K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr.

K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., founder, owner, president of the Houston Oilers is one of the most diversified business leaders in the southwest. Co-founder of the American Football League in 1960, Bud Adams has been associated with sports in the southwest for over thirty years.

A native of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, Adams first displayed his interest in athletics while attending Culver Military Academy where he won letters in football, basketball and baseball. Following graduation from Culver, Adams attended Menlo College in California for one year, lettering in rugby and football before transferring to Kansas where he lettered in football and began his loyal affiliation with Sigma Chi Fraternity.

An ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve, Adams was also assigned to Washington D.C. as an aide to the commanding officer of the U.S. Navy's Congressional Office.

In 1947, Adams incorporated ADA Oil Company, the forerunner of the publicly held Adams Resources and Energy Inc., an energy company with diversified holdings. Adams business interests include oil and gas production, coal mining, farming, livestock raising, real estate, banking, automobile sales and leasing, travel agency, professional football and printing.

Manifested by his past ownership in professional basketball and baseball, Adams made his mark in the world of sports in 1959 when, teamed with Lamar Hunt, he formed the American Football League. Adams' Houston Oilers were the dominant force in the early years, winning AFL titles in 1960 and 1961.

Adams' charitable and philanthropic activities are varied, but his membership on the Board of Trustees of the Pro Football Hall of Fame is at the top of his list. A dedicated family man, Adams has received many honors over the years, among them the 1981 Financial World Magazine Outstanding Chief Executive Officer award, selection as A Significant Sig by Sigma Chi Fraternity, Mr. Sportsman by Interfaith Charities and helping spearhead the drive for the Houston Ronald McDonald House constructed in 1981.

Bud and wife Nancy have three grown children and reside in Houston.

LADD HERZEG

Executive Vice-President General Manager

Herzeg, the Oilers' 36-year-old executive vice-president and general manager, begins his seventh season with the team. Prior to assuming his current responsibilities on December 31, 1980, Herzeg had been chief administrative officer and in Mr. Adams' absence, the Oilers' primary representative at all NFL owners' meetings for the past five years. From this experience, he has acquired a thorough knowledge of league policies and procedures and has developed a complete understanding of the NFL's Constitution and By-Laws and the Collective Bargaining Agreement. Herzeg has an excellent background for his responsibilities with the organization.

His duties are multi-faceted and include overseeing all facets of the Oilers operations. His first task as General Manager was to hire head coach Ed Biles and direct the search which brought the highly touted coaching staff to the ball club.

"Ladd has all the qualities you look for in a general manager," says K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. "He is completely dedicated, aggressive, intelligent, thorough and highly motivated to succeed. He has been a winner throughout all phases of his life. In the past year we have shown substantial progress in all team-related areas of operation and this is a tribute to Ladd's dedication and leadership."

Under Herzeg's guidance during the past eighteen months several major team goals were achieved including the following:

- A complete re-organization of the scouting staff making it one of the most experienced and finest in the league.

- Planning and supervising the construction and installation of the team's new multi-million dollar training facility (an NFL showcase and a dream come true for players and staff members) that opened in January, 1982.

- The purchase of a new computer system that will have a tremendous influence over all team operations including scouting, game plans, quality control, ticket distribution, etc.

- Obtaining membership to one of the finest pro personnel scouting services in the NFL.

Herzeg joined the Company in 1976 and his involvement and scope of responsibilities with the football team rapidly grew. He came to the organization, having participated in the sport at perennial high school powerhouse Cleveland (Ohio) Benedictine High School where he earned a scholarship to play at the University of Hawaii. A freshman knee injury ended his playing days and he subsequently transferred to Ohio State University where he graduated magna cum laude in 1968, ranking third in the graduating class of the College of Administrative Sciences. After service in Vietnam, Herzeg joined a highly respected consulting firm and included among his clients was the Cleveland Browns. The recommendation of Cleveland Browns' owner, Art Modell, brought Herzeg to Houston and he quickly established a reputation for his administrative skills.

Prior to becoming General Manager, Herzeg had the responsibility for conducting and supervising the highly sensitive area of player contract negotiations. Additionally, he had been instrumental in adding the following highly successful subsidiary operating companies under the Oilers' corporate umbrella: Sky Box Management, Inc. (marketer of skybox area in the Astrodome) and Houston Oilers Dancers, Inc. (promoter of the "Derrick Dolls").

Herzeg serves on the NFL Coaches and Front Office Pension Committee, serves as co-host of Oiler General Manager radio show, is a member of the Pacesetters of Ohio State University, American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and serves on the Board of Directors of KSA Industries, Inc., Adams Resources & Energy, Inc., Houston Oilers, Inc., and also served on the initial Board of Directors for Houston's Ronald McDonald House.

MIKE HOLOVAK

Assistant General Manager

With a keen eye for talent and coaching experience second to none, assistant general manager Mike Holovak is one of the most respected men in professional football.

1982 is Holovak's second season with the Oilers and he brought to the club last season over twenty years of NFL experience in the coaching and executive levels. In 1979 and 1980, Holovak was Director of College Scouting for the New England Patriots after being promoted from his personnel assistant's job with the Patriots in the 1977-1978 years.

Mike is a former all-america football player at Boston College and still holds the Orange Bowl record for the highest rushing average in the game with 10 carries for 158 yards, a 15.8 average. Recently inducted in the National Collegiate Hall of Fame, Mike joined the professional ranks with the Los Angeles Rams in 1946 and spent the 1947-1948 years with the Chicago Bears.

Mike's coaching career began in 1949 as an assistant at Boston College and from 1950-1960 was BC's head coach and posted a 49-23-3 record during his tenure.

When the new AFL was formed and the Boston Patriots called, Mike became the second man hired by the club as the Director of Player Personnel for the team in 1960.

Holovak became head coach after five games in 1961 when the team struggled to a 2-3 record. During the final nine games after his takeover, the team won seven games, lost one, tied one and won the AFL Eastern title.

In 1964, Mike assumed the Patriots general manager duties along with the coaching position until he left in 1968 to join the new staff of Dick Nolan in San Francisco. Since that time, Holovak has been associated with the Oakland Raiders (1971) and the New York Jets, 1972 until 1976. In 1977 he returned to the Patriots until joining the Oilers in February of 1981.

Born September 19, 1919, Mike is married with two daughters and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

ED BILES

Head Coach

When Oiler General Manager Ladd K. Herzeg extended the contract of head coach Ed Biles in March of 1982, it was a positive step to assure that the assembling of a program would continue with the Houston Oilers in 1982.

Entering his second year at the helm of the Houston Oilers, Ed Biles' transition season is now over after seeing the record dip to 7-9, but finishing on a positive note, defeating two division rivals (Cleveland and Pittsburgh) during the last three weeks of the 1981 season.

Assembling one of the finest coaching staffs and scouting departments in the NFL was the Oilers' objective. Along with Herzeg and owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., Biles helped conceive the necessary changes to build a perennial contender. The building and shaping of the Oilers through the collegiate draft was a priority commitment they shared. "Coach Biles had done an outstanding job of assembling a solid group of assistant coaches and handled adversity very well last year," Adams said.

Ed's commitment toward his coaching career started years earlier when he was a four sport standout at Reading High in Reading, Ohio in football, basketball, baseball and track.

Biles continued his playing career at Miami of Ohio under Ara Parseghian and in 1953 accepted his first coaching job at the high school level. Biles was named head coach of Xavier University's freshman team in 1956 and compiled a 16-4 coaching record before being elevated to the school's head coach in 1962.

Ed posted a 40-27-3 record as head coach during his seven year tenure and was named Catholic Coach of the Year in 1965. It was at this level that Biles began showing some of the traits that would eventually land him one of the twenty-eight jobs in the NFL as head coach.

In 1969, Tom Fears, then head coach for the New Orleans Saints offered Biles the position of the Saints' administrative coordinator. In 1970, Biles assumed the duties of defensive backfield coach, and in 1971, Ed coached under the legendary Weeb Eubank as the New York Jets' defensive backfield coach. He held this position until 1973.

Former Oiler head coach and general manager Sid Gillman hired Biles away from the New York Jets in 1974 as a member of the Oilers' defensive staff. One season later, new Oiler head coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips named Biles as the team's defensive coordinator.

As defensive coordinator in '75, Biles' defensive schemes were instrumental in the Oilers' best season in eight years, responding with a 10-4 record and the defense ranked best in the AFC.

Perhaps the trait of Biles that stands above all others is his belief that discipline is still a key factor in athletics today. Ed contends that it is "discipline that is the common bond between many of the winning coaches in the game, Landry, Shula, Noll, Grant and from earlier years, Vince Lombardi and Paul Brown."

An optimistic 1982 would have to be one that has no idle hopes, only those realities that have NFL playoffs stamped on them. That optimism Ed Biles and the Houston Oilers hope to fulfill.

Born in Glendale, Ohio on October 31, 1931, Ed is married and has four children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

ANDY BOURGEOIS

Wide Receivers

Andy Bourgeois begins his second season as the Oilers' receivers coach. The dean of Oiler coaches, Bourgeois begins his tenth season with the Columbia Blue.

Andy's first year with the team was 1973 as special teams coach and from 1974 to 1980, Andy coached the offensive backfield, where he coached three Oilers to all-rookie status in their respective first years.

A Louisiana native, Andy was an outstanding high school athlete when he was a three sport letterman in football, basketball and track. Andy attended Louisiana State University (LSU) where he lettered in football and baseball. He also captained the LSU baseball team in 1958-1959.

After obtaining his BS degree from LSU in Education, and his Guidance Counseling Masters from Loyola of New Orleans in 1970, Andy became the receivers coach at Texas Christian University in 1971-1972 after an assignment with the freshman team at Tulane University in 1970. He then joined the Oilers under head coach Sid Gillman in 1973.

A member of LSU's famed "Chinese Bandits," Andy played in the 1959 and 1960 Sugar Bowl teams and was a member of the 1958 National Championship team.

Born March 29, 1938 Andy is married and has three children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

RAY CALLAHAN

Offensive Line

Ray Callahan took over the duties of the Oilers' offensive line coach in January 1981. Callahan came to the Oilers from the Washington Redskins where he held a similar position from 1978 to 1980 in the nation's capital.

A well-respected line coach, Callahan served as the offensive line coach for the Chicago Bears from 1975-1977, before joining the Redskins. Ray served as the offensive coordinator for the Florida Blazers of the World Football League in 1974 after his first year of professional coaching with the Baltimore Colts in 1973.

As a collegian, Callahan attended the University of Kentucky where he played guard and linebacker from 1952-1956. His first coaching job was at Danville High School, 1957-1962, where in 1960 he was awarded the Kentucky State Coach of the Year for his outstanding work.

Ray then travelled to his alma mater, Kentucky, as an assistant coach from 1963-1967 before moving on to the University of Cincinnati in 1967 and served as head coach from 1969-1972.

Born April 28, 1933, Ray is married and has four children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

BOB GAMBOLD

Defensive Backs

Bob Gambold enters his fifth season as an Oiler assistant, coaching the defensive backs for the team. Over the last few seasons when injuries have plagued the team, the defensive backs have responded in excellent fashion.

The Oilers' improved secondary play can be paralleled to the arrival of Gambold from Denver after six seasons with them.

Bob graduated from Washington State University in 1952 and became a quarterback with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1953 and later with the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL in 1954. Bob's first coaching position would come at Stanford University when with the staff of John Ralston overseeing the linebackers and defensive coordination of the team.

Gambold joined the Broncos staff where he guided the defensive backs for six years and has been with the Oilers since 1978 when he joined the staff. Since that time, Gambold has tutored Mike Reinhardt, Vernon Perry and Greg Stenrick to numerous honors and recognition for themselves and the team.

Born February 5, 1929, Bob is married and has seven children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

KEN HOUSTON

Defensive Assistant

Kenny Houston rejoined the Oilers in February of 1982 to be a full-time defensive assistant coach for the team. The former All-Pro defensive back for the Houston Oilers and Washington Redskins, Houston displayed his talents for 14 years in the NFL.

Ken left his mark on both the Oilers and the NFL record manual when he retired. He holds three Oiler records for interceptions (all of which are also NFL marks as well) most career TDs via interceptions—9, most TDs via interceptions single season—4, and most TDs via interception single game—2 (this is shared in Oiler book with Miller Farr). In the NFL records Ken's mark for TDs in season is shared with Jim Kearney of Chiefs (1972) and TDs in game with nine other players as well as Farr.

A native of Lufkin, Texas, Houston is a graduate of Prairie View A&M University and was an original ninth round selection of the Houston Oilers in the 1967 AFL draft.

Playing six strong seasons at safety for the Oilers, Houston was traded to the Washington Redskins in 1973 in exchange for 5 players. Houston would further establish himself as one of the premier safeties ever to play in the NFL.

With his retirement from the NFL in 1980, Kenny joined the staff of Houston's Sterling High School as the defensive backfield coach. Immediately, four of his defensive backs made all-city teams in 1981.

Kenny will work closely with the defensive secondary with the Oilers helping from his expertise and experience from his long NFL career.

Houston holds three NFL records for interceptions. He returned nine interceptions for TDs during his career with the Oilers and Redskins for record, also tied the NFL standard for most interception returns for TD in single season with four in 1971 (shares mark with Jim Kearney of Kansas City, 1972). Mark of two TDs via interceptions in single game is also NFL mark shared with 10 other players.

Born November 12, 1944, Kenny is married and resides in Kingwood, Texas

ELIJAH PITTS

Offensive Backfield

Elijah Pitts joined the Oilers staff in February of 1981 to take over a position he once starred at as a professional player with the Green Bay Packers.

Born in Mayflower, Arkansas, Pitts played collegiately at Philander Smith College in Little Rock before being selected in the 13th round as a running back by the Packers. His Packer teams won NFL Championships in 1961, 1962, 1964, 1966 and were Super Bowl winners in 1967 and 1968.

Scouting for the Packers for two seasons, Pitts retired in 1971 as an active player. Pitts then entered the coaching ranks with Chuck Knox's staff in Los Angeles in 1973. The Rams went on to win the Western Division title every year Pitts was on the staff. When Knox departed to Buffalo in 1978, so did Pitts. Since that time, the Bills made remarkable improvements with their offensive backfield with Pitts the guiding influence.

Pitts joined former mates Bart Starr and Willie Davis and the late coach Vince Lombardi in the Packers Hall of Fame when he was inducted in 1979. The Arkansas Hall of Fame also made Pitts one of the members in 1980.

Born February 3, 1938, Elijah is married and has three children and resides in Stafford, Texas.

DICK SELCER

Linebackers

Coaching in the collegiate ranks for 19 years, Dick Selcer's addition to the Oilers coaching staff as linebacker coach brings experience, expertise, and enthusiasm to his new assignment.

Dick is a former Notre Dame University standout where he was a two-sport letterman in football and baseball at South Bend.

His first coaching assignment came from the Oilers' current head coach Ed Biles at Xavier (Ohio) in 1962-1964. Selcer then served as the defensive coordinator at Cincinnati (1965-1966) and Brown Universities (1967-1969).

Selcer then gained his first head coaching experience at Xavier University in 1970-1971 before moving on to the University of Wisconsin from 1972-1974. In 1975-1977, Selcer served as the defensive coordinator at Kansas State University before becoming the defensive coordinator at Southwestern Louisiana University. For three years, Selcer coached all phases of the Southwestern defensive attack before coming to the Oilers in February 1981.

Born August 22, 1937, Dick is married and has five children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

JIM SHOFNER

Offensive Coordinator

Jim Shofner became the Oilers' offensive coordinator in February of 1981 after leading the Cleveland Browns to a resurgence in the AFC Central Division in 1979 and 1980. A great teacher and offensive mind, Jim has an excellent background both as a player and a coach in the NFL. With a total of 17 years in the coaching profession, Jim served the Browns in 1978, 1979, and 1980, helping quarterback Brian Sipe gain all-AFC status.

A native of Grapevine, Texas, Shofner was a number one draft choice of the Browns in 1958 and started at defensive back for six seasons before retiring in 1963.

At his alma mater Texas Christian University, Shofner led the SWC in rushing as a senior and turned down a professional baseball career before signing with Cleveland.

Jim's coaching career began at TCU in 1964 as a part-time aide and his first coaching experience in the professional ranks was with the San Francisco 49ers in 1967 as their defensive backfield coach. He was reassigned to coach the quarterbacks and receivers when Dick Nolan took over as head coach of the 49ers in 1968. Jim then returned to TCU as the head football coach in 1974-1976 before returning to the 49ers as backfield coach in 1977. Following that season he moved to Cleveland for the 1978-1980 tutoring of the offensive backfield.

Born December 18, 1935, Jim is married with two children and resides in Missouri City, Texas.

RALPH STAUB

Defensive Line

A veteran coach for over 15 seasons, Ralph Staub joined the Oilers in April 1982 to coach the defensive line for the team. Staub has an excellent background in fundamentals, playing his college ball under Sid Gillman and then serving on Woody Hayes staff at Ohio State.

Staub attended the University of Cincinnati under Gillman and went on to get his masters degree before coaching both the offensive and defensive line at Cincinnati (1967-1969) and later at Northwestern University (1969-1970). Staub then served as the offensive coordinator under Woody Hayes at Ohio State from 1970-1976 and credits those years as giving him the background to become head coach at the University of Cincinnati from 1977-1980.

Staub spent the 1981 season with the Dallas Cowboys as a collegiate scout.

Born April 11, 1928, Ralph is married and has four children and resides in Houston.

BILL ALLERHEILIGEN

Strength and Conditioning

Bill Allerheiligen (Al-er-hal-a-gan) came to the Oilers in February as the team's new strength and conditioning coach. With the Oilers' new multi-million dollar training facility, the Oilers' training and strength conditioning methods were also upgraded with the addition of Allerheiligen's background.

Bill received his B.S. degree from the University of Nebraska in Physical Education and has been the strength coach for Kearney State College, University of Nebraska, Kansas State and the University of Notre Dame. Bill has published several outstanding books about weight training and has assisted in the development of the National Strength Coaches Association.

Bill's 14 years of weight and strength conditioning background is an added plus to his impressive credentials.

Born February 10, 1951, Bill is married and resides in Houston, Texas.

OILERS SCOUTING PROGRAM

The Oilers' scouting department finally came of age in 1981, when a reorganization of the collegiate scouting system operations was finalized.

With a sincere effort to build through the collegiate draft the team, already a member of the United Scouting Combine, concentrated efforts in four areas to have one of the best overall departments in the league.

The Oilers coaches personally interview most of the top collegiate prospects along with the Oiler scouts grading and seeing most all of the nation's colleges and universities every season. The scouting combine relates all the informational work together to get the best available status on eligible players.

With all areas of the football operations contributing to the effort, four full-time scouts were hired to handle the scouting of the four regions of the United States.

Dub Fesperman joined the Oilers in June of 1981 and handles the Oilers' East Coast scouting. An assistant coach at Wake Forest, Tulane, Georgia Tech and Massachusetts, Fesperman then joined the CEPO Scouting Combine for NFL teams in 1974 which later merged with the United Combine.

Bill Young joined the Oilers in 1981 as the team's West Coast scout. Young attended the University of Cal-Berkeley and joined the Green Bay Packers staff in 1955 and remained there during their glory years. In 1964, Young joined the San Diego Chargers as a scout until 1970 when he became a player personnel scout for the Saints until hired by the Oilers. Young resides in the Saratoga, California area.

C.O. Brocato joined the Oilers in June of 1981 after spending the last four years with the United Scouting Combine. HOUSTON OILERS RADIO CREW

Describing the Houston Oilers action during the 1982 season will be, from left, Ron Stone, Ron Franklin and Jerry Trupiano. Mutual Radio Network acquired radio rights to Oilers' games and expects to be broadcasting games in six states. KTRH Radio in Houston serves as the flagship station.

The Houston Oilers will team up with the Mutual Radio Network and KTRH Radio in Houston to broadcast all Oiler games during the 1982 season. An interesting fact concerning this relationship is that the games will be distributed to stations on the network via satellite, making the Oilers the only satellite network in the NFL.

The satellite will provide amazingly increased audio quality compared to the land lines that are being used by all other networks. Jack Clements, Senior Vice-President of the Mutual Radio Network and Hal Kemp, Vice-President/General Manager of KTRH which is the network's flagship station, have lined up a network that expects to be in six states. The following are some of the stations that will air Houston Oilers football during the 1982 season.
