JACK KENT COOKE

Since becoming majority owner of the Redskins in 1974, Mr. Cooke has been the constant driving force of one of the most successful franchises in professional sports.

Eight playoff appearances, four division titles, three NFC crowns, and two Super Bowl titles are a testament to his leadership. The club's popularity is reflected in a string of season sellouts dating to 1966, a season ticket waiting list of 40,000, and the league's largest radio network.

One of Mr. Cooke's best decisions came in 1981 when he hired an obscure assistant coach named Joe Gibbs as head coach of the Washington Redskins. For those looking for a name coach, the move was puzzling, but today Gibbs is one of only 19 head coaches to record 100 NFL career victories. Among coaches with 10 playoff games, only Vince Lombardi has a better playoff percentage.

"He provides all the tools for success and is willing to make any moves to help us win," says head coach Joe Gibbs.

"I was satisfied that he had an inner intensity that matched that of any man I'd run into in the coaching ranks," Mr. Cooke recalled last year to David Kindred of The National. "I believe this intensity, this will to win, this almost invincible desire to perform is the difference between successful men and men who are not."

Two years ago Mr. Cooke saw a similar ability in another relative unknown, Charley Casserly, and named him general manager of the Redskins. Since then Casserly has become established as one of the top young general managers in the NFL.

"In Mr. Cooke, I have had the opportunity to work for the best owner in professional sports," states Casserly.

However, selecting the right people is only part of Mr. Cooke's formula of success. He also provides steadfast support to his teams and coaches.

Gibbs learned of this support early in his head coaching career when the Redskins limped to a 0-5 start in the first season. Mr. Cooke never wavered in his support of Gibbs and his staff. Instead of collapsing, the Redskins rallied to finish 8-8.

Almost ten years later, Mr. Cooke would face a similar situation in 1989 when a midseason slump dropped the Redskins to a 4-5 record. Again, Mr. Cooke remained steadfast while the Redskins rallied to win six of their last seven games to finish 10-6.

The Redskins now have a 163-95 record since 1974, and the future looks equally bright with two number one draft choices in hand for 1992.

However, Mr. Cooke was accustomed to success long before the Redskins. Starting in 1951 when he purchased the Toronto Maple Leaf minor league baseball team, winning with style has been his signature in the sports world. A year after buying the team, Mr. Cooke was named Minor League Executive of the Year by The Sporting News.

While owner of the Maple Leaf team, Mr. Cooke demonstrated the same eye for talent that brought Joe Gibbs to the Redskins when he advised second baseman George Anderson that he stop playing and become the team's manager. Today and several World Series later, he is better known as Sparky Anderson.

Five years later, he expanded into professional basketball and hockey when he became Chairman of the Board and President of California Sports Inc., corporate parent of the Forum, the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League and the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

When Mr. Cooke ran into a concrete wall with the Coliseum Commission on an arena lease for his teams, he retaliated by building the first privately funded indoor arena in the United States in 30 years. Today the Forum still ranks at the top of the country's arenas.

In 1971-72, Mr. Cooke brought an NBA title to the Lakers, and set a mark that may never be duplicated: 33 successive wins. Before leaving the Lakers, he also established the foundation that led to several other NBA championships when he traded for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and drafted and signed Magic Johnson.

There's hardly a sport that he's not been heavily involved in, ownership and operation of:

- Toronto Maple Leaf National Baseball League
- Los Angeles Wolves of North America Soccer League
(the League of which he was co-founder)
- Los Angeles Lakers National Basketball Association
- Los Angeles Kings National Hockey League

After buying a 25% share of the Redskins in 1960, Mr. Cooke became majority owner in 1974. He moved from California to Virginia in 1979 and acquired complete ownership of the team in 1985.

As always, Mr. Cooke provided the Redskins with only the best. He is currently building a new state of the art Redskin Park to replace the current training complex and is completing plans for a new 78,600 seat open air stadium for the team.

His passion for the Redskins is rivaled only by his love of horses and horseracing. His Elmendorf Racing and Breeding Farm may produce a Kentucky Derby winner for him in the future. He says, "It must be in the very near future, or I'll be disappointed." That day may be sooner than one thinks. Cooke has a record of winning. Presently his business interests are rapidly growing, Los Angeles Daily News, the Chrysler Building, cable television systems, and real estate enterprises; he has his hand in many other fields.

Born October 25, 1912 in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and beginning as an encyclopedia salesman during the depression at age 18, Mr. Cooke's versatility in business parallels his success in sports.

Mr. Cooke joined Northern Broadcasting and Publishing, Ltd and before he was 26 was one-third partner in Thomson Cooke Newspapers. Subsequently a 50-50 partner with Roy Thomson, he and Thomson operated radio stations and newspapers throughout Canada. Thomson was later elevated to the peerage becoming Lord Thomson of Fleet.

Cooke's father, Ralph E. was a picture frame manufacturer. His mother, Nancy, helped him develop an interest in music. As a youngster he played clarinet and saxophone, playing in bands in Toronto with Percy Faith, famous orchestra leader and composer, and Murry McEachern, outstanding trombonist. Mr. Cooke plays piano, and is a member of ASCAP and BMI, having written and published many songs.

A lover of the English language, Mr. Cooke is an avid reader, an antique collector, a wine connoisseur, and rides one of his collection of Tennessee Walkers almost daily.

What is the secret of his full and successful life?

"Energy, and one of the consequences of energy, enthusiasm, is the product of a confluence of genes," explained Cooke to Kindred—nothing more; nothing less.

Clearly, Jack Kent Cooke has the genes of success.

JKC and his wife, Marlena, enjoying one of the many Redskins practices which both of them regularly attend.

WINNING WAYS

Since the start of the 1981 season—Joe Gibbs' first as head coach in Washington—the Redskins have played their way to some impressive marks. They have recorded 10-or-more victories in seven of the last eight seasons, own the League's best playoff percentage and are second in overall record only to the San Francisco 49ers. Their overall marks include:

NEW REDSKIN PARK

The Washington Redskins are moving their team training and front office complex to a site eight miles from the current Redskin Park.

Set on a picturesque 161 acres of land, the new Redskin Park will have four football fields (three natural grass and one Astro Turf), ample parking and first-class provisions for television and press. The building itself will be approximately three times the size of the current complex amassing some 65,000 square feet.

Located in Beaumeade Corporate Park at the intersection of Virginia State Routes 28 and 625, the two-story concrete and glass structure will house the front office, coaches and team meeting rooms upstairs and the player locker room, training rooms, etc. downstairs.

The complex will include expanded weight training and equipment rooms, as well as a larger team meeting auditorium and various break-out rooms for position coaches and players. Also included in the new building will be more space for college and professional scouts, an enlarged video department and a players' recreational area, including a basketball court, two racquetball courts, a jacuzzi, steambath and lounge.

The media room will have cubicles furnished with desks and file cabinets for beat reporters, as well as a separate interview room and kitchen. Each cubical will be pre-wired for telephones and computers.

Redskin Owner Jack Kent Cooke last August purchased the land for the new complex because the Redskins have outgrown the current Redskin Park.

JOHN KENT COOKE

Executive Vice President

Under the watchful eye of Executive Vice President John Kent Cooke, the 1980's marked a decade of unparalleled success for the Washington Redskins and the 1990's promise to be equally exciting with his leadership. Like Joe Gibbs' coaching record, Mr. Cooke's administrative record speaks for itself.

Since Mr. Cooke assumed administration of the Redskins in 1981, the accomplishments on the field are well-known—six playoff appearances, three NFC titles, four division crowns, and two Super Bowl championships.

However, Mr. Cooke has directed an equally successful program for the Redskins front office. The innovative Redskins preseason television package ranks among the most attractive in sports. The Redskins pioneered the NFL's first televised live scrimmages and the game ratings consistently rank first in their time slot. The Redskins 85-station radio network is one of the largest in the NFL, and a season-ticket waiting list of over 40,000 complements the existing season-seat owners who have filled RFK Stadium since 1966.

Given his success and experience, it is not surprising that the League has also asked him to serve on various committees. However, his energies remain devoted to the Redskins and their success. While representing the Redskins at all League meetings, his focus is on the day-to-day responsibilities of running a successful franchise.

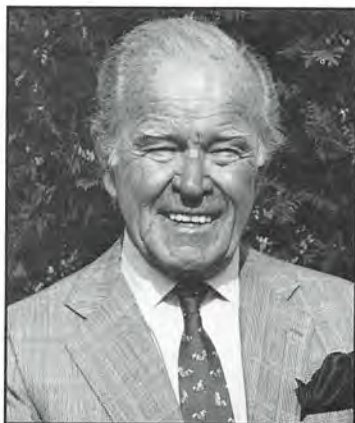

Mr. Cooke attended Upper Canada College and Waterloo College in Canada, majoring in English and journalism. In 1959, he became a trainee director/producer with Associated Television in England, and worked in Los Angeles a year later in the production department of QM Productions, a Hollywood television production company, and subsequently American Cablevision Company, a cable television company.

In 1965, Mr. Cooke became a Vice President of Advertising, Sales, and Promotions for all sports and entertainment events at the Forum in Inglewood, CA, the home of the NBA Lakers and NHL Kings.

In addition to his professional sports involvement, Mr. Cooke finds enjoyment on the water, sailing the sloop "Que²".

Mr. Cooke is an officer of Jack Kent Cooke, Inc., and a trustee of Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA. His eldest son, John, graduated from Dickinson and works as Director of Stadium Operations and Club Promotions for the Redskins. His younger son, Thomas, an aspiring photographer, is a student at Brooks Institute in Santa Barbara, CA.

CHARLEY CASSERLY

General Manager

Springfield College
15th NFL Year

In two short years, Charley Casserly has made a vivid impression on all who have watched him work . . . and work . . . and work.

"Nobody goes at his task harder than Charley," says head coach Joe Gibbs. "He is a bulldog."

Casserly's tenacity was his trademark when named General Manager of the Redskins May 6, 1989. Since assuming duties, Charley has combined that work ethic and shrewdness to help the Redskins back to the NFL playoffs.

In his first NFL orchestrated draft in 1990, Casserly found a second round gem in linebacker Andre Collins, who became the first Redskin rookie starter since Darrell Green seven years earlier. Later he engineered trades to bring starters Eric Williams and Tim Johnson to the defensive line.

All played prominent roles in Washington's 10-6 playoff season last year, along with Casserly Plan B acquisitions such as Fred Stokes (1989), Martin Mayhew (1989), and Jumpy Geathers (1990). Overall, the Redskin success in the Plan B market has been hard to match. Of the 27 players signed in the first two years, 15 made the roster and eight started at least one game.

During his two years as General Manager, the Redskins have compiled a 20-17 regular season record while returning to the playoffs for the first time since 1988. The future also looks promising with two number one selections in hand for the upcoming draft.

His success may have been a surprise to some, but not to Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke, who predicted as much for Casserly on the day of his appointment.

"Charley is fully familiar with every facet of our operation and I expect he'll be capable of keeping the Redskins in contention in the National Football League," said Mr. Cooke.

In retrospect, Mr. Cooke's foresight was understandable. Casserly had worked his way up from the very bottom of the organization, beginning as an intern for the late George Allen in 1977.

At the time, he was teaching and coaching football at Minnechaugh High School in Massachusetts, and letters to every team in the league brought a positive response from only two—the Redskins and the Patriots. The intrigue of George Allen lured him to Washington. His assets were a love for football and a tireless will to work. His salary was non-existent, but Casserly remained steadfast in his desire to work in the NFL.

"I said I would work without pay, asking myself at the time if I meant it," says Casserly. "I did."

"I had an old car and I put everything I owned into it," recalls Casserly. "I didn't know anything about Washington, so I moved into a room at the YMCA in Alexandria for $8 a night. I thought it was a good deal, and it was all I could afford. I didn't realize it was 40 miles from the office."

In fact, it was the Redskins who got one of the best deals in their history. Charley advanced from intern, to a full-time scout to assistant general manager in 1982. His eye for talent uncovered unknowns such as Joe Jacoby and Jeff Bostic. In 1987 he was primarily responsible for assembling the undefeated replacement team.

Today the same fire that brought Casserly to the Redskins continues to burn.

Casserly is a native of River Edge, N.J., and attended Bergen Catholic High School in Oradell, N.J.

Although never a candidate for the NFL as a player, Charley played at Springfield College while earning his B.S. in education and masters in guidance. He served as an assistant coach at Cathedral High in Springfield from 1969-72 and as an assistant at Springfield College from 1973-74. He became Athletic Director at Cathedral (1974-75) before serving as head coach at Minnechaugh High from 1975-76. Born February 27, 1949, Charley and his wife, Bev, have a daughter, Shannon, 7. They reside in Sterling, VA.

BOBBY MITCHELL

Assistant General Manager

23rd Year
Illinois

Few have done more for the Redskins organization than Bobby Mitchell has in 23 years of loyal service. As a player, scout, front office executive and good will ambassador, Bobby has the respect and the admiration from the Washington, D.C. community.

A 1983 inductee into the Hall of Fame, Bobby joined the Redskins' personnel staff in 1969. He was promoted to Director of Pro Scouting, then to Assistant to the President in 1978. He was named Assistant General Manager in 1981. Bobby enters his 34th National Football League season.

He has come a long way since being an eighth round selection by the Cleveland Browns in the 1958 draft. He played in four Pro Bowls (one with Cleveland and three with Washington) over his 11-year career and is considered one of the NFL's all-time great receivers.

Bobby came to Washington in 1962 after playing 48 consecutive games at left halfback for the Browns, alongside fellow Hall of Famer Jim Brown. He was traded to Washington along with Leroy Jackson for Ernie Davis (Washington's number one draft choice in the 1962 draft) and was switched to wide receiver. As a Brown and Redskin he posted 2,735 yards rushing on 513 attempts (5.3-yard average); 521 receptions (20th all-time) for 7,953 yards (15.3-yard average); 69 punt returns for 699 yards (10.2-yard average); 102 kickoff returns for 2,690 yards (26.4 average); 91 touchdowns (fifth all-time) for 546 points; and 14,078 total yards (fifth best in NFL history).

Bobby has been selected to Who's Who in Black America, the Arkansas Hall of Fame, the DC All-Star Hall of Fame and the Washington, DC Touchdown Club Hall of Fame. He is a board member of the American Lung Association (DC) and the Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Holiday Commission. COACHES

JOE GIBBS

Head Coach

11th NFL Year
San Diego State

Few in any profession can match the standard of excellence Joe Gibbs has established the last decade as head coach of the Washington Redskins. And heading into his 11th season in Washington, there are no signs of slowing down.

After missing the playoffs two years in a row, Gibbs led the Redskins back to postseason play last season despite being forced to use three different starting quarterbacks. But such versatility, along with superior motivational skills and a unique work ethic, are why Gibbs' teams have won 113 times in his 10 years as coach.

Expectations will be high in the '90s, due largely to the fact only one NFL team, San Francisco, has compiled a better record than the Redskins' 113-55 mark under Gibbs since 1981.

In addition to his 113 coaching victories, the Gibbs Era has seen the Redskins earn two world titles, three Super Bowl appearances, three NFC Championships, four division titles, and six playoff berths.

Gibbs is only one of 19 National Football League coaches to register 100 victories, and only six did it faster. Washington's first regular season victory in 1991 will move Gibbs into 14th place on the all-time career victory list.

His teams have won at least 10 games in seven of 10 seasons, and have become known for improving as the season progresses. During December, Gibbs' teams are an enviable 28-9. Only one coach with 10 playoff games, Vince Lombardi, has a better winning percentage than Gibbs' 12-4 postseason mark.

Such late-season excellence saved the Redskins in their playoff drive last season. After dropping to 6-5 with a Thanksgiving Day loss at Dallas, the Skins rebounded with a 4-1 mark in the regular season's final month.

The only thing as consistent as the teams Gibbs leads on the field is the coach's steadfast refusal to take credit for the organization's accomplishments.

"I have been fortunate to work in a great situation over the years," says Gibbs. "We have a tremendous owner in Mr. Cooke, excellent scouts and support staff, and supportive fans."

Gibbs has been a prime mover in a decade of prosperity. From the moment he left his post as offensive coordinator of the San Diego Chargers in 1981 to join the Redskins, Gibbs has set the tone for success. After an 0-5 start in his inaugural campaign, the team responded in what would become typical fashion and finished 8-8. In 1982-83, he became the first head coach in 20 years to be named Coach of the Year by the Associated Press in consecutive seasons.

In 1982 his team posted the sixth-best record in NFL history (12-1) while winning Super Bowl XVII, and a year later his offense set an NFL record for points in a season (541) enroute to Super Bowl XVIII. In 1984, the Redskins' 66 sacks were the fourth-highest total ever, and their plus 43 turnover ratio set an NFL record.

Gibbs now ranks as the NFL's fourth-winningest active coach behind Don Shula, Chuck Noll, and Chuck Knox. He has won with veteran teams, young teams, running teams and passing teams, but consistency has been his trademark from the beginning.

His coaching career began at San Diego State, his alma mater, under Don Coryell. He joined the Aztecs staff in 1964 as a graduate assistant and coached the offensive line during a period when the team won 27 of 31 games, including an 11-0 mark in 1966.

In 1967, Gibbs joined Bill Peterson's staff at Florida State as offensive line coach and was part of a 15-4-1 record over two seasons.

In 1969, John McKay brought Gibbs to USC and the Trojans went 15-4-1 over two seasons. The winning ways continued when Gibbs joined Frank Broyles' staff at Arkansas and the Razorbacks were 14-8-1 over two seasons with Joe Ferguson at quarterback.

Coryell put Gibbs' name on the NFL marquee in 1973, naming him offensive backfield coach for the Cardinals. From 1973-77, the Cardinals were 42-27-1 with two NFC East titles.

In 1978, Gibbs became Tampa Bay's offensive coordinator under McKay. After one season with the Buccaneers, Coryell called again in '79 and tabbed Gibbs as his offensive coordinator at San Diego. In two seasons as the pilot for "Air Coryell", Gibbs helped the Chargers win two AFC West titles behind the record setting passing of Dan Fouts. His brilliant coaching career caught the attention of Jack Kent Cooke, who named Gibbs the Washington Redskins' 17th head coach on January 13, 1981.

Born in Mocksville, NC, on November 25, 1940, Gibbs moved to the West Coast as a child and graduated from Santa Fe Spring High School.

He attended Cerritos (CA) Junior College and then transferred to San Diego State, where he played guard, tight end and linebacker. A raquetball enthusiast, Gibbs was the 35-and-over national champion in 1976 and ranked second in '77. He is very active in church and youth programs, especially the Youth for Tomorrow/New Life Center, a home in suburban Virginia for wayward teens. He has expended much time and energy in fund-raising efforts for the Prince William County home. Gibbs' hobbies include hunting, water skiing and watching his sons participate for their college teams. He and his wife, Pat, have two sons, Jason Dean (JD), 22, a recent graduate of William and Mary, and Coy Randle, 18, a freshman student-athlete at Stanford. The family resides in Vienna, VA.

GIBBS IN THE PLAYOFFS

In Joe Gibbs' 10 seasons, there have been six playoff berths, four division titles, four NFC championship appearances, three Super Bowl trips and two world titles (Super Bowl XVII & Super Bowl XXII).

The Skins are 12-4 (.750) under Gibbs in the playoffs which is the second-best winning percentage among active NFL coaches (49ers George Seifert is 4-1 .800).

His 12 playoff wins is the third most among active NFL coaches (Don Shula 17 and Chuck Noll 16). And among coaches with 100 career victories, Gibbs is tied for the third best mark in NFL history.

RICHIE PETITBON

Assistant Head Coach/Defense

18th NFL Year
14th Redskins
Tulane

COACHING: Preparation and getting the most out of their players has been a Redskin trademark since Richie began choreographing the Skins defense in 1978 (longest current tenure). Crafty and innovative, Richie was put in charge of the entire defense in 1981, the year Joe Gibbs took over as head coach. Richie has been a member of every Redskin Super Bowl team as a player or coach. Before re-joining the Skins as a coach, he spent four seasons as defensive backfield coach for the Houston Oilers, 1974-77.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: As an NFL player from 1959-72, Richie had 48 career interceptions and made four Pro Bowl appearances. A second-round pick of the Chicago Bears, he set five club interception marks and played on the '63 World Championship team. He was traded to the Los Angeles Rams in 1969 and played there two seasons before joining the Redskins in '71. He was a member of the Redskins 1972 Super Bowl team. This is Richie's 32nd year in the NFL. He was an all-SEC quarterback at Tulane. He was born April 18, 1938, in New Orleans, LA; he attended Jesuit H.S. Richie and his wife, Beverly, have three children: Hope, 28, Richie, 26, and Vicki Leigh, 25. The Petitbon's live in Vienna, VA.

LARRY PECCATIELLO

Defensive Coordinator

20th NFL Year
11th Redskins
William & Mary

COACHING: Production and consistency is the first thing people around the NFL talk about when mentioning the Redskin linebackers over the past decade.

Since joining the club in 1981, Larry has developed a unit that year-in and year-out rates as one of the NFL's finest groups. With 31 years of coaching experience, Larry has earned the respect of players and peers. Noted for his teaching abilities on the practice field, Larry began his NFL coaching career in 1972 with the Houston Oilers. He joined Seattle in 1976 as linebacker coach and defensive coordinator. He coached at four different colleges before moving to the pros. He started at his alma mater, William & Mary (1961-68), and coached under Marv Levy. In 1969, Larry coached for Rick Forzano at Navy before moving to Florida State in 1970 and then to Rice in '71.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Larry was captain of William & Mary's team his senior season, earning all-Southern Conference honors and all-America as a wide receiver. Born December 21, 1935 in Newark, NJ; he attended Barringer H.S. Larry served as a lieutenant in the 101st Airborne Division. He holds a masters degree in education. Larry and his wife, Betsy, have four children: Teri, 31, Arnie, 30, Kathy, 28, and Marci, 27. The Peccatiello's reside in Warrenton, VA.

DON BREAU

Running Backs

12th NFL Year
11th Redskins
McNeese State

COACHING: From John Riggins to Earnest Byner, the Redskins' running game has been in the capable hands of Don Breaux throughout the Joe Gibbs era. The highlights are memorable and many: John Riggins' fourth-down touchdown run in Super Bowl XVII; the record-setting performance of Timmy Smith in Super Bowl XXII; Byner rushing for 1,219 yards and being named to the Pro Bowl; and in last season's stretch run to the playoffs when the Redskins rushing offense averaged 176.2 yards on the ground. The memories are plentiful. Don came to Washington with Coach Joe Gibbs in 1981 after coaching four seasons at Arkansas under Lou Holtz. Don coached 14 seasons in college and served with teams that made 12 post-season bowls. He served as an offensive assistant at Texas (1975-76), Florida (1973-74), Arkansas (1968-71) and Florida State (1966-67). He coached the Houston Oilers' running backs in 1972.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Don was a quarterback at McNeese State from 1956-61 and in the AFL with Denver (1963) and San Diego (1964-65). He completed 92-181 passes for 1,339 yards and nine touchdowns over his pro career. Born August 3, 1940 in Jennings, LA; he attended LaGrange H.S. in Lake Charles, LA. Don and his wife, Harleen Marie, have two daughters: Kara Lynn, 28 and Sheila Marie, 26. The Breaux's reside in Centreville, VA.

JACK BURNS

Offensive Assistant/Receivers

3rd NFL Year
Florida

COACHING: In two seasons, Jack's impact on the Redskins' passing game has been apparent. In his first NFL season, the Redskins led the NFL in passing and Mark Rypien enjoyed his best season and was selected to the Pro Bowl. Last season, Gary Clark returned to the Pro Bowl for the fourth time. While still relatively new to the NFL, his knowledge of the passing game is well respected. Jack spent 14 years in the college ranks and three seasons (1981-83) as an offensive assistant with the Tampa Bay Bandits of the USFL. He began his coaching career at his alma mater, the University of Florida (1971-72). He then moved to Louisville (1973-74) before returning to Florida in '75. PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Bobby played linebacker for three years at the University of Maryland before he suffered a knee injury in the 1984 spring game. Bobby played on the same Maryland teams as Richie Petitbon, Jr., son of the Redskins' assistant head coach. ROD DOWHWOWER

Quarterbacks/Passing Game

13th NFL Year
2nd Redskins
San Diego State

COACHING: The addition of Rod to the Redskin staff was dramatic in 1990 as the team returned to the playoffs. His experience and knowledge as a former NFL head coach and assistant was felt immediately as the Redskins remained one of the most dangerous offenses in the NFL. Noted as a top-flight offensive strategist, Rod has learned his craft from some of the league's most innovative coaches like Bill Walsh, Don Coryell, Dick Vermeil and Dan Reeves. Rod began his NFL coaching career as an assistant under Coryell in St. Louis (1973) and later had stints in Denver (1980-81), a return to St. Louis (1982-84) and most recently in Atlanta (1987-89). From 1985-86, Rod was the head coach for the Indianapolis Colts. Rod also coached 13 years on the collegiate level, including one year as head coach at Stanford (1979). His other stops included San Diego State (1966-72), UCLA (1974-75), Boise State (1976) and Stanford (1977-78).

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Nicknamed the "Rocket" as an all-America quarterback for Don Coryell at San Diego State, Rod was a college teammate of Joe Gibbs and Redskins assistants Wayne Sevier and Rennie Simmons. He still holds the Aztecs' school marks for passing yardage and touchdowns. He was born April 15, 1943 in Ord, NE; he attended Santa Barbara (CA) H.S. He and his wife Nancy have two sons: Brian, 20, and and Deron, 19, who are both students at the University of Virginia. The Dowhower's reside in Reston, VA.

STRETCH RUN

In winning four of their final five games in 1990 to clinch a Wild Card Playoff berth, the Redskins rushing offense and rushing defense came to the forefront.

In that stretch run, the Redskins boasted the second-best rushing offense in the league averaging 176.2 yards on the ground. Defensively against the rush, the Redskins stood second in the league over the last five weeks allowing only 68.4 yards a game.

JIM HANIFAN

Offensive Line

17th NFL Year
2nd Redskins
California

COACHING: Jim's record and reputation as a molder of Pro Bowl offensive linemen throughout his career didn't diminish in his first season with the Redskins as Jim Lachey was named the NFC Offensive Lineman of the Year. As an assistant coach he tutored some of the NFL's premier linemen during the 1970s and '80s like Dan Dierdorf, Ed White, Conrad Dobler and Bill Fralic. Jim spent 11 years in St. Louis, first as the offensive line coach (1974-78) and then as head coach (1980-85). He left the Cardinals in 1979 to re-join Don Coryell in San Diego as assistant head coach. He and Joe Gibbs were on Coryell's staff for four seasons (1974-77) in St. Louis and one year in San Diego. His offensive line in St. Louis allowed the fewest sacks from 1974-78 and in 1977 Jim was named the league's top assistant coach by a vote of NFL coaches. In 1987, Jim moved to Atlanta as offensive line coach where he spent three seasons. He began his coaching career on the collegiate level at Yuba (CA) Junior College (1961-63) before moving onto Glendale (CA) Junior College (1964-66), Utah (1967-70), California (1971-72) and San Diego State (1972-73).

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Jim was an All-American tight end at California (1952-54) where he led the nation in receiving as a senior. Following his collegiate career at Berkeley, Jim played one season with the Toronto Argonauts (1955) in the CFL. Born September 21, 1933 in Compton, CA; he attended Corina H.S. in Corina, CA. He and his wife Mariana, have two children: Kathleen, 31 and James, 19. The Hanifan's reside in Reston, VA.

REDSKINS FIRSTS

The Washington Redskins became the first, and only, team in NFL history to win a World Championship in their first year by defeating the Chicago Bears 28-21 to claim the 1937 title. On February 13 1937, the National Football League approved the transfer of the Boston Redskins franchise to Washington, DC. The Redskins, in their first season in Washington, compiled an 8-3 record on the road to the NFL title.

DAN RILEY

Strength Coach

10th NFL Year
Keene State

COACHING: Ask any of the Redskins' players about Dan and they will tell you there is nobody quite like him. Both his flamboyant personality and his work ethic are hard to match. Dan joined the team in 1982 and the Redskins promptly went to back-to-back Super Bowls. Since joining the Redskins, the team has won four NFC East championships, three NFC championships and two world titles. Before joining the Redskins, Dan served five seasons as strength coach at Penn State (1978-82) and four years at the US Military Academy (1974-77) at West Point.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Dan has authored four books on weight training. A 1972 graduate of Keene State (NH), he earned a masters degree in physical education from Indiana University in 1973. Born October 19, 1949, Dan is a native of Manchester, NH and attended Central H.S. He and his wife, Brenda, have two sons: Marty, 17 and Timmy, 13. The Riley's reside in Ashburn, VA.

WAYNE SEVIER

Special Teams

16th Season
9th Redskins

COACHING: When you think of special teams, you think of characters, guys who can walk into a room and capture the attention of everyone in it within minutes. In that respect, Wayne Sevier is no different than his players. His sense of humor, his competitive personality, and his willingness to do whatever it takes to win make him a natural special teamer. That's why coach Joe Gibbs re-hired Wayne in 1989. However, winning is the bottom line for Wayne. He has been to two Super Bowls, four NFC championship games and has been to the playoffs seven times as division champion and has made two wild card appearances. Wayne coached in Washington from 1981-86 before leaving for the Chargers because his family was located in San Diego. He has coached for four different NFL teams—the St. Louis Cardinals (1974-75), the Atlanta Falcons (1976), Chargers (1979-80, 1987-88) and Redskins.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Wayne was Don Coryell's first starting quarterback at San Diego State and a teammate of Gibbs (1961-62) and Redskins assistant Rennie Simmons. He graduated with academic distinction in mathematics. Wayne was born July 3, 1941 in San Diego, CA; he attended Sweetwater H.S. His wife, Barbara, is Gibbs' secretary. The two live in Warrenton, VA. Wayne has four children: Mike, 32, Lorine, 30, Thane, 29, and Anna, 16; and eight grandchildren.

WARREN "RENNIE" SIMMONS

Offensive Line

11th Year
San Diego State

COACHING: Whether it's working with the tight ends or the offensive line, quality has been Rennie's trademark over the past decade of service to the Redskins. When Joe Gibbs needed a coach for his tight ends in 1981, he looked into his past and found the perfect man. Gibbs and Simmons were childhood friends and had played together at San Diego State. "Rennie" has provided Gibbs with both a trusted friend and a good coach. A decade later and the relationship has been a prosperous one for the Washington Redskins. Rennie coached at California State-Fullerton (1974-78) and Cerritos (CA) Junior College (1978-80) before coming to Washington in 1981.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Rennie played center at San Diego State (1963-65) and was a teammate of Gibbs, Wayne Sevier and Rod Dowhower. Born February 25, 1942 in Poughkeepsie, NY; he attended Santa Fe H.S. in Santa Fe, CA. He and his wife, Carol, have two children: Rod, 29 and Karen, 25. They reside in Ashburn, VA.

CHARLEY TAYLOR

Research and Development/ Wide Receivers

27th Year
Arizona State

COACHING: For over a quarter of a century, Charley Taylor has been a fixture with the Washington Redskins, first as a Hall of Fame (1964-77) receiver, scout (1978-80) and now as an assistant coach (1981-90). It is no coincidence that “The Posse”—Art Monk, Gary Clark, and Ricky Sanders all learned their craft under Charley. Charley became receivers coach in 1981 in Coach Joe Gibbs’ first year with the team. He joined the Redskins’ front office as a scout July 1, 1978 after retiring as a player.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Charley was inducted into the Hall of Fame in July, 1984. In ‘85, he also was inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame, located in his hometown of Grand Prairie, TX. He also is in “Who’s Who in Black America,” and “Who’s Who in Texas.” He is football’s fourth all-time leading receiver with 649 catches for 9,130 yards. An eight-time Pro Bowl selectee and holder of the Redskins’ all-time career and single-season touchdown records, Charley scored 90 touchdowns (sixth all-time) and totaled 10,833 yards. He was NFL Rookie of the Year in 1964 as the Redskins’ first-round draft choice (the Redskins drafted him as a running back). He caught 50 or more passes a season seven times. Charley was an all-American runner at Arizona State (1962-64). An avid outdoorsman, Charley was appointed to the Game and Inland Fisheries Commission in 1983 by Virginia Governor Charles Robb. Born September 28, 1942 in Grand Prairie, TX; he attended Dalworth H.S. Charley and his wife, Patricia, have three children: Charley, 26, Elizabeth Erin, 22 and Erica, 11. The Taylor’s reside in Reston, VA.

HOT DECEMBER

Traditionally under Joe Gibbs, the Redskins have been strong finishers and December has been a hot month for the club over the past decade. Since 1980, the Redskins boast the best December record in the NFL with a glittering 31-9 mark. Under Gibbs, the Skins have posted an outstanding 28-9 (.757) record in December (including playoffs) and have won eight of their last nine December outings.

EMMITT THOMAS

Defensive Backs

11th NFL Year
6th Redskins
Bishop College (TX)

COACHING: It's no surprise to anyone with the Redskins, and the NFL, that Emmitt is reaching the same all-star status as a coach he knew as a player. He spent his first season with the Redskins (1986) as an offensive assistant but has coached the secondary the past three seasons. Before coming to Washington, Emmitt coached the St. Louis Cardinals' highly regarded receiving corps for five seasons (1981-85). The unit led the NFC in receptions in 1984. He was defensive backfield coach at Central Missouri State (1979-80) for two seasons before joining the Cardinals.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: In a 13-year standout career with the Kansas City Chiefs, Emmitt played in four Pro Bowls and two Super Bowls. He compiled 58 career interceptions, including one in Super Bowl IV, and twice led the NFL in interceptions. In fact, he holds the distinction of being the last AFL player to record an interception. In the game's closing minutes of Super Bowl IV, his third INT of the playoffs (two in the AFL title game) allowed the Chiefs to run out the clock. Emmitt played quarterback and wide receiver at Bishop College from 1961-65 before he signed as a free agent with the Chiefs and was converted to a defensive back. Born in Angleton, TX on June 3, 1943; he attended Marshall H.S. Emmitt and his wife, Jacqui, live in Reston, VA. He has two children—Derek and Debra.

LAVERN "TORGY" TORGESON

Defensive Line

33rd NFL Year
21st Redskins
Washington State

COACHING: Torgy Torgeson enters his 41st consecutive year in the NFL as a player or coach, and he has left a mark in both areas. The Redskins' defensive line has totaled at least 50 sacks in five of the last eight seasons, at one point recording at least one sack in 64 consecutive games. But last season, Torgy was at his best. An area of concern for the club heading into the season, by the end of the season it was one of the strongest. With the early-season acquisitions, Torgy molded a unit that over the season's final five weeks allowed only 68 yards on the ground. Torgy also has had a memorable career. The Redskins have played in four Super Bowls and Torgy has been with them in all four. In all, Torgy has been to five Super Bowls (one with the Rams). He began his coaching career in Washington in 1959 before joining the Steelers in 1962. He moved to the Los Angeles Rams in 1969, and returned to Washington in 1971, coaching under George Allen. Torgy re-joined the Rams in 1978 before again returning to Washington for a third time in 1981.

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Torgy played linebacker and center for the Detroit Lions and was a part of two World Championship teams (1952-53) and one runner-up (1954). He finished his playing career with the Redskins (1955-58). Torgy earned all-Pro honors five times in eight years and played in 94 of 96 games. In college, Torgy played linebacker and center at Washington State (1948-50). Born February 28, 1929 in LaCrosse, WA; he attended LaCrosse H.S. Torgy and his wife, Nola, have two daughters: Teri, 32 and Tami, 31.

FIRST DC STADIUM WIN

It didn't come easy, but on December 17, 1961 the Redskins finally got their first DC Stadium (now RFK Stadium) win in the '61 season finale with Dallas. Dickie James scored four touchdowns, a Redskin single-game record (Larry Brown tied it in 1973), to lead the Redskins to a 34-24 win. The win ended a 23-game winless streak for the Redskins dating back to the 1960 season.

STEVE WETZEL

Assistant Strength Coach

2nd NFL Year
Slippery Rock

COACHING: In just one season with the club, Steve's hard work ethic was immediately noticed. Before joining the Redskins, he spent the previous four years on the collegiate level. Prior to accepting his current post, Steve served four months as the head strength coach at George Mason University and four seasons as an assistant strength coach at the University of Maryland (1985-89).

PLAYING AND PERSONAL: Steve is a 1985 graduate of Slippery Rock and is a former ADFPA collegiate bench press record holder. Born May 11, 1963, in Washington, D.C., he attended Park View High School in Sterling, VA, where he was a teammate of the Houston Oilers' Allen Pinkett. He and his wife, Michelle, reside in Fairfax, VA.

HAIL TO THE REDSKINS

On August 17, 1938, "Hail to the Redskins" made its debut as the official fight song of the Washington Redskins. Since its debut 53 years ago, the song has had a few minor changes from the original lyrics penned by Corinne Griffith (wife of owner George Preston Marshall). Griffith's original lyrics had "Fight for old Dixie" instead of today's "Fight for Old D.C.," Also, Griffith originally had "Scalp 'em, Swamp 'em big score. Read 'em, weep 'em, Touch-down, we want heap more" instead of today's version.

"Hail to the Redskins!
Hail Victory!
Braves on the Warpath!
Fight for Old D.C.!
Run or pass or score —
we want a lot more!
Beat 'em Swamp 'em Touchdown — let the points soar!
Fight on, Fight on —
Till you have won,
Sons of Wash-ing-ton!!"

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Mark caught a touchdown pass in 1987 as a member of the Kansas City Chiefs.
- * Mark has started 49 games over his career.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent on March 29, 1990.

Games Played/Started: 61/49 — KC 1986 (15/15); 1987 (12/12); 1988 (10/10); 1989 (16/11); WASH 1990 (8/1)[1/0]

1990 Season: As he had done since he began playing football, Mark prepared every week to play, but circumstances were different in his first season as a Redskin. As the eighth offensive lineman, he played in only eight games and carried a clipboard on the sidelines for eight others. "We were very impressed with Mark's tenacity and mental toughness to be ready to go each week," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "He was mentally and physically prepared to play every game. We count on Mark as an integral part of our football team." And when he was called on to play, Mark responded and played well. No matter what the position. He played backup roles at left tackle (Bills), right guard (Colts, Dolphins) and left guard (Dolphins). Mark's only start came in Week 10 against the Saints when he played the entire game at left guard in place of injured Russ Grimm.

Pro Career: 1989: Mark was one of the most highly regarded Plan B free agents, bringing to Washington plenty of experience and savvy as a veteran offensive guard. He started 48 games during his four NFL seasons besides starting in the USFL in 1984 and 1985. He started 11 games for Kansas City where he had spent his entire NFL career. 1988: Mark bounced back from a back injury in training camp to start the final 10 games of the season at right guard after coming off injured reserve. 1987: Mark was Kansas City's only offensive lineman to start all 12 games that he appeared in. He even showed his versatility and athletic ability by catching a three-yard touchdown pass from Bill Kenney in season finale vs. Seattle. 1986: After a two-year stint with the USFL's Los Angeles Express, Mark signed with the Chiefs and immediately became a starter on the Kansas City offensive line, starting 15 games at right guard. 1984-85: Mark originally was Kansas City's first-round draft choice in the NFL's 1984 supplemental draft, but he opted to sign with the USFL's Express.

College, Personal: Mark was a second-team all-America selection as a senior at Baylor where he started 33 consecutive games for the Bears. Besides his all-America notice, he was a first-team all-SWC choice as a senior and a second-teamer as a junior. CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Jeff was named to the Pro Bowl in 1983.
- * His 148 games as a Redskin is 14th on the club's all-time list.
- * Jeff has started all 16 playoff games under Joe Gibbs.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent September 2, 1980.

Games Played/Started: 148/119 — 1980 (16/0); 1981 (16/16); 1982 (9/9)[4/4]; 1983 (16/16)[3/3]; 1984 (8/8); 1985 (10/6); 1986 (16/16)[3/3]; 1987 (12/5)[3/3]; 1988 (13/11); 1989 (16/16); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: From start to finish, Jeff's 11th NFL season was one of his best. Not only did he start every game for the second year in a row, "Bosco's" leadership and experience gave the Redskins an additional coach on the field. "Jeff meant a great deal to the offensive line," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "He gave us great leadership. Jeff made all the line calls and he really did an exceptional job of handling the offensive line every week." And typically, Jeff turned in an outstanding effort every week. It was his key block that sprung

Jeff Rutledge on his 12-yard touchdown run that tied the Lions in Week 8 with just :18 seconds left in the game. In the Redskins stretch run to the playoffs, it was Jeff and his fellow "Hogs" who carried the team on their shoulders. In that stretch run, the Redskins boasted the second-best rushing offense in the league averaging 176.2 yards on the ground. Prior to the start of the season, Jeff was awarded the "Nate Fine Memorial Award" at the Redskin Alumni Welcome Home Luncheon which is given to a player completely dedicated to the Redskins and the game of football. "He epitomizes the Redskins," says Hanifan.

Pro Career: 1989: Jeff was the glue that kept everything in place as the only offensive player to start all 16 games. With his co-Hogs going down to injury all around him, Jeff picked up the slack and had his finest year since his Pro Bowl year of 1983. Only a bruised left calf in the second half of the Week 2 game against Philadelphia kept Bosco sidelined during the year. He was named Redskin of the Year by Washington's Quarterback Club. 1988: After working his way into the starting lineup, Jeff suffered bruised ribs in Week 13, then came back to start in the last game of the year. Despite a ligament-damaging knee injury in the finale, Jeff fought back to an '89 starting role. 1987: Jeff started the season as a reserve when the Redskins opted for more size in the line and switched Russ Grimm from guard to center. But after Grimm suffered a knee injury, Jeff stepped into the starting role in Week 11 and added stability to a unit that had changed frequently during the first part of the season. Jeff started through the team's Super Bowl victory over the Denver Broncos and played a vital part in the Redskins' revitalized rushing attack during the playoffs. 1986: For the first time since he injured his knee against St. Louis in 1984, Jeff started and finished every game at center. He was named Offensive Player of the Game for efforts against New Orleans and San Francisco. 1985: The Redskins recipient of the Ed Block Courage Award, Jeff was without a doubt the team's Comeback Player of the Year. A knee injury he had suffered the previous season could have ended his career. Instead, Jeff came off the Physically Unable to Perform list on October 19 and played in the final 10 games, starting six. 1984: Heading into Week 8 against St. Louis, Jeff had played in 64 straight games, but when he hit the Busch Stadium turf on the last play of the third quarter his streak ended and questions about his football future were raised. He tore three of the four ligaments in his right knee and was out for the season. 1983: Jeff was recognized by his peers as the best center in the NFC, making the NFC Pro Bowl squad. He was one of three Washington linemen to make the team, joining guard Russ Grimm and tackle Joe Jacoby. He also was selected to the UPI first-team all-NFC team. Jeff helped pave the way for the league's third-ranked rushing attack and an offense that scored 21 points or more in every game except one. 1982: Jeff settled into his second year as the Redskins' starting center and helped the team register the league's second-highest time of possession. Because he did all the long-snapping, Jeff was an integral part of Mark Moseley's NFL-record 23 consecutive field goals. 1981: Jeff was the biggest surprise in the Redskins' training camp, earning the starting job at center. He also continued snapping for field goals and punts and led the punt-coverage team in tackles. 1980: Jeff signed with the Philadelphia Eagles as a free agent, was released late in training camp and signed with Washington six days before the season as a long-snapper. He didn't have one bad snap in 16 games and earned a game ball for causing a fumble against the San Diego Chargers.

College, Personal: Jeff was named to the all-Atlantic Coast Conference team his junior year at Clemson, then switched from center to guard as a senior. Born in Greensboro, N.C., Jeff graduated from Benjamin Smith High School. He won the 187 pound state wrestling championship as a senior. He is involved in real estate development in Greensboro, NC and Charleston, SC. He and his wife, Lynn, have two daughters—Ashley Lynn and Amanda. The Bostics reside in Oakton, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * John led the Redskins in both kickoff and punt coverage tackles last season.
- * Named special teams player of the week 9 of 16 games with 1989 Colts.

Games Played/Started: 60/2 — IND 1987 (12/2); 1988 (16/0); 1989 (16/0); WASH (16/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: John is usually the easiest player on the field to spot when the Redskins special teams are called into action. #82 can be found streaking down the field leading a suicidal charge to cover punts or breaking open the wedge on kickoffs. Not surprisingly, John led the Redskins in both kickoff coverage tackles (21) and punt coverage tackles (15). He finished second on the team with 107 total special teams hits. What makes his totals more impressive is his ability to lead the team in punt coverage tackles as the club's long snapper. John had a team-high 13 special teams hits vs. Miami and also had 12 against the Lions. And against Philadelphia, on five punt and kick return opportunites, John had four solo special teams tackles.

Pro Career: 1989: A Plan B acquisition by the Redskins, John was regarded as a rugged special teams performer in Indianapolis. He was named Colts' Special Teams Player of the Week nine times, while leading the team with 22 kick coverage tackles. He also handled all long snapping duties. 1988: John was used primarily in special teams situations and finished third on the team with 24 tackles. He also handled long snapping duties. 1987: John enjoyed his most productive receiving season as a pro catching five passes for 35 yards as a rookie after making the team as a free agent. He caught two passes at Miami and vs. Buffalo. Primarily a special teams performer, John finished with nine kick coverage tackles.

College, Personal: A walk-on as an offensive guard at Cameron State, John eventually made the switch to tight end as a senior. In his only season as a collegiate tight end, he caught eight passes for 98 yards and one TD. John also played one season of baseball at Cameron State. He graduated with a degree in health and physical education. John also is an avid softball player and plays up to 500 games during the offseason (along with several Redskin players he competes in a spring league in Fairfax County). - * He played a career-high 15 games in 1988.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent March 10, 1989.

Games Played/Started: 40/8—PHOE 1986 (11/4); 1987 (7/3); 1988 (15/1); WASH 1989 (7/0); 1990 (0/0)[1/0]

1990 Season: Although Ray spent the entire regular season on injured reserve, and saw his only game action in the playoff loss at San Francisco, Redskin coaches haven't changed their high opinion of him. "We have high regard for Ray," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "We think he is a guy that has shown that he can definitely play in this league. He has terrific athletic ability. We've worked him at both guard and tackle." Besides his hog-like size and off-the-field work habits, Ray's versatility also has impressed the Redskin coaching staff.

Pro Career: 1989: Ray's playing debut as a Redskin came in Week 10 vs Philadelphia, (due to a first quarter injury to Joe Jacoby) against the Eagles' Reggie White. Ray held the all-pro without a sack, helping pave the way for the 10-3 win and earning himself a game ball. 1988:

When the Redskins needed a versatile and experienced lineman to bolster their roster during Plan B, they picked up Ray off the Phoenix Cardinals' unprotected list. In '88 Ray played a career-high 15 games for Phoenix, starting the season finale. 1987: Ray was waived by Phoenix in training camp but re-signed Sept. 22. He started three games at left tackle before he was placed on injured reserve Nov. 12 with a torn finger tendon. Ray was reactivated Dec. 12 for the final three games. 1986: Ray made the team as an eighth-round draft choice. After playing much of the season as a reserve tackle (he spent Weeks 7-11 on IR with a knee injury), he started the final four games at left guard.

College, Personal: An all-Southland Conference selection at Arkansas State, Ray played both tackle and tight end. He transferred to ASU from Memphis State after his freshman year. CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Earnest was selected to his first Pro Bowl in 1990.
- * 1990 1st team all-pro by USA Today.
- * Earnest holds 3rd best single-season rushing mark in Redskin history (1,219 yards in 1990).
- * He is one of only 11 players in NFL history to gain over 1,000 yards with two different teams.

How Acquired: Obtained in a trade from the Cleveland Browns on draft day, April 22, 1989 for running back Mike Oliphant.

Games Played/Started: 99/80 — CLEVE 1984 (16/3); 1985 (16/13) [1/1]; 1986 (7/7) [1/0]; 1987 (12/12) [2/2]; 1988 (16/16) [1/1]; WASH 1989 (16/13); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: When the Washington Redskins wanted to return to a formula of success that included a ball-control, grind-it-out oriented attack—the burden fell on the shoulders of Earnest Byner. Not only did he not back down from the challenge, Earnest put together his finest season in the NFL. “He carried the load,” said running backs coach Don Breau. “He’s a slashing quick type of runner with good strength and it lends itself to our one-back offense. Earnest is a threat as a pass receiver and he totally understands what happens out there and he has the ability to produce in a game situation.” He produced enough to finish fourth in the NFL in rushing with 1,219 yards and was selected to his first Pro Bowl (the first Redskin runner selected since Mike Thomas in 1976). And when the Redskins were faced with a 5-4 record and the prospect of missing the playoffs for the third straight season, Earnest took things into his own hands. Taking on the full-time rushing duties beginning with New Orleans in Week 10, he averaged 110 yards and 26 carries a contest over the final seven weeks of the season. During that stretch run in which the Redskins won five of seven games and were the second-best rushing team in the NFL, Earnest rushed for over 100 yards five times, including four straight 100-yard efforts (the last Redskin to post four straight 100-yard games was John Riggins in the 1982 playoffs). The impressive streak included 157 yards vs. Miami, 121 yards vs. Chicago, 149 yards at New England and 154 yards at Indianapolis and for his efforts he was chosen the NFC Offensive Player of the Month for December. His 297 rushing attempts led the NFL and his 39-carry effort at New England is the second-best mark in club history. While becoming one of only 11 players to rush for over 1,000 yards with two different teams (Cleveland, 1,002 yards in 1985), Earnest continued to be one of the most versatile players in the NFL. Earnest threw his first career touchdown pass when he hit Ricky Sanders for 31-yards vs. the Giants. Honors: Pro Bowl; NFC Player of Month—December; UPI all-NFC 2nd team; USA Today all-NFL 1st team.

Pro Career: 1989: The Redskins were 6-0 when he started at running back. Earnest became the full-time starter Week 12 against Chicago and over the last five games (all wins), he rushed for 316 yards and added 19 catches for 151 yards as the Redskins averaged 30 points per game. Three times (Phoenix, twice, and Chicago) he combined for more than 100 yards while totaling over 1,000 yards for the third straight season. His seven rushing TDs led the Redskins and nine TDs tied Gary Clark for the lead. 1988: The Redskins saw Earnest first hand when his 27-yard touchdown run with 1:49 remaining at RFK Stadium gave the Browns a 17-13 victory over Washington in Week 13. Earnest led the Browns in both rushing (576 yards on 157 carries) and receiving (57 catches for 576 yards). His 57 catches were the most in his pro career. 1987: The Browns called Earnest the “heart and soul” of their offense. He scored a club-high eight touchdowns and finished second in the AFC in non-kicking scoring with 60 points. He caught at least two passes in every game and had eight catches twice. 1986: Earnest missed action for the first time in his pro career. He suffered an ankle injury in Week 7 against Green Bay and didn’t return until the AFC Championship Game against Denver. Even then, he saw limited action, catching just one pass for four yards. 1985: In his first season as a full-time starter, Earnest broke two of Cleveland’s postseason records.

His 161 yards rushing against Miami broke Jim Brown's mark of 114 vs. Baltimore in 1964. His 66-yard run for a touchdown in that game broke Leroy Kelly's record of 46 against Dallas in '67. 1984: After being selected by the Browns in the 10th round, Earnest increased his role steadily as the season progressed. His 5.9-yard rushing average was highest among AFC running backs. His 188 yards (21 carries) against Houston in the season finale still is the second highest total by a Browns' rookie, bettered only by Jim Brown's 237 in 1957.

College, Personal: As a senior at East Carolina, Earnest led the team in rushing with 862 yards. A three-year starter at fullback, Earnest finished as the eighth-leading rusher in school history. Earnest gained 2,049 yards on 378 careers in his career. He majored in physical education. Born in Milledgeville, GA, Earnest played quarterback, tailback, safety and linebacker at Baldwin High and his jersey (No. 21) was retired after he graduated. Earnest and his wife, Tina, have two daughters: Semeria, 8, and Adrian Monique, 6. They reside in Centreville, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * As a starter in 1989, Ravin recorded a career-high 97 tackles.
- * Ravin had a career-high three sacks vs Philadelphia in 1988.
- * He posted a career-high 19 tackles vs New Orleans in 1989.

How Acquired: Selected in fifth round of 1986 draft (113th overall).

Games Played/Started: 59/14 - 1986 (IR); 1987 (12/0)[3/0]; 1988 (16/1); 1989 (15/13); 1990 (16/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: A two-week contract hold out, followed by a sore knee once he reported to training camp, got Ravin off to a slow start, and he was never able to wrestle the starting spot from rookie Andre Collins. However, despite his reduced playing time, Ravin shined as a special teams player and when he was used in pass coverage situations. He finished fourth on the club with his 78 total special teams hits, including a season-best 12 hits vs. Miami. Ravin had a season-high five tackles vs. Buffalo.

Pro Career: 1989: Given the starting nod in the third week of the year, Ravin started the next 12 weeks until a knee injury sidelined him for the finale against Seattle. His 97 tackles were fifth-best on the team, second among linebackers, and his 3 ½ sacks tied him for fourth. In his second start of the year, against New Orleans in Week 4, Ravin caused a fumble on the game's third play that led to a Chip Lohmiller field goal, and finished the game with a career-high 19 tackles. His 11 tackles in the Week 13 win over San Diego led the team. Ravin was also busy on special teams, finishing seventh on the team with 50 total hits. 1988: Ravin's role increased to that of special teams standout and pass rushing linebacker. In his only start of the year, in Week 7 vs Phoenix, Ravin had a key first quarter safety and was named Defensive Player of the Game. In Week 13, Ravin had three sacks and two forced fumbles in the 20-19 win over the Eagles. His 119 special teams hits were second on the team. 1987: Ravin earned a spot on the Redskins' Super Bowl roster, thanks to his special teams enthusiasm. By the regular season finale against the Vikings, Ravin earned time with the defense and made four tackles, including one sack. 1986: A knee injury slowed Ravin throughout training camp, eventually forcing him on injured reserve for the season.

College, Personal: A fractured knee cap as a senior at Arkansas dropped Ravin's draft position, but the Redskins were the beneficiaries of his bad luck. His sophomore and junior seasons pointed to a higher selection when he made 58 and 65 tackles, respectively. His best game was a 13-tackle performance against Tulsa. Arkansas was a natural for Ravin, who grew up in Ft. Smith, AR and graduated from Northside High, where he was all-State as a senior. Ravin was a criminal justice major. He is a bachelor and lives in Reston, VA.

- * He has surpassed 1,000 yards receiving four times.
- * Gary has averaged 69 catches per season over his career.
- * His seven-yard TD grab in 1987 NFC title game provided the winning points.

How Acquired: Selected in second round of the 1984 supplemental draft. Signed as a free agent on May 13, 1985.

Games Played/Started: 90/77 — 1985 (16/10); 1986 (15/15)[3/3]; 1987 (12/11)[3/3]; 1988 (16/13); 1989 (15/12); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: John Madden might have described Gary in a nutshell when he said he looks like a nose guard, but plays like a wide receiver. An annual member of the all-Madden team, it's that tougher-than-nails competitiveness that has made Gary one of the game's best players. "He's one of the greatest competitors I've ever been around," says Joe Gibbs. "His spirit is unique." But there's also more to Gary than just his competitive nature, there's his ability and talent. He earned his third trip to the Pro Bowl (1986, 1987 and 1990) last season as he finished among the league leaders in both catches and yards. Gary finished fifth in the league in receptions (75) and fourth in receiving yards (1,112). His 75 receptions marked the sixth straight year he's had at least 50 catches (tying Bobby Mitchell's club record) while surpassing the 1,000-yard mark for the fourth time in five seasons. He is now tied with Art Monk for the most 1,000-yard receiving seasons by a Redskin and only he and San Francisco's Jerry Rice have put together four 1,000-yard receiving seasons since 1986. And over the past four years, he is second in the NFL in total receiving yardage. In addition, Gary's 75 receptions moved him closer to Jerry Smith for fourth place on the Skins' all-time reception list. Gary now has 415-career receptions and trails Smith's 421 catches. Gary also moved closer to Bobby Mitchell for third place on the Skins' all-time yards receiving list. He now has 6,490 yards receiving and needs two yards to surpass Mitchell who finished his Hall of Fame career with 6,491 receiving yards as a Redskin. Gary has averaged 69 receptions a year during his career, an average which is higher than all 20 of the leading lifetime receivers. "He's got uncanny quickness, escape speed in a small area," says receivers coach Jack Burns. "He's extremely smart, wily, cunning, great anticipation, very good eyes, can see the whole field and defenses. He'll fight you to the death to get open." And once again, Gary was brilliant in 1990. He led the team with four 100-yard receiving games with a season-high 162 yards (eight catches) and two touchdowns (both 42 yards) at Phoenix. Other 100-yard performances included San Francisco (7/106), Detroit (11/132) and New Orleans (8/131/2). Gary led (or tied) the team in catches in nine games this year and his eight touchdown receptions also led the team. And to prove his big-play capabilities, Gary was on the receiving end of eight of the 10 longest pass receptions by a Redskin, including a 53-yard touchdown catch and run against the Colts. Honors: Pro Bowl; UPI all-NFC 2nd-team; all-Madden team.

Pro Career: 1989: Gary was brilliant from the beginning when he caught six passes for 101 yards against the Giants. It was the first of five 100-yard receiving games with others coming against the Eagles (4/153/2), Raiders (8/145/1), Bears (8/124/1) and Seahawks (9/149/1). His nine touchdown catches were a career high. Against the Eagles in Week 2, he opened the game with an 80-yard touchdown catch on the opening play. In Week 5 his fourth quarter 23-yard touchdown catch with 1:54 remaining proved to be the difference in a 30-28 win over Phoenix. His biggest catch came Week 14 when Gary improvised on a 4th-and-4 to grab a 33-yard go-ahead fourth quarter score against San Deigo. His 79 catches were a career high and his 10 catches vs. Tampa Bay were a season high. 1988: Gary's 59 catches ranked third on the team. Among his season bests were an eight-reception game (98 yards) against Chicago in Week 11 and a 99-yard effort (five catches) in Week 14 against Philadelphia. Gary owned the team's longest offensive play and the longest punt return of the season with a 60-yard touchdown catch in Week 7 against Phoenix, and a 34-yard return in Week 12 vs. San Francisco. 1987: Gary made his second straight Pro Bowl. His 1,066 yards ranked third among NFL receivers and his 56 catches tied for ninth. He led the team in receptions, receiving yards, combined yards (1,077) and touchdowns (seven). Gary's seven-yard touchdown catch with 5:15 remaining in the NFC Championship Game against Minnesota provided the winning margin and sent the Redskins to Super Bowl XXII. Gary was very much a part of Washington's record-setting 35-point quarter against Denver in the Super Bowl. His 27-yard touchdown catch gave the Redskins a 14-10 lead. 1986: Gary's 1,265 yards and his 74 catches both were fourth-best in Redskins' history. His yards ranked second in the NFC and his catches fifth as he made the first of three Pro Bowl appearances. He led the team with seven touchdown catches and had five 100-yard games. His 241 yards (on 11 catches) in Week 8 against the Giants set a team record (which was broken by Anthony Allen the following season). 1985: Gary and Art Monk formed the League's top receiving tandem, combining for 163 catches. Gary came to Washington in May after playing a season with the Jacksonville Bulls of the United States Football League. He caught 72 passes for 926 yards, starting the final 10 games. His season high was an 11-catch, 193-yard performance against the Giants. 1984, USFL: Gary caught 56 passes for 760 yards for Jacksonville. He also returned 20 punts for 84 yards and 19 kickoffs for 341 yards.

College, Personal: Gary was named 1983 Offensive Player of the Year in Virginia for his performance as a senior at James Madison University. He ended his college career with 155 catches. As a junior, he was second in the nation in punt returns with a 14.9-yard average. A native of Dublin, VA., Gary attended Pulaski County High School.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * His 42 career sacks are sixth on the club all-time list.
- * Monte's 154 games as a Redskin ranks 13th in club history and fourth among defensive players.

How Acquired: Selected in the 11th round of the 1979 draft (289th overall).

Games Played/Started: 154/57 — 1979 (16/0); 1980 (16/10); 1981 (12/11); 1982 (8/2)[4/0]; 1983 (10/0)[3/0]; 1984 (16/5)[1/0]; 1985 (10/1); 1986 (11/4)[3/2]; 1987 (12/12)[3/3]; 1988 (13/9); 1989 (15/3); 1990 (15/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: Two plays on a sweltering August night last season illustrated Monte's value to the Redskins. In a preseason contest, 12-year veterans are expected to take it easy and save themselves for the long-grinding season ahead. Not Monte. In successive plays he threw the Steeler quarterback for a seven-yard loss and then picked off a tipped pass and ran 50-yards for the go-ahead touchdown. It's that kind of contagious effort and leadership that has become Monte's trademark. Monte turned in his finest season since 1987. And despite missing one game with a sore hamstring, his 66 tackles were the fifth-best mark of his career and 11 QB hurries were second on the team. He also added three sacks to push his career total to 42. While playing primarily in the nickel package, Monte had a team-high 14 tackles against the Cardinals and led all linebackers with 10 tackles versus the Giants, including one sack. In Week 15, Monte's fourth quarter interception clinched the Redskins' win over New England. Monte also added 31 total hits on special teams.

Pro Career: 1989: Despite an aggravated hamstring suffered in Week 7 against Tampa Bay that limited his play in the middle of the season, Monte finished the year with 49 tackles and four sacks. In his three starts (Week 1 against the Giants, Week 2 against Philly, and Week 16 against Seattle), Monte had his best games. In the opener against the Giants, Monte's 24-yard interception return (the third of his career) for a fourth quarter TD gave Washington its only lead of the game. In Week 2 vs the Eagles, Monte posted a season-high seven tackles and forced a fumble, and in the season finale at Seattle he had three tackles, a sack, and a forced fumble. 1988: Monte was the starter at left linebacker until he sprained his left knee against Chicago in Week 11. After missing the next two games, he alternated run-downs and passing-downs with Mel Kaufman for the remainder of the year. 1987: Monte emerged as a starter at right linebacker after middle linebacker Neal Olkewicz tore knee cartilage in the preseason opener, forcing Rich Milot to move from right linebacker into the middle. Monte remained the starter even after Olkewicz returned and finished the season with 4 1/2 sacks, eight quarterback hurries, one forced fumble, two interceptions and 107 tackles, 10 behind the line of scrimmage. 1986: Monte replaced Kaufman as the starter after Mel tore his achilles in Week 2, but a pulled hamstring put Monte on injured reserve three weeks later. Monte returned in Week 10. During the playoffs, Monte finished fourth on the team with 16 tackles. 1985: Monte pulled his hamstring in Week 3 while chasing Eagles receiver Mike Quick and spent the next six weeks on injured reserve. He returned in Week 10 against the Detroit Lions and finished strongly. 1984: In one of his best seasons, Monte finished with 10 1/2 sacks, second on the team, and 88 tackles. The Redskins were 4-1 in the five games Monte started. 1983: After missing the first six games because of a severe thigh contusion sustained in the preseason against Buffalo, Monte played in the final 10 games. 1982: Monte started at left linebacker until he suffered a shoulder injury against the Giants Nov. 21. The injury bothered Monte throughout the season but he missed only one game (against Philadelphia), playing the latter part of the season in passing situations. 1981: Monte's 114 1/2 tackles were third on the team. Against Philadelphia in Week 14, Monte intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter and returned it for the game-winning touchdown. He suffered a fractured shoulder in Week 2 against the Giants and missed four games. 1980: Monte's 118 tackles were second on the team. He started the season at left linebacker in place of Brad Dusek and moved to the right toward the end in place of injured Pete Wysocki. 1979: Monte played as a pass-covering specialist and on special teams.

College, Personal: Monte became the first player out of the University of Central Arkansas to be drafted in the NFL. As a safety and linebacker, he earned NAIA honors after setting a school record for interceptions in a career with 22. Monte's brother, Sam, also attended Central Arkansas and had a tryout with the Redskins as a running back. A commercial art major, Monte enjoys landscape painting. CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Andre became only the second rookie under Joe Gibbs to start every game.
- * His six sacks tied the club record for sacks by a rookie.

How Acquired: Selected in second round of the 1990 draft (46th overall).

Games Played/Started: 16/16 — 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: When a team has only one of the first 75 picks in the draft, and the first pick is the 46th overall, hope is the player chosen will someday pay back some dividends. Someday arrived a lot sooner than the Redskins could ever have imagined when they chose Andre with that 46th pick. With Ravin Caldwell a training camp holdout, Andre was quickly thrown into the starting lineup from day one in preseason. Not only was his period of transition a smooth one, Andre became only the second rookie in the Joe Gibbs-era to start every game (Darrell Green started every game in 1983). "Andre was a very pleasant surprise," said linebacker coach Larry Peccatiello. "He's very competitive and has great work habits. He never makes the same mistake twice." Andre finished fifth on the team with 91 tackles and his six sacks (tied Dexter Manley's Redskin rookie record) were second on the team behind Fred Stokes. His season bests included two sacks in Week 15 at Indianapolis and 12 tackles the following week versus Buffalo. Andre's contribution in the Philadelphia playoff victory included nine tackles and a 1/2 sack. Honors: all-Rookie 1st team Pro Football Weekly and Football News.

College, Personal: Andre completed an outstanding senior season by being named a first-team all-America selection by the Football Writers Association. He was one of five finalists for the Dick Butkus Award, given annually to the top college linebacker. Andre finished the year with a career-high 130 tackles (third highest total in school history) and became only the third player in Nittany Lion history to record back-to-back 100 tackle seasons (110 tackles as a junior was the highest total by a Penn State linebacker since 1975). He made the position switch from safety to linebacker during spring drills before his junior campaign. Andre was a standout three-sport athlete in football, basketball and track at Cinnaminson, N.J., High School. He is one of 19 children (12th) with 12 sisters and six brothers. He has two brothers, Gerry, a running back and Phil, a wide receiver, who play at Penn State. 1990 Season: Cary learned about patience his rookie season. He spent the entire year on injured reserve when he was hit on the knee during a drill in training camp. While his progress was put on hold, the Redskins saw enough of Cary to be encouraged about his ability to be an NFL quarterback. "We like him. He's big, strong, tough and he showed he can make plays," said quarterbacks and passing game assistant coach Rod Dowhower. "Cary just didn't get an opportunity because of his injury. This season we will get him experience in practice, scrimmages and preseason games. He just needs an opportunity to show what he can do."

College, Personal: In only two years as a starter, Cary finished his career at Washington as the school's second all-time leading passer with 4,850 yards. As a senior, he became the Huskies' all-time single-season leader in passing yards (2,569) and total offense (2,502), including 16 TD passes which was the second-best mark in school history, and 11 touchdowns. In his college debut as a sophomore, Cary was pressed into service in the ninth game of the season at Arizona. He came off the bench and passed for 237 yards, including two TD tosses and one rushing TD to rally the Huskies to a 21-21 tie. He majored in political science at Washington. Cary was a consensus prep All-America quarterback at Eisenhower High School in Yakima, Wash., and was an all-state performer in basketball and baseball. He also had an interception in the win over Miami, in addition to 12 special team hits. 1990 Season: Mo's rookie season can easily be summed up in a few words — it was a learning experience. "Mo is blessed with terrific athletic talent and so many of the attributes that you need to be a really fine offensive lineman," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "This was a real learning experience for Mo. We have high hopes for him." Some of those hopes were temporarily put on hold when a nagging shoulder injury in training camp forced the Redskins to put Mo on injured reserve after the final roster cut. Still, with a year under his belt to learn the nuances of run blocking, Mo should take some big steps in fulfilling those hopes.

College, Personal: Mohammed earned the 1989 Outland Trophy, and in addition, he earned first-team all-America notice by Kodak and Walter Camp, while being selected to The Sporting News' second team. He also was named to the all-WAC first team in his only season as a starter. Mo transferred to Brigham Young from Snow College (Ephraim, Utah) in the spring of 1987. In his final year at Snow, Mo earned second-team all-America honors. Mo was convinced by friends to join the football team as a freshman. It was the first time in his life that he had ever played the game, but he instantly impressed the coaching staff and earned a starting assignment at guard. After reconstructive surgery on his right knee (his second major knee operation in three seasons), it was definitely a walk before you run scenario. Jumpy missed mini-camp, training camp, and the first seven weeks of the season on the Physically Unable to Perform list, before being given the green light for the Week 8 contest at Detroit. In his first game as a Redskin, Jumpy played just six downs, but came up with a crucial third quarter sack, and proved to Redskin coaches that his comeback was complete. The following week at Philadelphia, Jumpy again came up with a sack. Against his former Saints teammates the next week, Jumpy recorded a tackle and a forced fumble. While his playing time was limited, Jumpy still managed three sacks, five QB hurries and one forced fumble, and still showed the ability to be an effective pass rusher.

Pro Career: 1989: Jumpy started 15 games before being placed on IR for final game of the season with a knee injury that required reconstructive surgery. He finished the year with 23 tackles, one sack and led the Saints with five fumble recoveries. 1988: Jumpy started six games and produced a career-high 33 tackles. He also added 3½ sacks, including a two-sack day at Seattle. Jumpy also recovered three fumbles, including two against the Giants. 1987: He suffered torn knee ligaments in the final pre-season game and was lost for all but the final game of the year. 1986: Jumpy enjoyed his most productive season with 32 tackles, plus he led the Saints with a career-high nine sacks. 1985: Again, Jumpy saw most of his action during passing situations and responded with 6½ sacks and 29 tackles. He also blocked a field goal vs. Atlanta, in addition to recording a career-high seven passes defended. 1984: Drafted by the Saints in the second round, Jumpy contributed six sacks as a backup.

College, Personal: Jumpy originally entered college on a basketball scholarship at Paducah (KY) Community College, but switched to football after transferring to Wichita State as a junior. In just two seasons, Jumpy recorded 34 sacks for the Shockers. Nicknamed "Jumpy", by his grandfather as a youngster, he attended Choppe High School in Georgetown, SC. His last name is pronounced like "Feathers." He resides in Ashburn, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Kelly has placed 60 punts inside the 20 during his career.
- * As a Chief in 1989, Kelly tied a club record with 11 punts in a single game.
- * He punted a career-high 76 times in 1988.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent December 4, 1990.

Games Played/Started: 52/0 — KC 1987 (13/0); 1988 (16/0); 1989 (16/0); 1990 (3/0); WASH 1990 (4/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: It was the worst of seasons and the best of seasons for Kelly. The worst was being told by the Kansas City Chiefs three weeks into his fourth season that he was no longer needed. The best was getting a call from the Redskins with four games remaining to come in and add consistency to a slumping punting game. Kelly stepped in and did just that. He punted just 11 times in four games, but six of those were placed inside the 20. Kelly saved his best for the playoff win over Philadelphia. He punted nine times for a 36.9 average with four landing inside the 20 giving the Redskins excellent field position which led to 10 points. Before joining the Redskins in Week 13, Kelly spent the first three weeks with the Chiefs before being released. With the Chiefs he punted 17 times for a 38.4 average with six punts inside the 20.

Pro Career: 1989: Kelly put together his finest season as a pro. His 25 punts inside the 20 were the third-best mark in the league, and his five touchbacks tied him for the third fewest in the AFC. Kelly tied a Chief record for most punts in a game with 11 (six landed inside the 20) against Cleveland. 1988: Kelly punted a career-high 76 times and had nine go over 50-yards (career high), including a career-high 59-yarder at Denver. In that Bronco game, Kelly punted three times for a 55.3-yard average. 1987: A strong showing in the three replacement games led to a call from the Chiefs when their regular punter, Lewis Colbert, was sidelined with a season-ending back injury. He ended the year ranked fifth in the AFC with a 40.9 average and placed 13 kicks inside the 20.

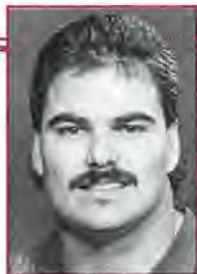

College, Personal: Kelly played just one season at Emporia State where he punted 55 times for a 40.8-yard average as a senior. He transferred there from Iowa State where he had spent four years (including a redshirt year) on the Cyclone football team. Since entering the NFL, Kelly has been an active participant in his community with the Multiple Sclerosis Society, YouthNet and March of Dimes. He graduated with a degree in physical education from Emporia State and attended Eastwood High School in Correctionville, IA. He and his wife, Sara, reside in Roeland Park, KS.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Kurt returned a fumble 39-yards for a touchdown last season vs New England.
- * His INT of Randall Cunningham in 1989 preserved the Redskins 10-3 win.
- * Kurt had a career-high 76 tackles in 1990.

How Acquired: Selected in eighth round of 1986 draft (213th overall).

Games Played/Started: 59/9 — 1986 (IR); 1987 (12/1) [3/0]; 1988 (16/0); 1989 (15/1); 1990 (16/7)[2/2]

1990 Season: Kurt is a coach's dream. Whether he is asked to cover a speedy running back in the Redskin nickel package or playing special teams, Kurt is one of the most productive and versatile players on the Redskin roster. From the linebacker spot, Kurt is capable of playing both the inside and outside. His role, however, was expanded last season as he settled in as the starter at middle linebacker in Week 10 vs New Orleans and started the final seven games. His increased playing time resulted in a career-high 76 tackles. Kurt's brightest moment came on a rain-drenched night in New England. It was Kurt's 39-yard fumble return for a touchdown on the third play of the game that started the Redskins on their way to the playoff-clinching win. The following week at Indianapolis, Kurt had a season-high nine tackles. In Week 3 against the Cowboys at RFK, his sack of Troy Aikman was the first full sack of Kurt's career.

Pro Career: 1989: Against Philadelphia in Week 10, Kurt made his biggest play of the year when he intercepted Randall Cunningham's third down pass on the Redskins' 13-yard line to thwart an Eagles rally and help preserve the 10-3 win. The following week against Denver, Kurt had a season-high six tackles. He earned his first '89 start at MLB in Week 12 vs Chicago. In that game, Kurt suffered a bruised thigh that limited his play for the remainder of the year. 1988: Kurt became a special teams leader, and finished the season with a team-high 126 hits. From the linebacker position, Gouveia added 21 tackles, a QB hurry, and a pass deflection. 1987: Kurt was inserted into a starting role Week 2 against Atlanta, and responded with 11 solo tackles and two assists. In Week 13 against Dallas, Kurt moved to outside linebacker, replacing the injured Monte Coleman, and recorded 10 tackles with five solos.

College, Personal: Winning national championships at two levels is not a bad record. Prior to playing on the 1987 Super Bowl championship squad with the Redskins, Kurt played a key role in bringing Brigham Young's teams to national prominence, and as a junior played on BYU's No.1 team. BYU coach Lavelle Edwards called Kurt the best linebacker in Cougar history. He was named all-WAC his senior season, the year the Cougars played in the Citrus Bowl. As a junior, Kurt had 107 tackles and seven sacks while playing a key role in BYU's Holiday Bowl victory over Michigan. His high school career is equally impressive. He guided his teams at Waianae High to three straight state titles as a quarterback and defensive back and became the first player in state history to be named Hawaii player of the year on both offense and defense. Born in Honolulu, Kurt majored in recreation management at BYU. Kurt also sits on the advisory board for the state anti-drug program, "No Hope in Dope" in native state of Hawaii and also sponsors a golf tournament to benefit the program. He also donates an annual college scholarship to a graduating senior from his high school, who furthers his/her education at a mainland university. Kurt also is the driving force in the Make-A-Wish Foundation Hawaii chapter. He and his wife, Loree, live in Sterling, VA, with their three children: Landon, 5, Ariel, 3, and Jeron, 2.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * He is the only lineman in Redskin history to record 100 tackles in a single season.
- * Darryl returned an INT for a touchdown in the 1982 NFC title game.

How Acquired: Selected in ninth round of 1981 draft (231st overall)

Games Played/Started: 139/109—1981 (15/0); 1982 (9/4)[4/4]; 1983 (16/16)[3/3]; 1984 (15/15)[1/1]; 1985 (8/8); 1986 (16/8)[3/3]; 1987 (12/11)[3/3]; 1988 (16/16); 1989 (16/16); 1990 (16/15)[2/2].

1990 Season: Darryl notched another solid season to go along with a very solid career. For the fifth straight year, Darryl played in every game and for the third straight season he again led the defensive line in tackles with 78 stops. He also added one sack, 10 QB hurries, one forced fumble and recovered two. In a career that has provided Redskins fans with plenty of big moments, Darryl again came up big in Week 13, and in the playoffs. Trailing the Bears 9-7 with just 4:16 remaining and the ball on the Chicago 36-yard line, it was Darryl who stripped Brad Muster of the ball and set up Chip Lohmiller's 35-yard game winning field goal. And in the Wild Card Playoff game, it was his ball stripping tackle in the second quarter of Philadelphia's Heath Sherman on the Redskin 28-yard line, that preserved the Redskin 7-6 lead.

Pro Career: 1989: For the second consecutive season, Darryl led the team's linemen (fifth overall) in tackles, making 98 stops on the year. His 3½ sacks, 10 QB hurries, two interceptions, and two forced fumbles epitomized his all-around play. Darryl's third quarter interception of a Chris Miller pass in Week 15 vs Atlanta led to Washington's winning TD, and his interception of a Steve Walsh pass in Week 3 against Dallas led to a TD that helped ice another Redskins win. He led linemen in tackles in six games. 1988: Darryl recorded a personal- and Redskin lineman-best 109 tackles. In addition to making over 100 stops for the second time (the only lineman in Redskin history to post 100 tackles), Darryl started all 16 games for the second time in his career. 1987: Darryl was a vital cog in the Redskins' drive to the Super Bowl from the opening game to the playoffs. In Week 1 against Philadelphia, he recovered a fumble to stop an Eagle drive. His 66 tackles were second highest on the defensive line, trailing only Pro Bowler Charles Mann. In the playoffs, he keyed the Skins victory over Chicago with a sack of Jim McMahon. 1986: A movie script could not have read better. Slowed by a lingering knee injury until midseason Darryl played a reserve role until he was inserted with the Redskins trailing the Giants by 17 points. His play was the catalyst for a Redskins rally and the following week against Minnesota he was back in the starting lineup. With the Skins trailing, 38-32 his sack provided possession for the game winning drive. 1985: Adversity struck Darryl for the first time in his pro career when a Week 8 knee injury at Cleveland sidelined him for the season. At the time, his 48 stops were tops on the defensive line. Prior to the injury Darryl had missed only two of 73 possible pro games. 1984: A mainstay at tackle, Darryl enjoyed one of his finest seasons with a career high 7½ sacks and four fumble recoveries despite missing the opening week with a knee sprain. He returned a fumble 22 yards for a touchdown against the Vikings for one of his two career scores. 1983: The season began with a brief experiment on offense, but Richie Petitbon would have none of it. Darryl celebrated his return to defense by becoming the first Redskin lineman to ever record 100 tackles (101). His presence helped the team to an NFL-best 80.6 yard rushing defense average. For good measure, Darryl added 14 tackles and a sack in three playoff games. 1982: Darryl became a starter in Week 5 after Perry Brooks broke his leg. Ironically, the biggest play of his season was not a tackle or sack. Darryl caught a Dexter Manley-deflected pass in the NFC Championship Game against Dallas and returned it for a touchdown to put the Redskins in Super Bowl XVII. 1981: As a ninth round choice, Darryl beat the odds to make the Redskin roster, but few know that first year was spent as a reserve offensive lineman. Only in the season finale of his rookie year was he moved to defensive tackle and made the permanent switch to defense in the offseason. His primary impact was felt on special teams where he led the team with 42 kickoff return blocks.

College, Personal: Listing a position while at Rice University was not easy for Darryl. He played tackle and center on offense and linebacker and nose guard on defense. Despite the changes, he found enough playing time to earn four letters. In high school, he earned all-America honors as a center at Highlands in San Antonio, TX. Darryl has played Santa Claus for the "No Greater Love" Christmas party for children whose parents have been killed in military action. Darryl and his wife, Mary, have three children, Nicole, 11, Darryl Jr., 6, and Daren, 2. The Grants reside in Fairfax, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Darrell was named to the Pro Bowl in 1984, 1986, 1987 and 1990.
- * His 52-yard punt return for a TD vs the Bears put the Redskins into the 1987 NFC Championship game.
- * He had three interceptions vs Detroit in 1987.
- * Darrell's two interception returns for TDs have both come against the Cowboys (1990 and 1984).

How Acquired: Selected in first round of 1983 draft (28th overall)

Games Played: 114/113 - 1983 (16/16)[3/3]; 1984 (16/16)[1/1]; 1985 (16/16); 1986 (16/15)[3/3]; 1987 (12/12)[3/3]; 1988 (15/15) 1989 (7/7); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: Each year NFL wide receivers check the Redskin roster to see if Father Time is beginning to take a little spring off Darrell's step. After each head-to-head meeting last season, the answer was obvious — the fastest in 1983 is still the fastest in the 1990s. In fact he's getting faster. As a rookie, Darrell was timed at around 4.3 in the 40-yard dash. At the Redskins 1990 mini-camp, he was clocked near 4.1. But there's more to Darrell than those marvelous wheels. Now in his ninth NFL season, Darrell is coming off his finest season. He was named a Pro Bowl starter — his fourth appearance; a first-teamer on the all-NFC team by UPI, Football News and Pro Football Weekly and a second-team all-NFL choice by AP. And despite reaching his 30th birthday, he is still regarded as the finest man-to-man corner in the league. "Darrell is at a point in time in his career where his physical ability is being matched by an understanding of what we're trying to do," says Richie Petitbon. "He's become a much smarter, more understanding player of our system. He's really at the top of his game." Darrell was brilliant from the beginning last season as he opened the year with interceptions the first three weeks of the season (a career first). In week 3 versus Dallas, Darrell had seven tackles, two pass deflections and capped the Redskin win with an 18-yard interception return for a touchdown. He posted a season-best 10 tackles against the 49ers and also came up with an interception. He also had interceptions against Phoenix and New Orleans to finish with four (the most since his five thefts in 1986). Darrell saved his best for the playoffs. He held the Eagles Fred Barnett without a reception, while intercepting Randall Cunningham with under 2:00 left in the first half to set up a Chip Lohmiller field goal.

Honors: Pro Bowl; all-NFC 1st team by UPI, Football News, Pro Football Weekly; all-NFL 2nd team by AP.

Pro Career: 1989: Darrell outran everything but injury when a fractured wrist in Week 7 against Tampa Bay prematurely ended his season. Against Phoenix, Darrell had two first quarter interceptions as the Redskins jumped to an early lead. Despite missing the final nine games, his five pass deflections were third on the squad. 1988: Darrell's worth was again evident in his absence. A broken hand in the first quarter of the Week 15 contest versus Dallas opened the door to three Cowboy touchdown passes in a 24-17 loss. Before the injury he turned in another consistent season in which he narrowly missed his fourth Pro Bowl appearance. He led the Skins in pass deflections with 14 and also provided a spark on special teams with several timely punt returns. Returns of 13 and 18 yards against the Steelers set up a field goal and touchdown in a 30-29 victory. The best was a 32-yard fourth quarter return versus the Giants. 1987: In the NFC Championship game, Darrell made the last-second hit on the goal line that helped jar the football out of the hands of running back Darrin Nelson, preventing the Vikings from forcing overtime. The performance came despite a torn rib cartilage that kept his playing status in question throughout the week. Green had suffered the injury the previous week during his 52-yard punt return for a touchdown in the first round playoff game against the Bears. The return gave the Redskins a 21-14 lead and proved the winning margin. The highlight of his regular season came against Detroit with a career-high three interceptions. The last came on the Lions' final possession and preserved a 20-13 victory. His overall performance resulted in a third NFC Pro Bowl appearance. 1986: A succession of big plays led Darrell to his second Pro Bowl appearance. In Week 2, Darrell's interception in the end zone with 30 seconds remaining sealed a 10-6 victory against the Raiders. He was slowed in Week 12 against Dallas when a bruised shoulder forced Darrell from the lineup for the first time in his career. His five interceptions were a team high and his 70 tackles led the cornerbacks. In the playoffs, Darrell intercepted a pass to setup the go-ahead touchdown in a 27-13 upset of the Bears. 1985: Lady luck did not smile on Darrell when punt returns of 99 yards and 73 yards were nullified on successive weeks. Nevertheless, his 13.4 yard average on 16 punt returns was the highest by a Redskin since Eddie Brown's 13.5 in 1976. 1984: There was no sophomore slump for Darrell, who earned a starting Pro Bowl spot in his second season. He had five interceptions, 87 tackles, and a team high 14 deflections, but cemented his all-star berth with one dramatic performance. With the Skins trailing Dallas 21-6 at halftime, Green turned the game around with a 32-yard pass interception for a touchdown. Later he stopped a Cowboy drive with an interception in the end zone, and the Redskins rallied for a 30-28 come-from-behind victory. 1983: Darrell set the tone for his NFL career the first time he touched the football with a 61-yard punt return in a preseason game against Atlanta. A contract dispute by Jeris White thrust him into the starting lineup against the Cowboys and Darrell left his calling card when he pulled Tony Dorsett down from behind. He completed the year as the team's fourth best tackler with 109, including a team high 79 solo stops. His regular season play earned him a runner-up spot as AP NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year, and Football Digest and AP all-rookie teams. However, he saved his best for the postseason where he ran back an interception 72 yards for a touchdown against the Rams.

College, Personal: Darrell is legendary at Texas A&I, where he was named to the Football Coaches all-American Division II team with 56 tackles and four interceptions in 1982. The Lone Star Conference Defensive Player of the Year, Darrell was also selected to the AP First Team Little all-American. He returned two punts for touchdowns as a senior (76 and 96 yards). However, football was only half the story. A 10.08 100 meter man, Darrell was clocked only behind Carl Lewis as a senior in the 100. Showing no preference, Darrell was all-State Track and all-City football at Jones High School in Houston. He has won the "NFL's Fastest Man" competition in three times, winning the 60-yard event over such notable track stars as Willie Gault, Ron Brown, and Herschel Walker. This past spring Darrell added the title "World's Fastest Athlete," winning a competition that included several events. On the personal side, Darrell is very active in local youth groups and serves as a local VP of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He also devotes charity time to the Big Brothers of America in the DC area, the homeless, and has worked in several anti-drug campaigns. He has an annual golf tournament to benefit Hope Springs Farm which provides care for orphans, foster children and underprivileged children. Darrell also has testified at a Senate Judiciary Panel for drug prevention. A native of Houston, Darrell and his wife, Jewell, have three children, Jarrell 5, Jared, 2, and Joie, 1. They reside in Vienna, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * He was selected to four consecutive Pro Bowls from 1983-86.
- * Russ has played in all 16 Redskin playoff games under Joe Gibbs.

How Acquired: Selected in third round of 1981 draft (69th overall).

Games Played/Started: 124/113—1981 (14/13); 1982 (9/9)[4/4]; 1983 (16/16)[3/3]; 1984 (16/16)[1/1]; 1985 (16/16); 1986 (15/14)[3/3]; 1987 (6/5)[3/0]; 1988 (5/4); 1989 (12/9); 1990 (15/11)[2/0]

1990 Season: After one major knee surgery, three scopes and an assortment of other bumps and bruises acquired over a decade in the trenches, the Redskins expected Russ to see spot duty, and to be more-or-less a coach on the field in 1990. Instead, Russ started 11 games and proved, when healthy, that he is still one of the most powerful offensive linemen in the NFL. "You can't even place a value on the leadership and experience Russ gives this team," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "Anybody who knows Russ Grimm knows you are talking about one of the best football players who has come along in the last decade." Russ started the first nine games of the season at left guard before a variety of ankle and shoulder injuries slowed his season. He missed a start against the Saints in Week 10 because of an ankle sprain, followed by a sprained shoulder suffered against Miami in Week 12 which caused him to go on the inactive list the following week. When Russ returned, he helped the club in a backup role for the remainder of the regular season and into the playoffs.

Pro Career: 1989: Russ started the first eight games of the year at left guard until a knee injury against the Raiders forced him into spot duty for the remainder of the season, except for a start in the season finale at Seattle. 1988: He suffered cartilage damage to his left knee in Carlisle and underwent surgery August 5, he was lost for the first 11 weeks of the season. After he was brought off IR before the 49ers game, Russ played the final five games of the season, starting the last four. 1987: Russ moved from guard to center on the first day of training camp and started five games before he suffered a partially torn ligament in his left knee in the second half against Philadelphia. He returned before the regular-season finale against Minnesota and played a reserve role in the team's three playoff games, including the Super Bowl. 1986: Russ made the Pro Bowl for the fourth consecutive year. However, his 79 games-played streak ended when he missed Game 7, against St. Louis, because of a sprained neck. 1985: Russ made his third consecutive trip to the Pro Bowl, and was one of only three offensive players to start every game for Washington. It was the fourth straight season he started every game. He started 14 games at left guard, and two at left tackle, filling in for injured Joe Jacoby in both games against the Giants. 1984: Russ again started every game and made his second straight trip to the Pro Bowl. 1983: Russ started all 16 games at left guard but filled in at center in the regular-season finale against the Giants after Jeff Bostic was injured. Russ, Jeff, and tackle Joe Jacoby all made the Pro Bowl. 1982: Russ and Jacoby made the running play "counter-trey" famous around the league. People weren't used to seeing two players that big pull from one side to another. The two were big reasons why the Redskins averaged 152 yards rushing in the playoffs. Russ made UPI's all-NFC squad (second team) and set the foundation for four Pro Bowl appearances. 1981: The Redskins traded their 1982 first-round draft pick to acquire the chance to get Russ, as well as several other players in the 1981 draft. Because he played center at Pitt, the Redskins originally thought he would play that position. But injuries and the impressive play of Bostic moved Russ to left guard. Russ played 14 games despite being bothered by a sore knee. He underwent arthroscopic surgery after the season.

College, Personal: Russ helped the University of Pittsburgh to a 22-2 record over his junior and senior seasons. He played center, snapped for extra points and field goals and was the reserve punter. Russ punted, played quarterback and linebacker at Southmoreland High (PA). He earned nine letters and was a star on the basketball team. Born in Scottsdale, PA., he was a National Honor Society student. He is an avid hunter and golfer. He and his wife Karen have four children: Chad, 6, Cody, 5, and one-year old twins, daughter Devin and son Dylan. They reside in Oakton, VA.

1991 SCHEDULE

Upcoming opponents were 92-100 (.479) in 1990 with the Giants, Eagles, Bengals, Oilers and Bears earning playoff berths. Dallas and Pittsburgh had their playoff hopes dashed on the season's final weekend.

1990 Season: As a divisional nemesis for the past five seasons, the Redskins have seen first hand Terry's well deserved reputation as a smart, aggressive and reliable player. Terry played in all 16 games with three starts last season. In the opening two weeks, he led the Eagles with 20 tackles. Terry also finished among the team's leaders with 12 special teams tackles.

Pro Career: 1989: A leg injury in preseason forced Terry on IR for nine weeks. He earned second-team all-NFC honors. He had two interceptions and a 38-yard TD run off a fake field goal attempt in the season-opening win over Tampa Bay. 1987: Terry finished as the team's second leading tackler with 100, including a career-high 18 tackles at New England. He returned one of those thefts 52 yards for a touchdown at Green Bay. 1984: Terry saw action in 14 games as a rookie.

Terry led the nation, and set a Bulldog record, with 12 interceptions as a junior and was called by former Georgia coach Vince Dooley "the finest defensive back I've ever coached." He graduated with a degree in genetics from Georgia and his future plans may include the investment field, medical school, or a research position. Terry was an outstanding athlete at Huntsville High School in Huntsville, TX. He and his wife Jennifer, have two children, Christopher, 6 and Natalie. They reside in Reston, VA.

Games Played/Started: 6/0 — KC 1988 (IR); WASH 1989 (IR); 1990(6/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: Patience has definitely been a virtue for Stephen throughout his NFL career. After sitting out nearly 2½ seasons on injured reserve with various knee ailments, he still had been impressive enough in training camp to catch the eye of the Redskin coaching staff. "Stephen is a guy who has literally worked his way into an opportunity," said assistant coach Rod Dowhower. "He's reliable. His strength is catching the football and his approach to the game." Stephen was finally brought to the active roster in Week 10 with Walter Stanley's move to IR. In his pro debut versus the Saints, Stephen returned four kickoffs for 53 yards. He saw his only action on offense when the Redskins would go to their four-receiver scheme called "Rocket." Stephen's first NFL catch was good for an 18-yard touchdown against Buffalo. As a reliable special teams performer, he finished with 32 total hits to go along with six kickoff returns for 92 yards (15.3 avg.).

Pro Career: 1989: Stephen spent the year on injured reserve after coming to the Redskins as a Plan B free agent from Kansas City. A nagging injury to his left knee kept him out of action for the season. 1988: Stephen signed with the Kansas City Chiefs as a rookie free agent, but when he suffered a sprained left knee in training camp, he was forced onto IR for the entire season.

College, Personal: During two seasons at North Alabama, Stephen caught 64 passes for 940 yards and four touchdowns. He transferred to North Alabama after playing two seasons at Copiah-Lincoln Junior College in Wesson, MS. There, he earned all-State and all-Region honors and was an honorable mention all-America. 1990 Season: Stan showed some of the flashes of the bright potential that the Redskins predicted when they selected him in the sixth round of the 1988 draft. When Mark Rypien went down with a knee injury in Week 3 vs. Dallas, Stan stepped in and preserved the 19-15 win. In his first career-start the following week at Phoenix, Stan led the Redskins to a 38-10 romp over the Cardinals. After completing two passes in his first five attempts for 15 yards, Stan completed 18 of his next 20 attempts for 242 yards and two touchdowns. He finished the nationally TNT televised contest 20 of 25 for 257 yards, including two 42-yard scoring strikes to Gary Clark. "We all saw that Stan's a talented guy who can throw with anybody," said Joe Gibbs. "We've seen what he can do. Now it's up to him to reach that next level. He was thrust into the starting job, got his opportunity, and has to be excited for this year." Stan's apprenticeship also included a 13-7 win over Philadelphia and two narrow defeats to the World Champion Giants. A sprained knee suffered on the Monday Night contest at Philadelphia in Week 9, when he replaced an injured Jeff Rutledge, left Stan on injured reserve for the remainder of the year. He returned for the San Francisco playoff game but did not see action.

Pro Career: 1989: Stan's only regular season playing time came when he finished games against the Los Angeles Raiders and Seattle Seahawks. All of his regular season passing attempts came against the Raiders. 1988: Stan stayed on the sidelines after being placed on the non-football illness reserve list September 3 with bycotopenia, a blood disorder.

College, Personal: Stan learned patience in college, beginning at LSU and transferring to NE

Louisiana where he played behind Bubby Brister until his junior season. He did not disappoint when his time arrived, earning Southland Conference Player of the Year honors while leading the Indians to a 12-2 record and the NCAA Division I-AA title as a senior. He completed 94 of 160 passes (58.8 percent) for 1,397 yards and 11 touchdowns in the playoffs. In the championship game, Stan completed 26 of 43 passes for a career-high 436 yards and scored the game-winning touchdown on a 3-yard run in guiding his team to a 43-42 victory over Marshall. He completed 52.1 percent of his 338 passes and was named the Southland Conference Player of the Week on two occasions. He received all-SLC honorable mention honors as a junior and ranked second in the conference in both passing and total offense. He twice was named to the school's honor roll while majoring in general studies. Selected all-America at Southwood High (Shreveport, LA), Stan completed 235 of 458 passes for 3,416 yards and 34 touchdowns in two years. His hometown also is the home of quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw and Joe Ferguson. He and his wife, Connie, have a daughter, Brooke, 1, and they reside in Centreville, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Joe was selected to four straight Pro Bowls from 1983-86.
- * He was the Redskins recipient of the 1990 Ed Block Courage Award.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent April 30, 1981.

Games Played/Started: 136/122 — 1981 (14/13); 1982 (9/9)[4/4]; 1983 (16/16)[1/1]; 1984 (16/16)[1/1]; 1985 (11/11); 1986 (16/16)[3/3]; 1987 (12/12)[3/3]; 1988 (16/13); 1989 (10/10); 1990 (16/6)[2/2]

1990 Season: The moment the cast came off and revealed a severely atrophied left leg, Joe began his tiresome and grueling return to the Redskin lineup that had him at Redskin Park six days a week in the offseason. Whatever lingering doubts there might have been about his uncertain future, following major reconstructive knee surgery, were answered when big #66 took the field for the season opener against the Cardinals. "Remarkable," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "Obviously it's a tribute to Jake and his work ethic. We were just kind of walking on eggs going into training camp with him. But when he had his first contact, he got a big smile on his face. Then we knew he was OK. All the hard work in the offseason had paid off." It also paid off handsomely for the Redskins. Jake played a key role in the Week 8 overtime victory over the Lions when he stepped in for an injured Jim Lachey at left tackle. And when Russ Grimm and Jeff Bostic suffered injuries against Miami, Jake was inserted at left guard where he finished the game. The following week Jake started at left guard against the Bears. An injury to Ed Simmons in that game moved Joe back to right tackle, where he started the rest of the season. But it was a look the Redskin coaches liked. "Undoubtedly, Jake is the biggest offensive guard in the league," said Hanifan. "He pulls well and he does all those things well from that guard position."

Pro Career: 1989: Joe settled into his nearly-new spot at right tackle, and through nine games was having a banner year. Slimmer and quicker than in previous years, "Jake" had cut down on his sacks and QB hurries from '88 and had regained the form that put him in four straight Pro Bowls from '83-'86. Then in Week 10 against Philadelphia Joe suffered major ligament damage to his left knee that forced him to undergo reconstructive surgery and miss the final six weeks of the season. 1988: Joe started the first nine games of the year at his usual left tackle spot until a variety of injuries (knee, ankle, groin) sidelined him in Weeks 10-12. When he returned for the season's final four games, Jake was switched to right tackle, making room for Jim Lachey on the left side. The switch worked, as the new line gave up just two sacks in four games. 1987: Joe faced some of the best defensive ends in the league and allowed only two sacks in three playoff games and only five in 12 regular-season games. "Without a doubt, he had the best season of his career. And you're talking about a guy who has made the Pro Bowl four times since coming into the League," Joe Bugel said after the season. 1986: Joe made the Pro Bowl for the fourth consecutive year and played in every game for the fourth time in five seasons despite suffering a broken hand in the Wild Card game against the Los Angeles Rams. He played the next two weeks with a protective cast. 1985: If they didn't realize at the time, the Redskins found out how valuable Joe was to their offense. He missed five games after spraining his right knee during a practice prior to Game 7, and then reinjuring it against Cleveland. In the five games Joe missed, Redskins' runners gained 100 yards or more only once. Joe had started 55 straight games before the injury. Despite the missed playing time, Joe made the Pro Bowl for the third straight time and was named to the UPI second-team all-Pro squad. 1984: Joe received the nickname "Jake the Quake" when he fell on a Keith Griffin fumble in the end zone against Minnesota to become the only Washington offensive lineman to ever score a touchdown. In an injury-riddled season, he was one of only eight players to start every game for the Redskins. In addition to making the Pro Bowl for a second straight year, he was named to the AP all-Pro squad, the UPI all-NFC team, The Sporting News all-Pro team, the Pro Football Writers' all-Pro team and John Madden's all-NFL team. He was runner-up to teammate Russ Grimm in USA Today's NFC Lineman of the Year voting. 1983: Joe made his first Pro Bowl. He faced Dallas' Harvey Martin, Philadelphia's Dennis Harrison and St. Louis' Curtis Greer and didn't allow a sack. He limited Raiders' end Lyle Alzado to one tackle and 1/2 sack and San Francisco's Fred Dean to two tackles and one sack. 1982: Joe started all 13 games and played his first full season at left tackle. 1981: Joe signed with the Redskins as a relatively unknown free agent. Coach Joe Gibbs still laughs when he tells the story of how he mistook Jacoby for a defensive lineman the first time the two met. Nevertheless, Joe entered training camp with seven veterans and five draft picks as competition and came out a winner. After alternating between guard and tackle the first eight weeks, he settled in at left tackle.

College, Personal: The pride of Louisville football, Joe co-captained the Cardinals' team his senior season and led them to the Independence Bowl. Born and raised in Louisville, Joe received all-America honors at Western H.S. Jake is a dedicated supporter of the American Heart Association and he and his wife, Irene, put together the Seventh Annual Joe Jacoby Celebrity Golf Tournament last May. All proceeds went to American Heart Association. Joe and Irene are extremely involved in the community and have two daughters, Lauren Nicole, 3, and Jenna Christina born last November. The Jacobys reside in Clifton, VA.

How Acquired: Selected in sixth round of the 1989 draft (149th overall).

Games Played/Started: 21/8—1989 (16/8); 1990 (5/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: 1990 was supposed to be a lost year for AJ. After a sterling rookie campaign, reconstructive surgery on his right knee left his status questionable at best. But a flawless reahabilitation program had AJ ahead of schedule. To the surprise of everyone, by Week 12 he was again in a Redskin uniform. "AJ's an excellent cover guy," said assistant head coach/defense Richie Petitbon. "He can go in on passing situations and nickel situations and do a super job." In just five games, AJ posted five pass deflections and an interception as he saw extensive duty in nickel coverage. But his presence was felt most in the Redskins 10-9 win over the Bears. His interception with 1:54 left in the game allowed the Redskins to nearly run the clock out. And on special teams, AJ posted six tackles.

Pro Career: 1989: After starting the year as a nickel back, AJ got his first start against Dallas in Week 9. He led the team in interceptions (4) and pass deflections (8), finished tops among new Redskins (and 10th overall) in tackles with 55. In addition, he was second on the team (7th in the NFC) in kickoff returns with a 21.0 yard average. Perhaps AJ's shining moment came when he was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week following the 29-10 win over Phoenix in Week 13. In that game AJ had two interceptions (one for a 59-yard second half TD to break the game open and the other to set up a first half field goal) and seven tackles to lead the defense. He had a career-high eight-tackle game against Chicago.

College, Personal: AJ did a little bit of everything as a standout player at Southwest Texas State. As a cornerback, wide receiver, running back, and special teams player, AJ barely had time to catch his breath. In his senior year he was named second-team all-Southland Conference as a receiver (26 catches for 459 yards and four TDs) and honorable mention as a cornerback. A native of San Antonio, Texas, AJ was a running back at Clemens High School where he rushed for 1,949 yards. He resides in Ashburn, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * His first career TD came against the Lions last season.
- * His 14.5 yard average was second on the team in 1990.

How Acquired: Selected in the twelfth round of the 1989 draft (316th overall).

Games Played/Started: 32/5 — 1989 (16/0); 1990 (16/5)[2/0]

1990 Season: Unfortunately for Jimmie, league rules permit only one football to be used at a time. And with a receiving corps that includes Art Monk, Gary Clark and Ricky Sanders, he knows he is a supporting player in a star studded cast. Still, there's little doubt that Jimmie is one of the most sure-handed receivers on the Redskin roster. With a penchant for the big play, Jimmie's 14.5 yard average per catch was second on the team behind Clark's 14.8 average, and 10 of his 15 receptions went for first downs. He caught his first career touchdown pass on a four-yarder from Stan Humphries against the Lions and had a three-yard touchdown grab against the Dolphins. Whether lining up as an H-Back (where he started five games), at tight end or on special teams, he has proved to be durable and versatile.

Pro Career: 1989: Jimmie made what might have been the biggest catch of the year when his acrobatic, one-handed grab of a Doug Williams pass went for 24 yards and led to the game-winning touchdown in the Week 10 victory over Philadelphia. His 39-yard reception from Stan Humphries vs the Raiders in Week 8 was his longest of the year and set up a fourth quarter touchdown. He was one of only two rookies to play all 16 games and finished the year fourth on the team with 73 total hits on special teams.

College, Personal: Jimmie's playing time and role increased every year at Howard until he was named all-MEAC as a senior, catching 31 passes for 546 yards and nine touchdowns. As

- * He has led the Redskins in kickoff returns in each of the past two seasons.

Games Played/Started: 30/0 — BUF 1987 IR; 1988 IR; WASH 1989 (15/0); 1990 (15/0)

1990 Season: Although the smallest player on the Redskins roster, Joe's fearlessness on special teams has made him a favorite among teammates, coaches and fans. "His approach to the game is outstanding," says Rod Dowhower. "He studies and knows more than one position. When we've put him in games he's performed well." For the second straight season, Joe led the Redskins in kickoff returns with a 19.4-yard average. And besides returning punts, Joe finished third on the team with 24 special teams tackles, including a team-high 10 special team hits (five tackles) vs. Phoenix. While the bulk of his playing minutes came on special teams, Joe did manage to log playing time on offense. He caught the first pass of his NFL career on a 17-yarder vs. the Dolphins and caught two more for 36 yards in the season finale against Buffalo.

Pro Career: 1989: Signed by the Redskins late in training camp, Joe ended up as the NFC's third-leading kick returner and was selected by his teammates as special teams MVP. A 99-yard kickoff return for a touchdown against the Raiders in Week 8 was the NFL's longest of the year and the team's first TD return since 1978. His 51-yard kickoff return ignited the Skins to a 26-21 comeback win over San Diego. Joe's 24.9-yard KO return average was the team's best (for players with over 20 returns) since 1981. 1988: With the Buffalo Bills, Joe suffered a rib injury late in training camp and was placed on injured reserve for the entire season. 1987: After being waived by the Bills in preseason, Joe was re-signed as a member of their replacement team. But before the first strike game, Joe injured his knee and was lost for the year. 1986: Joe was waived by the Bills when they cut down to their 60-man limit in the preseason. 1985: Signed by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a free agent, Joe was waived after two preseason games.

College, Personal: At Notre Dame, Joe was a four-year starter at wide receiver, catching 85 passes for 1,663 yards and seven TDs. Since joining the Redskins, Joe has been very active in community and charity events in his hometown of Washington, D.C. He attended Carroll High School along with Redskins administrative assistant/defensive line coach Bobby DePaul and assistant trainer Al Bellamy. He and his wife, Cheryl, are expecting their first child this summer. They reside in Reston, VA.

1990 Season: It didn't take Sidney long to find his niche with the Redskins. Signed five weeks into the season when injuries to the Redskin secondary left that unit thin, Sidney saw extensive action as a nickel back and on special teams. He did get a starting assignment in Week 8 when the Redskins opened in a six defensive back set against the run-and-shoot Lions. He responded with a team-high seven tackles and also forced a fumble and deflected a pass. In Week 15 at Indianapolis, Sidney was knocked unconscious in a first quarter kickoff return and didn't come to until his transport to the hospital. Sidney finished the year with 31 special teams tackles. He began the year in Kansas City and was waived in training camp.

Pro Career: 1989: Sidney joined Tampa Bay under "Plan B" free agency and was waived before the start of the season. 1988: He played in 13 games for Kansas City as a reserve cornerback, making eight tackles, deflecting five passes and forcing one fumble. He tied for second on the Chiefs with 18 special teams tackles. 1987: Sidney signed with the Chiefs as a rookie free agent, but missed all of his rookie campaign with a knee sprain suffered in training camp.

College, Personal: Sidney played two seasons at Cal-Berkeley after transferring from Cerritos (CA) Community College. He finished his two-year stint at Cal with 68 tackles (38 solo) and one interception. A first team PAC-10 selection at Cerritos, he had three interceptions as a sophomore in 1984. Sidney attended Cerritos High School, where he was a first team all-conference honoree at both safety and quarterback and an all-conference track performer. He resides in Kansas City, MO.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Tim was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week for his performance in the Wild Card playoff victory over Philadelphia last season.
- * He has had three two-sack games during his career.
- * Tim had a career-high 4½ sacks in 1989 as a Steeler.

How Acquired: Obtained on August 22, 1990 in a trade with Pittsburgh for a fourth round draft choice in 1991.

Games Played/Started: 57/28 — PGH 1987 (12/0); 1988 (15/12); 1989 (14/14)[2/2]; WASH 1990 (16/2)[2/2]

1990 Season: Tim gave the Redskins a glimpse of the future in the Wild Card Playoff game at Philadelphia. Making his first start at defensive left tackle, Tim sacked Randall Cunningham two times (for 16 yards in losses), pressured Cunningham into another sack, had five tackles and one forced fumble. Not only was his performance instrumental in the 20-6 win, but he was chosen the NFC Defensive Player of the Week. That type of performance did not come as a surprise to the Redskin coaches or players. While Tim had mostly been used in passing situations throughout the season, and started only two games (Week 8 at Detroit when the Redskins started the game in their nickel package and Week 16 vs Buffalo when he replaced an injured Charles Mann), finding the position to best utilize his quickness and size is the only question left to be answered. In Week 6, Tim again was a nemesis to the Eagles with two sacks and a QB hurry in the Redskin win. In addition to his three regular season sacks, Tim added seven QB hurries, three passes defended and forced one fumble.

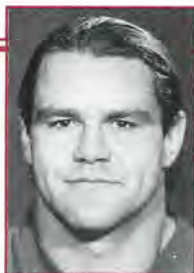

Pro Career: 1989: Tim started 14 games for Pittsburgh, finishing with 35 tackles (33 solo) and a career-high 4½ sacks. He notched a career-high two sacks vs Minnesota to earn the game ball. 1988: Tim led the Steelers with four sacks and was the second leading tackler on the defensive line with 34 stops. He had a season-high six tackles, including one sack against Philadelphia. Tim posted a season-high two sacks vs the Jets. 1987: Tim played in 12 games as a backup at defensive tackle.

College, Personal: A two-year starter and four-year letterman at defensive end and defensive tackle, Tim compiled 91 tackles, nine sacks and one interception during his career at Penn State. He had five sacks as a senior right defensive tackle, earning first team Walter Camp all-America honors and was named second team by the Associated Press. He graduated with a liberal arts degree with an emphasis in marketing and speech communications. Tim is from Sarasota, FL and attended Sarasota High School. He and his wife, Lechelle, have a daughter, Christa (4). They reside in Centreville, VA.

career, he was told the position switching had stopped. With an injury to Fred Stokes in training camp, and with the acquisition of defensive tackles Eric Williams and Tim Johnson, Markus was penciled in as the starter at right defensive end. Relatively injury free, and finally knowing where he would line up each week, Markus responded with a career-high 58 tackles. Those career-high stops included a season-high nine tackles against the Giants in Week 5 and versus the Cowboys in Week 11. A sprained knee, however, did force Markus to miss the Week 7 contest at New York. But he returned to the starting lineup the following week at Detroit and posted his first sack of the season. In the Week 14 contest at New England, Markus had a sack before re-injuring his knee in the first half. He was placed on the inactive list for the last two weeks of the season before returning to the starting lineup for the playoffs.

Pro Career: 1989: Just when Markus was settling into his role as an inside lineman, a series of injuries hampered his playing time and eventually ended his season. He started the first six games of the year at left tackle before being sidelined with bruised ribs in the Week 6 loss to the Giants. To that point, Markus was having his best pro year, including a career-high nine tackle performance against the Saints in Week 4 and a three tackle, one sack, forced fumble outing in the Week 2 loss to Philadelphia. A sprained left knee in the first half against Denver in Week 11 ended his season. 1988: Markus spent the offseason learning the middle linebacker spot, but because of injuries was thrown back into defensive end duty in preseason. Before a back injury of his own sidelined him after Week 11, Markus set career-highs for tackles (46), sacks (3½) and starts (6), and was named Defensive Player of the Week for his play against New Orleans in Week 10. 1987: Markus started the first two games of the season when Dexter Manley was sidelined with an injury, but spent most of the season in an apprenticeship role. In his first start against Philadelphia, he recorded a sack, and he also had a sack against St. Louis. His versatility was evident at Miami when he played tackle and linebacker in a 3-4 alignment. 1986: Markus served in a backup role at defensive end and tackle and also played some stand-up defensive end in a 3-4 package.

College, Personal: Markus has followed a unique road to the NFL, beginning with his birth in Niedermarsberg, West Germany. He attended high school at Eastwood Collegiate in Kitchener, Ontario, before attending Boise State. Markus was named all-Big Sky Conference three consecutive years. An Associated Press all-America as a senior, Markus recorded 11 sacks among his 49 tackles. His total of 27 career sacks helped earn appearances in both the Senior Bowl and the East-West Shrine game. An avid outdoorsman, Markus enjoys sailing and body-surfing. He plans on making his living as a carpenter once he is finished with football. With his love for sailing, he might merge both interests and start a marina. He and his wife, Rosemary, have one child, Zakary Barth, 3, and live in Alexandria, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Jim has played in two Pro Bowls. One as a member of the NFC (1990) squad and the other on the AFC (1987) team.
- * He was named NFC Offensive Player of the Week vs. Miami last season.
- * Jim has been named a first-team all-pro in each of the past two seasons.

How Acquired: Obtained on September 3, 1988 in trade with Los Angeles Raiders for Jay Schroeder.

Games Played/Started: 90/88 - SD 1985 (16/16); 1986 (16/15); 1987(12/12); LA 1988 (1/1) WASH (15/14); 1989 (14/14); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: Jim's peers said all that needed to be said about the kind of year he had in 1990 when they named him the top vote getter at tackle in the Pro Bowl, and as the NFC's Offensive Lineman of the Year. "It would be hard to have had a better year than Jim had last season," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "He's one of the top two offensive linemen in the league. He's got a tenacity and determination that wants him to be the best player he can possibly be. And he's going to get better." That might be hard to believe, especially after the kind of year Jim had last season. In the dominating Week 12 win over Miami, Jim was named the NFC Offensive Player of the Week (only the second offensive lineman in six years to win the award) as the Redskin offensive line paved the way for 222 yards on the ground against the league's top rushing defense. And when facing the league's best, Jim was at his best. He stopped Chicago's Richard Dent, New Orleans' Pat Swilling and Buffalo's Bruce Smith without a sack. Besides his outstanding play, Jim's dependability to line up week-in and week-out also was a plus. Along with Jeff Bostic, he was the only lineman to start every game. "The key factor with Jim now is to continue to demand of himself even better play," said Hanifan. "He's the type of player that will do that." Honors: Pro Bowl, NFLPA NFC Offensive Lineman of the Year, 1st team all-NFL by AP, PFWA, The Sporting News, Football Digest, Pro Football Newsweekly, Pro Football Weekly and NEA; 1st team all-NFC by UPI and Football News, all-Madden.

Pro Career: 1989: Jim regained the form that put him in the 1987 Pro Bowl as he was named a first team all-Pro by AP, The Sporting News, Pro Football Weekly, all-Madden and first team all-NFC by UPI. He was a second-team all-Pro by College and Pro Football Weekly. His crunching blow to the Raiders' Jerry Robinson in Week 8 was selected as Sport Magazine's Hit of the Year and epitomized his strength and power. In the Week 6 loss to the Giants, Jim allowed Lawrence Taylor just one tackle and two assists. And in the Week 12 win over the Bears, Richard Dent didn't record a single tackle. As the season progressed, Jim overcame a variety of injuries (he missed Weeks 9 and 10 against Dallas and Philadelphia with a bruised shoulder and dislocated thumb) and several changing faces around him to form the cornerstone of a line that allowed the second fewest sacks (21) in the League. 1988: It was a year of transition for Jim. Just prior to training camp he was traded from San Diego to the LA Raiders. Following LA's opener he was sent from the Raiders to Washington. Before he could even catch his breath, he was switched from right to left tackle. Through it all, though, Jim started 14 games and gave the Redskins a solid season. 1987: Jim made his first Pro Bowl appearance when an injury moved him into the game from his alternate slot. He was also a second team all-NFL choice by AP and first team all-AFC choice by UPI while earning his second straight Lineman of the Year selection from his teammates. 1986: There was no sophomore slump for Lachey, who was voted Pro Bowl alternate by AFC players in only his second season. Charger teammates voted Lachey as the team's Lineman of the Year. The year solidified his reputation as one of the top young offensive linemen in pro football. 1985: The fifth offensive lineman selected in the 1985 draft and the 12th player overall, Jim made an immediate impact with the Chargers. He moved into the starting lineup at left tackle on opening day playing beside veteran Ed White and displayed a maturity and savvy unusual for a first year player. His performance did not go unnoticed. Jim was named to the all-rookie teams of UPI, Football Digest, and the Pro Football Writers of America. UPI also named him second team All-AFC and first team all-Pro by the Rocky Mountain News.

College, Personal: Jim left a mark on Ohio athletics on the high school and college levels. He played guard for the Ohio State Buckeyes and earned all-America honors from the Football Writers and UPI as a senior along with all-Big Ten honors. Jim also played in the East-West Shrine game and earned a degree in marketing. Green Bay Packer quarterback Mike Tomczak was the best man at Jim's wedding. Buckeye bred, he grew up in St. Henry, OH, and played football, basketball, and track for the St. Henry High School Redskins where his father is the athletic director. In track, Jim ran the 100 meters (11.2), 200 meters (22.7), 400-meter relay, and put the shot (61-5) and started as a sophomore forward on a state champion basketball team. Jim and his wife, Ann, live in Fairfax, VA.

1990 Season: The Redskins decided Jon was worth the risk when they drafted him, despite two major knee operations. And after one full season spent on injured reserve, that attitude hasn't changed. "Jon is not your typical low round draft choice," said linebacker coach Larry Peccatiello. "He has a lot of tools, and if his knees hold up he can be a help." Jon was waived by the Redskins on the final cut and re-signed the next day. Oddly enough, it was a hamstring injury, and not a knee, that forced Jon on injured reserve.

College, Personal: Injuries curtailed the potential for an outstanding collegiate career. Jon was an AP and UPI honorable mention all-America selection as a sophomore. He also earned first-team all-Big 10 honors as well when he recorded a career-high 165 tackles, 13 tackles for loss and two interceptions. But an injury to his left knee in the season opener as a junior forced Jon to miss the remainder of the year. He bounced back from that injury as a senior to earn honorable mention all-Big Ten honors despite missing four games when he hurt his right knee. - * Chip tied an NFL record with two 50+ field goals in the same quarter vs Indianapolis last season.

How Acquired: Selected in second round of 1988 draft (55th overall).

Games Played/Started: 48/0 — 1988 (16/0); 1989 (16/0); 1990 (16/0)[2/0]

1990 Season: Clearly establishing himself as one of the league's best kickers, Chip entered the NFL record book in only his third season by pushing his consecutive games field goal streak to 28 games (the streak ended November 12 at Philadelphia when he did not have an attempt). Chip now stands in a second place tie with Jim Turner (Jets 1970; Denver 1971-72) on the all-time most consecutive games scoring field goals list. "Chip is on his way to becoming one of the truly outstanding kickers in the National Football League," said special teams coach Wayne Sevier. "Physically, he has all the potential for that. I think he's demonstrated that he's going to be someone we can count on." To back up his coach in action, Chip's 131 points were tops in the NFC and second in the NFL last season, and placed him third (behind Mark Moseley's all-time best 161 in 1983 and John Riggins' 144 in 1983) in team single-season scoring. His 30 field goals were the most made by any NFC kicker and were second in the league. Chip was the league's hottest kicker at the end of season connecting on 12 straight field goals (including three for three in the playoffs). He tied a club record with five field goals vs. Buffalo and tied an NFL record with two 50+ field goals (53 and 56 yards) in one quarter at Indianapolis. His 56-yarder against the Colts tied for the league's longest kick of the year and was the second-longest in club history. Chip closed out the season nailing 20 of his final 23 attempts with all three misses coming from 50+ yards (50, 52 and 54). He also booted two game winning field goals (six for his career) defeating the Lions with a 34-yarder in overtime and a 35-yarder vs. Chicago with 2:14 remaining.

Pro Career: 1989: Chip's 128 points were second in the NFL and his 40 field goal attempts were tops in the league, while his 29 converted field goals tied him for second in the NFL. In Weeks 1-8, Chip hit 16-of-18 field goals (including the last eight games of '88, he was 25-of-28 over a 16-game span) and had a streak of 10 straight, including three each in consecutive wins at Dallas and New Orleans in Weeks 3 and 4. Against the Saints, Chip hit the game-winner (an 18-yarder and the fourth winning FG of his career) in the 16-14 victory. In the come-from-behind win over San Diego in Week 14, Chip nailed four field goals (including a 28-yarder that sealed the win) and received a game ball for his efforts. For the year, Chip had consecutive FG made streaks of 10, six, and eight and his 29 made are the third-best Redskin single-season mark. 1988: Chip kicked three game-winning FGs in his rookie year and finished the year on a nine-for-10 tear. In Week 10 vs New Orleans, Chip nailed a 23-yarder with under a minute to play to give the 'Skins a 27-24 win. Four weeks later, Chip improved on his flair for the dramatics when he connected on a 44-yarder with one second remaining to beat Philadelphia, 20-19.

College, Personal: Chip is regarded as the best kicker in the University of Minnesota history, and his records reflect that reputation. He broke school records for the longest field goal (62 yards), field goals made (53), and points scored (254). As a senior, he converted 16 of 19 field goals and all 27 extra point tries. For his career, Lohmiller converted 57 of 73 field goal tries and 97 of 99 extra points. He was chosen first team all-Big Ten as a junior and second team as a senior. As a sophomore, he kicked a school record 10 consecutive field goals. He also picked up valuable punting experience, kicking 20 times for 693 yards. A business major, Chip was selected a football all-State at Woodbury (MN) High School, and also earned letters in hockey, golf, and track. His hobbies include snowmobiling, fishing and golf. Because of his father's business, his parents currently reside in Norway. Chip resides in Bloomington, MN.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Charles was selected to three straight Pro Bowls from 1987-89.
- * His 65½ career sacks rank second in club history.
- * Charles' 14½ sacks in 1985 were a career high.

How Acquired: Selected in third round of 1983 draft. (84th overall)

Games Played/Started: 120/103 - 1983 (16/1)[3/0]; 1984 (16/15)[1/1]; 1985 (16/16); 1986 (15/15)[3/3]; 1987 (12/12)[3/3]; 1988 (14/13); 1989 (16/16); 1990 (15/15)[2/2]

1990 Season: Unfortunately for Charles, lower sack and tackle totals meant he was doing his job properly. While teams were busy double-teaming him, Fred Stokes, on the opposite side, and rookie Andre Collins, who lined up behind him at outside linebacker, finished one-two in sacks. However, in the Redskins defensive scheme, Charles played his best and most consistent football of his career. And while his 5 1/2 sacks were third best on the team, he recorded a team-high 23 QB hurries (the second-best total of his career). In the Redskins stretch run into the playoffs, it was Charles who continually came up with big plays. His sack of Bears' Jim Harbaugh with :05 left in the game preserved the 10-9 Redskin victory and in the playoff clinching victory at New England, Charles had eight tackles, a sack, a forced fumble and two QB hurries. In the Wild Card playoff game against Philadelphia, it was Charles who provided the pivotal turning point in the Redskins 20-6 win. He threw Heath Sherman for a one-yard loss on first and goal from the two, and then followed that up with an eight-yard sack of Randall Cunningham on third and goal forcing the Eagles into a field goal.

Pro Career: 1989: Charles managed to post some of his best numbers in being named to his third straight trip to the Pro Bowl and was a UPI second-team all-NFC choice. He set personal-bests for tackles (93, sixth-best on the team) and QB hurries (31, team-high), led the team in sacks with 9½, forced two fumbles and made one recovery. 1988: Injuries throughout the year hindered Charles from having what he hoped would be a record-breaking year. Nonetheless, Charles' peers thought enough of his play to select him to his second straight Pro Bowl on the merit of his 68 tackles, 5½ sacks, and team-high 17 QB hurries. 1987: Charles finished the season with a team-high 10 sacks, 21 QB hurries and 80 tackles, sixth on the team and first among defensive linemen. He registered two or more sacks in four of 12 regular-season games and made his first Pro Bowl trip. 1986: Charles picked up in '87 where he had left off in '86. He had 10 sacks and 16 QB hurries, both second on the team behind Dexter Manley. 1985: Charles' 14½ sacks ranked fourth in the NFC and second on the team behind Manley's 15. He added 21 hurries and 85 tackles and was just one of 11 players on the team to start every game in an injury-filled season. 1984: Charles started the final 15 games and finished with 85 tackles, 7½ sacks, 15 hurries and three forced fumbles. 1983: Redskins' coaches held high opinions of Charles when they drafted him, but they brought him along slowly as a rookie, playing him at left end behind Todd Liebenstein.

College, Personal: At Nevada-Reno, Charles was voted the Most Valuable Defensive Lineman in the Big Sky Conference in 1981 and '82. As a senior, his 14 sacks led the conference. He finished third on the team with 76 tackles and was voted a Division I-AA all-American. Off the field, Charles works as hard as he does when he's playing. He has dabbled in real estate, modeling, acting and broadcasting. In the past he hosted a Thanksgiving special "Redskins Review" and served as a commentator on his own local radio show "Mann About Town." He has appeared in the new national Diet Coke ads with other star players from the NFL and with Swanson's. Charles also devotes much of his free time to charity, working with the March of Dimes, Special Olympics, Children's Hospital, Children's Miracle Network Telethon and the Metropolitan Boys and Girls Club. Charles and his wife, Tyrena, have a daughter, Camille (3), and they reside in Great Falls, VA.

1990 Season: A look at the numbers says a lot about Wilber's contributions to the Redskin defense. He finished third in tackles with 107, including a team-high 10 behind the line of scrimmage, and his five sacks were his best single-season total since 1987. Wilber also led the team with two forced fumbles, was second with two recovered fumbles and was third in QB hurries with eight. The numbers all added up. After two seasons of acclimating himself into the Redskin system, Wilber had found the perfect fit. In the Week 16 victory over the AFC Champion Buffalo Bills, Wilber's dominating play led to his selection as the NFC Defensive Player of the Week. Wilber had a personal hand in thwarting Buffalo's first three possessions. On the Bills' initial drive, Wilber came up with a 10-yard sack, he then caused and recovered a fumble on the Bills' second possession and again caused a fumble on Buffalo's third possession of the first quarter. His efforts led to two Chip Lohmiller field goals. Wilber set the tone of things to come in the season opener with Phoenix when he had four tackles, one sack, one pass defended and one forced fumble. In a Week 13 victory over his former Bear teammates, Wilber recorded a team-high 11 tackles. He posted a season-high 13 tackles, along with two QB hurries and a sack, against Dallas and had 10 tackles in the Week 6 win over Philadelphia.

Pro Career: 1989: Wilber's durability (he was one of only four defensive players to start all 16 games) allowed him to be on the field every week, and he subsequently posted some of the best numbers of his career. He finished third in tackles with 108 (his career second-best), first in tackles behind the line with eight, second in QB hurries with 14, and third in sacks with four. Wilber also led the team in recovered fumbles (2) and added an interception, a forced fumble, and a pass deflection. In the Week 3 win over Dallas, Wilber showed his versatility, as he made four tackles, a sack (for five yards), a QB hurry, an interception (18-yard return), and a pass deflection. Late in the season Wilber had a string of big games in wins over Phoenix (eight tackles, one sack), San Diego (eight tackles), and Atlanta (four tackles, QB hurry, game-clinching sack). 1988: Wilber became the first NFL free agent to switch teams since 1977. And he responded with quality numbers. His 133 tackles (fourth on team) were by far his career-best, and he finished in the team top-three in interceptions (second with three), forced fumbles (team leader with three), and sacks (third with four). Despite an injured knee, Wilber was one of only seven Redskins to start every game. 1987: Wilber earned his second Pro Bowl trip after finishing third in tackles with 93, including 53 solos. He was spectacular in the season opener against the Giants, making three sacks. Ironically, he concluded his career in Chicago as the Bears' leading tackler (with eight) in a divisional loss to the Redskins. 1986: A typical Marshall season earned Wilber a trip to the Pro Bowl and consensus all-pro status. He began the year with a 58-yard touchdown interception on opening day. On October 26, he scored the Bears' only touchdown in a 13-7 victory over the Lions. He sacked Eric Hipple, stripped the ball, and ran 12 yards for the score. In December, he was named NFC Player of the Month. His five interceptions were the most by a Bears' linebacker since 1976. 1985: Wilber emerged as a starter while the Bears became Super Bowl Champions. Although missing one game with the flu, he finished third in tackles with 78 and fourth in sacks with six. He also led Bears' linebackers with four interceptions. He made eight tackles and two interceptions to key a victory over the Vikings. The playoffs brought more. Against the Rams, Wilber recorded his first NFL touchdown with a 52-yard fumble return, and followed with a sack and fumble recovery in Super Bowl XX. 1984: The Bears gradually worked Wilber into the system, using him primarily on special teams and in short-yardage situations. He started one game—against Dallas November 30.

College, Personal: This Gator garnered virtually every honor at Florida as a consensus all-America and a Lombardi Award finalist as a senior. With opponents trying to avoid him his senior season, he still recorded 95 tackles, two interceptions, eight tackles for losses, and six sacks. His foes were not as wise the previous season. He made 123 tackles and six sacks. His 11 sacks as a sophomore broke the Florida single-season record. He earned all-America honors and was the Florida High School Player of the Year at Astronaut High in Titusville, FL, while also being named to the Academic all-America team. He and his wife, Janelle, have a daughter, Brittany Nicole, 1, and they reside in Great Falls, VA.

Games Played/Started: 32/22— BUFF 1988 (1R); WASH 1989 (16/7); 1990 (16/15)[2/2]

1990 Season: Each week Martin's credentials were examined by the league's best—Joe Montana, Dan Marino, Phil Simms, Randall Cunningham. From beginning to end, each week Martin proved he belonged in the NFL. He opened the year with two interceptions vs. Phoenix and in the Redskins playoff victory at Philadelphia he limited Calvin Williams to one catch (9 yards). At the end of the year, Martin led the club with seven interceptions (third best in the NFL), including four in a crucial four-week (Week 9 through Week 12) stretch of the season. "Martin's an excellent football player," said Richie Petitbon. "Martin's an excellent tackler. He's a great run player and he is not going to get beat deep. We feel very confident with him right now." It was Martin's first quarter interception against Marino that led to the Redskins first touchdown and started the 42-20 rout of the Dolphins. He also had pass thefts against Dallas, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Buffalo. And since Martin took over the starting left cornerback position in Week 10 of the 1989 season, the Redskins have gone 17-8. Martin not only proved that he can hold his own against the league's best in coverage situations, but Redskin coaches feel he is the team's best pure tackler. He recorded 104 tackles and had four double-digit tackle efforts (10 each vs Chicago, Dallas and San Francisco), including a career-high 13 tackle game versus Philadelphia.

Pro Career: 1989: Slated for backup special teams duty, after signing with the Redskins as a Plan B free agent, he got his chance to start Week 10 against Philadelphia. His performance resulted in a game ball and Martin remained in place as the Redskins compiled a 6-1 record down the stretch. His biggest play came against San Diego when he broke up a fourth down pass in the end zone to preserve a 26-21 Redskin victory. 1988: Martin spent his rookie year in Buffalo on injured reserve because of a wrist injury early in training camp.

College, Personal: In four seasons at Florida State, Martin totaled 186 tackles, intercepted five passes, had 24 deflections, and recovered three fumbles. He made two starts as a junior but missed the Seminoles' All-American Bowl game against Indiana after suffering a knee injury late in the season. He started at left cornerback as a sophomore and was named to the second team all-South Independent squad. He also ran track and was a member of the Seminoles' 400-meter relay team that qualified for the NCAA's in '86. Martin had better than a 3.0 grade-point average and earned a degree in management. He was working in the banking business when the Bills drafted him. He has plans, while temporarily on hold, to attend law school. During this past offseason, Martin made a sizable donation to Africare, a development organization specializing in Africa, to support an on-farm training project for disadvantaged youth in a rural village in Senegal. He also volunteers time to Africare headquarters in Washington throughout the year. Martin resides in Ashburn, VA.

- * His only career start came against the Lions last season.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent May 17, 1990

Games Played/Started: 15/1—1990 (15/1)(2/0)

1990 Season: When Alvoid got a phone call from the Redskins asking him to come to training camp, his football future was so uncertain he was packing and boxing orange juice for Tropicana in his native Florida. He then postponed his wedding plans and reported to Redskin Park. To say the least, Alvoid was a longshot to make the Redskin roster. But with AJ Johnson out (offseason knee surgery) and Brian Davis sidelined during training camp with an injury, the club needed help at corner. Alvoid took advantage of his newfound opportunity and found a roster spot. "He was a very pleasant surprise," said secondary coach Emmitt Thomas. "We possibly thought he had an outside shot of making the team, but Alvoid impressed everyone. He's got speed and as long as a guy has speed he can play corner." Mainly used as a reserve in the Redskin nickel package, Alvoid's only start came in Week 8 when the Redskins opened in a six defensive back alignment against the run-and-shoot Lions. As a special teamer, he finished third on the team with 84 total hits and had a season-high 10 special teams hits in the win over Miami.

Pro Career: 1989: An eighth round draft choice by Houston in 1989, he was cut by the Oilers in training camp, and when no one else showed an interest in his talents, he missed the entire season.

College, Personal: Alvoid transferred to West Virginia after two years at Pratt (Kansas) Community College. As a senior, he contributed 28 tackles (18 solo) plus a team-leading five interceptions. Alvoid earned all-ECAC, AP honorable mention all-America, and second Team all-East honors. He had two interceptions in a Mountaineer win over Pittsburgh, and tallied a career-best eight stops against Syracuse. Along with football, Alvoid enjoys a "rap" music career. His rap career began while at West Virginia, he also recorded "Mountaineer

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Rallo has played both guard positions, center and left tackle during his career.
- * He was the only offensive linemen to play every down during the Redskins 1987 Super Bowl season.

How Acquired: Selected in 11th round of 1985 draft (290th overall).

Games Played/Started: 80/51 — 1985 (6/0); 1986 (15/5)[3/0]; 1987 (12/12)[3/3]; 1988 (16/14); 1989 (15/8); 1990 (16/12)[2/2]

1990 Season: One series of plays in the Week 6 win over Philadelphia epitomized Raleigh's value to the team. On four consecutive plays, Rallo played right guard, moved over to center for an injured Jeff Bostic, then switched to left guard for Russ Grimm and then back to right guard. For Rallo, it was just another day at the office. "Rallo is a guy whose versatility is a key factor on our ballclub," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan. "He gives us a great deal of latitude. You're always looking for a guy who you can insert at either guard or center and not miss a beat. With Rallo, you have that and that has been a big, big plus." Raleigh started nine straight games at right guard before switching to the left side in Week 14 at New England when he replaced an injured Grimm. "Because of his versatility, Rallo hasn't been able to stay at one spot," said Hanifan. "But when Russ Grimm got banged up, Rallo stepped in there and really stayed at home at that left guard spot."

Pro Career: 1989: Raleigh was asked to be the offensive line's jack-of-all-trades, filling in for four former Pro-Bowlers at four different spots along the line (all but right tackle). Raleigh got his first start in Week 9 vs Dallas, filling in for Russ Grimm at left guard, and remained a member of the starting unit for the rest of the season. 1988: Raleigh showed his trademark versatility and toughness. After starting the season at left guard, Rallo moved to center in Week 3, and then back to guard in Week 6. 1987: Raleigh was the Redskins' only offensive lineman to play every play. He also never missed a practice. Minnesota Vikings' defensive tackle Keith Millard said of Raleigh: "He's the best offensive lineman I faced all season." 1986: Raleigh earned his first NFL start in San Diego and was named Offensive Player of the Game. He started three of the five games in which the line didn't allow a sack. Raleigh was used as a blocking back, at times, in the NFC Championship Game against the New York Giants. 1985: One of the surprises of training camp, his biggest moment came in Week 15 against Cincinnati when he threw the key block that sprung George Rogers 34 yards for the winning touchdown.

* He caught a career-high three passes in 1989 playoffs with Cleveland.

Games Played/Started: 55/12—ATL 1986 (16/3); 1987 (12/4); WASH 1988 (2/0); CLE 1989 (9/0); WASH 1990 16/15

1990 Season: The fourth time proved to be the charm for Ron and the Redskins. Three times before, in 1988 and 1989, Ron had impressed the Redskin coaching staff with his tenacious blocking, but each time he was waived. "I thought about all that happened," said Joe Gibbs. "Our tight end's got to be smart and he's got to be able to move. Ron's quite a story. He's smart and he's dedicated and he can be a great Redskin." So when Ron was left unprotected by the Browns after the 1989 season, the Redskins made sure they didn't make the same mistake again and signed him as a Plan B free agent—for good reason. Playing as a run-blocking specialist in the Redskins' "heavy" and jumbo" package downs, Ron's devastating blocks helped spring Earnest Byner to his 1,000-yard season. His value wasn't just limited as a blocker as Ron was a dedicated performer on the Redskins special teams. He started five games at H-Back in the regular season and also added two starts in both playoff games.

Pro Career: 1989: Ron's well-traveled season began in the Redskins' training camp before being waived. He then signed with Tampa Bay, was waived, and hooked on with Cleveland where he played in nine games for the Browns. While mainly noted as an excellent blocker, Ron did catch three passes in Cleveland's divisional playoff win over Buffalo, including a TD grab. 1988: After being waived by Atlanta in the preseason, Ron was signed on two different occasions by the Redskins and saw action on special teams in two games. 1987: Ron started four games while playing in 12 games in his last season in Atlanta. 1986: Ron signed with Atlanta as a free agent from Auburn and caught six passes as a rookie.

College, Personal: Ron caught 10 passes for 133 yards at Auburn. The Tigers were 37-12 with four bowl appearances during his career and he was named the club's MVP as a junior and senior. He is a native of Atmore, AL and played at Escambia County High School. A pre-law major at Auburn, Ron hopes to attend law school. Ron and his wife, Kim, have a son, Ron Allen II, 2, and reside in Hendersonville, TN.

- * Brian led the team with a 20.3 yard kick return average last season.

How Acquired: Selected in fifth round of 1990 draft (130th overall)

Games Played/Started: 15/0—1990 (15/0)

1990 Season: The first time Brian touched the ball as a pro, he returned the opening kickoff of preseason 92 yards for a touchdown against Atlanta. From that moment on the Redskins knew they had something special. "He was the sharpest rookie I'd ever been around," said running backs coach Don Breau. "He's a very intelligent player. He has excellent hands and he's got great awareness." An option quarterback in college, Brian transformed those skills into becoming perhaps the most versatile player on the Redskins roster. During his rookie season he played running back, quarterback, punt returner and kick returner. He also finished second on the club with 26 special teams tackles and led the team with his 20.3-yard kick return average. Brian's versatility was never more evident than in the Skins' Monday night contest at Philadelphia. When both Jeff Rutledge and Stan Humphries went down with injuries, Brian took over the signal caller duties. In his only series, he directed the Skins to a touchdown completing three passes for 40 yards and had two rushes for 11 yards, including a one-yard touchdown keeper. In addition, he also led the team with 12 special teams hits in that Eagle contest. With a late season injury to Kelvin Bryant, Brian earned more playing time at running back. In his most extensive duty he rushed for a career-high seven times for 36 yards against the Dolphins in the Week 12 win.

College, Personal: Brian became the first player in NCAA history to pass for over 5,000 yards (5,447) and run for over 3,000 yards (3,335) during his career. Brian also holds the NCAA record for rushing touchdowns by a quarterback with 47. As a senior, he rushed for 1,311 yards and passed for 1,966 yards. He totaled 25 touchdowns (six passing, 19 rushing) and 3,277 yards in offense. As a junior, Brian was chosen the state's outstanding collegiate football player, when he totaled 2,550 yards in offense (1,807 passing/743 rushing). Brian also rushed for 15 touchdowns and tossed nine TD passes. Brian completed an outstanding prep career at Plaquemine (La.) High School leading the team to the state title and being selected the state's Offensive Player of the Year. He majored in management at SW Louisiana. He is the youngest of seven children in his family. Brian resides in his hometown of Plaquemine, LA.

- * He caught a league record 106 catches in 1984.
- * Art enters the season with a reception in 116 straight games which is fifth on the all-time list.

How Acquired: Selected in first round of 1980 draft (18th overall).

Games Played/Started: 157/142—1980 (16/10); 1981 (16/16); 1982 (9/9); 1983 (12/11)[3/3]; 1984 (16/16)[1/1]; 1985 (15/14); 1986 (16/16)[3/3]; 1987 (9/9)[1/0]; 1988 (16/13); 1989 (16/12); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: With each reception and yard gained, Art moved closer to Canton, Ohio and enshrinement into the Pro Football Hall of Fame as he became only the third player in NFL history to record 700-career catches. Art, who now has 730-career receptions, joined Steve Largent and Charlie Joiner as the only players in league history to reach the 700 milestone. And he needs just 21 receptions this season to move past Joiner and into second on the all-time receiving list. For the eighth time in his remarkable career, Art surpassed 50 catches (68 receptions) in a season, and only Largent (who had 10 50-catch seasons) is ahead of him on the all-time list. In addition, Art stretched his regular season consecutive game receiving streak to 116 games (began October 2, 1983 vs. the Raiders) which is the fifth best mark in league history (five games behind Mel Gray for fourth). Art holds club records for most career passes caught (730), most receptions in a season (106), most passes caught in a game (13-twice) and most career yards receiving (9,935). Honored as the "Redskin of the '80s" at the Alumni Association's "Welcome Home Luncheon" prior to the season, Art clearly showed his extraordinary skills are intact as he headed into the '90s. Five times he surpassed 60+ yards in receptions, including a 13-catch, 168-yard effort at Detroit. His 13 receptions vs. the Lions tied his own Redskin single-game high. His 10 catches for 92 yards and two touchdowns ignited the Redskins 42-20 win over Miami that propelled the club to three straight victories. Trailing Philadelphia 6-0 in the Wild Card Playoff and facing a third and nine from the Skins 33, Art came up with a clutch 28-yard reception. Two plays later, his 16-yard touchdown catch gave the Skins a lead they would not relinquish in the 20-6 win. He followed that performance with 10 catches for 163 yards and one touchdown in the NFC divisional playoff loss to San Francisco.

Pro Career: 1989: Art moved to 3rd on the NFL career receiving list, catching a team high 86 passes for 1,186 yards. Art had his best game of the year in a 31-14 win over the Bears. He had nine catches for 152 yards and two second half touchdowns to ignite a five-game Redskins winning streak. It was one of four 100-yard days for Monk. His nine-catch performance for 81 yards against San Diego pushed him past Charley Taylor as the Redskins all-time reception leader. His 60-yard touchdown catch against Atlanta ignited a 21-point third quarter rally as the Redskins beat Atlanta 31-30. During the Skins' closing five-game rally, Monk caught 35 passes for 478 yards and four touchdowns. 1988: Art caught 72 passes, the fourth-highest single-season total in his stellar career. Of those, 10 were 25 yards or longer. Art caught nine passes in a game twice—in Week 2 against Pittsburgh (86 yards) and Week 12 in San Francisco (89 yards). His biggest yardage day came in Week 15 against Dallas (seven catches, 103 yards). 1987: Art finished the regular season with 38 catches for 523 yards despite missing the last three regular-season games and two playoff games with torn ligaments in his right knee. Art returned for Super Bowl XXII and his 40-yard catch with eight minutes left in the first quarter marked Doug Williams' first completion and set the tone for the day. 1986: Art became the only receiver in Redskins' history to register three straight 1,000-yard seasons and to catch 70 or more passes in three straight. His 1,068 yards ranked third in the NFC and his 73 catches ranked sixth. 1985: Art's 91 receptions were

He finished with 47 catches for 746 yards (second on the team in both categories) and added eight catches for 121 yards in the playoffs. 1982: After leading the team during the regular season with 35 receptions (447 yards), Art missed the Redskins drive to the Super Bowl with a broken foot, which he suffered in the final regular-season game against the Cardinals. 1981: Art's 894 yards receiving were the most by a Redskin since 1967. He led receivers in touchdowns with six and scored a 79-yarder against St. Louis. He finished second on the club with 56 catches and a 16-yard per catch average. 1980: As the club's first No. 1 draft choice since 1968, Art was a unanimous selection to the NFL's all-Rookie team and broke the club's rookie receiving record, which previously was set by Charley Taylor in 1964. Art finished with 58 catches (10th in the NFC) for 797 yards and three touchdowns. He received his first NFL start in Week 7 against St. Louis at RFK.

College, Personal: A triple threat at Syracuse, Art set receiving records with 102 receptions for 1,644 yards, rushed for 1,140 yards and gained 1,105 yards in returns for a total of 3,889 yards. 1990 Season: It was deja vu for Gerald in 1990. A promising season was cut short with the same nagging arch injury in his foot that curtailed his 1989 campaign. With a 95-yard effort at Phoenix and an 89-yard, two touchdown game at Detroit, it appeared Gerald had put any lingering doubts about his health to rest. But in the Week 9 Monday night game at Philadelphia, Gerald re-injured the same arch and missed the next six weeks. "Gerald came into the season in great condition," said running backs coach Don Breaux. "When he and Earnest were both healthy, we had a formidable 1-2 punch. When Gerald's rolling, he has the ability to make big plays. There's no doubt if he stays healthy Gerald can be productive for us." Before the injury, in addition to his big contributions against Phoenix and Detroit, Gerald put together strong efforts against Phoenix (51) in the season opener, New York (61) and Philadelphia (52). He returned for the season finale against Buffalo and produced 67-yards on 16 carries, including a three-yard touchdown run. While it was an abbreviated season for Gerald, he still managed to tie for the team lead with six rushing touchdowns. His 7,940-career rushing yards is 14th on the NFL all-time rushing chart and he is the NFL's fourth leading active rusher behind Eric Dickerson, O.J. Anderson and Marcus Allen.

122 Pro Career: 1989: In his Redskin debut, he rushed for 111 yards against the NY Giants on Monday Night. A week later, Gerald broke George Rogers' team rushing record (206) when he gained 221 yards on 29 carries against the Eagles. Slowed briefly by bruised ribs, Gerald rebounded with 90+ efforts against New York (91) and Tampa Bay (99) and had 658 yards after seven games. Then came an injured arch in his foot that forced him to the sidelines four of the next five weeks. Except for brief appearances in Week 9 and Week 13, Gerald didn't see extensive action until Week 15 at Atlanta when he again used a bruising style for 80 yards on 20 carries in a win over the Falcons. Still, Riggs' 834 yards were the best by a Redskins running back since 1986. 1988: Gerald completed his career in Atlanta as the team's career rushing leader with 6,631 yards and his combined yardage of 8,015 was just 687 yards shy of Atlanta's club record, held by William Andrews. He also set the Falcons' club record for touchdowns scored with 48. A mid-season knee injury curtailed his final season when he missed seven of the final 12 games. 1987: Gerald was named to his third straight Pro Bowl as he ran for 875 yards on 203 carries and gained another 199 on 25 catches to gain over 1,000 yards for the fourth consecutive season. The Redskins were one of Gerald's victims. He gained 120 yards on 23 carries and scored the winning touchdown on a 4-yard run in the Falcons' 21-20 victory over Washington in Week 2. 1986: Selected to his second straight Pro Bowl, Gerald's 1,327 yards rushing ranked sixth in the league. He had six 100-yard games and scored nine touchdowns. His top three performances resulted in three victories: 172 yards vs. Miami, 141 vs. the Rams and 129 vs. Tampa Bay. Gerald led the NFC in rushing with 1,719 yards, and he added 267 receiving to finish with a combined 1,986 as he was named to his first Pro Bowl. His 397 carries still stand as the third-highest single-season total in NFL history (behind James Wilder's 407, Tampa Bay, 1984 and Eric Dickerson's 404, L.A. Rams, 1986). 1984: Gerald took over as the starter and in his first game rushed for 202 yards against New Orleans. His 13 touchdowns were second in the League and he had five 100-yard games. His 1,436 yards were fourth in the NFL. 1983: Playing as a reserve, Gerald led the team with eight touchdowns. He carried 100 times for 437 yards despite missing two weeks with fractured ribs. 1982: The Falcons selected Gerald in the first round (ninth player overall) of the draft. He joined William Andrews and Lynn Cain in one of the League's top backfields and carried 78 times for 299 yards.

College, Personal: Gerald led the Pac-10 with a 6.0-yard average his senior season at Arizona State. In his career, he carried 392 times for 2,086 yards. Recruited by Frank Kush, Gerald played under three head coaches: Kush, Bob Owens, and Darryl Rogers. At Bonanza High in Las Vegas, Gerald lettered in football, basketball and track. In one game against neighboring Henderson High, he carried eight times and scored four touchdowns, gaining 236 yards. Born in Tilluha, LA, near the Mississippi line, Gerald is the oldest of five children. Gerald has a son, Gerald, Jr. 8. He lives in Reston, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * He was named a first-team all-rookie choice by UPI in 1989.
- * Tracy posted a career-high two sack game vs. Buffalo last season.

How Acquired: Selected in the third round (66th overall) of the 1989 draft.

Games Played/Started: 24/17—1989 (16/10); 1990 (8/7)

1990 Season: Just a year earlier on the seventh week of the NFL season, an injury to Markus Koch threw Tracy into the starting lineup. In that same Week 7 last season, just when Tracy was settling in as a starter at defensive left tackle, his year virtually came to an end with a knee injury that kept him sidelined until Week 16. After starting the first seven games, Tracy was showing steady progress with 30 tackles and one sack. But an injury to his knee against the Giants wiped out a promising season, especially after fighting back from a painful torn bicep muscle in his right arm in training camp that kept him out of workouts for two weeks. Before his knee injury, Tracy had his best game in Week 3 vs Dallas with seven tackles, a pass deflection and one sack. When he did return for the Week 16 contest with Buffalo, Tracy came up with two sacks against the AFC champions.

Pro Career: 1989: Tracy's steady play, after an injury to Markus Koch in Week 7, kept him entrenched in the first unit for the remainder of the year. His 46 total tackles were third among defensive linemen and his play merited several post-season rookie honors, including first-team UPI and Pro Football Weekly. His best effort of the year came in the 10-3 win over Philadelphia in Week 10. Tracy posted a career-high seven tackles and recovered a Randall Cunningham fumble on the Eagles' first drive, which led to a Redskins field goal.

College, Personal: Tracy garnered just about every possible award as a two-time all-America and all-SEC player at Auburn. As a senior he anchored Auburn's top-ranked defense and was named SEC Co-Player of the Year and winner of both the Outland and Lombardi Trophies. A four-year starter, he led the Tigers in tackles as a freshman and sacks as a sophomore, and his 354 career tackles were the most ever by an Auburn defensive lineman. A family and child development major, Tracy attended Atlanta's Fulton High School. He resides in Reston, VA.

what happens when Jeff steps underneath the center, we move the ball," said quarterbacks and passing game assistant coach Rod Dowhower. "What Jeff has is tremendous competitive drive, experience, maturity and he gets the job done." The next week, Jeff earned the starting nod against the Eagles on Monday night and threw for 62 yards (6-19) and one touchdown. He suffered a bruised thumb in the third quarter and missed the final period in Washington's 28-14 loss. Jeff also held for field goals and PATs.

Pro Career: 1989: Jeff played in one game for the Giants but did not attempt a pass. 1988: In his only appearance in 1988, Jeff came in and pulled out a victory over the Saints. In that game, he went 11-of-17 for 113 yards in the second half, including a 33-yard completion in the final minute to set up the winning field goal. 1987: Jeff started four games for the Giants and completed 79 passes for 1,048 yards and five touchdowns. He led the club to wins over the Patriots and Eagles, including a season-best 233 yards and two TDs vs. New England. 1986: Jeff's playing time was limited, but he made significant contributions when he was called into duty. His only pass completion was a 13-yard TD toss on a fake FG attempt vs. Philadelphia; he ran 18 yards for a first down on another fake FG attempt to set up a touchdown vs. Green Bay; he completed a 23-yard pass to set up a touchdown in the Giants' playoff win over San Francisco and he scrambled for a key first down on a fourth-down play in the Super Bowl win over Denver. 1985: Jeff did not take an offensive snap in 1985, but he did continue his role as the team's holder in every game. He again continued his mastery of the fake FG with a successful attempt vs. Cincinnati that resulted in a touchdown. 1984: Jeff saw limited action on offense while only attempting one pass for nine yards. 1983: Although he only saw action in four games (all as a starter), Jeff had his best year as a pro when he went 87-of-174 for 1,208 yards and three TDs. Jeff had three straight 300-yards, including a career high 29 completions for 349 yards at Seattle. In his only start against Washington, Jeff was 24-of-47 for 324 yards and a TD in a 31-22 loss to the NFC champion Redskins. Jeff also passed for 325 yards against Dallas, but suffered a knee injury which sidelined him for five weeks. 1982: Jeff was traded to the Giants, but did not take a snap his first year in New York. 1981: Jeff saw action in four games for the Rams and threw for 442 yards and three touchdowns. But a broken thumb forced him on IR for the remainder of season. 1980: Jeff came down with mononucleosis at mid-season and was placed on IR for the remainder of the year after seeing action in only one game. 1979: Selected by the Rams in the ninth round, Jeff was a member of the Rams' NFC championship team. He saw limited playing time in three games completing 13 passes for 125 yards and one touchdown.

College, Personal: Jeff was an all-SEC quarterback at Alabama where he led the Crimson Tide to the 1978 national title under the legendary Bear Bryant. At Alabama, Jeff threw 30 career touchdowns and left as the Tide's all-time leader surpassing Joe Namath. Jeff earned his degree in business education. A standout prep player in football, basketball and baseball at Banks High School in his native Birmingham, AL, Jeff was drafted by the Cubs out of high school but elected to attend Alabama. He also was his high school's class president as a senior. His father, Jack, was a minor league player in the Cubs organization. - * Ryp played in the Pro Bowl following the 1989 season.
- * He has thrown four TDs in a game twice in his career: vs New Orleans last season and Chicago in 1989.
- * His 3,768 yards passing in 1989 is the 2nd best mark in Redskin history.

How Acquired: Selected in sixth round of 1986 draft (146th overall).

Games Played/Started: 33/30 — 1986 (IR); 1987 (IR); 1988 (9/6); 1989 (14/14); 1990 (10/10)[2/2]

1990 Season: Looking at a 5-4 record following a Monday night loss at Philadelphia and seeing their playoff hopes slipping away, the Redskins needed a lift. With playoff-bound

New Orleans marching into RFK, the Redskins turned to Mark to ignite a spark. After missing six weeks with a sprained left knee sustained week 3 vs. Dallas, Ryp returned in sterling fashion. He completed 26-of-38 passes for 311 yards and four touchdowns in leading the Skins to a 31-17 victory. The four touchdown passes against the Saints tied a career-best. For his performance, Mark was chosen the NFC Offensive Player of the Week. It's that type of performance the Redskins are hoping Ryp will provide week-in and week-out. "A thing that has hurt us with Ryp is injuries," said Joe Gibbs. "Mark's young in experience, but he's stepped up." Ryp's return propelled the Skins to wins in five of their final seven games with victories over playoff bound Miami, Chicago and Buffalo. In his last 16 regular and postseason games, Mark has thrown 27 touchdowns and 19 interceptions while leading the Skins to a 12-4 slate. And while there were plenty of high points during the year — including 21-of-28 for 245 yards and three TDs vs. Miami and 15-of-31 for 206 yards and two TDs vs. Phoenix — Ryp saved his best for Washington's first playoff victory since 1987. Facing a hostile environment in Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, and one of the league's top defenses, Mark completed 15 of 31 attempts for 206 yards and two touchdowns in the 20-6 playoff win.

Pro Career: 1989: After a two-game benching, Mark came back and led the Redskins to five straight victories to complete the season while finishing behind only Joe Montana and Jim Everett in NFC passing efficiency. In the final five weeks, Ryp completed 108 of 166 passes (65.5 percent) for 1,430 yards, eight touchdowns, and only four interceptions. He won the starting job during training camp and started the first eight games before giving way to Doug Williams in Week 9 against Dallas after a series of fumbles. With the Redskins saddled with a 5-6 mark, Rypien faced a pivotal game in his young career when the Chicago Bears came to RFK Stadium. Rypien completed 30 of 47 passes for 401 yards and 4 touchdowns in a 38-14 romp. And against the Falcons Ryp capped a 21-point third quarter explosion with a 9-yard touchdown run on a 4th-and-one. In less than three quarters of play, he completed 17 of 27 passes for 284 yards in the 31-30 come-from-behind win. His 3,768 yards passing was the second best total ever by a Redskin and only Sonny Jurgensen and Joe Theismann ever completed more than his 280 passes in a single year. 1988: After spending his first two professional seasons on injured reserve, Ryp beat out Jay Schroeder in training camp for the No. 2 spot behind Doug Williams, and led the Redskins offense against the Phoenix Cardinals in Week 4 when Williams was sidelined with appendicitis. Although the Redskins lost to Phoenix, Mark completed 26 of 41 passes for 303 yards and three touchdowns. A month later the roles were reversed when Mark injured his shoulder at home against the Cardinals after passing for 303 yards and four touchdowns in a 35-17 win. He returned to make starts against Cleveland and Philadelphia late in the season. 1987: Mark spent his second straight season on injured reserve. He looked sharp in limited preseason performances, completing 8 of 14 passes for 145 yards, but injured his back in the preseason finale against the Los Angeles Rams and spent the season on IR. 1986: Mark impressed coaches in training camp but saw little playing time in preseason, completing 1 of 3 passes for 12 yards. He was placed on IR with a knee injury.

College, Personal: Ryp's college career followed a path similar to that of his pro career. He had to wait before playing. Mark broke his collar bone his sophomore year and did not play before rebounding to earn first-team Pac-10 honors his junior season. He completed 134-of-270 passes for 1,927 yards and 14 touchdowns. As a senior, he did even better, completing 159-of-273 passes for 2,417 yards and 14 touchdowns. His yardage total was second in school history to Jackie Thompson's 2,702. The Cougars averaged 441 yards per game that season, another school record. At Shadle Park High in Spokane, Mark finished as one of the nation's top 10 career passers (423-849 for 6,460 yards and 65 touchdowns) as he broke Chicago Cubs second baseman Ryne Sandberg's school passing records. As a senior, he was all-State in football, basketball, and baseball. Mark's younger brother, Tim, played on the Canadian Olympic baseball team. Born in Calgary, Ryp majored in Physical Education. Mark holds an annual golf tournament that benefits Cystic Fibrosis. He and his wife, Annette, who is a former Redskinette, have two daughters, Ambre, 3, and Angela, 1, and reside in Centreville, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * His 12 TD receptions in 1988 tied a club record.
- * Ricky set a Super Bowl record with 193 receiving yards in Super Bowl XXII (since broken by Jerry Rice).

How Acquired: Rights obtained from New England in exchange for a third-round draft choice in 1987. Signed August 11, 1986.

Games Played/Started: 66/30—1986 (10/3)[2/0]; 1987 (12/5)[3/2]; 1988 (12/4); 1989 (16/12); 1990 (16/6)[2/1]

1990 Season: To say 1990 was a frustrating season for Ricky would be an understatement for the big-play wide receiver. After putting together two of the finest back-to-back seasons in Redskins history, Ricky's numbers trailed off a bit. Still, his 56 receptions for 727 yards made him a bonafide deep threat and a constant worry to opposing defenders. "Ricky is a big play maker in our offense," said quarterbacks and passing game assistant coach Rod Dowhower. "We're looking for Ricky to come back stronger than ever. We're very optimistic about his upcoming year." Ricky caught at least five passes in six games (second behind Gary Clark who caught at least five passes in eight games) and had a season-high (second-best of his career) 11 catches for 132 yards in 41-38 overtime win over Detroit. He caught a clutch 31-yard option pass from Earnest Byner that gave the Redskins a brief 14-13 lead over the Giants in Week 5 and his six-yard TD grab against the Cowboys on Thanksgiving day put the Skins ahead 17-10. He also had two strong outings in the season opener with the Cardinals (6/70/1) and Week 3 vs. Dallas (7/78). Ricky now stands seventh in club history in both receiving yards (3,929) and receptions (260).

Pro Career: 1989: He not only put up big numbers, he came up with big catches. His 45-yard TD grab against the Chargers, with the Redskins trailing 14-0, with :24 seconds remaining in the half put the Skins into position to win. Ricky had huge numbers in the opener against New York (6/143/1), at Los Angeles (12/158/1), and at Atlanta (7/167/0) while narrowly missing 100 yards against San Diego (4/98/1). In Atlanta, his 68-yard reception to the Falcon one-yard line sparked a comeback victory. Then at Seattle in the finale, Ricky showed he could play both ends of the passing game when he hit Monk with a 32-yard pass completion to set up a Redskin field goal. The Redskins also used him four times on reverses and he returned nine kickoffs and two punts. His 80 catches made him only the second player in Redskin history with 80 receptions in a season. Art Monk has done it three times. 1988: His 12 touchdown receptions tied the club record and were the most by a Redskin receiver since 1965. With 73 catches for 1,148 yards, Ricky's teammates selected him as the 1988 Most Valuable Player. After warming up with five catches for 79 yards and a touchdown in the opener against the Giants, Ricky caught five passes for 145 yards against Pittsburgh, including a 55-yarder for a touchdown. In Week 5 vs. the Giants he caught seven catches for 141 yards and two touchdowns. An 8-yard, game-tying touchdown catch in the fourth quarter against the Saints in Week 10 provided the impetus for a 27-24 victory. Two weeks later, he had six catches for 59 yards and two touchdowns at San Francisco. He had a season-high 10 catches for 128 yards and a touchdown in a 20-19 victory at Philadelphia in Week 14. He completed the year with six catches for 120 yards and a touchdown against Cincinnati. His 12 touchdown catches tied him with Hugh Taylor (1951) Charley Taylor (1966), and Jerry Smith (1967) for the club record. 1987: Ricky flashed his ability early but did not hit stride until midseason. Ricky had six catches for 96 yards in a crucial comeback victory over the Giants, and his 28-yard scoring catch with 4:56 remaining provided the winning points. In the final regular season game against Minnesota, Ricky set the stage for the postseason with eight catches for 164 yards, including touchdown catches of 51 and 46 yards. In the first-round victory over the Bears, Ricky recorded six catches for 92 yards, including a 32-yard grab to set up a score. A 28-yard reverse set up the Redskins' first touchdown against Minnesota in the Championship Game. The climax came in Super Bowl XXII when Ricky caught nine passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns. In shattering Lynn Swann's 161-yard record, Ricky played a role in five Super Bowl marks. 1986: After missing the first five games with leg injuries, Ricky caught 14 passes for 286 yards in limited play. His first NFL catch was good for 71 yards, against the the Giants, and his second came in Green Bay on a 26-yard touchdown grab, which tied the game. Ricky had five catches for 94 yards after starting for the injured Gary Clark against the Eagles. 1984-85: Playing in the Houston Gamblers' (USFL) run-and-shoot offense, Ricky was an immediate success with 101 catches for 1,378 yards and 11 touchdowns. Sanders had six games of 100 yards or more and 12 games with seven or more catches. His top game came against Pittsburgh when he caught eight passes for 227 yards. Despite being sidelined for eight games by an injury in '85, Ricky caught 48 passes for 538 yards and seven touchdowns.

College, Personal: Ricky's ability to run after he catches a pass is no coincidence. He was a running back at Southwest Texas State, and finished third on the Bobcats' all-time rushing list with 878 yards on 151 attempts. As a senior, he rushed 141 times for 706 yards and caught 14 passes for 210 yards and a touchdown. He was the Most Valuable Player in the 1982 Palm Bowl with 104 yards on 25 carries. His talents are not limited to football. At Belton High School in Belton, TX, he qualified for the state meet in the pole vault, hurdles, and long jump. He now devotes his free time to honing his golf game. A native of Temple, TX, Ricky and his wife Michelle have a daughter, Ashlynn, and a son, Richard Wayne, and reside in Ashburn, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Mark started six games as a rookie.
- * In his first start vs. Philadelphia he did not allow a sack.

How Acquired: Selected in 10th round of 1989 draft (263rd overall)

Games Played/Started: 18/13 — 1989 (6/6); 1990 (12/7)[2/2]

1990 Season: Usually Joe Gibbs takes a low-key approach when talking about his football team, unless the topic turns to his newest and beefiest Hog. "Mark is definitely going to be a future star in this league," says Gibbs. And while his future is indeed bright, Mark did encounter some growing pains last season. He was replaced as a starter in Week 5 against the Giants, then he suffered a sprained ankle in Week 8 at Detroit that sidelined him for four weeks. But he bounced back in Week 14 when he regained his starting spot at right guard, and where he remained for the remainder of the season. "Mark is a throwback to the old days. He has great strength and is a very strong and very physical football player," said Hanifan. "He struggled early in the season, then missed five or six weeks with an ankle injury, but he never got discouraged. He came back and played extremely well down the stretch."

Pro Career: 1989: The Redskins found out everything they needed to know about Mark when he was thrown into the injury-plagued starting lineup in the Week 10 win over Philadelphia. After he stood up to Eagles' DT Mike Pitts in a first quarter shoving match, he quietly proceeded to go the whole game without giving up a sack or QB hurry.

College, Personal: Mark played nosetackle, defensive tackle, and center before settling into the guard spot his junior year at Idaho. Despite being hampered by knee and elbow injuries, Mark came back in his senior year to help the Vandals to the 1-AA semifinals and a school-best 11-2 record. When deciding where to play college football, Mark selected Idaho over Hawaii because its cold and rainy weather suited him better. When not running from bears in his native Alaska or playing Santa Claus for local kids, Mark and his wife, Lisa, have two children: a daughter, Alex, 6, and a son, Daniel, 5. They reside in Herndon, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * John was named to the Pro Bowl in 1988.
- * He became the only free agent in NFL history to rush for over 1,000 yards in 1988 (since 1970 merger).

How Acquired: Signed as free agent April 1, 1991

Games Played/Started: 46/29 — ATL 1987 (9/1); 1988 (16/13); 1989 (15/15); 1990 (6/0)

1990 Season: A quick look at the numbers tell exactly the quality of running back the Redskins added when they signed John as a Plan B free agent during the offseason. John is a complete back who can run (1,024 yards in '88), catch (68 catches in '88) and block. Those versatile abilities got him named to the Pro Bowl following the 1988 season. Last season, John played in a career-low six games for the Falcons as he mostly saw duty on special teams. He was on the inactive list for five games.

Pro Career: 1989: John posted his second consecutive season with over 1,000 combined yards. He led the Falcons in rushing (689 yds.) and was second in receiving with 39 catches. 1988: John came out of nowhere to total 1,594 yards (1,024 rushing/570 receiving) and earn a trip to the Pro Bowl. He had nine 100 combined yards games, three 100-yard rushing games, and a 100 yard receiving games. John's 68 catches were the fourth best mark in Falcon history. He averaged 10.2 yards per carry against the Saints (10-102 yards). 1987: John played in all nine games. His only start came against the 49ers when he and Gerald Riggs lined up in a two-back set.

College, Personal: John's jersey number 23 was retired by Appalachian State as he left the school as the number three rusher in Division I-AA history with 4,409 yards. John also broke 31 school records and set 19 Southern Conference records. His achievements also included a career 4.9 rushing average, 22 100-yard games, four 200-yard games and 45 TDs. One of six children, John's father is a pastor and his mother is a seamstress in Ruffin, NC. In high school, John was the conference player of the year as a senior. John's many talents include juggling and playing the drums. John and wife, Karen, have a son, Jonathan, 1, and reside in Hickory, NC.

* Has started 22 games (19 at right tackle, 2 at left tackle, 1 at left guard).

How Acquired: Selected in sixth round of the 1987 draft (164th overall).

Games Played/Started: 51/22—1987 (6/3); 1988 (16/0); 1989 (16/8); 1990 (13/11)

1990 Season: After 17 straight weeks as the starter at tackle, (the final eight games of 1989 season and the first nine games last season) Ed had convinced coaches, teammates and opponents that he was truly becoming one of the top young tackles in the league. Only a season-ending knee injury in game 13 against the Bears temporarily halted that progress. "Before the injury, he was becoming a force at that right tackle position," said Jim Hanifan. "Ed's a real hustler, he's always downfield trying to get another block. We are really going to have one of the very best tackles in the league." Already possessing the skills as a pass blocker, Ed improved his run blocking technique last season and was beginning to hit full stride before his injury. In the wins over Miami and Chicago (the top two rushing defenses in the league), Ed helped anchor an offensive line that allowed the Redskins to average 186.5 yards on the ground.

Pro Career: 1989: Given an extended starting role for the first time in his career, Ed truly did the job. He filled in for the injured Jim Lachey (Weeks 9 and 10) and Joe Jacoby (Weeks 11-16) at left and right tackle. 1988: Ed served as a quality backup of Lachey and Jacoby at both tackle spots, but saw primary action in all 16 games as a member of the special teams. 1987: Ed made three starts (his first was against Philadelphia's Reggie White) at different spots along the line in his rookie year, but a knee injury against Detroit in Week 9, and subsequent arthroscopy, sidelined him for the remainder of the season.

College, Personal: Ed was a starter at Eastern Washington for four years and did not miss a play his final two seasons. He was named to the Kodak all-America first team his senior season. His first two college seasons were hampered by nagging knee injuries. Despite his size, Ed already had demonstrated his athletic ability at Nathan Hale High School in Seattle by lettering twice each in football, basketball, and soccer. He was offered a football scholarship to Eastern Washington without seeing him play a football game. The film the coaches received after Ed's senior year was too grainy to make out individuals, so an EWU assistant traveled to see him play in a high school basketball game. Ed enjoys bowling as an offseason pastime and once bowled eight consecutive strikes. He was born in French Camp, CA. Ed and his wife Marci have a daughter, Cheyanne Noelle. They reside in Great Falls, VA.

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent March 22, 1990.

1990 Season: In Week 6 the Redskins had the opportunity to see some of the many talents of Walter Stanley. He returned two punts for 22 yards, returned a kickoff for 23 yards and caught one pass for 12 yards. Three weeks later, however, against the same Eagles on Monday night, Walter's season came to an abrupt end. He suffered a knee sprain following a 15-yard punt return in the first quarter and spent the remainder of the season on injured reserve. Despite the season ending knee injury, Walter still led the Redskins in punt returns with 24 for 175 yards (7.3 avg.). His only start came in Week 2 when the Redskins opened the game in a four-wideout package.

Pro Career: 1989: Walter led the NFL in punt returns with a 13.8 yard average and also caught 24 passes for 304 yards with Detroit. He was claimed off waivers by the Lions after being released by the Packers in their final roster cutdown. 1988: Walter's season was cut short by a shoulder injury in week seven against Minnesota and was lost for the remainder of the year. He was the Packers' leading receiver at the time of his injury with 28 catches for 436 yards (15.6 avg.). He also had two 100-yard receiving games. 1987: Walter emerged as Green Bay's primary offensive weapon in 1987, leading the team in receptions (38), yards per catch (17.7) and punt returns (6.2 avg.). He enjoyed a career-high 150 yards receiving against Detroit, including a career-best 70-yard scoring play. 1986: Walter finished among the league leaders in all-purpose yardage with 1,617 yards and he also posted the conference's highest average per catch with a 20.7 average. Walter became a household name on Thanksgiving Day at Detroit scoring three touchdowns, including an electrifying 83-yard punt return for a score. 1985: After not playing football for three years, Walter still had a productive rookie campaign. He led the Packers in both kickoff and punt return averages.

College, Personal: Walter began his collegiate career as a running back at Colorado where he led the Buffalos in kickoff returns as a freshman and sophomore. After being redshirted, Walter transferred to Mesa (CO) College where he did not play football. Walter was an outstanding three-sport performer at Chicago South Shore High School. He rushed for more than 1,600 yards as a senior, while leading the state in scoring with 150 points. During the offseason, Walter operates a home decorating service, and during his spare time he enjoys skiing and jet skiing. He resides in Highlands Ranch, CO.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Fred led the Redskins with 7 1/2 sacks last season.
- * He has recovered seven fumbles and forced five in two seasons as a Redskin.
- * Fred recorded a sack and safety on the same play vs Seattle in 1989.

How Acquired: Signed as an unprotected free agent March 20, 1989.

Games Played/Started: 45/8 — LA RAMS 1987 (8/0); 1988 (5/0); WASH 1989 (16/5); 1990 (16/3)[2/0]

1990 Season: 1990 was a significant year for Fred. In previous years, whenever his name was mentioned, the word potential soon followed. Last season, despite missing training camp with a shoulder injury, potential was replaced with words like "big-play" and "valuable" when describing Fred's contributions to the Redskins. And even though his playing time was mainly limited to passing situations, Fred made things happen. He led the team with seven and a half sacks, four fumble recoveries and he tied Wilber Marshall for the team lead with two forced fumbles. Fred's knack for the big play came in bundles. In Week 3 he had 1½ sacks and his recovery of a Troy Aikman fumble led to a Redskin field goal. In the Week 6 win over Philadelphia, Fred was a big-play spark for the defense with three tackles, a sack and a forced fumble. Against the Saints, his fumble recovery on New Orleans' opening drive of the second half led to a touchdown which broke the game wide open in the Redskin win. And in the Miami victory, Fred came up with a sack, a QB hurry and a pass deflection against Dan Marino.

Pro Career: 1989: Following the suspension of Dexter Manley and the injury to Markus Koch, Fred stepped in as the starter at right end for the last five games of the year. In his first career start, against Chicago in Week 12, Fred made a career-high seven tackles, forced a fumble, and recovered a fumble. Just the week before against Denver, Fred's sack of Gary Kubiak and subsequent fumble recovery led to Washington's only touchdown of the game. And in the season finale against Seattle, Fred iced the win with a third quarter sack and safety of Dave Kreig. 1988: Fred played the first five games of the year before an ankle injury forced him to miss the rest of the season. As a passing down rusher, he made one sack, recovered a fumble, and made three tackles. 1987: Fred impressed Rams' coaches in training camp as a 12th-round draft choice, but a separated shoulder placed him on injured reserve for the first five games. He was activated prior to Week 8 and played primarily as a pass-rushing specialist.

College, Personal: Fred began his career at Georgia Southern as a tight end but switched to offensive tackle his final three seasons. He was named Division I-AA first-team all-America his senior season. Mainly a basketball player and musician in high school, Fred only played football in his senior year. Fred and his wife Regina reside in Ashburn, VA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * In his first pro start, Clarence recorded 11 tackles vs Phoenix.
- * Clarence had a sack in the 1987 NFC Championship game when he played at linebacker and covered Darren Nelson.

140 How Acquired: Selected in eighth round of 1987 draft (220th overall).

Games Played/Started: 36/4 - 1987 (5/0)[2/0]; 1988 (14/0); 1989 (16/4); 1990 (1/0)

1990 Season: Waived on the final cut, Clarence re-signed with the Skins the very next day after clearing waivers. As one of the most versatile players in the Redskin secondary, Clarence had high hopes for the 1990 season. Those hopes, however, were swept away when Clarence wrenched his left knee during practice preparing for the Week 3 contest against the Cowboys. He was placed on injured reserve and was lost for the remainder of the season. "Clarence has got a lot of ability and can be a factor for us," said assistant head coach/defense Richie Petitbon. "He's a tough guy who can cover. He can run. He can go in and play linebacker in nickel and he can play safety. Clarence just needs to stay healthy."

Pro Career: 1989: Clarence shed his utility role when he took over for Alvin Walton in Week 13 at Phoenix and finished with a team high 11 tackles. He started at strong safety the final four games, but the expanded role did not affect his special teams play where he finished tied with Terry Orr for second in total hits with 84. 1988: Clarence played nickel back, backup safety, and linebacker in passing situations, and also proved a valuable backup at cornerback. His value carried over to special teams where he finished third in kick and punt coverage with 17 tackles. 1987: Drafted as a "project," Clarence successfully made the switch to the secondary in the pro ranks. Clarence played mostly special teams in five regular season games, but had his best success in the playoffs. Playing at linebacker, Clarence made five tackles, including one sack, in the NFC Championship game against Minnesota.

College, Personal: It was hard to imagine Clarence as a pro cornerback when he was making his name at linebacker at Northern Illinois. His 96 tackles as a senior were impressive, but not as much as his 4.45 speed in the 40. Clarence played at Gage Park High School in Chicago before going to Northern Illinois, where he majored in sociology. A chess enthusiast, Clarence is a native of Winchester, Illinois and lives in Reston, VA with his wife, Yolanda, and their daughter, Taylor, born last November.

- * Alvin recorded a career-high 196 tackles in 1988.

How Acquired: Selected in third round of 1986 draft (75th overall).

Games Played/Started: 73/60 - 1986 (16/4)[3/3]; 1987 (12/12) [3/3]; 1988 (16/16); 1989 (13/12); 1990 (16/16)[2/2]

1990 Season: Alvin is one of those rare players in the NFL. You don't have to see if he made the tackle—you can hear it. It's little wonder that Alvin is regarded as one of the hardest hitting safeties in the league. His clean, bone-crunching physical style has produced 616 tackles (123 per year) over the past five seasons. Alvin finished as the team's leader in tackles for the fourth straight season with 143 and it was his fourth consecutive 130+ tackle season. That year-in and year-out consistency has made Alvin one of the most dependable players on the Redskin defense. "Alvin is a very valuable guy to our team," said assistant head coach/defense Richie Petitbon. "I think he's the toughest guy we have on the field. Physically, he's our hardest hitter." Last season was no different. He was team leader in tackles four times (17 vs. Dallas, 15 vs. New England, 15 vs. Philadelphia in Week 6 and 13 vs. Philadelphia in Week 9). He also had double-figure tackle outings versus Chicago (10) and San Francisco (10). Alvin also had a penchant for coming up with the big play. His 57-yard interception return for a touchdown (second of his career) against the Cardinals in the season opener sealed the Redskin 31-0 win, while his fourth quarter 60-yard interception return versus Buffalo set up a Redskin touchdown that clinched the victory. And in the playoffs, his fumble recovery deep in Redskin territory stopped a Philadelphia drive with the Skins holding a 7-6 lead in the second quarter.

Pro Career: 1989: A shoulder injury in Week 13 vs Chicago forced Alvin to the sidelines for the remaining three games. Despite the injury, Alvin finished as the team's leader in tackles for the third straight season with 137. He also finished tied for the team lead in interceptions with four. The Raiders thought he was wearing Silver and Black when he made a season high 16 tackles at Los Angeles. In a win over the Eagles, he had 13 tackles and forced a fumble, and at New York Alvin posted 13 tackles and an interception. At Dallas in Week 3, Alvin stepped in front of a Troy Aikman pass and returned an interception 29 yards for a score. 1988: Alvin led the Redskins in tackles for the second straight season, racking up a career high 196 stops, including 116 solo. Twelve times Alvin had 10 or more tackles, including a season high of 18 twice. He accounted for six turnovers with three forced fumbles and three interceptions. 1987: Alvin was all over the field while leading the team in tackles with 148 - 40 more than the next Redskin. He averaged 12.3 tackles per game, and reached double figures in nine of 12 games. His interceptions were timely. He had one in the end zone to stop a fourth quarter Ram drive and two against Minnesota, including a final theft that came with 1:03 remaining to end a Viking threat and preserve the Redskins' victory. 1986: A midseason injury to Ken Coffey opened the door for Alvin. He finished the season with 75 tackles despite making only four starts. His reckless style of play was obvious from opening week when he had 10 hits on special teams. A starter for the playoffs, Alvin responded in the Wild Card game versus the Rams with six tackles, a fumble recovery to set up the first score, and an interception in the fourth quarter to set up the final field goal. A week later against Chicago, Alvin recovered a third quarter fumble to set up a touchdown and a 21-13 lead.

College, Personal: Alvin started at Mt. Jacinto Junior College and gained a scholarship to Kansas with all-Conference and all-State honors. In his only season with the Jayhawks, Alvin started at left cornerback and made 58 tackles, two interceptions, and a blocked punt. However, a mix-up in classes left him ineligible for his senior season. A native of Riverside, CA, Alvin attended Banning High School in Banning, CA, lettering in football, basketball, and baseball, and led the team to the state basketball title. He and his son, Earlmarr, 8, and his two nephews, Michael, 16, and Traevon, 14, reside in Ashburn, VA.

1990 Season: Reliable. Tough. Hardworking. Dedicated. Leader. Any and all would describe Donnie's value to the Redskins. "He's one of our most valuable players," says Joe Gibbs. "A great Redskin, a guy who sets an example." And after 12 seasons, father time hasn't eroded any of Donnie's enthusiasm, or productivity. He played in 16 games (15 starts) and his 15 catches tied Jimmie Johnson for the team lead among tight ends. Against the Giants, Donnie played a major role catching a career-high 10 passes for 66 yards. He also came up with a nine-yard touchdown grab from Jeff Rutledge against the Eagles. He is ninth on the Redskins all-time receiving chart with 235 catches (three behind Larry Brown for eighth) and his 2,460-career yards trails Brown (2,485) by 25 yards for 10th place on the club's all-time yardage list. Along with Monte Coleman and Sammy Baugh, Donnie is one of only three Redskins to have played for the team in three decades. His 172 games as a Redskin ties him with Mike Bragg for fifth on the club's all-time service list.

Pro Career: 1989: Often overlooked, Donnie was named to the Sports Illustrated NFL-All Pro team. His selection may have surprised fans, but only confirmed what his coaches and peers have known for years. When Chicago came to RFK Stadium, it was Donnie whose three-yard touchdown catch provided the Skins some much needed confidence. His 15 catches were Donnie's highest total since 1986. 1988: Bruised ribs limited Donnie's effectiveness during the season, forcing him out of games 5 and 6, and limiting him in several other contests. His 32-yard reception of a Doug Williams' pass with five minutes remaining against New Orleans triggered the winning touchdown drive in a 27-24 victory. 1987: Donnie caught

His lone touchdown came in the fourth quarter of the regular-season finale against Philadelphia. 1985: One of three offensive players to start every game, Donnie caught 15 passes for 163 yards. His only touchdown (in the the first quarter against the New York Giants at RFK Stadium) turned out to be Joe Theismann's last TD pass. 1984: Don's biggest catch came in Week 15 against Dallas, one that came on third down and gave the Redskins a first down, allowing them to virtually run out the clock and preserve a 30-28 victory. 1983: Donnie's 20 catches for 225 yards ranked sixth on the team. He scored two touchdowns with a long gain of 33. His best game came on Monday night against Green Bay (four catches, 70 yards). He missed three games with a bruised back. 1982: The team's third-leading receiver, Don finished with 27 catches for 310 yards. He played a major role in the team's Super Bowl victory over the Miami Dolphins, catching five passes for 28 yards. Overall in the playoffs, he caught 11 passes for 72 yards. 1981: Don caught a pass in 15 of the 16 games, all of which he started. His top receiving game was a five-catch, 43-yard effort against the Giants, a game in which he scored his first NFL touchdown. 1980: Donnie fractured a fibula in the preseason finale and didn't return until Week 5. Still, he caught 31 passes for 323 yards and finished as the team's third-leading receiver. 1979: The team's first draft pick (fourth round), Donnie started 10 games as a rookie and played in all 16.

College, Personal: Donnie transferred from Mt. San Antonio Junior College to San Diego State as a junior and caught 56 passes for 711 yards in two seasons. He was honorable mention all-America and second-team all-America academically. Until a future opened in pro football, Don considered being a fireman and took fire science courses in junior college. CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- * Ken caught a career-high six passes vs the Redskins as a Falcon.

How Acquired: Signed as free agent March 8, 1989.

Games Played/Started: 57/36 — ATL 1985 (16/0); 1986(16/14); 1987(7/7); 1988(16/15); WASH 1989 (0/0 PUP); 1990 (2/0)

1990 Season: When late season injuries at tight end caused some concern, the Redskins did not hesitate bringing Ken back. A final cut by the club in training camp, Ken returned in Week 15 to add depth to the tight end and special teams units. After seeing action in the final two games of the regular season, Ken was then placed on the reserve de-activated list for the playoffs.

Pro Career: 1989: Ken spent a frustrating year on the sidelines after signing with the Redskins as a Plan B free agent. The culprit was a leg stress fracture that did not heal after an operation in March. 1988: Ken enjoyed a solid season with the Falcons, proving a key pass receiver as well as a reliable blocker. He caught 16 passes for 174 yards and one touchdown. 1987: Ken suffered a shoulder injury in Week 7, ending his season and negating a great start. He had 17 catches, including a personal-best six passes for 68 yards in Atlanta's 21-20 victory over the Redskins. He added four receptions against Minnesota before he was injured. 1986: Ken moved into a starting role at H-back and caught 20 passes for three touchdowns while playing a vital role in the Falcons' record-setting rushing game. 1985: A 12th-round draft choice, Ken earned a spot on the Falcons with his versatility and tough special teams play.

College, Personal: Ken played nearly every position in college, including quarterback when Georgia Tech tied No. 1-ranked Notre Dame, 3-3, his freshman year. However, most of his time was spent at receiver, where he caught 82 passes for 1,264 yard to finish as the Yellow Jackets' third all-time leading receiver and a five-time letterman at Georgia Tech. A civil engineering major, Ken was all-ACC in 1984. He is a native of Augusta, GA., and lives with his wife, Alice, and their son, Ken, Jr., (born 3/27/91), in Roswell, GA.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

* Eric posted a career-high 14 tackles vs the Giants last season.

* He recorded a single-game high three sacks against Pittsburgh in 1989.

How Acquired: Acquired in a trade with Detroit for James Wilder and a fourth round draft choice in 1991 on September 11, 1990

Games Played/Started: 96/80 — DET 1984 (12/1); 1985 (12/12); 1986 (16/16); 1987 (11/11); 1988 (16/16); 1989 (16/16); WASH 1990 (13/8)

1990 Season: When the Redskins traded for Eric one game into the 1990 season they hoped they were getting a tough and reliable veteran performer. He didn't disappoint any of those expectations. After missing the entire 1990 training camp Eric gradually worked his way into the Redskin lineup and took over full-time starter's status in Week 8 at Detroit. Eric quickly established himself as a mainstay in the Redskin defensive front. Not only did he come up with 55 tackles in just 13 games, he also he came up with three sacks and eight QB hurries. His season highlights included an 11-tackle effort at Philadelphia and 14 tackles at the Giants. In the Redskins' playoff clinching victory at New England, Eric contributed six tackles and two sacks. The only thing that slowed Eric down was a sprained arch suffered at Indianapolis in Week 15 that forced him on injured reserve for the final game and the Redskins' two playoff contests.

Pro Career: 1989: Eric proved to be one of Detroit's most reliable defenders finishing eighth on the team in tackles with 50 (42 solo). He was third on the team with six sacks and recorded a career-high three sacks against Pittsburgh. 1988: Eric had a solid year, finishing ninth on the team and first among Detroit's linemen in tackles with 43 (34 solo). The NFL's fourth-leading rusher in 1990, Earnest Byner became the fifth Redskin rusher to gain 1,000 yards in a single-season. His 1,219 yards rushing was the third best single-season mark in club history. Only John Riggins' 1,347 yards in 1983 and 1,239 yards in 1984 bettered Byner's 1990 rushing total.

THE SUPER BOWL

In 1970, the NFL was divided into two 13-team conferences, comprised of the 26 teams formerly competing in the National Football League and the American Football League. Each conference was further divided into three divisions, the winner of each conference to be determined by a playoff of the three division winners plus the second place team within the conference with the best record. The winner of the two conferences meet in the NFL title game—The Super Bowl. The league expanded to 28 teams in 1976 and an additional wild card team from each conference was added to the playoffs in 1978 and in 1990. In 1982, a special 16-team Super Bowl Tournament determined the NFL Championship.

A Tradition of Excellence

For years, the Washington Redskins have upheld a tradition of excellence in the NFL; 4 NFC Championships and 2 Superbowl titles.

Likewise, Presstar Printing Corporation has upheld a tradition of excellence in the Printing Industry; and we've kept the Redskins looking good in print for the past 12 years.

Of course, we offer the best in design and typesetting, 4 color sheet fed printing, 6 color heatset web printing, binding, mailing and envelope manufacturing.

So, for excellence in football—go with the Skins. For excellence in printing—go with Presstar, and join in the tradition.
