November 7,1967. The stadium originally seated 46,500 fans and cost only $4.6 million. In this configuration, it served as home to the University of Tampa as well as other college football games and professional preseason contests.

The end zones were enclosed to raise seating capacity to over 72,000 after the NFL franchise was awarded to Tampa Bay in 1975. Other additions in 1975 were new computerized scoreboards at either end and an additional level on the press box above the west stands.

The complex is administered by the Tampa Sports Authority, a public board composed of 11 members from both the city of Tampa and Hillsborough County, which was established by the State of Florida in 1965.

WTOG-TV

KELLY

COLLINSWORTH

Now in its fourth consecutive year as the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' official television station, WTOG-TV, Channel 44, will continue to bring the most up-to-date information to Buc fans in the Tampa Bay area.

WTOG kicks off the season with an hour-long special, Countdown to NFL '93 on Friday, August 6th at 8:00 p.m. Before the last three Buccaneer preseason games, Countdown to Kickoff will take viewers behind the scenes at a Buccaneer game. Each 30-minute special airs 30 minutes before the televised game.

In addition to these programs, WTOG will air weekly Wyche Report show every Friday night at 10:30 throughout the season. Channel 44 will also introduce the Buc players and coaches to the Tampa Bay area through a season-long series of Buc Bios, short informative vignettes which will share little known facts about the individuals. Buc fans will also be treated to the Buc Report during the sports portion of the nightly 10 p.m. news as well.

ESPN announcer Jim Kelly and WTOG sports director Bob Alvarez return to the WTOG team as well as last year's rookie of the year, Cris Collinsworth. Collinsworth, a former standout wide receiver with the Cincinnati Bengals, joined the WTOG team last season and proved to be one of the finest new talents in sports announcing. Earlier in the year, he covered Wimbledon for HBO Sports. Collinsworth will provide color for all four games and Kelly will once again provide play-by-play for the final three games, with the Orlando's Magic's David Steele substituting during the first game on August 7th. This will be the seventh season behind the Buc microphone for Kelly, also known for his work on ESPN reporting golf and America's Cup ocean racing.

The preseason home games will be shown on a tape-delayed basis opener, with the August 7th game against Denver shown on August 8th at 4:00 p.m. and the August 27th game against the Browns broadcast on August 28th at 4:00 p.m. Tampa Bay's two away preseason games, August 14 at Atlanta and August 21st against the Buffalo Bills in Orlando, will be shown live.

SWASH-BUC-LERS

Sandy Karl

Leading the cheers and performing various dance routines are the Swash-buc-lers. The group was founded with the team in 1976 and has 36 members. The squad performs many complicated dance routines during breaks in the game action, in addition to leading the crowd in cheers. In 1992, Tampa Stadium was invaded by a band of four pirates who roam the stands and field on Sundays looking for adventure. The Swash-buc-lers and Band of Pirates return this season eager for more excitement.

Once again, the groups are directed by Sandy Karl, who is entering her fifth year as the director and choreographer. Karl, along with husband, Bob, has operated the Karl and DiMarco School of Theatre in Tampa for the past 21 years. The group is sponsored by Paul Mitchell Hair Products and Sacino's Formal Wear.

WQYK BUCCANEER RADIO NETWORK

DECKERHOFF

BRANTLEY

Once again, Buc fans won't miss a touchdown, tackle or time-out when they follow the team through all-pro Tampa Bay flagship station, WQYK Radio. The network will again broadcast in stereo in AM and FM and on affiliate radio stations in more than 25 Florida cities.

The WQYK Buccaneer Radio Network returns for its third year with Gene Deckerhoff and David Logan again providing the play-by-play and color. Former Buccaneer linebacker Scot Brantley joins the WQYK team this year and will handle interviews and updates.

Gene Deckerhoff is back for his fourth season as the play-by-play voice of the Buccaneers. One of the nation's premier play-by-play announcers, Deckerhoff has been the popular voice for Florida State football and basketball broadcasts for the past 15 years. He is the former voice of the USFL's Tampa Bay Bandits and former sports director of WCTV-TV in Tallahassee and has received the Florida Sportscaster of the Year Award five times.

Joining him in the broadcast booth will be former Buccaneer David Logan who continues in his third year with WQYK as analyst after a successful playing career with the Buccaneers (1979-86). Recognized as one of the top nose tackles in the NFC during his playing days, he finished his career in 1986 with a string of 103 consecutive starts and was chosen All-Pro by The Sporting News and All-NFC by Pro Football Weekly in 1984.

Brantley enjoyed an eight-year career with the Bucs and still ranks among the team's career leaders in games played and tackles. A native of Ocala, Brantley attended the University of Florida.
